In Alabama, in 1872, a legal and illegal Legislature met. The first was Conservative. The second was Republican. The latter hastily ordered the issue of $3,000,000 of bonds, which were as hastily put upon the market. Though they were all sold the State has never received a cent for them. Attorney-General Williams interfered in this case, recounted the official returns, and made up a fusion Legislature, which has since ruled Alabama. He made the recount and patched up the compromise on one condition. This was that the validity of the $3,000,000 of bonds should not be disputed. The Montana case differs from that of Alabama in having no money in it, but the principle involved is the same. It is certainly strange that the general government can do that in a State which it cannot do in a Territory.—Chicago Tribune.

Raw Head and Bloody Bones in Politics.

Congressman Charles Hays, of Alabama, is the living embodiment of the present campaign. His letter to Gen. Hawley condensed into two columns of type every variety of falsehood, misrepresentation, and cruel suggestion of slander with which the administration party have been flooding the Northern press. He told a tale of murders and brutalities so horrible that the whole country stood aghast. If these deeds were done under a Republican State administration (as that of Alabama is), what might we not expect in those unhappy regions of the South where the White League holds the reins of power and tramples upon the lowly without let or hinderance? Last week we published a reply from the prosecuting officer of one of the counties included in Mr. Hays' black list, and it certainly seemed to convict the Congressman of gross and inexcusable blundering in that part of the State for which the writer claimed the right to speak. Our special correspondent in Alabama afterwards exposed the falsity of what Mr. Hays said about the condition of things in Montgomery. To-day we have from the same trusty, clear-headed and unprejudiced investigator a general review of all the stories in the Hawley letter which it had been possible to test at the time he wrote, and we have also had a brief notice by telegraph of his subsequent inquiries. The result is soon stated. Except in Sumter county, where the murders of Joy and Billings are universally execrated by all parties, the outrages reported by Mr. Hays are purely fictitious. In not one single instance so far has the honorable gentleman told the truth! Most of the alleged outrages were never committed at all, and the others seem to have had no sort of connection either with antipathies of race or animosities of politics.

As in Alabama, so in other parts of the South. The war of races in South Carolina turns out to be a negro scrimmage. In Kentucky it is a ruffianly feud between white outlaws. In Tennessee it is a case of lynching, of the familiar pattern which has always been so lamentably common in certain parts of the United States. In New Orleans the White League takes possession of the government and immediately orders that one-third of the appointments on the police force shall be given to the negroes. If we can believe the bulletins issued from the office of the Attorney-General, who seems to have added the duties of court-newsman to his other functions as general superintendent of elections and commander of the troops, rampant rebels are harrying the whole South with sword, pistol, rifle, and rawhide, shooting and scourging Republicans, and making the country a hell upon earth. But these armed bands invariably disappear upon close inquiry. We search the scene of bloodshed and desolation and find everything serene and prosperous. Dead men come to life and make affidavits. Martyrs put away the crown and tell us they have not earned it. But Republican politicians go on chattering all the same about a reign of terror, tossing their arms in wild excitement, and clamoring for "more troops." It will not do. The people of the North are not fools.—New York Tribune.

Humor.

Foul play—Cock fighting.

Canon law—Touch and go.

Coal heaps—The black hills.

The mosquito's note is always protested.

The foundry for casting shadows is the sun.

A business note; Paper mills are running on reduced time and paper on extended time.

A very fat English lady boasted that she had brought her husband £20,000. "Well, you look it!" replied her friend.

Dr. Ayer, of Lowell, will leave his handsome daughter $2,000,000 in greenbacks, and there's a sugar-coated pill worth taking.

An Eastern paper tells what "a brutal stepfather of Cincinnati" did. We have heard, ere yet, of city fathers, but never before knew of a city with a step father.—Detroit Tribune.

One of the "Black Crook" ballet girls fell on the foot-lights at Sacramento, a few evenings since, but escaped burning from the fact that she had nothing on which would take fire.

"Biddy," said a lady, "step over and see how old Mrs. Jones is this morning." In a few minutes Biddy returned with the information that Mrs. Jones was seventy-two years, seven months, and two days old that morning.

An ostentatious undertaker of Troy, having charge of an aristocratic funeral lately, mounted the altar steps and delivered the following address: "Ladies and gentlemen will please keep their seats till the corpse passes out."

A Sabbath-school teacher in an adjoining town asked one of her scholars what animals Noah took into the ark, to which she received the very prompt reply: "The leopard, the shepherd, the bob-tail monkey and the bear." Smart boy.

PHILOSOPHY.

Alas! alack! and welladay!
  How short my cash is running;
I find I cannot make my way
  By poetry and punning.
But poverty is not a crime,
  And I am young and clever;
This kind of thing will end in time—
  It can't go on forever.

My health is in a pretty state!
  I'm something of a skeptic
Regarding the decrees of fate
  (Which means that I'm dyspeptic).
But this may alter by-and-by;
  Shall I despair? No, never.
I must in time get well or die;
  It can't go on forever.

I love, and I must bear the woe
  To which my folly dooms me;
She knows, but will not seem to know
  The passion that consumes me.
My heart is fetter'd in a chain
  Impossible to sever;
'Twill break or struggle free again—
  It can't go on forever.

Auburn Courier.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 5th, 1874.

ALL HAIL!

DEMOCRACY ALL O. K.

As DeKalb County goes so don't go the Union,

Twenty-four States respond to the Corruption and Profligacy of of Republican Rule.

The Verdict of the People.

The Colored, Troops Fought No Body.

Massachusetts side by side with Kentucky.

"Say, Darkies, have you seen any Massa."

Ben Butler Badly Bottled.

See, the conquering masses come

We repeat it, let them come.

Though no full returns have been received from the election last Tuesday, yet their is enough to indicate that the Democracy are a long way ahead, in fact has gobbled up every thing worth having. New York gives 40,000 for Gov. Tilden, Democrat, and the majority in Michigan reduced to 5,000. Massachusetts elects a Democratic Governor, the first since the flood. If the election of the Republican county ticket in DeKalb brought about these results, we are eminently satisfied. Fellow Democrats, be joyful, be grateful, be generous. Jolify and replenish the earth. Love thy neighbor as thyself, and stick to your Democracy. Let us have peace.

From the Waterloo Press.

EDITOR WATERLOO PRESS:

I feel that injustice has been done to the Board of Canvassers of this county, by your Editorials of last week in reference to the Waterman and Taylor matter.

Said Board, as you are aware, was composed of good, conscientious and intelligent men, each of whom was selected by a majority of the voters in his respective Township, or appointed by the County Commissioners; and it would be no more than fair to give those who come thus reccomended, credit for an honest purpose, even though they were mistaken in the performance of their duty.

But were they so mistaken? The Statute provides (after setting forth who shall constitute said Board, and fixing the time and place of their meeting) "that such Board, when organised, shall carefully compare and examine the papers intrusted to them, estimate from them the votes of the county, a statement of which shall be drawn up by the clerk, and shall contain the names of parsons voted for, the office, the number of votes given in each Township to each peason the number of votes given to each in the county, and also the aggregate number of votes given, which statement shall be signed by each member of said Board, and with such certificates, Poll books and tally papers, delivered to the clerk, and by him filed in his office. [1 G. & H. page 314.

Now, here we have the plain, simple and clear duty of the Board of Canvassers, which is to estimate from the paper entrusted to them, to wit: the Poll Books, Tally papers and certificates, the number of votes cast for each person.

Their acts are clearly ministerial; they cannot exercise their own judgment in the matter, or hear, or decide from evidence produced before them, other than from the papers themselves whether said returns give the true result of the election or not.

And, although every member of said Board might have been of the opinion that Taylor has actually received a majority of the votes cast at the election, yet, it would be their clear duty under the law, to certify the results as shown by the returns before them.

Suppose said mistake had been committed by some person not a member of the Board; would any person claim for a moment, that said other person could testify in relation to the matter in controversy before him?

It must be clear to everyone that he could not, for the reason that no power has been delegated to them to act in such cases. All they could do, was to estimate the vote from the papers intrusted to them, which they did. Or, suppose that the witness in this case had been mistaken in the matter he testified to, could Mr. Waterman introduce witnesses to establish that fact? If so where would such a contorversy end?

If the Board had presumed so to act it would have usurped the powers and prerogatives of a judicial tribunal and the courts would have compelled them to declare the result as it appeared from the face of the papers, if thay had done otherwise.

I think the proposition is well established in our own State, and in every other State, where the question has been raised, that questions of that character must be submitted to the courts; who have compentte authority to send for papers, and witnesses, and enforce their attendance, and hear and determine such controversies.

Justice Smith deciding the case of Brower vs. O' Brien, 2nd Indiana Reports, page 430, says: "That the duties of both the Board of Canvassers and the clerk, in making the statement and declarations required, are purely ministerial. It is not within their province to consider or determin, any questions relative to the validity of the election held, or of the votes received by the persons voted for. "They are simply to count up the votes given for each person, from the proper election documents; and to declare the person, who, upon the face of those documents appear to have received the highest number of votes given, duly elected to the office, voted for.

Justice Hoar, in rendering the opinion in the case of Suce vs, Mayhow et al, repeated in 13th Geay (Mass.) reports, page 85, says: "That such a board is not made a Judicial Tribunal nor authorized to decide upon the validity or the fact of the election, in any other mode, than by examination of the returns made to them, according to law. They are not required, or authorized, to hear witnesses or weigh evidence. They have no power to send for persons or papers. If one result appears upon the returns, and another is the real truth of the case, they can only act upon the former. If they have done their duty, the remedy of the person actually elected to the office is not to be sought in a mandamus.—This court has no power to direct public officers to do more than their duty or anything different from their duty.

Now in this case, the Board did their duty and nothing but their duty, and had they have acted as requested by Mr. Taylor and his friends, they would have committed a gross mistake and a great wrong, by violating the law, both in letter and in spirit, although, in their opinions, justice might have been attained by it; and the courts, by mandamus, would have compelled them to do just what they did do.

Mr. Taylor's remedy is not to be sought in that way. The law plainly points out the course to be pursued by him. And that is to contest the election; which he has done.

Nor is Mr. Waterman to biame for the cause pursued by him. Said Board was compelled to, and did declare him elected. And only two courses are pointed out to him, one of which he must accept. One, is to resign, which would necessitate another election at a cost of one or two thousand dollars to the tax payers of this county, and which might result in the election of some other person than Mr. Taylor, and thereby deprive him of the office, which would be a great wrong to him for if he has been lawfully elected, he should have the office. The other course, is to hold the office, subject to the right of Mr. Taylor to contest it. And if Mr. Taylor succeeds in establishing his right to the office, in the contest which he has commenced, by showing that his cause is just and true, he will be declared the member elect from this county, for "Truth is mighty, and well prevail."

But it is said, Mr. Taylor will be put to a great expense in contesting this election! It is true that it will be attended with some expense; but the expenses in this case will necessarily be light, as but a single allegation in the petition, as filed, is disputed, and that can only be proved by one witness who is anxious and willing to give his testimony. It can cost but little for witness fees; and the filing of the petition, which could be copied from the form given by Mr. Eggleston, could cost but little; and the probbilities are that our liberal Republican Sheriff will make his charges very light for serving the papers.

I cannot see that Mr. Taylor will be materially injured in his finances, even though the entire county should fail to respond to the call made for him for aid to assist him in this matter,

Perhaps I have made this article too long, but feeling that a wrong had (unintentionally perhaps) been done to those parties, and knowing your willingness always to give both sides of any question, I will ask you to publish this.

C. O. A. McCLELEAN.

EDUCATIONAL COLUMN.

A. R. HUFFMAN, CONDUCTOR

Text Books.

Now that we, in this county have a uniform system of text books established according to law, several questions present themselves to those who contemplate and a change during the coming winter, and no doubt many have determined upon some plan of procedure.

Among the important guines that present themselves especially at this time are the following:—"How can I induce the parents of my school cease using old text books and purchase those adopted by the Board of Education." "What shall I do in case any parent refuses to purchase these books?" "What is to be done in case one of the old books and some of the new are brought by the pupils?"

Now we shall endeavor to answer all these by giving a plan, of which the means for carrying into execution will be given in seperate articles in the future, relative to method in teaching differant branches

We are fully aware of the fact that a strict uniformity of text books has advantages over a variety in the hands of the pupils; and that variety in the hands of the good teacher is indispensable.

Could we induce all teachers to admit this last proposition then the contemplated difficulties would be more than half met.

Schools are the place where children should be trained in all that will assist them in after life to do good to others secure all the blessings this world possible, and to transact well all the business devolving upon man and woman in civilsociety; text books are to direct the minds of pupils toward all the principles involved in these, and consequently all words on any branch must treat of that branch as the other has deemed best for securing the end sought The only difference there is the different order and manner in which the different subject of the several branches are brought out, which certainly must be an advantage to the teacher as it gives him a far wider thought than he could otherwise secure.

We would say then, do not endeavor to compel children to make a change of books but see that those who do buy, buy the ones last adopted and ere long the change will be made imperceptibly to parents and teachers tow, and thus will be avoided the complaining which so often meets the teachers ear from this cause.

To reconcile the variety of text books among your pupils endeavor to teach subjects and not books, make your pupils masters of the different supjects in all their phases, and not book worms.

Follow then, the order of nature and not the order of any book, and the difficulties will vanish like dew before the bright sunshine, you will thus awake an interest you never before felt in work, and an ingenuity which for years perhaps has lain dor-

* * *

In whatever business man is engaged he should be acquainted with it and all its relation to others.

The merchant studies the history of of his business,—the physician the history of his profession and all the modes of treatment which have been discovered through the grand vista of years, and so on through the whole list of men trade profession or business.

In all these, they are the most successful who profit by the experience of all before them. Thus with the teachers: They only are the most successful who acquaint themselves with the business, and profit by the combined experience of thousands of predecessors and the discoveries of natural theories and principles by their colleyues in the profession.

We say this to every teacher who anticipates wielding the ferule this virtue take an educational journal of some while a teacher, be a teacher in earnest; and if after a time you should ceas teaching and engage in something more profitable, the angel of success will be found in its threshold bidding you enter and reap the reward of a zelaous, energetic man or woman.

* * *

"The schoelar without good breeding is a pedant; the philosopher, a cynic; the soldier a brute; and every man disagreeable."

Notice of Sale.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court the undersigned administrator of the estate of Samuel Hurnie, deceased, will offer for sale at auction on the premises on an equal undivided one third of the following described land: The northeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section twenty eight[28] township thirty-three [33] north of range thir teen [13] east in DeKalb County, Indiana.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 5th, 1874,

TERMS—One third cash, the residue in equal payments at 12 and 18 months, with notes at interest, waiving benefit of appraisement laws, and security by mortgage on the premises. Sale to begin at 2 o'clock pm. on said day.

JAMES G. LAWHEAD, Adm'r.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of an Execution to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, in a cause wherein The Kalamazoo Manufacturing Company is Plaintiff and Henry H. Houser is Defendant require me to make the sum of one hundred and forty dollars and seventy-nine cents, with interest on said judgment and costs, I will expose at public sale, to the highest bidder, on between the hours of 10 o'clock am and 4 o'clock pm of said day, at the door of the Court House of DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits, for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate:

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 28th, 1874

The north half [½] of lot five [5] in the village of Cedar Creek Station in DeKalb County, Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said judgment, interest and costs, I will, at the same time and place, expose at public sale, the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said judgement, interest and cost. Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

W. L. MEESE, Sheriff

Auburn Nov. 5th, 1874.

COLEGROVE Atty for Plff.

$10 50

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb County Circuit Court, the undersigned Administrator of the estate of Fredrick E. Rohm, deceased will offer for sale at auction on the premises, on Saturday December 5th, 1874, town lot No. three (3) in Ensley's 1st addition to the town of Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana.

Terms—One third cash in hand, the residue in two equal payments at twelve and eighteen months, with notes at interest, waiving valuation and appraisement laws and secured by mortgage on the premises. Sale to begin at 2 o'clock pm.

JOHN TREESH, Adm'r,

NOTICE OF DISSOLUTION.

Notice is hereby given to all whom it may concern that the partnership heretofore existing between Joseph Abright and Charles F. Shepherd, and known as the firm of Abright and Shepherd has been and is by mutual consent dissolved this 24th day of October, 1874. The business of said firm will be continued by said Joseph Abright who has the settlement of all claims, notes and accounts either in favor of or against said firm.

Auburn, Ind. JOSEPH ABRIGHT.

CHARLES F. SHEPHERD.

ORDINANCE.

Be it ordained by the Board of Trustees of the Incorporated town of Auburn.

1st. That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to peddle fresh meats within the corporate limits of said town in less quantities than one quarter at a time, or fresh fish in less quantities than one half barrel, without paying to the Marshal of said town the sum of two dollars for each and every day he wishes to peddle said meats or file and procure a license thereof from the clerk of said town.

2nd. Any person or persons violating the provisions of section one of this ordinance shall be fined in the sum of five dollars for each offence.

3rd. This ordinance shall take effect in ten days after its publication in the Auburn Courier.

By Order of the Board

Attest F. E. DAVENPORT, Clerk

Oct 20th, 1874.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a Decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court in a cause wherein James Hamilton and Rudolph Bechler are plaintiffs, and Lain Rice and George Rice are defendants, requiring me to make the sum of Three hundred and eighty three dollars and ninety cents, with interest on said Judgment and costs, I will expose at Public Sale, to the highest bidder, on

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 28th, 1874,

between the hours of 10 and 4 o'clock of said day at the door of the court house of DeKalb County, Indiana the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit

Lot number one hundred and nine (109) in the town of orange with a flax mill on said lot No. one hundred and nine (109) with machinery and fixtures, in DeKalb County Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said judgment, interest and costs, I will, at the same time and place, expose at public sale, the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said judgement, interest and costs.

W. L. MEESE, Sheriff.

Nov. 4, 1874 $10.50

Colorado Excursions—Go West Thro St. Louis.

During the Summer Season, the Missouri Pacific and Kansas Pacific Through Line, via St. Louis and Kansas City, will sell Excursion Tickets from St. Louis to Denver and Return, good ninety days from date of sale, at extremely low rates thus affording every one an excellent opportunity to visit the famous resorts of Colorado, among the beautiful Parks of the Rocky Mountains.

To all who are seeking new homes and are about to take a trip to Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Nebraska, Oregon or California, we recommend a cheap, safe, quick and direct route by the way of St. Louis, over the Missouri Pacific Through Line. It is equipped with fine day Coaches, Buce's Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman's Palace Sleepers the famous Miller Safety Platform and the celebrated Westinghouse Air Brake and runs its trains from St. Louis to principal points in the West without chance. The Texas connection of this road is now completed and passengers are offered a first-class all-rail route from St. Louis to Texas, either over the Missouri, Kansas & Texas R. R., via Sedalia, or over the Atlantic & Pacific R. R., via Vinita.

For full information in regard to Colorado Excursions, or trips to any point in the Great West, address or call upon either of the following named Agents of the Line: J. F. Thompson, 157 Exchange St. Buffalo, N. Y.; S. H. Thompson, Union Depot, Columbus Ohio; or E. A. Ford Gen'l Passenger Agent, 25 South Fourth Street St. Louis, Questions will be cheerfully and promptly answered.

A CARD.

A Clergyman, while residing in South America, as missionary, discovered a safe and simple remedy for the cure of Nervous weakness, Early Decay, Disease of the Urinary and Seminal Organs, and the train of disorders brought on by baneful and vicious habits. Great numbers have been cured by this noble remedy. Prompted by a desire to benefit the afflicted and unfortunate, I will send the receipt for preparing and using this medicine, in a sealed envelope, to any one who needs it, Free o Charge. Address,

JOSEPH T. INMAN,
Station D, Bible House, New York City

BOOTS AND SHOES

Marked Down!

To compare with hard times. Just look at our prices and see if you cant

save 25 to 50 cents on every Dollar

Men' waxed Kip Boots	$3.25,	Boys waxed kip boots	$2.25
Youths' "	1.65,	Gents' hand made	3.50
Boys gents hand made	2.57,	Youths gents' hand m'de	2.50
Mens' wes. kip	4.00,	Boys west. kip	2.75
Mens fine kip boots	4.75,	Mens French calf boots	7.50
Mens' Amer. calf boots	7.00,	Women's calf hand m'de	2.50
Women's kip hand made	2.25,	" " wa'xd otrs	2.25
" wax'd kip polish	1.75,	" French calf 2.50	2.57
" Peb goat	2.00,	12 thread polish	1 25
Lad lasting 13 thread polish	1 25	Same 14	1·75
Same 16	2.00	Same 18	2.25

Leave your order for a pair of our best KIP BOOTS $5 50

Childrens Shoes 20c to $1.25.

Mens' Rubber Boots $4

Mens' Wool Line, good,

BOOTS AND SHOES,

in great variety which will be sold cheaper than ever. Our Motto is quick Sales, Small Profits, and Ready Pay. Don't fail to call and examine our stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere as we are satisfied it is money in your pockets.

E. VORDERMARK AND SONS.

North of Court House,

Odd Fellows' Building

AUBURN, INDIANA.

We Have Received,

And are now daily opening our general stock for the Fall and Winter Trade in every department of our business.

The unexplained depression in the Dry Goods market during the last two weeks, has offered an opportunity to cash buyers not before known in m any years. DRY GOODS have now reached a lower bottom than ever seemed posible again in this country. The panic prices were "war prices" compared to what we have been buying the best class of desirable goods at for the past two weeks about the dulest period of trade in the history of New York.

Our stock was never more complete in every department—seldom ever so good. We seldom ever offered in every way such inducements as now.—The stock is the completest and most attractive of any season in many years. Having bought at the present low prices we are prepared to give our customers better value for their money, and more of it than at any time before.

Close Cash Buyers!

Should examin our elegant line of

Beaded Passementrie Trimmings

Beaded Buttons and Ornaments, Beaded Belts

Pocket and Cloak Loops

EXAMINE

New cloaks, New Shawls and Furs.

EXAMINE

New Felt Skirts and Water Proofs

EXAMINE

Underwear, Hosiery, and Gloves.

EXAMINE

Housekeeping Linens, and Cottons.

EXAMINE

Black Cashmeres and De Este

EXAMINE

New Winter Dress Goods

EXAMINE

New Calicos and Domestics

EXAMINE

Cloak and Trimming Velvets

EXAMINE

Cloaking and Cassimeres

EXAMINE

Flannels and Blankets

EXAMINE

New Goods which are arriving daily

Root & Company,

At their New Location

46 & 48 Columbia-st

AT THE

New York Store.

J. J. VanAuken,

COUNTY SURVEYOR

Will attend promptly to all surveying. Office with Rose & Hartman, Auburn Indiana. Persons requesting work by letter should give township section.

THE NEW

Drug Store!

FRESH DRUGS,

Medicines, Chemicals, Spices,

Dyes,
Combs,
Brushes,
Perfumery,
Proprietory Articles,
Fancy Goods, &c., &c

....

Wines and Liquors!

For Medical purposes only.

Stock New, prices to suit the times at the

NEW DRUG STORE,

Wood's old Stand!

Seventh St. Auburn, Ind.

Littlefield Bros.

Physicians prescriptions despensed from pure medicines, day and night.

F. E. DAVENPORT

CORNER MAIN AND EIGHT STEETS.

AUBURN, - - - IND.

DEALER IN

DRUGS and MEDICINES,

WALL PAPER,

Books, Stationary and Fancy and Toilet articles, Brushes, Fine Soaps, Sponges &c.

Customers will find our stock complete, comprising many articles it is imposible here to enumerate, and a modern

Pioneer Sketches

—OF—

DeKALB COUNTY

NUMBER 32.

Three several times he had selected pieces, and went afoot to Fort Wayne (32 or 33 miles) and finding the pieces selected already, entdred, had to return to Pleasant lake upwards of forty miles, and renew his sarch for a home. The fourth time he returned to the land office only to meet another disappointment.—Tired in body and heart sick with hope defered, he met a man at the land office from Wells county, not far from where Bluffton now is, who represented to him that he was building a mill in that region and new of a very good quarter section of land, still vacant, and stated that, although he had thought of entering it him himself, yet he would give way, and let Mr. Smith have it. The Register of the land office told Mr S. that he might depend on the veracity of this man, and accordingly he entered the tract, and went afoot down to where it lay. When he found it he discovered that he was badly imposed upon, as the entire tract was an unbroken cotten wood swamp, boot-top deep with water. He now returned to the land office and told the register the facts in reference to the land, and was informed that by taking a man with him as witness and examining the land, the man making oath that it was unfit for cultivation, he could have about a week to change his entry to another piece of land. Meeting with Mr. Wilber Powel, now of Franklin Township, at the land office, he insisted on him to accompany him as a witness.—On reaching the place, they traced all the lines around the quarter section and passed through it twice diagonaly from corner to corner and did not see a single tree except cotten wood on the entire tract! Returning to Ft. Wayne now for the sixth time he got a newly corrected plot of Smithfield Township and took the trail for the North again. Traversing the woods again in company with two others he selected a suitable tract, but just as he was striking for the Auburn tract, to start again to Ft. Wayne, he met with three other men looking around the same tract He enquired of then if they were going to Wayne to enter land. They replied in the affirmative. When. They said not for two or three days, but from the expression of their eye, concluded that they were trying to deceive him. So when the two companies parted, he told his companions that they would have a race for it. Both parties struck for the shanty built by Park on cedar creek where Uniontown now is, but Smith and his friends got to far North, coming out near the site of the present residence of Mr. Smith, and discovered their whereabout by the mired ox mentioned in Park's narrative. It was not dusk, and they were three miles North of the shanty. Passing over these miles they reached their logding place sometime after dark. Their competitors were not there. The next morning they were off before day, passing down the trail at an Indian trot, and ate no breakfast untll they reached squire Caswell's 20 miles from where they started that morning. All this distance was traversed in a continual trot. Mr. Smith having gained on his companions some, told him at Caswells, and order something to eat. He did so by the time the rear came up breakfast was on the table. Eating in great haste they left their coats and trotted on, arriving at Ft. Wayne,—a distance of about thirty miles in all, at eleven o'clock A. M. On geting to the land office,—Lo!—the pieces of land selected were entered!—After spending about an hour in resting and taking refreshments Mr. Smith started back to look again, and as he was crossing the St. Mary's bridge close to town he met his competitors, also afoot puffing and sweating, en rout for the land office. He gave them the comfortable assurance that their race was in vain, without intimating at all that he was in the same row. He returned that night to Mr. Parks at Auburn, having traveled that day over 50 miles on foot. There ere two men at Parks that night, Ruben J. Daniels and Ira Camburn. The next morning Mr. S. gathered from their conversation that they were going up into the North regions to look for land, and that Mr. Park was to go with them, for which each was to pay him a dollar. He profford his dollar also for the privelege of accompanying them, and having the assistance of Park in finding vacant land.—The proposal was accepted, and the result was that Park showed them the tracts on which they afterwards severally settled It was agreed that each should privately mark for his first choice of the lands and providentialy or accidentally as you may please to consider, it each one marked the tract on which they subsequently settled as their several choices, and each without knowing anything about the choice of the others.

Auburn Courier.

Wool	40c.
Butter	28c.
Potatoes	50
Oats,	48 cts.
Apples	45 cts.
Eggs,	16 cents.
Corn	48 @ 50 cts.
Wheat, white,	$1
Wood	$1.75 @ $2.

Local and Miscellaneous.

Weather splendid.

John Leasure is back.

Is your corn all husked.

Coal oil 20c at Hare Bros.

New subscribers wanted.

The new paper next week.

Buy groceries of Hare Bros.

Read Vordermer'ks price list.

The new livery is under roof.

Ford's block shows a fine front.

Auburn House has changed hands.

The Band will be on the street to-day

Game chickens are selling rapidly here.

The Band dance will be a splendid affair.

Wm. Sheffer is occupying his new dwelling.

Everyone should attend the Band Hop to-night.

Things seem to be quiet up town lately Be cautious.

School books at Davenport's. Best covers free

Handsome gold watches cheap at Joe Abrights.

Handsome chromos just opened out at Abright's.

Don't fail to attend the concert to-morrow night.

Go to Sammy Pommer if want a first-class shave.

Cabbage and apples were plenty on the street Saturday.

A new lot of toys and notions just received at Abrights.

A fine variety of clocks at Abright' at lowest rates.

Don't fail to see the ney styles of Jewelry at Abright's.

Mr. Kline's youngest daughter has been very ill for several days.

Bryer played the Hidden Hand at Waterloo Tuesday night.

Grape Vine Cigars at Davenport's We have tried them, they are good Jone's Truss, no springs, no elastic, are sold and warranted by Davenport.

Some high-tones came near having a genuine run-a-way the ether evening.

A new billiard player has arrived, and is now the guest of Ci. Boughan.

Jonathan Houser offers some articles at public sale on the 21st day of this month.

There is a minstrel show billed for next Monday night.

Go and hear the grand Burlesque Band to be given at the concert to-morrow evening.

Jonathan Swanders will sell at auction some stock and farm tools, on November 14th, 1874.

The Presbyterian church was attend last Sabbath by a large and attentive audience.

Miss Sadie Grogg and Miss Ada Long, gave our office the honor of a brief visit Tuesday afternoon.

Last Tuesday night there was a little "shoulder hitting" going on—young Hepnix "squealed enuf".

Littlefield Bros. appear in a new advertisement this week. When you want drugs call on them.

The real estate transfers this week are monopolized by two persons, Messrs. W. Cowen and Thomas.

Lee Zern and Mr. Hardsock, of Kendallvill, visited at our place last Sabbath, guests of the Swineford House.

Vordermark has just received a fine large lot of new boots and Shoes which are marked down to the lowest rates.

Lauferty left last Tuesday for a new stock of goods which are expected to arrive in a short time.

Hare Bros are prepared to furnish oysters for festivals, oyster suppers, &c., on short notice and at lowest prices.

Woodford is now engaged in the manufacture of boots and shoes, with Billy Humes as foreman.

✓ Men are at work mooving the Methodist church. It will hereafter be located on the corner of Seventh and VanBeuren streets.

Mr. Kelly will contest the election of John Baker in this district. If reports are true the chances are in favor of Kelly

S. U. Tarney is making the bass sausage. When you want a link remember where to go.

Our six year old has been to school two terms, and now refuses to go longer because of his opposition to a third term.

Save your money. Books saved is money made. Buy your BOOKS at Cal Houser's and you will get them covered free.

A. J. Ralston, has been appointed marshal in place of H. Griswold, resigned.—There are hopes now of having better order on our streets.

The Press gives an account of the death of Ervin Crane by being gored to death by a ferocious bull, in Franklin-tp., Wednesday of last week.

The social of the M. E. church will meet with Mrs. M. Long, Sr., Wednesday Nov. 11th. Mite in the evening. All are invited.

Don't forget the dance to-night for the dance to-night for the benefit of the band The boys need assistance to pay for their uniforms, and now is the time to give it.

Go the Excelsior Hardware store for Circular and Drag Wood Saws. A new lot has just been received and are now for sale at the lowest prices.

It will pay you to go to HOUSER'S BOOK STORE for school books at introductory prices. Also WALL PAPER at lowest rates.

A certain young gentleman desires to caution a certain oyster dealer not to let young ladies have oysters on his account. This is a Salli—ent point, and a Hair that breaks the camel's back.

Hank Ford was burning around some large stone to break them, the other evening, and several fair damsels prepared for a "Chicago fire," when there was not a partical of danger.

He that loves his family takes the home paper, and he that respects himself pays for it. The wood promised us is not all in yet. We want two or four foot wood. Bring it along.

Persons wishing to purchase School Books, Slates, Inks, Paper, &c., will bear in mind that everything needed in the schools will be found at Cal Houser's new book store, north of court house.

A general invitation is extended to all at the Dance to-night. There were no special invitations given, as has been the opinion of some. A grand turn out is desired by all who indulge in this kind of amusement.

Col. C. B. Oakley has leased the American House, at Fort Wayne, and he will make it one of the best hash resorts in the city. Everybody will stop at the American, as they know that the Colonel will keep it in first-class style.

Marry for love, young men, but remember that its just as easy to love a girl whose pa has a hundred thousand in bank as one whose old man sits up behind a pair of mules and yells: "Whoa! you Pete, or I'll take your ear off."

The largest congressional majority in this State was given the Hon. James D. Williams, in the 2nd district, his majority being 7,846. Mr. Williams is a Democrat The smallest is that given Major Baker, in the thirteenth, being only 58—Ex.

Major Baker is good.

FIRE—The residence of C. Smith, near the Stave Factory, took fire last Tuesday morning by the stove pipe coming apart. His better-half discovered it first, and informed Charly. In his excitement he forgot to dress and stood on the roof, "just so" calling for water.

Mrs A. J. Little has associated with her Miss Alice Fair in the millinery business, and have moved in west end of Ensley's block, where they will be pleased to have the public generally call in and see their find stock. A large lot of new goods received yesterday, and are now ready for inspection.

Many and various are the rumors respecting the Baltimore road. One day it is reported that the Saginaw road has been bought for them and the next day it is denied. We are mostly interested, however, in the location of the shops, and are ready to hear that Auburn has been selected as the favored point.

A few of our subscribers are coming in and paying up, but they are generally of that class who never allow themselves to get a year behind. We should like to see a few of those who are further in arrears darken our door with their smiling countenances. We would smile too, and think them friends.

The following is the list of Pettit Jurors for the December term of court:

J. C. St. Clair,
J. M. Bramback,
Jacob Bachtel,
L. Ingman,
John Potts,
P. P. Nimmons,
Fred Smith,
Samuel Learned,
Josiah Imhoff,
Louis Spangler,
John Staley.

Grand Concert.

Rember the Concert to be given by the Conservatory of Music to-morrow night. It is the duty of our citizens to encourage this institution and an opportunity is now offered, and Ensly's hall should be crowded. The programme will be an attractive one and it will no doubt prove amusing and entertaining to all.

The Littlefield Brothers have established a handsome new drug store, first door west of Fluke's corner, where they will be pleased to receive a share of the public patronage. They are pleasing, agreeable gentlemen, well versed in the business and will be found prompt and reliable in their dealings.

The Kendallville Standard says, We understand that the Butler DeKalb county "News" is 'demised,' and from its ashes will spring the DeKalb 'Republican,' with a local habitation and a name at Auburn, the county seat. Friend Weamer is a clever fellow, and we wish him success, but why in thunder don't he go west and grow up with the country?

A Grand Success,

The corner store of Messrs Miller & Casebeer has become one of the standard institutions of Auburn. A large stock of goods at ·· times and at low prices is the secret their success. Their stock was nev r more complete in every department than it is at the present time. They can give their customers more value for their money and better goods than at any time before this season.

The Warsaw Indianian says, Now that the election is over and Freeman Kelly came very much nearer being elected to Congress than the delegates who elected him for that position "for fun," or his political opponents deemed would be the case, we find the Ligonier Banner much more of a Kelly paper than it was before the election. It is none of our business of course, but were we Freeman Kelly we would have preferred to have that paper said something in our favor before, rather than after the 13th of October!

M. Houston has purchased a half interest in the Otto property of Mr. Benedict, and a new meat market under the firm name of Houston & Benedict has been established on these premises. It is splendidly fitted up with handsome new counters, blocks, racks, &c, and will now compare fovorably with Metropolitan institutions of the same character. They will keep constantly on hand a large supply of meats of every description, and invite the public to give them a call.

We clip the following paraprap h from the Waterloo Press, of last week, in relation to the status of the new paper to be started in this place: "If Weamer is to be considered the orthordox republican now, we would like to have him explain the reply he made to our question one year ago, why he did not estai lish a republican paper at Butler. He replied that "the republican party had become so corrupt that he would not defend it." Just what the party has done in the past year, to change Weamer's opinion, it is difficult to see.

Advertised letters in Auburn Postoffice November 1st, 1874:

Baker J. H.
Barwell Davis 3
Click Mary Jane
Garver Jno
Chaler Frank
Derrey Isah
Davis James
Davison Jesse S
Dodge Maturin 2
Elderwood Alonso 2
Gale J M 2 letters
Gregg Minnie Herd Jno
Hain Mrs Mary 2
Higgins Franklin
Holley Alon
Holdin Miss Malinda
Johnson Lewis
Kircher Mrs Mary
Kruse John

Krammleof Jacob
Lisk John W
Lossker Willie
Long Markus 2
Lynch James
LaDue Philip
McFee Miss Mary
Middleton Mrs C
Moore A D
Merk Adam
McKenna Ennice
Rich B C Right C E (Eng. let.
Ringer Jacob
Spanceler Albei
Steffer Minnie
Sherry Joseph
Stockten W W
Studer Joseph

S. L. YANDES, P. M.

In the retirement of McIntyre from the Auditor's office, the citizens of our county will universally agree that he has made one of the most efficient officers ever installed in that position. In the late canvass no one questioned his ability or qualifications and many of his political opponents will testify to the prompt and faithful discharge of his duties. In this he has the satisfaction of knowing that his services have been acceptable to the people, and that his defeat for a second term must be ascribed to other causes.

As a private citizen no one stands higher in the esteem of the people with whom he associates. It was used against him the late campaign that he was disposed be aristocratic and dignified, but there is not a more genial or clever gentleman among the list of our acquaintances than Mack. In his business dealings he is prompt to the minute, and his word is as good as his bond. We hope for the good of all concerned that his successor will equal him in his many excellent points.—

Auditory elect, Hague, will assume the duties of that office to-day, and the Sheriff and Treasurer will also qualify for their respective offices.

We are glad it is the second term for Sheriff Meese, as he is one of the few who have the faculty of becoming universally popular. Mr. Meese has been a faithful officer, and has discharged his duties to the best of his ability. We prefer seeing him in possession of this office to any other Republican we know of. He is obliging and means to do the fair thing

WHITE STOCKING.

The Pride of Auburn.

It is a matter of considerable congratulation to everybody to know that this splendid creat re was entered for the races at Fort Wayne last week. This will be more fully appreciated when it is known that horses making their mile in 2:19¾ were entered for the same race.—Just think of owning a horse who is to go along side of such beasts as Hoosier Dick Bay Sallie, Lucy, Sleepy George and others. Owing to a mistake in the entry, however, White Stocking did not go. He was entered all right and therefore did not go. Had he not een entered he certainly would have went. As long as 2:20 horses are allowed to enter in 3 minute races we have a show, the show consisting in seeing the name of our animal classed with celebrated roadsters. As to the race, we don't care so much about the outcome, in fact we'd just as lief come out before the race as not.

There was a good deal of pulling and squealing at these races, some blaming the Judges, some the association.

The races on Friday were fairly made 2.25 being made in the pacing and 2.29 in the trotting. There was considerable grumbling against the judges for distancing Defiance for foul driving, but we think the judges acted fairly in the matter

Real Estate Transfers.

Furnished by Rose & Hartman, attorneys at law, who have the only abstract of title in the county. Deeds and mortgages only good against subsequent bona fide purchasers, mortgages must be recorded within ninety days from their execution. chatle mortgages within ten days. Mechanics' liens within 60 days from commencement of building or furnishing of material.

Saml Link to Wash Cowen s 3-4 of n e ¼ of n e ¼ sec 4 Butler, 30 a $1250

J Link to W Cowen n ½ of n e ¼ of of n e ¼ sec 3 Butler 10 a $400

M J Antrup to W Cowen w ½ of n ½ of n e ¼ sec 3 Butler, 44½ a $2025

H Link to W Cowen w½ of e½ of n e¼ and s w¼ of n e¼ sec 4 Butler, 80a $3200

J L Smith to W. Cowen e½ of s e¼ sec 33 and 20a off west side of e½ of s w¼ sec 34 Richland, 100a $4800

Jno Kitchen to W Cowen s w of s w ec 34 Richland 40a $1500

S H Long to W Cowen s w of s e sec 33 Richland 40a $500

F G Bartles to W Cowen in mid pt of s ½ of s w¼ sec 34, Richland 43a $1800

G E Mathews to W Cowen e½ of s½ of n ½ sec 4 Butler 40a 2000

G Rodenbaugh to W Cowen s½ of n w¼ sec 3 Butler 80a $5000

C Hurck to W Cowen s w¼ of s e¼ and 15a off e side of e ½ of s w¼ sec 34 Richland 55a $2000

J Lesson to W Cowen s w1-4 of n w1-4 sec 3 Butler 40a $1800

G H Draggoo to B D Thomas in n e1-4 of s e1-4 sec 4 Butler 13½a $692 25-100

J Risey to B D Thomas s½ of n e1-4 sec 33 Richland 80a $3000

H Klink to B D Thomas n½ of n e1-4 of s e1-4 sec 4 Butler 14½a 675

O C Clark to B D Thomas w½ of s e1-4 sec 4 Butler 80a 3000

A J Balliet to B D Thomas s w1-4 of sec 3 Butler 160a 8307 75-100

HERE'S SOMETHING NOVEL.

A Chance for Somebody to win a $500 City Lot in Rockhill's Addition.

Tickets Given Away.

A novel idea in the way of advertising has been brought to our notice by Messrs Sam Pete and Max, managers of the noted Star Clothing house. They propose to to distribute a thousand tickets between this and January 1st 1875. No one is asked to buy these tickets, or pay for them, in any way. It is simply a new method of advertising their establishment

The lucky ticket will be determined by the Mayor of the city, before a number of prominent citizees. All the numbers from 1 to 1000 will be placed in a wheel which will be shaken up, and the committee can decide whether the first or any succeeding number shall win the $500 prize, lot No. 69 corner Mechanic and Walnut streets Rockhill's 2d addition.—Every purchaser of clothing to the amn't of ten dollars (10) will receive a ticket the purchaser selecting any number he desires.

No person will, under any circumstances, be allowed more than ine ticket.

The clear title deed, paid in full, can be seen at the Star Clothing House No.5 East Main st. Ft. Wayne Ind.

Grand Dance.

The Auburn Silver Cornet Band, of this place, will give a grand dance at Ensley hall, on November 5th 1874, for the purpose of raising funds to aid them in paying for their new suits recently purchased. Every one that has any taste for this sport should give their patronage as its only aiding in a good and sensible manner. The hall is one of the best in Northern Indiana, and the music will be composed of the best talent that can be procured. Prepar for a good time.

Mr John H. Pile has recently completed a fine brick residence on his place three and a half miles east of here, and will occupy the same next week. It is too stories high, handsomely porportioned and great taste has been displayed in its erection.

A lively time was had at the Sedan dance last night. Several of our boys were present, and on their return home report it a total failure, ending in a fight

The new Livery barn has got on the 1st coat of paint

Married.

At the residence of the bride's parents, Thursday evening, October 29, by the Rev. A. W. Lamport, WARREMAN C. FLUKE, of Auburn, DeKalb county, and ZAIDA M. KEISLER, of Orland, Steuben county.

At hymen's alter, side by side
We met the youth and his fair bride;
We heard them each to the other say:
"I'll stand beside you all the way
To life's last even."

Thus may it prove as on they go,
Cherished and loved by all below,
'Till parted here by death, they meet
Up there, with joy untold to greet
In love's last heaven.

—A. W. L.

DEATHS.

DAVID B., son of John and Lucy Oilinger, died October 28, 1874, aged 9 years, 2 months and 9 days. For 28 days his mind and body was racked and tortured with that terrible disease, typus fever. Little DAVIE's last moments were peaceful as he gently fell asleep.

Go to thy rest, fair child;
Go to thy dreamless bed,
While yet so gentle, undefiled;
With blessings on thy head.

Before thy heart had learned
In waywardness to stray,
Before thy feet had ever turned
The dark and downward way.

—T. C. E.

The following school fund settlement was made by the County Commissioners at their extra session week before last with the different Township Trustees, except Butler-tp., the Trustee of which did not put in appearance:

JACKSON TOWNSHIP.

Receipts	$2,972.11
Expenditures	1,774.01
Balance on hand	1,188.10

CONCORD-TP.

Receipts	5,026 44
Expenditures	4,096 98
Balance on hand	29 46

NEWVILLE-TP.

Receipts	2,665 94
Expenditures	1,973 94
Balance on hand	692 00

STAFFORD-TP.

Receipts	1,343 86
Expenditures	755 98
Balance on hand	587 88

WILMINGTON-TP.

Receipts	4,259 54
Expenditures	3,128 69
Balance on hand	1,130 85

UNION-TP.

Receipts	2,862 26
Expenditures	2,654 35
Balance on hand	207 91

RICHLAND-TP.

Receipts	6,038 97
Expenditures	3,766 29
Balance on hand	2,272 68

FAIRFIELD TP.

Receipts	4,797 00
Expenditures	2,919 30
Balance on hand	1,877 70

SMITHFIELD-TP.

Receipts	4,274 49
Expenditures	2,633 65
Balance on hand	1,640 84

FRANKLIN-TP.

Receipts	3,721 06
Expenditures	3,280 03
Balance on hand	441 03

TROY-TP.

Receipts	1,362 10
Expenditures	1,050 55
Balance on hand	311 55

WATERLOO.

Receipts	6,198 92
Expenditures	4,056 12
Balance on hand	2,142 80

AUBURN.

Receipts	5,704 24
Expenditures	4,420 24
Balance on hand	1,284 00

BUTLER.

Receipts	1,660 61
Expenditures	1,580 68
Balance on hand	79 93

In addition to the above, Concord-tp., reported township fund receipts, $176 61; expenditures, $435 69; everdrawn, $259-08; road tax receipts, 73 51; expedditures, $79 04; overdrawn, $2 53; dog tax receipts, $142 25; expenditures, $24-95; balance on hand, $117 30. Newville tp—township fund receipts, $269 76; expenditures, $154 34; balance on hand, $115 52; road fund receipts, $102 88, expenditures the same; dog tax receipts, $69 70; expenditures, $54 50; balance on hand, $15 20

An Ordinance.

Be it ordained by the Board of Trustees of the incorporated town of Auburn, DeKalb County Co., Ind., that it shall be the duty of owners and part owners of lots and parts of lots lying on or adjoining the north side of Green street running west to the east side of Jackson street, thence south on the east side of Jackson street to the south side of Williams street, to plank, maintain and keep in repair so much of the sidewalk as lies fronting the said lots or parts along and adjoining said street with a walk six feet wide, to be made of good and sound oak plan not less than 1½ inches in thickness nor more than six inches wide, placed on good substantial sleepers of sound oak timber not less than 3x4 inches in size, or of good pine plank not less than 1½ inches in thickness nor more than 12 inches in width, which may be placed on cross bearings of sound oak timber not less than 3x3 inches in size nor more than 4 feet apart.

Said sidewalks shall be made on a grade with the streets and alley crossing along said sidewalks within thirty days after the publishing of this ordinance in the Auburn COURIER.

So much of the ordinance passed Feb. 16th, 1874, as relates to building sidewalks on the south side of Williams street from east side of Jackson to west side of Main street is hereby repealed.

Done by order of the Board of Trustees of the incorporated town of Auburn, DeKalb County, Ind., at their regular session, November 2nd, 1874.

Attest F. E. DAVENPORT,
Town Clerk.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a DECREE to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court in a cause wherein John K. Evans is Plaintiff and Robert Bill, Margaret Bill and Evera Jones are Defendants requiring me to make the sum of nine hundred and twenty-two dollars and forty cents, with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at public sale to the highest bidder

ON SATURDAY, NOV. 28th, 1874,

between the hours of 10 o'clock am. and 4 o'clock pm. of said day, at the door of the Court House of DeKalb County, Indiana, the rents and profits, for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit:

The north half of the northwest quarter of section seventeen [17] in township thirty-three [33] north of range twelve [12] east, in DeKalb County, Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interests and costs, I will at the same time and place, expose at public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs.

Sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation and appraisement laws.

W. L. MEESE, Sheriff.

Auburn, Indiana, Nov. 3d, 1874.

D. STUDABAKER, Atty for Plff.

$13 50

Take the COURIER and read the latest news

I MUSED LAST NIGHT IN PENSIVE MOOD.

BY ALICE WILLIAMS.

"Oh there's nothing half so sweet in life
As love's young dream!"

I mused last night in pensive mood—
Albeit not often sentimental—
My heart was heavy and my frame
Was racked with aches—both head and dental.
I say, as once I've said before,
My mood was somewhat sad and pensive,
I cast upon the Past a glance
Fond, lingering, and comprehensive.

I saw once more that mossy bank
By which the river ripples slowly,
O'ershadowed by the silvery veil
Of willow branches drooping lowly,
Bestrewn with wild spring flowerets dyed
In every color of the prism;
Where oft we sat, May Brown and I—
Nor ever dreamed of rheumatism.

We loved. Ah, yes! Some might have loved
Before us, in their humdrum fashion;
But never yet the world had known
So wild, so deep, so pure a fashion!
We recked not of the heartless crowd,
Nor heeded cruel parents' frowning;
But lived in one long blissful dream,
And spouted Tennyson and Browning.

And when the cruel fates decreed
That for a season I must leave her,
It wrung my very heart to see
How much our parting seemed to grieve her
One happy moment, too, her head
Reposed so lightly on my shoulder!
In dreams I live that scene again,
And in my arms again enfold her.

She gave me one long auburn curl,
She wore my picture in a locket,
Her letters, with blue ribbon tied,
I carried in my left coat-pocket.
(Those notes, rose-scented and pink-hued, Displayed more sentiment than knowledge.)
I wrote about four times a week
That year I was away to College.

But oh, at length "a change came o'er
The spirit of my dream!" One morning
I got a chilly line from May,
In which, without the slightest warning,
She said she shortly meant to wed
Tom Barnes (a parson, fat and jolly);
She sent my notes and ruby ring,
And hoped I would "forget my folly."

I sent her all her letters back,
I called her false and fickle-hearted,
And swore I hailed with joy the hour
That saw me free. And so we parted.
I quoted Byron by the page,
I smoked Havanas by the dozens,
And then I went out West and fell
In love with all my pretty cousins.

—Scribner's for November.

A STRUGGLE FOR A CROWN.

My first desire, on reaching London, was to visit the world-renowned Tower. The immense pile stands on the eastern extremity of the city, and is wonderfully imposing—not for its architectural beauty, for it has none, but for its gloomy, solemn solidty—every stone seeming to frown defiance to chance and time. It appears to have been built to last forever. Commenced more than eight centuries ago, by William the Conqueror, it gradually increased in strength and importance, until its name became familiar throughout the civilized world.

For centuries it was the abode of royalty, and the Kings and Queens of England not only found shelter within its walls in time of war, but homes of luxury and magnificence in time of peace.

In process of time, it became a prison as well as a palace; and, if the dumb stones could be made to speak, we should shudder at the blood-curdling secrets they would reveal. Among the unhappy victims who have perished here, mostly at the hands of the headsman, we recall the names of Lady Jane Grey, Catherine Howard, Anne Boleyn, Sir Walter Raleigh, King John of France, William Wallace, Lord William Russell, the Countess of Salisbury, Sir Thomas More, and a whole army of other unfortunates, conspicuous for their crimes or their virtues, their misfortunes or their intrigues.

The immense structure covers an area of 12 acres, and within this space numerous separate buildings have been erected, including the Barracks, White Tower, St. Peter's Tower, Bloody Tower, in which the young Princes were murdered; the Bowyer Tower, in which the Duke of Clarence was drowned in a cask of wine; the Brock Tower, in which Lady Jane Grey was confined; the Beauchamp Tower, which was once the prison of Anne Boleyn; the Museum, Armories, Picture Galleries, and the famous Jewel-House.

Within the latter building are kept the crown jewels of the British empire. Prominent among them is the crown worn by Victoria at the time of her coronation, which originally cost nearly $1,000,000, and which contains, in the aggregate, 2,800 diamonds of various sizes, and all of unrivaled brilliancy. Besides, the Jewel-House contains numerous other crowns, of monarchs long since dead; the Orb—a globe of gold, 6 inches in diameter, studded with diamonds; St. Edward's Staff, of solid gold, 4 feet and 7 inches long, and weighing 10 pounds; the Golden Scepter; the world-renowned Koh-i-noor, valued at $16,000,000; and numerous other jewels of enormous value, the property of the nation, and essential to the maintenance of royal magnificence and pomp.

These baubles have a curious history. In the early days of the nation, when her monarchs were both poor and proud, these glittering appendages of the Kingly estate were not infrequently "spouted" to raise money to meet their personal expenses. Henry III., Edward III., Henry V., Henry VI., and Richard II., each borrowed large sums of money from the merchants of London, leaving with the lenders these crown treasures as a pledge that the loans would be repaid.

On the abolition of monarchy in England, after the death of Charles I., the jewels were stolen, destroyed or sold.

On the restoration, Charles II. caused a new regalia to be constructed, at a cost of $1,500,000; and a large chamber in the Tower was set apart for their safe-keeping, which is now known as the Jewel-House. It struck the writer as a little singular that the English government should enact an insignificant fee from each visitor; and I could not repress the thought, and hardly the expression, that it was unseemly for the British nation to turn showman, and exhibit the baubles of its sovereign at so much per head.

Though the Jewel-House is situated near the center of a large collection of buildings known by the general name of the Tower of London, the yards, walks and corridors, of which are ever swarming with people, and though carefully watched and strongly guarded, numerous and ingenious attempts have been made to steal the jewels.

Among the most noted, as well as the most daring, of these attempts, was that of Col. Blood, made in 1671, which, for ingenuity of plot and boldness of execution, has not been excelled by anything in these modern days.

Blood was the son of a wealthy Irish merchant, whose means enabled him to give his son a liberal education, and whose social position secured him the advantages of good society. Young Blood was a Liberal in sentiment, and served in the Cromwell army, where he ttained the rank of Colonel. On the restoration, his estates were confiscated for the part he had borne in the revolution, and he became a penniless wanderer.

The Duke of Ormond, Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland, had been very active in procuring the confiscation of Blood's property, and the latter resolved upon revenge. Calling to his aid four daring and desperate men, whom he had known in the army, he mounted them on fleet horses, and waited the opportunity. One dark, stormy night, as the Duke's carriage was passing along the streets of London, the vehicle was stopped, his Grace dragged from it, bound, mounted behind one of his captors, and hurried away toward Tyburn—their avowed intention being to hang him on the gallows there. Fortunately, on the way, he succeeded in loosening the cords, jumped from the horse, and escaped in the pitchy darkness.

A reward of $10,000 was offered for the arrest of the daring kidnappers, but none were ever apprehended, and it was many years before Blood's agency in the business was known, or even suspected.

His next exploit was an attempt to steal the crown. He needed money, and he hated royalty; and these reasons were quite sufficient to prompt him to the commission of the offense. The valuables were in the jewel house, under a glass case, and under the especial care of Talbot Edwards, an old officer of the King's household. But Blood was not easily baffled. He spent several months devising the manner of the robbery and perfecting the means of escape.

He found that it was essential that he should first establish relations of intimacy with the family of the keeper. So he assumed the garb of a clergyman, and, in company with a woman of the town, whom he had thoroughly instructed as to his designs, he visited the Jewel-House, introducing the woman as his wife.

While examining the jewels the woman, in accordance with her instructions, feigned sudden illness, swooned, and was carried by the kind-hearted keeper to his private apartments, where Mrs. Edwards rendered her every possible attention.

The bogus parson professed the deepest gratitude for this kindness, and, in a few days, returned with some valuable presents for Mrs. Edwards, as a token of his appreciation of her kindness to his wife. An intimacy thus gradually grew up between the designing hypocrite and the Edwards family. They were charmed by his general urbanity, apparent respectability, and seeming piety; and their blind confidence greatly lessened the difficulties of the villain's task.

Among the members of Mr. Edwards' family was a handsome daughter, some seventeen years of age, in whom Blood professed a deep interest, and finally proposed to her parents a marriage with a nephew of his, whom he represented to be young, respectable and pious, with an income of £300 a year. The young lady's parents approved the suggestion, and it was arranged that the suitor should call on a certain day—Monday, May 9. On the evening before the time appointed, Blood called, and requested that, for reasons which he proceeded to give, his nephew might be received at 7 o'clock in the morning—an hour, it will be perceived, when few people would be likely to be abroad; and also asked permission for his nephew to bring two friends with him to see the regalia—assigning as a reason that the friends were compelled to leave London at an early hour.

The simple-minded Mr. Edwards was only too glad to oblige his esteemed friend, and gladly consented to the arrangement. At an early hour in the morning the family were up, and prepared to receive their guests and future son-in-law.

Promptly the pretended parson and his friends made their appearance—every one of them being a conspirator, and each of them carrying concealed under his cloak a short sword, a dirk, and a pair of pistols.

Greeting Mr. Edwards warmly, Blood apologized, and begged one more favor: that his friends might be shown the regalia at once, as they were pressed for time and anxious to depart. Accordingly, the party was conducted to the jewel-room—Mr. Edwards carefully closing the door after him, as was his custom. The "nephew" had been left at the entrance, to warn the conspirators inside of approaching danger.

The door had no sooner closed than the three villains threw of their disguise, and, drawing their weapons, rushed upon the old man and threatened him with instant death if he gave the slightest alarm. But the gallant keeper was not easily intimidated, and shouted lustily for assistance; whereupon he was knocked down, cruelly beaten, and left for dead.

Having thus disposed of the faithful sentinel, Blood and his confederates set rapidly at work to possess themselves of the coveted treasure. The glass case in which it was inclosed was shivered at a single blow, and the Golden Crown, glittering with its wealth of gems, was quickly seized, and concealed under the chief conspirator's ample cloak. Parrott, another of the robbers, took possession of the Orb and other gems; while another proceeded to file the Golden Scepter in two, that it might the more readily be concealed.

Everything had thus far been auspicious. The scheme had been cunningly devised; the simple-minded keeper had unwittingly extended to the robbers every aid they needed; and they now found themselves alone in the jewel house, well armed, and in possession of the coveted booty; and it was only the merest accident which prevented the complete success of the bold scheme. A son of Mr. Edwards, who was an officer on an English trading vessel, chanced to arrive in port that morning, in company with a brother-in-law, Capt. Blackman, of the British army, who had been a passenger on his vessel, and they hastened at once to call upon the elder Edwards.

They passed Blood's pretended nephew at the door, and proceeded directly to the keeper's room. The sentinel immediately notified his accomplices of the approaching danger, when they made haste to gather such treasures as they could conceal, and beat a hasty retreat.

But no sooner had they left the room than Edwards, who had shrewdly feigned insensibility, raised himself from the pool of blood in which he had been lying, and shouted for help with all his remaining strength.

The robbers had, in their hasty flight, left the door of the room open, and his cries were heard by his daughter, who was passing along the hall to the drawing room, to which she had been summoned to meet her brother. Hastening to the room from which the cries proceeded, she took in the situation at a glance, and ran shrieking to the room where her brother and Capt. Blackman were in waiting, exclaiming that her father had been murdered and the crown stolen. Young Edwards and his companion hastened to the jewel house, and lifted up the wounded man; but, at his earnest request, they left him and went in pursuit of the robbers, who were straining every nerve to escape. They had made their way out of the building, and crossed the court yard without molestation, and reached the drawbridge over the moat. Here they came upon a sleepy sentinel, who halted them; but Blood discharged a pistol at his head, when the frightened man, though unhurt, fell, and the fugitives passed over him, cleared the outer gate, and nearly reached the park, where fast horses had been provided for them.

But the two pursuers had not been idle, and were rapidly gaining on them. Just as Blood cleared the last gate Capt. Blackman came up with him, and they grapled. A fierce struggle ensued, but the Captain succeeded in overcoming his antagonist, and the crown was wrenched from his grasp.

As the daring man saw his hopes thus disappear, and escape impossible, he quietly surrendered, and playfully remarked to his captor, "It was a gallant struggle, however unsuccessful. It was a struggle for a crown." Parrot and the other accomplices, who had the orb and other jewels, were soon overtaken and captured, and ultimately the woman who had so effectually aided the plot in its inception was arrested. Thus ended this bold attempt to steal the English crown—an attempt with few parallels in any age.

The King was enraged at this insolent attack on the emblems of royalty, and ordered Blood to be immediately examined in his presence.

Before the King, Blood preserved the most insolent effrontery. He assured his Majesty that he feared nothing human or divine. He was in their power, and expected to suffer. But, he said, he was allied to one of the most powerful organizations in the kingdom, consisting of thousands of men who had solemnly sworn to stand by each other and avenge their wrongs. He mentioned several mysterious assassinations which had recently taken place, and declared that they had fallen by the hand of the avenger; and that the brotherhood had a dagger for every man who harmed one of its members. He said he would not threaten, but he would say, in all kindness, to his Majesty and his Ministers, that, if he suffered, their fate would assuredly be the same as those he had mentioned.

As he said this, he was looking directly at the King, and, noticing that he was affected, he proceeded to say:

"But, if your Majesty would spare the lives of a few men, you might oblige the hearts of many; and your Majesty will find that those who are so bold and daring in mischief can, if pardoned and received into favor, perform eminent service for the state."

The weak monarch was frightened at Blood's revelations, though they were, in all probability, false; and the fear of violence, and the hope of gaining the favor of the powerful faction Blood was supposed to control, induced him to deal very leniently with the criminal. True, he was returned to prison; but comfortable quarters were assigned him, and his restrictions gradually removed, until finally he was fully released, all proceedings against him dismissed, and he was even granted large estates in Ireland. His influence with the King became very great, and he soon took up his residence in London, and was admitted to the best society, where he was courted and flattered because of his influence with the Crown.

He died in 1690, leaving property valued at $250,000. All his accomplices in the great crime suffered death.

Sunlight for the Sick.

Dr. Wm. H. Hammond, in discussing the sanitary influence of light, observes that the effects of deficient light upon the inmates of hospital wards and sick chambers have frequently come under his special notice; that most physicians know how carefully the attendants upon the sick endeavor to exclude every ray of light from the apartment, and even some members of the profession are singularly assiduous in this respect; but that the practice, except in some cases of actual disorder of the brain and other parts of the nervous system, is pernicious, admits of no question. During the late civil war Dr. H. visited a camp and hospital in West Virginia, in consequence of information received that the sickness and mortality there prevailing were unaccountably great, and he made a minute examination into all the circumstances connected with the situation of the camp, the food of the men, etc. Among other peculiarities he found the sick crowded into a small room, from which the light was excluded by blinds of India-rubber cloth. The patients were as effectually bleached as is celery by the earth being heaped up around it; pale, bloodless, ghost-like looking forms, they seemed to be scarcely mortal. Convalescence was, under such circumstances, according to Dr. Hammond, almost impossible, and his belief was that many of the men had died, who, had they been subjected to the operation of the simplest laws of nature, would have recovered.

FREEPORT, Ill., is to have a large new watch factory.

Lost in a Wisconsin Pinery.

J. L. Robinson, train-boy on the Wisconsin Central railroad, conceived the novel idea of hunting partridges with a revolver, and in order to give shape to his thought, left the upward bound train at Mill Creek Station, fifteen miles northwest of Stevens Point, Wis., on Friday, Oct. 9. It was his intention to return on the first incoming car, which was due one hour from the pinery. Alas for human purpose and expectation! A few rods from the station and he was as thoroughly bewildered as though a hundred miles intervened between him and civilization. His hunt for game proved fruitless, as well as his effort to retrace his steps. The young man wandered about in the woods for four days, and when found was half famished. Scores of people turned out to hunt for the wanderer, and the excitement attending the search is described as intense. When Robinson first realized that he was lost he wrote and attached to a twig the following note:

"I am lost in the woods and can't find my way out. J. L. ROBINSON.
"Oct. 9."

After sleeping on the ground during Friday night he moved on and dropped the following in his path:

"I am lost in the woods; if anybody will show me out I will give them $5. I am news agent on the Wisconsin Central road. Keep calling me; if I hear I will come.
"J. L. ROBINSON.
"Oct. 10, Saturday."

At this time if he had taken a southerly course it would have brought him to the railroad track. Instead, however, he went north, reaching the east side of Bear creek, where he left another communication as follows:

"I am lost, and can't find my way out. Look for me and you shall have $100 reward.
"J. L. ROBINSON."

A little farther on he dropped his handkerchief, which, together with the former memorandums, aided largely in the success of the search.

On Sunday he reached an old haying camp, where he found several bushels of potatoes and some salt. Here he remained until Monday afternoon, when he left the following, written on an old tea-chest cover:

"Friends, I am lost. For God's sake look for me. I am starving to death; can't find anything to eat. Five hundred dollars to the one that finds me and leads me out of these woods. I live in Menasha, Wis. My name is Joseph L. Robinson. Carry the news to my poor wife.

"I am going to leave here in the morning. I go right straight through the woods. Please hunt after me, and you will be well paid for your trouble. May God have mercy on my soul. Tell my wife my last words were about her. Directions—Mrs. M. V. Robinson, Menasha, Wis. I leave Tuesday about 9 o'clock.

"Five hundred dollars to any man that finds me and leads me out of these woods, and takes me home to my family. O God! I am starving to death by inches. Follow me, won't you, for God's sake? It is hard to give up life. I haven't had anything to eat since last Friday.

"If I am dead when you find me, take me home.

"JOSEPH L. ROBINSON, Menasha, Wis."

On Tuesday he was observed near this shanty, and on perceiving his rescuers, he shouted, "I am lost, I am lost, I am lost!" and then lying on the ground and kicking with all his might, he cried, "I am found, I am found, I am found!" Robinson is now at home with his friends, with a wholesome horror of pistols and partridges.

The Koumis Cure for Consumption.

A correspondent of the London Daily News, writing from Samara, on the Volga, says: "It has long been known that the Tartar tribes inhabiting what is generally known as Independent Tartary (no longer, however, since Gen. Kaufmann's visit, particularly independent), and nomad tribes scattered over its northern frontiers, the Turkomans and the Kirghis, as well as other tribes more or less akin to these, such as the half-nomad Bashkirs of Orenberg, all used fermented mare's milk, which they called Koumis, not only as a beverage, but as a substantial portion of their daily food. It was reported to combine the nourishing properties of milk with the invigorating qualities of alcohol; indeed, among its other virtues, it was said to exhilarate and intoxicate. It came into the heads of some Russian medical men, of whom, I believe, Dr. Portnikoff, of Samara, to have been one of the first, that this koumis might possibly possess medical properties as well. It was observed that consumption and its cognate disorders were unknown among the tribes who habitually drank koumis. Starting from this observation, experiments were made on the vilia corpora of consumptive patients, and with highly beneficial results. Upon this Dr. Portnikoff started a koumis establishment at Samara. Its situation offered him many advantages. In the first place, from its position on the Volga, it was at least approachable, whereas Orenberg, the nearest spot where koumis could be said to be indigenous, was the ultima thule of the civilized world. This new establishment on the Volga was the means, therefore, of pushing the koumis outposts 300 miles westward. In the next place it was observed that the pasturage at Samara was similar to that of Orenberg. It is supposed that the virtue of koumis consists in a great measure in the rich quality of the mare's milk, which again is dependent, not only on the race of mares, but on the pasturage on which they are fed. All these are propositions which are more or less vehemently affirmed and denied by the different camps into which koumis connoisseurs are divided."

Produce of the Earth.

Take the potato away from Ireland, and starvation comes. Famine recently had its hold on Bengal on account of a failure of the rice crop. Bread fruit is to West India both food and clothing. Heaven sends it and causes it to grow, and the lazy natives ask nothing further. And yet all these yield to the despised bamboo. We go fishing with these poles; the Chinese eat them. The uses to which it is put render it a national benefactor. Houses, boats, screens and water-wheels are made of it, together with fences, ropes, furniture, hats, umbrellas, and all varieties of weapons, lamp-wicks, pencils, brushes, pens, aqueducts, telescopes, and a thousand other things of daily use. We might almost say that were the bamboo to perish suddenly from off the earth the whole Chinese Empire would collapse.

Romeo by Another Name in Pennsylvania.

Two farmers living on adjoining farms in Girard Township, Erie county, have for years been unfriendly on account of the disagreement about the line fence which separated their lands both claiming the ten feet which was formerly the lane running between the two places. Their children have grown up inheriting their parents' animosity, and their eldest sons have several times been subpœnaed as witnesses in lawsuits which have grown out of this difficulty. The case had been a sort of suit in chancery, having run on from year to year, both men spending their money in lawyers' fees without any legal conclusion.

About a year ago the two farmers awoke one Monday morning to find that each had lost a child,—one his youngest son and the other his only daughter. Like the houses of Montague and Capulet in "Romeo and Juliet," the scions of the two rival houses had secretly cherished a fondness for one another, and, knowing the feud between the families, without divulging their passions or intention, they met clandestinely, and carried into effect an elopement.

A week passed, at the end of which the father of the runaway daughter was called on to go to Erie to attend again to the everlasting lawsuit. He went in early to the office of the lawyer, and, taking up one of his weekly papers, read the marriage notice of Emma. It was a terrible blow, and he went out into the yard to try and walk off his excitement. All that passed through the old gentleman's mind is not known, but there seemed to be a desperate struggle within, which resulted in his returning to the lawyer's office and postponing the business. Then he drove directly to his farm and had a long private interview with his wife; then he did what he had not done for twenty years—went over and called on his enemy. He was found sick, having been confined to his room since the abandonment of his favorite son. But the two farmers met, and both for a few minutes stood face to face in profound silence.

At length the father of Emma spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on either side of the lane, and I will build them a house."

"And I will furnish it."

So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faithfully fulfilled his contract in regard to his house and furniture.—Beaver (Pa.) Argus.

Billingsiana.

Too grate a luv ov popularity makes a monkey ov a man.

Thare iz a grate deal ov moral dispepshy; it iz cauzed bi neglekting the fish balls ov every day life, and trieing to liv on the whipt sillybub ov an etherial existence.

Tru luv makes mankind commit menny follys, but seldum, if ever, makes them commit crimes.

Yu mite az well undertake to wear out a looking-glass bi gazing at it as to kleanze the human harte ov its vanity.

The man who never takes enny chances makes az menny blunders az enny boddy.

I notiss one thing, now that i am gitting old, when folks meet me they are dreadphull glad to see me, but they are in a grate hurry, and don't want to talk haff so long az i do—i mistrust sumthings.

Thare is a grate deal ov charity in this world that sticks so tite to the fingers that it kant be got oph.

Free luv iz the art, or science, ov luving somebody else's wife more than yu do yure own, and trieing to preserve the average—it kant be did.

If a man knows himself thoroly, and hiz nabor sum, he iz just about az wize az he kan be.

It aint safe to bet on enything, not even on to-morrow.

The man who haz been waiting for the last 15 years for sumthing to turn up, iz to work on the same job yet.

Mi opinyun iz, if Adam and Eve waz to try it over agin in the Garden of Eden, they wouldn't be happy untill they had repeated their old blunder.

He who repents ov a sin iz a stroner and a safer man than he who never committed one.

Corn in England.

The N. Y. Tribune contains the following: It would be strange indeed if we should be indebted to England for a variety of corn hardy enough to resist severe frosts. A statement is, however, published in the English papers that "Cobbett's thousand-fold acclimated Indian corn" has been successfully adapted to the cool and variable climate of England, in which heretofore our corn could not be grown or ripened. William Cobbett will be remembered as the English Liberal agitator who for some time had his residence upon Long Island. His son, William Cobbett, has long been endeavoring to introduce the growth of corn into England, and now it seems he claims to have succeeded. We learn that upwards of three acres of this acclimated corn is now growing at Hounslow, near London, and that it has successfully withstood some severe frosts with great hardihood, and is now very promising. If our neighbors in the East have really produced a frost-proof corn so prolific as it is made to appear by the sounding title given to it, and which we have quoted, it will go to shake our faith in our permanent dependence upon Europe as a market for our surplus crop of this cereal, and, on the contrary, cause us to look thither for a supply of seed of so valuable a plant. But we are somewhat doubtful as to the truth of this statement.

A BAPTIST missionary in India proposes that men and women who go out as missionaries shall enlist for ten years only. He thinks by this plan the missionary service would be more effective, as many missions are ruined by sick men hanging on, and by the retention of men too old for hard service. Furthermore, more persons would be willing to serve as missionaries than on the life plan.

A Boy and a Modest School Ma'am in a Predicament.

An amusing incident occurred in one of the departments of the High School building the other day. While at play during recess one of the boys had the misfortune to make an ugly rent in that portion of his pantaloons which his short-tailed coat could not possibly conceal. By the aid of his sympathizing schoolmates the torn garment was in due time pinned together, and by walking very straight the boy was enabled to sidle into the school room and to his seat without attracting particular attention. Things promised to work favorably until, from some cause, the unfortunate was summoned to the platform. This order he could not obey without displaying to the whole school the breach in his pantaloons, and so he sat still in his seat, turning very red in the face and looking mortified beyond description. The lady teacher took his hesitation for insubordination, and sternly ordered him to the front. Still he did not move. The teacher became angry, and, hastily writing a note, dispatched it to Prof. Rogers, informing him of the conduct of her pupil, and at the same time commanding the blushing and mortified boy to pack up his books and prepare to leave school. The courier with the message to the Professor had scarcely left the room when he was overtaken by the sufferer, and together they sought out the Professor and explained matters. By the laughing and blushing manner in which the lady teacher perused the reply to her note, it was inferred that matters were satisfactorily righted, and the charge of insubordination withdrawn, leaving the unlucky young man in good standing in the estimation of his teacher.—Sioux City Journal.

A GENTLEMAN long resident in Mexico says that a good way to manage a horse that will not be shod is to take a cord the size of a common bed-cord, put it into the mouth of the horse like a bit, and tie it tightly on the animal's head, passing his left ear under the string, not painfully tight, but tight enough to keep the ear down and the cord in its place. This done, pat the horse gently on the side of the head and command him to follow. It subdues any horse, and he becomes as gentle and obedient as a dog.

FROM Maine to California millions of children are wearing SILVER-TIPPED Shoes. Why not? They are the cheapest, and never wear through at the toe. Try them. For sale by all shoe dealers.

WISHART'S Pine Tree Tar Cordial cures coughs, colds and consumption. Wishart's Worm Sugar Drops banish worms completely.

Gained Fifteen Pounds of Flesh.

SOUTH BERWICK, Me., Jan. 17, 1872.

H. R. STEVENS, Esq.:

Dear Sir—I have had Dyspepsia in its worst form for the last ten years, and have taken hundreds of dollars' worth of medicine without obtaining any relief. In September last I commenced taking the VEGETINE, since which time my health has steadily improved. My food digests well, and I have gained fifteen pounds of flesh. There are several others in this place taking the VEGETINE, and all have obtained relief. Yours, truly,

THOMAS E. MOORE,
Overseer of the Card Room, Portsmouth Co.'s Mills.

DYSPEPSIA.

SYMPTOMS—Want of appetite, rising of food and wind from the stomach, acidity of the stomach, heartburn, dryness and whiteness of the tongue in the morning, sense of distension in the stomach and bowels, sometimes rumbling and pain; costiveness, which is occasionally interrupted by diarrhœa; paleness of the urine. The mouth is clammy, or has a sour or bitter taste. Other frequent symptoms are waterbrash, palpitation of the heart, headache, and disorders of the senses, as seeing double, &c. There is general debility, languor, and aversion to motion; dejection of the spirits, disturbed sleep, and frightful dreams.

FEEL MYSELF A NEW MAN.

NATICK, Mass., June 1, 1872.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir—Through the advice and earnest persuasion of Rev. E. S. Best, of this place, I have been taking VEGETINE for Dyspepsia, of which I have suffered for years. I have used only two bottles, and already feel myself a new man. Respectfully,

DR. J. W. CARTER.

A Source of Great Anxiety.

My daughter has received great benefit from the use of VEGETINE. Her declining health was a source of great anxiety to all of her friends. A few bottles of the VEGETINE restored her health, strength, and appetite.

N. H. TILDEN,
Ins. and Real Estate Agt., 49 Sears' Building.
Boston, Mass., June 5, 1872.

What I Know About Vegetine.

SOUTH BOSTON, May 9, 1870

H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir—I have had considerable experience with the VEGETINE. For Dyspepsia, General Debility, and Impure Blood, the VEGETINE is superior to anything which I have ever used. I commenced taking VEGETINE about the middle of last winter, and after using a few bottles it entirely cured me of dyspepsia, and my blood never was in so good condition as at the present time. It will afford me pleasure to give any further particulars relative to what I know about this good medicine to any one who will call or address me at my residence, 386 Athens street. Very respectfully,

MONR. B. PARKER,
386 Athens Street.

Vegetine is Sold by all Druggists.

Wishart's

Pine Tree Tar

Cordial!

Nature's Great

Remedy

FOR ALL

Throat & Lung

Diseases.

For Sale by all Druggists and Storekeepers.

A Farmer's Boy.

Over fifty years ago a youth working on a farm asked his father to give him money enough to buy a gun. The old man could not spare it; but the boy, nothing daunted, found an old piece of iron about the place, and in the course of time contrived to make a gun-barrel out of it, with the very meager facilities afforded by a country blacksmith's shop. He had not the materials to make a lock and stock, so he walked to the nearest town and traded for the necessary attachments, and was encouraged by the smith for having made so good a shooter. This gave him the ambition to make another; so he went to cutting out grindstones from the native rock to raise the money for gun materials, and in a short time there was a considerable demand for guns of his make. During the French war with Prussia he was called upon to furnish guns for the army, and in less than eight months he made and delivered to the government of France rifles of a particular pattern, costing $5,000,000, which amount was duly paid. The same man furnishes rifles now for the United States, South America, Rome, Spain, Egypt, and Japan. The farmer's boy who wanted a gun is Eliphalet Remington, of Ilion, N. Y. His manufactory covers four acres of ground, and he employs 1,200 men. Not satisfied with this achievement, he has recently completed a sewing machine, which is reported to represent the latest and most perfect advance in the improvement of this important adjunct of domestic economy. This is the type of a boy who, when there is not a way, makes a way for himself.

An Earthquake Experience.

A lady correspondent of the Cleveland Herald, writing from Callao, gives as follows her first experience of an earthquake shock: "Night before last we were having a very restless night; could not get to sleep. About 12 o'clock Belle awoke, her big eyes wide open, and a few moments after a low, underground thunder came rolling toward us. H. sprang up and said 'earthquake,' but there was no need of being informed, for it was unmistakable. I jumped from my bed and cried, 'O, my God!' By the time we were fairly up, the house was convulsed with the demoniac shake. I had but one idea in my head; it had been told me a few nights before to keep my slippers always by the bedside. I had neglected to do so, and in the frenzy of fright I could only cry out, 'Oh, where are my slippers?' B., who lay in her little bed quite composed, not appreciating the danger, told me just where they were. My hands were cold and clammy, and I was truly beside myself. I cannot describe an earthquake in a manner that you could comprehend. They are neither sublime nor grand, but terrible and demoniacal. This one lasted about fifteen or sixteen seconds, yet it aroused sensations that I did not get over for twenty-four hours. All night I was trying to realize that God had anything to do with a terror so horrible."

Velocity of Thought.

The velocity of thought is commonly regarded as unsurpassed in nature, a notion which is well illustrated by the phrase "quick as thought," so frequently used to express the utmost conceivable rapidity of action. But Mr. George F. Rodwell, in an extremely suggestive paper on the perception of the invisible, lately printed in Macmillan's Magazine, points out that "quick as thought" is not nearly so "quick as lightning;" for while, according to Sir Charles Wheatstone, a flash of lightning lasts only the one thousandth part of a second, the experiments of Donders show that it takes about one twenty-sixth part of a second to think. We believe, however, that the experiments made by Prof. Ogden N. Rood, of Columbia College, New York, during a thunder-storm in August, 1870, showed that the duration of the flashes of lightning then seen was twice as great as Sir Charles Wheatstone's result—or, in round numbers, the five hundredth part of a second.

A Beautiful Incident.

A gentleman relates that many years ago he was on a visit to the Isle of Man, and during his walks he strolled into the churchyard, where repose the bodies of many faithful and humble Christians. Near a grave in a corner of the churchyard he noticed a lady with a little girl (the latter about 12 years of age) to whom she was relating the story of the "Dairyman's Daughter," whose remains lay beneath their feet. As the lady proceeded with the narrative he observed the little girl lift up her eyes filled with tears, and heard her say that she would try and be as good as the dairyman's daughter. After planting a beautiful lily on the grave they walked away. The gentleman, upon making inquiry, found that the lady was the Duchess of Kent and the little girl her daughter. The latter is now Queen of England.

A SINGULAR and affecting trait is recorded of the bison when young. Whenever a cow bison falls by the hand of the hunter, and happens to have a calf, the helpless creature, instead of attempting to escape, stays by its fallen dam, with many expressions of strong affection. The mother being secured, the hunter makes no attempt on the calf, because this is unnecessary, but proceeds to cut up the carcass; and then, laying it on his horse, he returns home, followed by the young one, which thus instinctively follows the remains of its parent. A hunter once rode into the town of Cincinnati, between the Miamis, followed in this manner by three calves, all of which had just lost their dams.

APROPOS of the increasing use of carrier-pigeons for press purposes in Europe, an English paper records a case of interest. An ocean humming bird, of great docility, intelligence and spirit, has been found in Iceland, which flies at the meteor-like speed of 150 miles an hour. A pair of these birds, whose present home is in Kent, within ten miles of London, recently carried dispatches from Paris to their home in one hour and a quarter. They do the distance from that to London in a quarter of an hour, including delivery of their dispatch.

The Largest Vaulted Roof in the World.

The largest vaulted roof in the world is claimed by Vienna—that belonging to the great Exposition building. It is said to cover nine times the space of the dome of St. Paul's, in London; eight times the area of the dome of St. Peter's, and seven times that of St. Sophia, at Constantinople. This miracle of architectural skill is 360 feet in diameter, 1,089 feet round, and stands on a ring of thirty columns 36 feet apart around the circumference. Within the ring of columns there is no support. The upper dome, 100 feet in diameter, admits light by a series of windows 40 feet high and 10 feet wide, between thirty columns which carry the upper dome. The slope of the cone is 30 deg., and the length of the slope on all sides is 200 feet. The roof is formed of 360 iron plates, tapering uniformly upward from the circumference to the apex of the cone. They are riveted like the plates of a ship.

DESTRUCTION IN DISGUISE.—It is a fact that mixtures of bad liquors and acid astringents are often given for medicines. They are potent to destroy! and may be safely warranted to ruin, morally and physically, any human being that sticks to them long enough. More drunkards have been made by these villainous concoctions, labeled medicines, than by the liquors of commerce. Alcoholic poisons, advertised as remedies, are more mischievous than tavern drams. For intermittent and remittent fevers, as well as for all other diseases which these fiery frauds are falsely certified to relieve, DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, the ne plus ultra of vegetable medicines, is a positive cure. But this is not all; the great Temperance Elixir is a sovereign specific for the depraved appetite for stimulants, created by the false tonics and bogus restoratives of Missionaries of Intemperance. Within the present year many well-known citizens have certified that a course of VINEGAR BITTERS invariably obliterates the desire for spirituous excitants. 7

THE coastwise trade of the United States, during the last fiscal year, was about two and one-half times greater than the foreign trade.

WHO WILL IT BE?—The postponement of the Gift Concert of the Kentucky Public Library to November 30, 1874, was resolved upon to make a full drawing a certainty. There will positively be no further postponement; the great prize will be the magnificent sum of $250,000. Who will get it?

THE GREAT FAVORITE!—The popular Chill Cure of the age!! Composed of pure and simple drugs, Wilhoft's Tonic has long held the highest place in the long line of remedies for Chills and Fever. It is not only Anti-Periodic but is Anti-Panic, for it curtails the heavy expense of doctors' visits, where friendly calls are all itemized in the account current. A penny saved is a penny gained, and saving it in this way adds to health and comfort. Try Wilhoft's Tonic as a certainty, and you will never regret it. WHEELOCK, FINLAY & CO., Proprietors, New Orleans. For sale by all druggists.

J. W. GRISWOLD & Co., 54 & 56 Madison-st., Chicago, the oldest, largest and deservedly most popular cloak house in the West, are noted for the tasteful designs, excellence and low prices of their Cloaks, Cloakings, Trimmings and Ladies' Underwear. No house can successfully compete with them in the quality, style and prices of their goods.

SENT free, on receipt of neck and breast measure, height, weight and price, our (sample) "Model $2 Shirt." Fitted by patented model. Stylish and substantial. Address Model Shirt Co., 31 South 8th-st., Philadelphia.

THE improvement made in the Elmwood and Warwick Collars this season has largely increased the sale. For those wishing a wide collar, the latter is the ne plus ultra. Don't fail to get it and try it.

ECONOMY, durability and excellence make Rathbone, Sard & Co's cook and heating stoves indispensable to prudent housekeepers.

BOOK agents, read the advertisement of H. L. Shepard & Co., Chicago.

THE NORTHWESTERN HORSE-NAIL CO.'s "Finished" Nail is the best in the world.

How to Look Young—Sixteen.—Don't paint or use vile Hair Restorers, but simply apply Hagan's Magnolia Balm upon your face, neck and hands, and use Lyon's Kathairon upon your hair. The Balm makes your complexion pearly, soft and natural, and you can't tell what did it. It removes freckles, tan, sallowness, ring-marks, moth-patches, etc., and in place of a red, rustic face, you have the marble purity of an exquisite belle. It gives to middle age the bloom of perpetual youth. Add these effects to a splendid head of hair produced by the Kathairon, and a lady has done her best in way of adornment. Brothers will have no spinster sisters when these articles are around.

Dr. Dan'l Weaver, of Boston, fell down a mining shaft near Denver, 76 feet. He was terribly bruised, limbs broken, and supposed to be dead. Mexican Mustang Liniment was freely used, consciousness restored, his life saved, and he came home in eight weeks. This is the most wonderful article for Bruises, Sprains, Rheumatism, Swellings, Spavin, Ringbone, Sores, or any flesh, bone or muscle ailment upon man or beast, ever discovered. It is humanity to animals. It has saved much suffering and many useless doctors' bills. It can be had for 50 cts. and $1.00 per bottle in any drug store. But beware of counterfeits. The genuine is wrapped in a fine steel-plate label, signed "G. W. Westbrook, Chemist."

The People's Stamp of Value.—The government indorsement, which legalizes the sale of PLANTATION BITTERS, is not the only stamp affixed to that famous VEGETABLE TONIC. It bears, in addition to that official sanction, the STILL MORE VALUABLE STAMP OF PUBLIC APPROBATION. This inestimable voucher of its rare properties as a TONIC, CORRECTIVE and ALTERATIVE is world wide.

$7 A DAY. Watches free. Agents send for circular. H. L. SHEPARD & CO., Chicago.

$72 Each Week. Agents wanted. Particulars free. WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

AGENTS WANTED—Men or Women. $34 a week or $100 forfeited. The secret free. Write at once to COWEN & CO., 8th St., New York.

FOR SALE. Good second-hand Portable and Stationary Engines and Boilers, Tubing, Casing etc. Address Bingham & Rich, Oil City, Pa.

$1,000 PER WEEK CAN BE MADE by any smart man who can keep his business to himself. Address D. F. HERMANN, Hoboken, New Jersey.

ADVERTISERS! Send 25 cents to GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., 41 Park Row, New York, for their Pamphlet of 100 pages, containing lists of 3000 newspapers and estimates showing cost of advertising.

Subscription Books choice and elegantly illustrated. Great inducements to Agents. For terms and circulars, address NEW WORLD PUBLISHING CO., Phila.

PAPER PAILS. JENNINGS BROS., manufacturers of the Japanese Paper Ware, 352 Pearl St., New York city. Trade supplied with Spittoons, Bowls, Basins, Slop Jars, Trays, &c.

Local Agents wanted to take orders for writing papers, printed Letter Heads, Envelopes from Merchants, Clergymen, Lawyers, Schools, Families. Terms liberal. For samples address The Empire City Paper Co., Box 4598, N.Y.

HILL'S PAT. HOG RINGER. 15,000,000 Rings. 70,000 Ringers. 3,500 Tongs Sold. Hardware Dealers Sell Them. Ringer $1, Rings per 100 $1.00, Tongs $1.25, by mail, post paid. Circulars free. Address H. W. HILL & CO. Decatur, Ill.

Dreka's Dictionary Blotter.

A Blotting Case with List of over 15,000 Words which writers are liable to spell incorrectly. Send for Descriptive Price List. L. DREKA, 1121 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

FOR NEARLY THIRTY YEARS THE RICHMOND PRINTS have been held in high esteem by those who use a Calico. They are produced in all the novelties of changing fashions, and in conservative styles suited to the wants of many persons. Among the latter are the "Standard Gray Styles," proper for the house or street—beautiful in designs and pleasing in coloring. "CHOCOLATE STANDARD STYLES," in great variety, and widely known as most serviceable prints. Nothing better for daily wear. These goods bear tickets as quoted above. Your retailer should have them, and your examination and approval will coincide.

BOOK AGENTS. We are just issuing a new, startling and entirely novel book by the celebrated Californian, JOAQUIN MILLER. It is entirely original in matter and style, and its name, UNWRITTEN HISTORY, is appropriate and to the point. It is a Novel, yet every word true; a Romance, yet a History in every line; an Indian story, yet a White Man's tale; poetical, yet the most serious prose; a wild, exciting story, full of life and fire and magnificent description. It will sell beyond all rivalry. It is beautifully illustrated with entire new cuts. Our terms to agents for this book are unusually liberal, and we furnish PROSPECTUS and OUTFIT FREE. Branch office opened at Chicago. Send at once for particulars and get choice of territory. Address AMERICAN PUBLISHING CO., 118 Randolph Street, Chicago.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT

Reject All Violent Purgatives. They ruin the tone of the bowels, and weaken the digestion. Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient is used by rational people as a means of relieving all derangements of the stomach, liver, and intestines, because it removes obstructions without pain, and imparts vigor to the organs which it purifies and regulates. Sold by all druggists.

AMERICAN MEAT AND VEGETABLE CHOPPER.

Five Years' Constant Use has proved the superiority of the AMERICAN Over all other Choppers. Sold by dealers everywhere. For Descriptive Circular and Price List address, D. A. NEWTON & CO., 110 Chambers Street, New York.

THE SONG MONARCH! A new and most interesting book for SINGING CLASSES. Full of melodious Songs, Duets, Glees and 4-part Songs, all easy and perfectly adapted to a Singing School course, but at the same time forming a collection well suited for the use of College and other Choirs, Singing Societies, &c. By H. R. Palmer, assisted by L. O. Emerson. Price, 75 Cents. Per Doz., $7.50.

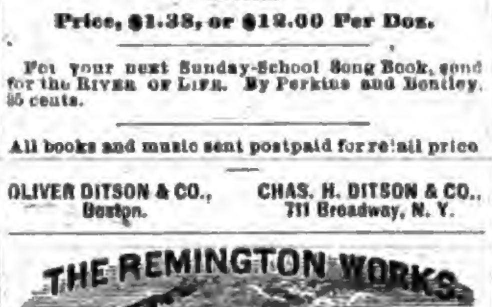
A most attractive Piano Piece: SOUVENIR DE LIMA, MAZOURKA, $1.00. One of the "POSTHUMOUS WORKS OF L. M. GOTTSCHALK."

THE LEADER!! A new and excellent collection of music for CHOIRS, CONVENTIONS, and SINGING CLASSES. Prepared by those most successful composers, H. R. Palmer, of Chicago, and L. O. Emerson, of Boston. Price, $1.38, or $12.00 Per Doz.

For your next Sunday-School Song Book, send for the RIVER OF LIFE. By Perkins and Bentley. 35 cents.

All books and music sent postpaid for retail price

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston. CHAS. H. DITSON & CO., 711 Broadway, N. Y.



THE REMINGTON WORKS.

THE NEW IMPROVED REMINGTON Sewing Machine. AWARDED THE "MEDAL FOR PROGRESS," AT VIENNA, 1873. THE HIGHEST ORDER OF "MEDAL" AWARDED AT THE EXPOSITION. No Sewing Machine Received a Higher Prize.

A FEW GOOD REASONS:

1.—A New Invention, THOROUGHLY TESTED and secured by Letters Patent.
2.—Makes a perfect LOCK STITCH, alike on both sides, on all kinds of goods.
3.—Runs LIGHT, SMOOTH, NOISELESS and RAPID—best combination of qualities.
4.—DURABLE—Runs for Years without Repairs.
5.—Will do all varieties of Work and Fancy Stitching in a superior manner.
6.—Is Most Easily Managed by the operator. Length of stitch may be altered while running, and machine can be threaded without passing thread through holes.
7.—Design Simple, Ingenious, Elegant, forming the stitch without the use of Cog-Wheel Gears, Rotary Cams or Lever Arms. Has the Automatic Drop Feed, which insures uniform length of stitch at any speed. Has our new Thread-Controller, which allows easy movement of needle-bar and prevents injury to thread.
8.—CONSTRUCTION most careful and FINISHED. It is manufactured by the most skillful and experienced mechanics, at the celebrated Remington Armory, Ilion, N.Y. New York Office, No. 6 Madison Square (Kurtz's Building). BRANCH OFFICES: 237 State St., Chicago, Ill.; 181 West Fourth St., Cincinnati, O.; 35 Niagara St., Buffalo, N. Y.; 332 Washington St., Boston, Mass.; 810 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.; 10 Sixth St., Pittsburgh, Pa.; 258 West Jefferson St., Louisville, Ky.; DeGives Opera House, Marietta St., Atlanta, Ga.; 607 North Fourth St., Saint Louis, Mo.; Corner of North Pearl & Steuben Sts., Albany, N. Y.

$5 to $20 per day at home. Terms free. Address GEO. STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

OUR NEW "LADIES' FRIEND"—contains 7 articles needed by every Lady—Patent Spool Holder, Scissors, Thimble, &c.—guaranteed worth $1.50. Sample Box, by mail, 50 cents. Agents wanted. PLUMB & CO., 108 S. 8th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

WE WANT AGENTS AGENTS AGENTS AGENTS AGENTS FOR OUR Adjustable Threshold in every town and city in the United States. It sells well and is just what every house needs. It is the only invention in the world that will positively prevent rain, cold, snow and dust from coming under door bottoms. Carpenters make lots of money handling it. Send at once for our circular. WILSON, PEIRCE & Co., Sole Manufacturers, 189 Clark St., Chicago.

JOHN PAUL'S BOOK. AGENTS READ THIS! John Paul is one of the brightest of our humorists, and it is very safe to predict that his book will be a remarkably entertaining one.—Springfield Republican.

The book has been demanded by a public clamor too sonorous to be disregarded.—N. Y. Tribune.

Was it Shakespeare or Bacon who said of John Paul's new book, "There's magic in the web of it?" —N. Y. Graphic.

John Paul's book will be a clever one, for its author touches nothing that he does not adorn.—Brooklyn Argus.

It will be a pleasant, attractive volume.—Harper's Weekly.

For an agency for this book, address COLUMBIAN BOOK CO., 118 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

NEW MUSIC BOOKS. THE MORNING STAR! For Choirs, Singing Schools, Conventions, etc. By D. F. HODGES and G. W. FOSTER, Authors of the "Sacred Crown," etc. COMPRISING 1. Musical Notation. 2. Vocal Culture. 3. Four-Part Songs. 4. Hymn Tunes. 5. Anthems and Chants. 6. Standard Tunes. Price $1.00. Sample copy sent postpaid on receipt of $1.00.

"A Needed Book in Every Choir." THE ANTHEM OFFERING! New Anthems, Sentences, Motets and Chants. For opening and closing public worship. By D. F. HODGES, G. W. FOSTER and J. H. TENNEY. Price $1.00. Sample copy sent postpaid on receipt of 75 cents. LEE & SHEPARD, Publishers, Boston.

NO POSTPONEMENT! GRAND MUSICAL JUBILEE AND GIFT CONCERT, AT SIOUX CITY, IOWA, Positively Thursday, Nov. 26th, 1874. $100,000 IN CASH And Valuable Real Estate Will be distributed among the ticket holders. Only 65,000 tickets will be issued—a large portion of these already sold. People's Scheme. Net profits to go to Chamber of Commerce, Fire and Militia Companies, and the Public Library of Sioux City. Single Tickets, $5; Two for $8. Reliable agents wanted. Liberal commissions allowed. Send for tickets, terms or circulars to N. HATTENBACH & CO., Sioux City, Iowa.

ANOTHER CHANCE. FIFTH AND LAST GIFT CONCERT IN AID OF THE Public Library of Kentucky. POSTPONED TO NOVEMBER 30, 1874. Drawing Certain at that Date.

LIST OF GIFTS.

One Grand Cash Gift		$250,000
One Grand Cash Gift		100,000
One Grand Cash Gift		75,000
One Grand Cash Gift		50,000
One Grand Cash Gift		25,000
5 Cash Gifts,	$20,000 each	100,000
10 Cash Gifts,	14,000 each	140,000
15 Cash Gifts,	10,000 each	150,000
20 Cash Gifts,	5,000 each	100,000
25 Cash Gifts,	4,000 each	100,000
30 Cash Gifts,	3,000 each	90,000
50 Cash Gifts,	2,000 each	100,000
100 Cash Gifts,	1,000 each	100,000
240 Cash Gifts,	500 each	120,000
500 Cash Gifts,	100 each	50,000
19,000 Cash Gifts,	50 each	950,000

Grand total 20,000 Gifts, all cash. $2,500,000

PRICE OF TICKETS.

Whole Tickets	$50.00
Halves	25.00
Tenth, or each Coupon	5.00
11 Whole Tickets for	500.00
22½ Tickets for	1,000.00

For Tickets and information, address THO. E. BRAMLETTE, Agent and Manager, Public Library Building, Louisville, Ky.

THE ORIGINAL AMERICAN TEA CO. will send you direct any quantity of Tea you require, per U. S. Mail, without any extra charge. To insure prompt delivery, direct to the President of the Company, thus: "ROBERT WELLS, 43 Vesey St., N. Y., P. O. Box 1287." Agents wanted everywhere.

BOOK AGENTS get Best Book and Best Terms. Send for circulars. "Cyclopedia of Things Worth Knowing, or 25,000 Wants supplied." The King of Receipt Books. 16-color Chromo free. Co-operative Pub. Co., Cincinnati, O., or Muscatine, Iowa.

CUSHING'S MANUAL Of Parliamentary Practice. Rules of proceeding and debate in deliberative assemblies. An indispensable hand-book for every member of a deliberative body, and the authority in all the States. "The most authoritative expounder of American parliamentary law."—Chas. Sumner. Price 50 cents. Sent by mail on receipt of price. Address THOMPSON, BROWN & CO., Boston, Mass.

WANTED AGENTS $10 PER DAY. To sell the HOME SHUTTLE SEWING MACHINE. PRICE $25. Reader!! you can make money selling the "HOME SHUTTLE," whether you are EXPERIENCED in the business or not. If you wish to buy a SEWING MACHINE for family use, our circulars will show you how to save money. Address JOHNSON, CLARK & Co., CHICAGO, ILL.

Clarke's New Method for Piano-Forte. Endorsed by the Musical, Educational and general Press, and by Good Teachers, to be Beyond all Comparison the Best to be had at Book and Music stores. Sent by Mail, Price, $3.75. LEE & WALKER, 922 Chestnut St., PHILADELPHIA.

BECKWITH $20. Portable Family Sewing Machine, ON 30 DAYS' TRIAL. We will send to any address, C. O. D., one of our machines with privilege of examination before taking out of Express office; and if it does not give satisfaction we will refund the money, less Express charges, on return of machine within the time specified. Beckwith Sewing Machine Co. New York: 862 Broadway. Chicago: 231 Wabash Ave.

Shake Go through the Ague performance day after day, till all your vitality is used up and your health permanently ruined—or take a bottle of Burn Kress Fever Tonic, Sweat and break up the fearful malady at once. Cases of Ague warranted by the Kress Manufacturing Co. Cincinnati, O.

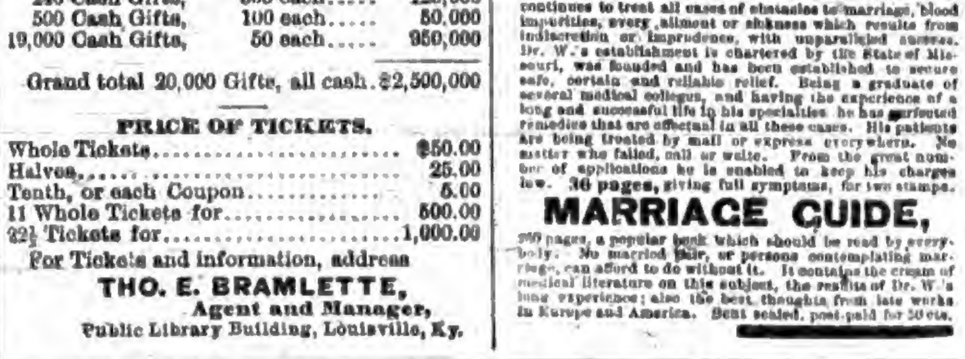
YAWN The Ague uses up the vital forces faster than any other complaint—don't allow it to run on, but break it up in time. STRETCH Try this remedy. Kress FEVER Tonic. contains a box of Pills FREE in each wrapper and is warranted to cure SHAKE AGUE. This remedy is manufactured by Kress Manufacturing Co. Cincinnati, O.

MARRIAGE GUIDE An interesting illustrated work of 260 pages, containing valuable information for those who are married or contemplate marriage. Price 50 cts. by mail. Address Dr. Butts' Dispensary, 12 North Eighth Street, St. Louis, Mo.

DR. WHITTIER, No. 617 St. Charles Street, St. Louis, Mo., continues to treat all cases of obstacles to marriage, blood impurities, every ailment or sickness which results from indiscretion or imprudence, with unparalleled success. Dr. W.'s establishment is chartered by the State of Missouri, was founded and has been established to secure safe, certain and reliable relief. Being a graduate of several medical colleges, and having the experience of a long and successful life in his specialties, he has perfected remedies that are effectual in all these cases. His patients are being treated by mail or express everywhere. No matter who failed, call or write. From the great number of applications he is enabled to keep his charges low. 36 pages, giving full symptoms, for two stamps.

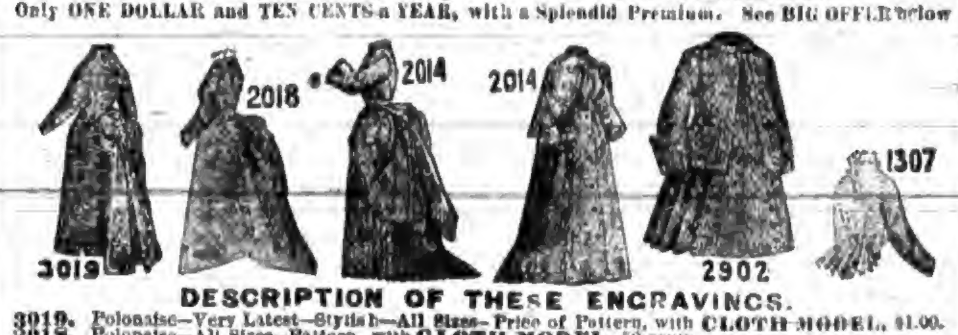
MARRIAGE GUIDE, 260 pages, a popular book which should be read by everybody. No married pair, or persons contemplating marriage, can afford to do without it. It contains the cream of medical literature on this subject, the results of Dr. W.'s long experience; also the best thoughts from late works in Europe and America. Sent sealed, post-paid for 50 cts.

FASHIONS. "Smith's Illustrated Pattern Bazaar." The ONLY Magazine that IMPORTS STYLES and SELLS Patterns of them. Only ONE DOLLAR and TEN CENTS a YEAR, with a Splendid Premium. See BIG OFFER below



DESCRIPTION OF THESE ENGRAVINGS.

3019. Polonaise—Very Latest—Stylish—All Sizes—Price of Pattern, with CLOTH MODEL, $1.00.
2018. Polonaise—All Sizes—Pattern, with CLOTH MODEL, 50 cents.
2014. Magic Costume—Unique—Three Suits in one—Pattern, with CLOTH MODEL, 50 cents.
1307. Lady's Waist—Latest Design—All Sizes—Pattern, with CLOTH MODEL, 50 cents.
2902. Boy's Suit—Sizes, 2 to 6 years—Pattern, with CLOTH MODEL, 30 cents.



2515. Lady's Coat Waist—All Sizes—Pattern, with CLOTH MODEL, 25 cents.
2815. Greek Overskirt—Beautiful—Pattern, with CLOTH MODEL, 25 cents.
1216. Lady's Overskirt—Latest and Most Stylish—Pattern, with CLOTH MODEL, 50 cents.
2915. Basque Cloak—Surpasses all Others—All Sizes—Pattern, with CLOTH MODEL, 50 cents.
2901. Lady's Walking Coat or Jacket—All Sizes—Pattern, with CLOTH MODEL, 25 cents.

We give a perfect CLOTH MODEL with every pattern, which shows just how to put the garment together, after being cut by the pattern. They are PERFECT GUIDES.

Any Pattern on this page mailed upon receipt of marked price.

Smith's "Instant Dress Elevator."

THIS CUT shows how beautifully a LONG Skirt is changed to a Straight Front Walking Dress by the Instant Elevator. You can raise your skirt while passing a muddy place, and then let it fall or you can keep it raised. It keeps the skirt from the FILTH. IT LOOPS the skirt in a TASTEFUL and FASHIONABLE MANNER. It saves more than TEN TIMES ITS COST, besides being CONVENIENT, Neat, and GRACEFUL. It can be changed from ONE DRESS to ANOTHER in LESS than TWO MINUTES. YOU NEED BUT ONE FOR A DOZEN DRESSES. Price, 35 cents each.

WHOLESALE For $2 worth of Patterns at the marked price send $1.50. For $3 worth send $2.25. For $4 worth send $3. The person who sends $3 for $4 worth of patterns, will be entitled to the Bazaar for one year FREE, without premium.

SUBSCRIBE NOW FOR Smith's Illustrated Pattern Bazaar, Only One Dollar and Ten Cents a Year, And a splendid PREMIUM to each Subscriber FREE!

☞ Any TWO of the above patterns and Smith's Instant Dress Elevator will be mailed FREE, as Premium, OR ONE Dollars' worth of Patterns FREE, to be selected after you receive your Magazine; OR one of the following beautiful OIL CHROMOS—"EASTER HOLIDAY," OR "LITTLE SISTERS," OR "MARY AND HER PET LAMB," OR the "MATRON," OR "UNWELCOME VISITOR." These Chromos are widely known, and SELL READILY for from $5 to $6 each, being considered the finest pictures in the chromo art.

GET UP A CLUB! We will give one Chromo extra to the person who sends us three subscribers ($3.00 and nine stamps for postage on Chromos and rollers) at one time. We will give two Chromos extra for five subscribers. We will give three Chromos extra for seven subscribers. We will give four Chromos extra for eight subscribers. Each Subscriber must send three stamps to pay return postage on Chromo and for rollers.

MAKE MONEY WE GIVE AWAY $1,350.00 in Gold Coin to 50 PERSONS who get up the largest club for the Bazaar between NOW and First of FEBRUARY. The person who gets up the LARGEST CLUB will get $175.00 in gold coin, AND a PREMIUM on EVERY SUBSCRIBER SENT IN. Next largest, $125.00 in gold coin, etc., etc. We gave $1,000 in gold on last BAZAAR to 30 persons, whose names and addresses will be found in this BAZAAR, with the number that each one sent. Get a copy and see. Sample copy mailed for 25 cents. "Smiths' Instruction Book," or "Secrets of Dress-making, 15 cents. Catalogue mailed for one Stamp.

Address, very plain, P. O. BOX 5055. A. BURDETTE SMITH, 914 Broadway, New York City.

VINEGAR BITTERS PURELY VEGETABLE FREE FROM ALCOHOL DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

R. H. McDONALD & CO., Druggists and Gen. Agts., San Francisco, California, and cor. of Washington and Charlton Sts., N. Y. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers.

$25 PER DAY Commission or $30 a week Salary, and expenses. We offer it and will pay it. Apply now. G. Webber & Co., Marion, O.

DR. A. G. OLIN HAPPY RELIEF. Don't despair! Read the cream of medical literature! Thirty years among the afflicted; thousands saved from an early grave; lost vitality; nervous weakness; who may marry; why not; lost memory; impaired health. Thirty lectures delivered at Chicago Medical Institute, price 50 cts. Consultation free. Cures guaranteed. Address or call on DR. A. G. OLIN, 187 Washington-st., Chicago, Ill. Pleasant home for patients. All correspondence confidential.

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS, please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

How Grant Britain Does It.

[Chicago Times.]

Grant Britain has a refusing method of adjusting her difficulties with foreign powers. She does not follow the example of the United States and send a few commissioners to inquire into indignities offered to her subjects which commissioners are almost certain to be booted out of the country. Instead she sends a man of war carrying from forty to a hundred guns, shotted to the mouth, to investigate the complaint. It is noticeable that prompt redress is always offered for indignities to British subjects while Americans are snubbed on every posible occasion. This may be because of the different methods of investigation or it may be an illustration of the relative standing of the two nations. Grant Britain has just sent another man of war to investigate certain grievances of British subjects at the hands of the Spaniards in the Sooloo archipeligo. It is safe to say that the vessle will not have to fire a gun, for the authorities will get down to their marrow bones and make all necessary apologies for their insults.

Story of Italian Brigandage.

[New York Herald.]

A low sized, dark looking man whose name is starte to be Hegeloadi Giacommo, alias Ciccarielli, was yesterday brought before Commissioner Kenneth G White under a warrant of extradition on a charge of having formed part of a gange of brigands infesting the neighborhood of Naples for the purpose of kidnapping people and taking ransoms for their release. The prisoner among other acts of brigandage, is specifically charged with having, in 1867 captured a young man named Giusseppe Avigilans and his brother-inlaw and taking them both off to the woods. In a few days after Avigilan's brother-in-law was released with instructions to go to Avigilan's father and tell him that his son would be released on a payment of $3,000, and if this amount was not paid the young man would be put to death.—The money was not paid, and the brigands, true to their threat, shot Giuseppe and buried him in the woods. The prisoner claims to be the person for whom the Italian government has been looking and says that his name is Angelo Antonio. If the facts alleged against the prisoner be true it would seem that the Italian authorities are extremely inefficient in repressing a discription of crime which is a disgrace to their country and a scandle to the enlightenment of the nineteenth century. The prisoner says he has been out of town for the last two months, and that he had been here scarcely fortyeight hours previous to his arrest. He was apprehended by Officer Benjamin Tasaro, on Friday night, at 67 Sulllvan street.—When the prisoner was brought before Commissoner White a warrant for his commitment was made out, the Commissioner informing him that, if he was not able to pay for legal assistance he would assign counsel to defend him and that he be allowed facility for communication with his friends for the purpose of conducting his defence.

It seemes that the young man at the moment of their capture, were employed on a farm irrigating a field of Indian corn. They were suddenly bounded upon by the brigands six in number, the prisoner as alleged, being one of them. The young men were bound with ropes and taken off to woods, as already discribed. The examination before the Commissioner wil take place to-morrow.

◆

If a taller candle be placed in a gun and shoot at a door it will go through without sustaining any injury, and if a musket ball be fired into water, it will not only rebound, but be flattened as if fired against a hard substance.—A musket ball may be fired thorough a pane of glass, making a hole the size of the ball, without cracking the glass if the glass be suspended by a thread will not even vibrate. In the artic regions, when the themometer is below zero, persons can converse more than a mile distant. Dr. Janieson asserts that he heard every word of a sermon at a distance of two miles. A mother has been heard distinctly talking to her child on a still day, across a water a mile wide.

◆

The pride of mankind is great. A night or two ago, a family in New York was awakened by an unusual noise in the house, and on turning ount saw eldest hopeful rushing about it his suspenders, brandishing a new Wesson, and shouting, "There is a man in the house !" A long search failed to show any foundation for the young man's warlike demonstration, when he mildly informed the breathless and exhausted tribe that it was his birthday He was twenty-one.

◆

The wicked flea. "It ain't so much the biting, if only the plaguey thing wouldn't keep getting up and sitting down all the time." Exactly.

◆

Education is the placing of the growing human creature in such circumstances of direction and restraint as shall make the most of him, or enable him to make the most of himself. —John Grote.

◆

There is a wide difference between battle scarred and badly scarred veterans, although the latter generally claim all the honor after a fight.

MERCHANTS
National Bank!
FORT WAYNE, IND.
Capital and Surplus $112.000

Receives Deposits, Discounts Business Paper, issues Letters of Credit, and Collects at all points at the lowest rates of exchange.

Directors:
S. CARY EVANS, R. C. ROBERTSON,
H. C. HANNA, N. P. STOCKBRIDGE
A. C. DAWSON.

Organized 1865. April 9, '71

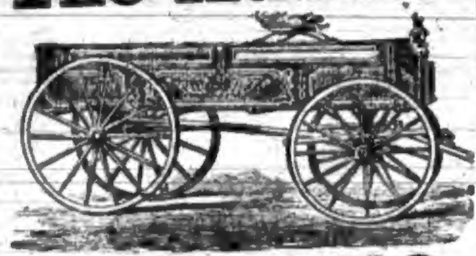
AUBURN LIVERY
—AND—

SALE STABLE!

Ryan & Mader, pro's

Having on hand everything in the line of
Carriages, Buggies, Wagons, etc
they are prepared to furnish rigs at all times at reasonable prices. Office at Auburn House.

The Auburn



WAGONS

Made from the Best Materials,
And constructed with all the late improvements—
The new and extensive WAGON SHOPS
—OF—
J. W. SHAFFER
South Main Street
are now in full running order and all orders for
WAGONS, BUGGIES, &c.
promptly attended to. Special care taken in getting the best Seasoned Timber. Our prices are very reasonable and we solicit the public to give us a call and ascertain our prices.

PIONEER

STORE!

HARDWARE

FOR EVERYBODY.

PLOWS, & Points

PLOWS

FOR EVERYBODY!

STOVES

FOR EVERYBODY!

Building Material for Everybody!

Go to

JOHN L. DAVIS,

IN THE BRICK BLOCK

V. A. BEARD

Oldest Grocer in Auburn, North of Court House on Seventh Street,
DEALER IN
GROCERIES and PROVISIONS.
TEAS, COFFEES, SUGGARS, SALT FISH.
Flour and Feed, Tubs Pails, Buckets, Sugars Boxes, Etc. A large variety of
TOBACCOS AND CIGARS,
Confectioneries of all kinds, and Fancy Notions, Cove Oysters, &c.
A speciality in Green and Dried Fruits, and Canned Fruits. Goods delivered inside the corporation.

DRY GOODS

GEO. DeWALD & CO.

WHEN LOOKING FOR BARGAINS
—IN—
Dry Goods or Notions,
CALL AT THE STORE OF
Geo. DeWald & Co
No 107 Columbia St., Ft. WYNE,
Where can be found a large assortment of
STAPLE AND FANCY GOODS
which will be sold LOW for cash.
ASK FOR THE "HATTIE" CORSET
The best thing in the market, is made glove-fitting, and of the best material, and in order to introduce, we are offering
ONE DOLLAR
THIS IS A BARGAIN!!

T. B. TOTTEN
DEALER IN
Hats, Caps,
AND GENTS'
Furnshing Goods!
Ladies' and Gents' HAND VALISES
MODERWELL & FOWLER'S FINE SHIRTS
Made to Order.
Paper and Envelopes, Choice CIGARS & TOBACCO
Also a specialty in Jas. Harper & Co's.
SILK HATS,
and old styles made new as ever
BY CALLING ON T. B. TOTTEN.
In Hebel's Corner

AUBURN
Meat Market.
Eighth St. Next Door to Bakery.

M. Houston having purchased the interest of M. Long in this popular stand is now ready to supply the public a good article of fresh meat of all kinds, in the best style at the lowest prices.

Auburn Bakery!
AND
EATING HOUSE
BAKER BROS.
PROPRIETORS OF
Fresh baked Pies, Cakes etc, always on hand. Good lunches served at all hours.
BAKER BROS.

A NEW STORE!
With an entire stock of
NEW GOODS!

BOOTS & SHOES

at the lowest PRICES.

J. E. WOODFORD,

has located at Auburn with a fine new stock of BOOTS & SHOES, which will be sold at the lowest figures for

CASH ONLY

Call and examine this bran new stock, as there are no old goods that have been on the shelf for years. Store on Main street opposite Finke's residence, Auburn, Ind.

J. J. VanAuken,
COUNTY SURVEYOR.
Will attend promptly to all surveying. Office with Rose & Hartman, Auburn Indiana. Persons requesting work by letter should give township section.

FALL AND WINTER
CLOTHING!

S. Lauferty

FURNISHING STORE!

You will find the best selected stock and at prices that defy competition. You can get a nice suit of Sam, from

$6 UPWARDS!

I also keep on hand nice fine stock of Woolen and White

SHIRTS!

which will be sold at prices as low as any other place, Ft Wayne not excluded. You find the best assortment of which you can get at my store for less than you are aware of as I can say what the most of my competers cannot, as I am now engaged in all the above line of goods for the last 20 years I have paid a good tuition which others will have to pay yet, and this will be the best assurance that S. Lauferty can sell you his line of goods for less than any other house around or about. I also keep in connection with the above, a fine and well selected stock of Plain and Fancy French English, German and Domestic

Hats & Caps!

Cassimeres

Broad Cloth and Vestings. have also engaged one of the bes Tailors west of New York or east of Chicago. All I ask is to come and examine my stock and prices and I will assure you will buy of me and go home well pleased and satisfied. I sell now strictly for Cash. S. LAUFERTY.

The Newest & Best
The Mammoth Hos e.
19 WEST MAIN-ST.,
FORT WAYNE, IND.

M. E. Woodward!
Has just received the finest and largest stock of Clothing,
PIECE GOODS, ETC.
at his new store, ever in the place.
NO OLD GOODS!
Gents Furnishing Goods, Boys &c. Don't fail to see the new store.

Dr. King's New Discovery!
FOR CONSUMPTION!

THE GREATEST
DISCOVERY OF THE AGE.

THE ONLY SURE CURE FOR CONSUMPTION
Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, and all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs!
THIS IS THE ONLY REMEDY
of the kind sold under a Positive Guarantee.—All persons suffering with any of the diseases for which this Wonderful Remedy!!
Is recommended, are requested to call at
F. E. Davenport & Co.
DRUG STORE, AUBURN, IND.
and get a sample bottle free of charge, which will convince the most skeptical of its really extraordinary merits, and show you what a regular One Dollar size bottle will do. April 16

THE FRUIT HOUSE PRICES

Headquarters for the Grangers.

They are just the customers we want to deal with. we will guarantee them No Middlemen shall eat the profits between them and us. We Retail all goods at Wholesale Prices, all our Teas, Coffees, Sugars, Spices, &c., are purchased direct of the Manufactures and Importers and as we sell direct to the consumers, whereas Middlemen add 50 per cent. to the cost. Some goods, say tea, the Importer sells to the Jobber at 10c per lb profit, the Jobber sells to the wholesale merchants 15c per lb profit, the wholesale merchant resells to the retail merchant at 20c per lb profit then then the retail merchant sells to the consumer at 25 to 50c per lb profit Just as he gets it. All these intermediate profits we give our customers, and this is the secret of our immense tea trade. So with all goods we handle. We sell goods to save the profits of Middlemen

TEAS TEAS TEAS.

We still keep up our reduction of 15c per pound, our best $1.10, it is equal to any $1.50 tea, we have all grades from 30c to 1.10, all warranted.

Young Hyson	30, 50, 60, 80 best $1.10
Imperial	40, 70, 80 110
Gunpowder	60, 80 110
Oolong	30, 40, 60 best 95
Uncolored Japan	40, 60 best 90

COFFES.
Reduced 3 Cents.

Best Rio	25c
2nd best	25c
Roasted Coffee	30c

RAISINS, &C.

Choice Raisins	15c
Currants best,	10c
Citron Leghorn	40c
Orange Peel	35
Shelled Almonds per lb	40
All kind of nuts, filberts, per lb	16
Brazil nuts	12½

In casks of Prunes purchased at bankrupt sale at 7c per lb. This is the cheapest ever offered

CANDIES.

Stick per pound	20c
French candies mixed	25c
Other candies	20 to 30c

OILS.

Coal Oil, per gallon	20c
Rose Oil	20c
Headlight Oil	25c
Fish Oil	$100
Lard Oil	110
Neafs Foot	$1.00
Machine Oil	70c

LIQUORS.

New Whisky per gallon	90c
1 Year old	$1.25
2 Year old	1.75
3 Year sold '76	2.50 and 3.00
Port and Chery Wine	1.50 and 2.50
Currant and wild grape	35c
Gin and brandy	1.50 and 2.50

FRUITS.

Canned Peaches	20c
Tomatoes	18c
Yarmouth Suga Corn	25c
Peas	20c
Blackberries	20c
Green Gages	30c

SYRUPS.

Cuba per gal	35c
Extra Golden Syrup	50c
Sugar Loaf Drips	75, 85 and $1.00

OYSTERS.

Fresh O. K.	22c
Frying	35c

FISH, FISH.

No. 1 White Fish	8c per lb or $6.00 half bar
No. 2 "	per ½ Bbl $4.00

Choice lot of Spring catch No. 1 Pickeral $,100 ½ Bbls $5,00.

No. 2, 5c. Family Mackerel per kt $1 60, and per pound 8 and 10c
Cured Hams per pound 16c Shoulders per poumd
12½ Pickeled Pork per lb 14c

COFFE EREDUCED 8cts.

SUGARS.

Crushed and Powdered	12c	Granlated	12c
Coffee A	11c	Brown	08c

Woodenware, Pails, &c.

No. 1 Tubs $1.00, No. 2. 80c, No. 3 75c, No. 1 Churns 90c, No. 2 80c No. 3 70c. Pails 3 hoops 23c, 2 hoops 18c. Wooden Butter Spoons 10c. Butter Ladles 12½c. Butter Molds 35c, Half Bushel Measuret, Pecks, &c.

TOBACCOS REDUCED 5 CTS. PER POUND.

Five Brothers best, 60 cts.; Choice Navy, 40; Fine cut, 40, 60 best 90 cts Shorts, 30cts.; Smoking 25 best 30cts.

Snuff for all nations. Scotch, French, Rapee, Maccoboy and German, all at 70cts. per pound.

Twenty-five cents on the Dollar Saved
—AT THE—
FORT WAYNE FRUIT HOUSE.

W. and E. STEVENS,

Carriage & Buggy Builders
Fort Wayne, Indiana.
The public is respecfully requested to examine our stock of
CARRIAGES, BUGGIES, PHAETONS, &C., &C.
We keep constantly on hand a large assortment of work ready for the road. We WARRANT OUR WORK
and guarantee to give entire satisfaction. Prices as low as any other House in the trade.
Manufactory on Clay-st, east end of Main

Auditors Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY AND TO THE COLLECTION OF LOCAL AND GENERAL NEWS

Vol. 4. Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, November 12, 1874. No. 46.

ROSE & HARTMAN

LAW, ABSTRACT AND COLLECTION OFFICE!

All legal business promptly attended to in DeKalb and adjoining counties. Have the only

ABSTRACT OF TITLE

to REAL ESTATE in the county. They contain Deeds and Mortgages made before the organization of the county and not on the county records, as well as all those made and recorded since. Written abstracts and opinions of title furnished. No one should invest in land without examining the Title.

OFFICE OPP. SWINEFORD HOUSE

S. W. Cor. Public Square. AUBURN, INDIANA.

The Auburn Weekly Courier

Published every Thursday, by

TOM. C. MAYS.

OneYear,...... $1. | SixMonths...... $1.

Advertising Rates.

	1m.	3m.	6 m.	1 y.
One Square	2 50	5 00	7 00	12 00
¼ Column..........	6 00	12 00	18 00	30 00
½ Column..........	10 00	16 00	30 00	50 00
1 Column	15 00	30 00	50 00	100 00

Local Notices 10cents per line, first insertion; 5cents each insertion thereafter. Business Cards 6 dollars.

Business Cards.

DR. J. A. COWAN,

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office on Main street, over Central Grocery.

AMERICAN HOUSE,

AT FORT WAYNE, only $2 a day. Good accommodations for traveling men.
J. P. JONES, Pro'r.

Joseph H. Stophlet.

ARCHITECT. Office over No. 17 Court street 1st door north of Empire Line office, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Drawings and specifications furnished for all classes of buildings, at reasonable rates.

GUY PLUM,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office in the Court House. Special attention paid to the collection of claims. Also agent for Home Insurance Company.

Medical Society.

OF DeKALB COUNTY, meets at Auburn, Ind., the 2nd Tuesday in each month.
J. H. FORD, Pres't.
J. A. COWAN, Sec'y.

J. W. RICKEL,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and Notary Public, Auburn, Ind. Office in the Court House.

W. R. HORNISH,

FASHIONABLE TAILOR Suits gotten up in the most nobby styles. One door west of the Swineford Hotel.

A. F. PINCHIN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public, Butler, DeKalb Co., Ind. Insurance and real estate business promptly attended to.

H. C. PETERSON,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office over Davis' hardware store, Auburn, Ind.

SWINEFORD HOUSE.

CORNER MAIN AND NINTH STREETS, opposite the Court House. S. C. SWINEFORD, Pro.

J. J. LITTLEFIELD,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. Office over Miller and Casebeer's Store, Auburn, Indiana.

DRS. SEBRING & GRAHAM.

PARTNERS in the practice of Medicine. Office in Shaffer's brick building, second story, Main street, Auburn, Ind.

G H. K. MOSS. P. V. HOFFMAN

MOSS and HOFFMAN,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW and Notaries Public Butler, Ind. Special attention given to collections. Also buy and sell Real Estate.

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office first door to right, Masonic Hall, over the Shoe Store of Sprott & Son.

PENFIELD and MOODY,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana.

R. M. and W. C. LOCKHART,

DEALERS IN LUMBER of every description, Waterloo City, Ind. We buy and ship Lumber at the going cash rates, at all times.

McBRIDE and MORLAN,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in any of the courts of the State. Office over O. T. Clark's Dry Goods store.

WOODHULL and CROXTON,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW Angola, Indiana. Practice in Steuben and DeKalb Counties.

CHAS. A. O. McCLELLAN.

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in the Courts of DeKalb and Steuben counties. Liberal Advances Made on all First-class Claims left in my hands for collection.

COURTS IN STEUB N CO.	COURTS IN DEKALB CO.
1st Monday in February	3rd Monday in Feb.
4th Monday in April	2nd Monday in May
1st Monday in September	3rd Monday in Sep.
4th Monday in November	2nd Monday in Dec

H. Wartenslaben

PAINTER and paper hanger. House painting a specialty. Residence corner Williams and Cedar street.

Toledo Business Cards.

Chas. L. Luce. Fred. C. Chapin. James Blass

Luce, Chapin & Blass,

IMPORTERS AND JOBBERS of foreign and domestic dry goods, notions, white goods, &c 132 and 134 Summit street, Toledo, Ohio.

Chris. Gerber. M. O. Waggoner.

C. Gerber & Co.,

WHOLESALE DEALERS in general hardware. Sign of the big jack knife and star ax. 128 Summit and 83 Water streets, Toledo, Ohio.

Geo. Emerson. Pliny Watson. E. C. Phelatt.

Emerson & Co.,

WHOLESALE GROCERS, 142, 144 and 46 Summit street, Toledo, Ohio.

V. Hamilton. E. Goldsmith.

Hamilton & Goldsmith,

COMMISSIO. MERCHANTS, Water street Toledo, Ohi

Ft. Wayne, Muncie & Cin R. R.

Time Table to take effect Sept 5, 1874.

Going South.

Fort Wayne	10 00am	5 00am	1 40pm
Ossian	10 13am		2 22
Bluffton	11 10	3 15	2 50
Keystone	11 30am	9 40	3 20
Montpelier	11 46		3 30
Hartford	12 10pm	4 05	3 56
Eaton	12 30		4 19
Muncie	1 00	4 43	4 53
McCowan's	1 15
New Castle	2 05	4 05
Cam. City	2 26
Bessons	2 54
Connersville	3 10
Indianapolis		7 05	6 50pm
Louisville		1 00pm	11 25am
Cincinnati	6 20

Going North.

Cincinnati	6 45am	pm
Louisville		3 00	11 25
Indianapolis		7 50	3 40
Connersville	10 25
Bessons	10 40
Cam City	11 00
New Castle	11 45pm
McCowans	12 32pm
Muncie	1 00	10 27	5 45am
Eaton	1 21		6 25
Hartford	1 48	11 10	6 51
Montpelier	1 52		7 24
Keystone	2 15		7 35
Bluffton	5 15	12 05am	8 15
Ossian	2 47		8 50
Ft. Wayne	3 25	1 16	9 45

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Gen'l. Supt.

ROBT. RILLIS, Gen'l Ticket Agt.

Ft. Wayne, Jackson & Sag. R. R

Short Line Between

Michigan and the South.

Time card in effect May 24th—run by Chicagotime

Going North.

Stations	Mail	Accom.	Ft W.Acm
Cincinnati..........		6 45	4 30pm
Louisville..........	11 25pm	6 50	3 00
Indianapolis..........	3 40	11 45	7 50
Ft Wayne..........	10 35	5 a.	1 05
Auburn..........	11 34	6 30	1 57
Waterloo..........	11 48	6 35	2 00
Summit..........
Pleasant Lake..........	12 28
Ar Angola..........	12 30	7 37	2 45
Reading..........	1 35	9 30	3 37
Bankers..........	2 10	10 00	3 50
Jonesville..........	2 27	10 33	4 05
Jackson..........	3 40	12 20	5 02
Detroit..........	6 30		8 00
Grand Rapids..........	9 15	5 45	4 40 p
Lansing..........	5 35		8 40
Saginaw..........	8 30		11 35
Bay City..........	9 15		12 23

Going South.

Bay City..........		6 30	3 30
Saginaw..........		7 17	4 05
Lansing..........		10 40	7 40
Grand Rapids..........	10 30 pm	6 30	12 25
Detroit..........		7 00	5 40
Jackson .... Dep	7 20a .m	12 25	9 40
Jonesville..........	8 25	2 20	10 43
Bankers..........	8 42	2 55	11 58
Reading..........	8 56	3 25	11 10
Ar Angola..........	9 56	5 10	12 00
Pleasant Lake..........
Waterloo..........	10 42	6 05	12 42
Auburn..........	10 56	6 25	12 47
Auburn Junction..........			12 50
Fort Wayne, Arrive	11 55	7 50	1 38
Indianapolis..........	6 50 p m		6 45a
Louisville..........	11 25		1 10p
Cincinnati..........	8 40 a m		9 45

W. A. ERNST, Sup

S. K. HOOPER Gen. Ticket Ag't.

BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R

The Shortest and Quickest Route to

WASHINGTON AND BALTIMORE!

The East and Southeast.

CONDENSED TIME TABLE, THRO' TRAINS.

VIA PARKERSBURG, M Y 31 '74	Fast Line.	Express,
	Daily:	Daily.
Lve. Cincinnati..........	9 15 a m	9 30 p m
Arr. Chillicothe..........	1 13 p m	1 10 a m
" Portsmouth..........	5 55	10 20
" Marietta..........	5 25	5 20
" Parkersburg..........	5 30	5 30
Arr. Grafton..........	9 15	9 40
" Oakland..........	11 24	11 34
" Deer Park..........	11 43	11 43
" Cumberland..........	1 50 a m	2 00 p m
" Harper's Ferry..........	5 02	4 56 p m
" Washington..........	7 10	6 50
" Richmond..........	1 30 p m	4 50 a m
" Baltimore..........	8 40 a m	8 20 p m
" Wilmington..........	12 17 p m	1 31 a m
" Philadelphia..........	1 20	2 35
" New York..........	1 15	6 05
" Boston..........	2 50 a m	4 50 p m

VIA BELLAIRE—MAY 31, 1874	Fast Line	Express.
	Daily.	Sun. Ex.
Lve. Columbus..........	11 15 a m	11 45 p m
Arr. Newark..........	12 25 p m	12 50 a m
Lve. Sandusky..........	7 45 a m	7 00 p m
" Monroeville..........	8 25	7 50 p m
" Mansfield..........	10 07	9 51
Arr. Newark..........	12 30 p m	12 45 a m
" Zanesville..........	1 35	1 55
" Bellaire..........	4 50	5 15
" Wheeling..........	5 10 p m	5 45
" Grafton..........	9 05	9 20
" Oakland..........	11 24	11 34
" Deer Park..........	11 43	11 47
" Cumberland..........	1 50 a m	2 00 p m
" Harper's Ferry..........	5 02	4 56
" Washington..........	7 10	6 60
" Richmond..........	1 30 p m	4 50 a m
" Baltimore..........	8 40 a m	8 20 p m
" Wilmington..........	12 17 p m	1 31 a m
" Philadelphia..........	1 20	2 35
" New York..........	5 15	6 05
" Boston..........	5 50 a m	4 50 p m

THOS. P. BARRY, West. pass agt., Cin.
L. M. COLE, Gen'l ticket agt., Bal. Md.
THOS. R. SHARP, Mas. of Tran.

S. U. Tarney

PROPRIETOR

AUBURN MEAT MARKET!

KEEPS ALWAYS ON HAND

Fresh Beef, Pork, Veal, Mutton and Bologna Sausage, clean and sweet. Prices reasonable. Main-st first door north of Miller & Casebeer's store.

DETOIT, EEL RIVER & ILLINOIS Rail Road.

Short Line between Auburn and the East and West.

Trains run on Cleveland time. Through trains will run on the following time. In effect Sunday Sept 27, 1874.

Going East,			Going West.
Way Fr.	Mail	Stations	Mail	Acc'
6 10	10 10 am	Logansport	2 20 p.m	11 5
	9 57	Peoria	6 40
8 10	11 25 am	Denver	1 01	9 37
10 25	12 22 pm	N. Manches'r	12 01	15
1 30	1 07	Col. City	11 09	50
4 50 pm	2 20	Auburn	9 45	4 0
5 40	2 50	ar. Butler l v	9 10	3 30
		Toledo
		Detroit

CONNECTIONS—At Logansport with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St Louis, Logansport, Crawfordsville & Southwestern and Toledo. Wabash & Western R. R's. At Denver with Indianapolis, Peru & Chicago Railway, for Rochester, Plymouth, LaPorte, Michigan City, Peru, Kokomo and Indianapolis At N. Manchester with Cincinnati, Wabash & Mich R'y. At Columbia City with Pittsburg, Ft. W. & Chicago, for Ft Wayne Lima, Crestline and Pittsburgh. At Grand Rapids crossing with Grand Rapids R'y. At Auburn Junction with Ft. Wayne Jackson & Saginaw, for Angola, Jackson and Saginaw R'y, for Butler with Lake Shore & Mich. Southern Caw. Toledo, Detroit and all eastern cities.

J. A. HUGHSTON, Gen. Ticket Agt.
A. B. SOUTHARD, Gen. Supt.

Lake Shore & Mich. Southern R.R

Air Line Division

ON and after Sunday, Nov. 1, 1873 Passenger Trains will leave Waterloo city and other stations as follows, daily except Sunays:

GOING WEST

	Special Ex.	Pacific Ex.	Accom'd'n
Butler..........	2:50 p m.	x 2:25 a m.	7:45 p m
Waterloo	3:05 "	2:43 "	8:06 "
Sedan..........			8:17 "
Corunna..........			8:25 "

GOING EAST.

Corunna..........			6:20 p m
Sedan..........			6:26 "
Waterloo..........	2:35 "	11:36 "	6:36 "
Butler..........	2:55 "	x11:55 a m	7:05 "

Pittsburgh, Ft Wayne & Chicago R.R

ON and after May 31 1874 Trains will leave stations daily, (Sundays excepted) as follow:

Going West.

STATIONS	FAST EX	MAIL.	PAC. EX.	NIGHT EX
Pittsburg	2,00 A M	6,00 A. M	9,40 A M	2,00 P. M.
Rochester	"	7,25 "	10,50 "	3,10 "
Alliance...	5,25 "	11,00 "	1,30 P M	5,50 "
Orrville ...	7,01 "	12,52 P. M	3,15 "	7,26 "
Mansfield.	9,06 "	3,15 "	5,26 "	9,25 "
Crest- ar	9,35 "	3,50 "	6,00 "	9,55 "
line ...lv	9,55 "	5,00 A M	6,30 "	10,05 "
Forest.....	11,13 "	6,32 "	8,25 "	11,29 "
Lima......	12,15P M	8,00 "	9,43 "	12,30 A.
Ft Wayne	2,18 "	10,25 "	12,25 A M	2,55 "
Plymouth	4,24 "	1,38 P. M	3,03 "	5,15 "
Chicago ...	7,50 "	5,25 "	6,50 "	8,50 "

Going East.

STATIONS	MAIL	FAST EX.	PAC, EX.	NIGHT EX
Chicago ...	5,15 A M	9,20 A. M.	5,35 A. M.	10,20 P. M
Plymouth	9,26 "	12,10 P. M.	9,06 "	2,10 A. M
Ft Wayne	12,30 P M	2,38 "	11,50 "	5,20 "
Lima......	2,46 "	4,20 "	1,33 A. M.	7,20 "
Forest.....	4,02 "	5,19 "	2,42 "	8,35 "
Crest- ar	5,50 "	6,45 "	4,20 "	10,20 "
line lv	6,05 A M	7,05 "	4,30 "	10,30 "
Mansfield	6,40 "	7,35 "	4,57 "	11,00 "
Orrville ...	9,13 "	9,28 "	6,45 "	12,52PM
Alliance....	11,20 "	11,05 "	8,35 "	2,35
Rochester	2,10 P M		10,42 "	4,48
Pittsburg	3,30 "	2,05 a m	11,45 A. M.	5,55

F. R. MYERS,
General Passenger and Ticket Agent

Examination of Teachers.

Examinations will be held at Auburn, on the first Saturday in each month, and at Waterloo the last Saturday in each month until further notice. A stamped envelope for the return of license, will be required of each applicant.

JAMES A. BARNS, Co., Supt.

Thomas Baldock

Building Contractor

AUBURN INDIANA.

will be ready at all times with an experienced corps of workmen to erect Houses, Barns, and do carpenter and joiner work of all kinds at reasonable rates.

BRICK FOR SALE

FRITZ GROESCOP.

Having just burned a fine kiln of brick. about one hundred thousand. is now ready to supply all who want good brick at reasonable figures. Residence two miles north of Auburn on the Kutzner road; three miles south west of Waterloo.

John M. Miller,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FINE FURNITURE,

CHAIRS.

Husk & Hair Matrasses

50 and 52 East Main Street,

FORT WAYNE, IND.

J. G. FLEDDERMAN,

No. 27, East Main-St.

FORT WAYNE, IND'A

Has the largest and finest stock of

CLOTHS, COATINGS, CHEVIOTS,

—AND—

CassimereS

in Ft. Wayne. The finest line of

Made up Clothing!

ever shown in Fort Wayne

Youths' and Children's Clothing!

Furnishing Goods, &c.

Merchant Tailoring.

All work done in all the latest styles, promptly attended to. Go and see his largestock of Op

The New Link.

Whatever may be the opinion of certain inland cities at certain times on the subject of railroads, it must be admitted, after is said and done, that the welfare of these same cities is intimately connected with, if not dependent upon these same railroads, and so will be as long as railroads are the veins that circulate the life blood of the country.

Our neighbor, Chicago, is fortunate in having in immediate prospect, a new friend and feeder, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad; that company having just completed their track from a southern point on their Lake Erie Division to Chicago, this being the last link in the Baltimore and Ohio chain, between the city and the tide water

The company has also made extensive improvements on the Marietta & Cincinnati road. Their 'cut off'—a straight line between Athens and Parkersburg—lessens the time between Cincinnati and Baltimore two hours.—The value of such an alteration is obvious to every business man without further comment.

As this great carrier extends one of its long arms in our direction also, an outline of its progress and present condition may be interesting to our readers.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad germinated in 1828, and grew solely out of the demands of a local traffic in the neighborhood of Baltimore.—From that time till the breaking out of the war, its history is one of slow but sure growth, in the course of which it extended its terminal points westward, and improved its terminal facilities eastward, until it became a great 'Trunk Line.'

The war damaged its equipment but did not cripple its energies, nor stop its progress.

The road has in operation a line of seven steamships, runing between Bremen and Baltimore. These land their passengers and baggage at Locust Point, within a few feet of the cars that takes them westward, thus avoiding all expense, delay and confusion of a long omnibus transfer.

The first American sight that astonishes our German friends are the two immense grain elevators of this Company, one of which, just completed, towers 175 feet from tide water to roof, and has capacity for 1,500,000 bushels.

Every possible facility has been provided for the handing of other classes of freight. By means of track extended over the water, coal cars dump their contents directly into the hole of the vessel below, and in the year 1873 more then 2,000,000 tons were thus speedily and economically transferred.

The Company has also displayed excellent judgment in fiting their Road for the passenger traffic. Large and commodious Hotels have been established at convenient points along the line. They have been erected with a view to that increase of business in the future, which past experience has gave them reason to expect, and are tastfully built and carefully managed.

The Passenger Coaches of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad are strug and comfortable, and by no means devid of artistic adornment. Such pleasant surroundings at once put the traveler in the mood to enjoy the scenery for which this Route is so celebrated, and it is wonderfully pleasing, and ever changing panorama of the beautiful, and the historic.

As a natural consequence of its attractions and good management, the financial condition of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad has steadily improved, until to-day it stands pre-eminently a 'solid' road. It has a surplus fund of $29,000,000, and its ranges from 60 to 70 per cent: above yar, therefore it can readily obtain loans upon reasonable terms in European markets, when its rivals cannot secure them at any price. It supports no watered stock, and but a small debt, and hence it finds a profit in carrying passengers and frieght at rate which could not be remunerative to other roads. It extends its track, not by leasing old lines upon terms which must eat up the profits of the investment, nor by purchasing with money obtained on watered stock, or borrowed. Such a financial policy as this could never have made the Baltimore and Ohio R. R. what it is to-day, The Most Successful Trunk Line in the Country.—St. Louis Courier.

* * *

The elections are about all Democratic.

* * *

When the cock and the fox went on board the ark they had no fear of baggage smashers, for one had a comb and the other a brush, and was all the luggage they had between them.

A Careful Country Girl.

A Cincinnati paper says: A blooming country damsel, dressed in the height of fashion came tripping along in company with her beau, and while crossing a street, turned suddenly around to look at a passing object just as the tip of her dainty toe rested on the curbston of the gutter. As she threw the weight of her body on the insufficient foothold, her toe slipped, and plump went her little foot into the dirt, and splash over her stockings and garment went in the mud.

Her gallant speedily helped her on to the sidewalk, where she presented a pitiable appearance, and then endeavored to free her from her sudden acquisition of soil with his hankerchief.

'It's no use, Charley,' sobbed the rural beauty. 'It won't come off clean; and—and—my st sto-stockings are ruined.' 'Never mind the stockings,' consolingly responded her swain: 'I can buy a new pair.' 'Buy me a new pair: where would I put them on?'—said she.' 'Why we can go to the hotel, for that matter,' replyed Charley 'Never!' almost screamed the frightened girl; sooner jump into the river than go to a hotel with a man that I'm not married to.'

Charley seemed conscience stricken as the enormity of his praposition flashed upon his mind, and when last we saw the pair—they were in quest of a clean pair of hose and a proper place to put them on.

* * *

Red Tape.

At the battle of Chickamauga, Gen Willich, commanding a brigade, had by some slight omission incurred the displeasure of General Rosecrans, the commanding general. Gen Willich was sent for, and notified by the Gen, commanding that he could for the present consider himself under strict arrest.

Then come next the following dialogue:

Gen. R.—General consider yourself under arrest, and leave your sword here until your case is tried.'

Gen W—Yes, General, I will consider myself under arrest and shust, [here the Germanic of Gen. W. began to explode), so soon as disfight's over I'll come and fix him up.'

Gen R—But, sir, I want you to consider yourself under arrest now.'

Gen W—'Of course I do; and Shineral Roseciians, as soon as I gets on dis fight, I'll be up and settle dings'

Gen R—But, sir, I can't let you go into this fight. You are under arrest I will assign a commander to your brigade.'

Gen W—You send an office to fight my boys! He can't do it; they dont know him. Me they know, I teach them, I fighs them, and none of the boys would know how to fight or how to do only when I goes with them.—my boys belong to me Yes, me, Shineral Willich. I command the brigade and I must fight the brigade.'

By this time the red tape of Gen. Rosecrans had falied, and Gen Willich was requested to return and 'fight his boys,' which he did to the honor of himself and the cause. And that was the end of it.

* * *

Very Obliging.

Old farmer Pettingill went into his house one morning and caught John, the hired man, hugging Mrs. P.

The farmer said nothing and went out into the field.

After dinner he wanted John for something, but John was not to be found

He went at last into John's room, where the latter was on his knees packing his trunk.

'What's the matter, John? said Mr. P.

'O, nothing,' said John.

'What are you packing your trunk for?'

'I'm going away.'

'Going away! What are you going away for?'

'O, you know,' said John.

'No, I don't know,' rejoined P.—'Come give the reason of your sudden desire to go away.'

'Well?' meekly answered John, 'you saw what I was doing this morning.

'O, pshaw! laughed Pettingill, 'do not be so foolish. If you and I can't hug the old woman enough, I'll hire another man'

* * *

A widow who says that she is the homliest woman in Newport, Kentucky advertises for a husband. He must be middle aged, good natured, but not beautiful, "as I want to love him all myself."

* * *

Try the COURIER, a year.

POKER JACK.

As a rule, carpet-baggers of the south has numbered among his distinctive traits the rankes cowardice and personal poltroonery. He has been adroit at manipulating the votes and moulding the opinions of the colored brother. He has affected religion and philanthropy He has managed to present himself to the gaze of the people of the North in the attitude of a martyr. But he has always been a non-combatant. A whiff of smoke sends him hustling into the nearest Custom House. A half dozen boys out on a fox hunt terrify him into calling for more troops. And so on. This is the sort of carpet baggers we find in Patterson, Moses, Kellogg and Spencer. But the Arkansas carpet baggers is a different breed altogether. He affects neither religion nor philantropy A hardened sinner, he glories in his depravity and scoffs at hypocrisy. But he has nerve and is game. There is McClure, Poker Jack they call him; a perfect type of the Arkansas carpet baggers The best illustration I can give of McClure's character is by discribing an interview between him and Attorney General Williams last winter after the administration had acted in favor of Baxter.

McClure came to Washington with his blue eyes full of blood. The opinion of the Attorney General had struck him in the region of the diagram, and to say he was mad would be to draw it very mild. He went up to the Department of Justice and demanded to see Williams. That functionary received him.

"I am Chief Justice McClure of Arkansas," he begun, "and I have read your opinion on the case recently decided by the President. Now, sir I wish to say that the papers on which you bassed your opinion, and which do you refer to as having been certified to you by the clerk of my court, are either forgot or garbled"

"What do you say sir," asked the astounded Attorney-General. He had been accustomed to the behavior of the lackey on the part of the traditional carpet-bagger, but here was one playing the bully. It was incomprehensible to the Attorney-General.

"I say, sir. replied the imperturbable McClure, that I believe those papers are either forgot or that new matter has been interpolated in them; and I say further, sir, that the reputation of your department and your character of yourself incline me to belief, that these frauds have been enacted in your office, and by your instigation or connivance"

"What do you mean sir?" grasp the breathless Williams."

"I mean just what I say. replied McClure still as cool as a refrigerator and I want to see the originals, of those papers which you claim have certified to you by the clerk of my court."

"I have sent them to the Senate sir said Williams."

"You talk, sir, like a man who is lying said McClure." "In fact, sir, I believe you are lying. Not to put too fine a point upon it, you are a d—d liar sir. Orignal papers are never sent to the Senate in regard to these papers called for copies, and copies were sent. You for fear that I will detect the interpolations that have been perpetrated in your office. I believe you have been brought up in this manner, sir."

At this Williams turned and left the room. His chief clerk then came up to McClure and said: "I regard your remark as a personal insult to myself."

"Go to h—l!" said McClure. "You don't know the differance between an insult and an apology. There is not a man in this department who is capable of resenting anything. Dont talk to me at all, sir."

Then Poker Jack stroked his long board, walk up and down the room a few times and took his leave. Well that is the sort of carpet baggers the people of Arkansas have to deal with Men who know neither scruple, compunction nor fear. They mean to revolutionize the state over again. They are proceeding about it in a very systematic way. And they will make a great deal of trouble before they are disposed of.

* * *

The official democratic majority in Ohio is 17,209. Indiana foots up 17 985.

* * *

A horse raised it the town of Concord, Me. but sold to a person living fifty miles distant, recently got loose and brought up in his old quarters though he had not been there for ten years.

* * *

Twenty one girls of Kenosha, Wis., have "Resolved that if the young men won't come and see us, we will go and see them.

WANTED TO GET MARRIED.

[The following impromptu lines were addressed to a clergyman of this city some days since. Their meaning will probably be plain to most readers:]

Though we never have met with each other—
And your church I did never attend,
Still I claim you in God as a brother,
And shall call you "My dear Christian friend."
Thus to your reverence I send this effusion,
By one who is friendly to me;
I hope it will cause no confusion,
When 'tis opened and money you see.
I know it is but a small offer
For the service I now ask of you;
But it equaled one-fifth in my coffer,
So please not the tender eschew.
When you enter it down in your docket,
Please not at its minuteness scoff.
For if you never have less in your pocket
You will always be "well enough off."

I have lived many years in confusion,
Enjoying (?) single-wretchedness life;
But now I have come to the conclusion
To take to my bosom a wife.
I have found one at last that will suit me,
And I look now upon her with pride;
I hope some good marksman will shoot me
If I don't want to make her my bride.
I asked her one night if "she'd have me?"
She looked up and sweetly did smile,
And this is the answer she made me,
"Yes, darling, if you'll Wait just a while."
The time has been patiently Wait-ed
As o'er time's wings it swiftly did glide,
And "now then" I want to be mated,
And take this young maid as my bride.

hope you'll not Waite, neither tarry,
Nor think of this scrap as a pun,
But come with intentions to marry,"
And make Alice Waite and me one.
I want the knot tied as it should be—
Not tied with a blemish or flaw;
But so lawyers—who troublers would be—
Cannot loose it by flaws in the law.
Then we'll laugh at the wind and the weather,
And will scoff at the storm and the blast;
We will bless God, and love him together,
And a "haven of rest" reach at last,
Where the weary can rest without trouble,
And none need be fearful of death;
Where a lifetime is merely a bubble,
That would perish and be gone at a breath.

And now if I never more meet you,
While we sojourn in this blessed land;
I am in hopes I in Heaven may greet you,
Midst the throng seated near God's right hand.
—Detroit Tribune.

THE MOSS-GATHERER OF MONTEREY.

Twenty years ago Monterey, that quaint, dreamy town of the past, which has never caught the feverish inspiration of the present, was little different from the Monterey of to-day. The wars of the outside world, the king-makings, and revolutions, and discoveries, and inventions, had no power to send a single thrill of interest or excitement through the veins of her somnolent Spanish population. So long as the roses bloomed, and the winter rains made the hills green for the immense herds of cattle which then tenanted the Salinas plains—so long did the people of Monterey, proud of their long stretch of sea-beach, their roses, and the dark beauty of their daughters, take the pleasant afternoon siesta, and dance to the music of the guitar at carnival time. Twenty years ago, as to-day, the cattle roamed through the quiet streets, and the same loving hands that planted feeble rose-cuttings, now, with less of the dimpled molding of yore, cull with the same delicate ease the buds from the mature trees.

On a glorious May dawn in 185-, as the sun crept over the pines that sentinel the hills in the rear of the town, a girl stood on the beach watching the receding tide. As the sunlight silvered the long reach of sands and glistened on the wet rocks, it touched with loving splendor a face of singular beauty, with features as clear cut as a cameo. Juanilla was the daughter of an old whaler who for many years had followed leviathan in the lagoons af Southern California, but an accident caused by the staving-in of a boat made him a cripple, and, except his little adobe homestead and the labor of Juanilla, he had nothing in his old age to depend on. She was a moss-gatherer, who made pretty picture frames of shells and sea-weed, and sold them to the crews of naval and merchant vessels. An early riser was Juanilla. The dawn saw her on the beach when the tide suited her occupation, and the porch of the adobe-cottage was a wilderness of crimson, white and yellow roses. Her beauty was not of the sleepy, indolent sort, so characteristic of the Spanish woman. It had more of the animated grace and lithe, supple vigor of the fisherman's daughters of the British islands.

"Madre de Dios!" said she, softly, as she sprang from the top of a treacherous granite rock to the sands, "how those strangers are carrying off my shells! This beach is being ruined by those people. I shall soon be without material for a single picture-frame."

Now, Juanilla's labors, though Monterey was still slumbering, were not unobserved. A young man stood on the bluff above the beach, looking down in the intensest admiration on the barefooted beauty below. He wore the loose gray clothes of a tourist, and, from the sea-glasses that hung by his side, was evidently out early to observe the sunrise. Clambering down the rocks with a sure-footed ease that indicated the experienced mountaineer, the stranger drew near her, and watched, with an amused expression on his handsome Saxon features, Juanilla's contest with an envious wavelet for the possession of a rare bit of moss. "Bravo!" he cried, as, returning from a successful rush into the spray, she carried off her prize.

The moss-gatherer turned quickly and blushed in the most charming manner imaginable as she hastily arranged the short petticoat which clung limp and lovingly to her pretty ankles. The stranger took off his hat and apologized for his presence.

"Ah, senor," said the moss-gatherer, "are you, too, looking for shells on my beach? Well, you shall have some, as you are out so early. Come and I will show you where the tide has thrown them up." And, quite recovered from her first embarrassment, she beckoned him to follow her over the rocks. John Thorpe, fresh from the London drawing-rooms, and in search of a health broken down by the dissipations of a London life, mentally decided that this was the most delightful adventure he had met with since he shook the dust of Bond street from his feet. He followed her, and when, after an hour's scramble with this daughter of the coast, he returned, wet and weary, to the hotel, he made an entry in his diary that his morning's lesson in conchology was more interesting than any he had ever heard from the lips of his Oxford professor. And Juanilla averred to herself it was a pity that this young Englishman, who said such odd things in such a nice way, should have such pale cheeks, and get so tired from the exercise that only refreshed her for the labors of the day. That afternoon, as her deft fingers wove the mosses into tasteful patterns, her father's voice summoned her to the veranda.

"There is a stranger here, Juanilla, who would like to see our picture-frames. Quick, my daughter, and show the gentleman what we have for sale."

Mr. John Thorpe bought almost the entire stock, and then asked permission to visit the garden.

"This is my pet," said Juanilla, gently lifting up the blossom of a tiny moss-rose bush, "but it is very sickly, senor, and I fear this will be its last winter. Come, you shall have a bud, as you bought my picture-frames. Poor thing! the northerly winds will kill it."

The sands had after this morning, a grand attraction for Thorpe. He had never met a nature so fresh and brimming with vitality as this poor whaler's daughter. The sea, and the woods, and the flowers had been her instructors, and from them she had caught an untutored poetry which found vent in odd ideas and sympathies. A shell was to her a beauty; a fragment of moss, a messenger from the deep sea forests, where unknown sea-flowers bloom and die forever remote from human eyes. He was astonished at himself. Women bored him, had always bored him; but here was this water-nymph, who had never read a book in her life—for the alphabet was to her an unexplored mystery—who could not discourse of politics, the poets, or the magazines, working her way into his indolent nature, and quickening him to exchange thought for thought, until he felt the poverty of his book-culture as compared with an intelligence framed and polished by Mother Nature herself. Her mind was a white page, free from the very shadow of worldly grossness.

One evening as Thorpe sat on the porch, listening to the whaler's recitals of his exciting lagoon adventures and watching Juanilla's weaving fingers, a Spaniard lifted the garden-gate latch and was greeted warmly by the whaler.

"We have heard from Pancho," said the new-comer. "He has done well in the lower bays, and as soon as he can will ship us over 500 barrels."

"Good!" said the whaler; "500 barrels! Think of that Juanilla. That will buy you a fine wedding-gown, my daughter."

Thorpe started, stung by a thought which for the moment sent the blood in a cold current to his heart, and glanced at Juanilla with a great fear in his eyes, which, in spite of his efforts, he could not conceal.

She simply answered: "I am glad that Pancho has been lucky. Poor fellow! he has been a long time away."

Thorpe arose, and, bidding them an abrupt good evening, walked rapidly toward the sands. "My God!" he said aloud, "What have I been doing? Am I dreaming? This is terrible—terrible. It can't be possible that I love this daughter of a wretched pauper fisherman; but by heaven!"—and he struck his forehead with his clenched hand—"this is jealousy, so sure as there is such a passion; and if the intense concentration of all feeling, an absorption of one's self into another, be love, then I, silly fool that I am, love this pauper—curse me!" For an hour he paced up and down the cliff, overlooking the sands where he had first met his siren, and reflected bitterly on all the folly of his unfortunate attachment. Marry her he could not. Nay, even if he decided to marry her, he did not believe she loved him, and he knew, or thought he knew enough of her character to feel assured that his wealth and position would not influence her one jot. But who was this Pancho?—no doubt her bethrothed, yet she had never mentioned his name. Still, her idiotic old father spoke of a wedden-gown. Yes, Pancho—may the devil drown him! had gone whaling to defray the marriage expenses. But what did all this concern him—this episode in the life of a poor fisherman's daughter? He felt it concerned him too much; and, full of anger, love, and perplexity, Thorpe sought his lodging.

Long before dawn the next morning he was on the sands, awaiting impatiently the arrival of Juanilla. And when at last she stood on the cliff from which he had seen her first, the quick heart-beat and the joy that flushed him were additional alarming convictions of the intensity of his passion. He could not, for the life of him, mention the incident of the previous evening until they had walked some distance along the beach. Juanilla stood barefooted at the edge of the tide, now turning round with a merry laugh when the incoming wave splashed up to her knees, and again shouting with delight when a more than usually rare moss was thrown up. Thorpe sat on a rock, and watched her moodily.

"Juanilla, come here for a moment."

"O, senor, here is a beauty, the prettiest bit I have caught in a week. But why do you look so grave this morning?" and she took a seat beside him.

Thorpe took her hand in his own, and looked down into her brown eyes. The clasp of those tiny fingers thrilled him. She seemed to recognize the passion in his gaze, for she turned to the bay where the fisherman's skiffs were lying at anchor.

"Juanilla, when is your wedding-gown to be ready?"

She turned to him a white, startled face, trembled, and the great tears dimmed her eyes, but she was silent. And then all Thorpe's self-possession forsook him. He took her in his arms and pressed her to his heart. He called heaven and earth to witness that, were she a queen, he could not be prouder of her; they should be married at once by the padre, and sail with her father in the next vessel for his English home. Did she love him?

Juanilla leaned her head over his hand and kissed it. "Señor," she said, simply, "I love you; but we were betrothed from our cradle. It was his mother's dying wish that we should be married, and my father swore it. An oath cannot be broken. Good-bye, and the white saints bless you! O my love—my love—good-bye." She tore herself from his arms, bounded up the rocks, and was out of sight in a moment.

Thorpe walked up and down the sands, and raved like a madman. He wept and moaned, and kissed over and over again the hand her lips had caressed. And then the storm was succeeded by an intense sorrow. He walked to the woods, and laid until evening under the pines.

In a week, Pancho's ship came in.

It was Juanilla's wedding morning. The poor moss-gatherer was fearfully changed. Kind neighbors said that anxiety for her betrothed had stolen the roses from her cheeks; but the stalwart young whaler was shocked at the coldness with which his promised bride received his caresses. The wedding procession moved to the church. Pancho gay and happy, and Juanilla's face as pale as the white wedding-gown she wore. The vows were exchanged, and the gray-headed priest blessed the married pair. And then they returned to the whaler's cottage, the guitars were touched, and Pancho led out his lovely bride in a Spanish dance. They had scarcely taken a step, when a cry from the beach brought everybody to the porch. A boy was seen standing on the bluff, shouting wildly:

"Down to the boats!—the Englishman is drowning! To the boats, or he will be lost!"

Before the wedding throng fully comprehended the alarm, a white figure burst from their midst. Like the wind she dashed down to the bluff, then over the rocks, now lashed by the angry waves, for the tide was high and a strong northwester blowing. At her feet—alive, yet not struggling at all with the breakers—lay Thorpe, his face full of the agony of death. Juanilla sprung from the rock with a wild shriek, and her arms encircled the drowning man. And then, before even her husband could reach the cliff, a mighty wave came and drew them both far out into its depths. An hour afterward, the sea gave up its dead. The arms of the bride still encircled her lover, and one of his was clasped in the rigidity of death about her neck, and upon his face was a smile as of one content. They were buried, side by side, in the sea-washed graveyard, under the shadow of oaks in whose branches the doves at autumn-time cooed through the long gloamings, as if in sympathy with their old, old story. And tides ebbed and flowed, and the seasons changed, and lovers laid flower offerings on the graves of the two so lovely to each other in life, and in death so undivided.—Overland Monthly.

Revolvers vs. Stomach-Pumps.

Yesterday about dinner time, Jep Rice observed a seedy dead-beat slipping into his dining room, without registering at the captain's office. On stepping into the hall he observed the hungry patron laying in a generous supply of first-class grub, in the most approved style. Times being hard, Jep could not stand the onslaught on his bill of fare without revenge, so he sent for Mat Maloon, who soon appeared and stationed himself at the outer door.

After a longe siege at the table our cadaverous D. B. requested a tooth-pick and walked carelessly to the street door where he was politely stopped by Mat, who asked him if he had dinner. On replying that he had dined at the hotel table, he was marched in to interview Jep.

"Well," said Jep. "You had dinner?"

"Yes."

"Did you have a good dinner?"

"Yes, one of the best I ever had in my life, and the only meal I have eaten for three days."

"Well, how did you like the bill of fare?"

"Oh, first-rate."

"Have you paid for it?"

"No but I am just going down to get a little money, and will come back and settle it."

"Well, that don't pay my bills, so we will just settle right here," said Jep, reaching away under the counter in a threatening manner.

"Hold on, Mr. Rice," said D. B. looking alarmed. "What are you reaching for."

"A revolver, by ——," said Jep.

"Oh, well,, said the dead-beat, "that's all right. I was afraid you were reaching for a stomach-pump."

Jep caved in at this cool rejoinder, invited him to be sure to be around at supper time, and took the crowd down to drink.—Leavenworth Commercial

"Everybody's Aunt."

And there is a mother in Israel, cushioned as to her chin, and a face as pleasant and hospitable as an open fire on Thanksgiving day. At $100 a pound—and nothing could be cheaper—she would be worth $20,000, for she weighs two hundred. Her hat is a "bunnet." It shoots out a little in front, like a young scoop-shovel. It curls up a little behind, like a young wren. She wears about as many hoops as a stone jar. But she indulges in a petticoat or two, "gethered," as she will tell you, at the top, and puckered with the pull of a string, as they used to wind a clock. A cape without fringe or adornment has fallen upon her like the mantle of the prophet, and envelopes her shoulders and her arms even to the elbows. If it were a little peaked and scolloped, it would be a vandyke; but it is as unmistakably a cape as the cape of Good Hope. Her hands are in mitts, a flimsy suggestion of gloves without any fingers. She never dyed her hair. She would about as soon die herself.

That face of hers beams with goodness and good-will. You want her to be your aunt, as she cannot be your mother. You would be glad to sit by her kitchen fire and hear her talk, and she would be precisely as glad to have you. Her easy cushiony way of walking suggests a gentle old chaise with the top up. She is enjoying every minute of the time. She is a Methodist of the old school, and she needs no assurance from you that she will go to heaven. She has it from better authority.—Letter from a Camp-Meeting.

The telegraph is making itself generally useful, and has, in New York, been employed by the lawyers as it has been heretofore by the brokers. A system of wires has been established under the control of the Law Telegraph Company, which communicate with the offices of the prominent lawyers, and announce the progress of the court business.

The entire valuation of railroad property in Kansas is $14,725,292. Last year it was $9,676,318; increase, $5,048,963.

Mr. Stanley's African Expedition.

Mr. Stanley, chief of the Herald expedition, organized and equipped for the purpose of completing the unfinished explorations of Dr. Livingstone, will now soon be again in the heart of Africa. Having reached Zanzibar, and having, with his official corps, been accorded a friendly reception by the Sultan, he will meet with no difficulties in obtaining the needful men, mules, and supplies for his expedition. His valuable knowledge, obtained from his first expedition to Ujiji, will serve him well in this campaign. He will know accurately what is wanted in the way of animals, drivers, carriers, pioneers, equipments, provisions, and merchandise for purposes of trade with the natives. He will know the road and its dangers and difficulties, and how best to avoid or overcome them. He will know how to secure the friendship and co-operation of the African chiefs en route, and the chief and his people of Ujiji will receive their good friend Capt. Stanley with a hearty welcome.

Ujiji will be his second or interior base of operations. From this point he will set out for the real work before him, the exploration of the region lying between that system of interior rivers and lakes explored by Livingstone and the established drainage of the wonderful Nile. Stanley believes, as Livingstone believed, that the whole interior system of lakes and rivers, from the seventh degree south latitude, with their general outflow to the northward, are drained into the Nile. Others think that Livingstone's great interior basin is tributary to the Congo, which flows west into the Atlantic. Sir Samuel Baker, from his last expedition to the great equatorial lakes of the Nile, came away with the information from the native traders of the region that the Albert Lake has a navigable connection with Lake Tanganyika, on which Ujiji is situated. These two questions—the drainage of Livingstone's interior basin, and whether the Tanganyika is or is not to be added to the great equatorial lakes of the Nile—we hope will be settled by Mr. Stanley in the explorations he has undertaken. He goes out with the advantage of many years' experience from his various African expeditions. He knows the requirements of his great enterprise; he is qualified and equipped to meet them, and we are confident that he will return crowned with complete success.—N. Y. Herald.

The Greatest Thief on Record.

An arrest of more than usual importance was made yesterday afternoon by Detective Tyrrell. Complaints have been quite numerously lodged at detective headquarters of late from a number of newspaper publishing firms, who have suddenly discovered that their entire subscription lists were missing. The inexplicable disappearance of their subscription books has involved several of the publishing companies in serious loss, and has occasioned much delay in forwarding the paper mails. New lists had to be made out from data in the office, which was not at all times complete, and this species of peculation has thrown a branch of the newspaper business in several offices into inextricable confusion, and sorely tested the patience of many thousands of subscribers who have waited in vain for the coming of their weekly mental pabulum.

Nearly a week ago the case was placed in the hands of Detective Tyrrell, and yesterday afternoon C. H. Bruton was landed in the Central Station lock-up, where he is now pondering on the uncertain fortunes that are likely to befall the man who steals subscription lists.

It is evident from a large amount of Bruton's correspondence which was captured that he has found the business a profitable one. The lists which he has succeeded in stealing embrace the names of many thousands of bona fide residents, scattered all over the Western States. His practice has been to make as many duplicates of the lists as there were demands for them. He has found his customers for the most part in New York city, among the venders in quack medicines, counterfeit money, and the propagators of every variety of swindling dodges. The lists are, of course, invaluable to this class of persons, who are thus enabled to spread their swindling circulars among the unsophisticated country people, whose addresses they can obtain so easily in no other way. Bruton's lists, therefore, have been in great demand, and he has driven a thriving trade supplying duplicates to all parties applying, at the rate of $100 to $200 per list, according to the number of names it contained.—Chicago Times.

Exports of Musical Instruments.

Official records of Custom House returns at Washington show that the total value of musical instruments exported from the United States during the year ending June 30, 1874, was $550,327. Of this, $258,176 was for pianos and $292,151 for parlor or reed organs. Of this latter amount $163,169, or more than one-half of the whole, was of the cabinet organs made by the MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., which bid fair to become as famous in Europe as they have long been in America. This company certainly have reason to be proud of the fact that the European demand for their organs is larger than that for all others combined.—Boston Traveller.

DR. SCHLIEMANN, the successful discoverer of Troy's remains, has obtained from the Greek government permission to demolish a great square tower in the Acropolis at Athens. It is known as the Venetian tower, and apparently dates from the fourteenth century. It is 80 feet high, and covers 1,600 square feet, with walls 5 feet thick. The materials for its construction were drawn from the Acropolis and the Theater of Herodes Atticus. Dr. Schliemann pays the cost of demolition, which will be about £465, or $2,325, and in return he has the exclusive right for three years to publish any inscriptions uncovered. The tower occupies a most interesting part of the Propylæa, and it is thought its removal will bring to light a great number of inscriptions and other interesting objects. The Athenians manifested great delight when the work of demolition began, which was on the 2d of June.

Shooting Affray Between Gov. Kellogg and E. A. Burke.

[New Orleans (Oct. 29) Cor. Chicago Times.]

During Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Gov. Kellogg and Maj. E. A. Burke—the latter Chairman of, and representing, the Committee on Registration of the Democratic party—had an extended correspondence concerning the difficulty which grew out of the vexed Second District Court naturalization question. On Thursday afternoon, Gov. Kellogg addressed Maj. Burke a communication wherein are certain personal allusions touching upon his present and past political course. The sequel to this transpired, at about 4 o'clock to-day, in a rencontre on Canal street between Kellogg and Burke, both of whom delivered pistol shots, but neither was injured. In response to the inquiries of your correspondent, Gov. Kellogg stated that at 3 o'clock he left his office in a cab, accompanied by Judge Atocha. At the corner of Canal and Rampart streets the cab was halted by E. A. Burke, who, approaching it, was saluted by Kellogg with the interrogatory, "Why did you publish so foolish a card in yesterday's paper?" Mr. Burke at this moment grabbed Kellogg by both wrists and attempted to draw him from the carriage. Kellogg drew back and released himself from the grip, and noticing that Burke made a demonstration of hostility, by inserting his hand into his left breast pocket, drew his own revolver and fired. The instrument drawn by Burke proved to be a cowhide, with which he struck at Kellogg once, and thereafter withdrew to the sidewalk in front of Herron's grocery, from whence he discharged four shots from his revolver. The cab drove off, and the shots proved ineffectual.

Maj. Burke makes the statement that, in consequence of the libelous allegations contained in Kellogg's letter of the 29th, he felt urged to re-ent the insults and chastise the author of the insinuations. That letter, which was published in the papers before being delivered to him, was ostensibly written in reply to a communication from the Democratic and Conservative State Central Committee, but was, as he claims, evidently intended as a personal insult, framed to injure the Major as a candidate, and bore the appearance of a political trick to secure his defeat and elect the Republican candidate to one of the most important offices in the city government. On Thursday afternoon, when on Canal street, near Rampart, he saw Kellogg approaching in a carriage, whereupon he at once approached it, and called upon Kellogg to stay, prefacing his action by a remark. He drew a cowhide and began to belabor the Governor, who then drew a pistol and delivered one shot at his assailant, but missed him, driving rapidly away. Burke then drew a weapon and fired at Kellogg five times in rapid succession, but failed to do any damage. When he began to fire, Kellogg's vehicle was started rapidly toward, and was driven to, the Governor's residence.

The Reflux of Emigration.

While statistics are constantly being published with regard to, and congratulations being passed upon, the immense numbers of foreigners who annually reach these shores, but little is said about another equally decided movement, and one which appears to be rapidly gaining force. We allude to the return to Europe of emigrants from this country. Our own custom-house returns show a loss from this source within the last decade of 418,158. It is clear, on the face of it, that those person who have returned are of the most worthy class, or they would not have been able to get away.

The last English census shows an unaccountable excess in the population beyond the legitimate and natural increase. According to the usual and exact computations of the Registrar, it might have been expected to be 22,122,080, but the enumerated population was found to be 22,710,226, or 590,186 in excess, and which was to be accounted for. Allowing half this excess to have been from a more perfect enumeration of the people than in previous censuses, there remains an increase of nearly 300,000, which can only be accounted for on the supposition that it is the reflux of emigration; and, as the major part of the English emigration is to this country, it follows that the major part of the reflux is also therefrom.

It is instructive, also, to note that in the decade 1850–60 this reflux amounted only to 7,450 per annum, while, in the last decade, it approached 30,000 per annum. The reflux to Germany and other European countries is, doubtless, considerable; that to Ireland is comparatively insignificant.—Western Rural.

The Divided Rain Drop.

A year ago I stood upon the topmost ridge of the topmost Alpine pass. A humble house was perched there amid the crags, and rocks, and snows. The rain of heaven descended upon its peaked and shelving roof, and as the drops fell upon the one side, they proceeded on their way over rocks and falls, through snows and glaciers, through arid plains, through the waters of the wild and winding Rhine, by the castled crag of Drachenfels into the Northern Ocean, until at last they dashed their frozen spray, mid chilling winds and floating fogs, upon the ice-bound coast of Northern Greenland. The drops that fell upon the other side proceeded on their way through purling streams and murmuring brooks, through the northern lakes, through the fertile plains of Lombardy, and babbling as they ran from land of snow to land of sun, in the waters of the blue Mediterranean they washed the coasts of smiling Italy, and volcanic Ætna and classic Greece and Holy Land, until they dance and sparkle upon the yellow sands of sunlighted and glowing Egypt.—From a recent speech of Geo. H. Pendleton.

DARTMOUTH College has a student who supports himself by keeping a barber's shop. He lately learned the trade, and has the necessary furniture in his room in one of the college buildings. The students patronize him, and he succeeds very well.

ATTEND to the first symptoms of Consumption, and that disease may be checked in its incipiency. Use immediately Dr. Wishart's Pine Tree Tar Cordial, a safe remedy in all diseases of the lungs.

Not every one can be President, but all can buy SILVER-TIPPED Shoes for their children, and thereby lessen their shoe bills two-thirds. For sale by all dealers.

THE DYING BODY
SUPPLIED WITH THE VICOR OF LIFE
THROUGH
DR. RADWAY'S
SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT
THE GREAT
Blood Purifier!
ONE BOTTLE

Will make the Blood pure, the Skin clear, the Eyes bright, the Complexion smooth and transparent, the Hair strong, and remove all Sores, Pimples, Blotches, Pustules, Tetters, Cankers, etc., from the Head, Face, Neck, Mouth and Skin. It is pleasant to take and the dose is small.

It Resolves away Diseased Deposits; it Purifies the Blood and Renovates the System. It cures with certainty all Chronic Diseases that have lingered in the system five or ten years, whether it be Scrofula or Syphilitic, Hereditary or Contagious,
BE IT SEATED IN THE
Lungs or Stomach, Skin or Bones, Flesh or Nerves,
CORRUPTING THE SOLIDS AND VITIATING THE FLUIDS.

IT IS THE ONLY POSITIVE CURE FOR KIDNEY and BLADDER COMPLAINTS,

Urinary and Womb Diseases, Gravel, Diabetes, Dropsy, Stoppage of Water, Incontinence of Urine, Bright's Disease, Albuminuria, and in all cases where there are brick-dust deposits, Chronic Rheumatism, Scrofula, Glandular Swelling, Hacking Dry Cough, Cancerous Affections, Syphilitic Complaints, Bleeding of the Lungs, Dyspepsia, Water-Brash, Tic Doloreux, White Swellings, Tumors, Ulcers, Skin and Hip Diseases, Mercurial Diseases, Female Complaints, Gout, Dropsy, Rickets, Salt Rheum, Bronchitis, Consumption, Liver Complaints, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth, Tumors, Nodes in the Glands and other parts of the system, Sore Eyes, Strumorous Discharges from the Ears, and the worst forms of Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Fever Sores, Scald Head, Ringworm, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Acne, Black Spots, Worms in the Flesh, Cancers in the Womb, and all weakening and painful discharges, Night Sweats, Loss of Sperm and all wastes of the life principle are within the curative range of this wonder of Modern Chemistry, and a few days' use will prove to any person using it, for either of these forms of disease, its potent power to cure them.

Sold by Druggists. $1.00 per Bottle.

R. R. R.
RADWAY'S
Ready Relief,
The Cheapest and Best Medicine for Family Use in the World!
One 50-Cent Bottle

WILL CURE MORE COMPLAINTS AND PREVENT THE SYSTEM AGAINST SUDDEN ATTACKS OF EPIDEMICS AND CONTAGIOUS DISEASES THAN ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS EXPENDED FOR OTHER MEDICINES OR MEDICAL ATTENDANCE.

THE MOMENT RADWAY'S READY RELIEF IS APPLIED EXTERNALLY—OR TAKEN INTERNALLY ACCORDING TO DIRECTIONS—PAIN, FROM WHATEVER CAUSE, CEASES TO EXIST.

IMPORTANT.—Miners, Farmers, and others residing in sparsely-settled districts, where it is difficult to secure the services of a physician, RADWAY'S READY RELIEF is invaluable. It can be used with positive assurance of doing good in all cases where pain or discomfort is experienced; or if seized with Influenza, Diptheria, Sore Throat, Bad Coughs, Hoarseness, Bilious Colic, Inflammation of the Bowels, Stomach, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys; or with Croup, Quinsey, Fever and Ague; or with Neuralgia, Headache, Tic Doloreux, Toothache, Earache or with Lumbago, Pain in the Back, or Rheumatism; or with Diarrhea, Cholera Morbus, or Dysentery; or with Burns, Scalds, or Bruises; or with Strains, Cramps, or Spasms. The application of RADWAY'S READY RELIEF will cure you of the worst of these complaints in a few hours.

Twenty drops in half a tumbler of water will in a few moments cure CRAMPS, SPASMS, SOUR STOMACH, HEARTBURN, SICK HEADACHE, DIARRHEA, DYSENTERY, COLIC, WIND IN THE BOWELS, and all INTERNAL PAINS.

Travelers should always carry a bottle of RADWAY'S READY RELIEF with them. A few drops in water will prevent sickness or pains from change of water. It is better than French Brandy or Bitters as a stimulant.

Sold by Druggists. Price 50 Cents.

DR. RADWAY'S
Regulating Pills,

Perfectly tasteless, elegantly coated with sweet gum, purge, regulate, purify, cleanse and strengthen. RADWAY'S PILLS, for the cure of all disorders of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys, Bladder, Nervous Diseases, Headache, Constipation, Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Biliousness Bilious Fever, Inflammation of the Bowels, Piles and all Derangements of the Internal Viscera. Warranted to effect a positive cure. Purely Vegetable, containing no mercury, minerals, or deleterious drugs.

☞ Observe the following symptoms resulting from Disorders of the Digestive Organs:

Constipation, Inward Piles, Fullness of the Blood in the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust of Food, Fullness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried and Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a Lying Posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Fever and Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Chest, Limbs, and sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh.

A few doses of RADWAY'S PILLS will free the system from all the above-named disorders.

Price 25 Cents per Box. Sold by Druggists.
Read "FALSE AND TRUE."

Send one letter-stamp to RADWAY & CO., No. 32 Warren Street, New York. Information worth thousands will be sent you.

WISHART'S
PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL.

It is now fifteen years since the attention of the public was first called by Dr. L. Q. C. Wishart to this wonderful remedy, and so well has it stood the test of time that to-day it not only has the confidence of the entire community, but is more frequently prescribed by physicians in their practice than any other proprietary preparation in the country. It is the vital principle of the Pine Tree, obtained by a peculiar process in the distillation of the Tar, by which its highest medicinal properties are retained. For the following complaints, Inflammation of the Lungs, Coughs, Sore Throat and Breast, Bronchitis, Consumption, Liver Complaint, Weak Stomach, Disease of the Kidneys, Urinary Complaints, Nervous Debility, Dyspepsia, and diseases arising from an impure condition of the blood, there is no remedy in the world that has been used so successfully or can show such a number of marvelous cures. The following will serve to show the estimation in which this sovereign remedy is held by those who have used it.

Consumption for Ten Years Cured.

DR. L. Q. C. WISHART: Dear Sir—I am grateful to you from the fact that you have made a medicine that will cure the disease of the Lungs. My wife has had the Consumption for ten years. Physicians had told me that they could only patch her up for the time being. She was confined to her bed and had been for some time. I heard of your Pine Tree Tar Cordial and secured one bottle; it relieved her cough. She has now finished the fourth bottle, and is able to do the work for her family; and may God speed you on with your great discovery and cure you have made for Consumption.
REV. E. H. HOPKINS,
Jackson Centre, Shelby Co., Ohio.

From St. Louis, Mo.

DR. WISHART, PHILADELPHIA: Dear Sir—During a visit to Philadelphia, some three years ago, I was suffering from a severe cold, and was induced to take a bottle of your Pine Tree Tar Cordial, which had the effect of curing me in a few days. I have used it in my family ever since, and am of the opinion that it saved the life of my daughter, who was suffering from a severe and painful cough. If the publication of this will be of any service, you are at liberty to use it. Yours respectfully,
JOHN HODNETT, St. Louis, Mo.

For sale by all Druggists and Storekeepers and at
DR. L. Q. C. WISHART'S OFFICE,
No. 232 N. Second St., Philadelphia, Pa.

A Stone with a History.

Moncure D. Conway, writing entertainingly of the Congress of Orientologists lately convened in the British Museum, says: "Prof. Newton, the greatest living master of Greek antiquities, once related to me personally the recent story of one of the inscribed stones which to-day the Congress examined only with reference to its archæological value. This stone was once in a Latin church, afterwards in a Greek church, and ultimately found its way into a mosque at Rhodes. But there was also a gunpowder-magazine under the said mosque, and immediately under this stone. One day the powder-magazine exploded, the mosque was blown to fragments, and 250 persons killed. No one has ever been able to explain the cause of this catastrophe, which occurred in the year 1856. The Rhodians related that an earthquake had just occurred and left a cleft in the stone-work of the powder-magazine, and that this earthquake was immediately followed by a thunder-storm which sent a bolt of lightning through the said cleft into the powder. Whatever may have been the origin of the catastrophe, a dreadful one it was. The authorities of the place, possibly for fear of some further calamity, refused even to dig out the bodies of those who had been buried amid the ruins, but the English Consul begged permission to do so. Of the 250 or thereabout who had been in or near the magazine at the time, only one was found to be alive. This was a very fair young Turkish girl who had been married on the preceding day. Her husband was almost dead with grief, and when the news came that his bride had been saved alive from the ruins, he hastened to kiss the feet of the English Consul who had rescued her, but no sooner had the British diplomatist done his work thus gallantly than the British savant was close after him. Out of the debris he collected a large number of inscribed fragments of stone. These found their way into the hands of Prof. Newton, who put together the stone bit by bit, until, cemented, it stood a good square block, five or six feet high, and completely covered with inscriptions in Greek. The writing indicates that it was a memorial raised in the time of Demetrius Polycrates, the first King of Macedonia, whose head appears on coins, and that it was raised in honor of certain persons who had come forward with aid and contributions in a sudden emergency or time of public need. It is rather odd that the memorial of honor to certain eminent benefactors should have fallen as a treasure into English hands because of an English Consul's stepping forward at a moment of catastrophe to do a generous thing which others neglected."

And Still Another.

It is only requisite for a young man with curly hair, black and shiny, mustache of the same hue, and pleasing address to exert a fair amount of cheek to pass for a distinguished personage at our fashionable watering-places. Witness the career of Joseph Bates, waiter, and former inmate of the penitentiary. Mr. Joseph Bates met at Newport a retired ship-chandler named Bryne, with half a million. Mr. Bryne had three daughters, the youngest, of course, a lovely being, the idol of an admiring circle of friends. Mr. Joe Bates was Augustus Beekman, who owned half the town of Flushing and several thousand lots in various parts of New York and Brooklyn, not to mention a bank account of hundreds of thousands. Mr. Bryne allowed an intimacy to spring up between his youngest and Augustus Beekman, alias Joe Bates, waiter, and ex-penitentiary birds, lent him money, and encouraged him before the truth dawned upon him. When it did he warned his daughter. But the maiden was incredulous. She consented to a private marriage with Augustus, which took place at Williamsburg, the Rev. William Reaper officiating. The girl returned to her parent, but the marriage could not long remain concealed. A suit for divorce has been brought on the ground of fraud. It appears that Mr. Bates had hired a friend from the restaurant to play parson for him, and that the girl was doubly deceived by the scoundrel. It is probable that she will fail in her suit, as the laws of the State do not require the solemnization of a marriage by a clergyman. It is little less than wonderful that this oft-repeated swindle should avail after so many exposures. But there is no resisting the charms of a glossy head and dyed mustache at Newport. Sympathy with the lovely victim must give place to the less agreeable feeling of pity.

German Cancer Treatment.

An account is given in the Medicinische Central Zeitung of the new treatment of cancer which has been brought out by Dr. Hasse, of Berlin. His plan is to inject, with a hypodermic syringe, pure alcohol, to which one per cent. of ether is added, not into the new growth, but around its edges, thus obliterating, he claims, the vessels, especially lymphatics, which convey the infection, and causing the atrophy of the growth itself. The pain is said to be rather severe, but is much reduced by ice bags, and lasts only about two hours. The injections are repeated every eight or fourteen days, and have no alarming reactions. Dr. H. claims striking success in corcinoma of the mamma and in cauliflower excrescence of the uterus, but has failed in epithelioma of the lip, which he attributes to the impossibility of obliterating by this means the large and closely adjacent coronary artery.

TOBACCO.—Softening of the brain is a disease always connected with the use of nervines in some shape. Tobacco is a powerful agent in its production. Trembling is one of the usual symptoms of acute, and a common result of chronic nicotism. The Minister of Public Instruction in France issued a circular to the directors of colleges and schools, forbidding tobacco to students, as injurious to physical and intellectual development. Tobacco and insanity are closely connected. It is stated upon the best authority that of those who become insane from the supposed use of spirituous liquors, eighty-seven per cent. also use tobacco.—Exchange.

LOW LANGUAGE is a good enough argument for the man who uses it.

How Cod Liver Oil is Made.

Very few of the hard drinkers of cod liver oil know how it is manufactured. But a correspondent of the New York Tribune has examined a distillery for the same at St. John's, Newfoundland, and makes the following statement as to the manufacture of the oleaginous nectar:

During one of our rambles on shore we inspected a cod liver oil distillery, and the mode of manufacture is so simple and interesting that I venture to insert a description of it for the benefit of consumers of the beverage. The livers are first washed with fresh water, and great care is taken to cleanse them of all traces of gall, the gall not only discoloring the oil but giving it a disagreeable, bitter taste.

They are then placed in a vat and heated by steam from a boiler underneath to a temperature of 112 deg. Fah., which raises the exuded oil to the surface, whence it is skimmed off carefully. It is then filtered three times; first through three bags, placed one within the other, the inner one made of flannel, and the two outer ones of muslin; then through three others similarly placed, one inside the other, but made of stuff resembling Canton flannel; from these last bags it drips into a large tin trough, and is drawn off into puncheons through a faucet, over the mouth of which is placed a screen of the finest muslin, which excludes every trace of sediment and dirt.

It is then ready for the market, and in color and general appearance closely resembles Santerne wine. Our polite but fishy host pressed me to drink a glass of it, but I declined with all the politeness I could command. He evidently looked upon my refusal to drink as a slight upon his oil, and brought every argument in his power to bear to induce me to alter my decision. At last he was successful, for, after informing me that out of the same glass offered to us, and standing on the same spot, the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Newcastle had drank of it, I could hardly refuse.

I found its flavor not unpalatable, but it was almost tasteless, with barely a vestige of the nauseating, rancid odor of the "Pure Cod Liver Oil" sold in New York drug stores. From being extracted at a low temperature it is said not to retain its purity longer than fifteen months, after which period it is mixed with ingredients to preserve its taste, or rather to prevent its rancid flavor from becoming too apparent.

Through Japan.

A correspondent of the Boston Transcript, writing of a tour through Japan, says: "We passed through little villages with thatch-roofed cottages, cottages guiltless of such an innovation as chimneys. Looking in through the open-paneled doors I could see them cooking their rice on little round stone boxes called 'hibachi.' The smoke growing thinner and thinner as it hid in the corners of the airy kitchen, came out imperceptibly through the broad, open doors. Now and then I saw a woman at an old-fashioned spinning-wheel, and one or two weaving Japanese cloth. Darkness shut in over the pretty landscape, and our stopping place for the night was yet in the distance. Our jinrikisha men lighted their Japanese lanterns and merrily started off at a rapid rate. A half-hour's travel, by faith rather than sight, and we stopped at a Japanese hotel in Fujisawa. The hostess met us with many salaams of welcome, and we climbed a steep pair of stairs to our room. It was matted—nothing else in it. The sliding doors opened into a little court-yard, where, in the morning, we discovered one or two dwarf trees and a pond with fish in it; but at night it seemed only an avenue through which came up to us all inconceivable odors of Jananese cooking. The next morning the rain was pouring in torrents, a genuine supplement to the rainy season. After breakfast we again started on our journey. The rain stopped for a while, but fell in showers through the day. As we rode the county became more picturesque. We saw huge trees and trunks of trees with ivy and wild grapevines clambering over them. The country, if possible, reached off into greener hills and greener valleys than before, a beautiful country, a goodly heritage, no barren spots, everything green and fresh; but on the acres and acres of pasture land no cattle were feeding, no flocks or herds of any kind. Rice was growing in the valleys, but the hill turf land seemed unused. Everywhere there were fresh mountain springs, and all around us tokens of a rich country but a poor people. Eggs, rice, and fish are the only food for the people. There were half-clothed children making mud pies in the streets of the villages, everywhere men standing idle. Asking them why, the answer would, doubtless, have been that of the good book of old, 'because no man hath hired us.'"

More Certain than Philosophical.

One of the students at Davidson College, who was too lazy to do anything right, was in the habit of cleaning out his lamp chimney by running his finger down it as far as he could and twisting it around. After he had cleaned it out in this partial manner, one day not long ago, a fellow student took it up and carried it to the residence of one of the professors, with the inquiry, "Why is it that this chimney is smoked up to this point and no further?" The learned gentleman entered into an elaborate scientific explanation of why it was, arguing with great lucidness, and citing various authorities to show the correctness of his reasoning. When he had finished, the student said to him, "No, sir, you are wrong." "Why is it, then?" inquired the professor. "Because the fellow's finger wasn't long enough to reach any further," replied the student.

The Chicago Exposition.

The best pianos and organs at the Exposition were shown by Reed & Sons, of the Temple of Music, in a beautiful Gothic building they erected expressly for the purpose.—Exch.

THE great Burden furnace at Troy has been blown out—a three days' task. It has run thirty-eight consecutive months, making 30,000 tons of iron.

EVERY READER of this paper can receive, free, a copy of the best Agricultural and Family newspaper in this country by addressing Moore's Rural New-Yorker, 78 Duane-st., New York.

TRY IT.—A Tonic and Alterative Medicine, the invigorating and regulating properties of which actually lengthen life, and add to the capacity for its enjoyment, is within the reach of every member of the community. No invalid who has had recourse to DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS will hesitate to concede to it these invaluable qualities. It is a stomachic and a corrective of unrivaled efficacy, yet being free from alcohol, it is not an excitant. Its anti-bilious operation is more direct, speedy, and certain than that of any of the dangerous mineral salivants, and as an aperient it gently removes any obstructions that may have accumulated in the lower intestine, without producing either irritation or pain. In fact, its wonderful remedial effects are unaccompanied by any drawback. Of all medicines, it is the most harmless and salubrious. As an appetizer, it is far ahead of any of the alcoholic nostrums that momentarily stimulate the palate; while as a means of renovating a weak and torpid stomach it stands alone among modern remedies. 8

THE GREAT FAVORITE!—The popular Chill Cure of the age!! Composed of pure and simple drugs, Wilhoft's Tonic has long held the highest place in the long line of remedies for Chills and Fever. It is not only Anti-Periodic but is Anti-Panic, for it curtails the heavy expense of doctors' visits, where friendly calls are all itemized in the account current. A penny saved is a penny gained, and saving it in this way adds to health and comfort. Try Wilhoft's Tonic as a certainty, and you will never regret it. WHEELOCK, FINLAY & Co., Proprietors, New Orleans. For sale by all druggists.

A NEW LEAD.—How many times does 50 go into 250,000? It goes 5,000 times. Well, that is a good per cent. Will the best "lead" ever struck pay as much? Certainly not. But there are strong probabilities that an investment of fifty dollars made in the last Grand Gift Concert, in aid of the Public Library of Kentucky, will pay that per cent. to somebody. We have only to wait till the 30th of November for the result.

AS ECONOMY is the order of the day, the cheapest collar you can wear is the Elmwood. All the edges being folded, makes it look like linen, and the peculiar finish is so thoroughly perspiration-proof, it will keep clean longer than any other collar.

SENT free, on receipt of neck and breast measure, height, weight and price, our (sample) "Model $2 Shirt." Fitted by patent model. Stylish and substantial. Address Model Shirt Co., 31 South 8th-st., Philadelphia.

THE NORTHWESTERN HORSE-NAIL CO.'S "Finished" Nail is the best in the world.

NO HOME is perfect without Rathbone, Sard & Co.'s unequaled cook and heating stoves.

BOOK agents, read the avertisement of H. L. Shepard & Co, Chicago.

How to Look Young—Sixteen.—Don't paint or use vile Hair Restorers, but simply apply Hagan's Magnolia Balm upon your face, neck and hands, and use Lyon's Kathairon upon your hair. The Balm makes your complexion pearly, soft and natural, and you can't tell what did it. It removes freckles, tan, sallowness, ring-marks, moth-patches, etc., and in place of a red, rustic face, you have the marble purity of an exquisite belle. It gives to middle age the bloom of perpetual youth. Add these effects to a splendid head of hair produced by the Kathairon, and a lady has done her best in way of adornment. Brothers will have no spinster sisters when these articles are around.

Dr. Dan'l Weaver, of Boston, fell down a mining shaft near Denver, 76 feet. He was terribly bruised, limbs broken, and supposed to be dead. Mexican Mustang Liniment was freely used, consciousness restored, his life saved, and he came home in eight weeks. This is the most wonderful article for Bruises, Sprains, Rheumatism, Swellings, Spavin, Ringbone, Sores, or any flesh, bone or muscle ailment upon man or beast, ever discovered. It is humanity to animals. It has saved much suffering and many useless doctors' bills. It can be had for 50 cts. and $1.00 per bottle in any drug store. But beware of counterfeits. The genuine is wrapped in a fine steel-plate label, signed "G. W. Westbrook, Chemist."

The People's Stamp of Value.—The government indorsement, which legalizes the sale of PLANTATION BITTERS, is not the only stamp affixed to that famous VEGETABLE TONIC. It bears, in addition to that official sanction, the STILL MORE VALUABLE STAMP OF PUBLIC APPROBATION. This inestimable voucher of its rare properties as a TONIC, CORRECTIVE and ALTERATIVE is world wide.

$10 per day made with our FOOT power Scroll Saws. Price $20. Address, with stamp, BARNES BROS., Rockford, Ill.

$72 EACH WEEK. Agents wanted, particulars free. Worth & Co., St. Louis, Mo.

$200 and expenses a month to Agents. Address A. L. STODDARD, Jonesville, Mich.

$5 to $20 per day at home. Terms free. Address GEO. STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

$7 A DAY. Particulars free. Agents send for circular. H. L. SHEPARD & CO., Chicago.

AGENTS WANTED—Men or Women. $34 a week or $100 forfeited. The secret free. Write at once to COWEN & CO., 8th St., New York.

10 Beautiful Transfer Pictures, instructions and catalogue, for [illegible] 10 cts. Agents wanted. J. L. PATTEN & CO., 71 Pine St. N. Y.

FOR SALE. Good second-hand Portable and Stationary Engines and Boilers, Tubing, Casing, etc. Address Bingham & Rich, Oil City, Pa.

O! $210 a Month. Agents everywhere. First-class bus. Particulars free. R. Waller & Co., St. Louis, Mo.

$1,000 PER WEEK
CAN BE MADE by any smart man who can keep his business to himself. Address
D. F. HERMANN, Hoboken, New Jersey.

Subscription Books Choice and elegantly illustrated. Great Inducements to Agents. For terms and circulars, address NEW WORLD PUBLISHING CO., Phila.

BOOK AGENTS get best selling book and best terms. Everybody's Own Physician, or how to acquire and preserve health, by C. W. GLEASON, M. D. 250 engravings, 496 pages. Royal octavo, Gilt. Send for circulars. CO-OPERATIVE BIBLE & PUB. CO., Muscatine, Iowa.

OUR NEW "LADIES' FRIEND" contains 7 articles needed by every Lady—Patent Spool Holder, Scissors, Thimble, &c.—guaranteed worth $1.50. Sample Box, by mail, 50 cents. Agents wanted. PLUMB & CO., 108 S. 8th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

THE ORIGINAL AMERICAN TEA CO. will send you direct any quantity of Tea you require, per U. S. Mail, without any extra charge. To insure prompt delivery, direct to the President of the Company, thus: "ROBERT WELLS, 43 Vesey St., N. Y., P. O. Box 1287." Agents wanted everywhere.

OPIUM HABIT CURED at Home. No Publicity. Terms moderate. Time short. Four years of unparalleled success. Describe case. 400 testimonials. Address Dr. F. E. Marsh, Quincy, Mich.

ADVERTISERS.
The American Newspaper Union numbers over 1,000 papers, separated into seven subdivisions. For separate lists and cost of advertising, address S. P. SANBORN, 114 Monroe St., Chicago.

SCHOOL TEACHER!
You can double your salary by selling "THE CENTENNIAL GAZETTEER OF THE UNITED STATES," evenings, Saturdays, and during vacation. The book contains information of great value to yourself, your pupils and their parents. For particulars, address ZIEGLER & M'CURDY, Chicago.

HOG RINGER.
15,000,000 Rings.
70,000 Ringers,
3,500 Tongs Sold.
Hardware Dealers Sell Them.
Ringer $1, Rings per 100 50cts,
Tongs $1,25, by mail, post paid,
Circulars free. Address
H. W. HILL & CO, Decatur, Ill.

Chicago Business Directory.

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS.
CHICAGO SCRAPER & DITCHER CO., 56 LaSalle.

ARTIFICIAL LIMBS.
DR. HIATT & LE ROY, 125 South Clark.

AWNINGS, TENTS, TWINES AND CORDAGE.
GILBERT, HUBBARD & CO., 206 to 230 South Water.

BAKING POWDER AND EXTRACTS.
DR. PRICE'S, Steele & Price Mfrs., 201 & 206 S. Water, Chicago, 204 N. 2d, St. Louis, 244 Main, Cincinnati.

BOOKSELLERS AND STATIONERS.
W. B. KEEN, COOKE & CO., 113 to 115 State.

BOOTS AND SHOES—WHOLESALE.
DOGGETT, BASSETT & HILLS, 29 to 31 Lake.
GREENSFELDER, ROSENTHAL & CO., 34 & 36 Lake.
PHELPS, DODGE & PALMER, 48 and 50 Wabash-av.
C. S. RICHARDSON & CO., 128 to 130 Franklin.
T. B. WEBER & CO, 127 and 129 Market.

CANNED FRUITS AND CRYSTAL LAKE PICKLES.
F. A. WAIDNER, 45 and 47 River.

CHILDREN'S CARRIAGES, ROCKING HORSES, SLEIGHS, Etc.
JAMES B. THOMAS, Manufacturer, 114 W. Peoria.

CHINA, GLASS AND QUEENSWARE.
BOWEN & KENT, 282 to 284 Wabash-av.

DRUGGISTS—WHOLESALE.
E. BURNHAM & SON, 52 and 54 Lake.

ENGRAVER, SEALS, PRESSES, BURNING-BRANDS, SOAP STAMPS, STEEL AND BRASS STAMPS.
L. BOCHE, 171 E. Randolph.

ENGRAVERS.
S. D. CHILDS, JR., & CO., 115 Franklin.

ENGRAVERS' STENCILS AND STOCK.
C. H. HANSON, 38 South Clark.

FLOWERS AND STRAW GOODS—SPECIALTY.
DALY, HENROTIN & CO., 144 and 146 Wabash-av.

FURNITURE.
A. L. HALE & BRO., 200, 202, 204 and 206 Randolph.

GLASS SHOW-CARD PAINTER.
J. J. G. BURGHOFFER, 199, 201 and 203 E. Randolph

GUNS, CUTLERY, FISHING TACKLE.
Address W. S. SPENCER & CO., 56 State. Est. 1857.

HARDWARE AND CUTLERY—WHOLESALE.
EDWIN HUNT & SONS, 58 and 60 Lake.

HEAVY HARDWARE—WHOLESALE.
KIMBARK BROS. & CO., 80 to 84 Michigan-av.

HOTELS.
NEVADA HOTEL, Wabash-av., bet. Madison and Monroe. Central, convenient. $2.00 per day.

IMPERIAL AXLE GREASE.
GEO. B. SWIFT & CO., M'frs., 142 to 146 Fulton.

LEAD PIPE AND SHEET LEAD MANUFACTURERS.
E. W. BLATCHFORD & CO., 70 North Clinton.

LINSEED OIL AND OIL CAKE MANUFACTURERS.
E. W. BLATCHFORD & CO., 70 North Clinton.

LOCKSMITHS' AND BELL-HANGERS' MATERIALS.
J. F. WOLLENSAK, 228 LaSalle.

LUMBER.
THE PESHTIGO CO.—Green Bay Lumber. North Pier. W. E. Strong, Pres. G. C. Hempstead, Sec.

MARBLE AND SLATE MANTELS.
THE GOWEN MARBLE CO., 11 North Clark.

MUSIC, SHEET AND BOOK, AND DEALERS IN MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.
THE ROOT & SONS MUSIC CO., 109 State.

PIANOS AND ORGANS.
W. W. KIMBALL, 205 to 209 State.

PUMPS, WOOD AND PORCELAIN CYLINDER PIPE, Etc.
J. F. TEMPLE & SONS, Mnfrs., cor. Polk and Canal.

REAL ESTATE.
JAS. B. GOODMAN & CO., 78 Dearborn.

SEWING MACHINE COMPANIES.
AMERICAN S. M. CO., 242 Wabash-av.
"DOMESTIC" S. M. CO., 74 State. Agents wanted.
GROVER & BAKER S. M. CO., 150 State.
HOME S. M. CO., Johnson, Clark & Co., 141 State.
VICTOR S. M. CO., 281 West Madison.

SHOT.
CHICAGO SHOT TOWER CO., 70 North Clinton.

SHOW-CASE MANUFACTURERS.
SAMUEL B. MARTIN, 37 State.

SOAP MANUFACTURERS.
JAS. S. KIRK & CO.'S STANDARD SOAPS, sold by Wholesale Trade everywhere, 306 to 312 N. Water.

STEAMSHIP LINES.
WHITE STAR MAIL LINE, 97 Clark, A. Lagergren.

WASHING MACHINES.
For Circulars, etc., address CALKINS CHAMPION Washer Co., 207 Clark. Agts wanted everywhere.

WHITE LEAD, ZINC AND COLORS MANUFACTURERS.
CHICAGO WHITE LEAD & OIL Co., Green & Fulton.

WIRE CLOTH AND WIRE GOODS.
CLINTON WIRE CLOTH CO., 175 Randolph.

This PATENT CABINET or LETTER FILE is useful to every business man, to keep BILLS, LETTERS or PAPERS always clean and in alphabetical order; holds 4,000 Letters, can be used on a desk or hung to the wall. We prepay Express charges. Send for circular and price list with 1,000 references.
Address C. A. COOK & CO., Chicago, Ill.

STEINWAY
Grand, Square and Upright Pianos,
Superior to all others. Every Piano Warranted for Five Years. Illustrated Catalogues, with Price List, mailed free on application.
STEINWAY & SONS,
Nos. 107, 109 & 111 East 14th street, New York.

SAFE
S. H. HARRIS THE BEST
MANUFACTORY AND SALESROOM,
23 & 25 RANDOLPH ST., CHICAGO

WE WANT AGENTS AGENTS AGENTS AGENTS AGENTS for our Adjustable Threshold in every town and city in the United States. It sells well and is just what every house needs. It is the only invention in the world that will positively prevent rain, cold, snow and dust from coming under door bottoms. Carpenters make lots of money handling it. Send at once for our circular. WILSON, PEIRCE & Co., Sole Manufacturers, 183 Clark St., Chicago.

Dreka's Dictionary Blotter.
A Blotting Case with List of over 15,000 Words which writers are liable to spell incorrectly. Send for Descriptive Price List. L. DREKA, 1121 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

1821 Saturday Evening Post, 1875
THE OLDEST LITERARY PAPER IN AMERICA.
IN April last the present Editor and Proprietor took charge of the POST, and neither money nor labor have been spared since to make it the best Literary and Family Paper in this country. It is now a large 8-page journal, printed on fine white paper, handsomely illustrated, and contains 48 columns of the choicest reading—a larger fund of instruction, amusement and entertainment than in any other paper published. Terms for 1875—all postage paid by us—One copy, four months, $1; six months, 1.50; one year, $3. Send 3-cent stamp for Specimen copy to
R. J. C. WALKER, Editor and Prop'r,
727 Walnut St., Philadelphia.

WONDERFUL CURES BY THE WAUKESHA
Mineral Rock Spring Water for Diabetes,
And all diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs. The increase of this disease is becoming more apparent every day; but thanks to a kind Providence for the timely discovery of this healing water. It is unsurpassed in the known world. For information giving description of the above diseases, the "Geology of Waukesha," by Prof. I. A. Lapham, State Geologist, how the medicinal properties of this water are formed. Send for a pamphlet published by
C. C. OLIN & CO., Proprietors,
Waukesha, Wis.
Agents Wanted. Price of water, $12 a bbl., $7 half bbl., 50 cts a gal., in jugs or cans. Jugs and cans extra only.

THE PATENT HARD RUBBER HANDLE TABLE KNIFE

TABLE KNIVES AND FORKS OF ALL KINDS,
AND EXCLUSIVE MAKERS OF
And the "Patent Ivory" or Celluloid Knife. These Handles never get loose, are not affected by hot water, and are the most durable knives known. Always call for the Trade-Mark, "MERIDEN CUTLERY COMPANY," on the blade. Warranted and sold by all dealers in Cutlery, and by the MERIDEN CUTLERY CO., 49 Chambers Street, New York.

$14.60 SHOTGUN. A DOUBLE-BARREL GUN, front-action bar lock; warranted English twist barrels, a GOOD SHOOTER, with Flask, Pouch and Wad-cutter. Sent C. O. D., with privilege to examine before paying bill, upon paying Express charges both ways. Send stamp for particulars to RUDOLPH & CO., Gun Dealers, 1018 N. Fifth street, St. Louis, Mo.

$25 PER DAY Commission or $30 a week Salary, and expenses. We offer it and will pay it. Apply now. G. Webber & Co., Marion, O.

ADVERTISERS! Send 25 cents to GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., 41 Park Row, New York, for their Pamphlet of 100 pages, containing lists of 3000 newspapers and estimates showing cost of advertising.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE TRUE HISTORY
— OF THE —
BROOKLYN SCANDAL.
The astounding revelations and startling disclosures made in this work are creating the most intense desire in the minds of the people to obtain it. It gives the whole inner history of the Great Scandal, and is the only full and authentic work on the subject. It sells at sight. Send for terms to Agents and a full description of the work. Address NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Chicago, Ill., or St. Louis, Mo.

The Phrenological Journal
a $3 Magazine "On Trial" 3 months for 50c. Single No. 30 cents.
Teaches Choice of Pursuits; Whom to Marry; How to Read Character at a Glance. Try it. Most Attractive PREMIUM Offers ever made. A first-class Sewing Machine for three-fourths its price in subscriptions. Send Stamp for Particulars. S. R. WELLS & CO., 389 Broadway, New York.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT
Reject All Violent Purgatives. They ruin the tone of the bowels, and weaken the digestion.
Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient is used by rational people as a means of relieving all derangements of the stomach, liver, and intestines, because it removes obstructions without pain, and imparts vigor to the organs which it purifies and regulates. Sold by all druggists.

HALL'S PATENT STANDARD
SAFES
AT HARD PAN PRICES.
HALL'S SAFE & LOCK CO.
CHICAGO, ILL.

MASON & HAMLIN
CABINET ORGANS.
Winners of THREE HIGHEST MEDALS AND DIPLOMA OF HONOR at VIENNA, 1873, PARIS, 1867, and in AMERICA ALWAYS. Declared by MUSICIANS GENERALLY to be UNRIVALED and INCOMPARABLE. Sold at fixed uniform prices to all, which are printed and invariable.
PURCHASERS OF ORGANS ARE REMINDED that the temptation to Dealers and Peddlers is very strong to cry down and recommend as best the organs of those makers who will pay them the largest commissions or discounts for selling.
The MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., printing as they do their lowest prices, can afford to dealers only the smallest commissions. This plan secures to every purchaser the lowest price, because the dealer cannot ask more than the Catalogue price; but it causes many dealers to do their best to sell other organs, simply because they get enormous discounts on them. Some organs are currently sold to dealers at seventy-five per cent. discount, or at one-quarter the prices printed for them. As a rule, the poorer the organ the higher its printed price and the greater the discount on it.
The MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO. are now offering new styles, with important improvements; and are selling not only for cash exclusively, but also on new plans of easy payments, running through one year or longer. They also rent new Organs with privilege of purchase. Rent paid three years, purchases the Organ.
Send for the Illustrated Catalogues and Circulars, which give very full information, and are sent free. Address THE MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., at either New York, Boston, or Chicago.

NO POSTPONEMENT!
GRAND MUSICAL JUBILEE AND GIFT CONCERT,
AT SIOUX CITY, IOWA,
Positively Thursday, Nov. 26th, 1874.
$100,000 IN CASH
And Valuable Real Estate
Will be distributed among the ticket holders. Only 60,000 tickets will be issued—a large portion of these already sold. People's Scheme. Net profits to go to Chamber of Commerce, Fire and Militia Companies, and the Public Library of Sioux City. Single Tickets, $3; Two for $5. Reliable agents wanted. Liberal commissions allowed. Send for tickets, terms or circulars to N. HATTENBACH & CO., Sioux City, Iowa.

ANOTHER CHANCE.
FIFTH AND LAST GIFT CONCERT
IN AID OF THE
Public Library of Kentucky.
POSTPONED TO
NOVEMBER 30, 1874.
Drawing Certain at that Date.
LIST OF GIFTS.

One Grand Cash Gift		$250,000
One Grand Cash Gift		100,000
One Grand Cash Gift		75,000
One Grand Cash Gift		50,000
One Grand Cash Gift		25,000
5 Cash Gifts,	$20,000 each	100,000
10 Cash Gifts,	14,000 each	140,000
15 Cash Gifts,	10,000 each	150,000
20 Cash Gifts,	5,000 each	100,000
25 Cash Gifts,	4,000 each	100,000
30 Cash Gifts,	3,000 each	90,000
50 Cash Gifts,	2,000 each	100,000
100 Cash Gifts,	1,000 each	100,000
240 Cash Gifts,	500 each	120,000
500 Cash Gifts,	100 each	50,000
19,000 Cash Gifts,	50 each	950,000

Grand total 20,000 Gifts, all cash, $2,500,000

PRICE OF TICKETS.

Whole Tickets	$50.00
Halves	25.00
Tenth, or each Coupon	5.00
11 Whole Tickets for	500.00
22½ Tickets for	1,000.00

For Tickets and information, address
THO. E. BRAMLETTE,
Agent and Manager,
Public Library Building, Louisville, Ky.

VINEGAR BITTERS
PURELY VEGETABLE
FREE FROM ALCOHOL
DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
EUREKA
VINEGAR BITTERS

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.
R. H. McDONALD & CO.,
Druggists and Gen. Agts., San Francisco, California, and cor. of Washington and Charlton Sts., N. Y.
Sold by all Druggists and Dealers.

OPIUM EATERS THOROUGHLY CURED. Cheap, quick; no suffering. 6 yrs wonderful success. Describe case. DR. ARMSTRONG, Berrien, Mich.

FOR NEARLY THIRTY YEARS THE RICHMOND PRINTS
have been held in high esteem by those who use a Calico. They are produced in all the novelties of changing fashions, and in conservative styles suited to the wants of many persons. Among the latter are the
"Standard Gray Styles," proper for the house or street—beautiful in designs and pleasing in coloring.
"CHOCOLATE STANDARD STYLES,"
in great variety, and widely known as most serviceable prints. Nothing better for daily wear. These goods bear tickets as quoted above. Your retailer should have them, and your examination and approval will coincide.

REVERSE YOUR PLAN! Leave off purgatives and violent medicines that prostrate the system. If you want a BLOOD Purifier, try HAMILTON'S Buchu & Dandelion which acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, and removes impurities of the system by opening its outlets. Kress Manufacturing Co., Cincinnati, O.

OPEN THE SEWERS!! When the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels do not act healthfully, the waste from the action of the system remains in the blood, and produce irritation and disease. These organs are the outlets of the system and under the influence of Hamilton's Buchu and Dandelion, are kept in good running order. Kress Manufacturing Co., Cincinnati, O.

BECKWITH
$20.
Portable Family Sewing Machine,
ON
30 DAYS' TRIAL.
We will send to any address, C. O. D., one of our machines with privilege of examination before taking out of Express office; and if it does not give satisfaction we will refund the money, less Express charges, on return of machine within the time specified.
Beckwith Sewing Machine Co.
New York: 862 Broadway.
Chicago: 231 Wabash Ave.

"PSYCHOMANCY, or Soul Charming." How either sex may fascinate and gain the love and affection of any person they choose, instantly. This art all can possess, free, by mail, 25 cents; together with a Marriage Guide, Egyptian Oracle, Dreams, Hints to Ladies, &c. 1,000,000 sold. A queer book. Address T. WILLIAM & CO., Pubs, Philadelphia.

MARRIAGE GUIDE An interesting Illustrated work of 260 pages, containing valuable information for those who are married or contemplate marriage. Price 50 cts. by mail. Address Dr. Butts' Dispensary, 12 North Eighth Street, St. Louis, Mo.

DR. A. G. OLIN HAPPY RELIEF. Don't despair! Read the cream of medical literature! Thirty years among the afflicted, thousands saved from an early grave; lost vitality; nervous weakness; who may marry; why not; lost memory; impaired health. Thirty lectures delivered at Chicago Medical Institute, price 50 cts. Consultation free. Cures guaranteed. Address or call on Dr. A. G. OLIN, 187 Washington-st., Chicago, Ill. Pleasant home for patients. All correspondence confidential.

DR. WHITTIER,
No. 617 St. Charles Street, St. Louis, Mo.,
continues to treat all cases of obstacles to marriage, blood impurities, every ailment or sickness which results from indiscretion or imprudence, with unparalleled success. Dr. W.'s establishment is chartered by the State of Missouri, was founded and has been established to secure safe, certain and reliable relief. Being a graduate of several medical colleges, and having the experience of a long and successful life in his specialties he has perfected remedies that are effectual in all these cases. His patients are being treated by mail or express everywhere. No matter who failed, call or write. From the great number of applications he is enabled to keep his charges low. 36 pages, giving full symptoms, for two stamps.
MARRIAGE GUIDE,
260 pages, a popular book which should be read by everybody. No married pair, or persons contemplating marriage, can afford to do without it. It contains the cream of medical literature on this subject, the results of Dr. W.'s long experience; also the best thoughts from late works in Europe and America. Sent sealed, post-paid for 50 cts.

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS, please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

Auburn Courier.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 12th, 1874.

Intimations of a radical reduction of rates of freights by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad upon the opening of its Chicago line, are causing uneasiness among the parties to the Saratoga agreement. No shipping through, are expected to complain.

Majorities have their perils. Now, let the Democrats behave themselves, and the futree secure. If some lunatics in some Southern town chooses to commence breaking the law; if the Democrats in the house see fit to do with wrong things, it will be easy to turn the tide of victory which is now overwhelming. Let us husband our resources.

Most heart rending accounts continue to be received of the sufferings of the settlers in the grasshopper devasted districts of Nebraska. The charitable all over the land are giving freely to aid in their relief. It is horrible to think that in this land of plenty woman and children are starving.

It has been a close run between the Democrats of Ohio and of Indiana as to which would give the largest majority on the State ticket, Ohio was by a few votes:

Ohio	17,202
Indiana	17,098

West Virginia Save 15,000 mojority on the same day Arkansas 74,000.

A year or so ago it was pronounced that the Democratic party was dead, yet on and after the first of January next the following states will have Democratic Governors:

New Hampshire,
Connecticut,
New Jersey,
Maryland
Virginia
Alabama
Arkansas
Kentucky
Indiana
Wesconsin
Nevada
Massachusetts,
New York
Deleware
West Virginia
Georgeia
Texas
Tennessee
Ohio
Missouri
Oregon

Here are twenty one Democratic Governors in thirty-seven State; and if there had been a general election this year several more would haae been chosen. Pretty good for the dead party.

The Vote of the Great Counties.

It is well to note, and it is quit significant, the vote of the great counties of the country. They are the headquarters of the daily press. They are the seat of intelligence, quickly transmitted. They have voted as follows:

	Dem. maj.
Lousville	4,000
Cincinnati	4,000
Chicago	6,000
St. Louis	6,000
Boston	6,000
Baltimore	12,000
New Orleans	12,000
Brooklin	13,000
New York	42,000
	105,000
	Rep. maj.
Philadelphia	12,800

The Democracy of the nation have just cause for feeling good over the election this week. Backed by the patronage of office and the corrupt dispensers of jobs and swindling schemes to rob the peopel, the Administration has run this government to build up itself to centralize power as rapidly as possible, and to grind down the people and tyronize over a once free nation.

But the tide has turned. The people have arisen, and spoken in thunder tones.

An oppressed nation has again thrown off its shackles that bound its people down, and in its majesty has demanded a pure government, a wise administration, and an economical Congress.

It has demanded that the breaks be immediately put on the wild career of Radical leaders who have well nigh ruined the country.

It has demanded that this whole country shall be at peace.

That the people shall rule this country and not an army under command of a tyrant.

We have prayed for peace, lo, these many years, and at last peace has dawned upon the nation.

If we only knew exactly when and how the money-lenders proposed to return to specie payments!

The Officia, Count.

The official vote of Indiana is authoritatively announced. The total number of votes cast for Secretary of State is 365,744, against 377,520 in 1872 indicating a falling off of only 11.776 votes. The votes cast for the several candidates are as follows.

Secretary of State
John E. Neff, Dem	182,053
W. W. Curry Rep	164,955
J. B. Stout & J. C. Bowles, Ind.	18,736
Auditor of State.
Ebenezer Henderson, Dem	181,322
J. A. Wildman, Rep	165,262
T. J. Truscott, Ind	19,053
Treasurer of State
B. C. Shaw, Dem	181,380
John B. Glover, Rep	164,971
N. S. Bennet. Ind	19,025
Attorney General.
Clarence A. Buskirk, Dem	178,859
James C. Denny. Rep	166,153
Wm. A. Peelle, Ind	18,584
Sup't of Public Instruction.
James H. Smart. Dem	180,896
John M. Bloss Rep	164.952
A. H. Graham, Ind	n18,844
Judg of Supreme Court.
Horace P Biddle Dem and Ind	198,080
Andrew L. Osborn, Rep	165,715

As will be seen from the above figures, the average Democratic majorities over Republican candidates are as follows: Secretary of State, Neff 17,098; Treasurer of State Shaw 167,06 Attorney General Buskirk, 12,706 Superintendent of Public Instruction, Smart, 15.944; Judg of the Supreme Court, Biddle,32,364. Average Independent vote,15,707 Average Democratic vote, 183,765. Average Republican vote, 165,852. Average Democartic majority, 18,413.

The Next House of Representatives.

There are quite a number of doubtful Congressional Districts. But we venture to suggest that the following table, showing the political complexion of the next House, will not be materally wrong. Here are the figures.

	Dem.	Rep
Main	5	5
New Hamshire (estimated)		1
Vermont		3
Massachuetts	6	5
Rhode Island		2
Connecticut (est)	3	1
New York	50	23
New Jersey	5	2
Pennsylvania	15	12
Delaware	1	..
West Virginia	3	..
Virginia	7	2
North Carolina	7	1
South Carolina	1	2
Florida		2
Georgeia	9	..
Alabama	6	2
Mississippi	1	5
Louisiana	6	..
Texas	7	..
Arkansas	4	..
Missouri	11	2
Ohio	13	7
Indiana	8	5
Illienois	11	8
Michigan	4	5
Minnesota	2.	1
Nevada		1
Wisconsi	2	7
Iowa		9
Kansas		3
Nebraska		1
Oregon	1	..
Caifornia	3	1
Maryland	6
Tennessee	7	2
Kentucky	9	..
Totals	180	114

Democratic majority,66

The Commercial desires to know what the Democracy will do with their victory in the House of Representatives. We will answer it. It has no responsibilities. The Democracy have no power under Federal Government any more than they have now.—It requires three branches of law-making power to enact a statute. The Democrats will have but one. We are but the barke upon the Radical car. We can arrest corrupt and bad legislation, but we can not carry through good measures. This it is important should be understood, since otherwise more will be expected of us than we can preform. This is, however, what we can and will do. We will appoint commitees of investigation into all the Executive Departments, and thereby expose frauds and corruption which no doubt exist, and which have been concealed and covered up through partisan friendship.—We will furthermore have an honest count for President and Vice-President of the United States, in 1877, of the Electoral vote in the house of Representatives. No State will be thrown out. This of itself is of the highest importance. —Enquirey

EDUCATIONAL COLUMN.

A. B. HUFFMAN, CONDUCTOR

Rest Not on Your Oars.

[By Mollie Schoonover.]

Rest not on your oars; for the tide drifteth ever.
And the boat left unguided by firm hands, shall be Carried far from its course at the will of the water.
You cannot lay idle on life's restless sea.
Toil bravely; o'er thought in the warsome struggle,
The waves should break o'er you, the clouds gather thick,
And your oars should grow numb, while your heart fails within you
As through the rough surges, you guide your bark frail.
Still press nobly onward with will ever undaunted,
Swerve not to the right nor to the left from the way
The sea will grow calm and the skies will be brighter.
Rest not on your oars till you enter the bay

The best elocutionary exercise yet devised for little scholars is that of having them read the list of exhibitors at the mechanics, Fair, particulary the part relating to "rag-rugs." When the child has repeated rag-rugs a score of times he will submit to any indignity that his teacher may see fit to impose upon him —Boston Globe

The term of school closed last Friday with the fine examination.

All in all, the term has been a pleasant and successful one, the examination of the different departments showed a good work on the part of pupils and teachers.

There will be a vacation of two weeks thus giving ample time for a good rest before the winter term, when we would be pleased to see all who can attend, and improve the shining hours.

Maxims for the first day of school.

1 Learn all you can in regard to the former organization of the school including the names of the pupils in each class and their degree of advancement—prior to opening the school.

2. Be at the school-house early and see that every thing is in good order.

3 Have clearly and definitely in mind just what you are going to do, and when and how you are going to do it.

4 After the opening exercise, which should be short, proceed at once, in the shortest way posible, to assign to each pupil something to do.

5. Make but few, if any rules.

6. Begin as you expect to continue. Allow no misconduct the first day, that you do not expect to allow on other days.

7. Be thoroughly prepared for your work, and do it in such a manner as to impress the pupils with the idea that you are master of the situation,

8. Begin with the old classification of the school, but have it distinctly understood from the first that you reserve the right to make necessary change in the future.

9. Be kind and gentle, but decided

10. If any reproof is necessary, let it be given privately and not before the school.

11. Dispatch your work so rapidly that all shall be kept busy.

12. First, last, and all time, work according to some plan—mix brains with your work.

The position of the Republican party reminds me of the position of a docter who went out west to parctice his profession. An old friend met him on the street one day, and asked how he was succeeding in his business

"First rate," he replied; "I've had one case."

"Well what was that?"

"It was a birth said the docter:"

"How did you succeed with it?"

"Well, the old woman died, and the child died, but, by the grace of God, I'll save the old man yet."

Our political opponents are anxious to know "What we are gaing to do with it." What are you going to do without it?

Colorado Excursions—Go West Thro St. Louis.

During the Summer Season, the Missouri Pacific and Kansas Pacific Through Line, via St. Louis and Kansas City, will sell Excursion Tickets from St. Louis to Denver and Return, good ninety days from date of sale, at extremely low rates thus affording every one an excellent opportunity to visit the famous resorts of Colorado, among the beautiful Parks of the Rocky Mountains.

To all who are seeking new homes and are about to take a trip to Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Nebraska, Oregon or California, we recommend a cheap, safe, quick and direct route by the way of St. Louis, over the Missouri Pacific Through Line. It is equipped with fine day Coaches, Ruce's Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman's Palace Sleepers the famous Miller Safety Platform and the celebrated Westinghouse Air Brake and runs its trains from St. Louis to principal points in the West without chance. The Texas Connection of this road is now completed and passengers are offered a first-class all-rail route from St. Louis to Texas, either over the Missouri, Kansas & Texas R. R., via Sedalia, or over the Atlantic & Pacific R. R., via Vinita.

For full information in regard to Colorado Excursions, or trips to any point in the Great West, address or call upon either of the following names Agents of the Line: J. F. Thompson, 157 Exchange St. Buffalo, N. Y.; S. H. Thompson, Union Depot, Columbus Ohio; or E. A. Ford Gen'l Passenger Agent, 25 South Fourth Street St. Louis. Quetions will be cheerfully and promptly answered.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb County Circuit Court, the undersigned Administrator of the estate of Fredrick N. Bohm, deceased will offer for sale at auction on the premises on Saturday December 5th, 1874, town lot No. three (3) in Ensley's 1st addition to the town of Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana.

Terms—One third cash in hand, the residue in two equal payments at twelve and eighteen months, with notes at interest, waiving valuation and appraisement laws and secured by mortgage on the premises. Sale to begin at 2 o'clock pm.

JOHN TRESH, Adm'r,

Notice of Sale.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court the undersigned administrator of the estate of Samuel Hurnie, deceased, will offer for sale at auction on the premises on an equal undivided two third of the following described land: The northeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section twenty eight [28] township thirty-three [33] north of range thirteen [13] east in DeKalb County, Indiana.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 5th, 1874,

TERMS—One third cash, the residue in equal payments at 12 and 18 months, with notes at interest, waiving benefit of appraisement laws, and security by mortgage on the premises. Sale to begin at 2 o'clock pm. on said day.

JAMES G. LAWHEAD, Adm'r.

ORDINANCE.

Be it ordained by the Board of Trustees of the incorporated town of Auburn,

1st. That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to peddle fresh meats within the corporate limits of said town in less quantities than on quarter at a time, or fresh fish in less quantities than one half barrel, without paying to the Marshal of said town the sum of two dollars for each and every day he wishes to peddle said meats or fite and procure a license thereof from the clerk of said town.

2nd. Any person or persons violating the provisions of section one of this ordinance shall be fined in the sum of five dollars for each offence.

3rd. This ordinance shall take effect in ten days after its publication in the Auburn Courier.

By Order of the Board

Attest F. E. DAVENPORT, Clerk
Oct 26th, 1874.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of an Execution to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, in a cause wherein The Kalamazoo Manufacturing Company is Plaintiff and Henry H. Houser is Defendant require me to make the sum of one hundred and forty dollars and seventy-nine cents, with interest on said judgment and costs, I will expose at public sale, to the highest bidder, on between the hours of 10 o'clock am and 4 o'clock pm of said day, at the door of the Court House of DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits, for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate:

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 28th, 1874

The north half [½] of lot five [5] in the village of Cedar Creek Station in DeKalb County, Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said judgment, interest and costs, I will, at the same time and place, expose at public sale, the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said judgement, interest and cost. Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

W. L. MEESE, Sheriff

Auburn Nov. 5th, 1874.

COLEGROVE Atty for Plff.
$10 50

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a Decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court in a cause wherein James Hamilton and Rudolph Sechler are plaintiffs, and Lain Rice and George Rice are defendants, requiring me to make the sum of Three hundred and eighty three dollars and ninety cents, with interest on said judgment and costs, I will expose at Public Sale, to the highest bidder on

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 28th, 1874,

between the hours of 10 and 4 o'clock of said day at the door of the court house of DeKalb County, Indiana the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit

Lot number one hundred and nine (109) in the town of orange with a flax mill on said lot No. one hundred and nine (109) with machinery and fixtures, in DeKalb County Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said judgment, interest and costs, I will, at the same time and place, expose at public sale, the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said judgement, interest and costs.

W. L. MEESE, Sheriff.

Nov. 4, 1874 $10.50

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a DECREE to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court in a cause wherein John K. Evans is Plaintiff and Robert Bell, Margaret Bell and Evern Jones are Defendants requiring me to make the sum of nine hundred and twenty-two dollars and forty cents, with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at public sale to the highest bidder

ON SATURDAY, DEC. 5th, 1874,

between the hours of 10 o'clock am. and 4 o'clock pm. of said day, at the door of the Court House of DeKalb County, Indiana, the rents and profits, for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit:

The north half of the northwest quarter of section seventeen [17] in township thirty-three [33] north of range twelve [12] east, in DeKalb County, Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interests and costs, I will at the same time and place, expose at public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs.

Sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation and appraisement laws.

W. L. MEESE, Sheriff.

Auburn, Indiana, Nov. 12, 1874.

D. STUDABAKER, Atty for Plff.
$10 50

The Great Cause of
HUMAN MISERY

Just Published in a Sealed Envelope. Price 6 cts

A LECTURE on the nature, treatment and radical cure of Seminal Weakness, or Spermatorrhoea, introduced by self abuse, Involuntary Emissions, Impotency, Nervous Debility and fits; Mental and Physical Incapacity, &c—by Robt J. Culverwell, M. D. author of the 'Green Book,' &c.

The world renowned author, in this admirable Lecture, clearly proves from his own experience that the awful consequences of self abuse may be cured without medicine, and without dangerous surgical operations; pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radical.

This lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands. Sent, under seal, in a plain envelope to any address, on receipt of 6 cents, or two postage stamps. Address

CHAS. J. C. KLINE & CO.,
127 Bowery, N. Y. Post Office Box 4586

"Unquestionably the best sustained work of the kind in the World."

Harper's Magazine
ILLUSTRATED.

Notices of the Press:

The ever increasing circulation of this excellent monthly proves its continued adaptation to popular desires and needs. Indeed, when we think into how many homes it penetrates every month, we must consider it as one of the educaters of the public mind, for its vast popularity has been won by no appeal to stupid prejudices or depraved tastes. —Boston Globe.

The character which this Magazine possesses for variety, enterprise, wealth and literary culture that has kept pace with, if not led the times, should cause its conductors to regard it with justifiable complacency. The Magazine has done good and not evil, all the days of its life—Brooklyn Eagle.

TERMS:

Postage FREE to all Subscribers in the United S.

Harper's Magazine 1 year $4. Subscriptions to Harper's Magazine, Weekly and Bazar, to 1 address 1 year $10. Or 2 of Harper's Periodicals, 1 year $7—postage free.

An extra copy of either the Magazine, Weekly or Bazar will be supplied gratis for every club of five subscribers at $4 each in one remittance; or 6 for $20 without extra copy—postage free.

Back numbers can be suplied at any time.

A complete set of Harper's Magazine, now comprising 49 volumes, in neat cloth binding, will be sent by express for $2 25 per volume. Single volume by mail, post paid, $3 Cloth cases, for binding 58 cents, post paid.

Address, HARPER BRO York

THE OLD RELIABLE.

F. E. DAVENPORT,

Corner Main and Eighth-Sts.,

—DEALER IN—

Pure Drugs and Medicines,

DYE STUFFS, PERFUMERY,

Toilet Soaps Cosmetics, Hair Oils, Brushes, Combs, Toilet Mirrors and Druggists' Sundries in General.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY!

Wall and Window Paper!

Oiled, Linen and Slit Window Shades, and Shade Fixtures.

All the latest POEMS and MISSELANIOUS BOOKS constantly on hand or ordered. Blank Books, Pocket Memorandums, Portmonies and Bill Books, WRITING PAPERS. All Styles and prices ALBUMS! ALBUMS! ALBUMS! just received for the Holliday trade. Over $300.00 worth of Juvenile and Toy Books, which will be sold at panic prices. Smith's Gold Pens, warranted the best. Also steel Pens, Penholders, Pencils, Ink and Ink Stands &c

SCHOOL BOOKS!

Covered with best Cover ever invented Free Of Charge

Davenport has the exclusive right to use this book cover in Auburn, and will give his patrons the benefit of the same.

PIONEER

STORE!

HARDWARE

FOR EVERYBODY.

PLOWS, & Points

PLOWS

FOR EVERYBODY!

STOVES

FOR EVERYBODY!

Building Material for Everybody!

Go to

JOHN L. DAVIS,

THE BRICK BLOCK.

Sutermeister,
Becker & Bond,
ARCHITECTS
BUILDING
CONTRACTORS,
AND DEALERS IN Building Stone
AMERICAN AND
ITALIAN MARBE,
GRANITE.
TOOMBSTONES,
MONUMENTS,
MANTELS,
GRATES, &C.,
Corner Main and Fulton Streets,
Fort Wayne, Ind.

A CARD.

A Clergyman, while residing in South America, as a missionary, discovered a safe and simple remedy for the cure of Nervous weakness, Early Decay, Disease of the Urinary and Seminal Organs, and the whole train of disorders brought on by baneful and vicious habits. Great numbers have been cured by this noble remedy. Prompted by a desire to benefit the afflicted and unfortunate, I will send the receipt for preparing and using this medicine, in a sealed envelope, to any one who needs it, Free of Charge. Address,

JOSEPH T. INMAN,
Station D, Bible House, New York City.

We Have Received,

And are now daily opening our general stock for the Fall and Winter Trade in every department of our business.

The unexplained depression in the Dry Goods market during the last two weeks, has offered an opportunity to cash buyers not before known in many years. DRY GOODS have now reached a lower bottom than ever seemed possible again in this country. The panic prices were "war prices" compared to what we have been buying the best class of desirable goods at for the past two weeks at about the dullest period of trade in the history of New York.

Our stock was never more complete in every department—seldom ever so good. We seldom ever offered in every way such inducements as now.—The stock is the completest and most attractive of any season in many years. Having bought at the present low prices we are prepared to give our customers better value for their money, and more of it than at any time before.

Close Cash Buyers!

Should examine our elegant line of
Beaded Passementrie Trimmings
Beaded Buttons and Ornaments, Beaded Belts
Pocket and Cloaks Loops

EXAMINE
New cloaks, New Shawls and Furs.
EXAMINE
New Felt Skirts and Water Proofs
EXAMINE
Underwear, Hosiery, and Gloves.
EXAMINE
Housekeeping, Linens, and Cottons.
EXAMINE
Black Cashmeres and De Este
EXAMINE
New Winter Dress Goods
EXAMINE
New Calicos and Domestics
EXAMINE
Cloak and Trimming Velvets
EXAMINE
Cloaking and Cassimeres.
EXAMINE
Flannels and Blankets
EXAMINE
New Goods which are arriving daily

Root & Company,
At their New Location
46 & 48 Columbia-st.
AT THE
New York Store.

J. J. VanAuken,
COUNTY SURVEYOR.

Will attend promptly to all surveying. Office with Ross & Hartman, Auburn Indiana. Persons requesting work by letter, should give township, & section.

The Newest & Best
The Mammoth House.
19 WEST MAIN-ST.,
FORT WAYNE, IND.

M. E. Woodward!

Has just received the finest and largest stock of Clothing,
PIECE GOODS, ETC.
at his new store, ever in the place.
NO OLD GOODS!
and Fashionable Furnishing Goods, Boys &c. Don't fail to see the new store.

AUBURN
Meat Market.
Eighth St. Next Door to Bakery.

M. Houston having purchased the interest of M. Long in this popular stand is now ready to supply the public a good articles of fresh meat of all kinds, in the best style at the lowest prices.

Pioneer Sketches

—or—

DeKALB COUNTY

NUMBER 32.

It was now Friday evening and Mr. Smith had but one more day to change his entry. So he had another race to go to Ft. Wayne before the land office closed on Saturday. This time he is successful, but was nearly worn down with fatigue and anxiety. Eight times had he visited Ft. Wayne before he secured his future home.

2nd Settleing and its Hardships. It was on Friday the 27th of may 1837, in the afternoon of the day, that Isaac B. Smith, Cyrus Smith and Joseph Dalong, with their families, arrived on the hill where the residence of Mr. Smith now is. There was not a shanty or a wigwam then, to keep off the night dews, they cut forks and drove four of them in the ground and lying poles on these, covered with brush. Under these they lay on the ground on Friday night, and on Saturday put up an cabin such as three men could raise to the joists, and again lay under the brush on that night. The next morning they discovered an unwelcome bed fellow, in the form of a massasogga, or black rattlesnake and, not being very much disposed to share their bed with these natives, they went at it on Sunday morning, and cobbed up the cabin, and covered one side with black ash bark pealed from the adjacent trees, and fixing poles between the logs, laid their bed some feet above the ground, that Mr. Massasogga, might have the ground to himself. On Monday they covered the other side of the cabin, and the joist with bark, and carrying in some pole sleepers, laid a puncheon floor. By the time the floor was laid, the joists were found to be so low that even a woman (Mrs. Camburn) who afterwards settled in the neighborhood, could not walk straight under them.—We will not say but that she might been taller than the majority of her sex.

Whatever may be thought of cabin raising on Sunday, it must be remembered that necessity knows no law. It seemed fortunates that the cabin was finished as soon as at was, for no sooner was the roof lain than it began to rain, and for twenty days, there was scarcely one that was not more or less rainy. In this cabin, 16 by 18 feet, the three families lodged together for two months, and then Mr. Dalong moved back to Plesant Lake, and Cyrus Smith put up a cabin for himself.

On leaving Ohio Mr. Smith had boxed up 5 bushels of potatoes and among them had packed his pots and kittles not wanted on the road. and sent the box with other goods, by public conveyance to Adrian, Michigan. He did not get them to his cabin, until about the first of July, and, on opening the box found them awfully smashed up, by the iron ware.—He thought it was now too late to plant them but Mr. Park advised him by all means to do so. He planted on the 8th and 9th of July, and in the fall dug 86 bushels from the five bushels of mangled seed! We will now relate the hardest mill trip yet. In July following his settlement, Mr. S. took the ague, and had it with but little intermission till the June following. In December 1837 he had it so severely, each alternated day, that he was unable to be about. On his well day he could be around but of course, was very weak. Getting out of bread stuff, it became necessary that, sick as he was he should go in quest of some. So yoking up his oxen, he started for the town of Gilead Michigan. six miles beyond Orland or the Vermont settlement, as it was then called. It had rained much, and the streams were swollen. He made his way along however, lying by, sick every other day, until he reached Gilead, where he got eight bushels of corn, and started back to Vermont mills, in the settlement of the same name. It had now turned cold as Greenland, and was blowing fiercely while the air was filled with descending snow. It was yet early in the morning, and he had gone threefourths of a mile on the road to the mill, when the wind blew a tree across the road, almost brushed the oxens heads. To get around the tree he turned out of the road expecting to come right in again, but failed to do so; and, getting bewildered amid the falling snow, he drove on through the opening, as near as he could in the direction of the mills,—on—on—on for hours after hours and still no road or mill was found.

Mr. S. had on his head, a palm leaf hat that had been rather a fine on but was now, the worse of the wear. While traveling bewildered, through the opening, a whirling blast whisked it from his head and, the last he saw of it, it was carrering on the wings of the wind—rising higher and higher until it was lost to sight in a cloud of snow.

Auburn Courier.

Wool 40c.
Butter 28c.
Potatoes 50
Oats, 48 cts.
Apples 45 cts.
Eggs, 18 cents.
Corn 48 @ 50 cts.
Wheat, white, $1
Wood $1.75 @ $2.

Local and Miscellaneous.

School has closed.

Pumpkins in market.

Go and see the sights at Abright's.

Go to Davenport's for School Books.

New stock of fine jewelry at Abright's.

School books and Slates at Davenport's.

House moving is a fashionable feature here.

Jone's Truss, the boss. Sold by Davenport.

If you want a fine chromo cheap go to Abright's.

Best school Inks at Houser's book store.

A new stock of toys just received at Abright's.

Beard has a lot of nice Hickory nuts for sale.

There are not many hogs bought this season.

Remember Davenport uses the best book cover ever invented.

Davenport covers school books free of charge.

The best cigars in town are kept by Beard.

Thomas Baldock is bringing down his old work shop.

Handsome gold watches for ladies a Abright's.

Look out for burglars. There's some around.

The Conservatory scholars are having vacation.

Our place was crowded with strangers yesterday.

Mr. Woodford is east buying goods. Look out for a fine display.

The American Express Company will monoplize the Baltimore road.

We are obliged to Mr. Samuel Lintz for a basket of nice apples.

Save your money by having school books covered by Davenport.

S. C. Huffman, of Findlay, Ohio, brother to A. R. is visiting our place.

Hon. W. I. Howard, our State Senator, was in town last week.

We are obliged to Mr. Geo. Hogue for copies of the Rocky Mountain News.

Joe Rainier is now occupying his new residence at the north end of Main street.

Ten reams of the best writing paper just received at Houser's new book store.

Frank Baker has returned to our place again, after a long stay in the east.

Tommy Leasure is not with Beard. He thinks of going it alone.

If you want bill heads, letter heads, visiting cards, &c., call at the Courier office.

From the last Indianian we should judge that the Republicans had not held any election yet.

Grant has issued his proclamation for a general thanksgiving on the 26th of this month.

For Sale.—A neat and commodious dwelling in the lower part of town for sale cheap. Apply to C. F. Mader. 46tf.

We are in favor of more money—on subscription. Don't be backward, gentlemen, for that will compel us to come forward.

Mrs. T. R. Dickinson of Waterloo, contributed an interesting article to the Press last week, on the Women's Congress, held at Chicago a few days ago.

A special election is to be held in Steuben county on the 23d of this month, for the election of county Treasurer, the last election having resulted in a tie.

The Auburn House is now without a landlord, and business seems dull at that end of town.

Mr. Robinson, formerly of the Auburn House, has started a day boarding house, over Houston's & Benedict's meat market.

The growing wheat all through the county presents a fine appearance notwithstanding the drouth.

As this is the time for sauce, you should bear in mind that Beard has a splendid lot of cranberries.

Go and see the new goods at Mrs. Little & Miss Fair's Millinery room, over Snyder's hardware store.

The market has been full of corn for several days past, selling at 50 cents per bushel.

The M. E. Church has gone west to grow up with the country. Westward the empire takes its way.

The streets and sidewalks are in a bad condition—dirt and rubbish of every kind can be seen on almost any of the principal streets.

The Teachers' Institute of the county is in session at Butler. The attendance is very large, and the proceedings interesting. Proceedings next week.

Justice John T. Widney and F. M. Bacon have been designated by Clerk Lanning as a commission to take evidence in the Waterman-Taylor contest to-day at the Court House.

There are a couple of tom cats in our neighborhood who are some on music. They intend giving a concert some evening and we want to be on hand with a shotgun.

The Fort Wayne Gazette gives a thrilling account of the kidnapping of eighty-two children, belonging to one family, in Washington township, of that county. That's rather fruity.

The ladies Society of the Presbyterian Church will meet with Mrs. L. Abright on Wednesday afternoon next. A pleasant time is anticipated.

Lew Yordermark lost a $20 bill yesterday, between his store and Stahs's shop The finder will be rewarded by returning the same

Our enterprising Hardware merchant, Jno. L. Davis; has been giving his store room a thorough renovating, putting in new show cases, etc. It now presents a fine appearance.

J. L. Davis, of the Pioneer Hardware, is now carrying the largest assortment of Lamps in the county. He has them marked down so low that it will be to your advantage to call on him before purchasing.

Our hunters are having a rich harvest. We know of one that feasts on quail every morning, has roasted pheasant for dinner, and fricassed squirrel for supper. Wonder if he knows there is an editor in town who would envy him if he were not a good christian.

The minstrel performance given in Ensley's Hall Monday night, was one of the best performances, of the kind, we ever had. Mr. Welch is good, and the others are as usual. A great deal of confusion was had in the audience by a few happy "young gentlemen."

For the largest variety of Cook, Box and Parlor stoves, go to the Pioneer Hardware. The prices have been reduced so low that every family can afford to have one. They keep every size and style imaginable, and send them to you a l polished ready for use.

One of our school boys went up head the other day in his class. He was asked to describe the divisions of water, which he done promptly Is there anything resembling gulfs, bays, straits, rivers, etc., about Auburn. was the next question. "Don't know, unless it should be the "pike hole." Class dismissed.

Our capital friend George W. Maxwell Esq., not finding it pleasant to be alone any longer, has taken unto himself a wife, and Miss Lydia A. Deeter is the happy bride. They were married on the 3d by Justice Wolf. We wish them much happiness and prosperity, and many happy returns.

Lauferty has returned and is now opening out a fine stock of Clothing and Gents' Furnishing Goods. The selection embraces the latest styles, and a handsome stylish suit can be had at a low figure. A fine line of gents' furnishing goods can now be seen at this popular store.

The Fort Wayne News says that: "For "more than thirty years the Democracy "have been making assaults on the vir-"tue of Massachusetts and it has suc-"cumed at last." How's that? The Democracy did not do it alone. A great many Republicans assisted them. We move that the Republican party be arrested on a charge of incest.

The Columbia City Post says Rev. Geo W. Kissel died at South Whitley on Tuesday, Oct. 27th, after a brief illness. The deceased was a minister of the gospel, and a faithful pastor of the German Reform Church. Mr. Kissel had purchased property in South Whitley, and had lived there only a short time previous to his death.

New Arrangement.—Mrs. A. J. Little has moved her millinery establishment in Ensley's block for the accommodation of her customers. Her old patrons can see her now, without much trouble, and will find her in the old pleasant way, ready to sell goods at a fair living price. Mrs. L. has associated with her Miss A. Fair, who is a practical workman. The dressmaking department is conducted by Miss J. A. Cushing, who has had a number of years experience in the business, and our friends generally can be assured of no botch job if they entrust their work to her management. Dresses, Cloaks and in fact everything in the dressmaking line, will be done neat and tasty and at very reasonable figures.

J. J. VanAuken, while attending the Conservatory concert, had his residence broken into by some burglars. A pane of glass was removed from the window and the door unlocked. Nothing was taken, however, but the household goods were thoroughly ransacked and distributed here and there upon the floor. Mr V. has the measure of the foot print, and an effort will be made to discover who the villians are. Mrs. Balcome, living in part of the house, was also visited, but nothing was taken.

An item from the Warsaw Indianian in regard to the course of the Ligonier Banner in the late Congressional campaign in our issue of last week, does the editor of that paper an injustice. We know that Mr. Stoll labored for the success of Mr. Kelly, and even made personal efforts in his behalf. We were absent when the paper went to press and did not know that the item had been copied. Because the Banner did not indulge in fulsome notices of Mr. Kelly that is no indication that he was not in favor of his election.

The Japanese Pea is now attracting the attention of our horticulturalists. We obtained seed last spring and planted according to directions. It was our delight to see them grow and we cultivated them with great diligence. They grew beautifully, nearly four feet high. Though we did not get a single pea, yet it was a satisfaction to know that they grew so thriftily, and looked so green and vigorous. At one time we thought they would grow all winter, but Jack Frost dispelled this illusion. We did not care about any peas as long as they looked promising. Everybody asked what they were, and the answer was Japanese Peas. Where are the peas. was the next question. We referred them to their beauty, and asked if that wasn't enough They couldn't see it, and we confess we were in the same boat, as to the actual existence of peas. Plant the Japanese pea by all means. They will bear all the cultivating they can stand. In fact they bear a good deal in this direction, and that is about all the bearing they are susceptible of.

The concert given by the Conservatory of Music last Friday evening was real good, and many have spoken of it since in complimentary terms. The acoustic properties of the hall in which it was given are bad, and it is difficult to sing to advantage, yet, the solos and choruses were well given, especially the anvil chorus, which received an encore from the delighted audience. Miss Littlefield played excellently at the piano as also did Miss Balcome, the latter playing "Home, Sweet Home," for an encore. Little Mattie Martin sang her song beautifully, and Jimmie Steel played the piano in admirable style for a new beginner. The instrumental duet by Missess. Sturgeon and Hollopeter, was also well rendered. In fact all did well, the burlesque band furnishing a plenty of fun for the occasion. As the first concert this speaks well for the Conservatory, and we trust its second term will be still more prosperous and successful.

Fort Wayne Papers.

For profundity of thought and brilliancy of wit, commend us to the Fort Wayne Gazette. If that paper keeps on improving as it has for the past three months, it is impossible to conjecture as to its probable future. These thoughts are suggested from the fact that we have not seen that daily for several weeks.

The Sentinel never varys much. While it may not get much better it never gets any worse. Its editorials are well written, but some of them are very lengthy.

The spicy little News is rapidly becoming the favorite. It is generally filled with good things, short, crisp, and to the point. It should be enlarged without delay.

The Journal is a staid old paper, well meaning, and doubtless useful. It possesses a feature that none of the rest enjoy. Sargeant Kennedy is a regular contributor. It is always readable, and as saucy as a school girl.

President Quincy and several other officials of the Baltimore road were in town last Monday night, and it was thought that something definite would be known in regard to the location of the shops. Several of our citizens were in waiting when they arrived, and the matter was brought up, but they seemed as reluctant to communicate upon the subject as ever. It is said that some point west of Albion has offered 150 acres of land for their location, and that several points are making bids for them. There is no knowing what the company desire for the location of their shops, except that 40 acres of land is needed. If our citizens knew just what was necessary to secure them, we believe they would make an effort to come up to the scratch. It was ascertained that the present location of these shops, wherever that is will be but temporary, as their permanent establishment could not be decided on until spring.

Through trains will commence running from Chicago next Monday, and the object of the visit of these officers west is to make arrangements to this effect.

Later.—We learn since the above was in type that the temporary shops have been located three miles west of the junction at what is usually called the "swamp." It is certainly not a desirable place for the location of these shops, but we propose to let the Baltimore folks have their own way about it. A large force is to work making the necessary arrangements for the coming winter. A "Y" will be put in and several side tracks, but we don't think there will be much done in the way of building.

Butler Items.

It surprised us last Saturday to note the extended improvements going on at Butler. Three new brick business houses are going up on its principal streets, and many new residences have been erected within a short time. It is the center for a large trade, and her merchants are enterprising and wide awake.

Dr. Hoopengarner is putting up a fine brick building for business purposes, near Stiefel & Och's new store. Moss & Hoffman have erected a nice office near the post office. Mr. Shorthill has bought the property where the billiard hall now is, and contemplates extensive improvements.

T. C. Sargeant is now in the Eel River house, near the depot, and in a few weeks will have that popular resort in first-class order. It is large and comfortable, and will be kept in first class style. We got a good dish of hash here at the lowest rates.

Haskins & Son are getting their handsome livery establishment in first rate order and when completed will be the boss institution. By the way they are agreeable gentlemen and cannot fail to meet with success.

G. T. Johns has on hand a splendid stock of Harness, and keeps an assortment of everything in his line.

Our friend Comer is also up with the times, and the show of Harness, etc., at his popular establishment is good.

W. I. Jones is doing a good business in the grocery and boot and shoe business, and is one of the most clever gentlemen in town.

Stiefel & Och's store was crowded with purchasers all taking advantage of the excellent bargains offered in the dry goods line of this enterprising firm.

Strauss & Kahn were also busy waiting upon their customers, and seemed to be keeping up with their neighbors in enterprise.

But we have not time to sketch all we saw in the short time we were there, yet we are satisfied that our neighbor is alive and don't mean to be far behind any of us

Corunna Items.

Last Saturday this place was crowded with teams, and people and merchants generally seemed very busy.

Several car loads of hogs were shipped last Saturday night by Mr. Brumback. Owing to the long way they were drove, three or four of them "went up the spout."

Ruff. Eddy and his better half have been visiting friends at this place for several days.

Lafe Miller, freight agent, was almost fatigued Saturday, unloading the large amount of wheat that was brought to that market.

Mr. J. Orr, one of the most trusty and responsible mechanics to move buildings in Northern Indiana, has a very particular job for W. Adams, on Main street.

Barney & Jim are making the livery business do its best. They have some good, substantial rigs, and are receiving a liberal patronage from the citizens there.

A load of young "roosters" attended Bryer's theatre, and were highly pleased with the entertainment." No "getting 'em up" done.

The dancers there had a gay and festive time last Friday tripping the fantastic toe to the music till the "wee sma' hours.' They were disappointed in supper through a misunderstanding between the manager and the landlord.

A large hunting party was organized, and two captains chose sides to see which could bring in the most game. They were out nearly all day and the—wining side beat. The citizens prepared a sumptuous supper for the weary hunters, and judging from reports, "seven loaves and five fishes" wouldn't have been enough for "Theo." alone.

Sunday was a lively day for this village, the United Brethren quarterly meeting being held there. Teams could be seen coming from every direction from early in the morning until time for services to commence, and the streets were well filled with its citizens. The Presiding Elder Mr Brown, officiated, and the audience was highly edified with the Elder's remarks. Rev. Mr. Crawford occupied a short time. Two members from Wisconsin were taken into the church, and the audience was dismissed at 2 o clock.

Real Estate Transfers.

Furnished by Rose & Hartman, attorneys at law, who have the only abstract of title in the county. Deeds and mortgages to be good against subsequent bona fide purchasers or mortgagees must be recorded within ninety days from their execution. Chattle mortgages within ten days. Mechanics' liens, within 60 days from commencement of building or furnishing of material.

Philip P. Nimmons to E. B. Nimmons, s w ¼ of n e ¼ sec 22, Wilmington, $1000

Freeman Kelly to Chas. Kelly, e ½ of s e ¼, sec 25, Smithfield—$4500

I N Loveland to L Loveland, n ½ of s e ¼, sec 31, Stafford—$2500

C A Mead to G E Mathews, e ½ of e ½ of s w ¼, sec 22, Richland—$2500

Martha McKay to T J Saxton, lot 31 w ad Auburn—$1,800

Wm Dragoo to Susannah Link, s w ¼ sec 17, Concord—$610

J B Eckhart to S B Johnson, lot 25, Lockhart's 1st ad Waterloo—$1,100

S H Bartlett et al to Wm B Rhodamer pt lot 50, Vienna—$889

Chris Long Jr to W Cowen, s w ¼ of s e ¼, sec 38, Richland—$1,165

Edward John to C A Mead, [illegible] sec 24, Richland, 40a—$2,650

A W Fegardie to E L Shorthill, s pt lot 6, D ad Butler—$1,300

For the Auburn Courier.

The Battle of the Ballots.

Now it happened in this wise: During the first century of the Independence of the United States of America, in the latter part of the tenth decade, during the reign of Grant the Great and while Thomas was Governor of Indiana, and Frank was Director of the Court House of the county of Steuben, that the word of the Lord (to-wit, that of the people) came unto Frank saying: Set thy house in order, for thou shalt no longer be scribe for the Treasury; but he heeded it not, and disregarded the writing on the wall of the hall of the Court House, which was difined to read—"weighed in the balance and not wanted." Then Frank was exceeding angry because of the hand writing on the wall and the interpretation thereof, and he gathered together certain smooth fellows, to-wit: Irving, Eugene, and John, and a multitude of publicans and sinners, and sent them throughout the realms of Steuben, and behold they called loud and long from the rising of the sun till the going down of the same, and also during the night time, saying worthy is Frank of the Court House, who by his brain hath made the county so great, and by his strategy hath gotten us into office.

Wherefore they gathered the publicans and sinners together in the ninth month, and the 13th day of the month, to make Frank Scribe for the Treasury each in his own province where he belonged—and behold they balloted for Frank. But the chief people balloted for Jessee the carpenter, one in whom was found the principles of the people. Now it was this wise that those that joined Frank got them up early in the morning setting the battle array early. But Jesse in whom was found faith was favored, for the sun stood on Steuben and the moon on Pigeon, till justice decided for Jesse. Never before was there such a day in Steuben, for the sun and moon went not down for the space of a day, for as Frank and his host was overthrown, the sun was still shining on the Heights of Hog-back. However there were some that escaped, among whom was Robert the Recorder and William the worthy, in whom the people took pleasure. Then the word of the Lord came to Frank saying: Thou mayest go to thy farm seven years, and raise grass for oxen, and when seven times has passed over you, your reason shall be restored and thou mayest again be King of the Court House. Now the rest of the acts of Frank: behold they are written in the crooks of the Court House.

The County Teacher's Institute, now in session, is one of the best ever held in the county. One hundred and twenty-seven teachers enrolled their names the first day, and at the end of the second day the number exceeded one hundred and seventy.

The Auburn delegation is well worthy of comment, she being represented by fifteen teachers.

All is lively and prospects bright.

Messrs. J. M. Alcott and Wm. A. B[illegible] of Indianapolis are present.

The north part of town seems to be doing the building in the way of residences. Some twenty five or thirty are now under headway, and many of the old ones are having additions added to them.

MARRIED.

SCOTT—CLARK—November 5th, 1874, at the parsonage of Kendallville charge, Method[illegible] Church, by Rev. T. E. Lancaster, Mr. Jares F. Scott and Miss Amelia A. second daughter of G. C. & Sevilla Clark, all of DeKalb County, Ind.

$100.........PER MONTH.........$160.

Agents are making $100 per month selling the Howe Sewing Machines. Liberal commissions paid to live, energetic men, to canvass. Apply to R. S. Kestor, Auburn. 46t4.

HERE'S SOMETHING NOVEL.

A Chance for Somebody to win a $500 City Lot in Rockhill's Addition.

Tickets Given Away.

A novel idea in the way of advertising has been brought to our notice by Messrs Sam Pete and Max, managers of the noted Star Clothing house. They propose to distribute a thousand tickets between this and January 1st 1875. No one is asked to buy these tickets, or pay for them, in any way. It is simply a new method of advertising their establishment

The lucky ticket will be determined by the Mayor of the city, before a number of prominent citizens. All the numbers from 1 to 1000 will be placed in a wheel which will be shaken up, and the committee can decide whether the first or any succeeding number shall win the $500 prize, lot No. 69 corner Mechanic and Walnut streets Rockhill's 2d addition.—Every purchaser of clothing to the amn't of ten dollars (10) will receive a ticket the purchaser selecting any number he desires.

No person will, under any circumstances, be allowed more than one ticket.

The clear title deed, paid in full, can be seen at the Star Clothing House No. 5 East Main st. Ft. Wayne Ind.

An Ordinance.

Be it ordained by the Board of Trustees of the incorporated town of Auburn, DeKalb County Co., Ind., that it shall be the duty of owners and part owners of lots and parts of lots lying on or adjoining the north side of Green street running west to the east side of Jackson street, thence south on the east side of Jackson street to the south side of Williams street to plank, maintain and keep in repair so much of the sidewalk as lies fronting the said lots or parts along and adjoining said street with a walk six feet wide, to be made of good and sound oak plank not less than 1½ inches in thickness nor more than six inches wide, placed on good substantial sleepers of sound oak timber not less than 3x4 inches in size or of good pine plank not less than 1½ inches in thickness nor more than 12 inches in width, which may be placed on cross bearings of sound oak timber not less than 3x5 inches in size nor more than 4 feet apart.

Said sidewalk shall be made on a grade with the streets and alley crossing along said sidewalks within thirty days after the publishing of this ordinance in the Auburn Courier.

So much of the ordinance passed Feb. 16th, 1874, as relates to building sidewalks on the south side of Williams street from west side of Jackson to west side of Main street is hereby repealed.

Done by order of the Board of Trustees of the incorporated town of Auburn, DeKalb County, Ind., at their regular session, November 2nd, 1874.

Attest: [illegible], Town Clerk.

AUBURN COURIER

THURSDAY, NOV. 12, 1874.

NEWS SUMMARY.

The East.

THE fourth annual convention of the North American Bee-Keepers' Association meets at Pittsburgh, Pa., on Nov. 11.

THE Milford (N. H.) Five Cent Savings Bank has suspended. Liabilities, $500,000.

THERE is a prospect that in about six months the creditors of Jay Cooke & Co. will receive ten per cent. of their accounts.... George H. Kingsbury, the assistant receiving teller of the National Bank of Redemption, in Boston, has been arrested, charged with embezzling $31,000 of the bank funds within the last two years. He has refunded $20,000.

A DWELLING house at Allegheny City, Pa., was entered by burglars one night last week, and robbed of considerable silver ware. The miscreants then set fire to the house, and one of the slumbering inmates, Margaret Lynch, was overcome by smoke and suffocated.... Ex-Gov. Enos T. Throop, of New York, died at his residence, Willow Brook, near Auburn, that State, on the 1st inst.

THE famous Stevens battery was sold at New York last week. The highest bidder was an agent of the government, who offered $145,000, with the condition that the bid shall be ratified by Congress....The Episcopal General Convention, which has been in session at New York the past two or three weeks, has finally adjourned without date.

The West.

ONE-HALF of the business houses of Greencastle, Ind., and twenty dwellings were burned on the night of the 28th ult. The fire began by the work of an incendiary, and spread before a stiff wind, destroying everything in its course until it reached the open country and ceased for want of fuel. The place had no fire department, and many of the buildings destroyed were very compustible. The loss is about $400,000....The grand jury of the United States District Court at Des Moines, Iowa, has denounced the grand jury system as "unnecessary, expensive and oppressive," and recommends its abolition.

WE learn from the Chicago papers that the Tribune of that city is about to change its editorial management, Mr. Joseph Medill having purchased of Messrs. Horace White and Alfred Cowles a controlling interest, and taking chief charge as editor. The purchase was made on the basis of $1,000,000 for the whole establishment.... The State Baptist Association of Indiana has just concluded an interesting session at Fort Wayne. Sabbath school statistics were presented showing 512 schools in full operation; number of teachers, 3,800; number of pupils, 60,000; number of Sunday school papers distributed during the year, 20,000; number of books in libraries, 25,000; total amount expended, $12,800. A heated discussion took place in regard to the proposed endowment of the State University at Indianapolis. The matter was referred to the committee for report next year.

AN exciting race came off at San Francisco, Oct. 31, between the celebrated trotting horses Judge Fullerton and Occident, which was won by the latter—best time, 2:18; $50,000 changed hands on the result....An inquest was held at Detroit last week in regard to the recent explosion of the steamer Brooklyn, by which calamity eighteen lives were lost, and a verdict returned placing the responsibility on the captain, Harvey Brown, and the second engineer, who was one of the killed.

AT Chicago, during the month of October, 17,380 car-loads and 122 canal-boat-loads of grain were inspected into store, aggregating 7,691,999 bushels, and 7,787,509 bushels were inspected out of store; grand total of bushels of grain inspected during the month, 15,479,488....Bishop McCoskry, of Michigan, summoned the initiatory meeting to organize the new Western Diocese of the Episcopal Church in that State, to assemble at Grand Rapids, December 2.... At St. Paul, Minn., one night last week, while Joseph Lick and wife were returning home, they were set upon by George Lauchtenschlager, and George Rapp and his wife, who were evidently lying in wait. Mrs. Lick was brutally murdered on the spot, the instrument used being a hatchet, which was afterward found. She was terribly mutilated. Mrs. Rapp and husband set upon Mr. Lick; the woman with a knife, and the man with a tinner's soldering iron. Lick, prostrate, was turned over on his face in a small creek running through the yard, and Rapp stood upon the back of Lick's neck to hold his face in the water until strangulation should ensue. Rapp was frightened by approaching footsteps, and Lick was picked up insensible.... A boiler explosion at the Vulcan Iron Works, St. Louis, last week, caused the death of three men....Gov. Allen, of Ohio, has designated the 26th of November as a day of thanksgiving and prayer.

A NUMBER of prominent sporting gentlemen of Indiana are taking steps to organize a permanent Horse-Trotting Association, such as the ones at Rochester and Buffalo. It is intended to embrace the entire State, the meetings to be held in Indianapolis, where there is a splendid mile-track....The Illinois tax levy for 1874 has been completed by the Governor and Auditor. The total equalized value of all property in the State being $1,194,456,451, they have ordered a levy of 144-100 cents in the $100 of property for revenue purposes, and 96-100 cents on each $100 for school purposes. The revenue authorized to be raised for 1874 is $1,500,000, and the school fund is $1,000,000....The total receipts of the Indiana State Treasury for the year ending Nov. 1 were $3,072,105.06; disbursements, $2,829,991.28; present balance, $242,203.78.

THE trial of George C. Harding, editor of the Indianapolis Herald, on the charge of assault and battery upon Sol Mauritz, whom he attempted to shoot last summer for the seduction of his daughter, came up recently. On the recommendation of the prosecuting attorney, a nolle prosequi was entered and the defendant discharged. The prosecuting witness was not present....The house of Allen Mouser, at New Holland, Ohio, was burned last week, and $30,000 in greenbacks in his desk were consumed with it.

The South.

AN altercation took place in the streets of New Orleans last week, between Maj. Burke, a leader of the Conservative party, and Gov. Kellogg, which had its origin in local politics. Burke took umbrage on reading some letters addressed to the press by Kellogg, in which the Major was reflected upon, and when he met the former drew a cowhide and struck Kellogg several times. Pistols were drawn on both sides, and shots exchanged, but no serious damage was done.

THE great Vinewood herd of short-horn cattle, owned by B. B. Groom, of Winchester, Ky., was sold on the 29th ult., and is said to have been the best large sale of Durhams ever made in the world. One hundred head of these fine bovines were disposed of, at an average of $600 per head....Gov. Leslie, of Kentucky, has issued a proclamation offering an aggregate reward of about $9,000 for the capture of the masked ruffians who recently shot a young negro girl in Shelby county.

HON. JEREMIAH WHITE, one of the owners of the Houston County (Tex.) Democrat, was shot and killed by John H. Hubbard last week....New Orleans is in arrears to its fire department for several months' pay—$700,000—and the firemen have threatened to strike on Nov. 15 unless their demands for settlement are complied with....Louisville Ky., is shown to be the largest market in the world for leaf tobacco. The sales of that product during the past twelve months aggregate 69,970 hogsheads, against 56,056 in the twelve months previous, the total amount of sales being $7,677,710.

GEN. HUMPHREYS, the Chief of the Engineer Corps, has recommended an appropriation of $100,000 for the enlargement of the Louisville and Portland canal, according to the plans heretofore reported.

NEAR Franklin, Tenn., in private quarrels, on election day, John Edmondson was shot and killed by a man named Brown, and John Owens was killed by a party named Fly....A fire at Jefferson, Texas, last week, consumed the block occupied by J. C. Kalster & Co., Bigler & Walker, and F. A. Joachim. The loss is estimated at $60,000; insurance, $40,000. The fire is supposed to have been caused by an incendiary.

THE saw-mill and lumber adjoining, of Livezy & Co., at Newport, Ky., was destroyed by fire last week. The loss is $60,000; insured for $8,000 in Newport and Wheeling (W. Va.) companies....A serious riot occurred at the polls, during the progress of the election at Eufaula, Ala., on the 3d inst., in which three negroes were killed outright, and thirty or forty wounded, ten or fifteen mortally. One white was mortally, one seriously, and three slightly, wounded. Five or six hundred shots were fired.

Washington.

SECRETARY BRISTOW has had under consideration for some time the question whether Federal officeholders should be allowed to become candidates for election for offices while they hold their positions....Dockray, the American who was arrested by the Spanish authorities in Cuba, writes from Santanda, Spain, that he has been sentenced to a penal colony in Africa for a term of ten years.

THE attention of the Postmaster-General has been called to the fact that the salaries of Postmasters in large towns and cities are entirely out of proportion to the work performed.

THE internal revenue receipts for the month ending Oct. 31 were $9,204,871; for the official year, $35,582,498.

GEN. SPINNER will in his report renew some of his old recommendations with respect to the currency, and will have some new suggestions as to the means by which the ultimate resumption of coin payments can be attained. ....The Secretary of the Treasury has issued a call for $5,000,000 of coupon bonds, five-twenties, to be redeemed Feb. 3, at which date the interest upon them will cease.

DURING the month of October the public debt was reduced $681,434. The following is the statement in detail:

Six per cent. bonds	$1,182,183,250
Five per cent. bonds	538,525,200
Total coin bonds	$1,720,708,450
Lawful money debt	$ 14,678,000
Matured debt	20,748,960
Legal tender notes	382,075,267
Certificates of deposit	52,525,000
Fractional currency	48,151,024
Coin certificates	22,070,400
Total without interest	$ 504,821,692
Total debt	$2,260,357,103
Total interest	$ 37,115,670
Cash in the Treasury, coin	$ 90,089,241
Cash in the Treasury, currency	16,396,770
Special deposits held for the redemption of certificates of deposit, as provided by law	52,525,000
Total in the Treasury	$ 159,011,011
Debt less cash in Treasury	$2,130,061,761
Decrease during the month	$ 681,434
Bonds issued to the Pacific Railroad Companies, interest payable in lawful money, principal outstanding	64,623,512
Interest accrued and not yet paid	1,292,470
Interest paid by United States	24,325,396
Interest repaid by transportation of mails, etc	5,497,253
Balance of interest paid by United States	18,828,143

Political.

A CINCINNATI paper brings forward the name of Joseph Medill, late Mayor of Chicago, as a very probable candidate for the Presidency at the next election.

General.

THE President of the United States has, by proclamation, appointed Thursday, the 26th of November, as a day of national thanksgiving....The Indian Agent at Green Bay, Wis., Mr. C. J. Bridgman, has concluded payment of $97,000 to the Stockbridge Indians. The money comes from the sale of pine lands in the reservation two years ago. Each individual received $675....The Indian war in the West has nearly collapsed....The first annual fair of the Indian Territory was held at Muskogee, Creek Nation, the last week in October. Wagons made by Cherokee Indians, and cotton raised by the Creeks, Cherokees and Seminoles were on exhibition.

THE Miners' National Association, previous to adjourning at Cleveland, listened to an eminently sensible address from President Siney, in which he deprecated strikes, and urged recourse to arbitration for the settlement of all disputes with employers.

RECENT deaths: Hon. E. Rumsey Wing, of Kentucky, U. S. Minister to Ecuador, in that country, Oct. 11; Father A. Lemonier, President of Notre Dame University, South Bend, Ind., in that city, Oct. 29; near Huntsville, Ala., Oct. 27, Rev. Dr. James F. Barclay, missionary from the Christian Church to Jerusalem....Col. I. Vogdes, commanding the 1st artillery, writes to the Adjutant-General of the army that owing to the prevalence of yellow fever in the city of Charleston, S. C., he has removed the troops under his command from Charleston to Summerville.

SERIOUS disturbances are occurring in the neighborhood of Buena Vista, Pa., between Italian miners and others, growing out of the discharge of the old force of miners and the employment of workmen at reduced wages. Muskets are freely used, and the Sheriff has called upon the Governor for troops to suppress the riot.

THE officers and branch societies of the Nebraska Relief and Aid Society at Omaha, in behalf of the grasshopper sufferers are receiving contributions to meet immediate demands. It is proposed to send a car-load per week of provisions and clothing to each of the six principal stations in the western counties where the crops were destroyed, if the liberal contributions now arriving continue....The Court of Common Pleas, of Toledo, Ohio, has rendered a decision in the Catholic cemetery case, refusing to grant the injunction applied for by John Wynn to prevent interference by Father O'Reilly with the burial in the St. Francis de Sales Cemetery of Wynn's wife, a non-communicant.

THE steamer Lottie Bernard, of Duluth, foundered on Lake Superior in a recent gale. The crew consisted of fourteen men and one passenger, Willie Blanchard. The latter and one deck-hand were drowned by the upsetting of the boat. The remaining thirteen succeeded in launching the large yawl, and, after untold privations, reached land. After traveling about five miles, ten of them came upon an Indian settlement, where they obtained shelter and sent aid to the three who were too exhausted to walk. On being found, one was dead and the other two nearly so.

A PASSENGER train on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, in endeavoring to make up five hours' lost time, made the distance from Galesburg to Mendota, eighty miles, in two hours and one minute, stops not deducted.

THE Grangers of Eastern Michigan will hold a convention in Detroit Nov. 19 and 20, to consult on the subject of getting supplies at the lowest rates.

Foreign.

ADVICES from Buenos Ayres report that the Argentine Bank was about to reopen its doors for business. The Chilian Minister had demanded his passports....The trial of Kullman for the attempted assassination of Bismarck has begun at Wurzburg. The prisoner admits his guilt....John Laird, ex-member of Parliament, who constructed the Alabama and other Confederate cruisers, died in London recently.

VENEZUELA, in South America—a "republic" of everlasting turbulence—is busy with another "revolution."....The cotton crop in the Presidency of Bombay promises to be the largest ever recorded.

CARDINAL CULLEN and the entire Irish Catholic episcopate have issued pastoral letters denouncing the late address of Prof. Tyndall at Belfast, before the British Association, as a revival of Paganism....Kullman, who attempted to kill Bismarck, was found guilty as charged in the indictment, and sentenced to imprisonment for fourteen years in the House of Correction, ten years' suspension of his civil rights, and to remain under police surveillance for life.

THERE are 1,506 persons sick with typhoid fever in Over-Darwen, county of Lancaster, England—more than one-sixteenth of the entire population....It is asserted that several leading Carlists recently waited on Don Carlos at Tolosa, and represented to him that it is useless to continue the war....The Reichstag organized at Berlin by electing Forkenbeck President, and Stauffenberg and Haenel Vice Presidents.

THE British Ambassador at Constantinople has called the attention of the Porte to the increasing slave traffic between Bengaza and Egypt, and the Porte has promised to suppress it....The cable of the direct United States Company, which parted and was lost while being laid by the Faraday, has been picked up by that vessel at a depth of 1,871 fathoms. The cable is in perfect condition, and the work of paying out has again commenced.... A Fort Garry special states that Lepine is to be hanged on the 29th of January for complicity in the murder of Scott, a Canadian, by Riel's provisional government....Another imperialist has been elected to the French Assembly from the department of Pas de Calais. The department has been represented by a republican up to the present time. This makes a gain of thirteen Bonapartists in the Assembly since the beginning of the recess, and indicates that the empire is making rapid progress.

FROM London it is reported that wheat is the poorest-paid grain grown this season. Occasionally there has been a shilling rise, but other markets show an equal decline....Four persons were killed in a recent gunpowder explosion at Hounslow, near London.

THE Spanish residents on French soil have been driven from the border departments, so that they cannot participate in the bombardment of Irun, which has been begun by the Carlists. The French government has a large force on the frontier to enforce a strict neutrality....The Reichstag has ratified the postal treaties with Chili and Peru....An amicable settlement of the Formosan difficulties between China and Japan still appears doubtful, notwithstanding the more pacific tone of recent advices.

THANKSGIVING.

The Proclamation of the President of the United States.

We are reminded by the changing seasons that it is time to pause in our daily vocations and offer thanks to Almighty God for the mercies and abundance of the year which is drawing to a close.

The blessings of free government continue to be vouchsafed to us. The earth has responded to the labor of the husbandman. The land has been free from pestilence. Internal order is maintained, and peace with other powers has prevailed.

It is fitting that at stated periods we cease from our accustomed pursuits and from the turmoil of our daily lives, and unite in thankfulness for the blessings of the past and for the cultivation of kindly feelings toward each other.

Now, therefore, recognizing these considerations, I, U. S. Grant, President of the United States, do recommend to all citizens to assemble in their respective places of worship, Thursday, the 26th of November next, and express their thanks for the mercy and favor of Almighty God, and, laying aside all political contentions and secular occupations, to observe such day as a day of thanksgiving and praise.

In witness whereof, I herewith set my hand and cause the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the city of Washington, on the 27th day of October, 1874, and of the independence of the United States the ninety-eighth.

(Signed), U. S. GRANT.

MRS. NYE, of Iowa, can get supper, split kindlings, wash the dishes, milk two cows and feed the hogs while her five boys and two girls are playing a game of croquet.

WHAT's in a name?—Four letters.

The Elections.

Twenty-four States and three Territories held elections for Congressmen—the most of them also voting for State officers—on Tuesday, Nov. 3. It is impossible to give the result with any degree of precision at the time of going to press with this side of our paper. In most of the States the Democrats have made large gains, particularly in Congressmen. The most astounding change is in Massachusetts, where the Democracy elect their Governor and several members of Congress, defeating Ben. Butler in the Sixth District. In New York Samuel J. Tilden is elected Governor over Gen. John A. Dix. Kansas is Republican by about 25,000 majority, Gov. Osborn being re-elected. Missouri gives a Democratic majority of 25,000 or 30,000, which insures the defeat of Carl Schurz for the United States Senate. Louisiana (which voted Nov. 2) gives a small majority for the Democratic State ticket, and returns five Democratic and one Republican member of Congress. Nevada elects the Republican State ticket, a Republican Congressman, and a Republican Legislature, which insures the return of a Republican to the United States Senate. Wisconsin elects six Republicans and two Democrats to Congress. Gaston's (Dem.) majority in Massachusetts is 7,817, the rest of the Republican ticket being elected. The Legislature is largely Republican, giving the United States Senator to that party. Alabama gives a Democratic majority of 8,000 to 12,000. In New Jersey, Judge Bedle, Democrat, is elected Governor by 9,000 majority. In Tennessee, Judge Porter, Democrat, has a majority of upward of 60,000. The Democrats elect eight of the ten Congressmen. Kentucky elects a full Democratic delegation to Congress. Georgia, Alabama, Maryland and Texas ditto. Delaware is Democratic by a small majority. Rhode Island and Wisconsin stand by the Republicans, the Congressional delegations standing the same as in the present Congress. In Michigan, the Republican State ticket is elected by a small majority. In Vermont, Judge Poland is defeated for Congress by Dennison, Independent Republican. The vote in Pennsylvania is very close on the State ticket, with chances in favor of the Republicans. The Congressional delegation stands 17 Democrats and 10 Republicans. The Legislature is very close. In Illinois the vote is also close on State offices. Twelve of the nineteen Congressmen are Democrats. There is no doubt but that the opposition will have a very decided majority in the next House of Representatives. The only question is as to the majority, which can not be accurately determined at this writing, as in many districts the official vote will be required to decide who are the successful candidates. The Chicago Inter-Ocean, Republican, concedes the opposition a majority of 51 in the House. The Tribune, on the other hand, places it as high as 83. The former figure is probably nearest the mark.

Appended is a list of Congressmen elected in the several States on the 3d inst., so far as ascertained:

ALABAMA.

1. Jere Haralson (colored), Rep.
2. J. N. Williams, Dem.
3. Paul Bradford, Dem.
4. Charles Hayes, Rep., re-elected.
5. John H. Caldwell, Dem., re-elected.
6. G. W. Hewitt, Dem.

At Large { B. B. Lewis.
{ Wm. H. Forney.

ARIZONA TERRITORY.

H. S. Stevens, Ind.

ARKANSAS—4.

1. Lucien C. Gause, Dem., gain.
2. William F. Slemons, Dem., gain.
3. William W. Wilshire, Dem., gain.
4. Thomas M. Gunter, Dem., re-elected.

DELAWARE—1.

James Williams, Dem., gain.

GEORGIA—9.

1. Julian Hartridge, Dem., gain—3,000 maj.
2. William E. Smith, Dem., gain.
3. Philip Cook, Dem.
4. Henry R. Harris, Dem.
5. Milton A. Candler, Dem., gain.
6. James H. Blount, Dem.
7. William H. Dabney, Dem.
8. Alexander H. Stephens, Dem., no opposition.
9. Garnett McMillan, Dem.

ILLINOIS—19.

1. Bernard G. Caulfield, Dem.
2. Carter H. Harrison, Dem.
3. Charles B. Farwell, Rep., re-elected.
4. Stephen A. Hurlbut, Rep., re-elected.
5. Horatio C. Burchard, Rep., re-elected.
6. Thomas J. Henderson, Rep.
7. Alexander Campbell, Ind. (probably).
8. Greenbury L. Fort, Rep., re-elected.
9. Richard H. Whiting, Rep.
10. John C. Bagby, Ind. (probably).
11. Scott Wike, Dem.
12. William M. Springer, Dem.
13. Adlai E. Stevenson, Dem., gain.
14. Joseph G. Cannon, Rep., re-elected.
15. John R. Eden, Dem., re-elected.
16. William A. J. Sparks, Dem., gain (probably).
17. William R. Morrison, Dem., re-elected.
18. William Hartzell, Dem., gain.
19. William B. Anderson, Ind. (probably).

KANSAS.

1. William A. Phillips. Rep.
2. Stephen A. Cobb, Rep.
3. William R. Brown, Rep.

KENTUCKY—10.

1. A. R. Boone, Dem.
2. John Young Brown, Dem., re-elected.
3. Charles W. Milliken, Dem., re-elected.
4. J. Proctor Knott, Dem.
5. Edward Y. Parsons, Dem.
6. Thomas L. Jones, Dem.
7. J. C. S. Blackburn, Dem.
8. Milton J. Durham, Dem., re-elected.
9. Harrison Cockrill, Dem.
10. John B. Clarke, Dem.

LOUISIANA—6.

1. Randall L. Gibson, Dem., gain.
2. E. John Ellis, Dem., gain.
3. C. B. Darrall, Rep.
4. William M. Levy, Dem., gain.
5. William B. Spencer, Dem., gain.
6. C. E. Nash, Rep.

MARYLAND—6.

1. Philip F. Thomas, Dem.
2. Charles B. Roberts, Dem.
3. William J. O'Brien, Dem., re-elected.
4. Thomas Swann, Dem., re-elected.
5. Eli J. Henkle, Dem, gain (probably).
6. William Walsh, Dem., gain (probably).

MASSACHUSETTS—11.

1. James Buffinton, Rep., re-elected.
2. Benjamin W. Harris, Rep., re-elected.
3. Henry L. Pierce, Rep., re-elected.
4. Rufus S. Frost, Rep.
5. Nathaniel P. Banks, Dem., gain—6,000 maj.
6. Charles P. Thompson, Dem. (beats Butler).
7. John K. Tarbox, Dem., gain.
8. William W. Warren, Dem., gain.
9. George F. Hoar, Rep., re-elected.
10. Julius H. Seelye, Ind.
11. Chester W. Chapin, Dem., gain—large maj.

MICHIGAN—9.

1. Alpheus S. Williams, Dem., gain.
2. Henry Waldron, Rep., re-elected.
3. George Willard, Rep., re-elected.
4. Allen Potter, Dem., gain (probably).
5. William B. Williams, Rep., re-elected.
6. George H. Durand, Dem., gain.
7. Omar D. Conger, Rep., re-elected.
8. Nathan B. Bradley, Rep., re-elected.
9. Jay A. Hubbell, Rep., re-elected.

MINNESOTA.

1. Mark H. Dunnell, Rep.
2. H. B. Strait, Rep.
3. W. S. King, Rep.

MISSOURI—13.

1. Edward C. Kehr, Dem., gain.
2. Erastus Wells, Dem., re-elected.
3. William H. Stone, Dem., re-elected.
4. Robert A. Hatcher, Dem., re-elected.
5. Richard P. Bland, Dem., re-elected (probably).
6. Charles W. Thrasher, Rep. (probably).
7. John F. Phillips, Dem.
8. Benjamin J. Franklin, Dem.
9. David Rea, Dem., gain (probably).
10. Ira B Hyde, Rep., re-elected (probably).
11. John B. Clark, Jr., Dem, re-elected.
12. John M. Glover, Dem., re-elected.
13. Aylett H. Buckner, Dem., re-elected.

NEVADA.

William Wooburn, Rep.

NEW JERSEY—7.

1. Clement H. Sinnickson, Rep.
2. Samuel A. Dobbins, Rep.
3. Miles Ross, Dem., gain.
4. Robert Hamilton, Dem., re-elected.
5. Augustus W. Cutler, Dem., gain.
6. Fred. H. Teese, Dem.
7. Augustus A. Hardenbergh, Dem., gain.

NEW YORK—33.

1. Henry B. Metcalf, Dem., gain.
2. John G. Schumaker, Dem., re-elected.
3. Simon B. Chittenden, Rep.
4. Archibald M. Bliss, Dem., gain.
5. Edwin R. Meade, Dem.
6. Samuel S. Cox, Dem., re-elected.
7. Smith Ely, Jr., Dem.,—2,000 maj.
8. Elijah Ward, Dem., gain.
9. Fernando Wood, Dem., re-elected.
10. Abram S. Hewitt, Dem., gain.
11. Benjamin A. Willis, Dem., gain.
12. N. Holmes Odell, Dem.
13. John O. Whitehouse, Dem., re-elected by 3,000.
14. George M. Beebe, Dem.
15. Seymour L. Stebbins, Rep.
16. Charles H. Adams, Rep., gain.
17. Martin I. Townsend, Rep.
18. Andrew Williams, Rep.,—3,000 maj.
19. William A. Wheeler, Rep.,—6,000 maj.
20. Henry H. Hathorn, Rep.
21. Samuel F. Miller, Rep.
22. George A. Bagley, Rep.
23. Scott Lord, Dem., gain.
24. William H. Baker, Rep.
25. Elias W. Leavenworth, Rep.
26. Clinton D. MacDougall, Rep., re-elected.
27. Elbridge G. Lapham, rep.
28. Thomas C. Platt, Rep., re-elected.
29. C. C. B. Walker, Dem.
30. James L. Angle, Dem., gain (probably).
31. George G. Hoskins, Rep., re-elected.
32. Asher P. Nichols, Dem., gain.
33. Walter L. Sessions, Rep., re-elected.

PENNSYLVANIA.

1. C. Freeman, Rep.
2. Chas. O'Neill, Rep.
3. S. J. Randall, Dem.
4. Wm D. Kelley, Rep.
5. John Robbins, Dem.
6. Wm. D. Hartman, Dem.
7. Allen Wood, Jr., Rep.
8. Heister Clymer, Dem.
9. Wm. Patton, Dem.
10. Wm. Mutchler, Dem.
11. Frank D. Collins, Dem.
12. W. W. Ketchum, Rep.
13. Theo. Garretson, Rep.
14. John B. Packer, Rep.
15. Joseph Powell, Dem.
16. Sobieski Ross, Rep.
17. John Reilley, Dem.
18. Wm. S. Stenger, Dem.
19. H. S. McNair, Rep.
20. L. A. Mackey, Dem.
21. Jacob Turney, Dem.
22. Jas. H. Hopkins, Dem.
23. A. E. Cochrane, Dem.
24. John W. Wallace, Rep.
25. George A. Jenckes, Dem.
26. Jacob Sheakley, Dem
27. Albert G. Elbert, Dem.

RHODE ISLAND—2.

1. Benjamin T. Eames, Rep., re-elected—1,400 maj.
2. Latimer W. Ballou, Rep., 1,100 maj.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

1. Joseph H. Rainey (colored), Rep.
2. E. W. M. Mackey, Opposition.
3. S. B. H. McGowan, Opposition.
4. J. B. Kershaw, Opposition.
5. Reuben Smalls (colored), Rep.

TENNESSEE—10.

1. Roderick R. Butler, Rep. re-elected (prob.)
2. Jacob M. Thornburgh, Rep., re-elected (prob.)
3. George G. Didrell, Dem., gain.
4. John W. Head, Dem., gain.
5. John M. Bright, Dem., re-elected.
6. John F. House, Dem., gain.
7. Washington C. Whitthorne, Dem., re-elected by 5,000.
8. John D. C. Atkins, Dem., re-elected.
9. William P. Caldwell, Dem., gain.
10. H. Casey Young, Dem., gain—3,500 maj.

TEXAS—6.

1. John H. Reagan, Dem.
2. David B. Culberson, Dem.
3. James W. Throckmorton, Dem.
4. Reger Q. Mills, Dem., re-elected.
5. John Hancock, Dem., re-elected.
6. Gustave Schlecher, Dem.

VERMONT.

2. Dudley C. Denison, Ind. Rep.

VIRGINIA—9.

1. Beverly B. Douglass, Dem., gain.
2. James H. Platt, Jr., Rep., re-elected.
3. Gilbert C. Walker, Dem., gain.
4. William H. H. Stowell, Rep., re-elected.
5. George C. Cabell, Dem., gain.
6. John R. Tucker, Dem.
7. John T. Harris, Dem., re-elected.
8. Eppa Hunton, Dem., re-elected.
9. William Terry, Dem.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

Orange Jacobs, Rep.

WISCONSIN—8.

1. Charles G. Williams, Rep., re-elected.
2. Lucien B. Caswell, Rep.
3. Henry S. Magoon, Rep.
4. William Pitt Lynde, Dem—3,000 maj.
5. Samuel D. Burchard, Dem.
6. A. M. Kimball, Rep.
7. Jeremiah M. Rusk, Rep., re-elected.
8. Alexander S. McDill, Rep., re-elected.

Hide Hunters.

It is estimated that the "hide hunters" of Kansas, Texas, Colorado, and Southern Nebraska kill 50,000 buffalo each year for the skins alone; that the Indians kill three times that number, and that perhaps 10,000 more are killed by sportsmen and those pioneers who depend on the buffalo for their winter meat; thus we have the enormous figure of 210,000 as the annual slaughter. But this even will not represent the grand total, for many calves are captured to be sold to menageries, museums and private gentlemen who desire such pets. I cannot approach a summary of the latter, but think that from 5,000 to 10,000 would be an approximate estimate, though a low one. I have known instances where a hundred of these creatures were caught in a day by being run down, and not more than one-tenth were alive the next, for, though apparently strong, they cannot endure much hardship. By giving the figures in round numbers we may estimate that a quarter of a million bison are destroyed yearly; and that, I think, will not be far from the exact number. At this rate of destruction they cannot last long, so the present generation will probably witness the decimation of the animal most characteristic of the fauna of North America—one with which the history of our plains, pioneers and trappers is most closely blended.

A Memorial to Prentice.

The local press of Kentucky having suggested a movement for the erection of a monument to George D. Prentice, whose grave is now marked only by a flower, the Courier-Journal announces that it has long been the purpose of the company to fitly memorialize Mr. Prentice, whose professional work was mainly performed on the Journal. It now means to place his statue, wrought by Hart, in a niche over the doorway to its new edifice, now in process of erection. It is favorable, nevertheless, to the movement of the editors, and urges that the city of Louisville in its corporate capacity should take part. Of the deceased journalist the paper over which he once presided says: "He was an odd, eccentric man; fonder of women than of men; generous to a fault; insensible to fear; hard-working and pains-taking in his profession; careless of his vices; isolated, self-contained, indifferent; a great character, a strong character, a weak character, brilliant and marked from first to last, interesting throughout."

The Footprints of Time.

Wrinkles are the first tell-tales of a lost youth, and the wrinkles make their way in a very stealthy manner. At first there comes a faint marking of one little line about the corner of the eye, and one at each side of the mouth. Assuredly it is the sign of approaching age, we say complacently, looking at ourselves in the glass, conscious of our attractions in the perfection of their maturity. That little line, indicative of the furrowed future, is no more age than the one scarlet leaf of the maple in the midst of the green wood in autumn. It is the shadow of the herald if you will; but it is not the real thing. And so on with all the rest. But it is not so with our friends. The gap made between the past and present by years of absence is abrupt, unexpected. You left a blooming, sleek-haired, slim-waisted girl; you find a faded, hollow-eyed, gray-haired woman, the mother of children, afflicted with bad health and tired of life. Or you encounter a stout and florid matron whose bulk is a burden to herself and a matter not for admiration to her friends; whose early shyness has worn off and gives place to a free-and-easy good nature that may be genial but is vulgar; whose girlish sentimentality has gone with her blushes, and who now openly proclaims her devotion to champagne and lobster salad as among the few things in life worth taking trouble for, and talks of the pleasure of the palate as superior to every other enjoyment. To be sure, paring away in your mind's eye those superfluous layers of flesh, you can make out the nose of the past, and the lips have the same curve as hers had in the days when you would have given a month's salary for a kiss; the eyes are the same color, but what has become of their sparkle? Where is that roguish twinkle that made your heart leap when it flashed upon you, giving point to a girlish sauciness that was so innocent and she thought so naughty? Where is that dewy, downcast look that was so conscious where there was nothing to blush for? Is it that ugly leer which tells of less tenderness of sentiment than you would like to see in a man? You must accept this as the "survival;" it is all you will have of the sweetness, the bashfulness that once seemed to you the most exquisite grace on earth.

Early Cultivation of the Oyster.

For a creature of such lowly rank in the scale of animate being, it is wonderful what a literature attaches to the oyster. Through the roll of ages it has been a factor of prime importance in the convivial instincts, the moralities, and the industries of men. It has honorable mention in classic song and story. When imperial Rome had her many million populace, and her almost fabulous wealth, the oyster figured prominently in the more than lavish luxury of that extravagant city. Do our oyster-growers know how ancient their calling is? About 2,400 years ago one Sergius Orata, a man of a practical mind, turned Lake Avernus into an oyster bed; and through the culture of this bivalve the Lucrin oysters, as they were called, became in reputation the "saddle-rocks" of Rome. And what a splendid market he had! His practical genius carried the new industry of oyster-planting to great perfection; and such was his reputation in that line that the Romans had a saying that, should the oysters stop growing in Lucrin Lake, Sergius would make them grow on the tops of the houses. Avernus has at last succumbed to the mutations of time, and is to-day a miserable hole of volcanic mud. It now offers a good opportunity to test the great man's abilities; but Sergius Orata himself "dried up" some time ago.—Popular Science Monthly.

ON an average there are 769 marriages per week in Paris, and about eighty-five separations. Among the former occur some curious coincidences, which, to be appreciated, may be thus translated: Mlle. Death is united to M. Departed; M. Drum to Mlle. Trumpet; Mlle. Gaiter to M. Pantaloon, and M. Roaster to Mlle. Boiler.

The Markets.

NEW YORK.

BEEVES	9½ @ 13
HOGS—Dressed	8¼ @ 9
COTTON	14¼ @ 15
FLOUR—Superfine Western	4 00 @ 4 50
WHEAT—No. 2 Chicago	1 05 @ 1 08
No. 1 Spring	1 13 @ 1 20
CORN	90 @ 92
OATS	60 @ 61
RYE	88 @ 90
PORK—New Mess	20 00 @ 20 25
LARD—Steam	14 @ ..

CHICAGO.

BEEVES—Choice Graded Steers	6 25 @ 6 75
Choice Natives	5 75 @ 6 00
Good to Prime Steers	5 40 @ 5 75
Cows and Heifers	2 00 @ 2 75
Medium to Fair	4 00 @ 4 50
Inferior to Common	2 00 @ 2 75
HOGS—Live	6 00 @ 6 30
FLOUR—Fancy White Winter	6 00 @ 6 50
Red Winter	5 00 @ 5 50
WHEAT—No. 1 Spring	88 @ 89
No. 2 Spring	84 @ 85½
No. 3 Spring	80 @ 81
CORN—No. 2	73 @ 73½
OATS—No. 2	46 @ 47½
RYE—No. 2	80 @ 82
BARLEY—No. 2	1 13 @ 1 15
BUTTER—Fancy	31 @ 37
EGGS—Fresh	22 @ 23
PORK—Mess	17 25 @ 17 50
LARD	11½ @ 12

ST. LOUIS.

WHEAT—No. 2 Red Fall	1 05½ @ 1 06
CORN—No. 2	80 @ 81
OATS—No. 2	53 @ 53
RYE—No. 2	87 @ 88
PORK—Mess	20 00 @ ..
LARD	12 @ 12½
HOGS	6 00 @ 6 25
CATTLE	4 50 @ 5 50

MILWAUKEE.

WHEAT—No. 1	95 @ 97
No. 2	86 @ 87
CORN—No. 2	70 @ 71
OATS—No. 2	46 @ 47
RYE	88 @ 90
BARLEY—No. 2	1 14 @ 1 15

CINCINNATI.

WHEAT—Red	1 06 @ 1 08
CORN—New	66 @ 68
OATS	53 @ 56
RYE	92 @ 94
PORK—Mess	19 00 @ 19 50
LARD	12 @ 13

TOLEDO.

WHEAT—No. 1 Red	1 10 @ 1 11
Amber	1 05 @ 1 06½
CORN	72 @ 74
OATS	49 @ 51

DETROIT.

WHEAT—Extra	1 15 @ 1 15½
Amber	1 04 @ 1 06
CORN	78 @ 80
OATS	48 @ 50

CLEVELAND.

WHEAT—No. 1 Red	1 08 @ 1 09
No. 2 Red	1 02 @ 1 04
CORN	74 @ 75½
OATS	52 @ 55

AUBURN COURIER

T. C. HATE, Publisher.

FARM AND GARDEN.

THE FARMER'S YEAR.

Lo! the spring with balmy showers,
Emerald laws and fair young flowers,
Calls the farmer to his plow;
Brisk he turns the sod, while gazing
On his flocks and herds a-grazing,
O'er the pasture freely now;
All around him birds are singing,
Love and hope have sprung to life;
Man and beast are filled with gladness,
And the storms have ceased their strife,

As the season rolls to Cancer,
To the farmer comes the answer
From the earth and solar rays:
"We for thee, oh, man, a treasure
Bear without a stint or measure,
Golden wheat and rye and maize.
While thou sleepest on thy pillow,
From the loving hand divine
Riches unto thee are flowing,
In thy crops, thy sheep and kine."

See, at length, rich autumn bending
'Neath his load is blithely wending
Through the peaceful slopes his way;
Making up his jeweled caskets,
Apples, peaches, grapes, in baskets,
Piling ricks of grain and hay.
Now the purple grapes are bleeding,
Golden grain is freed from chaff,
With the rev'ler's merry laugh.

But the grumbling, gruff November
Bids the farmer well remember
That the gloomy days draw near;
Bids him look to barn and larder,
That, when winter waxes harder,
He and his may keep good cheer.
Joyful then, the dear younglings,
Sleighs he o'er the frozen plain,
Or, before the blazing yule-log
Sings till spring wells round again.

EXPOSING POTATOES.

It is a great mistake, says the Indiana Farmer, in handling potatoes to allow them to be exposed to the sun, especially when the potatoes are tender. In digging have baskets of convenient size at hand, and, as fast as you can dig, put in barrels and cover up; transfer them fresh to market or to a room where they they may be emptied out upon a floor to dry in the shade. Potatoes exposed to a hot sun when packed in barrels and shipped will speck and rot; oftentimes the shipper will lose an entire shipment, and besides, the consumer will find such potatoes stale and frequently tinged with a bitter taste.

HOW TO PLANT A TREE.

When planting, don't dig a hole like a bowl cistern, but dig it just as deep as the soil is, and no deeper; make the bottom of it one-third larger round than the top, and loosen up the very bottom. Then as the tree is planted throw in first an inch of good, fresh, rich soil; set the tree, holding it with one hand while on your knees you spread its roots carefully with the other; let the assistant drop the dirt upon the roots as he would if he had a sieve, and as it is dropped in, do you who hold the tree upon your bended knee work every root carefully out straight on a level line with the point or the junction of it with the main stems, use the fingers outspread in mingling the fine dirt with the roots, and be careful that not an air space is left at the bottoms, and also that the earth upon the lower roots is packed the hardest or tightest of any. As you reach the upper roots only see that each root is surely surrounded with earth, and then let the last four inches of earth be sprinkled on with a spade or shovel, without pressure of foot or anything else, don't even flat it with the shovel, and be sure to keep your own and Paddy's feet off, for every pressure will destroy the natural position of the roots below.—Cleveland Leader.

TRITE TRUTHS.

I know a farmer who bought a lumber wagon now almost thirty years ago, and to-day it is nearly as good as new. It has been in constant use, but always kept under shelter when not behind his team in the field or on the road. A neighbor of his bought one at the same time and made at the same shop, but in consequence of always leaving it out of doors it went to ruin years ago, and now he has bought a new wagon for the third time. This is a fact, and the men are living to-day, one a successful farmer, with plenty of money to use and to loan, the other an example of the worst effects of the opposite system. This one instance alone is sufficient to "point a moral." It should teach a lesson to every man engaged in the pursuit of agriculture. To be constantly buying farm-tools is more than a farmer can afford. Implements are expensive, and they should be made to last by being cared for. Every farmer should have a tool-house, and when a tool is not in use it should stand or hang in its place. A careful inventory of such tools occasionally would do much toward keeping them in their place and in good repair. Industry, economy and system will be of as much service to farmers as to any other class.—Cor. N. Y. Tribune.

IMPROVED CORN CRIBS.

Our common Russian rat burrows in the ground, and never makes a nest in the corn crib, though he has no objections to going into it for his meals; but he also likes to have his burrow under some rubbish, buildings, or similar protection, where the dogs cannot reach him; but, in this crib, which is on posts two and a half to three feet from the ground, there is no place for him to burrow, as the rat would be exposed to the spade or to the dogs, and the result is that he never burrows in any such open places. The cribs may be eight feet wide, and of any length. On this farm the cribs are thirty-two feet long, and with posts ten feet high, though twelve feet would have been better. The outside is of stock boards, battened with fencing planed and split, making the battens three inches wide. The space between the cribs is twelve feet wide, with floor overhead, with a trap-door in the center for shoveling up through. The inside of the cribs has common fencing put on horizontally, with spare spaces for airing the corn on the inside, and the bottom floor is of three inch strips, placed an inch and a half apart to allow the air to pass up through the corn, and to prevent molding. On the inside it is boarded below the crib in order to exclude pigs and poultry from entering the space between the cribs, and sliding doors are used. The crib is thus weatherproof on the outside, and yet by opening the doors a free circulation of air is obtained, as well as the upward ventilation up through the bottom of the slat-work. Any corn that is shelled off in the crib passes down through these slats to the ground, and yet it is under cover, and is good food for the poultry and pigs, if the latter are permitted to visit the premises. If the cribs are near the ground, the rats will burrow under them, filling the space with loose earth from their burrows, and thus enfilade the chickens. In fact, rats and chickens are antagonistic, as the rats will eat both chickens and the chickens' food; and if you cannot get after the rats with a spade, the dog will not do it.

Such a crib will hold over 3,000 bushels of corn in the ear, and 1,000 bushels of grain on the floor above. Then it gives a room 12 by 32 feet for wagons or farm implements. A shed on one side for the poultry, and on the other for implements, will be useful, and may be cheaply constructed. The Industrial University has a crib something on this plan, but the floor is rather too near the ground, and I find this to be too often a defect.—Rural, in Chicago Tribune.

Domestic Recipes.

Sunderland Pudding.—One cup of milk, one egg, one and a half cups flour. Stir well together, bake in cups about twenty minutes, and serve with sweet sauce.—Cultivator.

Catskill Apple Pudding.—One pint sweet milk, four eggs beaten to a froth, one teaspoon of soda, a little salt, flour enough to make a stiff batter, four large apples chopped; stir well; bake in deep tins; serve hot, with butter and sugar.—Cultivator.

Vegetable Marrow Soup.—One quart of milk, one and three-quarters pounds of vegetable marrow, two large onions, pepper and salt to taste. Boil till the marrow is quite soft, then pass through a sieve. Add half a glass of sherry before serving.

Blackberry Jam.—Take one pound of sugar to every pound of fruit. Bruise them and simmer gently over a fire for an hour. When cool put them into glass jars and lay over them a piece of paper saturated with brandy. Tie up so as to exclude the air.—Cultivator.

Veal and Ham Sandwiches.—Sandwiches are good made of veal and knuckle of ham, simmered a long time in a very little water, until perfectly tender, then freed from the bone and chopped together. Spread the mixture like butter, add mustard, and cover with another piece of bread, lightly buttered as for an ordinary sandwich.

Sugar for Preserving.—Raw sugars generally contain a certain proportion of glucose, a fermentable non-crystallizable sugar, which is a source of great trouble in fruit preserving. Sugar to be used for this purpose should be in crystals, as that form precludes the possibility of an impurity being present. Loaf-sugar, or Finzel's crystals, may be used with advantage, as being free from the impurities mentioned, and not liable to ferment.

White Wine Sauce.—One-half cup of butter, two and one-half cups of powdered sugar; two wine-glasses of pale wine; one-half cup of boiling water; one teaspoonful of nutmeg. First work the butter into the sugar, moistening, as you go on, with the boiling water. Beat long and hard; then add the wine and nutmeg, still beating hard. Put in a tin pail; let the sauce become hot; then take it off. If rightly made, it will be nearly as white as milk.—Country Gentleman.

Importance of a Single Vote.

The following instances have fallen under our notice: One vote in the city of New York returned a Republican member to the Assembly, which made a majority in the Legislature of that State for Thomas Jefferson, and gave him the vote of New York, without which he could not have been elected. The whole policy of the United States during the Jefferson and Madison administration, a period of sixteen years, hung on that one vote. One vote elected Marcus Morton Governor of Massachusetts, in an aggregate popular vote of nearly 100,000. One vote elected William Allen, in the Chillicothe district, to Congress, in the year 1834, and one vote subsequently made him United States Senator for six years afterwards. The following case of the kind is still more remarkable: In 1830, Dan Stone, of Cincinnati, was a candidate for the State Legislature. Walking up Main street on the morning of the election, he overtook an acquaintance going to the polls, who intended to vote the opposition ticket. Stone solicited his vote. "We are old friends," said he, "and I know you will show a friend that mark of kindness." Party spirit was then comparatively quiet. The voter replied: "Well, Dan, you are a pretty clever fellow. I don't care if I do." That vote elected Stone, and gave a majority of one in the Legislature, which made Thomas Ewing United States Senator. Mr. Ewing's vote on the question of confirming the appointment of Martin Van Buren as Minister Plenipotentiary to Great Britain enabled the Vice-President to give the casting vote against it, and called Mr. Van Buren home. That recall made Mr. Van Buren first Vice-President, and then President, and determined the general political policy of the country for four years. One vote accomplished all this. One vote sent James L. Faran to the Legislature, and made him subsequently Senator.

Presence of Mind.—A story is told of Robert Emmet which proved his secretive power and resolution. He was fond of studying chemistry, and one night late, after the family had gone to bed, he swallowed a large quantity of corrosive sublimate in mistake for some acid cooling powder. He immediately discovered his mistake, and knew that death must shortly ensue unless he instantly swallowed the only antidote—chalk. Timid men would have torn at the bell, roused all the family, and sent for a stomach-pump. Emmet called no one, made no noise; but stealing down stairs and unlocking the front door, went into the stable, scraped some chalk which he knew to be there, and took sufficient doses of it to neutralize the poison.

Nana Sahib.

The following is a sketch of the person and life of Nana Sahib, who has recently fallen into the hands of the British:

Nana Sahib, the title of Dhundoo Punt, a Hindoo chieftain and a leader of the Sepoy mutiny in 1857, was born in 1824. He was the son of a Brahmin of the Deccan, and when a little more than a year old he was taken to Bittoor, where Bajee Row, the Peishwa or chief of the Mahrattas, adopted him in 1827. On the death of Bajee without heir of his body in 1851, an estate in the neighborhood which had been bestowed upon him during pleasure by the British was declared lapsed to the East India Company, as they had previously refused to recognize inheritance of lands by adoption, and a pension of $450,000 a year granted to him and his family in 1819 was also stopped. Nana Sahib sent an agent to England to advocate his claims, but, without success, and this supposed wrong he never forgave. He lived, however, in apparent friendship with the English, imitating their customs as far as he could, and was permitted to occupy the town of Bittoor, where he possessed great wealth and much influence. When the Sepoy mutiny broke out in 1857, he was fully trusted by the English, who applied to him for a body of soldiers to guard the treasury at Cawnpore, which he immediately granted; but no sooner had the insurrection occurred at the latter place than he put himself at the head of the rebels and killed all the Europeans that fell into his hands, among whom were two large parties, principally women and children, who were endeavoring to escape down the Ganges from Futtehgurh. The English at Cawnpore in the meantime defended themselves until June 27, when they surrendered on the Nana promising to send them safe to Allahabad. They were permitted to embark, but immediately afterward were fired upon and many were killed and the rest brought back to land. The men were put to death at once; the women and children, after suffering horrible outrages, were massacred July 15, the day before Havelock arrived at Cawnpore, and their bodies thrown into a well. The Nana retreated to Bittoor, where Havelock defeated him on the 17th, driving him out of the town and destroying his army. He soon got together another army, with which he followed Havelock into Oude, but afterward returned toward Cawnpore with the intention of attacking Gen. Neill, who was in garrison there with a small force. Reoccupying Bittoor, he was driven back in confusion by Gen. Neill Aug. 15; and on the next day Havelock, who had returned from Oude, defeated his whole force in a sharp engagement Owing to the exhaustion of the victors and their want of cavalry, the Nana escaped, and, without coming directly in contact with the British, except once more at Cawnpore, where Sir Colin Campbell defeated him Dec. 6, continued an active and harassing warfare. On the occupation of Gwalior by the rebels in June, 1858, he was chosen Peishwa of the Mahrattas, and his nephew, Row Sahib, was placed in command of the city. His subsequent career is difficult to be traced, for his energies were bent rather upon escaping pursuit than conducting offensive operations. Long after the other leaders had submitted or been captured, he continued, with the Begum of Oude and about ten thousand rebels, to infest the northern parts of Central India and the frontiers of Napaul. A report that he had died of fever in the latter part of 1858 was generally discredited, and until now it had been uncertain whether he was alive or not. His arrest at this time will doubtless be a pleasant surprise to the British government, who will, no doubt, give him the punishment he fully deserves.

Primitive Plowing.

A Mexican correspondent of the Louisville Courier-Journal writes: "On our way back to Temisco we had an opportunity of observing, more closely than diligence or railroad can permit, the process of plowing as commonly practiced in this country. The plow itself is almost a fac-simile of the pattern used by the Egyptians in the time of Abraham, and certainly commends itself to all agriculturists on account of its great simplicity and cheapness. It consists of a wooden shaft about four feet long and four inches thick, armed at its lower extremity with an iron point, slightly flattened and sometimes presenting a feeble forward curve. The other end is provided with a round stick passed through a hole to serve as a handle. The pole, consisting of the stem of a small tree from which the bark has been peeled, is fifteen feet long, and attached to the shaft by means of mortise and peg. The implement thus constituted is fastened at the extremity of the pole to the middle of a very light wooden yoke, about seven feet long, which rests immediately behind the horns of a pair of oxen, and is fastened there by thongs of rawhide passed around the roots of the horns. Not less than fifty such contrivances were crawling at a snail's pace over the field which we stopped to notice, scratching up the ground to the depth of two or three inches, certainly to us a very novel sight."

Bird Ghosts.

Birds have a great fear of death. In illustration of this, Madame Buist, in her new book on birds, relates the following: A hen canary belonging to the author died while nesting, and was buried. The surviving mate was removed to another cage; the breeding cage itself was thoroughly purified, cleansed, and put aside till the following spring. Never afterward, however, could any bird endure to be in that cage. The little creatures fought and struggled to get out, and, if obliged to remain, they huddled close together and moped and were thoroughly unhappy, refusing to be comforted by any amount of sunshine or dainty food. The experiment was tried of introducing foreign birds, who were not even in the house when the canary died, nor could, by any possibility, have heard of her through other canaries. The result was the same; no bird would live in that cage. The cage was haunted, and the author was obliged to desist from all further attempts to coax or force a bird to stay in it.—Home Journal.

All Sorts.

The receipts of all England's railways are 5¼ millions per week.

There are about half a million Scandinavians in the United States.

A large bald eagle tried to carry off a little girl in Erie county, N. Y., recently, but was frightened off.

The largest plate of glass ever manufactured in the United States was recently cast in Indiana. It is 184 by 91 inches.

There is no accounting for it, but four women out of five stick the postage stamp on the left-hand corner of the envelope.

Steel pens are manufactured at Birmingham, England, at the rate of 14,112,000 a week, and sold for three cents a gross.

The Church of England now has in that country 12,200 benefices, 11,000 parsonages, 20,694 clergymen, and 58,000 curates.

The British railroad companies are required, under a penalty of £20 for each omission, to report every case of accident.

Brigham Young is building a magnificent mansion. "No house," he says, "in New York or San Francisco shall compare with it."

John Bright, the English reformer, does a great deal of fishing, and on a recent occasion landed no less than eleven fine salmon.

California now holds the Yosemite valley in trust for the nation, and has paid $55,000 to settle the pre-emption claims of the persons who colonized there.

Pennsylvania has 195 blast furnaces, 130 rolling mills, 16 rail mills, 18 steel works, and 21 bloomaries. All the other States put together do not contain so many.

Eastern papers ridicule Western names, but they have not yet heard of Sardine Muzzy, a farmer in Dane county, Wis., and a prominent member of Marshal Grange, No. 24.

Notice has been given of a new Russian loan. This has been an annual event since 1869, inclusive. The total of the Russian loan now amounts to £150,000,000.

The Meteorological Committee of the Royal Society report that in 1873 a fraction over seventy-nine out of every hundred of the English weather warnings were correct forecasts of the weather which actually ensued.

In photographing the sun, the intensity of the light renders it necessary that the exposure of the plate should be extremely brief; and we learn from a lecture by Prof. S. P. Langley that the time usually occupied is only 1-150th of a second.

A cook on a Detroit tugboat, having fallen heir to $20,000, instead of immediately leaving, gave her employer a full week's notice of her contemplated departure. Rebecca Stohn is a woman of principle if she did work on a tugboat.

The cage-birds of the United States consume about 175,000 bushels of seed in a year, of which more than two-thirds is canary seed, the rest being hemp seed, rapeseed, millet, cracked wheat, etc., to the value of more than $2,000,000 annually.

The Shah of Persia, during his recent European trip, it appears, kept a diary, which has been published. It is reported to be a very dull, stupid book, full of trivialities, endless in its expressions of wonder at everything, and thoroughly uninteresting, as have been all books of royal birth. There is only one piece of information in the book which is new, and this is very startling. The Shah says: "The people of London think very much of their police; any one who shows disrespect to the police must be killed."

Big Prices for Short-Horns.

The short-horn cattle sale of E. G. Bedford, at Paris, Ky., on the 28th ult., was the largest ever made in the State. Twenty-one cows and heifers sold at an average of $1,995, and 14 bulls at an average of $1,195—realizing a total of $58,715. The sale was largely attended by traders from all parts of the United States and Canada. The principal animals sold were: London Duchess Ninth, to John Kennedy, of Paris, at $6,000; London Duchess Seventh, at $5,100, and London Duchess Eleventh, at $4,400, to T. J. McGibbon, of Cynthiana, Ky.; Twenty-first Duke of Airdrie, at $7,025, to J. H. Spears & Sons, Illinois; and London Duke Nineteenth, six months old, at $3,500, to Wm. R. Duncan, of Illinois.

After the sale of Mr. E. G. Bedford, Messrs. Hall & Bedford sold 27 cows and heifers at an average of $442; and 16 bulls at an average of $258; total, $15,825.

SALE OF THE VINEWOOD HERD.

A Winchester (Ky.) dispatch of the 29th ult., says: "To-day the great Vinewood herd, owned by B. B. Groom, was scattered throughout every State in this glorious Union. This is the best sale of this number ever made in the Durham world, 100 head bringing the enormous sum of nearly $600 per head. Yesterday the world-renowned auctioneer, Col. Lewis P. Muir, made the best sale of thirty-five head on record, while to-day the far-famed Capt. P. C. Kidd has the honor of making the best large sale in the world. Surely a brighter prospect never awaited the noble short-horn interest of our glorious republic than now. It has cast our mother country, Old England, far in the shade."

A writer, who has flirted with the women of Paraguay, says: "Only imagine yourself about to salute the red lips of a magnificent little Hebe arrayed in satin and flashing with diamonds, as she puts you back with one delicate hand, while with the other she draws forth from her mouth a brownish-black roll of tobacco quite two inches long, looking like a monster grub, and then depositing the savory lozenge on the brim of your sombrero, puts up her face and is ready for a salute. However, one soon gets used to this in Paraguay, where you are, perforce of custom, obliged to kiss every lady you are introduced to."

Capturing a Python.

An interesting account of the capture of a large python, sent last year to the Zoological Gardens at Dublin, from Calcutta, by Dr. Dobson, appears in the appendix to the report of the Science and Art Department just issued. It seems that in January, 1873, the python was seen on a mango tree overhanging a tank in a garden belonging to a native gentleman in the suburbs of Calcutta. On an attempt being made to dislodge him, he suddenly uncoiled himself from the branch on which he was resting and flung himself into the tank, disappearing beneath the water, and remaining in strict seclusion for some time, for he was not seen again for a month, when he was again observed on another mango tree on the edge of the same tank. His reappearance having been reported to Dr. Dobson by Mr. Oscar Frazer, of the Indian Museum, that gentleman proceeded to the garden with a photographic apparatus and succeeded in obtaining a portrait of the animal coiled up in the tree. The gardener was then bribed to "protect" the python until the next morning, when his capture was to be attempted. On the following day, accordingly, a snake charmer and several coolies with some nets proceeded to the garden to seize the python. They were only just in time, for in the meantime the gardener had received a second bribe from some other persons who were also anxious to possess the snake. These persons had gone to the city for another snake charmer and more coolies, and were momentarily expected on the spot. The gardener, however, with a singular prudence, secured a third bribe by giving notice of their intentions, and thus Dr. Dobson's party were first in the field. The operations commenced by the snake charmer ascending the tree and being bitten severely in the hand by the python, who failed to appreciate his charms. The python then, as on the former occasion, made a hurried retreat toward the tank, but was netted by the coolies, who carried him off in triumph, to the great disgust of the other party, who, with their snake charmer and their coolies, were "just in time to be too late." Some difficulty was experienced in procuring a passage for the python to this country, but this was happily overcome, and he arrived safely at the Dublin Zoological Gardens, where he was received with the welcome due to a peculiarly loathsome and dangerous reptile.—Pall Mall Gazette.

How Little It Costs to Take an Ocean Voyage.

A remarkable instance of the extent to which competition may be carried may be found in the wonderfully reduced rates of trans-atlantic passage at the present time. A steerage passage to Europe may be obtained at as low as $10, while the average prices are from $12 to $125. During the past summer many Irish and English emigrants have gone back to their native land to visit friends and relatives, and they are now beginning to return—700 having arrived at Castle Garden one day last month. The cheapness of the fare renders the European trip really little more than a pleasure excursion. The food consists of boiled beef and pork, salt fish, hot bread, crackers, rice and barley soup, potatoes, hard ship's biscuit, porridge, molasses, and a poor grade of coffee. The passengers have to provide their own plates and table cutlery. They also provide their own beds and blankets. A "kit" consists of a set of tin dishes, and a straw bed can be bought of venders on the wharfs from $2.50 to $3. These, especially the beds, are usually thrown away at the end of the voyage. Water has to be obtained on deck, and it is generally much less plentiful than food. There are generally a number of musical instruments and many musicians. On the voyage they amuse themselves with music, songs and dancing. Every day those who are able to do so are required to go on deck to get the fresh air. Now, that this era of cheap fares to Europe has been inaugurated in one portion of the ship, it is morally certain that, sooner or later, it must come in the other. To be sure, it does not cost so much to carry the steerage as it does to carry cabin passengers; but, with continually increasing competition, it is very certain that reduction must come in the higher class of fares, and the profits of steamship companies be greatly cut down. The man who, twenty years ago, would have spoken of going to Europe for $10 would have been hooted at. That has come to pass, and it cannot be long, with the fierce rivalry now waging, that even greater wonders may be looked for.

A Doubtful Point.

A Western paper is responsible for the details of a chapter of accidents which had its origin in the most commonplace occurrence. A dog rounding the corner from an alley, and closely followed by a brick, came in contact with the feet of an old woman who was carrying a jug of molasses in one hand and a basket of eggs in the other. The old lady sat violently down into the basket of eggs, and smashed the jug of molasses on the pavement, bringing down upon herself by the cleverly executed maneuver the full weight of a young gentleman who was running to catch his train. Continuing his flight, the dog ran against the legs of a team of horses attached to a load of potatoes. The horses becoming frightened, bolted, and, the tail-board of the wagon falling out, they unloaded the potatoes along the streets as they went. Crossing the railroad track, the wagon displaced one of the rails; a freight train, coming along directly afterward, was thrown from the track, smashing some of the cars and killing thirty or forty hogs. Continuing their course, the horses, on reaching their own homestead at tip top speed, came to grief. One of them broke his leg, while the other was crippled for life. It is now a mooted question whether the man who threw the brick at the dog or the owner of the latter is responsible for the damage.

While the clergy of the United States annually cost $12,000,000, intoxicating drinks, it is said, cost $1,487,000,000; and there are 400,000 more persons engaged in the liquor business than in preaching the gospel and teaching school.

FLINT AND STEEL.

[A fable—paraphrased from the Spanish of Iriarte.]

BY JOHN G. SAXE.

The Flint and Steel—the story goes—
Old friends by natural relation,
Fell out, one day, and, like two foes,
Indulged in bitter altercation.]

"I'm weary," said the angry Flint,
"Of being beat; 'tis past concealing;
Your conduct (witness many a dint
Upon my sides!) is most unfeeling!

"And what reward have I to show?
What sort of payment do you render
To one who bears each hateful blow
That you may blaze in transient splendor?"

"You seem to think yourself abused,"
The Steel replied with proper spirit;
"But, say, unless with me you're used,
What praise of service do you merit?

"Your worth—as any one may see—
(For all your feeling of defiance)
Is simply naught, unless with me
You keep your natural alliance!"

"True," said the Flint, "but there's no call,
Whate'er my worth, for you to doubt it;
My value, sir, may be but small;
But think what yours would be without it!"

MORAL.

The writer who depends alone
On genius, hoping to be able
To cope with scholars fully grown,
May profit by this simple fable.

As from the Steel no fire comes forth,
Until it feels the Flint's abrasion;
So, genius is of little worth
Without the aid of cultivation!

Humor.

Rooted sorrow—an aching tooth.

A favorite American letter—An X.

Earth's holiest spot—The oil regions.

Bad study of artists—Daggers drawn.

The man who lifted his voice was shut up.

"Do you take kindly to menial service?" asked a lady of an applicant. "Well, yes; but should prefer the hymeneal," answered the girl.

The monthly nurse presenting two little strangers (twins) to a father for the first time, "Is it," said he, blushing, "to make a choice, madam?"

There is not in this wide world a happier life
Than to sit by the stove-pipe and tickle your wife;
To kiss her warm lips in your moments of glee,
And twist the cat's tail when she jumps on your knee.

A bachelor at a banquet in Newcastle gave the following toast: "The women and coal of Durham county! Oh, how desolate would be the fireside without them!"

A Chicago gentleman, who recently traveled through Ohio says that everybody he met called potatoes "taters," except one young lady, who called him a "small pertater."

"Bertha," pathetically observed an Ohio saloon-keeper to his wife, "these crusaders are just like the dog in the manger. They won't drink themselves, and they won't allow anybody else to drink."

A Westerner, traveling in Europe, being asked if he had seen Mount Vesuvius, replied, "Yes, I saw her spouting away, and made up my mind we must have a mount just like her near Chicago."

A little boy was recently presented with a toy trumpet, to which he became greatly attached. One night, when he was about to be put in his "little bed," and was ready to say his prayers, he handed the trumpet to his grandmother, saying: "Here, grandma, you blow while I pray."

A clergyman, who owned a farm, found his plowman sitting on his plow, resting his horse. Quoth the clergyman: "John, wouldn't it be a good plan for you to have a stub-scythe here and be cutting a few bushes along the fence while the horse is resting a short time?" "Wouldn't it be well, sir," said John, "for you to have a tub of potatoes in the pulpit, and when they are singing, peel 'em awhile to be ready for the pot?"

A Boston Deacon made a sad mistake the other night. Riding home in a horse-car, he was accosted by a friend with: "Ah, Deacon, getting home rather late, eh?" "Well, yes," replied the Deacon, "'tis a little late, but I have attended a prayer and conference meeting over in Chelsea this evening, and the interest was prolonged." Just then he inadvertently removed his hat, possibly to relieve his mind, when two theater checks fell out on the floor. It is needless to add that Jones and the Deacon pass without speaking now.

Wood-Sawing by a White-Hot Wire.

The Abbe Moigno, in a recent number of his periodical, entitled Les Mondes, describes an invention, which, he says, has recently been patented by Mr. Robinson, of New York, for sawing wood by an entirely new, and which seems a sufficiently odd, process. Since it originated here it ought to be no new novelty to our readers; but since it is such to us we give it the benefit of this notice. The process consists in substituting instead of the saw a platinum wire, heated white-hot by means of an electric current. The wire receives the same reciprocating motion which is commonly given to the saw, and thus burns its way through the wood. It is practicable, according to the inventor, not only to cut logs, planks or heavier forms of lumber by this means, but also to give curvature to the cut, and to produce fantastic forms of every description, since the saw, being without breadth, adapts itself to such purposes better even than the band or ribbon saws. Inasmuch as the wire burns its way instead of cutting, it leaves the surface of the wood charred; but this is an effect entirely superficial, and occasions no injury to the material. It would seem as if, however, there was an important question of economy here to be settled, and we shall wait before pronouncing an opinion on this application of science until we hear from it further.

A Detective's Perquisites.—Who would not be a detective? Chief Clerk Hawley reports that among the detectives who have been receiving rewards "by permission," exclusive of their pay, C. B. McDougal got, between Jan. 1, 1861, and February, 1874, $26,054.54, and A. G. Elder, from November, 1859, to May, 1871, $26,171.38. He might have added that their Captain, John S. Young, once pocketed $10,000 for looking at another officer, James Irving, make a single arrest.—New York Graphic.

A Thankful Lady.

On last Saturday a lady reached the depot in this place just as the train on which she desired to depart moved away. As she stood gazing at the train, her arms full of packages and her eyes full of tears, a gentleman arrived at the depot on a run, with his valise in hand, his coat on his arm, and face streaming with prespiration. He also was after that train, but alas! was too late. As he looked anxiously after the train, now moving swift away he sat down on his valise, wiped his face, and very deliberately said: D—n that train!" The lady heard it, and smiling on him with all their sweetness; her face lighted up with a heav enly glow as she whispered: 'Thank you, sir'—Ex.

Yankee Courtship.

One evening as I was sitting by Hetty and had worked myself up to the point of popping the question, I sez:

'Hetty, if a fellow was to ask you to marry him, what would you say?'

Then she laughed, and says she:

'That would depend on who asked me?'

Then sez I, 'suppose it was Ned Williams?'

Well, then, I'd tell Ned Williams but not you.'

That kinder staggered me, but I was too cute to loose the opportunity, and so I sez:

'Suppose it was me?'

And then you ought to see her pout up her lips, says she:

'I don't take no suppose."

Well, now, you see, there was nothing for me to do but to touch the trigger and let the gun go off. So bang it went. Sez I.

'Lor' Hetty, its me. Wont you say yes?

And there was such a hullabaloo in my head, I don't know 'zactly what tuk place, but I heard a 'yes' whispered somewhere out of the skrimmage.

Henry W. Bond,

FORMERLY OF

DeWALD, BOND & COMPANY

FORT WAYNE, IND.

Has opened a new

FANCY, DRY
GOODS, AND
LADIES' FURNISHING STORE

AT

21 West Main St.

A few doors west of the Court House.

His stock comprises FANCY GOODS, of all kinds
Flannel,
Yarns,
Cotton,
Cotton Flannels,
Linens, Laces,
Embroiders,
Hosiery, Gloves
Zephyrs, Canvass,
and everything needed for fancy work and embroidery. I extend a cordial invitation to the citizens of Auburn to call and see me when in Fort Wayne.

My goods are all new and having been purchased for cash are being sold from 10 to 20 per cent less than regular prices.

HENRY W. BOND

IS COMING.

Therefore buy your

Dry Goods,

Notions, etc., of

CHARLES KLOTZ

AT HIS

Old Stand

ON MAN STREET,

Opposite Court Square

AUBURN, INDIANA

Where he may be found at all times ready to accommodate customers, and sell them such good as they may need.

CLOTHING

Of all descriptions, and

HANDSOME SUITS

Made to Order!

GREATLY IMPROVED.

THE

Eagle Mills!

Having been recently refitted and improved, is now in excellent running order. Having employed one of the best millers in the country, I can now guarantee satisfaction. Prompt attention given to Custom Work.

FLOUR, BRAN, MILL FEED, ETC.,

on hand at low prices.

L. BOWERS.

ELLSWORTH, ANDREW & CO.,

SUCCESSORS TO

JOHN MAC DOUGAL,

DEALERS IN

CARPETS,

Oil Cloths,

Curtains & Fixtr's

26 East Berry street.

Fort Wayne, Ind.

The Best and Cheapest place to by Carpets in the city.

Pittsburg, Baltimore & Ohio R.R

MERCHANTS

National Bank!

FORT WAYNE, IND.

Capital and Surplus $112,000

Receives Deposits, Discounts Busidess Paper, ssues Letters of Credit, and Collects at all points at the lowest rates of exchange.

Directors:

S. CARY EVANS,
H. C. HANNA,
R. C. ROBERTSON,
N. P. STOCKBRIDGE
A. C. DAWSON.

Organized 1865. April 9, '74

AUBURN LIVERY

—AND—

SALE STABLE!

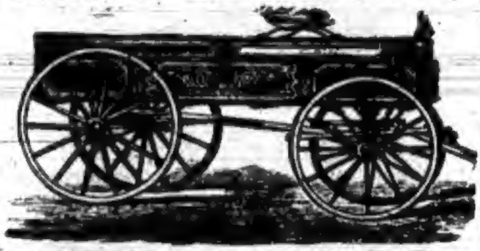
Ryan & Mader, pro's

Having on hand everything in the line of

Carriages, Buggies, Wagons, etc

they are prepared to furnish rigs at all times at reasonable prices. Office at Auburn House.

The Auburn



WAGONS

Made from the Best Materials,

And constructed with all the late improvements— The new and extensive

WAGON SHOPS

—OF—

J. W. SHAFFER

South Main Street

are now in full running order and all orders for

WAGONS, BUGGIES, &c.

promptly attended to. Special care taken in getting the best Seasoned Timber. Our prices are very reasonable and we solicit the public to give us a call and ascertain our prices.

THE NEW

Drug Store!

FRESH DRUGS,

Medicines, Chemicals, Spices,

Dyes,
Combs,
Brushes,
Perfumery,
Propretory Articles,
Fancy Goods, &c., &c

....

Wines and Liquors!

For Medical purposes only.

Stock New, prices to suit the times at the

NEW DRUG STORE,

Wood's old Stand!

Seventh St. Auburn, Ind.

Littlefield Bros.

Physicians prescriptions despersed from pure medicines, day and night.

V. A. BEARD

Oldest Grocer in Auburn, North of Court House on Seventh Street,

DEALER IN

GROCERIES and PROVISIONS

TEAS, COFFEES, SUGGARS, SALT FISH,

Flour and Feed, Tubs Pails, Buckets, Sugars Boxes, Etc. A large variety of

TOBACCOS AND CIGARS,

Confectioneries of all kinds, and Fancy Notions, Cove Oysters, &c. A speciality in Green and Dried Fruits, and Canned Fruits. Goods delivered inside the corporation.

DRY GOODS

GEO. DeWALD & CO.

WHEN LOOKING FOR BARGAINS

—IN—

Dry Goods or Notions,

CALL AT THE STORE OF

Geo. DeWald & Co

No 107 Columbia St., Ft. WYNE,

Where can be found a large assortment of

STAPLE AND FANCY GOODS

which will be sold LOW for cash.

ASK FOR THE "HATTIE" CORSET

The best thing in the market, is made glove-fitting, and of the best material, and in order to introduce, we are offering

ONE DOLLAR

THIS IS A BARGAIN!!

T. B. TOTTEN

DEALER IN

Hats, Caps,

AND GENTS'

Furnshing Goods!

Ladies' and Gents' HAND VALISES

MODERWELL & FOWLER'S FINE SHIRTS

Made to Order.

Paper and Envelopes, Choice CIGARS & TOBACCO

Also a specialty in Jas. Harper & Co's.

SILK HATS,

and old styles made new as ever

BY CALLING ON T. B. TOTTEN.

In Hebel's Corner

AUBURN

Meat Market.

Eighth St. Next Door to Bakery.

M. Houston having purchased the interest of M. Long in this popular stand is now ready to supply the public a good article of fresh meat of all kinds, in the best style at the lowest prices.

Auburn Bakery!

AND

EATING HOUSE

BAKER BROS.

PROPRIETORS OF

Fresh baked Pies, Cakes etc, always on hand. Good lunches served at all hours.

BAKER BROS.

A NEW STORE!

With an entire stock of

NEW GOODS!

BOOTS & SHOES

at the lowest PRICES.

J. E. WOODFORD,

has located at Auburn with a fine new stock of BOOTS & SHOES, which will be sold at the lowest figures for

CASH ONLY

Call and examine this bran new stock, as there are no old goods that have been on the shelf for years. Store on Main street opposite Fluke's residence, Auburn, Ind.

TELEGAPHY.

Ladies and Gentlemen wishing to become practical Telegraphers, can now take advantage, by attending our COLLEGE.

We guarantee to make the same of every student.
M. C. McGUIRE, Manager
Edgerton O.

TROY TOWNSHIP.

FALL AND WINTER

CLOTHING!

S. Lauferty

FURNISHING STORE!

You will find the best selected stock and at prices that defy competition. You can get a nice suit of Sam from

$6 UPWARDS!

I also keep on hand nice fine stock of Woolen and White

SHIRTS!

which will be sold at prices as low as any other place, Ft Wayne not excluded. You find the best assortment which you can get at my store for less than you are aware of as I can say what the most of my competers cannot, as I am now engaged in all the above line of goods for the last 20 years. I have paid a good tuition which others will have to pay yet, and this will be the best assurance that S. Lauferty can sell you his line of goods for less than any other house around or about. I also keep in connection with the above, a fine and well selected stock of Plain and Fancy French English, German and Domestic

Hats & Caps!

Cassimeres

Broad Cloth and Vestings. have also engaged one of the best Tailors west of New York or east of Chicago. All I ask is to come and examine my stock and prices and I will assure you will buy of me and go home well pleased and satisfied. I sell now strictly for Cash.

S. LAUFERTY.

The Newest & Best

The Mammoth Hose.

19 WEST MAIN-ST.,
FORT WAYNE, IND.

M. E. Woodward!

Has just received the finest and largest stock of

Clothing,

PIECE GOODS, ETC.

at his new store, ever in the place.

NO OLD GOODS!

anand Fashionable Furnishing Goods, Boys &c. Don't fail to seethe new store.

Dr. King's New Discovery!

FOR CONSUMPTION!

THE GREATEST

DISCOVERY OF THE AGE.

THE ONLY SURE CURE FOR

CONSUMPTION

Coughs, Colds, Asthma. Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, and all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs!

THIS IS THE ONLY REMEDY

of the kind sold under a Positive Guarantee.—All persons suffering with any of the diseases for which this Wonderful Remedy!!

is recommended, are requested to call at

F. E. Davenport & Co.

DRUG STORE, AUBURN, IND.

and get a sample bottle free of charge, which will convince the most skeptical of its really extraordinary merits, and show you what a regular One Dollar size bottle will do. April 16

W. and E. STEVENS,

Carriage & Buggy Builders

Fort Wayne, Indiana.

The public is respecfully requested to examine our stock of

CARRIAGES, BUGGIES, PHAETONS, &C., &C.

We keep constantly on hand a large assortment of work ready the road. We and guarantee to give entire satisfaction. Prices as low a any other House in the trade.

WARRANT OUR WORK

Manufactory on Clay-st, east end of Main

PIONEER

STORE!

HARDWARE

FOR EVERYBODY.

PLOWS, & Points

PLOWS

FOR EVERYBODY!

STOVES

FOR EVERYBODY!

Building Material for Everybody!

Go to

JOHN L. DAVIS,

IN THE BRICK BLOCK

F. E. DAAENPORT

CORNER MAIN AND EIGHT STEETS.

AUBURN, - - - IND.

DEALER IN

DRUGS and MEDICI ES,

WALL PAPER,

Books, Stationary and Fancy and Toilet articles, Brushes, Fine Soaps, Sponges &c

Customers will find our stock complete, comprising many articles it is impossible here to enumerate, and a m d rn

---

Sutermeister,

Becker & Bond,

ARCHITECTS

BUILDING

CONTRACTORS,

AND DEALERS IN

Building Stone

AMERICAN AND

ITALIAN MARBE,

GRANITE.
TOOMBSTONES,
MONUMENTS,
MANTELS,
GRATES, &C.,

Corner Main and Fulton Streets,
Fort Wayne, Ind.

A CARD.

A Clergyman, while residing in South America, as missionary, discovered a safe and simple remedy for the cure of Nervous weakness, Early Decay, Disease of the Urinary and Seminal Organs, and the train of disorders brought on by baneful and vicious habits. Great numbers have been cured by this noble remedy. Prompted by a desire to benefit the afflicted and unfortunate, I will send the receipt for preparing and using this medicine, in a sealed envelope, to any one who needs it, Free of Charge. Address,

JOSEPH T. INMAN,
Station D, Bible House, New York City

Auditors Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY AND TO THE COLLECTION OF LOCAL AND GENERAL NEWS

Vol. 4. Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, November 19, 1874. No. 47.

ROSE & HARTMAN

LAW, ABSTRACT AND COLLECTION OFFICE!

All legal business promptly attended to in DeKalb and adjoining counties. Have the only

ABSTRACT OF TITLE

to REAL ESTATE in the county. They contain Deeds and Mortgages made before the organization of the county and not on the county records, as well as all those made and recorded since. Written abstracts and opinions of title furnished. No one should invest in land without examining the Title.

OFFICE OPP. SWINEFORD HOUSE

S. W. Cor. Public Square. AUBURN, INDIANA.

The Auburn Weekly Courier

Published every Thursday, by

TOM. C. MAYS.

One Year.........$2. | Six Months.......$1.

Advertising Rates.

	1m.	3m.	6 m.	1 y.
One Square	2 50	5 00	7 00	12 00
¼ Column	6 00	12 00	16 00	20 00
½ Column	10 00	18 00	30 00	50 00
Column	15 00	30 00	50 00	100 00

Local Notices 10 cents per line, first insertion; 5cents each insertion thereafter. Business Cards 6 dollars.

Business Cards.

DR. J. A. COWAN,

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office on Main street, over Central Grocery.

AMERICAN HOUSE,

AT FORT WAYNE, only $2 a day. Good accommodations for traveling men.
J. P. JONES, Pro'r.

Joseph H. Stophlet.

ARCHITECT. Office over No. 17 Court street 1st door north of Empire Line office, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Drawings and specifications furnished for all classes of buildings, at reasonable rates.

GUY PLUM,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office in the Court House. Special attention paid to the collection of claims. Also agent for Home Insurance Company.

Medical Society.

OF DeKALB COUNTY, meets at Auburn, Ind., the 2nd Tuesday in each month.
J. H. FORD, Pres't.
J. A. COWAN, Sec'y.

J. W. RICKEL,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and Notary Public, Auburn, Ind. Office in the Court House.

W. B. HORNISH,

FASHIONABLE TAILOR. Suits gotten up in the most nobby styles. One door west of the Swineford Hotel.

A. F. PINCHIN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public, Butler, DeKalb Co., Ind. Insurance and real estate business promptly attended to.

H. C. PETERSON,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office over Davis' hardware store, Auburn, Ind.

SWINEFORD HOUSE.

CORNER MAIN AND NINTH STREETS, opposite the Court House. S. C. SWINEFORD, Pro.

J. J. LITTLEFIELD,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. Office over Miller and Casebeer's Store, Auburn, Indiana.

DRS. SEBRING & GRAHAM.

PARTNERS in the practice of Medicine. Office in Shaffer's brick building, second story, Main street, Auburn, Ind.

G. H. K. MOSS. P. V. HOFFMAN

MOSS and HOFFMAN,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW and Notaries Public Butler, Ind. Special attention given to collections. Also buy and sell Real Estate.

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office first door to right, Masonic Hall, over the Shoe Store of Sprott & Son.

PENFIELD and MOODY,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana.

R. M. and W. C. LOCKHART,

DEALERS IN LUMBER of every description, Waterloo City, Ind. We buy and ship Lumber at the going cash rates, at all times.

McBRIDE and MORLAN,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in any of the courts of the State. Office over O. T. Clark's Dry Goods store.

WOODHULL and CROXTON,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW Angola, Indiana. Practice in Steuben and DeKalb Counties.

CHAS. A. O. McCLELLAN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in the Courts of DeKalb and Steuben counties. Liberal Advance Made on all First-class Claims left in my hands for collection.

COURTS IN STEUBEN CO.	COURTS IN DEKALB CO.
1st Monday in February	3rd Monday in Feb.
4th Monday in April	2nd Monday in May
1st Monday in September	3rd Monday in Sep.
4th Monday in November	2nd Monday in Dec

H. Wartenslaben

PAINTER and paper hanger. House painting a specialty. Residence corner Williams and Cedar street.

Toledo Business Cards.

Thos. L. Luce. Fred. C. Chapin. James Blass

Luce, Chapin & Blass,

IMPORTERS AND JOBBERS of foreign and domestic dry goods, notions, white goods, &c 132 and 134 Summit street, Toledo, Ohio.

Chris. Gerber. M. O. Waggoner.

C. Gerber & Co.,

WHOLESALE DEALERS in general hardware. Sign of the big jack knife and star ax. 128 Summit and 83 Water streets, Toledo, Ohio,

Geo. Emerson. Pliny Watson, Z. C. Pheatt.

Emerson & Co.,

WHOLESALE GROCERS, 142, 144 and 46 Summit street, Toledo, Ohio.

V. Hamilton. E. Goldsmith.

Hamilton & Goldsmith,

COMMISSION MERCHANTS, Water street Toledo, Ohi

Ft. Wayne, Muncie & Cin R. R.

Time Table to take effect Sept 6, 1874.

Going South.

Fort Wayne	10 00am	5 00a.m	1 40pm
Ossian	10 26am		2 22
Bluffton	11 10	3 15	2 50
Keystone	11 30am	9 40	3 20
Montpelier	11 46		3 30
Hartford	12 10pm	4 05	3 56
Eaton	12 30		4 19
Muncie	1 00	4 43	4 53
McCowan's	1 15
New Castle	2 08	4 06
Cam. City	2 26
Beesons	2 54
Connersville	3 10
Indianapolis		7 05	6 50pm
Louisville		1 00pm	11 25am
Cincinnati	6 30

Going North.

Cincinnati	6 40am	pm
Louisville		3 00	11 25
Indianapolis		7 50	3 40
Connersville	10 25
Beesons	10 40
Cam City	11 00
New Castle	11 45pm
McCowans	12 32pm
Muncie	1 00	10 27	5 45am
Eaton	1 20		6 25
Hartford	1 43	11 10	6 51
Montpelier	1 52		7 24
Keystone	2 15		7 35
Bluffton	5 15	12 05am	8 15
Ossian	2 47		8 50
Ft. Wayne	3 25	1 15	9 45

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Gen'l. Supt.
ROBT. BILLIE, Gen'l Ticket Agt.

Ft. Wayne, Jackson & Sag. R. R

Short Line Between

Michigan and the South.

Time card in effect May 24th—run by Chicago time

Going North.

Stations	Mail	Accom.	Ft W.Acm
Cincinnati		6 45	4 30pm
Louisville	11 25pm	6 50	3 00
Indianapolis	3 40	11 45	7 50
Ft Wayne	10 35	5 05	1 05
Auburn	11 34	6 30	1 57
Waterloo	11 48	6 45	2 10
Summit	–
Pleasant Lake	12 26
Ar Angola	12 30	7 37	2 45
Reading	1 53	9 50	3 37
Bankers	2 10	10 09	3.50
Jonesville	2 27	10 33	4 05
Jackson	3 40	12 20	5 02
Detroit	6 30		8 00
Grand Rapids	9 15	5 45	4 40 p
Lansing	5 35		8 40
Saginaw	8 30		11 35
Bay City	9 15		12 23

Going South.

Bay City		6 30	3 30
Saginaw		7 17	4 05
Lansing		10 40	7 40
Grand Rapids	10 30 pm	6 30	12 25
Detroit		7 00	5 40
Jackson Dep	7 20a.m	12 25	9 40
Jonesville	8 25	2 20	10 43
Bankers	8 42	2 55	11 58
Reading	8 56	3 25	11 10
Ar Angola	9 56	5 10	12 00
Pleasant Lake
Waterloo	10 42	6 05	12 42
Auburn	10 56	6 25	12 47
Auburn Junction			12 50
Fort Wayne, Arrive	11 55	7 50	1 38
Indianapolis	6 50 p m		6 45a
Louisville	11 25		1 10p
Cincinnati	8 40 a m		9 45

W. A. ERNST, Sup
S. K. HOOPER Gen. Ticket Ag't.

BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R

The Shortest and Quickest Route to

WASHINGTON AND BALTIMORE!

The East and Sou'heast.

CONDENSED TIME TABLE, THRO' TRAINS.

VIA PARKERSBURG, MAY 31 '74	Fast Line. Daily.	Express. Daily.
Lve. Cincinnati	9 15 a m	9 30 p m
Arr. Chillicothe	1 13 p m	1 10 a m
" Portsmouth	5 55	10 20
" Marietta	5 25	5 20
" Parkersburg	5 30	5 30
Arr. Grafton	9 15	9 40
" Oakland	11 24	11 34
" Deer Park	11 43	11 43
" Cumberland	1 50 a m	2 00 p m
" Harper's Ferry	5 02	4 56 p m
" Washington	7 10	6 50
" Richmond	1 30 p m	4 50 a m
" Baltimore	8 40 a m	8 20 p m
" Wilmington	12 17 p m	1 31 a m
" Philadelphia	1 20	2 35
" New York	1 15	6 05
" Boston	5 50 a m	4 50 p m

VIA BELLAIRE—MAY 31, 1874	Fast Line. Daily.	Express. Sun. Ex.
Lve. Columbus	11 15 a m	11 45 p m
Arr. Newark	12 35 p m	12 50 a m
Lve. Sandusky	7 45 a m	7 00 p m
" Monroeville	8 25	7 50 p m
" Mansfield	10 07	9 51
Arr. Newark	12 20 p m	12 45 a m
" Zanesville	1 55	1 55
" Bellaire	4 50	5 15
" Wheeling	5 10 p m	5 45
" Grafton	9 05	9 20
" Oakland	11 24	11 34
" Deer Park	11 43	11 47
" Cumberlain	1 50 a m	2 00 p m
" Harper's Ferry	5 02	4 56
" Washington	7 10	6 50
" Richmond	1 30 p m	4 50 a m
" Baltimore	8 40 a m	8 20 p m
" Wilmington	12 17 p m	1 31 a m
" Philadelphia	1 20	2 35
" New York	5 15	6 05
" Boston	5 50 a m	4 50 p m

THOS. P. BARRY, West. pass agt., Cin.
L. M. COLE, Gen'l ticket agt., Bal. Md.
THOS. R. SHARP, Mas. of Tran. "

S. U. Tarney

PROPRIETOR

AUBURN MEAT MARKET!

KEEPS ALWAYS ON HAND.

Fresh Beef, Pork, Veal, Mutton and Bologna Sausage, clean and sweet. Prices reasonable. Main-st first door north of Miller & Casebeer's store.

DETOIT, EEL RIVER & ILLINOIS Rail Road.

Short Line between Auburn and the East and West.

Trains run on Cleveland time. Through trains will run on the following time, to effect Sunday Sept 27, 1874.

Going East. Way Fr.	Going East. Mail	Stations	Going West. Mail	Going West. Acc'
6 10	10 10 am	Logansport	2 20 p.m	11 35
	9 57	Peoria	6 40
8 10	11 25 am	Denver	1 01	9 27
10 25	12 22 pm	N. Manches'r	12 01	8 15
1 30	1 07	Col. City	11 09	6 50
4 50 pm	2 20	Auburn	9 45	4 40
5 40	2 50	ar. Butler l v	9 10	3 30
		Toledo
		Detroit

CONNECTIONS—At Logansport with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St Louis, Logansport, Crawfordsville & Southwestern and Toledo. Wabash & Western R. R's. At Denver with Indianapolis, Peru & Chicago Railway, for Rochester, Plymouth, LaPorte, Michigan City, Peru, Kokomo and Indianapolis At N. Manchester with Cincinnati, Wabash & Mich R'y. At Columbia City with Pittsburg, Ft. W. & Chicago, for Ft Wayne Lima, Crestline and Pittsburg. At Grand Rapids crossing with Grand Rapids R'y. At Auburn Junction with Ft. Wayne Jackson & Saginaw, for Angola, Jackson and Saginaw R'y. for Butler with Lake Shore & Mich. Southern Caw. Toledo, Detroit and all eastern cities.
J. A. HUGHSTON, Gen. Ticket Agt.
A. B. SOUTHARD, Gen. Supt.

Lake Shore & Mich. Southern R.R
Air Line Division

ON and after Sunday, Nov. 1, 1873 Passenger Trains will leave Waterloo city and other Stations as follows, daily except Sundays:

GOING WEST

	Special Ex.	Pacific Ex.	Accom'd'n
Butler	2:50 p m.	x 2:25 a m.	7:45 p m
Waterloo	3:05 "	2:43 "	8:06 "
Sedan			8:17 "
Corunna			8:25 "

GOING EAST.

Corunna			6:20 p m
Sedan			6:26 "
Waterloo	2:35 "	11:36 "	6:36 "
Butler	2:55 "	x11:55 a m	7:05 "

Pittsburgh, Ft Wayne & Chicago R.R

ON and after May 31 1874 Trains will leave stations daily, (Sundays excepted) as follow:

Going West.

STATIONS	FAST EX.	MAIL.	PAC. EX.	NIGHT EX
Pittsburg	2,00 A. M.	6,00 A. M.	9,40 A M	2,00 P. M.
Rochester	"	7,25 "	10,50 "	3,10 "
Alliance	5,25 "	11,00 "	1,30 P M	5,50 "
Orrville	7,01 "	12,52 P. M	3,15 "	7,20 "
Mansfield	9,08 "	3,15 "	5,20 "	9,25 "
Crest- ar	9,35 "	3,50 "	6,00 "	9,55 "
line lv	9,55 "	5,00 A M	6,30 "	10,05 "
Forest	11,13 "	6,32 "	8,25 "	11,29 "
Lima	12,15 P M	8,00 "	9,43 "	12,30 A.
Ft Wayne	2,15 "	10,35 "	12,25 A M	2,55 "
Plymouth	4,24 "	1,36 P. M	3,16 "	5,15 "
Chicago	7,50 "	5,25 "	6,50 "	8,50 "

Going East.

STATIONS	MAIL.	FAST EX.	PAC. EX.	NIGHT EX
Chicago	5,15 A M	9,20 A. M.	5,35 A. M.	10,20 P. M
Plymouth	9,26 "	12,10 P. M.	9,05 "	2,10 A. M
Ft Wayne	12,30 P M	2,30 "	11,30 "	5,20 "
Lima	2,45 "	4,20 "	1,35 A. M.	7,20 "
Forest	4,02 "	5,19 "	2,42 "	8,35 "
Crest- ar	5,50 "	6,45 "	4,20 "	10,20 "
line, lv	5,55 A M	7,05 "	4,30 "	10 30 "
Mansfield	6,40 "	7,35 "	4,57 "	11,00 "
Orrville	9,13 "	9,28 "	6,45 "	12,52 PM
Alliance	11,20 "	11,05 "	8 35 "	2,25
Rochester	2,10 P M		10,42 "	4,48
Pittsburg	3,30 "	2,05 a m	11,45 A. M.	5,55

F. R. MYERS,
General Passenger and Ticket Agent

Examination of Teachers.

Examinations will be held at Auburn, on the first Saturday in each month, and at Waterloo the last Saturday in each month until further notice. A stamped envelope for the return of license, will be required of each applicant.
JAMES A. BARNS, Co., Supt.

Thomas Baldock

Building Contractor

AUBURN INDIANA.

will be ready at all times with an experienced corps of workmen to erect Houses, Barns, and do carpenter and joiner work of all kinds at reasonable rates.

BRICK FOR SALE

FRITZ GROESCOP.

Having just burned a fine kiln of brick, about one hundred thousand, is now ready to supply all who want good brick at reasonable figures. Residence two miles north of Auburn on the Kutzner road, three miles south west of Waterloo.

John M. Miller,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FINE FURNITURE,

CHAIRS,

Husk & Hair Matrasses

50 and 52 East Main Street,

FORT WAYNE, IND.

J. G. FLEDDERMAN,

No. 27, East Main-St.

FORT WAYNE, IND'A

Has the larfest and finest stock of

CLOTHS, COATINGS, CHEVIOTS,

—AND—

CassimereS

in Ft. Wayne. The finest line of

Made up Clothing!

ever shown in Fort Wayne

Youths' and Children's Clothing!

Furnishing Goods, &c.

Merchant Tailoring.

All work done in all the latest styles, promptly attended to. Go and see his largestock of Gp

THE DISGUISED HEIRESS.

Miss Vernon sat thoughtfully at her window plunged in a deep thought.—This need be scarcely wondered at, for the question upon which she was pondering affected her nearly.

She was an heiress having come into possession, at her majority, of fifty thousand dollars She was prepossessing in her appearance, and this, as was natural, as usual, was considerably exaggerated, and brought her suitors in plenty. Among them she made choice of William Winsor, and in a few weeks they were to be married.

William was engaged in the wholesale clothing business, and had the reputation of an active, sharp man of business. He was of good appearance, and so far as could be judged, was a good match for the heiress. Nothing to his prejudice had came to the ears of Miss Vernon until the day before. A poor woman had come to the door in evident poverty, and asked for relief. On being questioned, she had been employed in making shirts at twelve cents apiece for wholesale dealers—that after making a dozen and carrying them to the store, she had been roughly told that they were quite soiled and that nothing would be paid for the work, but that she might have some more, if she would agree to make them better. She added that this was one of the small ways in which the firm made money, out of poor woman, by pretending that their work was unsatisfactorily done, when reallly no fault could reasonably be found.

The sum small as it was, of which she had been defrauded, was all improtant to her, as it represented nearely a week's work.

'Only a dollar and forty-four cents for a week's work!" exclaimed Miss Vernon in dismay.

'That's all said the poor woman.

'How then, do you live?'

'It can hardly be called living. It's barely keeping body and soul together said the poor woman.'

'And who is this extertioner that first offers you starving wages, then defrauds you of them? asked Miss Vernon, very indignantly.'

'Wm. Winsor.'

'Who?" demanded Miss Vernon firmly and quickly.'

'Wm. Winsor.'

'I can hardly believe this. I know the gentleman.'

'It is true, and if you will investigate the matter you will find it so.'

'I will investigate the matter. Here is five dollars for your present needs. Come here to-morrow at this time; I may have some work for you to do.'

The poor woman departed devoking blessings upon the heiress.

'I will look into this,' said Margaret Vernon, resolutely, 'and, if it proves true, the engagement between Wm. Winsor and myself shall be broken. I will not give myself to such a man.'

'Nancy, said Miss Vernon, the next morning to the chaimbermaid, 'have you an old dress and shabby cloak and bonnet you can lend me?'

'I have got so poor that I am not going to wear them again,' said Nancy surprised at such an inquiry.

'Will you lend them to me?'

'Of course, Miss, but what would the likes of you want with such old clothes?'

'A little fun that's all,' said Miss Vernon. 'I am going to disguise myself, and see if I can't deceive somebody.'

With this explanation Nancy was content, and produced the clothes.—Miss Vernon put them on, and in addition, borrowed another of the servant's thick green veil, somewhat the worse of the wear, and then set out on her mission. No one, in her disguise whuld have recognized the usually elegant and richly dressed heiress, Miss Margaret Vernon.

Miss Vernon slipped out of the basement door, and took her way to a large store, on which was inscribed the name of Wm. Winsor, in large guilt letters.

She entered, and after a while a clerk spoke to her in a rough voice—

'Well, what do you want?'

'I want to get some work, she said in a low voice.'

'We can give you some shirts.'

'Anything?'

'Can you sew well?'

'I think so!'

A half dozen ghirts were given to Miss Vernon, and she was informed that if satisfactorily done, she would be paid twelve cents apiece. These she carried home, slipped in at the back door.

About two hours later the poor woman called.

'Here are some shirts for you to make, said Mis Vernon.'

'Why they are the same I have been making,' said the poor woman, in great surprise.'

'That is true and they came from the same place.'

'I am to take them back there.'

'No, you will bring them here. I will pay you for your work, when done, double the price you have been receiving.'

'Sew them as neatly as possible I want to see if they will be rejected as poor work!

'Yes Miss Vernon I will take pains with them.'

Three days later the poor woman returned with the work completed. Miss Vernon paid her for them, and requested her to call the next day.

'Nancy,' said the heiress, after her protege had departed, 'I wish to borrow your old clothes again.'

'Certainly, Miss,' said Nancy, 'if it is not ashamed you are to appear in such miserable rags.'

'No one will know me Nancy.'

'Shure, Miss, you can take them wherever you like.'

'I don't think I shall need them again Nancy, thank you all the same.'

Not long afterwards, Miss Vernon, in her shabby disguise entered the establishment of Wm. Winsor, with the bundle of shirts under her arm.

She walked up to the counter and laid them down.

'What have you got there demanded the young clerk.'

'Some work, sir, said Miss Vernon very humbly.'

'Well, why don't you open the bundle?' said the young man picking his teeth with his knife.

Miss Vernon did so.

The young man deigned to tumble over the shirts, and sneeringly glanced at them carelessly.

'Shocking! shocking!" he said.

'What's the matter sir?"

'They're wretchedly sewed, that's what's the matter. How do yuo expect we are going to sell such shirts as these?'

'I am sure I thought they were well done' said Miss Vernon.

'You thought did you?' replied the clerk, mocking her. 'Well I think differently, and that's all about it. We will have to sell them at a loss.'

'But what shall I do asked Miss Vernon, in seeming distress.'

'That's your business, not mine. We will try you once more, and give you another half dozen shirts. If they are done better we will pay you for them.'

'These are done well said Miss Vernon, sevagely snatched the bundle from the counter, 'and I will show them to the employer.'

To the indignation of the clerk, who was not used to such independence in the poor woman who worked for the establishment, Miss Vernon took the shirts to another part of the counter where she saw Wm. Winsor himself.

'Mr. Winsor, said she, 'your clerk will not pay me for these shirts. He says they are not will done.'

'Mr. Winsor took one up and pretended to examime it.

'No, it is poorly done. We can't pay you for these, but you may have another bundle, and, if they are satisfactory, you will then be paid.'

'Didn't I tell you so? said the clerk triumphantly. 'Now young woman how much did you make by that operation?'

'More than you think, perhaps said Miss Vernon quietly.'

'Do you want any more.'

'No. I do not wish any more, she answered coldly.'

'Oh you are in your high horse, are you?' Well, you may be glad to get work some day, when you can't have it.'

That evening was the one which Wm. Winsor usually spent with his betrothed. When he was introduced, he went forward warmly, as usual to greet Miss Vernon.

She drew back coldly, and did not offer her hand to grasp his.

'What is the matter. Margaret?' he asked surprised and startled. 'What have I done to entitle me to such a reception?'

'My hand has taken yours for the last time, Mr. Winsor,' said Margarte.

'Good heavens! what is the meaning of all this? Margaret explain yourself. I cannot understand it.'

'I cannot take the hand of one who grows rich by defrauding poor woman out of there scanty earnings.'

'Who says this of me? Some one has been slandering me. Confront me with my accusers. There is some mistake here.'

'I will do as you desire. Wait just five minutes.'

Miss Vernon left the room, and soon re-entered in her disguise.

The young man stood up to her angrily.

'Are you the one who has slandered me to Miss Vernon?' he demanded.

'I told her the truth.'

The young man reflected. Violent contradiction he saw would not avail him, he would try anther course.

'Hark ye, young woman,' he said in a low voice. 'There was a mistake. I will make it up to you richly. I will give you ten dollars on the spot, and all the work you want at double rates, if you will tell Miss Vernon it was all a mistake.

'Too late Mr. Winsor,' said the veiled figure, throwing up the veil, and showing the contemptuous face of Margaret Verno. Youre bribe is offered in vain. Good evening sir'

Confounded and astonished, William Winsor found his way to the door, and has never ventured to enter the house of the heiress since. He was paid for his meanness in his own coin.

An Interview With Nark Twain

Mark twain has been interviewed it took some prep arations to get Mr. Twain's mind in a condition to be interviewed he didn't take to it naturally though he was extremely willing. At last, however, the interviewers got Mark's wandering attention fixed, and at it they went in good earnest.

Q. How old are you?

A. Nineteen in June.

Q. Indeed! I would have taken you to be thirty-five or six. Where were you born?

A. In Missouri.

Q. When did you begin to write?

A. In 1836.

Q. Why, how can that be, if you are only ninteen now?

A. I don't know, in does seem curious somehow.

Q. It does indeed. Who do you consider the most remarkable man you ever met?

A. Aaron Burr.

Q. But you never—could have met Aaron Burr if you are only nineteen years——

A. Now, if you know more about me than I do, what do you ask me for?

Q. Well. it was only a suggestion; nothing more. How did you happen to meet Burr?

A. Well, I happened to be at his funeral one day, and he asked me to make less noise, and——

Q. But, good heavens! if you were at his funeral, he must have been dead and if he was dead, how could he care whether you made a noise or not?

A. I don't know, he was always a particular kind of a Man in that way.

Q. Still I don't understand it all.—You say he spoke to you, and that he was dead?

A. I didn't say he was dead.

Q. But wasn't he dead?

A. Well some said he was, and some said he wasn,t.

Q. What do you think?

A. O, it was none of my business. It wasn't any of my funeral.

Q. Did you—. However, we can never get this matter straight. Let me ask you about something else.—What was the date of your birth?

A. Monday, October 31, 1693.

Q. What! Impossible! That would make you 180 years old. How do you account for that?

A. I don't account for it.

Q. But you said at first you were only 19 and now you make yourself out to be 180. It is an awful discrepancy.

A. Why, have you noticed that? (Shaking hands.) Many a time it has seemed to me like a discrepancy, but somehow I couldn't make up my mind. How quick you noticed a thing!

This was but the beginning—before that interview was over, there must have been one at last, of the race inquirers who had his curiosity satisfied.

A New Weapon.

The New Orleans Picayune gives the annexed discription of the neatest instrument for a street fight has yet been produced:

It is a weapon with a sinister and cynical appearance that would make even the bravest man tremble. It consists first of an ordinary pair of brass knuckles, rather sharp, in order to produce a telling effect. To one end is attached a gimlet knife, to the other a revolver, whose trigger forms one of the divisions of the brass knuckle.—Thus armed a man might defy an army If he were to get hold of one individual man, the effect is appalling; every blow he strikes with the knuckles would not only break the assaulted person's skull, but lodge a half dozen bullets in his heart, while the gimlet attachment is cutting away at his throat A man who had been treated to that instrument would be killed at least a dozen times before he would know what was the matter; bruised, and cut to pieces, that a sardine box would prove a roomy coffin for his remains.

Somebody ought to name the weapon it deserves a name. It is small, but telling in its effects.

South Bend has issued $65,000 of city bonds for the extension of water means.

The St. Joseph country sweet potato crop is effected by the rot.

AUBURN COURIER

THURSDAY, NOV. 19, 1874.

NEWS SUMMARY.

The East.

The Rt. Rev. Dr. Bacon, Roman Catholic Bishop of the Diocese of Portland, Me., died at New York last week. He had just arrived home from Europe, whither he had been for the benefit of his health.

William H. Wickham, the new Mayor elect of New York city, is a Sachem of Tammany, has always been a Democrat, is a descendant of the original Knickerbockers, and is forty-two years of age....The principal buildings in Marcellus Falls, Onondaga county, N. Y., were burned recently. The loss is $50,000.... A Philadelphia dispatch states that Rev. J. W. Gerdemann, pastor of St. Boniface (German Catholic) Church, has absconded, in company with Miss Mary Wittig, the organist, and $100,000 of the church funds.

Joseph Rosenthal, in a drunken quarrel with his wife, pushed her from the roof of their residence in New York, killing her instantly. The murderer was arrested....One hundred and ninety-three deaths from diphtheria occurred in New York city during the last two weeks of October.

The suit of Theodore Tilton against Henry Ward Beecher has been postponed until the appeal from the decision of the court refusing to order Tilton to file a bill of particulars can be argued. This will probably carry the case over till next year, as the law's delays will be taken advantage of to their fullest extent by both parties.

The funeral obsequies of the late Catholic Bishop Bacon were celebrated with unusual splendor at the Portland (Me.) cathedral. Seats were reserved for the city government and other prominent citizens. Archbishop McClosky, Bishops Williams, McLaughlin, Lynch, McWade, Henroy and McNierney, and some fifty priests, clad in their robes, participated in the services. The requiem mass was celebrated by Bishop Williams, and Archbishop McClosky preached the funeral sermon. The remains were deposited in the vault beneath the church.

The assay office at New York recently received three and a half tons of silver bullion from the San Francisco refinery, being the largest amount ever received at one time. It will be coined into 50-cent pieces, and sent, it is supposed, to South America.

The West.

The widow of Gen. John A. Rawlins, formerly Secretary of War, died at a San Francisco hotel recently....The livery stable of O. C. Parmly, at Peoria, Ill., was burned last week, with nearly 100 horses. Loss $40,000.

Indian Agent Hoag, in his annual report, says that Satanta and Big Tree, notwithstanding they were entitled to unconditional release in accordance with the promise of the government, have remained peaceable and loyal. No evidence has reached him of hostility on their part. They have voluntarily surrendered themselves to the military, and he recommends official clemency in their case. ....A Detroit dispatch announces that the jury in the case of Andrew Underwood, who last March stabbed Miss Pridgeon, the woman he loved, to the heart, found him not guilty because of insanity.

Gen. Sheridan, in his annual report, refers to the Black Hills expedition as "a successful reconnoissance;" beyond this he is exceedingly cautious. "Some gold," he says, "was found near Harney's Peak, but as to its abundance there is at present no reliable information."....Isaac F. Hoyt, who has been for many years the Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue for the Chicago District, was yesterday appointed to succeed S. A. Irvin, deceased, as Collector. His appointment is in conformity with the civil-service rules. It follows close upon the notable promotion of the Principal Examiner in the Patent Office, to be Commissioner.... Seventy-seven per cent. of the books taken from the Chicago Public Library are works of fiction....At Milwaukee, recently, an insane woman named Stieren killed her son, a boy thirteen years old, by breaking his skull with an ax, and then committed suicide by jumping into a cistern.

Fifty stands of State arms have been sent from Springfield to Freeburg, in St. Clair county, Ill., where the coal-miners are on a strike and threatening violence....An authorized agent from the grasshopper-plagued districts of Kansas is personally soliciting aid for his people from the citizens of Chicago.

Receipts of hogs at Chicago one day recently exceeded 31,000. Prices are good—about $6@7 per 100 lbs....Some of the losers by the recent severe fire at Greencastle, Ind., are suffering, and an appeal for their aid has been issued....Gen. Sheridan recommends the establishment of a strong military post in the Black Hills country, to the end that a better control may be maintained over the Indians....Gen. Ord has received notice that the Commissary-General decides that the supplies are barely sufficient for the subsistence of the army, therefore no rations can be issued to the sufferers from the grasshoppers in Nebraska.

The South.

A special dispatch from New Orleans to the Chicago Inter-Ocean claims that "the Associated Press dispatches from Louisiana on the result of the election have been grossly exaggerated. The Republicans have certainly elected the State ticket and four Congressmen by handsome majorities."....Numerous arrests of violators of the Enforcement act have been made in Tennessee and Louisiana.... The Committee of Seventy in New Orleans has addressed to the President of the United States a protest against the further occupation of the State by Federal troops.

The Louisville Courier-Journal publishes a number of extracts from letters and telegrams to merchants and business men of that city from all portions of the South indicating a revival of business and the restoration of confidence in the stability of affairs there in the future.

Nearly every town in Georgia is complaining of discriminations against them in the rates of railroad freights. Macon, Atlanta, Augusta and other cities and places join in the complaint. Any road that attempts to make through freights as high as local, would lose all through business; any road that should make local rates as low as through, would inevitably go into bankruptcy....Hugh Gaffney, the steeple-chase rider, who was recently ruled off the Jerome Park course, has begun a suit against Joseph Donohue to recover $3,500 for wages and services, and Donohue's horses at the Pamlico course, Baltimore, have been attached....In Louisiana ten parishes (counties) are yet to hear from. The Picayune admits that the Republican State ticket is probably elected. Kellogg's financial policy has been ratified. Three of the six Congressmen are Democrats. The State Senate will stand twenty-six Republicans to ten Democrats. The House will be close.

Washington.

The Washington correspondent of the Chicago Tribune states that "it is more than ever probable that the law convening Congress on the 4th of March will be re-enacted, since it is understood that many Democrats are in favor of it. By its re-enactment they will be enabled to proceed at once to the work of repealing or attempting to repeal such measures as have been passed by the Republicans as are obnoxious to them. Anticipating a probable opposition from the Republicans, the advisability of preventing the passage of one or two important appropriation bills, with a view to forcing the success of the desired bill, is being discussed. On the other hand, the Republicans are devising legislation which will make the Democratic House powerless for mischief, such as a measure to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to borrow money for current expenses in case of a failure in Congress to appropriate, and others of the sort. If such a bill should pass at the next session, the Forty-fourth Congress could not repeal it, as the two branches would be entirely different in political complexion, and a Republican Senate would be in existence to defend and protect the work of a Republican majority in the Forty-third Congress."....Fernando Wood, Gen. Banks, S. S. Cox and ex-Gov. Walker, of Virginia, are prominently spoken of in connection with the Speakership of the next House of Representatives....At a Cabinet meeting on the 7th inst. the President expressed himself more at length on the "third term" than ever before. He said that a close examination of the returns in the different States showed conclusively that the people were not influenced by the wild cries on this subject. He pointed to what he considered notable instances in proof of this assertion. The South Carolina Republican Convention had emphatically pronounced for him for a third term, and its candidate for Governor had been triumphantly elected in the face of enormous odds against him. On the other hand, in the Utica District, in New York, where the Republicans had always had an overwhelming preponderance, Ellis H. Roberts insisted upon the Congressional Convention which nominated him pronouncing against a third term, and Roberts was defeated.

Gen. Spinner, Treasurer of the United States, has completed his annual report. He again advances arguments in favor of issuing interchangeable bonds bearing 3.65 per cent. interest. He thinks that the chief objection to a metallic currency is its lack of elasticity. He believes the rate of interest of the proposed bonds will be high enough to sell them to the absorption of any surplus currency at any time, while it will be enough to force a return of the bonds in exchange for legal tender notes when the business of the country demands more currency. The rate of interest at one cent a day on the hundred dollars would be popular with the people, he says, because it is easy of computation. He argues that the conversion of the 5s and 6s into low-rate bonds in the event of the condition of the currency demanding such conversion, would result in the material reduction of the interest on the public debt, and make it payable entirely in national currency at home and not in gold to foreigners.

Gen. Sherman has submitted his annual report to the Secretary of War. There are 26,441 enlisted men in the army, which number, he estimates, will soon be reduced, through the working of natural causes, to the legal limit of 25,000. The General believes his force insufficient, and says that the United States army is the hardest-worked body of men in the world.

At a recent Cabinet meeting, Secretary Fish had a long interview with the President concerning our relations with Spain. As is well-known, the Spanish government has already settled with Great Britain for the indemnity demanded by that government for the execution of British subjects who were found on board the Virginius. No settlement has yet been made with the United States, although it was promised at the same time; and the President has come to the determination that it is about time that letter-writing on the subject should cease. It is understood that he will instruct Secretary Fish to demand immediate settlement.... Joseph W. Dwyer, of Coschocton, Ohio, has been appointed Revenue Agent, vice Brasher, resigned, and assigned to duty in Ohio and Indiana....Mr. Spinner says the labor required in his office has increased, and suggests an appropriation by Congress to each department and its bureaus of a round sum sufficient for the payment at discretion to clerks for work performed, as likely to give much better service to the government than the present graded system of compensation. The reduction in the number of female employes and reduction of salaries of those remaining, under the act of Congress at the last session, has been a source of inconvenience to the department, and of distress to poor widows and children.

Political.

Charles Francis Adams is spoken of as the new Senator from Massachusetts....Hon. John Morrissey is mentioned in connection with the office of Sergeant-at-Arms of the House.

Hon. Joseph Medill assumed editorial control of the Chicago Tribune Nov. 9. In his salutatory he promises to give to the Republican party and principles a hearty and generous support; but his paper is to be the organ of no ring or clique, and will fearlessly criticise all party leaders and measures.

It is understood that the friends of Colonel James Bar, editor of the Pittsburgh Post, will present his claims for the position of United States Senator, representing the western part of Pennsylvania.

The Pomeroy bribery trial has begun in Buckingham, Kansas. The recollections of Pomeroy, so far as the alleged bribery is concerned, are uncertain and treacherous, but he does remember something discreditable to Senator Ingalls, and promises to bring it out in this trial....The new Legislature of Wisconsin, just elected, will have a Republican majority of 32 on joint ballot. The Republican majority on the State ticket will be about 5,000....The General Assembly of Arkansas has met under the new Constitution. Both houses effected permanent organization, and met the next day in joint session to receive the Governor's message. The Speaker of the House then declared the result of the recent election, and the newly-elected State officers were installed.

The Hon. Jeremiah S. Black and the Hon. Charles R. Buckalew are the men chiefly spoken of by Pennsylvania Democrats as candidates for Senator Scott's seat....One of the oddities of the late election is that Massachusetts elects a Democratic Governor, while South Carolina elects to the same office a Republican, imported from Massachusetts at that. If the spirits of the departed keep track of earthly affairs, and keep up old association, Webster, Calhoun, Sumner and Brooks must have experienced thrilling sensations after the elections....Hon. E. B. Washburne is proposed by a Milwaukee paper as the next Republican candidate for the Presidency.

General.

The next session of the Protestant Episcopal Convention, recently adjourned at New York city, is to be held in Boston in 1877.... The Agassiz Memorial Fund in Boston amounts now to $121,005....All the military convicts are to be taken from the various penitentiaries throughout the country where they are confined, and imprisoned in the buildings at Fort Leavenworth, which are now nearly completed.

The insurance companies which withdrew from Chicago several weeks ago have returned. ....The soap and candle works of Work & Co at Cincinnati, were destroyed by fire recently. Loss $150,000....The lines of the Franklin Telegraph Company have been leased by the Atlantic and Pacific Company for ninety-nine years.

The Court of Commissioners for the Alabama Claims has adjourned till Dec. 3.... The organization of the House of Representatives of the Forty-fourth Congress is the prevailing topic of gossip and speculation. About 220 official positions are at its disposal—such as Sergeant-at-Arms, assistants, clerks, messengers, doorkeepers, etc., and as a change is deemed inevitable, the struggle for place has already begun....A sign of the times is the consecration of a colored clergyman as an Episcopal missionary bishop. The new bishop's field of labor is Hayti.

Small-pox is still on the increase at Montreal. The Hotel Dieu and General Hospital are overcrowded. The Hall House, in New Mountain Park, has been taken possession of....During the late gale on Lake Superior an island two acres in extent, situated in St. Louis Bay, one and one-half miles above Minnesota Point, was displaced and floated a distance of three miles down into Duluth Bay, and landed at Allen's ship-yard. Upon the island are pine trees that will measure three feet across the stump, and it is thickly covered over with other timber. The soil on the island is as solid as any on the mainland. There are several islands in Duluth and St. Louis Bays, but none have heretofore been known to be displaced and to float such a distance.

The International Typographical Union which has undertaken the work of providing a statue or other suitable memorial over the grave of Horace Greeley, makes an appeal for further contributions. The committee have sufficient funds, probably, for a portrait bust. In the meantime, the committee have assumed the care of Greeley's grave, which has been reported recently as in a neglected condition. ....The panic caused a decrease of $24,965,-089 in customs, and $11,316,529 in Internal Revenue receipts last year.... It is announced that there is no probability of the tax on whisky and tobacco being increased or diminished....The total taxable valuation of the State of Massachusetts, exclusive of personal property and deposits in savings institutions, is $1,831,661,165—a gain of $68,171,175 over last year.

Foreign.

The chief authorities of the Catholic Church have decided to hold a great International Catholic Congress in London, with the object of maintaining the doctrine of papal infallibility....The Duke of Abercorn has been elected Grand Master of the Free Masons of Ireland....Advices from Cape Town of the 11th of October, state that the gold fields were attracting more attention, nuggets being found daily. The crops throughout the colony were in good condition....It is reported that the French government intends to raise the state of siege of Paris soon after the meeting of the Assembly.

Queen Victoria has been petitioned to release the Tichborne claimant....A Montreal dispatch announces that a clerk in the savings department of the Bank of Montreal has absconded with $32,000, and a clerk in the office of Wm. B. Simpson, one of the stockholders, has fled with $15,000....The Alsace and Lorraine delegates have taken seats in the German Reichstag.

Murillo's great painting of "St. Anthony" has been stolen from the Cathedral at Seville, Spain....The Argentine Republic has ordered that all vessels in the ports of Uruguay having on board arms and provisions for the rebels shall be detained....The British government has decreed that slavery on the gold coast of Africa must cease....The students of the University of Edinburgh have decided to elect the Earl of Derby to the Lord Rectorship....The difficulty between China and Japan has been amicably arranged. China agrees to pay an indemnity of 500,000 taels, in consideration of which the Japanese troops are to withdraw from Formosa.

Despite the government's measures in Asia Minor, the famine continues. The Khedive of Egypt sent corn to the distressed districts. ....The Carlists in Spain have raised the siege of Irun, and Don Carlos has crossed the line into France....During special services in the French parish church at Montreal recently an alarm of fire was given, when the large congregation made a rush for the doors. Fully three hundred people were trampled under foot and many fatally injured.... The marriage of the French Prince Imperial to a daughter of the Russian Grand Duchess Marie is mentioned in Bonapartist circles as a probable event....Monseigneur Fruchaud, the Archbishop of Tours, died recently.

The London Times' special from Calcutta announces that the Viceroy, Lord Northbrook, has ordered the suspension of formal proceedings against the person supposed to be Nena Sahib, until more mature consideration can be had of the case... The authorities of Seville have offered a reward of $10,000 for the recovery of Murillo's great painting of St. Anthony, which was stolen from the cathedral in that city.

A special dispatch from Vienna announces that information has been received from Constantinople that orders have been received from the Porte to concentrate the Turkish troops near the Servian and Montenegrin frontiers, and that the Governors of Janja and Prisrend, in Albania, have been ordered to organize the Mohammedan inhabitants of the provinces....Two Irish members of Parliament have fought a duel, and one was severely wounded....Dr. Kenealy, the Tichborne claimant's counsel, in a letter excusing his non-attendance at a meeting of the bar, announces that he has been disbarred by the benchers at Gray's Inn.

The Chicago and South Carolina Railroad.

A trunk line to connect Charleston, S. C., with Chicago is now in process of construction, and the people of the Palmetto and Prairie States will soon be enabled to shake hands by rail. The people along the proposed route have assisted liberally, in the country east and south of the Alleghanies $1,600,000 being subscribed. North of the Ohio river, the States of Illinois, Indiana and Ohio raised $4,000,000. South of the Ohio and north of the Cumberland Gap, $2,000,000 have been pledged.

On the southern end of the line, 73 miles are already under contract from Charleston, and in the northern portion contracts have been made for the grading of 105 miles. The greater part of this portion is now ready for the iron, and the company expect to have the road completed to Indianapolis some time next year.

The officers of the company consist of a President and one Vice-President from each of the States through which the line passes. The Vice-Presidents will exercise full control over the local traffic of the road in the State which they represent, and are empowered to make all necessary contracts. They are also ex-officio Directors, and will hold meetings to decide on all questions concerning the general interests of the road. Each section is in a measure independent and not responsible for the debts contracted by any other section. All watering of stock is prohibited, and no section is allowed to lease any portion of its line to other roads. The President of the company is Mr. W. S. Haymond, of Indiana. The Vice-Presidents are Robert Rae, for Illinois; J. H. Stewart, for Indiana; Thos. L. Jones, for Kentucky; and C. B. Memminger, for South Carolina.

Cure for the Bite of Poisonous Serpents.

According to Mericourt, in a communication before the Academy of Medicine, in Paris, the only effective means of counteracting the bite of poisonous serpents, and which should be generally and popularly known, are those which prevent the absorption of the poison immediately after the bite, namely, ligature above the part bitten, suction, lotions, cauterization by means of a white hot needle, or of a small heap of gunpowder placed on the wound and ignited, or the application of some coagulating caustic. If these means have been neglected, or have been applied tardily and ineffectually, hot alcoholic drinks should be given gradually and in a methodical manner, so that sweating and the elimination of the fluids by the kidneys may be induced as freely as possible. The action of the new sudorific, "Jaborandi," may be tried. If, in consequence of violent vomiting, the introduction of medicine by the stomach be prevented, and any confidence be still retained by the practitioner in the use of ammonia, he may practice its injection, as it is at least harmless.

Punkin Pi.

Punkin pi iz the sass of Nu England. They are vittles and drink, they are joy on the haffshell, they are glory enuff for one day, and are good kold or warmed up. I would like to be a boy again, just for sixty minnets, and eat myself phull ov the blessed old mixtur. Enny man who don't luv punkin pi, wants watching cluss, for he means to do somethin mean the fust good chance he kan get. Giv me all the punkin pi i could eat, when i waz a boy, and i didn't kar whether Sunday-skool kept that day or not. And now that i have grown up to manhood, and have run for the legislature once, and only got beat 856 votes, and am thoroly marrid, thare aint nothin i hanker for wuss, and kan bury quicker, than two-thirds of a good old-fashioned punkin pi, an inch and a haff thik, and well smelt up, with ginger and nutmeg. Punkin pi iz the oldest American beverage i kno ov, and ought to go down to posterity with the trade mark ov our grandmothers on it; but i am afrade it won't for it iz tuff even now to find one that tastes in the mouth at all az they did forty years ago.—Josh Billings' Alminax for 1875.

Cremation of Lady Dilke.

The Berlin correspondent of the London Times writes: "The body of Lady Dilke, who died five weeks ago in London, was burned on the 10th instant, at Dresden. The ceremony was performed in the furnace recently invented for burial purposes by Herr Siemens, and the relatives of the deceased lady permitting strangers to be present, a large number of scientific men attended the experiment. When the company had complied with Herr Siemens' request to offer up a mental prayer, the coffin was placed in the chamber of the furnace; six minutes later the coffin burst; five minutes more and the flesh began to melt away; ten minutes more and the skeleton was laid bare; another ten minutes and the bones began to crumble. Seventy-five minutes after the introduction of the coffin into the furnace all that remained of Lady Dilke and the coffin was six pounds of dust placed in an urn. The brother-in-law of the deceased was present.

In view of the fact that Watt's hymns have been translated into the Choctaw language, and have become favorites of the braves, an admirer of the noble red men says it is very affecting to think of a noble red man sitting upon a fence and singing, "How doth the little busy bee," while he watches his wife carrying home a couple of bushels of potatoes upon each shoulder, and wondering if he couldn't swap that squaw for a jug of robust rum.

Danger of War in Europe.

On the Continent the sky is dark and lowering, and it is impossible not to feel that a storm is brewing, yet nobody can tell in which direction to look for the first flash. There are no distinct quarrels ready for fighting about, but the relations of several important states exhibit just the sort of feverish irritation which may at any moment precipitate a collision. It may be assumed that France and Germany are bound to fight some day; but France, though busy with military preparations of which every traveler through the country brings over startling accounts, is not yet ready for war; and on the other hand, it is difficult to see what more it can be possible for the Germans to get out of another conquest. There can be no doubt, however, that Germany is just now in rather an explosive condition. The people are groaning bitterly under the strain to which they have been subjected, and which has still to be continued in order to maintain the enormous armament which is deemed necessary as a check upon reprisals by France. At this moment Germany is probably the strongest power in Europe; but the question is how long it can maintain itself in this position. It is at the highest point now, but the cost of this supremacy is fearfully exhausting. Every year the country becomes less capable of enduring the drains upon it in men and money, and every year, while Germany is at the best only barely holding its ground, other powers are growing rapidly in strength and confidence. Hence the idea which is supposed to have taken possession of Bismarck, that the policy of Germany should be to strike while it is at the top of its strength, and while other countries are weaker, and thus to obtain an opportunity of lessening its military expenses by paralyzing its chief opponents while it still has power to do so. It must be remembered that it is not merely France by itself that the Germans have to reckon within the future, but also the Papacy and the Czar—two very formidable opponents, who would each be pretty sure to do all in their power to help France against the power which has already defied the one, and is suspected of a similar intention in regard to the other. The European situation, therefore, comes pretty much to this—that Germany, despairing of becoming any stronger, and more than doubting its ability to maintain its strength at its present standard, would be glad of an opportunity of trying to cripple its antagonists at once in such a way as to secure for itself some amount of ease and peace for a good while to come. Whether this opportunity will be found nobody can say; but there can at least be little doubt that Germany is bent on creating an opportunity if it can, and that it will avail itself of any that offers. It is no wonder, then, that with such a state of things on the Continent, there should be doubt and perturbation in the financial world. Almost anything may happen before spring.—London Cor. New York Times.

Postmasters' Salaries.

L. D. Ingersoll writes from Washington to the New York Tribune: There are three classes of Postmasters by Executive appointment, whose salaries vary from $1,000 to $6,000 annually. The total number of these in the States and Territories is 1,567. The amount of the salaries in the different cases varies in the most unaccountable and fantastic manner. In some cases it is, as I believe, too low, but in most altogether too high, so that a graduation of pay, made on some principles of common sense, business wisdom, and fair play, would result in a handsome measure of economy. As an illustration of the haphazard manner in which these salaries are arranged, let me give a few examples from my own State, Illinois. The Postmaster at Chicago receives $4,000 a year. In point of business transacted, this is the second Postoffice in the United States. The population of the city is about 450,000. As is well known, it is the commercial center of the interior, with railroads going everywhere. The Postmaster has to give bonds in an immense sum of money. But the Postmaster in Bloomington, a little city of 20,000 people, also has a salary of $4,000. So does the Postmaster at Aurora, which is a mere suburb of Chicago, and has a population of only about 12,000.

The following table illustrates the grotesque unfairness of some of the salaries:

Postoffice.	Population (1870).	Salary.
Brooklyn, N. Y.	396,099	$4 000
Binghamton, N. Y.	12,692	4,000
Buffalo, N. Y.	117,714	4,000
Lockport, N. Y.	12,425	4,000
Fishkill-on-the-Hudson, N. Y.	2,992	1,300
Cazenovia, N. Y.	1,718	2,100
Philadelphia, Pa.	664,022	4,000
Titusville, Pa.	8,639	4,000
Wilkesbarre, Pa.	10,174	4,000
Boston, Mass.	250,526	4,000
Pawtucket, R. I.	6,619	4,000
Austin, Tex.	4 488	4 000
Taunton, Mass.	18,629	3,900
Danbury, Conn. (town)	8 752	3,500
Meriden, Conn.	10,495	1,800
St. Louis, Mo.	310,864	4,000
St. Joseph, Mo.	19,565	4,000

Dry, Indeed!

An honest old farmer from the country gave his recollections of the hot spell as follows: "It was so dry we couldn't spare water to put in our whisky. The grass was so dry that every time the wind blew it flew around like so much ashes. There wasn't a tear shed at a funeral for a month. The sun dried up all the cattle, and burned off the hair till they looked like Mexican dogs, and the sheep all looked like poodle puppies, they shrank up so. We had to soak our hogs to make 'em hold swill, and if any cattle were killed in the morning they'd be dried beef at dark. The woods dried up so that the farmers chopped seasoned timber all through August, and there ain't a match through all the country—in fact, no wedding since the widow Glenn married old Baker three months ago. What few grasshoppers are left are the skin and legs, and I didn't hear the teakettle sing for six weeks. We eat our potatoes baked, they being all ready, and we couldn't spare water to boil 'em. All the red-headed girls were afraid to stir out of the house in daylight. Why, we had to haul water all summer to keep the ferry running, and—say, it's getting dry; let's take suthin'."—Exchange.

The total number of Southerners now excluded from holding office by reason of political disabilities is less than 150.

Fashions in Furs.

Those most used for decoration are the Silver Fox, Chinchilla, Silver Marten, black Arctic Lynx, and Alaska Sable. Sea Otter and Russian and Hudson Bay Sable will be used for really elegant garments, and for opera wear garments will be trimmed with Royal Ermine.

The sets most in favor this season are Mink, Seal, Lynx, Black Marten and Otter. Mink will again take the lead, as it has been thoroughly tested, and found to be perfectly reliable, and really there is nothing handsomer than a dark set of Mink. We can purchase sets of Mink at all prices from $25 to $75.; those at the latter price being very handsome. The medium sets cost $35, $40, $45 and $50. Real Alaska Seal sets cost $26, $33, $38 and $45, while the finest quality of Shetland Seal is from $48 to $60. Boas are from 60 to 84 inches long. There are very good imitation Seal sets at from $7 to $12.

The Lynx sets, with black, flowing fur, can be bought for $24 and $27, the best; while the imitation sets, which are very good, cost from $7 to $15. The Arctic Lynx, a really handsome fur, is only $15.

The Black Marten, in natural color, comes cheaper, the sets being only $14, $18, $22 and $25. Imitation sets are only $6, $8, and $10.

Otter sets are pretty, and cost from $30 to $50; while very handsome sets of beavers are $22, $27, and $32.

The Russian and Hudson Bay sables are decidedly elegant furs, and can be worn only by those who can afford such expensive sets. Hudson Bay sets are sold for from $85 to $200; while the Russian sable sets range in price from $300 to $1,500.

Many ladies prefer the fancy furs, such as the silver-fox, greibe, and chinchilla. Silver-fox sets range in price from $100 to $300, and are in great demand. Chinchilla also is fashionable, and sets of it can be bought for from $20 to $100. Greibe sets cost from $25 to $40.

The novelty of the season is a boa and muff combined, which consists of a boa the usual length, with pocket on each end in which to place the hands when necessary or desirable. It is certainly more convenient than the muff, for there is no danger of losing this affair, as ladies often do their muffs, by carelessly leaving them upon counters of stores. This article will be manufactured in all the different grades of fur, and can be bought at any and all prices from $8 to $100. A very neat specimen in mink—the dark shade—was exhibited. The price was $25.—New York Weekly.

The Vendome Column.

The Vendome Column, says the London Globe is finished. All that is wanting now is the statue, but that will have to await political events. It would be manifestly absurd to place any other statue on a monument dedicated to Napoleon than one of the Emperor. Moreover, the vote of the Assembly decided that the "column should be restored to its former state." But it is impossible to predict what folly the French may commit. A French paper gives a romantic account of the statue, well known to Englishmen, which surmounted the column under the Second Empire. Originally the work of Chandet, it was removed in 1815 to be melted down, and to furnish the bronze for the statue of Henry IV. The workmen, then Bonapartists, clubbed together to buy bronze to replace the metal, which was sacred to them, and with which they made several reduced copies of the original statue. It is said that ten of these statuettes are to this day in the left leg of the good King Henry. The little Victory which the Emperor held in his hand escaped the breaking up, and was discovered some years afterward.

In 1832 the statue was replaced, but it was the Emperor as the "Little Corporal" who in singularly bad taste figured on the summit of a column which is an imitation of the pillar of Trajan at Rome. When Napoleon III. wished to restore the work of Chandet it was intrusted to M. Damont, who was fortunate enough to be able to replace the original Victory in Cæsar's hand. After the overthrow of the column by the Communists, all the pieces of the statue were recovered except the Victory. A complete model, however, exists in the artist's studio. The rebuilding of the column began eighteen months ago, and has cost 150,000 francs, the sum voted for it, besides a supplementary sum for paving. Seven hundred pieces of bronze had to be pieced together again, and each plate was made good separately. Here a nose had to be replaced, or a leg, or an entire figure. So exceptional is this kind of work, that there is no precise term in art or manufactures to describe it adequately. It is not unlikely that the Parisians, delighted at seeming one of their most beautiful monuments restored to them almost uninjured, may hasten on the rebuilding of the Tuileries and Hotel de Ville.

Witchcraft in West Virginia.

The Wheeling (W. Va.) Intelligencer contains the following remarkable story of superstition and ignorance: "On alley Sixteen, in East Wheeling, a peculiar disease recently appeared among the smaller children. Seven babies, in as many different families, suffered from the same mysterious complaint. One of the babies died, and it was thought the others would not survive long. No medical advice was called, as the children were believed to be bewitched. An old lady, however, who is known to possess much influence with superstitious persons, attempted to drive out the evil spirits. She visited the different families, and advised them to keep every door locked and stop up the keyholes. Nothing was to be loaned from a house for fear some bold and adventurous spirit would accompany the article and make mischief in a neighbor's family. The stocking on each child's left foot was turned inside out to spoil the enchantment, and many other ridiculous things were done. We have not learned what effect these prescriptions have had upon the little sufferers, but it seems horrible to think that innocent children are compelled to suffer because of the ignorance and superstition of their parents."

AUBURN COURIER

T. G. MAYS, Publisher.

FARM AND HOME.

HOW DRAINS ACT.

The water which runs into drains dug in tough clay soil, enters from the sides and bottom, and not from immediately above the drains. The toughest clay is sufficiently permeable to water to allow it to pass through readily, and after the drains have been in operation some time, regular and permanent water channels become established in the soil leading from above to the bottom of the drains. In digging drains in tough, compact clay, numerous small veins of water are cut, which show very clearly how readily the water will pass through such soil as soon as outlets are provided. The advantage of deeper drains is thus explained, and it is readily seen that their influence extends very much further in proportion to their depth.

TO PREVENT RUSTING.

Boiled linseed oil will keep polished tools from rusting if it is allowed to dry on them. It is very difficult to get off and should never be put near a joint, as it candies. Turpentine or soft soap will destroy it when it is necessary to brighten the surface oiled. Common sperm oil will prevent from rusting a short period. A coat of copal is frequently applied to polished tools exposed to the weather. Woolen materials are the best for wrappers for metals. Iron and steel goods of all descriptions are kept free from the rust by the following: Dissolve one-half ounce of camphor in one pound of hog's lard, take off the scum and mix as much black lead as will give the mixture an iron color. Iron and steel, and machinery of all kinds, rubbed over with this mixture and left with it on for twenty-four hours, and then rubbed with a linen cloth, will keep clean for months.

WEIGHT AND MEASURE.

The American Agriculturist very sensibly says: Now that the season for selling has arrived, we would impress upon our readers the necessity for accurately weighing and measuring everything they sell. There is too much guess-work done. Buyers are handling produce every day of the year, and they weigh and measure all they handle. They are well posted. Farmers are not. When it comes to estimate the farmers are beat. "It is naught, it is naught, saith the buyer." And farmers are too easily persuaded by his pertinency. Besides, farmers want the money, and do not like to lose a sale. So they give way. There is no settler of disputes so stubborn as a good platform scale. A Fairbanks scale will save many words, and much time and loss. Every barn should be provided with one, and nothing should be taken out for sale until it is weighed and plainly marked with its weight.

COWS.

There are, probably, $500,000,000 invested in cows in the United States. Unfortunately a great deal of this money is not well used. It does not bring in the yearly interest which it might and ought to yield. The average profit which the ordinary farmer receives from his cows is quite small. But they ought to pay well. If they do not, it shows either a lack of skill or else of care and attention on the part of their owners. A great, perhaps the greatest, cause of loss is, most farmers keep poor cows. A poor cow hardly pays, while a good one pays a handsome profit. It will cost but little more to keep a good cow than a poor one. The farmer will make from six to eight pounds of butter per week for forty-two weeks, worth say thirty-five cents per pound, realizing an income of from $88 to $117, while the latter, making only three or four pounds a week for forty-two weeks, will bring only from $44 to $60 per year.—Stock Journal.

WET BOOTS.

A friend writes from Europe: What an amount of discomfort wet boots entail, to be sure; and how well we all recall the fretful efforts we have now and then made to draw on a pair of hard-baked ones which were put by the fire over night to dry. Damp and adhesive within, they are without stiff and unyielding as horn. Once on, they are a sort of modern stocks, destructive of all comfort, and entirely demoralizing to the temper. The following simple device will rob the cold, wet barnyard of a slushy winter or spring evening of half its promise of discomfort for the next morning: When the boots are taken off, fill them quite full with dry oats. This grain has a great fondness for damp, and will rapidly absorb the last vestige of it from the wet leather. As it takes up the moisture it swells and fills the boot with a tightly-fitting last, keeping its form good, and drying the leather without hardening it. In the morning shake out the oats and hang them in a bag near the fire to dry, ready for the next wet night, draw on the boots and go happily about the day's work.—American Agriculturist.

A SAFE TETHER PIN.

The Agriculturist for October illustrates a simple device which, we infer, any one is at liberty to make use of without fear of infringing upon any patent. A strong iron rod, say five-eighths or half an inch in diameter, is sharpened at one end and bent into a corkscrew-like spiral. The unsharpened end is bent into a ring large enough to receive a good-sized rope. It is easy to screw such an iron into anything worthy of being called a soil, using a stick, if necessary, after the manner of an augur handle. Such a tether-pin as this will defy the efforts of the strongest animal to pull it up, and with the ring at the level of the ground it is impossible for the rope to be twisted around the pin. The device is likewise serviceable in a hundred other ways about a country house, or, indeed, wherever the surface of the earth is not covered by a natural or artificial pavement of stones. It will hold guy-ropes for shears, or the lower block of hoisting tackle, or tent-ropes, or, indeed, any rope which is to be firmly held at the surface of the ground, and the great beauty of it is that it does not get battered to pieces by being hammered down every time it is set in a new place.

Household Helps.

Sprinkled chips of dried sassafras will keep away worms from dried fruit.

Butter when pure is non-nitrogenous; if there is any portion of whey present, it becomes nitrogenous and will decompose.

Lemon Cake.—Four tumblers flour, two and one-half tumblers sugar, three-fourths tumbler butter, one tumbler milk, two lemons, three eggs, one heaping teaspoonful soda.

To Remove Mildew from Linen.—Mix soft soap with starch powdered, half the quantity of salt, and a piece of lemon, and lay it on both sides with a painter's brush. Let it lie in the open air—on grass is preferable—till stain is removed.

Fancy Cakes.—Beat the yolks of four eggs into half a pound of white sugar; add a little less than half a pound of flour. Beat fifteen minutes, flavor with lemon, add the whites of the eggs well-beaten. Bake in small patties, and put sugar plums on top.

The Japanese preserve meat during the summer in the following manner: The meat is covered completely, in a porcelain bowl, with very hot water, and oil is poured upon the water. The air is thus excluded, and the coagulation of the albumen in the external part of the meat doubtless aids in preserving it.

Coffee Starch.—This is much better than starch made in the ordinary way for all dark clothing—such as black or brown calicoes, percales or muslins; also, for grass linens and Hollands. Take two tablespoonfuls of the best starch, mix with enough cold water to make it a paste. Stir this into a pint of boiling hot coffee well settled. Let it boil about ten minutes. Stir it a few minutes with a spermaceti or wax candle; strain it through a cloth, and starch the dark-colored or black clothes in it.—Country Gentleman.

Chintz wardrobes are much less expensive than those that are generally used. To make one, nothing is required beyond the powers of a fair amateur carpenter. It is made just the size of any other wardrobe, but is composed of a mere frame work of deal spars about two inches square, with one or two cross pieces to support the said framework. Over this—top, bottom, sides, back and front—is stretched chintz. Brass hooks are screwed into the top of the framework at the back, on which to hang the dresses, and a little brass knob by which to open the door; also a bolt at the top and bottom, to keep the second door from flying open. The brass hooks cost about ten cents each, and the framewoak ought to be made—hinges, bolts and all—for less than $5, even by professional hands.

Fight with a Cougar.

A letter from Fort Griffin, Texas, gives the following account of a little episode in frontier life:

"On the bank of the Clear Fork of the Brazos river, John Selman and family were sitting in their little cabin, enjoying the comforts of a brilliant fire, when their dog set up a fierce barking. Mr. Hewitt, who lives with Mr. Selman, walked out to see what was the matter, and discovered a large cougar. Mr. H. stepped back to get a gun, leaving the door open, intending to return in a moment. But their morning visitor did not choose to wait for his return, and followed immediately into the house. The first introduction the intruder gave himself was to leap upon a little child, taking hold of its neck with his monster teeth, inflicting some very serious wounds. Mrs. Selman, the mother of the child, grabbed it and released it. The animal then made an attempt to recapture the child from the mother, and Mr. Hewitt, who is gifted with uncommon size and unusual strength, knocked the monster down and kicked it under the bed. Mr. Selman had got hold of a gun by that time, and, as the cougar came from under the bed, shot it, the ball entering the left side of its neck, ranging back and coming out through the abdomen. But that only infuriated him more than ever. He then leaped upon the bed, tearing the bed and bedding. The door had got closed during the fracas, and the wild animal having become dissatisfied with his little prison, like a lion in a cage, leaped from side to side of the room, upsetting the chairs, table, and other furniture, at the same time uttering the most terrific screams imaginable. At last Mr. Selman got another gun, and shot it through behind the shoulders. It then jumped at the fire, grabbed its mouth full of live coals, and stood there and growled until Mr. Selman opened the door, and Mr. Hewitt took it by the tail and dragged it into the yard, where it died. It measured eleven feet nine inches in length."

Measuring Distance by Sound.

An instrument for measuring distance by sound has been invented recently by Maj. de Boulenge, of the Belgian army. It consists of a glass tube having graduations along its length representing distances measured. The tube is closed at its extremities, and is filled with liquid in which is a metallic traveler, formed of two disks united by a central rod. The diameter of the disks is a little less than that of the tube, so that when the latter is vertical the traveler will descend with a slow and uniform motion. Knowing the velocity of sound and that of the traveler, it is easy to construct the distance scale. In operation the edge of one disk is brought to the 0 mark, and the instrument being held horizontally, the flash of the canon, for example, is noted; at that instant the telemeter is turned to a vertical position, and so held, the traveler, of course, descending meanwhile, until the sound is heard, when it is again brought horizontal. The position of the traveler denotes the distance to be read on the scale. It is stated that during the course of official experiments at the Belgian artillery school, the instrument, in estimating distances of 3,200 yards, did not make over twenty-one yards of error.

Friendship, like iron, is fragile if hammered too thin.

DESTRUCTION OF FORESTS.

Some Rather Startling Facts and Figures.

The constant and reckless destruction of our forests is fast bringing us to a condition in which there will be occasion for real alarm. It is not probable that any "scare" like that which a few years ago went over England concerning the prospective exhaustion of her coal supply, will immediately occur in America, touching the loss of our forests, but we wish something near enough approaching it might happen to stop a work that is full of evil promise.

In the whole United States there is left but one really great tract of timber. It lies at the far extreme of our country, and consists of about one-half of Washington Territory and a third of Oregon. California has, perhaps, 500,000 acres of forest now, of which fully one-half has been cut away within the last two or three years. Here in New York we have no considerable forest left except in the Adirondack region. Our wealth of maple, walnut, and hickory is substantially gone, and a large part of it has been wantonly destroyed. Wisconsin had a magnificent forest growth, but the people are sweeping it away at a rapid rate. One billion feet of timber were cut in a single year. It will not take more than a decade or two at the utmost to fairly exhaust this source of wealth to the State. Michigan and Minnesota are following in the same course, slashing away at their forests as if a tree had no right to lift its head. One of our most intelligent army officers, Gen. Brisbin, who knows the Western country thoroughly, and to whose accurate knowledge of this subject we are indebted for many facts, says that 50,000 acres of Wisconsin timber are cut annually to supply the Kansas and Nebraska markets alone. The Saginaw forests are even now practically destroyed, and if the Northern Pacific railway is built, it will open up to the ax the one remaining belt of American timber, in Oregon and Washington Territory.

The railroads have been the great destroyers of our forests. They use 160,000,000 of ties annually—that means the leveling of at least 150,000 acres of trees. The timber they use, also, is not the refuse or the inferior, but among the very best fine young trees, eight to ten inches in diameter. The Union Pacific Company undertook at first to lay their road with cottonwood ties, drawn from the occasional wooded canyons along the line of the road. One consequence of this was shown in our Washington dispatch, the other day, regarding the legislation to be asked of Congress for the relief of the road. The Government Commission appointed to examine the line reported that it was not completed within the terms of the law. The use of these soft wood ties was held by them to be an evasion of contract, and government patents for the lands granted along two or three hundred miles of the road have accordingly been refused. The settlers who have bought the lands can get no titles from the company, for it has none. This looks bad for our forests, since it means the ultimate destruction of thousands of acres of more good timber to replace the condemned ties, which have already swept off a large part of the few precious growths of this comparatively treeless region. If it is remembered that ties have to be renewed every seven years, the extent of the demand on our forests will be appreciated. When 10,000 miles more of rails have been laid, it will require all the young trees in the country to supply the demand for ties.

Fences are also enormous consumers of trees. In the East we are learning in this regard economy from necessity, but in the West, in some States, the farmers cut down the forests with scarcely more thought than they harvest their grain. The fences of the United States, people may not generally know, have cost more than the lands, and are, today, the most valuable class of property, save railroads and real estate in cities. Illinois alone has $2,000,000 invested in fences, and they cost annually $175,000 for repairs. In Nebraska, where excellent herd laws are in force, the necessity for fences has been so much lessened that the fences of the State cost less in proportion to population than in any other in the Union.

The outrageous waste of timber caused by the felling of forests and the burning of the trees to bring the land under cultivation still goes on at a fearful rate. From 1860 to 1870 no less than 12,000,000 acres of forest were thus wantonly destroyed. For fuel also vast tracts are leveled of their trees. It took 10,000 acres of forest to supply Chicago with fuel one year, 1871. An annual decrease of forest from all these causes is not far from 8,000,000 acres. Yet we plant only 10,000 acres of new forest a year.

The necessity for a commission of forestry, and the need of efficient laws in all the States for the preservation of forests, need no further argument than these facts.—New York Times.

A Field for Doctors.

Physicians crowd each other in this country, and a young man finds it hard to get into practice. There is ample room in France for beginners. There are in that country cities of 15,000 inhabitant which have not one physician; there are cities of 20,000 which have but one, and he not a graduate of a medical school. There is always posted in the arcade of the Paris Medical School the names of fifteen or twenty towns or villages which have no physicians and wish one. Lille is a city with a population of 200,000 souls; it contains only forty-three physicians. Roubaix is a city of 76,000 souls; it contains only eight physicians.

Judgment of Musicians.—Theodore Thomas, the distinguished founder and conductor of the famous "Thomas' Orchestra," New York, ought to know as well as any one the opinions entertained by musicians respecting musical instruments. He declares that they generally agree with him in regarding the Mason & Hamlin Cabinet Organs as much the best instruments of this class in the world. It is not, therefore, surprising that they are now largely exported to Europe, commanding higher prices there than the instruments of their best makers.

All Sorts.

Nearly 1,000 convicts in the California State Prison.

That persons should remain seated in church until the service is over is a standing rule.

Pennsylvania has 7,000,000,000 feet of hemlock timber, and 4,000,000,000 feet of hard wood.

What enormous legs firemen must have, as we often hear of their using hose fifty feet in length.

A girl baby was recently born in Scott county, Ky., having the features of a person 80 years old.

There have been one thousand suicides in Paris during the last six months. Two-thirds of them were of women.

The new elevator of the Wabash Company in Toledo, the largest in the world, holds 1,200,000 bushels of grain.

There is a big gold bar on the counter of a Denver bank, weighing 1,346 ounces, and valued, in coin, at $52,694.94.

Sunday contributions in the churches have fallen off in amount since the issue of ten-cent currency resembling in appearance the fifty-cent bills.

Squashes, three of them, weighing 115¼, 137, and 139½ pounds, respectively, have been raised this year by James Arnold of Olmsted county, Minnesota.

As if the Smiths were not sufficiently numerous, four of them, all boys, have put in a simultaneous appearance in a Terre Haute family. The lot weighed thirty pounds.

A short-horn steer was butchered in Detroit recently which weighed 4,110 pounds alive, and yielded 3,000 pounds of dressed beef. This is believed to be the largest animal ever slaughtered for beef on this continent.

A French paper says that not one American in a hundred has a handsome chin. This is due to the fact that so many of our fellow-citizens give nearly all their time to the cultivation of cheek.

The Jardin d'Acclimatation, Paris, has just received two running oxen from the Island of Ceylon. They are of diminutive size, not larger than a very small donkey, but are of great utility in that country. The mail service is performed by them. They are active, and bear great fatigue, and can travel a very considerable distance at a regular, rapid pace.

The Jackson-Dickinson Duel.

A letter from Nashville, Tenn., to the Chicago Inter-Ocean referring to the famous duel between Jackson and Dickinson, says;

It was almost as notorious as the Burr-Hamilton affair at the time, but few of the facts have not been misconstrued. A singular chain of circumstances connected with the marriage of Jackson caused considerable scandal, which followed him even to the White House, and was the one subject to which his warmest friends dared not allude. Jackson was fiercely jealous of his wife's reputation. A breath of suspicion against her, a suggestion of her impurity, always caused eternal hatred of those who uttered it. To suspect her was something that could not be forgiven. With Dickinson he had a long and bitter feud. Both were lawyers, and it was their fate to always meet at the bar. Frequently their mutual hatred found vent, and several times challenges for duels passed between them, which were always withdrawn through the influence of friends, and a tacit reconciliation effected. But one day Dickinson said something that reflected upon the chastity of Jackson's wife, and that was the unpardonable sin. Jackson challenged him, regardless of the remonstrances of friends. The duel was a matter of public gossip. Bets were made with large odds in favor of Dickinson, who was regarded as the best shot in the State. The agreement was that after the word "fire" was given each could use his own discretion. Jackson was of cool, and Dickinson of nervous temperament, and the former supposed the latter would shoot at the word, preferring himself to run his chances and take a deliberate aim. The supposition proved correct. Dickinson fired instantly, the ball taking effect in Jackson's side, a hair's breadth from his heart. The dust puffed from a heavy woolen coat he wore; the old warrior staggered a moment, but recovered himself, and without lifting his pistol looked his antagonist in the face. Dickinson was astounded at the unwonted failure of his aim.

"G—d d—n you," he shouted, "I thought I sent you to h—l."

Jackson, who had not yet cocked his pistol, raised it deliberately, aimed and pulled the trigger; but it did not fire. He examined it as coolly as if it was the merest matter in the world; put on a fresh cap, and shot Dickinson dead.

"When I found he had not killed me," said Jackson afterward, "I intended to give him his life; but when he cursed me I knew it was his hate and not his honor he was fighting for."

Jackson's wound was a very severe one, and troubled him until the day of his death.

What the Heart Is.

The heart is like a plant in the tropics, which all the year round is bearing flowers, and ripening seeds, and letting them fly. It is shaking off memories and dropping associations. The joys of last year are ripe seeds that will come up in joy again next year. Thus the heart is planting seeds in every nook and corner; and as a wind which serves to prostrate a plant is only a sower coming forth to sow its seeds, planting some of them in rocky crevices, some by river-courses, some among mossy stones, some by warm hedges, and som in garden and open field, so it is with our experiences of life, that sway and bow us either with joy or sorrow. They plant everything round about us with heart-seeds. Thus a house becomes sacred. Every room hath a memory, and a thousand of them; every door and each window is clustered with associations.

A New York philosopher observes that the weakest of women are not without power, as he has known one such to turn a steamboat excursion into an occasion of gloom and despondency.

Improvement in Dentistry.

Dr. Hirschfeld gives an account in the Dental Cosmos of his substitute for solid gold filling in the roots of teeth. When the root is in a proper condition for filling, his method is to select a thread of lint, separate or loosen the fibers as much as possible, and then moisten it with chloride of zinc from the cement boxes, rubbing also oxide of zinc well into it, but omitting one extremity of the lint, this being reserved for the application of a small quantity of carbolic acid. The thread is simply the medium for conveying the cement to the extremity of the canal, and is entirely imbedded in it. The end of the lint saturated with carbolic acid is, of course, the first inserted, and is carried directly to the apex. After the root is filled the cavity in the crown is temporarily closed with cotton and sandarac, and if at the expiration of several days the tooth has been perfectly comfortable and the patient in a healthy condition, he inserts a gold filling in the crown cavity; if, however, the pulp has been deprived of vitality for a long period, and the tooth easily irritated during preparatory treatment, the cavity is filled with cement. Dr. H. states that by operating in this manner he has never had periostitis occur in the large number of teeth that he has thus treated.

Long Prayers.

Dr. Talmage has something to say on the question of praying:

We are confident that one reason for the long prayers with which we are sometimes afflicted in religious meetings is an incapacity to wind up. After the brother has been praying about long enough you see that he is trying to find "Amen." He does not want to come too suddenly upon it, and so he gradually makes that way; but he is like a Brooklyn ferry-boat aiming for the wharf when there is a good deal of ice in the river, and he backs in and out, in and out, at last reaching it with blundering stroke. Many of the brethren in their prayers take one-third of the time to get started and another third to stop. Why not with your first sentence plunge into what you most want, and stop when you get through without any circumgyrations? Men keep on after they ought to stop, because they do not know how to let down brakes. We have a recommendation to make. If any isolated "Amen" would sound abrupt at the time you want to close, do as the Psalmist did when the prayers of David the son of Jesse were ended, exclaiming "Amen and Amen!"

Icelandic Women.

"I turned to inspect the crowd," says Bayard Taylor, "and found, to my surprise, that the women were much more picturesque figures than the men. Many of them wore square bodices of some dark color, a gown with many pleats about the waist, with red or blue aprons. Nearly all had a flat cap—or, rather, a circular piece of black cloth—on the top of the head, with a long black tassel on one side, hanging from a silver or gilded cylindrical ring, an inch or two in length. These rings are precisely like those which the women of Cairo wear over the nose to hold the veil in its place. Some of the girls had their hair braided, but many wore it loose; and I saw one girl whose magnificent pale yellow mane suggested a descent from Byrnhilde. The men only showed two colors—the brown of their wadmal coats and trowsers, and the ruddy tan of their faces. Few of them are handsome, and their faces are grave and undemonstrative; but they inspire confidence by the strength expressed in the steady blue eye, and the firm set of the lips. There were plenty of tawny or piebald ponies, with manes like lions, in the streets."

An Eccentric Clause in a Will and How It Was Kept Track Of.—A handsome inheritance has come to some lucky heirs residing in Iowa and Nebraska. Three generations ago a wealthy and public-spirited citizen, who was Mayor of Norwich, England, died, leaving the municipality a large sum of money upon the condition that in the third generation of his family the accumulated interest on the sum donated to the city should be paid to the heirs of the donor. The descendants of this generous and eccentric man were well aware of the provisions of his last testament, and accordingly have kept trace of the funds. Lately the last heir of the second generation died, and the third generation, who are residents of the United States, have been notified to appear on the 24th of November and claim their property. The amount inherited is about $800,000, American currency, and will be divided among several people.

Come, Love—Love Comes.—A pensive young man in Wisconsin, while singing "Come, love, come," beneath his dulcinea's window the other night, had love, music, wind and everything else knocked out of him by a something in a long white garment that fell out of a chamber window. It proved to be nobody but his girl, who in her anxiety to know who was serenading her, leaned too far over the window sill; hence the result. He says when he sings "Come, love, come," again, he will keep away from under the window, as his system can't stand many such shocks.

In the ordinary course of business two telegrams were recently sent from New York to London, and answers received to one in thirty, and to the other in thirty-five minutes actual time. Each message was transmitted 3,600 miles and passed through the hands of eighteen persons. The message and reply in each case passed through the hands of thirty-six persons, and traveled over 7,000 miles in thirty to thirty-five minutes.

A Telegraphers' newspaper, speaking of the employment of women as operators, says that their power is already felt in the style of conversation between male operators over the wires. Low jests and vulgarity have grown less frequent, and an intimation that there is a female operator on a circuit puts a quietus on the most virulent of blasphemers.

To secure a result—Look it up.

THE MAY QUEEN.

Adapted to a Backward Season.

BY BRET HARTE.

If you're waking, call me early, call me early, mother dear,
And see that the room is warm, mother, and the fire is burning clear;
And tallow my nose once more, mother, once more ere you go away,
For I'm to be Queen o' the May, mother, I'm to be Queen o' the May.

It froze so hard, last night, mother, that really I couldn't break
The ice in my little pitcher, mother, till I thought the poker to take;
You'll find it there on the hearth, mother—but, oh, let that hot brick stay,
For I'm to be Queen o' the May, mother, I'm to be Queen o' the May.

I shall put on my aqua-scutum outside of my skin coat,
And two or three yards of flannel, dear, will go around my throat;
And you'll see that the boneset tea, mother, is drawn while your child's away,
For I'm to be Queen o' the May, mother, I'm to be Queen o' the May.

Little Effie shall go with me, if her nose is fit to be seen;
And you shall be there, too, dear mother, to see me made the Queen,
Provided the doctor'll let you; and if it don't rain instead,
Little Johnny is to take me a part of the way on his sled.

So, if you're waking, call me early, call me early, mother dear,
For to-morrow may be the chilliest day of all the glad New Year;
For to-day is the thirtieth, mother, and bless'd if your child can say,
If she ain't an April Fool, mother, instead of a Queen o' the May.

—Nast's Almanac for 1875.

Humor.

A matter of course—A horse race.

No unfortunate trader looks so down in the mouth as a dentist.

If speech is silver and silence gold, how much is a dumb man worth?

Most people are like eggs—Too full of themselves to hold anything else.

When a Japanese office-holder gets drunk they reform him by chopping his head off.

"A few days ago Lewis Fletcher, of Newton county, contributed an arm to a threshing machine" is the way they mention it out West.

Washington Irving once alluded to a man of superior pomposity as "a great man, and, in his own estimation, a man of great weight. When he goes to the West he thinks the East tips up."

An exchange says, "Is there a little boy in town by the name of 'Uli Damyer?'" We are quite certain that "Uli" lives in this city, as we hear the boys call his name very frequently."

A gentleman had a valuable miniature stolen from him a few days since. "Oh, never mind," said the friend to whom he told his loss; "everybody is having his likeness taken nowadays."

When Mr. Soberleigh read that a father in the West had chopped his only son in two, he innocently remarked that he didn't think they ought to arrest a man for simply parting his heir in the middle."

"Is Mike McCloskey in the ranks?" asked the Commander-in-Chief, as the army stood in line of battle. "Here Gineral," said Mike, stepping to the front. "Then let the engagement begin," said the General. This is the way Mike tells the story.

The settler went to the West,
What did he go for there?
Money to make and flails to shake,
And with hay-seed fill his hair.

The railroad went to the West,
What did it go for there?
Money to make for its own sweet sake,
And to strip the settler bare.

Both went out to the West,
And what they are doing there
Is trying to cut each other's throats,
That both may vanish in the air.

SAD FATE OF A MISSIONARY.

Among a savage clan
Of cannibalish people,
A missionary man
Set up his modest steeple.
And there each day he would
Pursue his noble labors;
He told them to be good,
And bade them love their neighbors.
The cannibals, with grins,
Gave ear to themes he treated;
They crossed their tawny shins,
And on their hams were seated.
And yet they were not lost,
That missionary's labors;
He taught them to his cost
The way to love their neighbors,
For one day when for prayers
Those cannibals they met him,
They caught him unawares—
They killed him and they ate him!
They said they found him good—
He'd practiced what he taught them—
And now they understood
The goodness he had brought them.
And when they filled each maw,
They said, while they deplored him,
"They'd loved him alive and raw,
But roasted they adored him!"

Value of Farm Products per Acre.

The last volume of the agricultural report—which has been so long delayed has just been printed at the government printing office. The following table shows the average cash value of farm products per acre in this country, according to the report of the statistician of the department:

States.	Average value per acre.	States.	Average value per acre.
Maine	$14 15	Texas	$12 84
New Hampshire	17 50	Arkansas	17 60
Vermont	17 87	Tennessee	12 70
Massachusetts	31 15	West Virginia	15 04
Rhode Island	34 00	Kentucky	15 54
Connecticut	33 94	Ohio	14 57
New York	22 94	Michigan	15 65
New Jersey	27 96	Indiana	13 51
Pennsylvania	20 80	Illinois	11 18
Delaware	13 24	Wisconsin	14 28
Maryland	15 22	Minnesota	11 83
Virginia	14 15	Iowa	8 49
North Carolina	11 38	Missouri	11 99
South Carolina	10 45	Kansas	8 92
Georgia	11 63	Nebraska	7 75
Florida	11 47	California	15 13
Alabama	13 77	Oregon	16 70
Mississippi	15 61	Nevada	44 30
Louisiana	16 57	The Territories	26 17

Imitative.

The railroad from Yokahama to Yeddo is the wonder of the Japanese peasantry. The peculiar dress of the people shows their eagerness to adopt European customs. Some of the combinations are rather curious, as for instance, a Paris felt hat, a Japanese robe of silk, wooden pattens, and a common bath towel around the neck for a comforter. Of the shops, on the handsome Tori, or boulevard of Yeddo, with its double row of pines and blossoming fruit trees, a traveler says: "There are all kinds of European or imitation European articles for sale—ready-made Western clothes; clocks, which are sometimes right and which are in great demand just now; Paisley shawls and Brussels carpets, and drugs from England and wines from France; ancient suits of armor and modern machinery; dethroned Buddhist saints and—sewing machines."

Auburn Courier.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 19th, 1874

A Republican in New York was asked the cause of their defeat at the late election in that State. "Oh, it was the Baxter bill in Indiana what did the business." What a scapegoat is made of that bill. We expect that the Reps were in the same fix in Georgia. They are sure to ascribe it to everything except the real cause, the general disaffection of the people.

In the days of Pierce and Buchanan when the democratic party run the government, we used to think it extravagant to make an annual national expenses reach $75,000,000. But under Grantism the Republican corruptions, our national annual expenses over $300,000,000. This extravagance and profligacy must be abated by the next Democratic Congress.

The Plymouth Democrat saves Republican Journals the trouble of explaining thusly:

Those who have attempted to state the cause of the great Republican defeat are all wrong. We have thought the subject over seriously, and conclude that it was brought about by a concatenation of fortuitious circumstances, superinduced by a succession of unparalleled coincidences.

A thanksgiving proclamation has been issued by the Conservative Central Committee of Louisiana, summoning all the people "to meet at their respective place to worship on Nov. 19, and give thanks to Almighty God for their deliverance from political bondage" There never was a people, since God led the Jews through the Red Sea who had half as much to rejoice over and thank God for as the people of Louisiana. When will the 'jubilee' come to poor down-trodden South Carolina?

Fun at Goshen

The Goshen Times gave credence to a dirty lie prepetrated upon Mr. Free Kelly about his getting drunk and associating with bad woma and now the Democrat has the following to say about an interview between the women who the Times stigmatized as two disreputable characters—as 'soiled doves.' Armed with two strongly twisted cowhide riding whips, and a pocket full of eggs, these presecuted damsels went round to the Times office on Thursday evening to seek redress for injured reputation in the only way they could—by putting a cloud over these brilliant Starrs with cowhide and eggs. On arriving at the door of the editor's office the courage of one of the girls failed her, and she refused to go in. Nothing daunted, and with a courage that true womanhood, with the grossest insult could alone sustain on such an occasion, the older and braver of the two made her entrance with both whips and eggs concealed about her person and found the editor seated at his desk all unconscious of the thunderbolt overhanging his hardened heart and softened head. Mr. Starr greeted the damsel with becoming grace without raising and with that peculiar smile only permitted to radiate his benign countenance on the approach of the sister crusader. He did not notice the determined tread and the flashing black eyes that confronted him, else his cowardly nature would have wilted at once and he would have curled down at her feet for mercy. "Is your name Starr?" asked the irate damsel. "Yes, madam, be seated," replies the affable editor. "Well, you are the man that slandered me, and I have come to cowhide you," and with that Matie Porter drew one of her whips and like a stroke of lightning it came down on the head and shoulders of Bill Starr. As soon as he could recover from his surprise and the violence of the attack he struggled through the raining blows to his feet, and grabbing the descending whip wrenched it out of her hands.—Then as quick as a flash the other was drawn, and followed like Padys's drum—over the face and eyes. It is said that the editor howled so loud as to rouse all the family of Starrs from the adjoining room, where they resided, and at this critical moment they poured in a reinforcement upon the attacking party truly formidable. Tom Starr advanced to the support of his brother Bill, his wife took up a position on the right flank, a visitor to the rear, and the devil dodged under the table. The brave girl fell back in order before this overpowering force, and reaching into her cartridge box, loaded her hands with eggs and poured into the advanceing force a terriffic fusillade of unhatched chickens. One struck Tom square between the eyes, closing both blinkers, and covering his face and bosom with exploded ammunition. A raking shell was fired at Tom's lady on the right flank, and bursted on the tip of her nose, the fragments wounding the visitor in the rear, in a shocking manner. It is said that Bill Starr, with his hands covering his head where the blows had just fallen, and his mouth wide open with pain and fright, received one square inside of his distended jaws, so clean and so forcibly as to swallow shell and all. Thus the heroic damsel of the Julian House, like our forces under McClelland as they fell back before Richmond, did greater execution upon the enemy in the retreat than she did in the advance, and made good her exit at the door when she run short of ammunition, while the fallen Starrs were left to repair damages, whip off the cloud and resume their former brilliancy.

We were not a witness of this exciting battle, but gained our information from the great crowd who gathered on the scene of the conflict the following morning. The symphathies of the community are with the brave chambermaid of the Julian, and the universal verdict is, "served him right."

Board of Education.

Pursuant to adjournment at September meeting, the DeKalb County Board of Education met in the School Building at Butler, at 11 o'clock A. M., November 11, 1874, and organized by electing R. W. McBride Secretary, County Superintendent, J. A. Barns presiding.

The following members of the Board were present:

B. F. Moody, Butler Tp; W. H. Rodamer, Newville Tp; Joseph Wilson, Stafford Tp; G. W. Hanes, Wilmington Tp; E. S. McDowel, Richland Tp; G. W. Downs, Fairfield Tp; Joseph Siwell, Franklin Tp; John McDonald, Troy Tp; R. W. McBride, Waterloo; John W. Boyle and Wm. F. Blair, of the town of Butler.

The county superintendent stated the objects for which the adjournd meeting was held:

First. Whether or not teachers should be required to make monthly reports to the County Superintendent.

Second. Whether or not corporal punishment should be permitted in the schools of the county, and if so, to what extent.

Third, What position trustees should take with regard to the boarding of teachers, and also the prosperity of townships combining for the purpose of holding township Institutes. By a unanimous vote the board decided to require teachers to make monthly reports to the County Superintendant:

Adjourned, to 1:30 P. M.

Board met pursuant to adjournment with the following trustees present, in addition to those who were present in the forenoon: Peter High, of Jackson Tp; Solomon Shilling, of Concord Tp; R. M. Crooks, Union Tp; M. P. Barker, Smithfield Tp, and J. J. Hoopingarner, of the town of Butler. The town of Auburn being the only school corporation in the county not represented.

The question of corporal punishment was taken up, and after some discussion the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That as trustees we will sustain all teachers employed by us in a reasonable use of corporal punishment in the government of the schools placed in their charge, but will insist that teachers in no case inflict corporal punishment while under the influence of passion.

The question of boarding teachers was then taken up, and after discussion participated in by Messrs. Haws, Downs, Rodamin, Crooks, Sewell and others, the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That in the employment of teachers we will pay such ways as the qualifications of the teacher and necessities of the district will warrant, without regard to the question of boarding, leaving that to be settled between the teacher and the people of the district.

The subject of Township Institutes was discussed for some time without coming to any conclusion, and was finally postponed to the next regular meeting of the Board, with the understanding, that in the meantime the several trustees try the plan of holding Institutes jointly with other townships and parts of townships and report their experience at our meeting.

Mr. J. M. Alcott, of Indianapolis and Prof. J. H. Smart, of Fort Wayne, State Superintendant elect, each addressed the board briefly.

Adjourned.

JAMES A. BARNES,
Co. Superintendent.
R. W. McBRIDE, Secretary.

EDUCATIONAL COLUMN.

A. B. HUFFMAN, CONDUCTOR

The Voiceless.

We count the broken lyres that rest
Where the sweet wailing singers slumber,
But o'er their silent sister's breast
The wild flowers who will stop to number?
A few may touch the magic string,
And noisy fame be proud to win them,
Alas for those who never sing,
But die with all their music in them.

Nay, grieve not for the dead alone,
Whose songs has told their sad heart's story;
Weep for the voiceless who have known
The cross without the crown of glory!
Not where Leucadian breezes sleep
O'er Sappho's memory-haunted pillow,
But where the glistening night dews weep
O'er nameless sorrow's church yard willow.

O hearts that break and give no sign,
Save whitening lip and faded tresses,
Till death pours out his cordial wine,
Slow dropped from misery's crushing presses,
If singing breath or echoing chord,
To every hidden pang were given
What endless melodies were poured
As sad as earth, as sweet as heaven!

Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Whispering in School

We have frequently been asked how we prevent whispering in school, but have never been able to tell from the simple fact we never do it; yet there is another question, or rather a trying problem that stares the teacher in the face and that is, how to regulate whispering in school.

This a problem not easily solved.

Could some genius invent and patent a plan for this, his fortune would be made, thousands of knights of pedagogy would hail him as a grand benefactor of the race.

As it is, we are left to devise our own plans and apply such principles as operate most favorably to this end.

There is such a thing as regulating whispering, but preventing it in a school of all grades of pupils is impossible.

Nor is it desirable.

Whisproing if regulated is no greater mischief than changing position or passing to and from classes, but like these should be under the direction of the teacher.

As our short space forbids writing at length we shall in another article, treat of the subject, "How to regulate whispering."

Whoever has had experience with children must have observed how much work they can be induced to accomplish if it be only presented to them under the name of play. In the business of drawing light brush to burn, a gang of boys will do a power of work if they have faith that the performance is all fun; but if called upon to pile on the sticks as a matter of duty, the fire looses its heat of enthusiasm and bright hues of pleasure, and only the ashes of dissatisfaction fly before the young lad's eyes. The same analogy is observed in school work. The same operation will be performed with different spirit according to the way it is presented—whether as a piece of work or of play. "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." And all play and no work makes Jack a lazy boy.—The judicious teacher will present his tasks as a work of amusement, according to the effect he wishes to produce on his pupils' minds. It is not enough to tickle the child's fancy with the novelties of learning; nor is it enough to arouse the spirit of inquiry or a passion for books. The bulk of mankind make their living by drudgery; so, while giving the child a little of the self-forgetting enthusiasm of the philosopher, or imparting to him a touch of the fine frenzy of the poet, the teacher should not neglect to cultivate in him some of the perseverance of the plodder and the patient faithfulness of the drudge. The time comes to every body when work cannot be disguised in the garments of pleasure, and the school should not send children into the world unprepared for such an event, We would advise teachers in this matter as follows: When you want simply to have children acquire the greatest amount of information in the shortest time, let lessons be a pleasure, but when you want to train them to habits of industry, let work be presented to them as work undisguised. Alternate the "dominition grind" of duty well directed mental dissipation, and Jack will be neither a dull nor a lazy boy.—National Teachers' Monthly.

Mr. H. C. Shull began his winter labor at "Lake School House" last Monday. He enters his work with an ardor and zeal characteristic of eminent success. We shall be pleased to hear from him

Men are never placed in such extremes but that there is light to guide them.

Married.

On Tuesday Nov. 10th, 1874, at the residence of the Bride's parents near Newville, Ind., by Rev. F Ruhl, Mr. Charles W. Widney to Miss Mary Sechler.

FOR SALE.—A neat and commodious dwelling in the lower part of town for sale cheap. Apply to C. F. MADER.
46tf.

$100..........PER MONTH..........$100.
Agents are making $100 per month selling the Howe Sewing Machines. Liberal commissions paid to live, energetic men, to canvass. Apply to R. S. Kester, Auburn. 46t4.

Surveyor's Notice.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested that the County Surveyor will at my request proceed to survey, locate, relocate, establish and re-establish all lines and corners in and adjoining section twenty-four [24] township thirty-three (33) north of range fourteen [14] east, and that said Surveyor will meet with interested persons at the south west corner of said section on Tuesday, December 16th, 1874 at 9 o'clock am.

JOHN F. COBURN, Applicant.
J. J. VAN AUKEN, County Surveyor.

ESTRAY NOTICE.

To the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court:

The undersigned begs leave to report that on the 17th day of October, 1874, at Union-tp, DeKalb county, Indiana, Alex Hall took up as estray four white hogs described as follows, to-wit: The largest weighing about 200 pounds without any marks, the second in size about 175 lbs with crop off right ear and slit in same, the two smallest weight about 80 pounds, each with a crop off the right ear. Said hogs were valued by J. J. Latson and Jacob Grogg at $22.

DANIEL ALTENBURG, Justice.
Attest, J. R. LANNING, Clerk.
Nov 16, 1871.

HERE'S SOMETHING NOVEL.

A Chance for Somebody to win a $500 City Lot in Rockhill's Addition.

Tickets Given Away.

A novel idea in the way of advertising has been brought to our notice by Messrs Sam Fete and Max, managers of the noted Star Clothing house. They propose to to distribute a thousand tickets between this and January 1st 1875. No one is asked to buy these tickets, or pay for them, in any way. It is simply a new method of advertising their establishment

The lucky ticket will be determined by the Mayor of the city, before a number of prominent citizens. All the numbers from 1 to 1000 will be placed in a wheel which will be shaken up, and the committee can decide whether the first or any preceeding number shall win the $500 prize, lot No. 69 corner Mechanic and Walnut streets Rockhill's 2d addition.—Every purchaser of clothing to the am'n't of ten dollars (10) will receive a ticket the purchaser selecting any number he desires.

No person will, under any circumstances, be allowed more than one ticket.

The clear title deed, paid in full, can be seen at the Star Clothing House No. 5 East Main st. Ft. Wayne Ind.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb County Circuit Court, the undersigned Administrator of the estate of Fredrick E. Rohm, deceased will offer for sale at auction on the premises, on Saturday December 5th, 1874, town lot No. three (3) in Ensley's 1st addition to the town of Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana.

Terms—One third cash in hand, the residue in two equal payments at twelve and eighteen months, with notes at interest, waiving valuation and appraisement laws and secured by mortgage on the premises. Sale to begin at 2 o'clock pm.

JOHN TREESH, Adm'r,

Notice of Sale.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court the undersigned administrator of the estate of Samuel Hornis, deceased, will offer for sale at auction on the premises on an equal undivided two third of the following described land: The northeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section twenty eight [28] township thirty-three [33] north of range thirteen [13] east in DeKalb County, Indiana.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 5th, 1874,

TERMS—One third cash, the residue in equal payments at 12 and 18 months, with notes at interest, waiving benefit of appraisement laws, and security by mortgage on the premises. Sale to begin at 2 o'clock pm. on said day.

JAMES G. LAWHEAD, Adm'r.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of an Execution to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, in a cause wherein The Kalamazoo Manufacturing Company is Plaintiff and Henry H. Houser is Defendant require me to make the sum of one hundred and forty dollars and seventy-nine cents, with interest on said judgment and costs, I will expose at public sale, to the highest bidder, on between the hours of 10 o'clock am and 4 o'clock pm of said day, at the door of the Court House of DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits, for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate:

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 28th, 1874

The north half [½] of lot five [5] in the village of Cedar Creek Station in DeKalb County, Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said judgment, interest and costs, I will, at the same time and place, expose at public sale, the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said judgement, interest and cost. Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

W. L. MEESE, Sheriff
Auburn Nov. 5th, 1874.
COLEGROVE Atty for Pltf.
$10 40

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a Decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court in a cause wherein James Hamilton and Rudolph Sechler are plaintiffs, and Lain Rice and George Rice are defendants, requiring me to make the sum of Three hundred and eighty three dollars and ninety cents, with interest on said judgment and costs, I will expose at Public Sale, to the highest bidder, on

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 28th, 1874,

between the hours of 10 and 4 o'clock of said day at the door of the court house of DeKalb County, Indiana the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit

Lot number one hundred and nine (109) in the town of orange with a flax mill on said lot No. one hundred and nine [109] with machinery and fixtures, in DeKalb County Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said judgment, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place, expose at public sale, the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said judgemaut, interest and costs.

W. L. MEESE, Sheriff.
Nov. 4, 1874 $10.50

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a DECREE to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court in a cause wherein John K. Evans is Plaintiff and Robert Bell, Margaret Bell and Evern Jones are Defendants requiring me to make the sum of nine hundred and twenty-two dollars and forty cents, with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at public sale to the highest bidder

ON SATURDAY, DEC. 5th, 1874,

between the hours of 10 o'clock am. and 4 o'clock pm. of said day, at the door of the Court House of DeKalb County, Indiana, the rents and profits, for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit:

The south half of the northwest quarter of section seventeen (17) in township thirty three (33) north of range twelve (12) east, in DeKalb County, Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interests and costs, I will at the same time and place, expose at public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof, as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs.

Sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation and appraisement laws.

W. L. MEESE, Sheriff.
Auburn, Indiana, Nov 12, 1874.
[illegible] STUDABAKER, Atty for Pltf.
[illegible]

Boots & Shoes
FOR SERVICE!

Buy the Stylish, Good-Fitting Double-Sewed
FINE SHOES!
For LADIES' and MISSES' wear, with this Trade Mark in every shoe.

DOUBLE SEWED
P
NEVER RIP.

The Soles are attached to the Uppers with two rows of five-cord waxed thread, (instead of one row as in other shoes,) and are
WARRANTED
Never to rip from the uppers.

S. W. Sprott & Son,
SOLE AGENTS.

Where also may be found a full line of
BOOTS & SHOES,
Both Fine and Coarse, for Men, Women and Children.

Our Stock is full and Complete,
And we can please you both in quality and price.

Custom Work a Specialty.
CALL AND SEE US.
S. W. SPROTT & SON.

THE OLD RELIABLE.
F. E. DAVENPORT,
Corner Main and Eighth-Sts.,
—DEALER IN—
Pure Drugs and Medicines,
DYE STUFFS, PERFUMERY,
Toilet Soaps, Cosmetics, Hair Oils, Brushes, Combs, Toilet Mirrors and Druggists' Sundries in General.
BOOKS AND STATIONERY!
Wall and Window Paper!
Oiled, Linen and Slat Window Shades, and Shade Fixtures.
All the latest POEMS and MISSELANIOUS BOOKS constantly on hand or ordered. Blank Books, Pocket Memorandas, Portmonies and Bill Books, WRITING PAPERS. All Styles and prices ALBUMS! ALBUMS! ALBUMS just received for the Holliday trade
Over $300.00 worth of Juvenile and Toy Books, which will be sold at panic prices. Smith's Gold Pens, warranted the best Also steel Pens, Penholders, Pencils, Ink and Ink Stands &c.
SCHOOL BOOKS!
Covered with best Cover ever invented Free Of Charge
Davenport has the exclusive right to use this book cover in Auburn, and will give his patrons the benefit of the same

An Ordinance.

Be it ordained by the Board of Trustees of the incorporated town of Auburn, DeKalb County Co., Ind., that it shall be the duty of owners and part owners of lots and parts of lots lying on or adjoining the north side of Green street running west to the east side of Jackson street, thence south on the east side of Jackson street to the south side of Williams street, to plank, maintain and keep in repair so much of the sidewalk as lies fronting the said lots or parts along and adjoining said street with a walk six feet wide, to be made of good and sound oak plank not less than 1½ inches in thickness nor more than six inches wide, placed on good substantial sleepers of sound oak timber not less than 3x4 inches in size or of good pine plank not less than 1½ inches in thickness nor more than 12 inches in width, which may be placed on cross bearings of sound oak timber not less than 3x5 inches in size nor more than 4 feet apart.

Said sidewalks shall be made on a grade with the streets and alley crossing along said sidewalks within thirty days after the publishing of this ordinance in the Auburn Courier.

So much of the ordinance passed Feb. 16th, 1874, as relates to building sidewalks on the south side of Williams street from east side of Jackson to west side of Main street is hereby repealed.

Done by order of the Board of Trustees of the incorporated town of Auburn, DeKalb County, Ind., at their regular session, November 2nd, 1874.

Attest F. E. DAVENPORT.
Town Clerk.

"Unquestionably the best sustained work of the kind in the World."

Harper's Magazine
ILLUSTRATED.

Notices of the Press:

The ever increasing circulation of this excellent monthly proves its continued adaptation to popular desires and needs. Indeed, when we think into how many homes it penetrates every month, we must consider it as one of the educators of the public mind, for its vast popularity has been won by no appeal to stupid prejudices or depraved tastes.—Boston Globe.

The character which this Magazine possesses for variety, enterprise, wealth and literary culture that has kept pace with, if not led the times, should cause its conductors to regard it with justifiable complacency. The Magazine has done good and not evil, all the days of its life—Brooklyn Eagle.

TERMS:

Postage FREE to all Subscribers in the United S.

Harper's Magazine 1 year $4. Subscriptions to Harper's Magazine, Weekly and Bazar, to 1 address 1 year $10. Or 2 of Harper's Periodicals, 1 year $7—postage free.

An extra copy of either the Magazine, Weekly or Bazar will be supplied gratis for every club of five subscribers at $4 each in one remittance; or 6 for $20 without extra copy—postage free.

Back numbers can be suplied at any time.

A complete set of Harper's Magazine, now comprising 49 volumes, in neat cloth binding, will be sent by express for $2 25 per volume. Single volume by mail, post paid, $3. Cloth cases, for binding 58 cents, post paid.

Address, HARPER & BRO New York

The Great Cause of
HUMAN MISERY

Just Published in a Sealed Envelope. Price 6 cts

A LECTURE on the nature, treatment and radical cure of Seminal Weakness, or Spermatorrhoea, induced by self abuse, Involuntary Emissions, Impotency, Nervous Debility and fits; Mental and Physical Incapacity, &c—by Robt J. Culverwell, M. D. author of the 'Green Book,' &c.

The world renowned author, in this admirable Lecture, clearly proves from his own experience that the awful consequences of self abuse may be cured without medicine, and without dangerous surgical operations; pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radical. This Lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands. Sent under seal, in a plain envelope to any address, on receipt of 6 cents, or two postage stamps. Address

CHAS. J. C. KLINE & CO.,
127 Bowery, N. Y. Post Office Box 4586

We Have Received,

And are now daily opening our general stock for the Fall and Winter Trade in every department of our business.

The unexplained depression in the Dry Goods market during the last two weeks, has offered an opportunity to cash buyers not before known in many years. DRY GOODS have now reached a lower bottom than ever seemed possible again in this country. The panic prices were "war prices" compared to what we have been buying the best class of desirable goods at for the past two weeks about the dullest period of trade in the history of New York.

Our stock was never more complete in every department—seldom ever so good. We seldom ever offered in every way such inducements as now.—The stock is the completest and most attractive of any season in many years. Having bought at the present low prices we are prepared to give our customers better value for their money, and more of it than at any time before.

Close Cash Buyers!
Should examin our elegant line of
Beaded Passementrie Trimmings
Beaded Buttons and Ornaments, Beaded Belts
Pocket and Cloaks
Loops

EXAMINE
New cloaks, New Shawls and Furs.
EXAMINE
New Felt Skirts and Water Proofs
EXAMINE
Underwear, Hosiery, and Gloves.
EXAMINE
Housekeeping Linens, and Cottons.
EXAMINE
Black Cashmeres and De Este
EXAMINE
New Winter Dress Goods
EXAMINE
New Calicoes and Domestics
EXAMINE
Cloak and Trimming Velvets
EXAMINE
Cloaking and Cassimeres.
EXAMINE
Flannels and Blankets
EXAMINE
New Goods which are arriving daily

Root & Company,
At their New Location
46 & 48 Columbia-st
AT THE
New York Store.

Pioneer Sketches

OF

DeKALB COUNTY

NUMBER 33.

Having a "comforter" on his neck, he drew the end of it over his head, and traveled on. Thus the time past, in continual traveling through the cold stormy day, and the failing light told the lost man that night was near, and he began to picture to himself the long cold night that would follow, in all probability the last he should ever see—or, if he should survive,—a morning in distressing sickness, to follow the night of suffering,—and he alone in the snow clad forest. Just then the cloud broke in the West and he could see the place where the sun set, and starting in that direction, in about eight rods he found the road he had left in the morning and the bridge across crooked creek about half way from Gilead to the mills, so that he had not advanced more than three miles in all his hard days travel.—Place yourself in his circumstances reader, and imagine, if you can, his joyful feelings in seeing the road again. In an hour he was safely housed at the residence of Deacon Stocker, father to Leland Stocker Esq. of Angola. Here he lay sick the next day, and on the day following left his corn at the mill, and started for Tall a mill near the White Pigeon Prairie; where he obtained fifteen bushels of very smutty wheat, which he brought to the Vermont mills also. Here at Deacon Stockers again, he spent three days, two of them too sick to travel, and the third waiting for his grist. Finally starting for Pleasant lake, he lay there during a sick day, and, on the next day, got a man to go with him to break ice in the streams. By dint of hard work all day, they got within a half mile of home, and had to leave the wagon on the trail—turn out the oxen in the woods and 'foot' it in. The next day this being the eleventh since leaving home, he got his wagon home. His grist, not counting the price of the corn, which was paid as he moved in, cost him all in cash 45 dollars.

R. J. Daniels Esq. was the second settler in that Township. The date of his settlement is January 1838. He says "two of us put up my cabin, and on the 28th of January moved into it without door upper floor or daubing. There were plenty of Indians and wolves. The next summer my wife went to the bed, to move a chair, when lo! a massa-ogga lay coiled up thereon." Perhaps the gentleman was endeavoring to scale the bedsted

Besides these two already mentioned, the following persons were also early settlers; viz;—Phrez Blake, Norton Blake, Henry Shoemaker, Thomas Lock, David Martin, Wm. M. McEntaffer, J. Haun, Jno Baxter, Jeremiah Hemstreet, Isaac Grate Jacob McLeish, Isaiah McLeish Wm Clark, Joel E. Thompson, Hugh McOsker, Jacob McEntaffer and George Seiner.

At the first election held it the Township, there were just enough of votes to form a board.—viz five.

Smithfield is now equally as well improved, according to the time of its settlement, as any other. It is, doubtless, destined to keep pace with any other in all the elements of wealth and beauty.

FAIRFIELD TOWNSHIP.

This is the North West corner Township of the County, and is six miles square. It is the most hilly one. The land is considerably broken in places, but the soil is very generally quite rich and easily tilled. Fairfield was the last Township to fill up with settlers. This was owing to its distance from Ft. Wayne—from the St Joseph river and from the county seat. Since the country has been settled up and plank and railroads has been built, it is equally as favored with conveniences of all kinds as the other Townships. To the lover of the picturesque it will be the most inviting township in the county, when its long slopes, rugged bluffs, deep ravines with limpid rills, and its lake shores shall be properly improved.

The very first settlers in the Township were the family of Storys. Could I have seen them, perhaps they would have furnished me some stories for this chapter.—As it is however my story about this Township it must be short. These Storys like stories in general seem to have been quite prolific. There are Augustus, Frederick, Willard. George and Samuel. But as a good story is always acceptable these being, so far as I am informed, all good, their number is really an advantage to the Township and the county. R. R. Lounsbury was another early settler—he having sold out in Wilmington and settled in Fairfield quite early. Here I believe he found a grave. Wilber Powel, Wm. and Isaac Wilsey, D. Rager Esq. Hiram Thomas, Phillip Gushwa, John Shook, Henry and Leonard Hartman and Milos Allen were also early settlers in the Township.

Auburn Courier.

Butter 28c.
Potatoes 50
Oats, 48 cts.
Apples 45 cts.
Eggs, 18 cents,
Corn 48 @ 50 cts.
Wheat, white, $1
Wood $1.75 @ $2.
Live hogs 5½c per pound.

Local and Miscellaneous.

Take the COURIER.

Bring in your job work.

Festival to-morrow night.

School books at Houser's.

Ford's building about done.

Cattle are plenty on the street.

Hogs are beginning to come in.

Shoes "down" at Vordermark's.

Go to the Central for a good cigar.

Go to Cal Houser's for school books

Call in and see Abright's Steam circus

School Books at Davenport's—covers Free

School commences next Monday, winter term.

See Vordermar's new price list on the first side.

Davenport sells School Books very cheap

A fine line of Stationary at Abright's at half price.

The late rains will help the growing wheat.

Cedar creek is filling up rapidly, since Sunday.

Abright has the largest lot of toys in town.

Cedar Creek station has a literary society in full blast.

Every book sold at Houser's is covered with a Vanervin Cover Free.

Dr. Cowan has sold his residence near the Saginaw depot.

Go to Davenport's for School Books, and get the best covers free

We are obliged to A. R. Huffman for services rendered.

Books at introductory prices at Cal Houser's.

The Teachers' Institute proceedings are quite lengthy.

Ryan & Mader have a well arranged livery barn.

The roads are getting muddy. Where's that wood?

Thanksgiving comes on the 26th of this month.

We have had a large amount of job work the last two weeks.

The Vanervin book cover fits better than any other.

Davenport has a lot of Albums and sells them cheap

Communion at the Presbyterian Church next Sabbath morning

Dr. Fox is not in his office enough.—His partner, at Waterloo, call several time yesterday.

The time of running trains has changed on both the Eel River and Saginaw roads. Correct time next week.

We will publish the fine essay read by Miss Mattie Miller, before the Institute, next week. Extra copies for sale.

Lots are selling rapidly at the Junction and we look for several buildings to be erected some day.

See that your doors are well locked before you retire for the night. There are thieves in town:

Men are cleaning off the rubbish on the lot heretofore occupied by the Methodist church.

There are to be several new teachers engaged in the school this winter, on account of so many new pupils.

We are glad to see that our subscribers are taking an interest in the COURIER by paying their subscription. We hope all will "show up."

Tom Leasure and Howard Griswold are going into the produce business. They intend to run it in a first-class style, and we wish them success.

A young man from Bryan, Ohio, fell from one of our drays Monday, and hurt his left arm and head—not enought to last long, however.

Roland Taft, Esq., of Waterloo, is now a resident of Auburn, having entered into partnership with Mr. Rickel in the legal business. We wish the new firm success.

Two gentlemen from Ohio, will put up a first-class billiard saloon in this place, sometime next month. Our young billiardist Ci. Baughan will conduct the business for the new saloon.

Anniversary.

As next Tuesday evening, Nov 24th, is the anniversary of Rev and Mrs J E Fisher's marriage, they open their home for the entertainment of their friends on that afternoon and evening, all of whom are cordially invited to be present

E H Phelps, Esq, agent for Andreas, Baskin and Burr Atlas, published at Chicago gave us a call to-day They propose to publish an Atlas for this State that will eat anything yet published.

The Conservatory of Music has commenced its second term. A large number of foreign scholars are in attendance, and this term looks promising for the principal.

Pap Nash, of the Logansport Pharos, says that a Terre Haute man realized $4,-000 from a single grape vine. He made three bottles of wine, got drunk and won the money at faro.

Miss Anna Vordermark, of Fort Wayne, sister to Lew, visited here last Sabbath—Miss Anna was delighted with our town and regards it as the "lovliest village of the plain"

A little "racket" was fixed up last Saturday and the parties went out of the corporation, followed by a large crowd of anxious spectators. They compromised and the crowd returned very much disappointed.

Go in and see Abright's fine display of Chromoes.

Mrs. Mary J. Holmes is perhaps the most attractive and interesting story writer of the day. There is quite a large number of her stories already in the market, all of which are interesting. Her last is her best, entitled "West Lawn," for sale at Houser's book store.

Vordermark's shoe store was burglarized Monday night to the amount of $200 Boots and shoes were scattered over the floor promiscously. Someone must have had a key to fit the front door as that was the way they entered.

Miss McCutchan of Bryan Ohio will hereafter take charge of the instrumental department in the conservatory instead of Miss Balcom. Miss McCutchan comes highly recommended and we are satisfied she will give the best of satisfaction.

The ladies social of the M. Church will give an Oyster Festival on Friday evening of this week, in Dr. Ford's new brick building, for the purpose of procuring money with which to meet the heavy church expenses recently incurred. The patronage of all is respectfully solicited

Grand Festival.

AT

Ford's New Brick Building,

BY THE

Ladies' Social of the M. E. Church

Friday Eve., Nov. 20, 1874,

There has been a good deal of expense incurred in the removal of the church and the ladies want to assist in putting it in good shape, and they announce an oyster Festival at the above time and place. They will have the best of everything, Oysters, Chicken, Cakes, Coffee and numerous other things good to eat. Let there be a liberal patronage extended. Friends from the country are cordially invited.

The DeKalb county Republican, the new paper here, made its appearance last week It is the same as the Butler News with a change of heading It is not just a healty time to start a new Republican paper in the light of recent elections, but we wish our neighbor success if there is room for another paper here

Read the new advertisement of S. W. Sprott & Son in this issue. Besides keeping a first-class assortment of everything in the boot and shoe line, they have the sole agency for a new style of work for ladies and misses wear, just introduced that cannot be excelled. Go and examine their fine stock and see for yourselves

Agents wanted in every town, and worthy young men can secure a handsome income by canvassing for the Centenial Art Gallery, the finest specimen of architecture on the continent, costing $1,500,000 Price 50 cents. Address,

THOS. HUNTER,
1t 616 Filbert-St., Phila.

The mite Tuesday evening was a grand success. A large number was present, and all seemed to enjoy the new arrangement. The supper was splendid, and the party are under obligations to Misses. Kittie Elwell, Alice Fair, Frankie Ryan and several other young ladies, for this feature Misses Ryan, Balcome and Mr. Gibson deserves credit for the music, and Mr. Scott for calling services.

Johnson's Gold pens at reduced prices at Abright's.

That capital good fellow John Harvey has taken unto himself a wife, and Miss Pluma Davis, of Iona Co., Mich., is the happy bride. They were married by and and at the residence of Esq. Bacon. A number of persons were present. After a sumptious dinner they boarded the train for Michigan, to spend a few days at the residence of the bride's parents.

Stop in at Abright's and examine his large invoice of clocks

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

Full Proceedings.

The annual Teachers' Institute of the County convened in the commodious high school building at Butler, at 1 pm. last week Monday. The Institute was called to order by County Supt. Barnes, who presided over the session of the body.—After singing by the choir and prayer by Rev. S. P. Snyder, W. C. McGonigal and Callie Britton were chosen secretaries.

The Superintendent devoted one-half hour to the subject of spelling, pointing out the most frequent errors, the use of capitals, etc.

Mr. Owen gave a lecture upon the subject of penmanship, when the Supt. introduced the following subject for discussion: "What branches in our schools should be taught by topic?" Remarks were made upon the question by Messrs. Leavitt, A. R. Hoffman, Owen and W. H. Hoffman, and the subject was then postponed until Tuesday.

Upon motion, speakers were limited to five minutes in all general discussions.—The Supt. announced the following subjects for Tuesday: Reading—W. C. McGonigal, Arithmetic—A. R. Hoffman, Physiology—W. H. McIntosh, English Grammar—E. Leavitt.

The Institute then adjourned until evening when a very interesting session was held in the Lutheran Church, the room accommodating a large number of spectators. The entertainment consisted mainly of instrumental and vocal music, declamations and essays, but we were unable to get the names of those taking the lead in the exercises.

On Tuesday, the Institute assembled at 9 o'clock in the high school room, the Supt. in the chair, and the secretaries at at their posts. After singing and prayer, W. C. McGonigal gave his lecture upon the subject of reading. This was followed by A. R. Hoffman's views of the best manner of teaching mental arithmetic. A lengthy intermission was then given to enable teachers to have their names enrolled.

After the intermission, the Institute decided to establish a "Question Drawer," and not to appoint a Critic

Upon motion, the Supt. appointed the following members a committee on resolutions: A. R. Hoffman, Lucinda Daniels and John W. Baker.

W. H. McIntosh then gave his lecture upon Physiology after which the Institute adjourned for dinner.

During the afternoon, the Institute was entertained by Prof. Leavitt, with a lecture upon the teaching of English Grammar. Considerable time was also spent in general discussion, the question left over from the previous day and other topics having been brought up.

In the evening a similar session to the Monday night meeting was held in the Lutheran Church.

The enrollment up to Tuesday night, at the close of our report, exceeded 150.

This is much larger than the attendance at any previous Institute. The number of schools in the county is about 100, and the large number of teachers in attendance either indicates that the county is furnishing the outside world with pedagogues, or that there is quite a number of supernumeraries.

On Wednesday the Institute re-assembled. Singing by the choir, and prayer by Rev. Peddycord; 165 members responded to roll-call.

W. A. Bell, of the Indiana School Journal, was introduced, and gave a lecture upon the subject of reading. He was followed by J. M. Olcott, of Indianapolis, who gave a lesson in composition.

In the afternoon, the Institute convened at 1½ o'clock. Prof. Olcott gave a lecture upon the "Management of Schools," followed by Mr. Bell, with "The Duties of Teachers the First day of School." R. W Putnam, of Chicago, gave a clear and interesting recitation upon the subject of "Enumeration and Notation." Mrs. Marillo Shively introduced a primary class and gave a successful recitation in reading. Prof Smart, Supt. of Public Instruction elect, was introduced to the Institute.

Institute met in the evening in Lutheran Church, and after music and prayer, listened to an address from Mr. Bell, upon the "Educational Interests of the State."

Thursday morning 187 members answered at roll-call; music and prayer by Prof. Leavitt.

The time, until recess, was consumed Mr. McIntosh, with a selected class in Physiology. The recitation was quite intergastin.

Prof. Smart continued the subject of "Recitations." Miss Mattie Miller read an essay upon "The Duties of Teachers to their profession." On motion a copy of the essay was requested for publication in the COURIER

In the afternoon Prof. Smart, occupied one half hour in conducting a spirited recitation in the "Fundamental Principles of Arithmetic." The following question was then discussed by Squires, Emanuel, Horace Hoffman, McIntosh, A. R. Hoffman, Leavitt and Prof. Smart: "To what extent is the Teacher successful in object teaching who has not a knowledge of the Natural Sciences?" The time after recess was devoted to answering questions from the Query Box, and to the discussion of questions connected with the duties of the school room. W. H. Keeran, C. P. Houser and D. M. Allen were appointed a committee to decide the reading contest

In the evening Will Carlton was introduced, and recited a number of original poems.

On Friday morning 176 members answered at roll-call. A. R. Hoffman was called to the floor, and conducted a class in arithmetic, followed by J. A. Campbell with a lesson in Physical Geography.

After recess the committee on resolutions reported the following, which were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That we, the teachers of DeKalb county, recognize the benefits derived from attending institutes, and especially do we feel strengthened and encouraged by the instruction of the Institute just closed, and we most heartily thank the instructors from abroad for their efforts in our behalf.

Resolved, That in the death of Supt. Hopkins, there has been taken from us a zealous patron of education, and we deeply deplore the loss of one whose services are at present so much needed.

Resolved, That in Prof. Smart, we recognize a thorough business man and a ripe scholar, and we stand ready to do all in our power to assist him in advancing the interests of education in our State.

Resolved, That we feel to congratulate our County Superintendent, upon the efficient manner in which he discharged the duties of his office during the past year

Resolved, That we regard the proposed attempt to repeal the law relating to the County Superintendency, as a death-blow to the efficiency of our school system; and that we, as teachers, bitterly oppose any such measure.

Resolved, That we return thanks to the choir, which has so kindly entertained us with music; also to the good people of Butler, for their hospitable reception of the members of the Institute; also to Messrs. W. L. Blair and J. V. Boyle, for their kindness and unceasing endeavors to make our stay with them pleasant and economical.

After the adoption of the above, the Institute passed resolutions thanking the trustees of the Lutheran church, the Secretaries of the Institute.

At recess the enrollment of members was closed, reaching the unprecedented number of 241. Below are the names in full:

Alla Shoub,
Kattie Smith,
Sarah Saoub,
Rena Boyer,
Maria Goldsmith,
Elvena Waters,
Eliza Beams,
Frances Burrell,
Eliza Waters,
Mary Walsworth,
Belle Arford,
Jesse Britton,
Jennie Smith,
Frances Stout,
Allice Mann,
Dora Porter,
Lou Blaker,
Laura Murphy,
Belle Hornberger,
Ada Moody,
Frank Ford,
Malvina Keeran,
Abbie Potter,
Hattie Griswold,
J A Burns,
W H Hoffman,
J H Norford,
H A Hoffman,
J N McCurdy,
J L Ackley,
H Slaybaugh,
A W Blair,
Simon Bybee,
J C Hoopingarner,
E Leavitt,
J A Dove,
A J Jennings,
John W Baxter,
W H Hoagland,
D J [illegible],
James B Baxter,
J A Krum,
M M Showalter,
A Noragon,
J A Campbell,
C H Thurstin,
T P Sutton,
T A Shirts,
W C McGonigal,
H C Shull,
C S Hoffman,
J H Merica,
A Gonser,
C P Houser,
B H Gilbert,
W W Shatto,
J W Squiers,
Lucinda Daniels,
A J Beard,
Francelia Hamilton,
Cordelia Shaffer,
L M Diehl,
Kate Baber,
J G Mervin,
J W Jackman,
O L Young,
F M Thompson,
S Olmstead,
G W Coats,
Eli C Miller,
Jennie Noragon,
Josie Gillett,
Julia Plum,
Sarah Zolmer,
Jennie Crooks,
Libbie Nelson,
Eva Hadsell,
Jennie Porter,
Edith Platter,
Mary Young,
Cellie Whetsell,
Sarah Hornsby,
Frankie Miller,
Mollie Smith,
Florida Jackman,
Henry Waters,
A H Keep,
H H Harris,
J B Scott,
Jonathan Shull,
Dora Hall,
Libbie Arford,
Emma Danks,
Elmora Kiser,
Josie Thomas,
George Pugsley,
W. M. Diehl,
Mary M Eberly,
L M Bassett,
F B Draggoo,
Libbie Bevier,
Alda Easy,
J F Starr,
Mary McNerny,
J S Burkholder,
Ida Blair,
J W Kiplinger,
D F Firestone,
Ella Clark,
Oscar Rakestraw,
W Reynolds,
W C Chambers,
Mary Bundage,
Anna Chaplain,
Lottie Bundage,
Mollie Lyons,
Allie Goldsmith,
Rebecca Beams,
Rosa Phillips,
Lottie Chilson,
Morella Snively,
Ada Coder,
Mary Crise,
Callie Britton,
Drusa Shull,
Clara Miller,
Susie Clark,
Matilda Murphy,
Helen Parker,
Nannie Hornberger,
Jennie Baxter,
Ida Moody,
Jose Rush,
Frank Stahl,
Ruth Keeran,
Laura Clark,
J C Fretz,
D B Chilcoat,
W S Maxwell,
D A Fink,
A B Walsworth,
W D Boyle,
B F Fretz,
F K Blake,
W B Squier,
J H McCurdy,
J E Dilgard,
Hiram Wood,
C C Carr,
J Eakwright,
H C Owen,
Thomas J [illegible],
Henry Coe,
J Wringler,
T A Carter
S M High,
J A Barber,
W T Rope,
T H Shoub,
J Shilling,
A R Hoffman,
L D Wilson,
W W Spangler,
A M Wolf,
Byron Grube,
Sarah Allen,
F E Thomson,
W H McIntosh,
J D Essig,
Charles Emanuel,
Amelia Canfield,
Letitia Coats,
Nancy Shaffer,
C J Coats,
D W Weitz,
W W Crise,
H A Winslow,
J R Young,
L W Martin,
Alva L D Long,
Emma J Young,
J N Noragon,
Anna Noragon,
Frank Gillett,
J Dermott,
W M Abel,
Hattie Reed
Jessie Shepherd,
Rose Crane,
Laura Chamberlain,
J H Miller,
Rose Moody,
John Wycoff,
Nettie Miller,
W H Keeran,
Mollie Jackman,
R Sawvell,
Wm Whetzell,
H H Meek,
J J Oberlin,
S G Flint,
O J Greenwalt,
D G Bell,
Millie Kester,
Almeda Zirkle,
Ella Imhoof,
S E Greenwalt,
Lovina A Decter,
A B Stevens,
T J Coder,
Mollie Dolly,
Christia Blaker,
Howard Griswold,
Lizzie Parnell,
Ella S Smith,
Fannie Bowers,
Jason Beard,
Laura Farrington,
D M Allen,
Martha A Tappan,
Rose Blair,
J W Burkett,
[illegible] Dunsenhouser,
J R Irish,
M E Gillis.

After recess, Miss Eva Hadsell read an essay upon the duty of teachers to give more attention to the moral and religious training of the children. Declamations were given by Harley Miller, Frankie Ford, Oscar Young, Mary McNerny, F. M. Thompson. Francis Stahl and J. L. Ackley.

In the afternoon a lesson in penmanship was given, by a teacher who makes a specialty of the art. The balance of the time, until the adjournment for supper, was occupied in the discussion of questions from the Query Box, and other topics of general interest. The first prize in the spelling contest was given to W. P. Squires, and the second prize was won by Miss Rose Philips.

At 7 o'clock the Institute convened in the Lutheran church, and was opened by singing and prayer. A volunteer class in reading entered upon a contest, and at its conclusion, the committee heretofore appointed gave the first premium to Miss Lucinda Daniels, and the second prize to Miss Hattie Griswold. The first prizes in both of the above contests were works on Elocution, and the second prizes were a year's subscription to the School Journal. After singing the Institute formally adjourned sine die.

J. A. BARNS, Supt.

W. C. McGONIGAL, } Secy's.
CALLIE BRITTON }

The Tailor—Waterman Contest.

The Commission appointed to take evidence in the above contested case, met last Thursday and examined three witnesses, a brief synopsis of whose evidence we give below:

The first witness examined was B. F. Cornelius, Trustee of Troy-tp. He stated that the day after the election he looked over the tally sheets and found that in the case of Mr Hague the tally sheets did not agree. In correcting it, he made the change in Mr Taylor's vote instead of Mr Hague, and did not discover the mistake until the Board of Canvassers met. One of the Clerk's, Mr Coll, testified that the Republican and Democrat tickets were kept seperate and that when a mistake was discovered after the votes were counted, the ballots were taken off the string and re-counted and that others than the members of the Board assisted in counting. It was finally agreed to add enough to correspond with the number of names on the tally sheet.

Mr. Gaskell the other Clerk testified to about the same, that the tickets were seperated and that a mistake occurred about which there was considerable argument before a decision was arrived at.

The commision adjourned on Monday.

ONE MORE UNFORTUNATE.

Attempted Suicide.

It may not be generally know that Auburn has lately indulged in the metropolitan feature of a house of prostitution,—This delectable abode is located on Main-st., and has five permanent inmates. One of these is a married woman, said to be the mother of five children, the wife of an unprincipled fellow, the daughther-in-law of an ex-congressman, the sister-in-law of a newly elected congressman, and at one time a happy, innocent wife, attempted last Thursday to shuffle off this mortal coil by taking a dose of morphene.—This is the second time the attempt has been made, and it came very near being the last. She is said to be prepossessing in appearance and realizes her present degredation to a painful degree. Since her recent recovery she has solemnly promised to abandon her present life and live to a better purpose. Poor creature, she needs the sympathy of all good people, and instead of a curse let there be pity for the unfortunate wife and mother.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Detroit, Eel River and Illinois Railroad Co., held in this place the 30th of Oct. 1874, the following Board of directors were chosen for the ensuing year, by a unanimous vote:

James S. Collins, Geo E. Adams, D. D. Dykeman, John L. Davis, James F. Joy, Christian H. Buhl, Allen Sheldon, Theo. D. Buhl, Daniel L. Quirk, Wm W. Crupo, and Edwin F. Uhl. The report submitted shows a steady increase in the business of the road highly satisfactory, taking in consideration the general stagnation in trade and extraordinary low freights to the east. With proposed connections now about perfected, the business of the road will be largely increased in the future.—The report also shows the road conducted upon the strictest principles of economy. The management deserve great credit for the able manner in which their duties are discharged—Col City Post.

The following order has been issued by the President of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, which explains itself:

BALTIMORE & OHIO RAILROAD CO'. }
PRESIDENT'S OFFICE, }
BALTIMORE, November 2, 1874 }

The Baltimore, Pittsburg & Chicago Railroad will be completed between Centerton. on Lake Erie Division, and Chicago, on November 25th, 1874, and will be operated as the Chicago Division of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, in connection with its Ohio Divisions

Mr W C Quincy is appointed General Manager, with head-quarters at Columbus, Ohio

JOHN KING, JR
President pro tem

Musical Lessons.

Miss M. E. Balcome begs leave to announce that having severed her connection with the Conservatory of Music she will resume giving private lecssons on the piano to all desiring them. The tution will be eight dollars per term of twenty lessons, including use of piano. Also instruction given on the organ, and use of instrument. The patronage of the public is respectfully solicited.

The young folks here have organized a mite society, and no "old married couples" are allowed inside while this order is in session. It costs 25c for a membership and 10c cents for supper. This "crew" had a gay time at the residence of A. J. Little last Tuesday night. Old maids should take advantage of this, and join at once.

The young men of Auburn are getting awful. One of our pretties' and aimable young ladies, meandered homeward the other night from the Young Folk's Mite all alone. Another went to Root & Co's dry goods emporium, at Fort Wayne, the other day, to get a grand wed——but its none of our business, so what's the use of saying anything about it.

SOME CURIOUS EPITAPHS.

ON A DRUMMER.

Tom Clark was a drummer, who went to the war,
And was killed by a bullet, and his soul sent for;
There were no friends to mourn him, for his virtues were rare,
He died like a man, like a Christian bear.

A RARE SPECIMEN.

My wife, she has left me, she gone up on high,
She was thoughtful while dying, and said "Tom don't cry."
She was a great beauty, so every one knows,
With Hebe-like features and fine Roman nose;
She played the piany, and was learning a ballad,
When she sickened and die-did from eating veal salad.

RIGHTLY NAMED.

Down in this chasm lies a poor sinful critter,
Her name was Poll Twist, and that name it just fit her;
For in twisting her neck to swallow some toddy,
She twisted her breath right out of her body.
Her bloated remains we hid under the sod,
But her rum-sotted soul none could hide from its God.

A HARPIST.

Mary Somers was with us but twenty short years;
She departed this life 'mid a torrent of tears;
She was a fine musician, and played well on the harp—
So thought the angels who floated by in the dark;
They wanted a harpist to join their good band,
So nabbed her and flew to a far better land.

AN ONLY CHILD.

Our departed little Sally
Lost her strength and could not rally,
She pined away, both night and day,
And kicked the mortal coil away.

SENSITIVE TO THE LAST.

Aramarinta Taylor (how do we regret her?)
Departed this life for a state much better;
She was gentle and lovely and not over bold,
But her age is a thing that remains untold,
She grew younger and younger as years passed away,
Then a cypher became, when nought went to decay,
The poor foolish creature, hating to grow old,
Has gone now, praise God, where years are untold;
And there may she revel, a venerable sage,
With no one to bother her by asking her age.

DEATH OF A CHILD.

It was spotted measles that killed our Daisy;
When I think of her death it makes me go crazy;
I don't see why we should have so much trouble,
While others go "scot free" and of money have double.

FRUITFUL SUBJECT.

As death was sauntering idly by,
He spied the apple of my eye;
With cruel aim and no delay,
In her heart's core he put decay.

And, like the fruit upon the tree,
She dropped down dead in spite of me,
To celebrate her fall this day,
I raise a stone to Mary Grey.

A FATAL BLOW.

This is the place where rests Timothy Morse,
Who slid out of life through a kick from a horse;
No four-legged beast caused this dreadful disaster,
But a two-legged cuss kicked the life from his master.

THE UNRULY MEMBER.

In the sacred spot my wife does lie,
She quit this world and went on high;
Her tongue wagged so fast for thirty long years,
That she died from exhaustion, while I dropped a tear.

ON A PATRIOT.

Here lies a a soldier, under this stone,
Stop, passer by, and heave a groan;
Groan, did I say? No, hurrah, for he is happy, I ween,
Singing Hail Columbia, Yankee Doodle, and God save the Queen,
In this land of glory, where he has become by this time a cherubim. Amen.

A COUNTRY SCHOOL TEACHER.

In this grave lies Mary Edwards, a pretty school marm,
Who coaxed and flattered all the beaux, but never did them harm;
She was graceful, evanescent, but she faded like the dew,
And her age (excuse me for telling it) was just forty-two.

ON A DRUNKARD.

John Gray is dead, his corpse lies below,
But where his soul is, of course we don't know.
There were two paths to take—which he chose is the rub,
One led to glory, the other to Beelzebub.
His disease was strong drink; as this settled the matter,
It settled poor John, too—we guess with the latter.

KILLED BY A HORSE.

Absalom Charles Timothy Jones
Once was alive, but now here are his bones;
He was thrown from his horse against an old post,
And was so badly smashed that he gave up the ghost.

A SLANDERER.

Here lies an old dame with a dangerous tongue,
She slandered all her neighbors and really thought it fun;
She got so angry one day when in a slanderous fit,
That a blood vessel burst and the biter got bit.
This epitaph was written by her victims in the town,
And this heavy granite stone was laid to keep her body down.

FOOD FOR WORMS.

And now, dear friends, you'll see him not,
For here he lies in this grave to rot.

A PRECOCIOUS CHILD.

Alas! why should I cry to-day
For one who could no longer stay?
My darling little Hannah!
This child could read, and write and spell,
Could say her "tables" very well,
And play her ma's piana.
God bless my little Hannah!
Who plays now on Heaven's piana.

STORY OF GRISELL COCHRANE.

The Cochranes are an old family in Scotland. They rose to distinction in the fifteenth century, and have always been remarkable for courage and ingenuity. Sir William Cochrane was elevated to the peerage as Baron Cochrane in 1647, and advanced to the dignity of Earl of Dundonald in 1669. His grandson was Sir John Cochrane, of Ochiltree, who along with Sir Patrick Hume, of Polwarth, was concerned in the political troubles which, in the reign of James II., brought ruin on the Stuart dynasty. While Hume was so fortunate as to escape abroad, Cochrane was taken prisoner in the rising under the Earl of Argyle, and, being conducted to Edinburgh, was ignominiously lodged in the Tolbooth, on the 3d of July, 1685, there to await his trial as a traitor. The day of trial came, and, as a matter of course, he was condemned to death.

Sir John Cochrane was married, and had a family of several sons, and at least one daughter, Grisell, about 18 years of age.

While lying under sentence of death in that gloomy Tolbooth, Sir John Cochrane was permitted to see the members of his family. Afraid, however, of implicating his sons, he forbade them to visit him until they could take a last farewell on the night previous to his execution. His daughter, however, was allowed to come as often as she pleased. The chief subject of their conversation was an appeal made to the King for mercy. Although several friends interested themselves in trying to procure a remission of the sentence, there were no sanguine expectations that they would be successful. As the time wore on Grisell's fears increased to intensity; and without explaining herself to any one, she resolved to make a bold attempt to postpone her father's fate, if not to save him. A short time before the death warrant was expected by the Privy Council in Edinburgh, she mentioned to her father that some urgent affair would prevent her from seeing him again for a few days.

Next morning, long ere the inhabitants were astir, Grisell was some miles on her road to the borders. She had attired herself as a young serving woman, journeying on a borrowed horse to the house of her mother. So equipped, and well-mounted, she on the second day reached, in safety, the abode of her old nurse, who lived on the English side of the Tweed, four miles below the town of Berwick. In this woman she knew she could place implicit confidence, and to her, therefore, she revealed her secret. She had resolved, she said, to make an attempt to save her father's life by stopping the postman, an equestrian like herself, and forcing him to deliver up his bags, in which she expected to find the fatal warrant. In pursuance of this design she had brought with her a brace of small pistols, together with a horseman's cloak tied up in a bundle, and hung on the curt of her saddle, and now borrowed from her nurse the attire of her foster-brother, which, as he was a slight-made lad, fitted her reasonably well.

At that period those appliances which at this day accelerate the progress of the traveler were unknown, and the mail from London, which now arrives in less than twenty hours, took eight days in reaching the Scottish capital. Miss Cochrane thus calculated on a delay of sixteen or seventeen days in the execution of her father's sentence—a space of time which she deemed amply sufficient to give a fair trial to the treaty set on foot for his liberation. She had, by means which it is unnecessary here to detail, possessed herself of the most minute information with regard to the places at which the postmen rested on their journey, one of which was a small public house kept by a widow on the outskirts of the little town of Belford. There the man who received the bag at Durham was accustomed to arrive about 6 o'clock in the morning, and take a few hours' repose before proceeding further on his journey. She arrived at this inn about an hour after the man had composed himself to sleep. Having put her horse into the stable—which was a duty that devolved on the guests at this little public-house, from its mistress having no hostler—she entered the only apartment which the house afforded, and demanded some refreshment. "Sit down at that end of the table," said the old woman, "for the best I have to give you is there already; and be pleased, my bonny man, to make as little noise as you can, for there's one asleep in that bed that I like ill to disturb." Miss Cochrane promised fairly; and after attempting to eat some of the viands, which were the remains of the sleeping man's meal, she asked for some cold water.

"What," said the old dame, as she handed it to her, "ye are a water-drinker, are ye? It's but an ill custom for a change-house."

"I am aware of that," replied her guest, "and therefore, when in a public-house, always pay for it the price of the strong potation, which I cannot take."

"Indeed! well, that is but just," responded the dame; "and I think the more of you for such reasonable conduct."

"Is the well where you get this water near at hand?" said the young lady; "for if you will take the trouble to bring me some from it, as this is rather tepid, it shall be considered in the reckoning."

"It is a good bit off," said the woman; "but I cannot refuse to fetch some for such a civil, discreet lady and will be as quick as I can. But, for any sake, take care and don't meddle with these pistols," she continued, pointing to a pair of pistols on the table, "for they are loaded and I'm always afraid of them."

Saying this she disappeared; and Miss Cochrane, who would have contrived some other errand for her had that well been near, no sooner saw the door shut than she passed with trembling eagerness, and cautious but rapid step, across the floor to the place where the man lay soundly sleeping in one of those close wooden bedsteads common in the houses of the poor, the door of which was left half open to admit the air, and which she opened still wider, in the hope of seeing the mail-bag and being able to seize upon it. But what was her dismay when she beheld only a part of the integument, which contained what she would have sacrificed her life a thousand times to obtain, just peering out from below the shaggy head and brawny shoulders of its keeper, who lay in such a position upon it as to give not the smallest hope of its extraction without his being aroused from his nap! A few bitter moments of observation served to convince her that if she obtained possession of this treasure it must be in some other way; and again closing the door of the bedroom, she approached the pistols and having taken them one by one from the holsters, she as quickly as possible drew out their loading, which having secreted, she returned them to their cases, and resumed her seat at the foot of the table. Here she had barely time to recover from the agitation which the fear of the man's awakening during her recent occupation had thrown her, when the old woman returned with the water; and having taken a draught of which she stood much in need, she settled her account, much to the lady's content, by paying for the water the price of a pot of beer. Having then carelessly asked and ascertained how much longer the other guest was likely to continue his sleep, she left the house, and mounting her horse, set off at a trot in a different direction from that in which she had arrived.

Making a circuit of two or three miles, she once more fell into the high road between Belford and Berwick, where she walked her horse gently on, awaiting the coming up of the postman. Though all her faculties were now absorbed in one aim, and the thought of her father's deliverance still reigned supreme in her mind, she could not help figuring to herself the possibility of her tampering with the pistols being discovered, and their loading replaced, in which case it was more than likely that her life would be a forfeit of the act she meditated. When she at length saw and heard the postman advancing behind her, the strong necessity of the case gave her renewed courage; and it was with perfect coolness that on his coming close up, she civilly saluted him, put her horse into the same place with his, and rode on for some way in his company. He was a strong, thickset fellow, with a good-humored countenance, which did not seem to Miss Cochrane, as she looked anxiously upon it, to savor much of hardy daring. He rode with his mail-bags strapped firmly to his saddle in front, close to the holsters (for there were two), one containing the letters direct from London, and the other those taken up at different postoffices along the route. After riding a short distance together, Miss Cochrane deemed it time, as they were half way between Belford and Berwick, to commence her operations. She therefore rode close to her companion, and said in a tone of determination: "Friend, I have taken a fancy to those mail-bags of yours, and I must have them; therefore, take my advice and deliver them up quietly, for I am provided for all hazards. I am mounted, as you see, on a fleet steed; I carry firearms, and, moreover, am allied with those who are stronger, though not bolder than myself. You see yonder wood," she continued, pointing to one at the distance of about a mile, with an accent and air meant to carry intimidation, "Again, I say, take my advice, give me the bags, and speed back the road you came for the present, nor dare to approach that wood for at least two or three hours to come."

There was in such language from a stripling something so surprising that the man looked on Miss Cochrane for an instant in silent and unfeigned amazement. "If," said he, as soon as he found his tongue, "you mean, young master, to make yourself merry at my expense, you are welcome. I am no sour churl to take offense at the idle words of a foolish boy. But if," he said, taking one of his pistols from the holster and turning its muzzle toward her, "you are mad enough to harbor one serious thought of such a matter, I am ready for you. But methinks, my lad, you seem at an age when robbing a garden or an old woman's fruit stall would befit you better, if you must turn thief, than taking his Majesty's mails from a stout man such as I am upon his highway. Be thankful, however, that you have met with one who will not shed blood if he can help it, and sheer off before you provoke me to fire."

"Nay," said the young antagonist, "I am not fonder of bloodshed than you are; but if you will not be persuaded, what can I do? For I have told you a truth—the mail I will and must have. So now choose," she continued, as she drew one of the small pistols from under her cloak, and, deliberately cocking it, presented it in his face.

"Nay, then, your blood be on your own head," said the fellow, as he raised his hand and fired his pistol, which, however, only flashed in the pan. Dashing the weapon to the ground, he lost not a moment in pulling out the other, which he fired with the same result. In a transport of rage and disappointment, the man sprung from his horse, and made an attempt to seize her, but by a adroit use of her spurs she eluded his grasp, and placed herself out of his reach. Meanwhile the horse had moved forward some yards, and to see and seize the advantage presented by this circumstance was one and the same to the heroic girl, who, darting toward it, caught the bridle, and having led her prize off about a hundred yards, stopped while she called to the thunderstruck postman to remind him of her advice about the wood. She then put both horses to their speed, and on turning to look at the man she had robbed had the pleasure of perceiving that her mysterious threat had taken effect, and he was now pursuing his way back to Belford.

Miss Cochrane speedily entered the wood to which she had alluded, and, tying the strange horse to a tree, out of all observation from the road, proceeded to unfasten the straps of the mail. By means of a sharp penknife, which set at defiance the appended locks, she was soon mistress of the contents, and with an eager hand broke open the government dispatches, which were unerringly pointed out to her by their address to the Council in Edinburgh, and the imposing weight and broad seals of office. Here she found not only the fatal warrant for her father's death, but also many other sentences inflicting different degrees of punishment on various delinquents. These, however, it may be readily supposed, she did not then stop to examine; she contented herself with tearing them into small fragments and placing them carefully in her bosom.

The intrepid girl now mounted her steed and rode off, leaving all the private papers where she had found them, imagining (what eventually proved the case) that they would be discovered ere long, from the hints she had thrown out about the wood, and thus reach their proper places of destination. She now made all haste to reach the cottage of her nurse, where, having committed to the flames not only the fragments of the dreaded warrant, but also the other obnoxious papers, she quickly resumed her female garments, and was again, after this manly and daring action, the simple and unassuming Miss Grisell Cochrane. Leaving the cloak and pistols behind her to be concealed by her nurse, she again mounted her horse and directed her flight toward Edinburgh, and by avoiding as much as possible the high road, and resting at sequestered cottages, as she had done before, and that only twice for a couple of hours each time, she reached town early in the morning of the next day.

The time gained by the heroic act related above was productive of the end for which it was undertaken, and Sir John Cochrane was pardoned at the instigation of the King's favorite counselor, who interceded for him in consequence of receiving a bribe of five thousand pounds from the Earl of Dundonald. Miss Cochrane afterward married Mr. Ker, of Morriston, in the county of Berwick, and there can be but little doubt that she proved equally affectionate and amiable as a wife as she had already been dutiful and devoted as a daughter. Sir John Cochrane succeeded as second Earl of Dundonald.

SOME of the regular soldiers sent West have married squaws, and are doing their best to civilize the poor ignorant redskins. As soon as a squaw gets a pair of army boots and a brass chain on, she begins to act refined and lady-like.

THE TRANSIT OF VENUS.

Very much has been said and written during the last two years about the transit of Venus, which is to occur Dec. 8, 1874. The interest which is so generally felt in regard to it has doubtless reached many of our readers, and they very naturally begin to ask, "What is a transit of Venus, and why is it of so much importance?" This is what I will try to explain.

You perhaps all know that Venus, the brightest of the planets, is not as far from the sun as the earth, and that it revolves round the sun in an orbit similar to the earth's orbit. In each revolution, therefore, Venus passes between the earth and sun, and is then said to be in inferior conjunction. When it is on the opposite side of the sun from the earth it is in superior conjunction. Thus, in fig. 1, suppose E F C represents the orbit of the earth, A B V that of Venus, and S the sun. If Venus is at V when the earth is at E, it is in inferior conjunction. But the orbit of Venus, as you see by the figure, is not in the same plane with that of the earth. Now, if it were extended until it met the earth's orbit, it would be represented by the dotted line C D E, and it would cross the earth's orbit at the points E and C. These points, or the corresponding places A and V, in the real orbit of Venus, are called its nodes. Now, because of this inclination of the two orbits, the sun, Venus and the earth will be in the same line only when Venus is at, or near, one of its nodes at the time of conjunction. For, if Venus is at F when the earth is at F, it would be in inferior conjunction, because it is in that part of its orbit which is most directly between the earth and sun; but we should see it in the direction of C. If, however, it is at its node, V, at the time of conjunction, or when the earth is at E, we see it in the same line as the sun, and it then appears to pass directly across the sun's disc. This is what is called a transit of Venus. Venus is opaque, like the earth, shining by the reflected light of the sun; therefore the bright side is toward the sun, and at the time of a transit it appears to us like a dark spot upon the sun's bright surface.

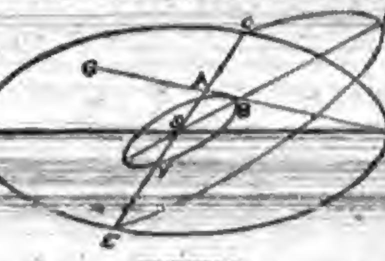

FIGURE I.

The transits of Venus happen only at rare intervals, because it is seldom that the three bodies are thus situated in reference to each other. They occur in pairs, eight years apart, and between the pairs are one hundred and five, or else one hundred and twenty-two years.

The fact that they so rarely happen occasions an interest in the transits; but this is by no means the only reason why they are so carefully watched. Their chief importance lies in this: By observing the path which the planet makes across the sun we obtain data from which the distance of the earth from the sun can be calculated. The relative distances of all the planets from the sun is known; therefore, when the earth's distance, expressed in miles, is obtained, we have, as it were, a yard-stick by which the distances of the other planets can be measured. To find the exact length of this yard-stick has long been considered the astronomer's grandest problem, and a transit of Venus gives the most accurate means of doing this.

The last two transits were in 1761 and 1769. Previous to these the estimates which had been made of the sun's distance from the earth were very incorrect. The earliest estimates on record made it about one-twentieth of its true distance; and even at the time of these transits it was too small by several million miles. These transits were, however, watched with great interest, the observations made of them carefully compared, and the distance computed to be about ninety-five million miles. Since then astronomers have calculated the sun's distance by several other methods, applying principles which were not then known, and, although these methods are inferior to that furnished by a transit, yet, as the different calculations very nearly agree, it is supposed they are not far from correct. They show the sun's distance to be a little over ninety-one million miles.

The instruments which we now have for measuring small angles, and the means for determining the latitude and longitude of places are much superior to those used a hundred years ago, hence the observations of the coming transit will be much more exact, and will furnish a means of testing the accuracy of previous calculations.

I will now tell you something of how the observations are taken, and of the preparations which have been made for this purpose.

The direct object is to obtain what is called the sun's parallax. The parallax of an object is its apparent displacement as seen from two different stations. In fig. 2, let the circle A B E represent a section of the earth. Two persons, one stationed at A, and another at B, are looking at the sun, S. The heavenly bodies, though at different distances from the earth, appear to us as if they were all situated in the same vaulted surface, represented by the curved line M G O. The person at A sees the sun as if it were at G, while the person at B sees it at D. Now, in making tables which shall give the position of the heavenly bodies, it is obvious that their places, as seen from any one station upon the earth, cannot be taken, for this would not be correct for any other station. The place given them, therefore, is that which they would appear to occupy if seen from the center of the earth, for this always remains the same. The true place of the sun, S, then, is at F, and its angular displacement, measured by the angle, B S C, or the arc, F D, is its parallax at the station B; the angle, A S C, or F G, its parallax at the station A.

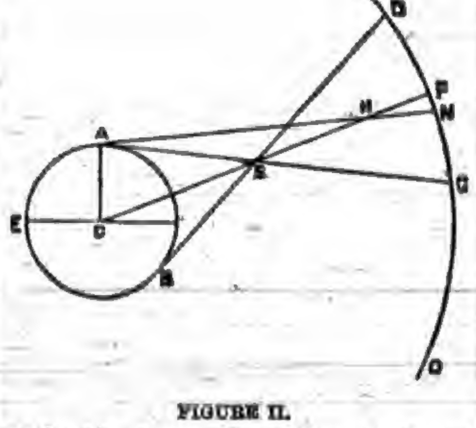

FIGURE II.

The distance of a body affects its parallax; for it is plain that if the sun were at the more distant point H, its parallax, F H, as seen from A, is much less than if the sun is at the point S. Hence, when the sun's true parallax is obtained, it gives an accurate means of calculating the sun's distance.

Now Venus is the planet nearest the earth, hence its parallax is larger than any other, and can be more easily measured. Moreover, Venus is much nearer the earth than the sun, and its parallax, of course, much greater. Because of this difference between the displacement of the two bodies, observers at different stations upon the earth will refer the planet to different points upon the sun's disc. Thus in fig. 3 let E, V and S represent the earth, Venus and the sun at the time of a transit. An observer at A would see the planet cross the sun in the line D C, while an observer on the other side of the earth, at B, would see it cross the sun in the line F G. These two lines are of unequal length, and the transit, to the observers, would be accomplished in unequal periods of time. By noting the exact time and duration of the transit at these two stations and afterward comparing them, the difference between the parallax of the sun and that of Venus can be obtained, and from this the parallax of the sun, and then the sun's distance from the earth. It is, of course, impossible to obtain stations on directly opposite sides of the earth, to watch the transit, yet places are selected as far apart as possible, and the necessary allowance made in the calculations.

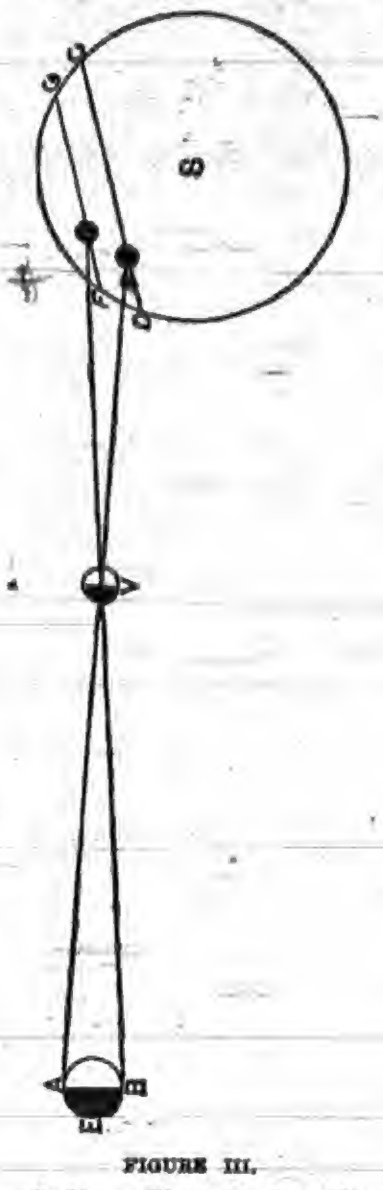

FIGURE III.

It may at first seem a very easy thing to take these observations; but in reality it is very difficult to make them accurate. The instruments may not be exact in every particular, and a small error, in measuring an angle at so great a distance as the sun, will make a great difference in the result. Clocks may differ by one or two seconds, and the state of our atmosphere will affect the distinctness with which the planet is seen. Then it is extremely difficult to tell the second when the edges of Venus and the sun meet, for, as they approach, the dark edge of the planet appears drawn out toward the sun before it really touches it; and the difference between the real and apparent contact may occasion a serious error. Hence the great importance that everything be prepared with the utmost care, and that so far as possible there be uniformity in the methods of observing at the different stations.

Another science aids the astronomer in this work by giving him a new method of measuring small angles in the heavens. It is that of photographing the object, and then making the desired measurement on the plate by an instrument called a micrometer. The sun has been photographed for the purpose of studying the solar spots, for many years, and the process has been perfected and used with great success. It is thought that by this method a much more precise measurement can be obtained than by the simple eye-observations.

For the past two years preparations have been in progress for the coming transit. Our own government has appropriated for the purpose one hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

Eight stations are to be occupied,—three northern and five southern. The northern stations are near Pekin, Yeddo, and a place in the neighborhood of the Caspian sea. The southern stations are upon the island of Mauritius; Kerguelan's Land; Hobart Town, southern part of Australia; some point in New Zealand; and Chatham Islands, east of New Zealand.

These stations are occupied several months before the transit, in order that the instruments may be well mounted and tested, and the latitude and longitude of the places determined, and every preparation thoroughly made.

Other nations, especially England, Russia and Germany, have made extensive preparations for observing the transit, choosing different stations favorable to the purpose.

Another transit of Venus will take place in 1882, which will be in some respects more favorable than this. It will be visible in the Atlantic States, and more generally in the inhabited parts of the earth. The various instruments now used will be kept for that transit, and it will be observed with the same interest and thoroughness as the present one. After these the next will be in 2004; so if my Atlantic readers would see a transit of Venus at all, they must travel to a point where it can be seen in 1874, or have their smoked glasses ready for the one that will occur December 6, 1882.—Pamelia T. Smiley, in St. Nicholas for November.

A. T. Stewart's Great Mistake.

It is now understood that Alex. T. Stewart has altogether relinquished the idea of devoting the great iron building in Fourth avenue, begun several years ago, and long under roof, to its original purpose of a working-women's home. He is said to have discovered the plan to be impracticable, for working-women would not enter it under such restrictions as are necessary. He tried to induce the women in his retail establishment to agree to go there, when the building should be completed, and they flatly refused. He is reported to feel bitterly disappointed at the result, because the home was a benevolent scheme he had long cherished. The building, with the real estate, has cost him half a million dollars. Nothing has been done on it for months, the cause being mysterious, since everybody knows Stewart has abundance of money to go on with the work, if so inclined. He is now at a loss what use to put the structure to. He thinks of finishing it and renting it as a hotel, but the location is not favorable. The stories are unfounded that he had abandoned the undertaking for the reason that it would not pay him as well as he had thought. His intention was to charge only a nominal price to the women—just enough to preserve their feeling of independence. As the home was the only benevolent scheme Mr. Stewart has ever embarked in, its failure is considered particularly unfortunate.—New York Telegram.

PARIS had a marriage the other day of the Tom Thumb and Minnie Warren class, but with more drollery in it. The husband is a dwarf, thirty inches in height, and the wife a giantess of six feet six.

EVERY one knows that a cold or cough ought not to be neglected, and that if it is not attended to in season it may result fatally. Our advice is to take care of it before it is too late, and use Dr. Wishart's Pine Tree Tar Cordial, which can be had of any druggist. Dr. Wishart's Worm Sugar Drops are the best remedy for worms ever discovered.

THE Atlantic Cable is a national benefit; so are SILVER-TIPPED Shoes for children. Never wear through at the toe. Try them. For sale by all dealers.

Gained Fifteen Pounds of Flesh.

SOUTH BERWICK, Me., Jan. 17, 1872.

H. R. STEVENS, Esq.:

Dear Sir—I have had Dyspepsia in its worst form for the last ten years, and have taken hundreds of dollars' worth of medicine without obtaining any relief. In September last I commenced taking the VEGETINE, since which time my health has steadily improved. My food digests well, and I have gained fifteen pounds of flesh. There are several others in this place taking the VEGETINE, and all have obtained relief. Yours, truly,

THOMAS E. MOORE,
Overseer of the Card Room, Portsmouth Co.'s Mills.

DYSPEPSIA.

SYMPTOMS—Want of appetite, rising of food and wind from the stomach, acidity of the stomach, heartburn, dryness and whiteness of the tongue in the morning, sense of distension in the stomach and bowels, sometimes rumbling and pain; costiveness, which is occasionally interrupted by diarrhoea; paleness of the urine. The mouth is clammy, or has a sour or bitter taste. Other frequent symptoms are waterbrash, palpitation of the heart, headache, and disorders of the senses, as seeing double, &c. There is general debility, languor, and aversion to motion; dejection of the spirits, disturbed sleep, and frightful dreams.

FEEL MYSELF A NEW MAN.

NATICK, Mass., June 1, 1872.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir—Through the advice and earnest persuasion of Rev. E. S. Best, of this place, I have been taking VEGETINE for Dyspepsia, of which I have suffered for years. I have used only two bottles, and already feel myself a new man. Respectfully,

DR. J. W. CARTER.

A Source of Great Anxiety.

My daughter has received great benefit from the use of VEGETINE. Her declining health was a source of great anxiety to all of her friends. A few bottles of the VEGETINE restored her health, strength, and appetite.

N. H. TILDEN,
Ins. and Real Estate Agt., 49 Sears' Building.
Boston, Mass., June 5, 1872.

What I Know About Vegetine.

SOUTH BOSTON, May 9, 1870

H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir—I have had considerable experience with the VEGETINE. For Dyspepsia, General Debility, and Impure Blood, the VEGETINE is superior to anything which I have ever used. I commenced taking VEGETINE about the middle of last winter, and after using a few bottles it entirely cured me of dyspepsia, and my blood never was in so good condition as at the present time. It will afford me pleasure to give any further particulars relative to what I know about this good medicine to any one who will call or address me at my residence, 386 Athens street. Very respectfully,

MONROE PARKER,
386 Athens Street.

Vegetine is Sold by all Druggists.

Wishart's

Pine Tree Tar

Cordial!

Nature's Great

Remedy

FOR ALL

Throat & Lung

Diseases.

For Sale by all Druggists and Storekeepers.

Migratory Fishes.

It was formerly supposed that certain fish, as the herring, the shad and the alewives, with others of like habits, prosecuted an extensive migration along the shores of the ocean, covering sometimes thousands of miles in the sweep of their travels; and much eloquent writing has been expended by such authors as Pennant and others in defining the starting-point and terminus, as well as the intermediate stages of the voyage. The shad, too, which, as is well known, occupies all the rivers of the Atlantic coast from Florida to the Gulf of St. Lawrence, was thought to begin its course in the West Indies, and in an immense body, which, going northward, sent a detachment to occupy each fresh water stream as it was reached, the last remnant of the band finally passing up the St. Lawrence, and there closing the course. We now, however, have much reason to think that, in the case of the herring, the shad, the alewife and the salmon, the journey is simply from the mouths of the rivers by the nearest deep gully or through to the outer sea, and that the appearance of the fish in the mouths of the rivers along the coast at successive intervals, from early spring in the South to midsummer in the North, is simply due to their taking up their line of march at successive epochs, from the open sea to the river they had left during a previous season, induced by the stimulus of the definite temperature, which, of course, would be successively attained at later and later dates, as the distance northward increased.

Burning Mountains.

Hon. C. E. De Long, ex-Minister to Japan, writes: Near Yokohama is the celebrated mountain "Fusi-Yuma," or burning mountain. This is pronounced one of the handsomest mountains in the world. It rises between 14,000 and 15,000 feet above the level of the sea, its base being within a few miles of the sea shore. This, with the Japanese, is a sacred mountain, its ascent only being permitted for a short time during the fall, and thousands of pilgrims from all portions of the empire journey thither, and ascend it, offering their devotions and making their gifts at the little shrines upon its sides, and casting coins and other offerings into the crater.

I regret to state that foreign vandals who ascend the mountain and enter the crater, not having the fear of Buddhist gods before their eyes, carry away the coins which the Japanese have thrown in. At the entrance of the Bay of Jeddo a mountain island arises, which is an active volcano. I know of but three other volcanoes in the empire, all of which are in the Island of Jesso. I ascended one of these called Mount Oosa, the height of which I cannot give as I had no barometer with me. I found the crater to be about a mile in diameter, containing several little lakes of water, and rising out of the center and much higher than the edge of the crater itself were two sharp, rocky peaks, from which the smoke was exuding in considerable volume.

A Japanese Street Scene.

A writer on Japan says: "I shall never forget the sport that a Parisian fellow-passenger and I had the first trip we made in a ginrickasha through the Japanese quarter of Yokohama. The most sedate Judge could not help laughing to be dragged about like a big baby in a fancily-painted baby wagon. Down narrow streets we went, through crowds of men, women, and numberless children, the coolies shouting out to clear the way, and never seeming to tire of the work. Married women, with shaved eyebrows and blackened teeth, carried their babies strapped to their back, and went chattering along gayly as can be imagined; young Japanese maidens smiled flirtatiously at the French Count, as well they might; men and women displayed their wares for sale on the streets and in the shops, and everybody seemed happy. The tea-houses were crowded, and the silk stores and lacquer-ware shops were bright with beautiful goods. Here a crowd would be gathered to listen to the singing of professional musicians (and such heathenish singing, too!), and in another place some eloquent stump-speaker would be making up faces and telling lies, just as stump-speakers do elsewhere. Such a gay, happy, simple people I never saw before. Everybody smiles, everybody bows pleasantly, and acknowledges the courtesy with a most gracious manner."

The One-Horse Negro.

A few months ago a gentleman moved to St. Louis and purchased a nice property, and, among other things to contribute to his convenience and confort, procured a fine horse and a very genteel carriage. A likely colored boy was employed at a fair salary to take charge of the establishment, and discharge the numerous duties which arise around a well-regulated homestead. For a time things went on smoothly with Chores, but latterly he seemed out of spirits, and seldom smiled. His employer observed this despondent demeanor of Chores, and he determined to get at the bottom of it. Perhaps he was in love. But no matter. Taking Chores aside one day when he looked more gloomy than usual, he inquired, considerately, what it was that ailed him. "Well, you see, mars'r," began Chores, in a sort of tragic style, "you's got but one hoss, while all the gentlemen 'bout heah has two; an' all de boys dey calls me a one-hoss nigger; an' as I can't stan' dat I 'spects I'll have for to resign. I likes you fus-rate, mars'r, an' I'd like to stay if you had two hosses, but you see how it is—de boys dey can't quit hollerin' 'Dere goes dat one-hoss nigger.'" Not wishing to lose the services of so valuable an assistant, a second horse was purchased, and Chores became a two-horse nigger.

Courier pigeons are of very ancient use. In modern times the most noted were the pigeons of Aleppo, which served as couriers at Alexandretta and Bagdad. Thirty-two pigeons sent from Antwerp were liberated from London at 7 o'clock in the morning, and on the same day, at noon, one of them arrived, and the remainder on the following day, Nov. 23, 1819.

Light employment—Laboring under a mistake.

Can it be True?—Within the last few months a considerable number of persons have called upon Dr. Walker, the proprietor of the popular medicine known as Vinegar Bitters, and assured him that, in their belief, his preparation is an infallible antidote for rum and tobacco. The minute details which have been furnished him forbid him to doubt the accuracy of the statements. This new claim of a great remedy to the confidence of the public will give a vast and well-deserved impulse to its popularity. Heretofore the Bitters have been recognized as a pure vegetable tonic and corrective, devoid of alcohol, and thoroughly adapted to the cure of stomach and bowel complaints, nervous disorders, bilious affections, muscular diseases, and, indeed, a majority of the ailments within the reach of medicine; but if it will also cure the craving for liquor and tobacco, philosophers, statesmen and theologians ought to unite their voices in its praise. Can the good news be true? It is easy to test the question. 9

We find the November number of the Milwaukee Monthly a very readable one. Interesting stories and excellent editorial articles, two or three fine poems, an illustrated report of Fallan's winter fashions, containing valuable information for the ladies, and much other matter of interest to the general reader, make up the table of contents. Good as this magazine is, it is to be greatly improved. In the December number will be commenced a series of articles, illustrating Milwaukee, commencing with a picture of the city, followed by separate views of the principal business and residence streets, public buildings, churches, schools, the finest city and lake-shore residences, etc. At the same time a new serial story of unusual interest will be commenced, and the shorter stories and other papers in that and the succeeding numbers will be of the choicest character. Gotten up at great expense, the three numbers containing the Milwaukee illustrations will be sold at twenty-five cents each, but the yearly subscription price will remain the same, $1 a year, and may commence at any time and include these numbers. Address T. J. Gilmore, Milwaukee, Wis.

Ten Thousand People.—There are more than ten thousand people who expect to be the happy possessors of the first grand prize in the Kentucky Gift Concert, of $250,000. All of them but one will be disappointed. One will get it, for Governor Bramlette, the manager at Louisville, has announced that the Concert will positively take place on November 30, 1874.

Sent free, on receipt of neck and breast measure, height, weight and price, our (sample) "Model $2 Shirt." Fitted by patented model. Stylish and substantial. Address Model Shirt Co., 31 South 8th-st., Philadelphia.

Ten thousand families date their happiness to their choice of Rathbone, Sard & Co.'s cook and heating stoves.

Book agents, read the advertisement of H. L. Shepard & Co., Chicago.

The Northwestern Horse-Nail Co.'s "Finished" Nail is the best in the world.

How to Look Young—Sixteen.—Don't paint or use vile Hair Restorers, but simply apply Hagan's Magnolia Balm upon your face, neck and hands, and use Lyon's Kathairon upon your hair. The Balm makes your complexion pearly, soft and natural, and you can't tell what did it. It removes freckles, tan, sallowness, ring-marks, moth-patches, etc., and in place of a red, rustic face, you have the marble purity of an exquisite belle. It gives to middle age the bloom of perpetual youth. Add these effects to a splendid head of hair produced by the Kathairon, and a lady has done her best in way of adornment. Brothers will have no spinster sisters when these articles are around.

Dr. Dan'l Weaver, of Boston, fell down a mining shaft near Denver, 70 feet. He was terribly bruised, limbs broken, and supposed to be dead. Mexican Mustang Liniment was freely used, consciousness restored, his life saved, and he came home in eight weeks. This is the most wonderful article for Bruises, Sprains, Rheumatism, Swellings, Spavin, Ringbone, Sores, or any flesh, bone or muscle ailment upon man or beast, ever discovered. It is humanity to animals. It has saved much suffering and many useless doctors' bills. It can be had for 50 cts. and $1.00 per bottle in any drug store. But beware of counterfeits. The genuine is wrapped in a fine steel-plate label, signed "G. W. Westbrook, Chemist."

The People's Stamp of Value.—The government indorsement, which legalizes the sale of Plantation Bitters, is not the only stamp affixed to that famous Vegetable Tonic. It bears, in addition to that official sanction, the still more valuable stamp of public approbation. This inestimable voucher of its rare properties as a Tonic, Corrective and Alterative is world wide.

The Markets.

NEW YORK.

Beeves	8 @	13½
Hogs—Dressed	8½ @	8¾
Cotton	14½ @	14¾
Flour—Superfine Western	4 00 @	4 50
Wheat—No. 2 Chicago	1 05 @	1 07
No. 1 Spring	1 15 @	1 25
Corn	91½ @	92
Oats	65 @	61½
Rye	92 @	95
Pork—New Mess	19 50 @	19 75
Lard—Steam	14½ @	15

CHICAGO.

Beeves—Choice Graded Steers	6 10 @	6 70
Choice Natives	5 60 @	6 00
Good to Prime Steers	4 75 @	5 25
Cows and Heifers	2 25 @	3 75
Medium to Fair	4 00 @	4 50
Inferior to Common	1 75 @	2 00
Hogs—Live	5 75 @	7 00
Flour—Fancy White Winter	5 75 @	6 25
Red Winter	5 00 @	5 50
Wheat—No. 1 Spring	90 @	90½
No. 2 Spring	85 @	85½
No. 3 Spring	80 @	81½
Corn—No. 2	74 @	74½
Oats—No. 2	47½ @	47¾
Rye—No. 2	84½ @	87
Barley—No. 2	1 20 @	1 21
Butter—Fancy	31 @	38
Eggs—Fresh	22 @	24
Pork—Mess	18 00 @	18 25
Lard	12½ @	13

ST. LOUIS.

Wheat—No. 2 Red	1 04 @	1 05
Corn—No. 2 New	69 @	70
Oats—No. 2	53 @	54
Rye—No. 2	86 @	87
Pork—Mess	19 25 @	19 50
Lard	12½ @	13
Hogs	6 00 @	6 75
Cattle	2 50 @	4 00

MILWAUKEE.

Wheat—No. 1	96 @	97
No. 2	87 @	87½
Corn—No. 2	77 @	79
Oats—No. 2	46 @	48
Rye	89 @	91
Barley—No. 2	1 18 @	1 21

CINCINNATI.

Wheat—Red	1 03 @	1 07
Corn—New	62 @	64
Oats	53 @	56
Rye	92 @	94
Pork—Mess	19 00 @	19 50
Lard	12½ @	13

TOLEDO.

Wheat—No. 1 Red	1 09 @	1 11
Amber Michigan	1 06 @	1 08
Corn—New	67 @	63
Oats	55 @	63

DETROIT.

Wheat—Extra	1 18 @	1 19
Amber	1 06 @	1 08
Corn	78 @	80
Oats	50 @	53

CLEVELAND.

Wheat—No. 1 Red	1 08 @	1 09
No. 2 Red	1 02 @	1 04
Corn	65 @	66
Oats	52 @	55

The Great Favorite!—The popular Chill Cure of the age!! Composed of pure and simple drugs, Wilhoft's Tonic has long held the highest place in the long line of remedies for Chills and Fever. It is not only Anti-Periodic but is Anti-Panic, for it curtails the heavy expense of doctors' visits, where friendly calls are all itemized in the account current. A penny saved is a penny gained, and saving it in this way adds to health and comfort. Try Wilhoft's Tonic as a certainty, and you will never regret it. Wheelock, Finlay & Co., Proprietors, New Orleans. For sale by all druggists.

The most stylish collar that is worn now is the Improved Warwick. It fits better than any other on a low-cut shirt, all the edges being folded, and the surface looking so much like linen. We recommend all to try it. Ask your gents' furnisher for the Improved Warwick.

$7 A DAY. Particulars free. Agents send for circular. H. L. SHEPARD & CO., Chicago.

$5 to $20 per day at home. Terms free. Address Geo. Stinson & Co., Portland, Maine.

$72 Each Week. Agents wanted. Particulars free. WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

AGENTS WANTED—Men or Women. $34 a week or $100 forfeited. The secret free. Write at once to COWEN & CO., 8th St., New York.

CHALLEN'S DIME ALADDIN, OR THE WONDERFUL LAMP, will delight every boy. Ask your Newsdealer for it, or to order it.

10 Beautiful Transfer Pictures, instructions & catalogue, Birds, easily transferred. 5 Gem Chromos 10 cts. Agents wanted. J. L. PATTEN & CO., 11 Pine St., N.Y.

$25 PER DAY Commission or $30 a week Salary and expenses. We offer it and will pay it. Apply now. G. Webber & Co., Marion, O.

ADVERTISERS! Send 25 cents to GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., 41 Park Row, New York, for their Pamphlet of 100 pages, containing lists of 3000 newspapers and estimates showing cost of advertising.

Subscription Books Choice and elegantly illustrated. Great Inducements to Agents. For terms and circulars, address NEW WORLD PUBLISHING CO., Phila.

PAPER PAILS. JENNINGS BROS., manufacturers of the Japanese Paper Ware, 352 Pearl St., New York city. Trade supplied with Spittoons, Bowls, Basins, Slop Jars, Trays, &c.

$1,000 PER WEEK CAN BE MADE by any smart man who can keep his business to himself. Address D. F. HERMANN, Hoboken, New Jersey.

THE QUEER. Best Comic Paper, 50 cts. a year, and that charming colored Picture, 13x18, free. Specimens 3 cts. Presto Change, best Puzzle, 10 cts. Agents wanted. Add's THE QUEER, Wiscoy, Minn.

FREE. THE TOLEDO Weekly BLADE (NASBY'S PAPER) will be enlarged to 72 columns in December, making it the largest and best paper in the world. Specimen copies sent free to any address. Send for one and examine it. Address LOCKE & JONES, Toledo, Ohio.

£250.000.000 STERLING awaiting claimants. A large list of names of persons advertised for to claim Money, and Estates due them. Any person having a claim against an estate, either in this or foreign countries, and desiring financial or legal aid to obtain the same, will find reliable and experienced assistance and all necessary information by addressing FOREIGN CLAIM AGENCY, P. O. Box 436, Chicago, Ill.

STEINWAY
Grand, Square and Upright Pianos,
Superior to all others. Every Piano Warranted for Five Years. Illustrated Catalogues, with Price List, mailed free on application.
STEINWAY & SONS,
Nos. 107, 109 & 111 East 14th Street, New York.

Save Doctors' Bills By subscribing for the Science of Health, a First-Class Monthly, which teaches How to Preserve Health and How to Restore It, by natures Remedies. $2 a year, 20 cents a No. Three Months "On Trial" for 25 cents. Agents can do well. Cash Commissions and great Premiums. Sewing Machines at Wholesale Prices. Send stamp for Circulars. S. R. WELLS & CO., 389 Broadway, N.Y.

WE WANT AGENTS AGENTS AGENTS AGENTS AGENTS FOR OUR Adjustable Threshold in every town and city in the United States. It sells well and is just what every house needs. It is the only invention in the world that will positively prevent rain, cold, snow and dust from coming under door bottoms. Carpenters make lots of money handling it. Send at once for our circular. WILSON, PEIRCE & Co., Sole Manufacturers, 182 Clark St., Chicago.

SAFE
S. H. HARRIS THE BEST
MANUFACTORY AND SALESROOM,
23 & 25 RANDOLPH ST., CHICAGO

WANTED AGENTS $10 PER DAY. To sell the HOME SHUTTLE SEWING MACHINE. Price $25. Reader!! you can make money selling the "HOME SHUTTLE," whether you are EXPERIENCED in the business or not. If you wish to buy a SEWING MACHINE for family use, our circulars will show you how to save money. Address JOHNSON, CLARK & Co., CHICAGO, ILL.

DUNHAM PIANOS.
Dunham & Sons, Manufacturers,
Warerooms, 18 East 14th Street,
[Established 1834.] NEW YORK.
Send for Illustrated Circular and Price List.

EVERY HOUSEHOLD CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH A BEAUTIFUL ILLUMINATING GAS BY THE KEYSTONE SAFETY GAS MACHINE. IT IS SIMPLE IN CONSTRUCTION, SAFE IN OPERATION, AND CERTAIN IN RESULTS. FOR VILLAGES, CHURCHES, RURAL HOMES, INSTITUTIONS, ETC., THE KEYSTONE APPARATUS AFFORDS THE MOST PERFECT MEANS OF ILLUMINATION YET DISCOVERED. PAMPHLETS AND FULL INFORMATION ON APPLICATION. KEYSTONE SAFETY GAS MACHINE CO.; J. B. WILSON, PRES., C. H. BAKER, SEC.; 727 SANSOM ST., PHILADELPHIA; 110 LIBERTY ST., NEW YORK

FOR NEARLY THIRTY YEARS THE RICHMOND PRINTS have been held in high esteem by those who use a Calico. They are produced in all the novelties of changing fashions, and in conservative styles suited to the wants of many persons. Among the latter are the "Standard Gray Styles," proper for the house or street—beautiful in designs and pleasing in coloring. "CHOCOLATE STANDARD STYLES," in great variety, and widely known as most serviceable prints. Nothing better for daily wear. These goods bear tickets as quoted above. Your retailer should have them, and your examination and approval will coincide.

BECKWITH $20.
Portable Family Sewing Machine,
ON
30 DAYS' TRIAL.
We will send to any address, C. O. D., one of our machines with privilege of examination before taking out of Express office; and if it does not give satisfaction we will refund the money, less Express charges, on return of machine within the time specified.
Beckwith Sewing Machine Co.
New York: 862 Broadway.
Chicago: 231 Wabash Ave.

VINEGAR BITTERS
PURELY VEGETABLE FREE FROM ALCOHOL
DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
VINEGAR BITTERS

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of Vinegar Bitters?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of Vinegar Bitters in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of Dr. Walker's Vinegar Bitters are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

Grateful Thousands proclaim Vinegar Bitters the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J. Walker's Vinegar Bitters, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with Vinegar Bitters. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, Walker's Vinegar Bitters have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of Walker's Vinegar Bitters occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

R. H. McDONALD & CO.,
Druggists and Gen. Agts., San Francisco, California, and cor. of Washington and Charlton Sts., N. Y.
Sold by all Druggists and Dealers.

ADVERTISERS. The American Newspaper Union numbers over 1,800 papers, separated into seven subdivisions. For separate lists and cost of advertising, address S. P. SANBORN, 114 Monroe St., Chicago.

A GIFT WORTHY OF A ROTHSCHILD is Brown's Shakespearian Almanac for 1875. It fairly glows with quotations and illustrations from the "Bard of Avon," and from top to toe is man's life illustrated. I shall print four million copies or more, and being desirous of making the distribution of them as rapid as possible, I will send ten or fifteen copies free, prepaid, to any one who will judiciously dispose of them in their locality. Address DR. O. PHELPS BROWN, No. 21 Grand St., Jersey City, N. J.

BOOK AGENTS get best selling book and best terms. Everybody's Own Physician, or how to acquire and preserve health, by C. W. Gleason, M. D. 250 engravings 656 pages. Royal octavo, Gilt. Send for circulars Co-operative Bible & Pub. Co., Muscatine, Iowa.

GODEY'S LADY'S BOOK
Offers to and will give to every Subscriber whether single or in a club, who pays in Advance for 1875, and remits directly to this office,
A copy of "THE RESCUE,"
The Handsomest Chromo ever offered. For circular containing terms, etc., address L. A. GODEY, N. E. Cor. Sixth & Chestnut-sts., Philadelphia, Pa.

This PATENT CABINET or LETTER FILE is useful to every business man, to keep BILLS, LETTERS or PAPERS always clean and in alphabetical order; holds 4,000 Letters, can be used on a desk or hung to the wall. We prepay Express charges. Send for circular and price list with 1,000 references.
Address C. A. COOK & CO., Chicago, Ill.

HOG RINGER.
15,000,000 Rings,
70,000 Ringers,
3,500 Tongs Sold.
Hardware Dealers Sell Them.
Ringer $1, Rings per 100 50cts., Tongs $1.25, by mail, post paid. Circulars free. Address
H. W. HILL & Co. Decatur, Ill.

WONDERFUL CURES BY THE WAUKESHA
Mineral Rock Spring Water for
Diabetes,
And all diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs. The increase of this disease is becoming more apparent every day; but thanks to a kind Providence for the timely discovery of this healing water. It is unsurpassed in the known world. For information giving description of the above diseases, the "Geology of Waukesha," by Prof. I. A. Lapham, State Geologist, how the medicinal properties of this water are formed. Send for a pamphlet published by
C. C. OLIN & CO., Proprietors, Waukesha, Wis.
Agents Wanted. Price of water, $12 a bbl., $7 half bbl., 50 cts a gal., in jugs or cans. Jugs and cans extra only.

NO POSTPONEMENT!
GRAND MUSICAL JUBILEE AND GIFT CONCERT,
AT SIOUX CITY, IOWA,
Positively Thursday, Nov. 26th, 1874.
$100,000 IN CASH
And Valuable Real Estate
will be distributed among the ticket holders. Only 25,000 tickets will be issued—a large portion of these already sold. People's Scheme. Net profits to go to Chamber of Commerce, Fire and Militia Companies, and the Public Library of Sioux City. Single Tickets, $3; Two for $5. Reliable agents wanted. Liberal commissions allowed. Send for tickets, terms or circulars to H. HATTENBACH & CO., Sioux City, Iowa.

ANOTHER CHANCE.
FIFTH AND LAST GIFT CONCERT
IN AID OF THE
Public Library of Kentucky.
POSTPONED TO
NOVEMBER 30, 1874.
Drawing Certain at that Date.

LIST OF GIFTS.

One Grand Cash Gift		$250,000
One Grand Cash Gift		100,000
One Grand Cash Gift		75,000
One Grand Cash Gift		50,000
One Grand Cash Gift		25,000
5 Cash Gifts,	$20,000 each	100,000
10 Cash Gifts,	14,000 each	140,000
15 Cash Gifts,	10,000 each	150,000
20 Cash Gifts,	5,000 each	100,000
25 Cash Gifts,	4,000 each	100,000
30 Cash Gifts,	3,000 each	90,000
50 Cash Gifts,	2,000 each	100,000
100 Cash Gifts,	1,000 each	100,000
240 Cash Gifts,	500 each	120,000
500 Cash Gifts,	100 each	50,000
19,000 Cash Gifts,	50 each	950,000

Grand total 20 000 Gifts, all cash. $2,500,000

PRICE OF TICKETS.

Whole Tickets	$50.00
Halves	25.00
Tenth, or each Coupon	5.00
11 Whole Tickets for	500.00
22½ Tickets for	1,000.00

For Tickets and information, address
THO. E. BRAMLETTE,
Agent and Manager,
Public Library Building, Louisville, Ky.

MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS.
Winners of THREE HIGHEST MEDALS AND DIPLOMA OF HONOR at VIENNA, 1873, PARIS, 1867, and in AMERICA ALWAYS. Declared by MUSICIANS GENERALLY to be UNRIVALED and INCOMPARABLE. Sold at fixed uniform prices to all, which are printed and invariable.
PURCHASERS OF ORGANS ARE REMINDED that the temptation to Dealers and Peddlers is very strong to deal in and recommend as best the organs of those makers who will pay them the largest commissions or discounts for selling.
The MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., printing as they do their lowest prices, can afford to dealers only the smallest commissions. This plan secures to every purchaser the lowest price, because the dealer cannot ask more than the Catalogue price; but it causes many dealers to do their best to sell other organs, simply because they get enormous discounts on them. Some organs are currently sold to dealers at seventy-five per cent. discount, or at one-quarter the prices printed for them. As a rule, the poorer the organ the higher its printed price and the greater the discount on it.
The MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO. are now offering new styles, with important improvements; and are selling not only for cash exclusively, but also on new plans of easy payments, running through one year or longer. They also rent new Organs with privilege of purchase. Rent paid three years, purchases the Organ.
Send for the Illustrated Catalogues and Circulars, which give very full information, and are sent free. Address THE MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., at either New York, Boston, or Chicago.

JUST THE BOOK MONEY IN IT SURE! Just out. Useful, Handsome, Cheap. Sells everywhere. Send for prospectus to E. C. BRIDGMAN, 5 Barclay St., N. Y., or 119 West 4th St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

OUR NEW "LADIES' FRIEND" contains 7 articles needed by every Lady—Patent Spool Holder, Scissors, Thimble, &c.—guaranteed worth $1.50. Sample Box, by mail, 50 cents. Agents wanted. PLUMB & CO., 106 S. 8th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

OPIUM MORPHINE HABIT speedily cured by Dr. Beck's only known & sure Remedy. NO CHARGE for treatment until cured. Call on or address DR. J. C. BECK, Cincinnati, O.

REVERSE YOUR PLAN! Leave off purgatives and violent medicines that prostrate the vital powers, and for a BLOOD Purifier, try HAMILTON'S Buchu & Dandelion which acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, and removes impurities of the system, by opening its outlets. Kress Manufacturing Co., Cincinnati, O.

OPEN THE SEWERS!! When the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels do not act healthfully, the wastes from the action of the system remain in the blood, and produce irritation and disease. These organs are the outlets of the system and under the influence of Hamilton's Buchu and Dandelion, are kept in good running order. Kress Manufacturing Co., Cincinnati, O.

MARRIAGE GUIDE An interesting illustrated work of 260 pages, containing valuable information for those who are married or contemplate marriage. Price 50 cts. by mail. Address Dr. Butts' Dispensary, 12 North Eighth Street, St. Louis, Mo.

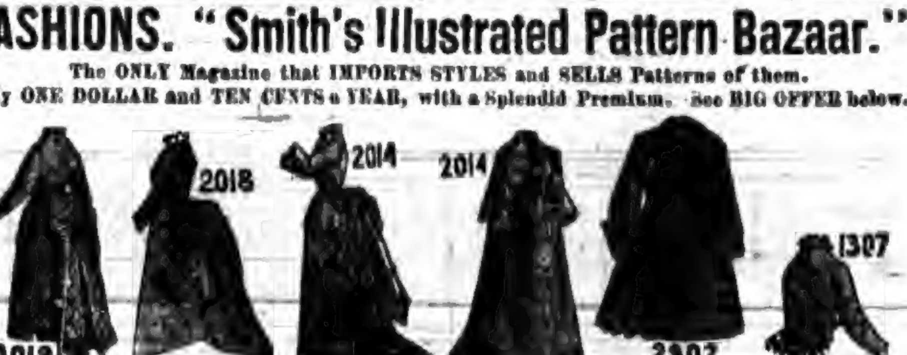
DR. A. G. OLIN HAPPY RELIEF. Don't despair! Read the cream of medical literature! Thirty years among the afflicted; thousands saved from an early grave; lost vitality; nervous weakness; who may marry; why not; lost memory; impaired health. Thirty lectures delivered at Chicago Medical Institute, price 50 cts. Consultation free. Cures guaranteed. Address or call on Dr. A. G. OLIN, 167 Washington-st., Chicago, Ill. Pleasant home for patients. All correspondence confidential.

DR. WHITTIER,
No. 617 St. Charles Street, St. Louis, Mo.,
continues to treat all cases of obstacles to marriage, blood impurities, every ailment or sickness which results from indiscretion or imprudence, with unparalleled success. Dr. W.'s establishment is chartered by the State of Missouri, was founded and has been established to secure safe, certain and reliable relief. Being a graduate of several medical colleges, and having the experience of a long and successful life in his specialties, he has perfected remedies that are effectual in all these cases. His patients are being treated by mail or express everywhere. No matter who failed, call or write. From the great number of applications he is enabled to keep his charges low. 36 pages, giving full symptoms, for two stamps.
MARRIAGE GUIDE,
260 pages, a popular book which should be read by everybody. No married pair, or persons contemplating marriage, can afford to do without it. It contains the cream of medical literature on this subject, the results of Dr. W.'s long experience; also the best thoughts from late works in Europe and America. Sent sealed, post-paid for 50 cts.

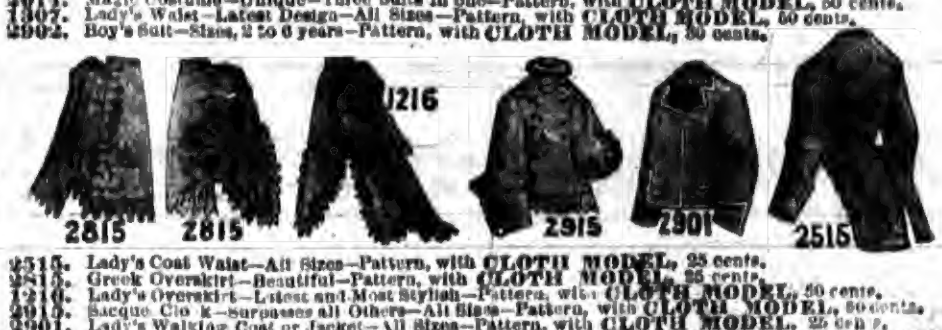
C. N. U. No. 46

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS, please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

FASHIONS. "Smith's Illustrated Pattern Bazaar."
The ONLY Magazine that IMPORTS STYLES and SELLS Patterns of them.
Only ONE DOLLAR and TEN CENTS a YEAR, with a Splendid Premium. See BIG OFFER below.



DESCRIPTION OF THESE ENGRAVINGS.
3019. Polonaise—Very Latest—Stylish—All Sizes—Price of Pattern, with CLOTH MODEL, $1.00.
2018. Polonaise—All Sizes—Pattern, with CLOTH MODEL, 50 cents.
2014. Magic Costume—Unique—Three Suits in one—Pattern, with CLOTH MODEL, 50 cents.
1307. Lady's Waist—Latest Design—All Sizes—Pattern, with CLOTH MODEL, 50 cents.
2902. Boy's Suit—Sizes, 2 to 6 years—Pattern, with CLOTH MODEL, 30 cents.



2515. Lady's Coat Waist—All Sizes—Pattern, with CLOTH MODEL, 25 cents.
2815. Greek Overskirt—Beautiful—Pattern, with CLOTH MODEL, 25 cents.
1216. Lady's Overskirt—Latest and Most Stylish—Pattern, with CLOTH MODEL, 30 cents.
2915. Sacque Cloak—Surpasses all Others—All Sizes—Pattern, with CLOTH MODEL, 30 cents.
2901. Lady's Walking Coat or Jacket—All Sizes—Pattern, with CLOTH MODEL, 25 cents.
We give a perfect CLOTH MODEL with every pattern, which shows just how to put the garment together, after being cut by the pattern. They are PERFECT GUIDES.

Any Pattern on this page mailed upon receipt of marked price.

Smith's "Instant Dress Elevator."

THIS CUT shows how beautifully a LONG Skirt is changed into a Straight Front Walking Dress by the Instant Elevator. You can raise your skirt while passing a muddy place, and then let it fall, or you can keep it raised. It keeps the skirt from the Filth. IT LOOPS the skirt in a TASTEFUL and FASHIONABLE MANNER. It saves more than TEN TIMES ITS COST, besides being CONVENIENT, Neat, and GRACEFUL. It can be changed from ONE DRESS to ANOTHER in LESS than TWO MINUTES. YOU NEED BUT ONE FOR A DOZEN DRESSES. Price, 35 cents each.

WHOLESALE For $2 worth of Patterns at the marked price send $1.50. For $3 worth send $2.25. For $4 worth send $3. The person who sends $3 for $4 worth of patterns, will be entitled to the Bazaar for one year FREE, without premiums.

SUBSCRIBE NOW FOR
Smith's Illustrated Pattern Bazaar,
Only One Dollar and Ten Cents a Year,
And a splendid PREMIUM to each Subscriber FREE!

Any TWO of the above patterns and Smith's Instant Dress Elevator will be mailed FREE, as Premium, OR ONE Dollars' worth of Patterns FREE, to be selected after you receive your Magazine; OR one of the following beautiful OIL CHROMOS—"EASTER HOLIDAY," OR "LITTLE SISTERS," OR "MARY AND HER PET LAMB," OR the "MATRON," OR "UNWELCOME VISITOR." These Chromos are widely known, and SELL READILY for from $5 to $6 each, being considered the finest pictures in the chromo art.

GET UP A CLUB!
We will give one Chromo extra to the person who sends us three subscribers ($3.30 and nine stamps for postage on Chromos and rollers) at one time.
We will give two Chromos extra for five subscribers. We will give three Chromos extra for seven subscribers. We will give four Chromos extra for eight subscribers. Each Subscriber must send three stamps to pay return postage on Chromo and for rollers.

MAKE MONEY WE GIVE AWAY $1,350.00 in Gold Coin to 50 PERSONS who get up the largest club for the Bazaar between NOW and First of FEBRUARY. The person who gets up the LARGEST CLUB will get $170.00 in gold coin, AND a PREMIUM on EVERY SUBSCRIBER SENT IN. Next largest, $125.00 in gold coin, etc., etc. We gave $1,000 in gold on last BAZAAR, to 30 persons, whose names and addresses will be found in this BAZAAR, with the number that each one sent. Get a copy and see. Sample copy mailed for 25 cents. "Smiths' Instruction Book," or "Secrets of Dress-making, 10 cents. Catalogue mailed for one Stamp.
Address, very plain,
P. O. BOX 5055.
A. BURDETTE SMITH,
914 Broadway, New York City.

Duty of Democrats.

The Hon. M. C. Kerr, congressman from the 3d District, has written a letter to a prominent citizen of Fort Wayne, containing some excellent advice to the Democratic party. By promission of the gentleman, we are enabled to present our readers with an extract, Mr. Kerr says:

I most heartily agree with you that much of the future honor and success of the Democratic party in our state depends upon the action of the representatives in the General Assembly.—If they work up in good faith to the best democratic sentiment of the state in their public acts and legislation, then we may hope for a popular endorsement in '76. If not, then we will simply become more effective allies of the radical leaders for our defeat. If we would retain and strengthen victory we must deserve it. We ought to tolerate no shuffling, no unholy combinations to gratify cupidity, no law making in the interests of classes to the prejudice of others, and no dodging on the questions and pledges that were distinctly before the people in the campaign. If our members will in a spirit of straightforward faith and courage, legislate in the interests of reform, economy and morality, our pathway will be clear and safe. Hoping to meet you at the time indicated

I am very truly your friend.

M. C. Kerr.

One Hundred Florins for a Hair.

On Tuesday of last week a young and poorly clad girl entered a barber's shop in Vienna and told the proprietor that he must buy her head. The friseur examined her long, glossy, chestnut locks, and began to bargain. He give her 18, and no more. Hair was plentiful this year, the price had fallen. With tears, and she hesitated a moment while threading her fingers through her chestnut locks. She finely threw herself into a chair. "In God's name she gasped, take it quickly." The barber, satisfied with his bargain, was about to clip in with his shears, when a gentleman who sat half shaved looking on told him to stop. "My child," said he, "why do you want to sell your beautiful hair?" "My mother has been nearly five months ill; I can't work enough to support us; everything has been sold or pawned, and there is not a penny in the house, (und kein kreutzer im haus). "No my child," said the stranger, "if that is the case I will buy it." He gave the poor girl the note, the sight of which has dried her tears, and took up the barber's shears. Taking the locks in his hand, he took the longest cut it off alone, and put it carefully in his pocket book, thus paying one hundred florins for a single hair. He took the poor girl's address, in case he should want to buy another at the same rate. This charitable man is only designated as the chief of a great industrial enterprise within the city.

The Great Cause of

HUMAN MISERY

Just Published in a Sealed Envelope. Price 6 cts

A LECTURE on the nature, treatment and radical cure of Seminal Weakness, or Spermaterrhoea, introduced by self abuse. Involuntary Emissions. Impotency, Nervous Debility and fits; Mental and Physical Incapacity, &c—by Robt J. Culverwell, M. D. author of the 'Green Book,' &c.

The world renowned author, in this admirable Lecture, clearly proves from his own experience that the awful consequences of self abuse may be cured without medicine, and without dangerous surgical operations; pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radical.

☞ This lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands. Sent, under seal, to a plain envelope to any address, on receipt of 6 cents, or two postage stamps. Address

CHAS. J. C. KLINE & CO.,
127 Bowery, N. Y. Post Office Box 4586

THE

Eagle Mills!

Having been recently refitted and improved, is now in excellent running order. Having employed one of the best millers in the country, I can now guarantee satisfaction. Prompt attention given to Custom Work.

FLOUR, BRAN, MILL FEED, ETC.,

on hand at low prices.

L. BOWERS.

IS COMING.

Therefore buy your

Dry Goods,

Notions, etc., of

CHARLES KLOTZ

AT HIS

Old Stand

ON MAN STREET,

Opposite Court Square

AUBURN, INDIANA

Where he may be found at all times ready to accommodate customers, and sell them such goods as they may need,

---

CLOTHING

Of all descriptions, and

HANDSOME SUITS

Made to Order!

GREATLY IMPROVED.

ELLSWORTH, ANDREW & CO.,

SUCCESSORS TO

JOHN MAC DOUGAL,

DEALERS IN

CARPETS,

Oil Cloths,

Curtains & Fixtr's

26 East Berry street.

Fort Wayne, Ind.

The Best and Cheapest place to by Carpets in the city.

Pittsburg, Baltimore & Ohio R.R

S. C. EVANS, Pres't, C. M. DAWSON, Chash'r

MERCHANTS

National Bank!

FORT WAYNE, IND.

Capital and Surplus $112.000

Receives Deposits, Discounts Busidess Paper, ssues Letters of Credit, and Collects at all points at the lowest rates of exchange.

Directors:

S. CARY EVANS, R. C. ROBERTSON,
H. C. HANNA, N. P. STOCKBRIDGE
A. C. DAWSON.

Organized 1865. April 9, '74

AUBURN LIVERY

—AND—

SALE STABLE!

Ryan & Mader, pro's

Having on hand everything in the line of

Carriages, Buggies, Wagons, &c

they are prepared to furnish rigs at all times at reasonable prices. Office at Auburn House.

The Auburn

WAGONS

Made from the Best Materials,

And constructed with all the late improvements—The new and extensive

WAGON SHOPS

—OF—

J. W. SHAFFER

South Main Street

are now in full running order and all orders for

WAGONS, BUGGIES, &c.

promptly attended to. Special care taken in getting the best Seasoned Timber. Our prices are very reasonable and we solicit the public to give us a call and ascertain our prices.

THE NEW

Drug Store!

FRESH DRUGS,

Medicines, Chemicals, Spices,

Dyes,
Combs,
Brushes,
Perfumery,
Proprietory Articles
Fancy Goods, &c., &c

....

Wines and Liquors!

For Medical purposes only.

Stock New, prices to suit the times at the

NEW DRUG STORE,

Wood's old Stand!

Seventh St. Auburn, Ind.

Littlefield Bros.

Physicians prescriptions desperssd from pure medicines, day and night.

V. A. BEARD

Oldest Grocer in Auburn, North of Court House on Seventh Street,

DEALER IN

GROCERIES and PROVISIONS

TEAS, COFFEES, SUGGARS, SALT FISH.

Flour and Feed, Tubs Pails, Buckets, Sugars Boxes, Etc. A large variety of

TOBACCOS AND CIGARS,

Confectioneries of all kinds, and Fancy Notions, Cove Oysters, &c. A speciality in Green and Dried Fruits and Canned Fruits. Goods delivered inside the coporation.

DRY GOODS

—o—o—o—

GEO. DeWALD & CO.

—o—

WHEN LOOKING FOR BARGAINS

—IN—

Dry Goods or Notions,

CALL AT THE STORE OF

Geo. DeWald & Co

No 107 Columbia St., Ft. WYNE,

Where can be found a large assortment of

STAPLE AND FANCY GOODS

which will be sold LOW for cash.

ASK FOR THE "HATTIE" CORSET

The best thing in the market, is made glove-fitting, and of the best material, and in order to introduce, we are offering

ONE DOLLAR

THIS IS A BARGAIN!!

T. B. TOTTEN

DEALER IN

Hats, Caps,

AND GENTS'

Furnshing Goods!

Ladies' and Gents' HAND VALISES

MODERWELL & FOWLER'S FINE SHIRTS

Made to Order.

Paper and Envelopes, Choice CIGARS & TOBACCO

Also a specialty in Jas. Harper & Co's.

SILK HATS,

and old styles made new as ever

BY CALLING ON T. B. TOTTEN.

In Hebel's Corner

Auburn Bakery!

AND

EATING HOUSE

BAKER BROS.

PROPRIETORS OF

Fresh baked Pies, Cakes etc, always on hand. Good lunches served at all hours.

BAKER BROS.

A NEW STORE!

With an entire stock of

NEW GOODS!

BOOTS & SHOES

at the lowest PRICES.

J. E. WOODFORD,

has located at Auburn with a fine new stock of BOOTS & SHOES, which will be sold at the lowest figures for

CASH ONLY

Call and examine this bran new stock, as there are no old goods that have been on the shelf for years. Store on Main street opposite Fluke's residence, Auburn, Ind.

J. J. VanAuken,

COUNTY SURVEYOR

Will attend promptly to all surveying. Office with Rose & Hartman, Auburn Indiana. Persons requesting work by letter, should give township andsection.

A CARD.

A Clergyman, while residing in South America, as missionary, discovered a safe and simple remedy for the cure of Nervous Weakness, Early Decay, Disease of the Urinary and Seminal Organs, and the train of disorders brought on by baneful and vicious habits. Great numbers have been cured by this noble remedy. Prompted by a desire to benefit the afflicted and unfortunate, I will send the receipt for preparing and using this medicine, in a sealed envelope, to any one who needs it, Free of Charge. Address,

JOSEPH T. INMAN,
Station D Bible House, New York City

FALL AND WINTER

CLOTHING!

S. Laufeerty

FURNISHING STORE!

You will find the best selected stock and at prices that defy competition. You can get a nice suit of Sam. from

$6 UPWARDS!

I also keep on hand nice fine stock of Woolen and White

SHIRTS!

which will be sold at prices as low as any other place, Ft Wayne not excluded. You find the best assortment which you can get at my store for less than you are aware of as I can say what the most of my competers cannot, as I am now engaged in all the above line of goods for the last 20 years I have paid a good tuition which others will have to pay yet, and this will be the best assurance that S. Lauferty can sell you his line of goods for less than any other house around or about. I also keep in connection with the above, a fine and well selected stock of Plain and Fancy French English, German and Domestic

Hats & Caps!

Cassimeres

Broad Cloth and Vestings. have also engaged one of the bes Tailors west of New York or east of Chicago. All I ask is to come and examine my stock and prices andI will assure you will buy of me and go home well pleased and satisfied. I sell now strictly for Cash. S. Lauferty.

Sutermeister,

Becker & Bond,

ARCHITECTS

BUILDING

CONTRACTORS,

AND DEALERS IN

Building Stone

AMERICAN AND

ITALIAN MARBE,

GRANITE.
TOOMBSTONES,
MONUMENTS,
MANTELS,
GRATES, &C.,

Corner Main and Fulton Streets,
Fort Wayne, Ind.

BOOTS AND SHOES

Marked Down!

To compare with hard times. Just look at our prices and see if you cant save 25 to 50 cents on every Dollar

Men's waxed kip boots	$3 00
Boys' " "	2 25
Rouths' " "	1 75
Mens' stoga kip boots, warranted,	3 50
Boys " " "	2 50
Youths. " " "	2 00
Mens' western kip boots, hand made,	4 00
Boys " " " "	2 75
Yoths' " " " "	2 25
Mens' fine kip boots, hand made	4 50
Mens' genuine French kip boots hand made	5 00
Womens' calf shoes	1 75 to $2 50
Ladies lasting or serve polish	1 25 to 2 25
Ladies calf sewed shoes	2 50
Childrens shoes in large variety from	20 to 1 25
Mens first class rubber boots top role	3 75

Rubber BOOTS and SHOES of every desscription always on hand at the lowest prices. Mens' wool and Buffalo lined boots and shoes cheaper than ever. All goods sold

FOR CASH.

Mens' Wool Line, good,

BOOTS AND SHOES,

in great variety which will be sold cheaper than ever. Our Motto is quick Sales, Small Profits, and Ready Pay. Don't fail to call and examine our stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere as we are satisfied it is money in your pockets.

North of Court House,

Odd Fellows' Building

AUBURN, INDIANA.

Dr. King's New Discovery!

FOR CONSUMPTION!

DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY
DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY

THE GREATEST

DISCOVERY OF THE AGE.

THE ONLY SURE CURE FOR

CONSUMPTION

Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, and all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs!

THIS IS THE ONLY REMEDY

of the kind sold under a Positive Guarantee.—All persons suffering with any of the diseases for which this Wonderful Remedy!!

is recommended, are requested to call at

F. E. Davenport & Co.

DRUG STORE, AUBURN, IND.

and get a sample bottle free of charge, which will convince the most skeptical of its really extraordinary merits, and show you what a regular One Dollar size bottle will do. April 16

W. and E. STEVENS,

Carriage & Buggy Builders

Fort Wayne, Indiana.

The public is respecfully requested to examine our stock of

CARRIAGES, BUGGIES, PHAETONS, &C., &C.

We keep constantly on hand a large assortment of work ready for the road. We

WARRANT OUR WORK

and guarantee to give entire satisfaction. Prices as low as any other House in the trade.

Manufactory on Clay-st, east end of Main

Auditor's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY AND TO THE COLLECTION OF LOCAL AND GENERAL NEWS

Vol. 4. Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, November 26, 1874. No. 48.

ROSE & HARTMAN
LAW, ABSTRACT AND COLLECTION OFFICE!

All legal business promptly attended to in DeKalb and adjoining counties. Have the only

ABSTRACT OF TITLE

to REAL ESTATE in the county. They contain Deeds and Mortgages made before the organization of the county and not on the county records, as well as all those made and recorded since. Written abstracts and opinions of title furnished. No one should invest in land without examining the Title.

OFFICE OPP. SWINEFORD HOUSE
S. W. Cor. Public Square, AUBURN, INDIANA.

The Auburn Weekly Courier

Published every Thursday, by
TOM. C. MAYS.

One Year, ...$2. | Six Months, ...$1.

Advertising Rates.

	1m.	3m.	6 m.	1 y.
One Square	2 50	5 00	7 00	12 00
¼ Column	6 00	12 00	18 00	30 00
½ Column	10 00	18 00	30 00	50 00
1 Column	15 00	30 00	50 00	100 00

Local Notices 10 cents per line, first insertion; 5 cents each insertion thereafter. Business Cards 8 dollars.

Business Cards.

AMERICAN HOUSE,
AT FORT WAYNE, only $2 a day. Good accommodations for traveling men.
C. B. OAKLEY, Prop'r.

DR. J. A. COWAN,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office on Main street, over Central Grocery.

Joseph H. Stophlet.
ARCHITECT. Office over No. 17 Court street 1st door north of Empire Line office, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Drawings and specifications furnished for all classes of buildings, at reasonable rates.

GUY PLUM,
ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office in the Court House. Special attention paid to the collection of claims. Also agent for Home Insurance Company.

Medical Society.
OF DeKALB COUNTY, meets at Auburn, Ind., the 2nd Tuesday in each month.
J. H. FORD, Pres't.
J. A. COWAN, Sec'y.

J. W. RICKEL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW and Notary Public, Auburn, Ind. Office in the Court House.

A. F. PINCHIN,
ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public, Butler, DeKalb Co., Ind. Insurance and real estate business promptly attended to.

H. C. PETERSON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office over Davis' hardware store, Auburn, Ind.

SWINEFORD HOUSE.
CORNER MAIN AND NINTH STREETS, opposite the Court House. S. C. SWINEFORD, Pro.

J. J. LITTLEFIELD,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. Office over Miller and Casebeer's Store, Auburn, Indiana.

DRS. SEBRING & GRAHAM.
PARTNERS in the practice of Medicine. Office in Shaffer's brick building, second story, Main street, Auburn, Ind.

G. H. K. MOSS. F. V. HOFFMAN
MOSS and HOFFMAN,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW and Notaries Public Butler, Ind. Special attention given to collections. Also buy and sell Real Estate.

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office first door to right, Masonic Hall, over the Shoe Store of Sprott & Son.

PENFIELD and MOODY,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana.

R. M. and W. C. LOCKHART,
DEALERS IN LUMBER of every description, Waterloo City, Ind. We buy and ship Lumber at the going cash rates, at all times.

McBRIDE and MORLAN,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in any of the courts of the State. Office over O. T. Clark's Dry Goods store.

WOODHULL and CROXTON,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW Angola, Indiana. Practice in Steuben and DeKalb Counties.

CHAS. A. O. McCLELLAN.
ATTORNEY AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in the Courts of DeKalb and Steuben counties. Liberal Advances Made on all First-class Claims left in my hands for collection.

COURTS IN STEUBEN CO.	COURTS IN DEKALB CO.
1st Monday in February	3rd Monday in Feb.
4th Monday in April	2nd Monday in May
1st Monday in September	3rd Monday in Sep.
4th Monday in November	2nd Monday in Dec

H. Wartenslaben
PAINTER and paper hanger. House painting a specialty. Residence corner Williams and Cedar street.

Toledo Business Cards.

Chas. L. Luce. Fred. C. Chapin. James Blass
Luce, Chapin & Blass,
IMPORTERS AND JOBBERS of foreign and domestic dry goods, notions, white goods, &c. 132 and 134 Summit street, Toledo, Ohio.

Chris. Gerber. M. O. Waggoner.
C. Gerber & Co.,
WHOLESALE DEALERS in general hardware. Sign of the big jack knife and star ax. 128 Summit and 83 Water streets, Toledo, Ohio.

Geo. Emerson. Pliny Watson. Z. C. Phsatt.
Emerson & Co.,
WHOLESALE GROCERS, 142, 144 and 46 Summit street, Toledo, Ohio.

V. Hamilton. E. Goldsmith.
Hamilton & Goldsmith,
COMMISSION MERCHANTS, Water street Toledo, Ohi

Professional men should not fail to have their card published in this column each week.

Ft. Wayne, Muncie & Cin. R. R.

Time Table to take effect Sept 6, 1874.

Going South.

Fort Wayne	10 00am	5 00a.m	1 40pm
Ossian	10 42am		2 22
Bluffton	11 10	3 15	2 50
Keystone	11 30am	9 40	3 20
Montpelier	11 46		3 30
Hartford	12 10pm	4 05	3 56
Eaton	12 30		4 19
Muncie	1 00	4 41	4 53
McCowan's	1 35
New Castle	2 05	4 05
Cam. City	2 26
Beesons	2 54
Connersville	3 10
Indianapolis		7 05	6 50pm
Louisville		1 00pm	11 25am
Cincinnati	6 20

Going North.

Cincinnati	6 45am	pm
Louisville		3 00	11 25
Indianapolis		7 50	3 40
Connersville	10 25
Beesons	10 40
Cam City	11 00
New Castle	11 45pm
McCowans	12 32pm
Muncie	1 00	10 27	5 45am
Eaton	1 21		6 25
Hartford	1 43	11 10	6 51
Montpelier	1 52		7 24
Keystone	2 15		7 35
Bluffton	3 15	12 05am	8 15
Ossian	2 47		8 50
Ft. Wayne	3 25	1 15	9 45

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Gen'l. Supt.
Robt. Rillis, Gen'l Ticket Agt.

Ft. Wayne, Jackson & Sag. R. R

Short Line Between
Michigan and the South.

Time card in effect May 24th—run by Chicago time

Going North.

Stations	Mail	Accom.	Ft W.Acm
Cincinnati		6 45	4 30pm
Louisville	11 25pm	6 50	3 00
Indianapolis	3 40	11 45	7 50
Ft Wayne	10 35	5 05	1 05
Auburn	11 34	6 30	1 57
Waterloo	11 48	6 55	2 00
Summit
Pleasant Lake	12 26
Ar Angola	12 30	7 37	2 45
Reading	1 55	9 50	3 37
Bankers	2 10	10 02	3 50
Jonesville	2 27	10 33	4 05
Jackson	3 40	12 20	5 02
Detroit	6 30		6 00
Grand Rapids	9 15	5 45	4 40 p
Lansing	5 35		8 40
Saginaw	8 30		11 35
Bay City	9 15		12 23

Going South.

Bay City		6 30	3 30
Saginaw		7 17	4 05
Lansing		10 40	7 40
Grand Rapids	10 30 pm	6 30	12 25
Detroit		7 00	5 40
Jackson Dep	7 20a.m	12 25	9 40
Jonesville	8 25	2 20	10 43
Bankers	8 42	2 35	11 58
Reading	8 56	3 25	11 10
Ar Angola	9 56	5 10	12 00
Pleasant Lake
Waterloo	10 42	6 05	12 42
Auburn	10 56	6 25	12 47
Auburn Junction			12 50
Fort Wayne, Arrive	11 55	7 50	1 38
Indianapolis	6 50 p m		6 45a
Louisville	11 25		1 10p
Cincinnati	8 40 a m		9 45

W. A. ERNST, Sup
S. K. HOOPER Gen. Ticket Ag't.

BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R

The Shortest and Quickest Route to
WASHINGTON AND BALTIMORE!
The East and Southeast.

CONDENSED TIME TABLE, THRO' TRAINS.

VIA PARKERSBURG, MAY 31 '74	Fast Line. Daily.	Express, Daily.
Lve. Cincinnati	9 15 a m	9 30 p m
Arr. Chillicothe	1 13 p m	1 10 a m
" Portsmouth	5 55	10 20
" Marietta	5 25	5 20
" Parkersburg	5 30	5 30
Arr. Grafton	9 15	9 40
" Oakland	11 24	11 34
" Deer Park	11 43	11 43
" Cumberland	1 50 a m	2 00 p m
" Harper's Ferry	5 02	4 56 p m
" Washington	7 10	6 50
" Richmond	1 30 p m	4 50 a m
" Baltimore	8 40 a m	8 20 p m
" Wilmington	12 17 p m	1 31 a m
" Philadelphia	1 20	2 35
" New York	1 15	6 05
" Boston	2 50 a m	4 50 p m

VIA BELLAIRE—MAY 31, 1874	Fast Line Daily.	Express. Sun. Ex.
Lve. Columbus	11 15 a m	11 45 p m
Arr. Newark	12 35 p m	12 50 a m
Lve. Sandusky	7 45 a m	7 00 p m
" Monroeville	8 25	7 50 p m
" Mansfield	10 07	9 51
Arr. Newark	12 30 p m	12 45 a m
" Zanesville	1 35	1 55
" Bellaire	4 60	5 15
" Wheeling	6 10 p m	5 45
" Grafton	9 05	9 20
" Oakland	11 24	11 34
" Deer Park	11 43	11 47
" Cumberland	1 50 a m	2 00 p m
" Harper's Ferry	5 02	4 56
" Washington	7 10	6 50
" Richmond	1 50 p m	4 50 a m
" Baltimore	8 40 a m	8 20 p m
" Wilmington	12 17 p m	1 31 a m
" Philadelphia	1 20	2 35
" New York	5 15	6 05
" Boston	5 50 a m	4 50 p m

THOS. P. BARRY, West. pass agt., Cin.
L. M. COLE, Gen'l ticket agt., Bal. Md.
THOS. R. SHARP, Mas. of Tran.

S. U. Tarney
PROPRIETOR.
AUBURN MEAT MARKET!
KEEPS ALWAYS ON HAND
Fresh Beef, Pork, Veal, Mutton and Bologna Sausage, clean and sweet. Prices reasonable. Main-st first door north of Miller & Casebeer's store.

DETROIT, EEL RIVER & ILLINOIS Rail Road.

Short Line between Auburn and the East and West.

Trains run on Cleveland time. Through trains will run on the following time, in effect Sunday Sept 27, 1874.

Going East.			Going West.
Way Frt.	Mail	Stations	Mail	Acc'
5 10	10 10 am	Logansport	7 45 p.m	2 55
		Peoria
8 10	11 15 am	Denver	6 56	1 30
10 00	12 10 pm	N. Manches'r	5 59	12 11
12 47	12 57	Col. City	5 08	10 51
4 25 pm	2 04 pm	Auburn	3 52	8 48
5 15	2 30	ar. Butler lv	3 20	8 00
		Toledo
		Detroit

CONNECTIONS—At Logansport with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St. Louis, Logansport, Crawfordsville & Southwestern and Toledo. Wabash & Western R. R's. At Denver with Indianapolis, Peru & Chicago Railway, for Rochester, Plymouth, LaPorte, Michigan City, Peru, Kokomo and Indianapolis At N. Manchester with Cincinnati, Wabash & Mich R'y. At Columbia City with Pittsburg, Ft. W. & Chicago, for Ft Wayne Lima, Crestline and Pittsburg. At Grand Rapids crossing with Grand Rapids R'y. At Auburn Junction with Ft. Wayne Jackson & Saginaw, for Angola, Jackson and Saginaw R'y. for Butler with Lake Shore & Mich. Southern Caw. Toledo, Detroit and all eastern cities.
J. A. HUGHSTON, Gen. Ticket Agt.
A. B. SOUTHARD, Gen. Supt.

Lake Shore & Mich. Southern R. R
Air Line Division

ON and after Sunday, Nov. 15, 1874 Passenger Trains will leave Waterloo city and other Stations as follows, daily except Sundays:

GOING WEST

	Special Ex.	Pacific Ex.	Accom'd'n
Butler	2:40 p m.	x 2:35 a m.	8:00 p m
Waterloo	2:56 "	2:53 "	8:19 "
Sedan	3,08	3,00	8:30 "
Corunna	3,10	3,06	8:35 "

GOING EAST.

Corunna	2.15 pm	11.20 pm	6:50 p m
Sedan	2,20	11,35	7:02 "
Waterloo	2:28 "	11:44 "	7:11 "
Butler	2:40 "	x12:01a m	7:55 "

CHAS. PAINE, Gen. Supt.
J. W. CARY, Gen Tic. Agt.
J. E. CURTIS, Division Supt.

Pittsburgh, Ft Wayne & Chicago R. R

ON and after Nov 15 1874 Trains will leave stations daily, (Sundays excepted) as follow:

Going West.

STATIONS	FAST EX.	MAIL.	PAC. EX.	NIGHT EX
Pittsburg	2,00 A M	6,00 A. M	9,40 A M	2,00 P. M.
Rochester	"	7,25 "	10,50 "	3,11 "
Alliance	5,32 "	11,00 "	1,30 P M	5,57 "
Orrville	7,12 "	12,02 P. M	3,15 "	7,40 "
Mansfield	9,20 "	3,15 "	5,26 "	9,40 "
Crestline ar	9,50 "	3,50 "	6,00 "	10,10 "
Crestline lv	10,10 "	9,00 A M	6,25 "	10,20 "
Forest	11,35 "	6,32 "	8,57 "	11,52 "
Lima	12,30 P M	8,00 "	9,10 "	12 59 A. "
Ft Wayne	2,50 "	10,40 "	12,15 A M	3,15 "
Plymouth	5,00 "	1,25 P. M	3,00 "	5,40 "
Chicago	8,20 "	5,25 "	6,50 "	9,20 "

Going East.

STATIONS	MAIL	FAST EX.	PAC. EX.	NIGHT EX
Chicago	5,15 A M	9,20 A. M.	5,35 A. M.	10,20 P. M
Plymouth	9,25 "	12,15 P. M.	9,10 "	2,25 A. M
Ft Wayne	12,30 P M	2,45 "	11,45 "	6,50 "
Lima	2,55 "	4,35 "	1,52 A. M.	8,00 "
Forest	4,10 "	5,34 "	3,01 "	9,17 "
Crestline ar	5,50 "	7,00 "	4,20 "	11,10 "
Crestline lv	6,05 A M	7,20 "	4,50 "	11 20 "
Mansfield	6,40 "	7,50 "	5,20 "	11,51 "
Orrville	9,05 "	9,42 "	7,12 "	1,40 P M
Alliance	11,20 "	11,20 "	9 00 "	3,40
Rochester	2,10 P M		11,12 "	5,58
Pittsburg	3,30 "	2,20 a m	12 15 A. M.	7,05

F. R. MYERS,
General Passenger and Ticket Agent

Examination of Teachers.

Examinations will be held at Auburn, on the first Saturday in each month, and at Waterloo the last Saturday in each month until further notice. A stamped envelope for the return of license, will be required of each applicant.

JAMES A. BARNS, Co., Supt.

Thomas Baldock
Building Contractor
AUBURN INDIANA.
will be ready at all times with an experienced corps of workmen to erect Houses, Barns, and do carpenter and joiner work of all kinds at reasonable rates.

BRICK FOR SALE
FRITZ GROESCOP.
Having just burned a fine kiln of brick, about one hundred thousand, is now ready to supply all who want good brick at reasonable figures. Residence two miles north of Auburn on the Kutzner road; three miles south west of Waterloo.

John M. Miller,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
FINE FURNITURE,
CHAIRS,
Husk & Hair Matrasses
50 and 52 East Main Street,
FORT WAYNE, IND.

J. G. FLEDDERMAN,
No. 27, East Main-St.
FORT WAYNE, IND'A
Has the largest and finest stock of
CLOTHS, COATINGS, CHEVIOTS,
—AND—
CassimereS
in Ft. Wayne. The finest line of
Made up Clothing!
ever shown in Fort Wayne
Youths' and Children's Clothing!
Furnishing Goods, &c.
Merchant Tailoring.
All work done in all the latest styles, promptly attended to. Go and see his largest stock of

ESSAY BY MISS MATTIE MILLER,

DELIVERED TO THE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE, AT BUTLER.

Every one, says Webster, owes a duty to his profession. By this, I presume we are to understand, every member of a profession is under obligations to do all he can for the elevation of his profession. This in our judgment teachers, he must do, by promoting his own improvment, by uniting with others in their efforts, and manifesting a professional interest and feeling by joining heartily in every effort and plan designed for the good of his profession. Then what can the teacher do toward raising his profession to a level with that of his brother professions, is the thought which arises in the mind of every faithful worker in the cause of educating the young? Who can pretend to portray the utility of a devoted teacher? His calling is the brightest on earth. He educates the immortal mind, wakes it to thought, trains it to discipline and moves it to truth and virtue, fills it with a longing for a higher sphere of action, and sends it forth to exert its power for good through all coming time! If such be his work, where is the end to his usefulness! Eternity alone can tell the utility of one devoted teacher. Their works shall live after them, and continue to live, when the proud fame of the mighty shall have perished from the earth. The eye of the young teacher should ever be directed upward, and his aim high. Be it far from the one who has entered this wide field, to lower its standard. It is an honorable work, and as such, he should esteem it and demand all honor due, remembering it is not the position which makes the man honorable, but the man the position.

The time has arrived when teaching is not so often made the stepping-stone to some more remunerative profession, but demands persons of the highest culture. Persons who are faithful and responsible. By taking the position of teacher all the responsibilities of the relation are assumed, and he is vastly responsible for not only what he does but neglects to do; and it is a responsibility from which he cannot escape, even though he may have entered into the relation of teachers without a single glance at the obligations, and when reminded of them he may laugh at the idea of being held thus seriously to account. Yet this is still true. Then first to be considered is the moral training of the child; for the teacher is indeed partially responsible for the moral education of the child; partly because the parent is depended for much of this. The moral should begin with the intellectual training, for we learn that all the faculties should be trained in unison, or the education will be an improper one.—Each day especially if the town affords an opportunity for this, the degradation of a person intoxicated; the sad condition of an insane person who may come in the way; the remembering any poor child in a kindly manner; the death of a schoolmate, or the sudden death of any person in the vicinity any instant may be seized upon as a means of making an impression for good. The teacher will enjoy the sweetest satisfaction from imparting such instruction; and the effect is felt perhaps when she is called to the death bed of those whose mind she has had as it were in her keeping. When the parent in tears says, "he loved you" it is then we feel our labor has not been in vain; and we are more firmly made to believe that the moral feelings of children are capable of successful cultivation. The more frequently we use our mind in judging between right and wrong, the more easily shall we judge concerning them, and this is true concerning children as well as grown persons. The teacher should appeal often to the conscience of the child. It is a duty he owes as a faithful teacher. The person engaged in this work should inform himself with a knowledge of human nature. He should know the power of conscience, and the means of reaching it. He should himself have deep principle, for the schoolroom is no place for a man without principle. And do parents consider the mistake they sometimes make in the selection of a teacher? They should much prefer the one with less scientific education and deep principle to the one with greater intellectual abilities and devoted of the one thing by which he may lay a blight upon the future of their child. The person without principle should not be allowed to enter the schoolroom; for who can describe the result of his influence? But the teacher with all his labors is but an aid to the parent. The child is continually taking lessons from the father and mother. There is a continual unconscious teaching of good or bad received from the atmosphere of the family. Every teacher knows how much more rapidly a child improves at school, where parents are educated. How difficult to teach a child who, at home lives in the atmosphere of profound ignorance. There is not a mother, perhaps, who does not look forward to the future of her child, and picture him filling some place of usefulness and honor. And in the education of her child what an aid she can if she will, be to the teacher. Both parents by besides visiting the school and co-operating and sympathizing with the teacher, can do much for its improvements and success by manifesting an interest in the reputation; by speaking well of the teacher and his proper plans; by excusing his faults of which every teacher is expected to have some, and by inducing their neighbors to visit the school, thus showing to their children that they feel their employment is an important one, and that the duties of school are not to be regarded of little consequence They should impress the mind of the child, at all times, with the facts that the teacher is laboring for his good, and therefore ought to be loved and obeyed as his best friend. How much parents can do toward making our good boys, and from good boys come the good men, lighthearted, manly men, who shall join its chorus, and prolong the psalm of labor and the song of love. In the daily experience of the teacher, he finds so many little acts to be performed and how they tell. They are the good elements of goodness. They raise life's value to its higher power, like the little figures in arithmetic. Then in considering the many things, both great and small dependent upon the teacher, should he enter upon his work with a felling of indifference? Should he do this, he cannot hope for success. Not long ago I heard a teacher say, "I go to my work as I go to my meals, as a matter of course." Should this be, his heart should be in his work. The more he teaches the more he should feel like teaching. There is not a profession in the world that has not its peculiar cares and vexations. None will escape annoyance by changing business. All business is effected with trials, unwelcome duties and spirit-tiring necessities. It is folly for a person to search out frets and burdens of his calling and each day give his mind to a consideration of them. They are inevitable. Brooding them only gives them strength. On the other hand a person has a power given him to shed beauty, and pleasure on all toil. God has given us imagination, not alone to make some men poets, but to shed light and beauty upon our work.—What are the means of education, or how shall we instruct our pupils, is the question uppermost in the mind of an energetic teacher. Of the various methods I am not able to speak. That these are man's successful ones we are aware; and by frendly intercourse, and experience we learn them. But the teacher is the soul of his methods. They must embody his own conception, and he must breathe into them his own inspiration. The true teacher cannot be a servile imitator.—He must be an earnest seeker for better methods and greater skill. His work must pulsate with the spirit of inquiry and progress. Clothes may be made and stone carved by pattern, but true faithful teaching requires an artist hand, head and spirit. And what shall we teach our children: Common sense first; this is as rare as it ever was, and would it not be a good idea to give them a good thick sprinkling as we pass along. And if we desire to make useful men and women, we should teach judgment, self-reliance, industry and economy: And if they possess these, they cannot fail to have added a great deal to this subject, nor do I presume to be professionally able to write, but my motive is to manifest a professional feeling and I conclude as I began, that we should engage in every effort for the good of our work; and may each leave these pleasant associations with the assurance that, "Here have I seen things rare and profitable." Things pleasant, things to make me stable in what I have begun to take in hand. Then let me think on them and understand.

* * *

In the minutes of the County Teachers Institute held at Butler may be found some strong resolutions from that body concerning county superintendency.

Let us as teachers, resist every blow at the crowning feature of school law, and defend with bold energy the principles which have been inaugurated by our efficient and lamented State Superintendent M. B. Hopkins.

A repeal of the law would be nothing less than a retrograding step.

Little Folks Dictionary.

A writer in the Schoolday Magazine has gathered together the following dictionary words as defined by certain small people here and there:

Back-biter—A flea.
Bed-time—Shut-eye-time.
Dust—Mud with the juice all squeezed out.
Fan—A thing to brush the warm off with.
Fins—A fish's wings.
Ice—Water that stayed out in the cold and went to sleep.
Monkey—A very little boy with a tail.
Nest-egg—the egg the old hen measures by to make new ones.
Pig—A hog's little boy.
Salt—What makes your potatoes tast bad when you dont put any on.
Snoring—Letting off sleep.
Snow—Rain all poped out white
Stars—The moon's eggs.
Wakefulness—Eyes all the time coming unbuttened.

Two Glad Hearts.

The New York Sun remarks thus feelingly of two dead statesmen in connection with the late election results: There are two men lying in their cold graves to-day—two men who sank from thwarted plans and disappointed expectations, who died of broken hearts and who, if they were alive to-day, would indeed rejoice at the changed aspect of public affairs. We mean Charles Sumner and Horace Greely.—Were they living to-day their footsteps wherever wending, would be attended by a popular applause like the roar of thunder. But the loud rejoicing over the people's triumph can not reach their ears; they hear it not, and their eyes will not open to look upon the masses surging up, like the mighty waves of the sea, in opposition to the executive usurpation against which in their lifetime, they contended. But, somehow or other there is a satisfaction in feeling that when men so ardently desire happens, even though it happened not until their death. How is this, and why is it so? Do the dead know what happens in this world? Sumner and Greely were remarkable men; yet they both succumbed to the defeat of the hour, or rather we would say, on account of mere postponment of vectory. A lesson of patience, endurance, and faith may be gathered from their untimely fate. Those who contend for principal should know no discouragement, nor any such feeling as that of being disheartened. The straight path may be long, but the traveler should never grow weary, for triumph lies in the distance. How heartly would Sumner and Greely have rejoiced had they lived to see this day.

* * *

The growing wheat is said to be a trifle latter than is generally the case in this State.

AUBURN COURIER

THURSDAY, NOV. 26, 1874.

NEWS SUMMARY.

The East.

IT is estimated that 10,000 poor men and women are now out of employment in New York city, and in need of charity....Efforts made are being to arrange for the disposal by lottery of the Grand Opera House at New York. This would be in keeping with the history of a building in which the Black Friday conspiracy was concocted, and where American judicial ermine was so long besmutched before the eyes of the world.... Three murderers were hung in Pennsylvania in one day last week. Among them was the famous insurance conspirator, Udderzook. He died without making any confession.... The Women's Temperance Convention of Massachusetts met in Boston last week.

CHARLES WHITMAN, a clerk, who entered the Pacific Bank in New York in 1849, began in 1870 to make fictitious entries in the book of which he had charge, and when he was detected this week it was found that the bank had lost $25,000....E. L. Adams, the dramatic critic of the Rochester (N. Y.) Democrat and Chronicle, having written of Mrs. Harry Ryner, in the character of Elizabeth, "that her queenly carriage was far from perfect, and her intonation and expression very poor," that lady called upon Mr. Adams and attempted to cowhide him. She was disarmed and ejected from the office, together with her son, who accompanied her.

THE steam-tug Lily exploded her boilers near the government works, New York city, last week, killing five of the crew, and fatally injuring the Captain, David A. Havens.... New York originates fifty-five to sixty tons of mail-matter daily. The efficiency of the postal service of the country is increasing. In 1873 one letter went wrong in each 770; in 1874 only one in 1,500.

THE Erie railway has contracted to pay its new President $40,000 a year for ten years' services, but if he should be ousted before the end of his term, he can collect the whole amount of his salary for the full term of ten years....The suit of Theodore Tilton against Henry Ward Beecher has been set down for Dec. 8.

The West.

A PARTY lately arrived at Kansas City, Mo., reports that a hunting party, among them some newspaper men from Ohio, who went out in the conductors' excursion, were chased by Indians about thirty miles from Hugo, on the Kansas Pacific. A thousand Utes are hunting buffalo by permission of the government, but are peaceable, and their chase of the quill-drivers is a probable scare on the part of the latter....Senator Pomeroy, of Kansas, has had the time of his trial postponed for six months, at the end of which, he affirms, he will be better prepared to meet the charges of bribery preferred against him.... A dispatch from Camp Supply, in the Indian Territory, tells the story of a fight on McClellan creek between twenty-eight men of the 8th cavalry, under Capt. H. J. Farnsworth, and 100 Cheyennes. The United States troops lost one killed and four wounded, and the Indians lost fifteen killed.

CHARLES L. MURRAY, late a Clerk in the Treasury Department at Washington, and correspondent of the Danbury News, has purchased the South Bend (Ind.) Union, and will assume control of it next week. Its politics will be Bourbon straight....A case of cremation-murder, quite as revolting as the Cincinnati case, is reported from Monroe county, Ill. A farmer named Barney McMahon, in August last, murdered his wife and burned her body in a brush heap, keeping the fire burning for two weeks till every vestige of her remains were consumed. The affair has just been discovered and the fiend arrested. He denies his guilt, but the circumstantial evidence against him is so strong as to leave little doubt but that he is guilty.... As the express train on the Great Western Railway was leaving Port Credit, a station a few miles from Toronto, Canada, about 5 o'clock p. m., November 13, five masked men boarded her. After unfastening the bell-cord, they bound and gagged the baggage-master. They then entered the apartments of the American Express Company, whose messenger they gagged, blindfolded, and handcuffed. They took the keys of the safe from him, and secured from $30,000 to $40,000. The robbers remained on the train until it reached Queen's Wharf, in the western part of Toronto....Gen. A. Shaler, who has accepted the appointment of Consulting Engineer of the Chicago Fire Department, will at once enter upon his duties.

DISPATCHES from Saginaw, Mich., state that the drought in that vicinity is extreme, and that destructive fires are raging in every direction. Reports from various sections of the Northwest are to the effect that farmers are compelled to drive their flocks and herds many miles to water....An exciting four-mile race came off at San Francisco on the 14th, which was witnessed by about 30,000 people. It was won by the mare Katie Pease, beating the celebrated California horse Thad. Stevens, and others.

THE State Auditor of Indiana reports that the sum of $3,072 195 06 was received during the year ending Oct. 31. The expenses of the State for the same time were $2,827 991 28, the common schools costing $1 489,173.66.

THE Pacific railroads have been pronounced complete, and the part of the land-grant held in reserve by the government has been released.

THERE is a good deal of interest among the churchmen of Iowa on the question of the succession to the late Bishop Lee, of the Protestant Episcopal Church. The names of a large number of prominent churchmen in all parts of the country are proposed, among them Drs. Sullivan and Powers, of Chicago. The convention that is to elect a bishop meets at Davenport on the 9th of December....The Iowa Penitentiary has been discontinued as a military prison.... The Grand Lodge Hall of I. O. O. F. was dedicated at Indianapolis last week. Hon. Schuyler Colfax delivered the address.

The South.

AT a reunion of the White League organization at New Orleans recently, resolutions were adopted looking to the protection of colored Conservatives, many of whom have recently been assaulted by Republicans. Also, a resolution for promoting better feeling between white and colored citizens....Lieut.-Gov. V. V. Smith has declared himself the rightful Governor of Arkansas, asserting that the abdication of Baxter in favor of Garland leaves him the ranking Executive of the State. He calls upon the Federal government to support his claims. He is favored by all the Republicans of Arkansas, and some of the Democracy, and it is believed that the President will recognize his government.

A DISPATCH to a New York paper reproduces an editorial from a Shreveport paper advocating the assassination of every Radical candidate counted in by the Returning Board.... Two negroes entered the house of an old man at Salisbury, N. C., last week, for the purpose of robbing him; and when he refused to give up the money, one negro fired, the shot taking effect in the old man's mouth, but, glancing, made only a flesh wound. The old gentleman's wife, aged about 80, then attacked the negro with a spade. The first blow penetrated the brain and killed him....Accounts from Virginia say that in almost every direction in the Dismal Swamp and environs fires which originated almost a month ago by the drought are burning with alarming rapidity, and valuable timber lands fall a prey to the flames.

THE State Legislatures of Alabama and North Carolina met on the 15th and organized. Both assemblies have Democratic majorities.

CARELESSNESS and avarice on the part of transportation companies have cost some lives already, and seem destined to take many more before managers learn better. Last week an overloaded steamer, lying at the New Orleans levee, parted in the middle and went to the bottom of the river. Thirty-five lives were lost....Judge Poland has been summoned from Little Rock to consult with the authorities at Washington in regard to the pretensions of Smith, who aspires to the government of Arkansas.

Washington.

UPON representations made to the President by Senator Logan, it has been thought best to cancel the late appointment of Mr. Hoyt as Collector of Internal Revenue at Chicago, and give the place to Philip Wadsworth....The Washington Monument Association continue to report the receipt of subscriptions from various sections of the country, and the prospects for the early completion of the monument seem to be better than ever.

IT is stated that the Treasury Department has been obliged to supersede many of its officers on account of their infidelity and carelessness, and is daily in receipt of advices of goods passing across our northern frontier in cars totally unprotected by locks and innocent of an appearance on the manifest, and also of the seizure of goods which have been smuggled into our large importing cities through the connivance of masters of vessels and customs officers....Applications for national currency from the West and South have almost entirely ceased. At the same time, the voluntary surrender of circulation has also about stopped. The amount of currency received daily in the redemption division now averages over $500,000.... Among the rumors prevailing at present in political circles is one to the effect that the Democrats in the present Congress will endeavor to postpone action on important appropriations until after the date fixed by law for the adjournment, and so compel the President to call an extra session. By this means the Democratic Congress would be able to organize, turn out the present officers of the House, appoint their own favorites, accomplish a little legislation that shall furnish some political capital upon which to work during the summer and fall, and adjourn to begin business in December in earnest.

THE Postmaster-General denies that he favors an increase in the rates of postage. He is annoyed at the large deficiencies in the department, which are increasing every year, but thinks the present rates of postage will be sufficient if he is permitted to retrench in several directions. He needs legislation to enable him to reduce the cost of transportation, and in order to bring about other reforms in the department. If this is refused he says the cost of the mail service will, in a few years, be a grievous burden....Congressman Charles Hayes, of Alabama, has been arrested for assaulting Mr. White, a correspondent of the New York Tribune.

A SPECIAL dispatch to a Chicago paper has the following: The President has made up his mind to take a decided stand in favor of the resumption of specie payments in his annual message. It is understood that he will recommend Congress to perfect legislation for specie resumption, and favor specially some date, several years hence, on which the government should resume. He does not suggest any plan of his own, but believes that legislation can be devised by which the government can resume in 1876.

POSTMASTER-GENERAL JEWELL has issued an order discontinuing the pay and service of John T. Callaghan, special agent of the department, for loaning to his brother an annual pass from the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railroad Company, which had been granted to him solely on the ground that he was an accredited special agent of the Post-office Department....Gen. Myers, Chief Signal Officer of the Army ("Old Probabilities") has submitted his annual report to the Secretary of War. Sixteen new signal-stations have been established in different portions of the country. Fifteen daily observations are sent to Canada, in return for a like number received from the Dominion. Arrangements are being completed with all the nations of the northern hemisphere whereby the atmosphere of half the earth may be studied as a unit, and the whole history of passing storms be secured. A great many storms were formerly in the habit of going off into the British possessions, leaving the whole corps of weather-guessers in the United States totally ignorant of the place of their dissipation. The General congratulates his superior that this state of things is at an end. Stations in the West Indies will also henceforth herald the advance of unwelcome "pressures" from the middle Atlantic. The General's report betrays a scientific enthusiasm which gives assurance that this most difficult of practicable problems is in the right man's hands.

IT is stated that President Grant has written to Minister Washburne offering him the portfolio of Secretary of State.

Political.

A SPECIAL dispatch from Washington to a leading Western Opposition paper states that there is great want of harmony between President Grant and some of the Republican leaders. It turns out that the prime cause of some of the existing differences is the determination which Grant has expressed to adhere rigidly to the civil-service rules in making appointments to and removals from office. He distinctly intimated that where an officer was honest and efficient, he did not think he should be removed for having voted the Opposition ticket. This is quite the reverse to what the politicians have been representing. ....The Congressional delegation from Wisconsin in the next House will stand five Republicans and three Democrats. A Democratic gain of one....A new candidate for the Minnesota Senatorship appears in Hon. John S. Pillsbury, who has strong support in the northern counties of the State.

THE New York Tribune considers Andrew Johnson's chances of being elected Senator from Tennessee as being first-class....The Cook County (Chicago) Canvassing Board, which has been hearing arguments pro and con in the contested case between Farwell and LeMoyne, for Congress, has come to a final decision, giving the certificate to Mr. Farwell, Republican, whose official majority in the entire district is 188....The Democrats are making arrangements to contest the election of Strait, the Republican for Congress in the Second District of Minnesota. They claim that Cox is elected by not less than 100, stating that the vote of a small county called Monongalia, which is strongly Republican, should have been counted in the Third District instead of the Second. Strait's friends, however, claim that the county was consolidated with Kandiyohi, which is in the Second District, by Gov. Austin, four years ago.

A NEW YORK Herald special dispatch from New Orleans says the President of the Louisiana Returning Board has official knowledge that additional Federal troops have been ordered to New Orleans. It is intimated from the same source that in Congressional Districts where informalities are disclosed no certificates will be granted, leaving the government to order a new election....Speaker Blaine has written a letter to the Portland Press in response to a paragraph mentioning him as a possible candidate for Senator, in which he decidedly states he should under no circumstance accept the Senatorship.

A WASHINGTON special to the Chicago Times gives the particulars of the bad feeling existing between Postmaster-General Jewell and Senator Logan. The Senator charges that Mr. Jewell does not distribute the government patronage fairly among the Chicago Republican papers, besides removing some of Mr. Logan's friends who held minor postoffices, and threatens to oppose the General's confirmation in the Senate....Sunset Cox is in Washington, and is said to be working hard for the Speakership of the next House.... An Associated Press dispatch states that the canvassing board of election returns at Bagdad, Fla., made returns giving the Radical candidates for the Legislature a majority of 2 votes. The citizens of Milton and the adjoining county arose in arms and demanded a re-canvass, which resulted in giving the Conservative candidates 121 majority. All business was suspended for three days.

THE President declines to interfere in the Arkansas gubernatorial imbroglio.

General.

THE Episcopal Convention to elect a successor to the defecting Assistant Bishop Cummins, of Kentucky, met at Louisville last week. The choice fell upon Dr. Thomas W. Dudley, of Baltimore. His election is regarded as a victory of the Low Church party in Kentucky....Milwaukee county will be taxed $427,997 next year.

AN offer of $35,000 a year for the lease of the lines, etc., of the Franklin Telegraph Company has been made by Boston capitalists interested in the line. This offer is because of the effort made recently in a stockholders' meeting by the Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph Company, who own a controlling interest, to lease the property to themselves for $25,000 a year....The Japanese government is reported to have bought 3,500,000 pounds saltpeter in the New York market.

A BOY very much resembling Charley Ross has been found in Barboursville, W. Va. A small-hearted, benevolently-disposed gentleman has the child in keeping, and will return him to his afflicted parents for $5,000.

EX-GOV. RANDOLPH seems to have the inside track for the New Jersey United States Senatorship.

THE law, which goes into effect on the 1st of January next, requiring the prepayment of postage on newspapers, will, it is thought, largely increase the revenue from that source. At present the postage is collected in amount of but a few cents, and frequently is not collected at all. The new regulation will insure the collection of all postage in bulk, thus saving expense and trouble. The subscribers to newspapers, not the publishers, will be the gainers by the new system, as publishers cannot afford to increase their subscription rates on account of it....The pension service of the United States will cost $30,500,000 next year. Four hundred and ten widows of soldiers of the Revolution draw pensions....Fred Myers and Wm. Murray are in custody at Pittsburgh, charged with the murder and robbery of a farmer named Gotthard Wahl, in the suburbs of that city, last week. Myers has made a full confession of the crime.

CINCINNATI police officers have recovered about $21,000 from the late express robbery.

Foreign.

THE Russian government has resolved to introduce a system of elementary compulsory education. A trial is to be made at St. Petersburg of the Berlin system....Count Von Arnim has been again arrested. It is reported that the Count had previously received a copy of his indictment, and the only charge brought against him is for the suppression of official documents.... Strange rumors are circulating in St. Petersburg of a socialist conspiracy, in which the conspirators made an unsuccessful attempt to murder the Czar, and that a number of arrests have been made in consequence in Moscow....The Pall Mall Gazette says Prussia has declined the proposal made by Russia for the revision of the boundary line between the two countries.

THE city of London was recently thrown into a state of intense and painful excitement occasioned by a rumor of the sudden death at Balmoral Castle of Queen Victoria. After diligent search it was ascertained that the story was started in a low taproom, and had no foundation....During the retreat of the Carlists from Irun, between fifty and sixty men of the Biscay battalion were frozen to death in the snow. A telegram from Paris says the impression there, in circles favorable to Don Carlos, is that his cause is utterly ruined and his situation hopeless....Count von Beust, the Austro-Hungarian Minister at London, has been recalled to Vienna, to be reinstated as Premier.... Brothers Moody and Sankey, of Chicago, have arrived in London from Ireland, where they met with great success. They are holding meetings in Agricultural Hall....One of the greatest disasters of the world's history came upon China on the 26th of last September. On that day a typhoon swept over the country surrounding the cities of Hong Kong and Macao, destroying 4,000 persons at the former and over 10,000 at the latter place. The loss to property was beyond immediate computation. The people were unable to bury the decaying bodies with safety to their lives, and tar was poured over the corpses, after heaping them up, and the whole burned? A tidal wave and earthquake accompanied the typhoon, wrecking nearly all the shipping on the coast. Bodies were washed ashore for many days afterward.

ADVICES from the Crimea state that the drought continues and causes much uneasiness. No rain has fallen for a considerable period, the agricultural prospects of the present season are very depressing, and unless rain comes soon crops will be ruined....The Council General of the Seine has rejected a proposition recommending the National Assembly to pass a bill granting an amnesty for political offenses.

THE government of Saxony has forbidden the practice of cremation within its jurisdiction. Lady Dilke's body was burned, it will be remembered, at Dresden, and the scandal occasioned by that experiment has doubtless influenced the government to its present action....Disraeli has been re-elected Rector of the University of Glasgow by 700 votes, against 500 for Emerson. The conservative students protested against the election of of Emerson because he was a foreigner, and the liberals against the choice of Disraeli because of undue influence in his favor by the professors in the University.... An unusually heavy earthquake was felt in Chili, South America, on the 26th ult., about 12 minutes after midnight. Its duration was about thirty seconds, and its direction from east to west. Much alarm was caused in Valparaiso and Santiago. All the public clocks were stopped and the walls of some of the churches and houses were split. The shock was followed by an increase of temperature of two and one-half degrees. Vessels at anchor felt it severely. During the week slight tremors were felt.

DISRAELI has written a letter to Sir Henry Rawlinson, announcing that the British government in consequence of the representation of the Royal Geographical Society and other learned bodies, has determined to organize a Polar exploring expedition without delay....Five Yarmouth fishing crafts have been missing since a recent gale on the coast of England and are believed to be lost, with all on board, upward of thirty persons..... The Russian government has addressed a note to the European governments asking for a statement of their objections to the protocol which was the result of the deliberations of the Brussels Conference last summer. The conference was thinly attended, and Russia would like to get up another.

IN the German Reichstag, President Forkenbeck resigned his position recently, because action was taken contrary to his views. On the same day the Bank bill was referred to a committee, which is considered equivalent to a defeat of the government....At a large meeting of Roman Catholics in London resolutions were unanimously adopted declaring that the civil loyalty of Catholics was in nowise affected by the decree of Papal infallibility....Lersundi, formerly Captain-General of Cuba, died in Spain recently....A bill has been introduced in the lower house of the Danish Reichstag to abolish the rights of primogeniture and all titles of nobility... The Paris correspondent of the London Times writes that a bitter feeling appears to be springing up between the governments of France and Germany....The new British polar expedition will start next May....A special from Calcutta to the Morning Post announces that Yakub Khan, Ameer of Cabul, has been treacherously arrested in his own capital and imprisoned. The worst results are feared.

The Grand Duke Theater.

This New York establishment, which is mainly run by newsboys, is thus alluded to by a correspondent:

Teddy Sullivan, the star, gets $5 a week, the net receipts are then divided among the other performers. During the performance of that evening I saw some quite as good dancing and character sketching as I have seen upon the average variety stage. The little imps are inimitable in some of their imitations of leading actors of the day. It made me feel sorry for Teddy Sullivan to see him come out, born dancer that he was, and be obliged to dance a fanciful Irish jig in boots two sizes too large for him. "What business you would do in a pair of neat clogs," I could not help thinking.

Recently the boys gave a matinee performance for all the leading actors in town. Clara Morris, Fanny Davenport, all of the bright and shining lights of the New York stage, both male and female, filled the little cellar with a gayly-dressed crowd never seen within its walls before. How they enjoyed the performance of the boys was told by their repeated and most enthusiastic applause of nearly every hit on the bill. It was a grand day for the boys, and has proved a strong incentive for them to improve their theater and their acting.

The Earl of Rochdale, when he was in this country last year, came to this theater with a police detective, and while there was so much taken with the sweet ways of one bright-eyed, round-headed little boy that he had him brought to his rooms at the Brevoort House the next day. There he was still further pleased with the boy, in fact, so well pleased was he with him that he took him under his charge, and he is now being educated at the Earl's expense.

LAWYER—"How do you identify this handkerchief?" Witness—"By its general appearance and the fact that I have others like it." Counsel (cutely)—"That's no proof, for I have got one just like it in my pocket." Witness (innocently)—"I don't doubt that, as I had more than one of the same sort stolen."

VIRGINIA has sent 25,000 pounds of chestnuts north this season in one consignment—the largest single exportation ever made.

The Grave of St. Patrick.

Mr. Berry Fennell, writing in Land and Water, says: "One matter which I think will impress most strangers with a feeling of disappointed surprise is a visit to the Cathedral City of Downpatrick. It is neither the city itself nor the fine substantial cathedral on the hill that evoke this feeling. They are well enough, trim, thriving, comfortable-looking on the whole, and need not fear comparison with other cathedrals or cathedral cities of Ireland. But something more than disappointment, something like indignant surprise, takes possession of one on being led up to what is said to be held sacred as the grave of St. Patrick, and which as such is visited, I am told, by multitudes of American strangers every year. It lies in the highest and most central position in the otherwise decently kept churchyard surrounding Downpatrick Cathedral, and is the one spot of earth in the whole place that appears given up to complete neglect and desecration. Around are graves and gravestones, ancient and modern, all well-ordered and neatly kept, some showing the recent touch of hands directed by loving care, while the one which strangers would have expected to find most honored and revered is the only dishonored grave among them all.

"The unsightly-looking hole, unmarked by cross or slab, now half filled with loose rubble of broken bricks, stones and earth, is a disgrace to the people of Down, who, be they Protestants or Papists, in that they claim to be Christians, have an equal right to honor the resting-place of this faithful, fearless preacher of Christianity, who was the first to bring the gospel of truth into Ireland, the first to introduce the dawn of civilization among her then wholly barbarous princes and people, and whose feet first touched the Irish soil upon the shores of the County Down. I shall feel proud indeed if these observations will lead any one belonging to the neighborhood, or the county, to take some interest in the matter."

The Legend of Gambrinus.

The popular legend of Gambrinus, as related by John Fiske in the Atlantic Monthly, is as follows:

Gambrinus was a fiddler, who, being jilted by his sweetheart, went into the woods to hang himself. As he was sitting on a limb, with the cord around his neck, preparatory to taking the final plunge, suddenly a tall man in a green coat appeared before him and offered his services. He might become as wealthy as he liked, and make his sweetheart burst with vexation at her folly; but in thirty years he must give up his soul to Beelzebub. The bargain was struck, for Gambrinus thought thirty years a long time to enjoy one's self in, and perhaps the devil might get him in any event—as well be hung for a sheep as a lamb. Aided by Satan, he invented chiming bells and lager beer—for both of which achievements he is held in grateful remembrance by Teutons. No sooner had the holy Roman Emperor quaffed the new beverage, than he made Gambrinus Duke of Brabant and Count of Flanders; and then it was the fiddler's turn to laugh at the discomfiture of his old sweetheart. Gambrinus lived clear of woman, says the legend, and so lived in peace. For thirty years he sat beneath his belfry with the chimes, meditatively drinking beer, with his nobles and burghers around him. Then Beelzebub sent Jocko, one of his imps, with orders to bring back Gambrinus before midnight. But Jocko was, like Swiveller's Marchioness, ignorant of the taste of beer, never having drunk of it even a sip, and the Flemish schoppen were too much for him. He fell into a drunken sleep and did not wake up until next day, at which he was so mortified that he had not the face to go back to hell at all. So Gambrinus lived on tranquilly for a century or two, and drank so much beer that he turned into a beer barrel.

Cheap Transportation.

The cheap transportation question is likely to receive a new impetus from a new invention that has lately been brought out for propelling canal boats by steam power. The strong points of the invention are said to be cheapness and simplicity of operation, and the small space required for the machinery. It consists essentially of a boiler and a pair of small engines placed in the bow of the boat, with an over hanging shaft carrying a small pinion at the end that engages a rack laid along the banks of the canal. The shaft is fitted with a universal joint to work at any angle. When the boat enters a lock or encounters another boat between it and the bank, it is necessary to lift up the pinion off the rack to avoid the obstruction. We are not informed what speed is attained by this contrivance, but it must, of course, be much greater than that attained by horse-power. Should this invention prove as valuable in practical operation as it seems to be in theory, it will bring us one step nearer the solution of the vexed question of cheap transportation.—Chicago Courier.

Two Barrels and Two Uses.

Dan Davis says Promontory, out on the "C. P." road, is a nice place. Dan was out there once, and he says he was charmed with the manners and customs—almost patriarchal in their frank simplicity—of the people. The first day he was in the place Dan stopped at the principal hotel of the town. It was a nice place, and the landlord was a very agreeable and friendly sort of a man. Says Dan: "When the dinner was ready the landlord came out into the street in front of his hotel with a double-barreled shot-gun. Raising the gun above his head he fired one barrel. I said to him 'What did you do that for?' Said he, 'To call my boarders to dinner.' I said, 'Why don't you fire off both barrels?' 'O,' said he, 'I keep the other to collect with.'" The grass was a little short with Dan, and after dinner he went and hunted up another boarding house.—Virginia (Nev.) Enterprise.

AT a recent trial the clerk read the Court's verdict as follows:

"Twelve dollars and costs,
In the case of John Wade,
He to stand committed
Until it is paid."

Wade's lawyer gravely inquired of the Court if it could not reverse that decision.

The Outrigger.

The Pall Mall Gazette says:

"The Castalia, and vessels of her class, point in their mechanical structure to a remarkable fact well known to Oriental navigators. It may be true that it is incorrect to term the Castalia a twin vessel. It has been urged that she is rather one large ship, partially divided in such a way that while her lateral motion in a rough sea shall be slight, yet her progress forward shall not be seriously impeded. Yet, when we look at the mechanical principle on which she is constructed, we find that not only is she to all intents and purposes a double ship, but also that in her build she is but the exemplification on a large scale of that one outrigger system which is so universally adopted between Ceylon and the Pacific Islands and which has, strange to say, never been elsewhere largely adopted. Here we come to a veritable historical puzzle. From Ceylon to the west, and the islands of the Pacific, closest to the American shore line, to the east, we meet everywhere with small sailing craft carrying the one-outrigger. Nowhere else in the whole seagirt world is this the case, and nowhere, as far as history tells us, has it ever been. These crafts not only sail very rapidly, but in accordance with certain principles yet unascertained, we believe, are wonderfully steady in the roughest sea. Along the coast of Northern India, as well as along that of Java and Sumatra, the outrigger itself is frequently fitted with small sails, but this is not the case near Ceylon. Cross over from Ceylon westward—only a few miles—to the coast of Southern India, and not a glimpse is to be obtained of the ingenious one-outrigger system."

An Odd Beverage.

The story is told that a German shoemaker in New Orleans, who is also a tanner in a small way, in place of his national drink, has been imbibing for years the tannin used in the preparation of his hides, and that in consequence he has become, to all intents and purposes, metamorphosed into leather. The effect of this queer tipple has also been to prevent the renewal of the tissues which in an ordinary beer-drinking Teuton, as well as the rest of mankind, makes an entirely new body in the course of seven years, and the poor tanned tanner will accordingly soon end his days, his limbs and muscles wearing away as the heels and springs of a machine might through long use. Although, then, it may be true that there is "nothing like leather," it is evident that the dust of the earth is a better material for the making of men and women, while Shakspeare's theory that the body of a tanner will better stand the corruption of the grave than that of a practicer of another trade, will have an opportunity to be well tested. And, indeed, it may well be believed that, unless the worms want to be turned into shoestrings, they will give our tanner's carcass a wide berth.

Burning Brick.

To make a "perfect brick," the first thing to be done, after it is ascertained that the material out of which the brick is to be made is of the right quality, is to dig and cast up loose in the fall of the year, as much stuff as it is intended to make into bricks the following season, in order that the rain, snow, frost, thaw and atmospheric air may decompose and mature every particle possible, and prepare it, ready for the tempering machine in the coming spring.

Bricks, whether of clay or clay loam, prepared in this manner and burnt with petroleum, are vastly superior, as to quality, beauty and durability, to bricks made of immature, raw material. There being neither smoke, dust nor soot entering the kiln during the process of burning, the bricks when taken from the kiln, have the appearance of newly planed small blocks of wood.

This method of burning bricks and other clay articles is most certainly destined to revolutionize the whole system of burning clay, throughout the whole of the United States.—Scientific American.

The Markets.

NEW YORK.

BEEVES	8 @	12½
HOGS—Dressed	8½@	8¾
COTTON	14½@	15
FLOUR—Superfine Western	4 00 @	4 50
WHEAT—No. 2 Chicago	1 07 @	1 10
No. 1 Spring	1 16 @	1 27
CORN	90 @	91
OATS	65 @	66
RYE	94 @	95½
PORK—New Mess	20 75 @	21 00
LARD—Steam	15½@	15¾

CHICAGO.

BEEVES—Choice Graded Steers	6 25 @	6 75
Choice Natives	5 50 @	6 10
Good to Prime Steers	4 75 @	5 25
Cows and Heifers	2 50 @	4 00
Medium to Fair	4 00 @	4 50
Inferior to Common	1 75 @	2 00
HOGS—Live	6 75 @	7 00
FLOUR—Fancy White Winter	5 50 @	6 50
Red Winter	4 75 @	5 25
WHEAT—No. 1 Spring	94 @	95
No. 2 Spring	88½ @	88¾
No. 3 Spring	83 @	84
CORN—No. 2	77 @	78
OATS—No. 2	49½ @	49¾
RYE—No. 2	89 @	90
BARLEY—No. 2	1 28 @	1 30
BUTTER—Fancy	31 @	38
EGGS—Fresh	23 @	25
PORK—Mess	19 15 @	21 25
LARD	13½@	13¾

ST. LOUIS

WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1 07 @	1 07½
CORN—No. 2 New	70 @	71½
OATS—No. 2	55 @	55½
RYE—No. 2	91 @	92
PORK—Mess	19 75 @	20 00
LARD	13 @	13½
HOGS	6 75 @	7 50
CATTLE	4 75 @	6 00

MILWAUKEE.

WHEAT—No. 1	1 00 @	1 01
No. 2	91 @	92
CORN—No. 2	73 @	75
OATS—No. 2	49 @	50
RYE	89 @	90
BARLEY No. 2	1 33 @	1 34

CINCINNATI.

WHEAT—Red	1 04 @	1 08
CORN—New	64 @	65
OATS	54 @	58
RYE	1 01 @	1 02
PORK—Mess	19 50 @	20 00
LARD	13 @	14

TOLEDO.

WHEAT—No. 1 Red	1 09 @	1 11
Amber Michigan	1 07 @	1 08
CORN—New	69 @	70
OATS	54 @	54½

DETROIT.

WHEAT—Extra	1 18 @	1 19
Amber	1 09 @	1 09½
CORN	78 @	79
OATS	55 @	58

CLEVELAND.

WHEAT—No. 1 Red	1 12 @	1 13
No. 2 Red	1 05 @	1 07
CORN	65 @	67
OATS	54 @	56

AUBURN COURIER

T. C. MAYS, Publisher.

FARM AND GARDEN.

SOIL FOR FRUIT.

The Gardeners' Monthly gives briefly the following rules for selecting the best soils for the different fruits: A light, dryish soil for the peach, a strong loamy soil for the pear, nearly the same for the plum, a heavy loam for the apple—if on limestone, all the better—and for the cherry a soil similar to that of the peach.

TO REDUCE BONES.

Mix them in a large kettle with wood ashes, and to make the ashes caustic add about a peck of fresh lime to each barrel of bones. Saturate and cover the ashes well with water, and then apply heat, say for twenty-four hours, or during the day for two consecutive days. All the bones by this time, except the very hardest parts, will be so reduced as to be easily pulverized, being in a pasty condition, suitable for placing in layers in making the compost heap. Another day's boiling will reduce the remainder of the hard bones.

TO RENDER A CESSPOOL INODOROUS.

The contents of a cesspool may be rendered comparatively inodorous by frequent additions of plaster, or ground, unburned gypsum, or diluted oil of vitriol, or solution of copperas. Probably the easiest way of using the contents for manure is to throw fine earth into the vault until a semi-liquid mass is formed, and to scoop this out and cover it with a quantity of dry soil gathered in readiness for it. The earth absorbs all the liquid and all the gaseous matter, and if kept covered from rain for a few days, it will be in excellent condition to spread over meadows or fallows to prepare for fall crops.

CARE OF SHEEP.

"Flock Master," of Lancaster county, Penn., writes the Germantown Telegraph as follows: "I send you the following seasonable hints in regard to the care of sheep: During the winter and early spring sheep are often affected with colds; these, if neglected, frequently become so deeply seated as to be incurable, and end in phthisic or consumption. The best remedy for a cold is, first, place your sheep in a well-ventilated, dry stable, comfortably littered, and, second, give it any slightly purging medicine, with a moderate allowance of hay, and a bran mash, one-fifth of which should be oil-meal. Colds and catarrh are not only epidemic, but endemic; be careful, therefore where you winter your sheep, that there be no predisposing cause in their locality; and when they are attacked, remove them instantly from the flock. By following these precautions, and keeping them well fed, sheltered, aired, watered, and salted, one may bid defiance to disease among his flock."

STEEL PLOWS BEST.

A. B. Allen, of New York, says: "I would sooner pay double the price for steel plows than accept as a gift the best set of cast-iron plows to be found in the United States. Though ever so hard chilled or smoothly polished, cast-iron will foul, more or less, on the mold-board, in every kind of soil from a sandy or gravelly up to a heavy clay loam. The dirt thus gathered on the mold-board adds greatly to its draft and prevents good work.

Another objection to cast-iron is in order to get equal strength the weight must be considerably greater than with steel, and this is a hard drag all day, and requires a much stronger team. Of this any one may quickly convince himself without resort to dynamometers or any other means of testing the drafts. He has only to hitch a light team to a steel plow, and a stronger one to the cast iron, and work them side by side. In this way I have found that a pair of fourteen-hand ponies would do about the same work, and with as much ease to themselves as a pair of sixteen-hand horses. The same observations about material will also apply to cultivators. In thus candidly advising my brother farmers in regard to the superior merit of steel plows, I am speaking directly against my own individual interest, for I have been a manufacturer and dealer in cast-iron plows for upward of thirty years past."

FEEDING HORSES.

Mr. Cairnes, a popular English veterinary surgeon, in a paper read recently, says that "too much grain indisposes horses for eating other provender, and occasionally subjects them to serious disease. Five bushels of good sound oats weekly, along with a few good Swedish turnips or other roots, and plenty of hay or good straw, will keep a pair of healthy farm horses in good order through the winter, even though they be pretty hard wrought. If, then, such an allowance be sufficient, it is folly and waste to give them more. Something must be wrong if with this allowance of food, they fall off in condition. Horses that are greedy eaters, or that swallow their grain whole, should have it bruised or ground. A little chaff (chopped hay) mixed with it helps to make horses chew it, and well-chewed food is of far more importance than many people think. Unless it be well ground and mixed with saliva in their mouths, it is but imperfectly digested in their stomachs, and without perfect digestion there, its full benefit is not obtained. A full drink of water immediately after being fed should never be allowed to horses. When the water is drunk by them, the bulk of it goes directly to their large intestines, and but little of it is retained in their stomachs. In passing through them, however, the water carries a considerable quantity of their contents to where it lodges in the intestines. If, then, the contents of horses' stomachs are washed out of them before they are digested, they are in a manner lost, no nourishment being derived from them. Colics in horses frequently arise from this cause, and to it the appearance of corn entire among their dung is often due. Damp straw or musty hay should never be given as food for horses. The former is apt to scour them, and the latter frequently affects their wind. It is affirmed by some that if their hay or straw be cut, and their grain bruised, horses can be kept at one-fourth less cost than when they are given them whole. Every one knows the value of grass as an article of food for horses. A month of it in the early part of the season, when it is young and tender, is worth two when it gets old and tough. Great care must be taken of horses when first put on grass—indeed, changes of food of any kind must to them be introduced with caution, as many have had to pay dearly for neglect of this. Even a change of water has at times been known to affect some horses, so sensitive does their alimentary canal seem to be."

Household Hints.

To Blanch Rabbit.—Set it on the fire in a small quantity of cold water, and let it boil; as soon as it boils it is to be taken out, and put in cold water for a few minutes.

The odor of a phial that has contained medicine may be removed by filling it with cold water and letting it stand in an airy place uncorked for three days, changing the water every day.

Baked Eggs.—Beat up six eggs, one tablespoonful of flour, six of sweet milk; melt your butter in the frying-pan; when hot, turn the whole in, well-beaten, and bake in a hot oven.

To take grease spots out of carpets, mix a little soap in a gallon of warm soft water, then add half-an-ounce of borax; wash the part well with a clean cloth, and the grease or dirty spot will soon disappear.

Britannia ware, says one who has tried it, should first be washed with a woolen cloth and sweet oil, then washed in water and suds, and rubbed with soft leather and whiting. Thus treated it will retain its beauty to the last.

Sauce for Ducks.—Serve a rich gravy in the dish, cut the breast into slices, but don't take them off; cut a lemon and put pepper and salt on it; then squeeze it on the breast, and pour a spoonful of gravy over before you serve it out.

To prevent baldness, says a correspondent, throw away all oils and pomades, and wash the parting of the hair with cold water, night and morning, dry thoroughly, and then use a good stiff brush and keep brushing until redness or warm glow is produced.

The yellow spots produced by nitric acid may be removed from brown or black woolen goods, while fresh, by repeatedly dipping them into a concentrated solution of permangate of potassa and then washing them with water. The yellow spots on the hands may be removed in the same way, the brown stain produced by the permanganate being removed by an aqueous solution of sulphurous acid.

A Rockland Gazette correspondent gives this receipt for coffee: Use about one tablespoonful for each person, and one egg mixed with it. Place this in a coffee pot, put in a little cold water, then the desired amount of boiling water; place upon the stove and let it come to a boil. If no egg is used, it should never boil over a minute. If an egg is used, it may boil two minutes, when it will be ready for use. The coffee-pot should be as close as possible, so as to retain the flavor. The object of using a little cold water, is to give a little time for hot water to extract its virtues before it boils.

An Eighty-Ton Gun.

The London Daily Telegraph writes: "It may not be generally known that the principle upon which all our guns are now made is that discovered by Col. Fraser. Briefly, it consists of a series of coils, welded together in such a way that the grain of the iron is best opposed to the explosive force of the powder, and encircling a steel tube, the interior of which is rifled. A long bar of iron—say of eight inches square—previously prepared, is slowly drawn from a furnace, to a length of about 300 feet, and wound into a double coil in the form of a cylinder. This is again heated, and placed beneath a steam hammer, where it is welded together by tremendous blows, which so effectually do their work that a cylinder capable of bearing the greatest possible strain is formed at a comparatively trifling expense. Several of these coils being made, they are placed in order upon a long steel tube which has been made in Sheffield, and the weapon is finally turned out at an average cost of £60 a ton, as against nearly £150 at Krupp's factory in Essen. Upon this principle, then, it is resolved to construct an eighty-ton gun, which should be able to pierce twenty inches of iron at a distance of a thousand yards, with a shot 1,600 pounds in weight, and by the aid of 300 pounds of powder. The length of this magnificent piece of artillery was fixed at twenty-seven feet, its diameter at the trunnion six feet, and at the muzzle sixteen inches, inside measurement. It was calculated that such a gun would be able to deliver its mischief-working missile at a distance of nearly ten miles, and that it would, at the same time, be easily placed in the turret of a war-ship or the embrasure of a battery, and worked quickly and without difficulty. Of course, there were many difficulties in the way of the construction of such a weapon. No steam hammer, such as that which Krupp possesses at Essen, was to be found in England; no forges were built large enough for such a tremendous 'heat;' no cranes were in position to hoist such a weight. But all these difficulties were speedily overcome by the skillful officials at Woolwich. The forges were built, a huge steam hammer of forty tons' weight, with double action arrangement, and a striking power of nearly a thousand tons, made, and very soon all was in readiness to begin the construction of the great gun. Curiously enough his Majesty the Emperor of Russia was the first to see one of its coils welded, and since that time the work has been gradually going on, till now the steel tube, the breech piece, one coil, and the trunnion are finished; so that it is certain by June next the gun will be ready for trial. It will then consist of the following parts: A tough steel tube inside, weighing nearly sixteen tons, and measuring about twenty-four feet in length; a breech-piece coil twelve feet in length; one central, another coil nearer to the muzzle, and the trunnion coil. The cascabel through which the fire from the friction tube is communicated to the cartridge inside the gun is of steel, and immensely strong."

Mind-Reading—Explanations by Dr. Wm. A. Hammond, of New York.

Many curious experiments have been made in regard to the influence of the mind over the body, and the question whether the mind of one person can interpret the thoughts of another, under certain circumstances, has been much discussed recently by physicians in this city. J. R. Brown, who calls himself a mind-reader, and who claims to be able to determine the train of thought in another, when brought especially in contact, performed some experiments in this city, and his methods were investigated by many distinguished physicians and scientists. Mr. Brown afterward went to New Haven and exhibited his powers there before a large audience. The committee who there investigated Mr. Brown's methods reported that they "were not ready to assert that the claim of mind-reading had been clearly maintained."

Dr. William A. Hammond and several other scientists attended several of Mr. Brown's seances, as he called them, while he was in this city. Mr. Brown said that he could not operate through Dr. Hammond, but could not give any reason for such a statement. With other gentlemen Mr. Brown performed various experiments. One of the gentlemen hid his door-key under a mat in the hall. Mr. Brown, blindfold, took one of the gentleman's hands in his, and touched the other, which was held against his forehead. Mr. Brown then charged the gentleman to think of nothing but the place where the object was hidden. Mr. Brown then led the gentleman about the room and out into the hall. When they reached the mat, Mr. Brown stopped and said: "Here it is." Mr. Brown had also a string of large letters of the alphabet hung across the room, and upon this he spelled out a word thought of by some gentleman. This was often done correctly, though Mr. Brown was securely blindfolded all the time.

Dr. Hammond explains the process by the theory that the person operated upon, thinking intensely upon the subject, gives some sign, involuntarily, perhaps, when the place is reached, or the object attained that is being sought. Mr. Brown, by long practice, probably perceives an indication that another might not notice. Dr. Hammond said that after a little practice he had been able to perform some of Mr. Brown's experiments with complete success. In one experiment Dr. Hammond wrote down a list of names, and told a person to think of one of them. He then placed his fingers upon the person's wrist, and said, "Now I will tell you the name of the person you are thinking of. Read over the list, and when you reach the right name I shall know by your pulse which it is." The person then began and read down the list, and each time when the name thought of was reached, by some means it would be plainly indicated, to the great astonishment of the person experimented upon. "The whole is explained to me," added Dr. Hammond, "by the influence of the mind over the body. The majority of persons thinking steadily upon one subject do not fail to give evidence when that subject is reached which that person has been expecting. The reason why Mr. Brown could not operate upon me was, I would not allow myself to give the slightest indication that would enable him to detect my thoughts. I found this a very difficult thing to do, and, after I had tried it, I did not wonder that many were unable to exercise this control. I think that, when this theory of external indication of a thought suddenly touched upon is followed up further, it will explain the whole of Mr. Brown's mind-reading.—New York Tribune.

The Steam Potato Digger.

In the Franklin Institute Fair, in Philadelphia, they have on exhibition a "steam potato digger," which is "warranted to do the work of sixty men." It interested me very much, because only a few days before I heard Cooley tell of his experience with one of these machines. He put it in his potato field, and for a time it turned out the potatoes in magnificent style, and he began to think that he had obtained a prize. But after a while something occurred to the throttle valve, and the digger began to jump about in the most extraordinary manner, rearing, and pitching, and snorting without paying any attention to the potatoes. Cooley managed to get upon it for the purpose of shutting off steam, but he must have pulled the bar the wrong way, for no sooner had he reached the ground than the digger gave a couple of preliminary shrieks and started on a bee line across the field. It burst through the fence, ran over two cows, and mashed a Southdown ram out as flat as the contents of a Patent Office report. Then it dashed into the barnyard, through two stacks of hay, and through the stables, emerging close by the smoke-house, from which it wrenched the open door. Then it plunged over the flower beds, leaving a furrow three feet wide and two feet deep; it tore down four dwarf pear trees, hurried into the kitchen, upset the stove, and from there whirled into the parlor, smashed the looking-glass, overturned the center-table and the family Bible, and finally brought up on the top of the piano, which it set afire. They got it out at last just in time to prevent a general conflagration. And now Cooley digs potatoes with a shovel. His views are not found among the recommendations of the machine printed in the circulars which are distributed at the fair.

A Sacred Duty of Doctors.—Oliver Wendell Holmes has been causing a sensation in New England, and the thing has now spread beyond the bounds of that narrow domain. In a recent appress he boldly advocated it as the duty of physicians to make the last hours of a patient hopelessly ill as painless as possible. He said: "It remains for the physician to claim as his art the right of procuring painless passage out of the world, so far as is practicable, for the patient whom he can keep no longer in it, and without doing violence to the proprieties of the closing scene, to consider the physical process as one which should be under his exclusive direction."

A Chester, Pa., firm is "Young & Fair."

Indiana Legislature.

SENATORS.

Posey and Gibson—Jasper Davidson, Hazleton, Dem.
Vanderburgh—M. C. Gooding, Evansville, Rep.
Warrick and Pike—James B. Hendricks, Petersburgh, Dem.
Spencer and Perry—Robert Tobin, Tobin's Bottom, Rep.
Sullivan and Knox—Henry K. Wilson, Carlisle, Dem.
Daviess and Greene—Andrew Humphrey, Bloomfield, Dem.
Martin, Orange and Dubois—Henry A. Peed, Loogootee, Dem.
Crawford and Harrison—S. M. Stockslager, Corydon, Dem.
Floyd and Clarke—Frank C. Johnson, New Albany, Dem.
Washington and Jackson—John A. Bowman, Salem, Dem.
Lawrence and Monroe—George W. Friedley, Bedford, Rep.
Brown and Bartholomew—John B. Groves, Columbus, Dem.
Scott, Jennings and Decatur—J. H. Friedley, Woostervills, Rep.
Jefferson—John L. Roe, Wirt, Rep.
Switzerland, Ohio and Ripley—William Culbertson, Moorfield, Dem.
Decatur and Rush—Geo. B. Sleeth, Rushville, Rep.
Vigo—Harvey D. Scott, Terre Haute, Rep.
Owen and Clay—M. B. Ringo, Poland, Dem.
Shelby and Johnson—M. B. Slater, Franklin, Dem.
Putnam and Hendricks—Addison Daggy, Greencastle, Rep.
Parke and Vermillion—James Johnson, Rockville, Rep.
Fountain and Warren—William P. Rhodes, Williamsport, Rep.
Tippecanoe—John M. LaRue, Lafayette, Rep.
Benton, Newton, Jasper and White—George Major, Remington, Ind.
Lake and Porter—DeForest L. Skinner, Valparaiso, Dem.
Laporte—J. H. Winterbotham, Michigan City, Dem.
St. Joseph and Starke—Joseph Henderson, South Bend, Dem.
Marshal, Fulton and Pulaski—Milo R. Smith, Rochester, Dem.
Kosciusko and Whitley—Charles W. Chapman, Warsaw, Rep.
Elkhart—James R. Beardsley, Elkhart, Rep.
Noble and LaGrange—William Bunyan, Kendallville, Rep.
Steuben and DeKalb—W. I. Howard, Angola, Rep.
Allen—Robert C. Bell, Fort Wayne, Dem.
Allen, Adams and Wells—J. D. Sarnighausen, Fort Wayne, Dem.
Huntington and Wabash—Elijah Hackleman, Wabash, Rep.
Grant, Blackford and Jay—Isaac Underwood, Camden, Rep.
Miami and Howard—Daniel R. Beards, Peru, Rep.
Cass and Carroll—David D. Dykeman, Logansport, Dem.
Hamilton and Tipton—Peter Cardwell, Noblesville, Ind.
Boone and Clinton—Andrew J. Boone, Lebanon, Dem.
Madison and Delaware—Robert H. Cree, Alexandria, Ind.
Randolph—A. J. Neff, Winchester, Rep.
Wayne—William Baxter, Richmond, Rep. *
Henry and Handcock—William R. Hough, Greenfield, Rep.
Fayette, Union and Rush—R. M. Haworth, Liberty, Rep.
Marion—W. C. Thompson, D. H. Oliver, Indianapolis, Rep.
Marion and Morgan—James J. Maxwell, Martinsville, Dem.
Dearborn and Franklin—Noah S. Givens, Lawrenceburg, Dem.
Montgomery—J. F. Harney, Ladoga, Dem.

*Contested.

REPRESENTATIVES.

Posey—John Waltz, New Harmony, Dem.
Gibson—Jacob M. Montgomery, Owensville, Dem.
Vanderburg—Adolph Pfaflin, Rep.; William H. Miller, Ind., Evansville.
Warrick—Nathan Peyeatt, Yankeetown, Dem.
Pike—James W. Arnold, Stendal, Dem.
Spencer—James Remine, Gentryville, Dem.
Perry—John H. Haynes, Perryville, Dem.
Sullivan—James L. Nash, Paxton, Dem.
Knox—Charles E. Crane, Vincennes, Dem.
Daviess—Harvey Taylor, Raggleeville, Dem.
Greene—Martin C. Fulk, Park P. O., Ind.
Martin and Dubois—Andrew J. Gossman, Jasper, Dem.
Crawford and Orange—John L. Meginity, Paoli, Dem.
Harrison—Samuel Ramsey, New Salisbury, Dem.
Floyd—John S. Davis, New Albany, Dem.
Clarke—Thos. S. Bellows, New Providence, Dem.
Washington—Alfred B. Collins, Salem, Dem.
Jackson—Alex. A. Davidson, Brownstown, Dem.
Monroe—Wm. N. Roseberry, Bloomington, Dem.
Brown and Bartholomew—Alfred Miller, Nashville, Dem.
Jennings—James M. Wynn, Scipio, Rep.
Scott, Jennings and Jefferson—Lewis C. Law, Madison, Dem.
Jefferson—James W. Lanham, Manville, Rep.
Ripley, Decatur and Rush—Barker Brown, Rushville, Dem.
Ripley—Mortimer L. Henderson, Versailles, Ind.
Switzerland and Ohio—William T. Pate, Patriot, Dem.
Decatur—John N. Shaw, Greensburg, Dem.
Rush—John Redick, Rushville, Dem.
Vigo—Jacob Gilbert, Dem.; Benjamin F. Havens, Terre Haute, Dem.
Owen—Jesse H. Reno, Quincy, Dem.
Clay—George W. Bence, Brazil, Dem.
Morgan—John Kenneday, Paragon, Rep.
Johnson—Cornelius McFadden, Trafalgar, Ind.
Putnam—James G. Edwards, Carpentersville, Dem.
Hendricks—James W. Morgan, Danville, Rep.
Putnam and Hendricks—William R. Ragan, Clayton, Rep.
Parke—Daniel Thomas, Portland Mills, Rep.
Vermillion—E. Y. Jackson, Sr., Newport, Ind.
Park and Montgomery—John R. Miller, Bridgeton, Dem.
Warren—John C. Lincoln, West Lebanon, Ind.
Fountain—Jesse Marvin, Attica, Dem.
Tippecanoe—Samuel Shortridge, Lafayette, Rep.; J. R. Anderson, Colburn, Rep.
Benton and Newton—James Emerson, Aydelotte, Dem.
Jasper and White—George H. Brown, Pleasant Grove, Ind.
Lake—Samuel Ames, Lowell, Rep.
Porter—T. Crumpacker, Valparaiso, Rep.
Laporte—Edward Evans, Laporte, Dem.
St. Joseph—David R. Leeper, South Bend, Dem.
Marshall and St. Joseph—William C. McMichael Mishawaka, Dem.
Kosciusko and Fulton—George R. Bearss, Rochester, Rep.
Fulton, Pulaski and Starke—George Burson, Winamac, Dem.
Kosciusko—John D. Heighway, Sevastopol, Rep.
Whitley—Thomas Washburn Columbia City, Ind.
Elkhart—Albert Osborn, Goshen, Dem.
Noble—Oliver D. Willett, Kendallville, Dem.
Lagrange—Samuel Harper, Orland, Rep.
Steuben—E. B. Glasgow, Angola, Rep.
DeKalb—Miles Waterman, Waterloo, Dem.
Allen—Mahlon Heller, Monroeville, Dem.; Patrick Horn, Fort Wayne, Dem.
Adams and Wells—Augustus N. Martin, Bluffton, Dem.
Huntington—James C. Favorite, Huntington, Rep.
Wabash—Hiram Dale, Dora, Rep.
Huntington and Wabash—Abner H. Shaffer, Huntington, Rep.
Grant and Blackford—William Twibell, Montpelier, Rep.
Grant—Cornelius Shugart, Fairmont, Rep.
Miami—David Charters, Peru, Dem.
Howard—James M. Darnall, Kokomo, Rep
Cass—John A. Cantley, Logansport, Dem.
Carroll—James S. Johnson, Delphi, Dem.
Hamilton—Nathan H. Clark, Eaglstown, Rep.
Hamilton and Tipton—Samuel M. Taylor, Tipton, Rep.
Clinton—Frank D. Caldwell, Frankfort, Dem.
Boone—Henry M. Marvin, Zionsville Dem.
Montgomery—Peter S. Kennedy, Crawfordsville, Rep.
Madison—George W. Harris, Anderson, Dem.
Delaware—Wm. Ribble, Salena, Rep.
Jay and Delaware—Matthew A. Smith, Albany, Rep.
Randolph—Martin A. Reeder, Winchester, Rep.
Wayne—Bronson L. Harris, Greenfork, Rep.; Joseph C. Ratliff, Richmond, Rep.
Henry—Mark E. Forkner, New Castle, Rep.
Hancock—Smith McCord, Greenfield, Dem.
Henry and Madison—Addison R. A. Thompson, Anderson, Ind.
Fayette and Union—Milton Trusler, Everton, Rep.
Marion—James Hopkins, James Thompson, David Turpie, E. C. Kennedy, Indianapolis, Dem.
Marion and Shelby—Elijah T. Keightley, Indianapolis, Dem.
Shelby—William Patterson, Mt. Auburn, Dem.
Dearborn—Columbus Johnson, Aurora, Dem.
Franklin—John S. Martin, Brookville, Dem.
Noble and Elkhart—George T. Barney, Elkhart, Dem.
Marshal—Designey A. Snyder, Tyner City, Dem.
Miami and Howard—Samuel Woody, Russiaville, Rep.

Ohio River Pirates.

Hard times are upon us now, and it seems the tighter money matters become the more crime and general deviltry there is among that class of people who make their living off of others.

It is said that an organization of desperadoes are industriously at work along the river from West Point to Owensboro, and, though no very serious damage has been done until recently, a number of instances have been pointed out where the citizens living near the river have lost goods, money, poultry and many other small things. The robbers are in small bands, and scattered along the river at distances from five to ten miles apart, and report to headquarters at short intervals. From two citizens of Stephensport, who came up on the steamer John S. Bransford today, we learn of the capture of a band of robbers, or river pirates, near Stephensport, Ky., on Thursday night. It appears that one band of the desperadoes, or river pirates, about ten in number, including women, have been floating down the river from Louisville, in a small trading boat, robbing the people on both shores, and defying arrest. They were thoroughly armed with sixteen-shooters—Henry rifles—and generally anchored out in the river. At night they would go ashore and rob farm-houses of provisions, poultry and such other articles as they could get away with. They robbed a store in Amsterdam of about $100 worth of goods. They invaded the farm of a widow woman in daylight, and robbed her of turkeys, chickens and other property. They had become the terror of the upper coast, and the citizens armed themselves for protection, and tried to obtain a cannon, with which to blow the piratical craft out of the water. They robbed an old man named Davis, opposite Concordia, of all the provisions he had, and he was compelled to kill a hog before his family could breakfast. On Thursday a posse of twenty-five or thirty men slipped upon them and captured nine of the party, and there were apprehensions that they would fare rough.

Of this gang there were four men, three women, and two children, and near by in the woods, near Roberts' Landing, was found a lot of burglars' tools, keys, and a complete gunsmith's shop. In attempting to make their escape one of the men was shot in the arm and a boy wounded in the foot, by the discharge of a gun. The boy begged piteously, and said he would divulge and tell the whole story if his life was spared. The captured party was placed in safe keeping, and are to be tried to-day. The men had on red shirts, and one of them was particularly shrewd and made a rather prepossessing appearance.

The news soon spread over the whole neighborhood, and the wildest excitement prevails. Threats of lynching are freely made, and we would not be surprised to hear of the men of the gang pulling hemp.—New Albany (Ind.) Ledger-Standard.

A Murderer's Confession.

On the 29th of October Joseph Robbins, a bridge watchman at Kaskia river, on the Vandalia railroad, in Illinois, was murdered. Nathan Burgess, a neighbor of Robbins, was arrested by the officials of Fayette county, and the evidence against him was so strong that he has made the following confession in open court:

"I knew the 'Vandalia,' the pay car, had passed that afternoon, and had paid Robbins his month's wages. I got that shot gun and went to the bridge. As I approached the watch-house I saw through the window Robbins sitting inside. His shoulders and head only could be seen. I raised the gun and fired. I then hesitated a few minutes to listen if the report of the gun had aroused any one. I then went up to the watch-house door and found Robbins on his knees praying. I plainly heard him say: 'Oh, God, have mercy on the one who did this! Spare him for Jesus sake!' I was horrified, and turned and ran. I did not know where. I did not enter the house nor touch the door. His words haunt me still."

The sum of money for which Robbins was murdered was $31.50. There is great excitement in Fayette county and threats of lynching Burgess.

A Ghastly Trade.—An old soldier in Sicily gave his wife a silk dress. His wife died, and was buried in the dress. Some weeks after the old soldier saw this dress on a woman in the country, and, making inquiry, was told she had purchased it from the Capuchin monks, who had the custody of the village cemetery. He reported the case to the police, who investigated, and made the discovery that a regular trade was carried on in effects taken from dead bodies. There was even a trade in hair.

The worst wheel of the cart makes the most noise.

THE FATAL ARROW.

My father had a fair-haired harvester;
I gleaned behind him in the barley land;
And there he put a red rose in my hand;
O, cruel, killing leaves those rose leaves were!

He sung to me a little lovelorn lay,
Learned of some bird; and while his sickle swept Athwart the shining stalks, my wild heart kept
Beating the tune up with him all the way.

One time we rested by the limpid stream,
O'er which the loose-tongued willows whispered low;
Ah, blessed hour! so long and long ago,
It cometh back unto me like a dream.

And there he told me, blushing soft—ah me!
Of one that he could love—so young and fair,
Like mine the color of her eyes and hair;
O foolish heart! I thought that I was she!

Full flowed his manly beard; his eyes so brown
Made sweet confession with their tender look,
A thousand times I kissed him in the brook
Across the flowers—with bashful eyelids down.

And even yet I cannot hear the stir
Of willows by the water but I stop,
And down the warm waves all their length I drop
My empty arms to find my harvester.

In all his speech there was no word to mend;
Whate'er he said, or right or wrong was best,
Until at last an arrow pierced my breast,
Tipt with a fatal point—he called me friend.

Still next my heart the fading rose I wore,
But all so sad; full well I know, God wot,
That I had been in love and he had not,
And in the barley field I gleaned no more.

Humor.

A Yankee critic, speaking of a very tall actor, said, "He's tall enough to act in two parts."

"A play upon words," as the fireman said when he thrust his hose into the bookseller's shop to put out the flames.

A physician advised a patient "to take a walk on an empty stomach." "Whose stomach?" feebly asked the patient.

Seventy-five ladies of Rochester are out in a card denying that they sleep in their corsets in order to keep their forms graceful.

The difference between a fool and a looking-glass is said to be that the fool speaks without reflecting, and that the looking-glass reflects without speaking.

"My dear sir," said a candidate, accosting a stray wag on the day of election. "I am very glad to see you." "You needn't be," replied the wag, "I have voted."

"How much did he leave?" inquired a gentleman of a wag, on learning the death of a wealthy citizen. "Everything," responded the wag, "he didn't take a dollar with him."

First wife—"Dear me, Mrs. Doyle, I have heard that your husband was a spirit-medium; is it so?" Second wife—"Medium! Goodness, yes. Comes home drunk every night."

The New York Commercial thinks that the sneak thief who is obtaining access to houses in Newark, by representing that he is to tune the piano, must be one of the forte thieves.

A Michigan farmer complains that he is not receiving half the campaign speeches this year necessary to light his fires, and he has had to make a shaving contract with a cooper-shop.

"Now, John, drive slow and keerful, and don't run over any insurance agents," was a Will county Granger's advice to his son the other day, in starting him to town with a load of wheat.

An excited railway man, who shouts into the car the names of the stations, and who hears a great deal of complaint because the names are called indistinctly, wants to know if the public expect tenors at $40 a month.

A countryman bargained with a California photographer for a half-length picture of himself at half price, and when the artist delivered a fine view of his subject from the waistband down, the victimized sitter indulged in remarks more forcible than polite.

Richardson, the painter, used to speak of an open, honest country gentleman who one day asked him to come to his house, adding: "I wish very much to see you for I have just purchased a picture from Rubens. It is a rare good one. Brown saw it, and says it is a copy. A copy! If any man living dares to say it is a copy, I will break every bone in his skin! Pray call on me and give me your opinion."

A country exchange gets off the following on delinquent subscribers: "Looking over an old ledger, we see a long array of names of former subscribers who are indebted to us. Some of them have moved away, and are lost to sight, although to memory dear. Others are carrying the contribution boxes in the most respectable churches, and others again have died and are angels in heaven, but they owe us just the same."

Says the Boston Bulletin: "And now the drawling 'Tha-a-nks' of the languid swells has crept into the dry goods stores; so when a lady hands her currency to the brisk counter-jumper, and he has yelled 'ca-a-sh' in a rasping voice into her very face half a dozen times, and rapped on the counter till her teeth are on edge, he unsettles her digestion for the rest of the day by handing her the change and drawling 'Tha-a-nks' in a vapid, easy, familiar style, as if he had just finished a waltz with her."

Gen. Sherman's Consent.

Since the marriage, we have been let let into the secrets of the courtship a little. The young man was not over-sanguine when the young lady referred him to her pa, and he approached the awful presence feeling uncertain whether he would succeed or be tried by a court-martial. However, he managed to ask for what he wanted, and stood waiting for the verdict. The General heard him, and then turned upon him abruptly with the question, "What can you do?"

"Do? Why, I can build an engine, put it up and run it!"

"Give me your hand. You are the boy for me. Now go and ask Min what she thinks about it."

That is the way the General got rid of that application. It is almost too late in the day to speculate as to what Min thought about it.—Washington correspondence.

John Milton was baptized in the church of All Hallow's Broad street, London. It is now standing, but is soon to be taken down.

Auburn Courier.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 26th, 1874

TAYLOR-WATERMAN CONTEST.

The Waterloo Press of last week contained the testimony of B. F. Cornelius as given by him before the Commission of Justices, and the conductor of that paper italicised the following answer, apparently considering it the most important part of the testimony.

Cross Examination

Question 36.—How do you know that Edward H. Taylor received sixty-nine votes for Representative in Troy Tp.

Ans. I know from the fact that a few days previous to the election I heard a certain Republican of the Tp. was going to vote for Waterman. When we come to count out, we found it to be the case, that being the case I distinctly remember that Mr. Taylor was scratched one vote, the Republican vote in the Tp. being 70 would leave Mr. Taylor sixty-nine votes.

The following testimony will show how the republican vote in the Tp. came to be seventy and Mr. Taylor sixty nine.

B. F. Cornelius' Ans to question 9. Cross-examination.

Did you compare the tally sheet with the poll book to see if they agreed in number.

Ans—We did.

Question 10—When you got through counting did they agree?

Ans.—They did.

Question 11—Was there not a variation which the board, at that time corrected?

Ans.—Yes sir.

Question 12—What was the variation, state all the particulars?

Ans.—I think there were three tallies less than the number on the poll book showed, the number of ballots. To correct this we separated the tickets, took out all the scratched tickets, then we counted all the democratic tickets that were not scratched, and also the republican tickets not scratched. Then we ascertained on which side the ticket were missing, and added enough tallies to make the tally sheet and poll book compare.

Question 12.—Who assisted the board in making said corrections?

Ans—Wm. R. Emerson and Gilbert C. Everts.

Question 14—What did they do?

Ans.—Mr. Emerson went on and gave advice, and told how it should be done. He did something. Do not remember what he did do. He proposed three or four ways to get the straight of it. I remember of seeing him have the ballots in his hands, he was counting them. Mr. Everts, I think did make marks or figures to ascertain where the missing ballots should go.

Question 17—To whom were said votes tallied, Mr. Waterman or Mr. Taylor?

Ans.—My recollection is that they were tallied to Mr. Taylor.

Question 18—How many votes were tallied for Mr. Taylor?

Ans.—My recolection is that there were three—might have been four.

Question 19—Was Wm. R. Emerson a member of said board or one of the clerks?

Ans.—He was neither

Question 20—Was said Everts one of the judges of said election, or one of the clerks?

Ans.—He was neither.

Question 21—Were said ballots taken off the string, and seperated in piles on the table, and in that way so counted?

Ans.—I think they were,

Question 29—Were they handled or counted by Gilbert C. Everts?

Ans. He counted some of them, I recolect.

Question 28 Has either of these contestants for Representative to wit: Mr. Waterman or Mr. Taylor had any communication with you in regard to said election, since the election?

Ans. Mr. Waterman did not to my recolection. Mr. Taylor and I had a few words.

Question 32. Is said Emerson a democrat or a republican?

Ans. He is a republican.

Question 38. How do you know that the tally sheet returned by you was correct as you stated in answer to interrogation No 43?

Ans. I know the fact they were both alike before I made the change.

Question 39. Might they both be wrong?

Ans. I think not.

Question 40. Were any other erasures or corrections made on the talley sheet returned by you to the board of canvassers?

Ans. Was not

Question 40. Was not the tally given to Jno McDonald for trustee of Troy Tp. on said talley sheet charged?

Ans. Not that I know of.

Question 45. Has not, in your opinion, some of the tallies given to said McDonald been erased?

Ans. It looks as though they had.

Question 45. Has not, in your opinion some of the tallies set opposite the name of Mr. Waterman been erased in the tally sheet retained?

Ans. I do not know, it has been scratched or is a dim mark.

Question 46. Counting the one that has been scratched or a dim mark how many tallies are set opposite said Waterman's name on said tally sheet?

Ans. Forty four.

Question 47. How many votes were counted to Mr. Waterman by the board of canvassers?

Ans. I think forty-two.

Eber M. Coll testified as follows:

Question 1. To which political party do you belong?

Ans. Republican.

Question 16. Were said ballots taken to differant desks during the time they were being re counted?

Ans. Part of them was.

Question 17. How long were you engaged in re-counting said ballots?

Ans. I should think about two hours.

Question 14. Did any other person besides said judges of election, count or handle said ballots?

Ans. Yes sir.

Question 15. Who?

Ans. Wm. R. Emerson, G. C. Everts counted or handled a part of them, I think the two clerks handled a part of them,

Mr. Coll also testified, that four tallies were set to Mr Taylor after recounting the votes.

The conductors of the Waterloo Press are tenacious about taking the paper first made out, and before any alterations are made, and we will adopt the same rule as follows:

The board of canvassers gave Waterman..........................1,961
Taylor..........................1,960

Waterman's majority..............1

Now add the five votes to Taylor, as Mr. Cornelious claims, he erased that number from said Taylors votes in Troy Tp. making his No 1,965.—Then take from this the four votes added by the election board of said Tp after the votes were all taken out of the box, and after the ballots were handled by the whole house for two hours, which would leave Mr Taylor 1,961. Then add to Mr. Waterman's votes the vote which Mr. Cornelious swears the tally sheet retained by him shows said Waterman entitled to more than the board of canvassers gave him which would make his vote....1,963
Taylor..........................1,961

Waterman's majority..............2

It will be remembered that the election board of Troy Tp return no certificate, showing the number of votes each candidate received, as the law requires Only a tally sheet and poll book were presented to the board of canvasser.

* * *

Salary grabbers being considered an inelegant term, we have about determined to call them compensation jerkers or remuneration kelptomeniacs.—We want to be real nice about it and we don't know which sounds the most elegant.

* * *

The Republicans of Minnessota have re-elected Sarlary-grabbers Dunnell to Congress. Of course this pleases all other Salary-grabbers; but we can't help but contrasting the actions of the Minnesotians with those of the Indianians. The Hoosiers "don't take any in their'n."

* * *

Come to think of it, they must not think it a little singular, those good loil Republicans, that the Democrats are not all shouting for Jeff Davis and displaying Rebel flags. There is a suspicion that all that dwaddle about rebel flags and Northern white Leagues was rather thin.

* * *

The Democratic State of Pennsylvania is elected by three or four thousand majority. The Congressional delegation stands sixteen Democrats to eleven Republicans. The Legislature is Democratic on joint ballot, which will give us a Democratic Senator in place of SCOTT, Republican.

* * *

Rev. Will. C. Moreau, formerly a politician of some note in this state, and the leader of the O'Connor movement two years ago, but who has for some time been preaching in Georgia was assassinated at his home in Washington county, Ga., on the night of November 9th, between the hours of 9 and 10 o'clock. A correspondent, giving an account of the affairs, says that he was shot dead through a glass window while setting in a rocking-chair by his fire side reading a newspaper. On one side of him sat his wife, and just behind him was sitting a little girl who lived with them, and on the bed in the room was lying asleep, the little daughter of Mrs. Moreau. The murderer entered the piazza, and stealthily approaching the window, fired the fatal shot through one of the lower panes of glass. The shot struck the window, and broke the lamp, putting it out, and then entered the body of Mr. Moreau.

There are 20 Democratic governors, 15 Republican and 2 Indipendent.—The Democrats have the majority in twenty-one states, the Republicans in thirteen, and the Independent hold the balance of power in three. The Democrats will have a majority of 60 or 70 in the next congress, backed by a majority of more than half a million votes. This is not a bad showing for a party that has been declared to have been dead for many years.

We Have Received,

And are now daily opening our general stock for the Fall and Winter Trade in every department of our business.

The unexplained depression in the Dry Goods market during the last two weeks, has offered opportunity to cash buyers not before known in many years. DRY GOODS have now reached a lower bottom than ever seemed posible again in this country. The panic prices were "war prices" compared to what we have been buying, the best class of desirable goods at for the past two weeks about the dulest period of trade in the history of New York.

Our stock was never more complete in every department seldom ever so good. We seldom ever offered in every way such inducements as now.—The stock is the completest and most attractive of any season in many years. Having bought at the present low prices we are prepared to give our customers better value for their money, and more of it than at any time before.

Close Cash Bvyers!

Should examin our elegant line of

Beaded Passementrie Trimmings
Beaded Buttons and Ornaments, Beaded Belts
Pocket and Cloaks
Loops

EXAMINE
New cloaks, New Shawls and Furs.
EXAMINE
New Felt Skirts and Water Proofs
EXAMINE
Underwear, Hosiery, and Gloves.
EXAMINE
Housekeeping Linens, and Cottons.
EXAMINE
Black Cashmeres and De Este
EXAMINE
New Winter Dress Goods
EXAMINE
New Calicos and Domestics
EXAMINE
Cloak and Trimming Velvets
EXAMINE
Cloaking and Cassimeres
EXAMINE
Flannels and Blankets
EXAMINE
New Goods which are arriving daily

Root & Company,

At their New Location

46 & 48 Columbia-st

AT THE

New York Store.

Henry W. Bond,

FORMERLY OF

DeWALD, BOND & COMPANY

FORT WAYNE, IND.

Has opened a new

FANCY, DRY
GOODS, AND LADIES' FURNISHING STORE

AT

21 West Main St.

A few doors west of the Court House.

His stock comprises FANCY GOODS, of all kinds
Flannel,
Yarns,
Cotton,
Cotten Flannels.
Linens, Laces,
Embroiders,
Hosiery, Gloves
Zephyrs, Canvass,
and everything needed for fancy work and embroidery. I extend a cordial invitation to the citizens of Auburn to call and see me when in Fort Wayne.

My goods are all new and was purchased strictly for cash are being sold from 25 to 50 per cent lower than regular prices.

HENRY W. BOND

The Great Cause of
HUMAN MISERY

Just Published in a Sealed Envelope. Price 6 cts.

A LECTURE on the nature, treatment and radical cure of Seminal Weakness, or Spermatorrhœa, induced by self abuse, Involuntary Emissions, Impotency, Nervous Debility and fits; Mental and Physical Incapacity, &c.—by Robt. J. Culverwell, M. D. author of the "Green Book," &c.

The world-renowned author, in this admirable Lecture, clearly proves from his own experience that the awful consequences of self abuse may be cured without medicine, and without dangerous surgical operations; pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radical.

This lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands. Sent, under seal, in a plain envelope to any address, on receipt of 6 cents, or two postage stamps. Address

CHAS. J. C. KLINE & CO.,
127 Bowery, N. Y. Post Office Box [illegible]

The Newest & Best

The Mammoth House

19 WEST MAIN-ST.,
FORT WAYNE, IND.

M. E. Woodward!

Has just received the finest and largest stock of

Clothing,

PIECE GOODS, ETC,

at his new store, over in the place.

NO OLD GOODS!

and Fashionable Furnishing Goods, Boys &c. Don't fail to see the new store.

ELLSWORTH, ANDREW & CO.,

SUCCESSORS TO

JOHN MAC DOUGAL,

DEALERS IN

CARPETS,

Oil Cloths,

Curtains & Fixtr's

26 East Berry street.

Fort Wayne, Ind.

The Best and Cheapest place to by Carpets in the city.

Pittsburg, Baltimore & Ohio R.R
IS COMING.

Therefore buy your

Dry Goods,

Notions, etc., of

CHARLES KLOTZ

AT HIS

Old Stand

ON MAIN STREET,

Opposite Court Square

AUBURN, INDIANA

Where he may be found at all times ready to accommodate customers, and sell them such goods as they may need,

CLOTHING

Of all descriptions, and

HANDSOME SUITS
Made to Order!

GREATLY IMPROVED.

THE

Eagle Mills!

Having been recently refitted and improved, is now in excellent running order. Having employed one of the best millers in the country, I can now guarantee satisfaction. Prompt attention given to Custom Work.

FLOUR, BRAN, MILL FEED, ETC., on hand at low prices.

L. BOWERS.

AUBURN

Meat Market.

Main St. Next door to Klotz's.

Houston and Benedict,
PROPRIETORS.

Having fitted up our establishment in first class style, with increased facilities, were are now prepared to furnish Fresh Meats in the best of order at reasonable rates. Give us a call.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of an Execution to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, in a cause wherein The Kalamazoo Manufacturing Company is Plaintiff and Henry H. Houser is Defendant require me to make the sum of one hundred and forty dollars and seventy-nine cents, with interest on said judgment and costs, I will expose at public sale, to the highest bidder, on between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m. of said day, at the door of the Court House in DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate:

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 28th, 1874

The north half [½] of lot five [5] in the village of Cedar Creek Station in DeKalb county, Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sum sufficient to satisfy said judgment, interest and costs, I will, at the same time and place, expose at public sale, the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said judgment, interest and costs. Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

W. L. MEESE, Sheriff.

Auburn Nov. 5th, 1874.

COLGROVE Atty for Plff. $10.50

LUMBER ! LUMBER !

DIRECT FROM THE MILL.

GREATLY REDUCED PRICES !

F. N. Wright & Co.

Manufacture their own lumber with their own mill, at Greenville Michigan, and can therefor sell for less than any other local Dealer in Lumber

A Lumberyard has been established at Auburn by this Company Where there can be found an extensive variety of Lumber

LATH AND SHINGLES

Which will be sold for less than ever has been offered before. We know that we can sell Low and furnish as good an article of lumber as has ever been seen in the County.

Yard on Jackson Street, near Berry's Planing Mill.

A. LEWIS Supt.

Boots & Shoes

FOR SERVICE!

Buy the Stylish, Good-Fitting Double-Sewed

FINE SHOES!

For LADIES' and MISSES' wear, with this Trade Mark in every shoe.

DOUBLE SEWED P NEVER RIP.

The Soles are attached to the Uppers with two rows of five-cord waxed thread, (instead of one row as in other shoes,) and are

WARRANTED

Never to rip from the uppers.

S. W. Sprott & Son,
SOLE AGENTS.

Where also may be found a full line of

BOOTS & SHOES,

Both Fine and Coarse, for Men, Women and Children.

Our Stock is full and Complete,
And we can please you both in quality and price.

Custom Work a Specialty.

CALL AND SEE US.

S. W. SPROTT & SON.

THE OLD RELIABLE.

F. E. DAVENPORT,

Corner Main and Eighth-Sts.,

DEALER IN

Pure Drugs and Medicines,

DYE STUFFS, PERFUMERY,

Toilet Soaps Cosmetics, Hair Oils, Brushes, Combs, Toilet Mirrors and Druggists' Sundries in General.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY!

Wall and Window Paper!

Oiled, Linen and Silk Window Shades, and Shade Fixtures.

All the latest POEMS and MISCELLANEOUS BOOKS constantly on hand or ordered. Blank Books, Pocket Memorandums, Portmonies and Bill Books, WRITING PAPERS. All Styles and prices ALBUMS! ALBUMS! ALBUMS just received for the Holliday trade.

Over $300.00 worth of Juvenile and Toy Books, which will be sold at panic prices. Smith's Gold Pens, warranted the best. Also steel Pens, Penholders, Pencils, Ink and Ink Stands &c.

SCHOOL BOOKS!

Covered with best Cover ever invented Free Of Charge.

Davenport has the exclusive right to use this book cover in Auburn, and will give his patrons the benefit of the same.

S. C. EVANS, Pres't. C. M. DAWSON, Cash'r.

MERCHANTS

National Bank!

FORT WAYNE, IND.

Capital and Surplus $112,000

Receives Deposits, Discounts Business Paper, issues Letters of Credit, and Collects at all points at the lowest rates of exchange.

Directors:

S. CARY EVANS, R. C. ROBERTSON,
H. C. HANNA, N. P. STOCKBRIDGE
A. C. DAWSON.

Organized 1863. April 9, '74

AUBURN LIVERY

—AND—

SALE STABLE!

Ryan & Mader, pro's

Having on hand everything in the line of

Carriages, Buggies, Wagons, etc

we are prepared to furnish rigs at all times at reasonable prices. Office at Auburn House.

A CARD.

A Clergyman, while residing in South America as a missionary, discovered a safe and simple remedy for the cure of Nervous weakness, Early Decay, Diseases of the Urinary and Seminal Organs, and the whole train of disorders brought on by baneful and vicious habits. Great numbers have been cured by this noble remedy. Prompted by a desire to benefit the afflicted and unfortunate, I will send the recipe for preparing and using this medicine, in a sealed envelope, to any one who needs it Free of Charge. Address,

JOSEPH T. INMAN,
Station D Bible House, New York City.

"Hair Nanure" was what a young lady asked for at one of our drug stores the other day. It subsequently transpired that she wanted "Renewer."

The weather is nice and cold. Prepare for skating party.

Pioneer Sketches

—OF—

DeKALB COUNTY

NUMBER 24.

Others may have settled there as soon but I am not apprised of any others.

I have received no incidents of the early days of the Township and perhaps as this was the last one to be settled there may be no very remarkable incidents.

The Township was organized in the Spring of 1844, there being then but six voters, if I am correctly informed, Fairfield Center is the only village in its bounds and there is but little prospect of its being a city very soon. The railroad passing through a little south of the township line draws the trade to the village on the road.

A few years will no doubt make good its name and fair fields, and beautiful dwellings will be seen in every part of the township. At the close of these sketches permit us to remark that the resources of our country are only begining to be developed. We have all the elements of temporal prosperity at hand.—The soil of our country taking it as a whole is decidedly good. The timber is excellent. We have railroad facilities through almost all parts of the county—and through its entire length. We have abundant water power in the St. Joseph river and the several creeks passing through the county, and where there is any lack in this respect the power of steam is supplying it. Good school houses are being built by most of the Townships in the several school districts and the Union schools of the county presents opportunities for higher attainments in science. Good churches are being erected all over the county, by Evangelical denominations and our citizens generally are moral enterprising, industrious and religiously disposed.

The health of our county has generally improved for a few years past and will, no doubt, still improve as the country is cleared up and the marshes drained.—Let us be greatful for the advantages we enjoy, and strive to act well our part as citizens and as christians. If we live forgetful of our duty to God, to one another or to our fellow men at large, no amount of temporal prosperity can make us truly blest. God bless you all.

A list of those who have filled Township officers in their several Townships so far as we have opportunity collect them.

N. B.—The names are given without any referance, in general, to the order of time in which each filled office. In some Townships the list is very imperfect, but as complete as we colud make it from our means of information.

NEWVILLE,

Justices.—Washington Robinson, J. Helmick, John Cary, J S. Peck, Dwight Moody.

Constables.—John P. Widney, John Thompson, Asa Overacker.

Trustees.—D. Strong, A. R. Fetterer N. Fuller, John Newton, John Murphy N. L. Toman, Newton Tomas, I. N. Blood Alva Lawrence, S. Delong, D. Moody, Ephrom Strong, John Platter.

CONCORD

Justices.—John Blair, Ebenezer Coburn, George Barney, Jeremiah Rhodes John Bates, Asher Coburn, James Dragoo, Moses Perry, Lorenzo Dawuson, Robert Culbertson.

Constables—Gardner Mellendy, W. Monroe, Uriah Miller, Henry Fales, Eben Smith, D. Harrington, Jas. Smith J. Z. Henderson, Sam'l Flin, Moses Boyle John Smith, D. Andrews, Michael Knight W. R. Draee.

Trustees.—S. Widney, John Blair Ebenezer Coburn, Asher Coburn, J. P. Widney, J. E. Shilling, James Hadsell, Asa Fletcher, John F. Coburn, William Monroe, Michael Silberg John Helmick, Moses Perry, Jonathan Boyles, Bushrod Catlin, Romeo Catlin, W. Horner, James Dragoo, John Shutt, Jacob Dils.

Assessors.—Jeremiah Rhodes, John A. Chillis.

JACKSON

Justices.—William Means, John C. Hursh, A. D. Cutchieus, Henry Brown, Jacob Mowror.

Constables.—Wm. R. Moore, Wm. M. Nabb, Benj. Bailey, Frank Bailey, David Matthews, Sr. Guisinger, Thomas Wyatt Willis Bishop, Wm. Boaty, A. H. Flutter John Carper, Burton Brown, John M. Clelland.

Trustees.—Oliver Shryder, Aaron Osborn, A. D. Goetschius Sheets, Samuel Tarney, Joseph Walters, Isaac Fainbt Peter Shafer, Jos. Woolsey, David Hendersan, Elias Zimmerman, Abraham Johnson, James McClelland.

Auburn Courier.

Butter 28c.
Potatoes 59
Oats, 48 cts.
Apples 45 cts.
Eggs, 18 cents,
Corn 48 @ 50 cts
Wheat, white, $1
Wood $1.75 @ $2.
Live hogs 5½c per pound.

Local and Miscellaneous.

Thanksgiving.

Weather pretty cold.

Holiday Goods at Beard's.

Ladies' Furs at Stamets'.

The roads in bad condition.

Oysters cheap at Hare Bros.

A new painter has set up here.

Holiday goods in show windows.

The festival was well patronized.

The stave factory has shut down.

Headquarters for Cigars—Hare Bros.

Houston & Bendict are buying poultry.

Hare Bros—the boss place to buy candy

Local news is about as scarce as money.

Children Furs at Stamets' Fancy Store.

Solid freezing weather set in last Monday

The Auburn House will be occupied next week.

"Boss Tweed," the banker, can be seen at Abright's.

Ribbons 25cts cheaper than ever, all silk, at Stamets'.

Mattie Miller's essay is on the first page of this issue.

Muff Lining and Tassels—also old Muffs lined at Stamets'.

Joe Loveland has retired to "his farm" for the winter.

The rains last Sunday has filled up the empty cisterns.

Mr. Rush has moved his auction room in ward's building.

Ladies go to H. H. Stamets' for good prices on Millinery.

A church fair is to be given at Kendallville, the first week in Dec.

Mr. Baldock has made some needed improvements on his premises.

Ryan & Mader are now occupying their new livery barn.

Beard is ahead in his line of Toys, candies, nuts, &c., for the holiday trade

The Conservatory of music is well attended this term.

Billy Stewart's troupe gave good satisfaction here.

Beard has the largest stock of holiday goods you every saw.

Mr. & Mrs. Chas. Floyd have again taken up their abode in Auburn.

If you want some nice candy toys to present to your "Jane," go to Beard's for them.

German and Zaphyr Mohair and Felt Skirts, Gloves, Hosiery, &c., &c., at H. H Stamets.

Ladies' Ties and Fancy Ribbons. Furs for ladies and children cheap at Stamets'

The Butler Dramatic Company have advertised the popular play of Ten Nights in a Bar Room.

Our saw-mills are doing a good business, but nothing to what they will when sleding comes.

Our farmer friends tell us that a large amount of wheat has been put in this season.

The dogs of Clinton County killed 15,000 dollars worth of sheep during the year just passed.

Supt. Smart told us the other day that the Institute at Butler was the best he ever attended.

The juveniles are skipping over the ponds with skates on their feet, with the swiftness of a railroad engine.

When you get hard up for money stop your paper, but don't stop your allowance for drinks nor chewing tobacco.

Oh, the snow! the snow! the boot-full of snow, filling the hair and collar below, and all that sort of thing, you know.

W. Sheffer & Bro., have moved their office in A. J. Little's law office, second floor Coof's building.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher's anniversary was largely attended last Tuesday evening, and a good time was had.

The school is in a flourishing condition and looks promising for a large number of foreign students.

The Commissioners decided the contested election case last Monday, in regard to surveyor, in favor of Mr. Van Auken.

School Books at Houser's.
Best Paper and Ink at Houser's
Everything in the School line at Cal's
Books for the Holidays at Cal Houser's.

Several men were killed at Studebaker's Wagon Works at South Bend, the other day by the falling of an unfinished wall.

A young man in this place has a collection of locks of hair, of his lady friends, and calls them his hair-breadth escapes.

We have sent out a few statements to a few of our subscribers who are in arrears. We hope they will pay up promptly.

Don't fail to see the nice Jewelry at J. Abright's.

Rowell & Chesman, the celebrated advertising agents, have established an office at St. Louis, under the management of Mr. Chesman.

Copies of this week's Courier, containing the admirable essay of Miss Mattie Miller, read before the Teachers' Institute can be had at Houser's Book Store.

John Shugars takes the premium so far on fat hogs. He sold two the other day to Mr. Sommers that aggregated 800 lbs, neither of them being a year old.

Married.—At the bride's parents near Auburn DeKalb Co. Ind. Nov. 22, by Rev. R. P. Jones Stephen Martin to Emma Truit.

This week the school girls have told each other where they spent the vacation, and, taking up the burden of life again, have resumed last term's quarrels.

One of our prominent church members says he does'nt believe dancing is a sin; so that settles the fact that he never had an Auburn lady tread on his toes.

The Young Folks' Social will meet at the residence of F. D. Ryan, Esq., on next Tuesday evening, Dec 1st, 1874. A large attendance is desired, and a splended time anticipated.

Some very handsome toys are now on exhibition at Abright's.

We have received a spicy communication from Waterloo, but as it relates to the late campaign, we think it not of sufficient importance, at this time, to publish.

Auburn will soon be interviewed relative to the establishment of another extensive manufactory. These are the things that build up a town, and every encouragement should be given.

It cost the State a little over $2 000 to suppress the Porter county railroad rebellion but the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co. will refund every cent of the money expended.

Two young ladies at home. Two young gentlemen going down to spark them.—Two other young men already there.—Things not altogeter lovely. Black your boots. Ain't that kind. Bet you $5—And so forth.

An appropriate present for an absent friend is home paper. Come in and subscribe for the Courier, those of you who have friends at a distance, and make their hearts glad by a sight of "news from home."

We are thankful for a Thanksgiving turkey, and our thanks are due our clever young friends, Messrs. Leasure & Griswold poultry merchants, for this favor.—A nice plump one it is, too, and we know we shall like it.

It is a nice thing to be able to bid defiance to wind and storm. Even the poorest may easily do so by the judicious outlay of what little they have. Your purchases will be incomplete until you have visited Vordermark and laid in a supply of boots and shoes, of which he keeps the best and cheapest.

Treasurer Ensley says the tax-payers paid up quite promptly on their last installment of taxes. There is a good deal of complaint as to high taxes. If the Legislature don't reduce the State tax, we won't have much faith in Democratic bodies of that kind. The next installment will be due April 20th, 1875.

We have one high-toned youth, at least, in our city. He "thanked" the Young Folks for his hat, at the social, as soon as they commenced dancing. He was spoken of in sermons, last Sabbath, and we have no doubt but that he will be particulary noticed in the next circus that comes to town.

Premium Corn—We are obliged to Esquire Wolf, of Waterloo, for a number of ears of corn raised on his farm from seed exhibited at the fair a year ago, and produced along the line of the Burlington and Missouri River R. R. This corn took the premium at the fair this fall, some of the ears being 15 inches long.

The original Moore family and Billy Stewart's opera troupe opened at Ensly's Hall last Monday night, and had a full house on that and the evening following. They gave excellent satisfaction, and deserved the patronage bestowed upon them. Miss Flora in her character songs was superb, and was never let off with less than five or six encores. Miss Minnie sang well considering her bad cold. The music generally was good, the violin solo of Mr. Paranto, bringing down the house.—Billy Stewart was, of course, in his element and done all in his power to please the audience.

To Those Outside the County.

After the first of next January we will not send the Courier outside of the county unless the postage is paid. The postage will be 15 cents for the year, and we must have payment for postage and paper in advance.

The oyster festival given by the ladies of the M. E. Church, last Friday evening, at Ford's building, was largely attended, the receipts amounting to about $170—The members of the above church are thankful to the public generally for their liberality in their behalf, and wish them prosperity and happiness in return for their kindness.

Our schools are crowded. It is a shame that we have not a better school house.—A hundred little fellows in one small room is not a healthy condition of affairs The teachers are over-taxed, and the pupil cannot make much progress under such circumstances. Something ought to be done in the coming year toward the erection of a new and commodious school building.

New Price List.

C. Beugnot & Co., of the Stave Factory announce the following prices for Stave Bolts to take effect Dec. 1st, 1874:

Oak Stave Bolts, per cord	$3.50
Elm " "	2 50
Ash Heading Bolts No. 1	4 00
" " No. 2	3 50
Bass or Cotton Wood No 1	3 00
" " " 2	2 50
Sycamore Headings	2 50

21

Customer—How does it come you sell so cheap?

Because we buy for cash. We buy direct from the manufacturers, and thus save from 30 to 40 per cent by paying cash. Our goods are equal, if not better, than those sold through a wholesale house and the profit that a wholesale dealer gets is saved by buying direct from the manufactories. Then we reduce the price of our goods that much, and we challenge a comparison, as to our goods and prices We still sell cheap for cash, Vordermark & Sons., north of the court house. Some may cry inferior goods, and all that but we defy them to beat us in quality, durability and cheapness.

Tom. C. Mays, Esq., the able and intelligent editor of that lively and interesting paper, the Auburn Courier, it is rumored has been tendered the important position of deputy Secretary of State by J. Enos. Neff, the Secretary elect. Mr. Mays is a gentleman eminently qualified for the position, and will make an excellent official His loss to the editorial fraternity in N. Indiana will be deeply felt and particularly will it be so when it is remembered that Tom, at Indianapolis, will be exposed to all the wiles and temptations of a metropolitan life. Why not move your office down to Fort Wayne, Tom, where we can all have a good time publishing news papers, and go to the county asylum together.—Ft Wayne Journal.

We are much obliged to the editors of the Journal for the'r very flattering notice but we guess it is all a mistake. No such luck as being offered the above position has struck us yet. No eye hath seen nor ear hath heard of such an event happening to an editor. The asylum is much more probable.

Real Estate Transfers.

Furnished by Rose & Hartman, attorneys at law, who have the only abstract of title in the county. Deeds and mortgages to be good against subsequent bona fide purchasers or mortgagees must be recorded within ninety days from their execution. chattle mortgages within ten days. Mechanics' liens within 60 days from commencement of building or furnishing of material.

Jarvis & Crane to John Lightner lot 19 F & Co 1st ad Waterloo $200

Enos Kuhlman to Eli Kuhlman lot 19 Ash 2d ad Auburn $400

James A Matson to H Shoemaker lot 5 Clairville $00

S Carnaham to J Carnaham s w of s e sec 29 Jackson $500

J Cook to G W Burns part n e ¼ of s w ¼ sec 16 Wilmington $1275

Geo Rowe to J Rowe w ½ of s e ¼ of n w ¼ sec 24 Franklin $500

Smith & Ackley to J C SinClair 2½ a in n w ¼ sec 15 Union, saw-mill, $2200

J Heble to J Miser lot 11 K addition Auburn $335

HERE'S SOMETHING NOVEL.

A Chance for Somebody to win a $500 City Lot in Rockhill's Addition. Tickets Given Away.

A novel idea in the way of advertising has been brought to our notice by Messrs Sam Pete and Max, managers of the noted Star Clothing house. They propose to to distribute a thousand tickets between this and January 1st 1875. No one is asked to buy these tickets, or pay for them, in any way. It is simply a new method of advertising their establishment

The lucky ticket will be determined by the Mayor of the city, before a number of prominent citizens. All the numbers from 1 to 1000 will be placed in a wheel which will be shaken up, and the committee can decide whether the first or any preceeding number shall win the $500 prize, lot No. 69 corner Mechanic and Walnut streets Rockhill's 2d addition.—Every purchaser of clothing to the am't of ten dollars (10) will receive a ticket the purchaser selecting any number he desires.

No person will, under any circumstances be allowed more than one ticket.

The clear title deed, paid in full, can be seen at the Star Clothing House No. 5 East Main st. Ft. Wayne Ind.

FINAL SETTLEMENT.

Notice is hereby given that James M. Cooper Administrator of the estate of Walter Burton deceased, has filed his Final Settlement Report in my office, which will be heard at the next term of the DeKalb Circuit Court.

J. H. Lanning, Clerk.

Nov. 25th, 1874.

Bickel & Tefft Attorneys.

Musical Lessons.

Miss M. E. Balcome begs leave to announce that having severed her connection with the Conservatory of Music she will resume giving private lessons on the piano, including use of piano. Also instruction giving on the organ, and use of instrument. The patronage of the public is respectfully solicited.

There is no establishment in Ft Wayne that has grown so rapidly in favor with the traveling public as the Great Varity Store of Henry W. Bond, 21 West Main-st Fort Wayne. Mr. Bond has a large stock of desirable goods, which he is selling at very attractive prices—so much so, in fact, that his store is daily crowded with ladies making purchases. We cannot ennumerate one tenth part of the number of articles he keeps in this out article (no pun) and can only request our friends when visiting the city to drop in and examine his stock. The following from the Fort Wayne daily News is an indication of the home feeling of Mr. Bond's new enterprise:

Every time we visit Henry Bond's new store, we find it crowded with ladies.—Last Saturday we dropped into see him, and found, in addition to the crowd of customers, a gang of carpenters at work enlarging the store. It is not surprising that Mr. Bond's trade increases rapidly, as he has a fine assortment of goods, at low prices. A finely lighted store, and pleasant accommodating clerks to wait on his patrons, Miss N. F. Moore, formerly with DeWald & Co., and Mr. Charles Young, lately with Frank & Co., are both in Mr. Bond's employ, and will be happy to wait on their numerous friends. We must confess that we have never been in a store where they took so much pleasure in showing goods to parties not expecting to buy, as they do at Henry Bond's 21 West Main-st.

To the Public—We propose publishing an Atlas of the State of Indiana, containing a map of every county in the State, showing sections, prairie, roads, railroads streams, school houses, churches, etc.—Fine Maps, 14x28 inches of the State of Indiana, United States and Territories, and of both Hemispheres. An extensive history of Indiana, Illinois, with Histories of the cities, towns, villages, and counties of the State. Biographies of a large number of early settlers and prominent men in the State. Also a condensed political history of the State, giving votes, etc. Six maps of Indiana so colored as to show the Geological and Climatological condition of the State, with also the Congressional, Senatorial and Representative Districts. Sixteen Maps of the United States, colored in five fine grades, to show the amount of wheat, hay corn, cotton and tobacco raised in proportion to acres cultivated. Also to show deaths by consumption and other diseases, in proportion to the deaths by all diseases, and to show density of population, and proportion of colored, and various foreign nationalities in the United States.

An immense amount of very useful statistical information, covering about 50 square feet of closely printed matter in every Atlas. To the patron of the work is published his name, residence, business nativity, post-office address, and when he came to the State, besides locating name and residence on his land. The work will be illustrated by fine line engravings of hundreds of public buildings and private residences in both town and country, and portraits of prominent men.

A large force of experienced men will commence immediately an experimental canvass; and if sufficient encouragement is received, we hope to complete the work sometime during 1875. Yours truly,

ANDREAS, BASKIN & BURR,
Publishers, Chicago. Ill.

A. S Wells, will construct an ice house on the vacant lot just west of the billiard room, commodious enough to contain all the ice necessary for the town. The lumber is already on the ground.

For Sale or Rent.—A neat and commodious dwelling in the lower part of town for sale cheap. Apply to C. F. Mader.
46tf

ORDINANCE.

Be it ordained by the Board of Trustees of the incorporated town of Auburn,

1st. That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to peddle fresh meats within the corporate limits of said town in less quantities than one quarter at a time, or fresh fish in less quantities than one half barrel, without paying to the Marshal of said town the sum of two dollars for each and every day he wishes to peddle said meats or fish and procure a license thereof from the clerk of said town.

2nd. Any person or persons violating the provisions of section one of this ordinance shall be fined in the sum of five dollars for each offence.

3rd. This ordinance shall take effect in ten days after its publication in the Auburn Courier.

By Order of the Board

Attest F. E. DAVENPORT, Clerk

Oct 26th, 1874.

Colorado Excursions—Go West Thro St. Louis.

During the Summer Season, the Missouri Pacific and Kansas Pacific Through Line, via St. Louis and Kansas City, will sell Excursion Tickets from St. Louis to Denver and Return, good ninety days from date of sale, at extremely low rates thus affording every one an excellent opportunity to visit the famous resorts of Colorado, among the beautiful Parks of the Rocky Mountains.

To all who are seeking new homes and are about to take a trip to Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Nebraska, Oregon or California, we recommend a cheap, safe, quick and direct route by the way of St. Louis, over the Missouri Pacific Through Line. It is equipped with fine day Coaches, Buck's Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman's Palace Sleepers, the famous Miller Safety Platform and the celebrated Westinghouse Air Brake and runs its trains from St. Louis to principal points in the West without change. The Texas connection of this road is now completed and passengers are offered a first-class all-rail route from St. Louis to Texas, either over the Missouri, Kansas & Texas R. R. via Sedalia, or over the Atlantic & Pacific R. R. via Vinita.

For full information in regard to Colorado Excursions, or trips to any point in the Great West, address or call upon either of the following named Agents of the Line:—E. F. Thompson, 157 Exchange St. Buffalo, N. Y.; E. H. Thompson, Union Depot, Columbus Ohio; or E. A. Ford Gen'l Passenger Agent, 20 South Fourth Street St. Louis. Questions will be cheerfully and promptly answered.

Editor Courier—The meeting of the young people last week, seems to have incited a vast amount of criticism, and incurred the displeasure of one of the ministers of this place, who was not present, but whose information, as he says, was obtained from a Rough saw-mill hand, who became disgusted and left.

The notice of that meeting being too late for the Courier, was read from two of the pulpits of this place, and contained the following:

"The Young Folks of this place, will meet at the residence of A. J. Little on Tuesday evening next, for the purpose of organizing an association, for the social improvement of the young. The proceeds to be divided between the Christian Denominations represented. All young people are respectfully invited to be present.

In pursuance of the above notice, nearly one hundred of the unmarried people met, elected a President, pro tem, with committees, and transacted all business usually done at a preliminary meeting.—After partaking of refreshments, they gathered in little companies, as young people usually do for amusement; all of which were innocent, and entirely free from any undue familiarity, or any kind of gambling, usually indulged in at Fairs and Festivals.

The surroundings not being suitable for croquet, their amusements were simple and less exciting. Some played Authors, others Checkers, and some few, not connected with any church, felt so jubilent that they danced a little; the objectionable part of this amusement was sprung up in a moment of thoughtlessness and were indulged in by only a few, and for a short time.

All seemed pleased and happy, and retired at an early hour. I was not aware of anything wrong, or sinful, until last Sabbath morning, when I learned from the pulpit of one of the churches, that two hearts were sad and bleeding, on account of the supposed disgraceful scenes then and there enacted, and the reading of the notice aforesaid.

One of the disaffected ones was represented as a Rough saw-mill hand, and the other an eminent divine, whose heart was first made disconsolate by not being invited, and shaping the institution according to his notions of propriety.

If any apology was needed for reading the notice, it could have been made without insulting the young, and more particularly the parents, at whose house they met, one of whom was a member of his church.

Christian charity and the injunctions of our Savior, should have prompted him to seek the offending sister, and tell her her fault, between thee and them, and then come and lay his gift upon the alter.

If the reading of the notice was so sinful, and caused such bleeding of the heart, instead of contemning, it should have reminded him of the language of the blessed Savior, the emblems of whose broken body were before him: "O ask to be forgiven!"

How uncharitable to suppose, that so large a number of young persons, at their first meeting, should be entirely free from objectionable amusements, and how unchristian-like to contemn even if they can not all be strictly approved.

Condemnation or denunciation will not elevate anyone. If the young and thoughtless are ever brought into the paths of rectitude and goodness, it must be done in love. The example of our Savior teaches, That all can be brought by love, up into a purer, better, higher life. H.

Surveyor's Notice.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested that the County Surveyor will at my request proceed to survey, locate, relocate, establish and re-establish all lines and corners in and adjoining section twenty-four [24] township thirty-three [33] north of range fourteen [14] east, and that said Surveyor will meet such interested persons at the south west corner of said section on Tuesday, December 15th, 1874 at 9 o'clock am.

JOHN F. COBURN, Applicant.

J. J. VAN AUKEN, County Surveyor.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb County Circuit Court, the undersigned Administrator of the estate of Fredrick E. Rohm, deceased will offer for sale at auction on the premises, on Saturday December 5th, 1874. town lot No. three (3) in Ensley's 1st addition to the town of Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana.

Terms—One third cash in hand, the residue in two equal payments at twelve and eighteen months, with notes at interest, waiving valuation and appraisement laws and secured by mortgage on the premises. Sale to begin at 2 o'clock pm.

JOHN TREESH, Adm'r,

Notice of Sale.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court the undersigned administrator of the estate of Samuel Hurnie, deceased, will offer for sale at auction on the premises on an equal undivided two third of the following described land: The northeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section twenty eight [28] township thirty three [33] north of range thirteen [13] east in DeKalb County, Indiana.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 5th, 1874,

TERMS—One third cash, the residue in equal payments at 12 and 18 months, with notes at interest, waiving benefit of appraisement laws, and security by mortgage on the premises. Sale to begin at 2 o'clock pm. on said day.

JAMES O. LAWHEAD, Adm'r.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a DECREE to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court in a cause wherein John K. Evans is Plaintiff and Robert Bell, Margaret Bell and Ktern Jones are defendants requiring me to make the sum of nine hundred and twenty two dollars and thirty cents, with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at public sale to the highest bidder

ON SATURDAY, DEC. 5th, 1874,

between the hours of 10 o'clock am. and 4 o'clock pm. of said day, at the door of the Court House of DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits, for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit:

The north half of the northwest quarter of section seventeen [17] in township thirty-three [33] north of range twelve [12] east, in DeKalb County, Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interests and costs, I will at the same time and place, expose at public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs.

Sale will be made without any relief, whatever from valuation and appraisement laws.

W. L. MEESE, Sheriff.

Auburn, Indiana, Nov. 12, 1874.

D. STUDEBAKER, Atty for Plff.

$10 50

Go to Board's for groceries.

THANKSGIVING.

"Oh, to-day! yes, to-day is Thanksgiving!"
So the children were whispering in bed,
In the early gray dawn of the morning—
And I heard every word that they said.

"Just think of the ducks and the turkey!
Won't we have a grand dinner to-day?
And it always tastes better Thanksgiving,
Though why, I am sure I can't say!"

"Do you know what they mean by Thanksgiving?"
Little Thoughtful-eyes gravely inquired.
"Oh, yes! we'll have whole lots of 'goodies,'
No school, and can play till we're tired!"

"Oh, well, but I'll tell you its meaning:
It means 'Giving thanks unto God!'
Don't it, mamma?" for then I was stirring,
And the whispers were changed to "out-loud.

And as I looked in where the chatterers
Were tumbling about in their bed,
And saw the snug crib in the corner
Where nestled another bright head,

I thought, on this fair, joyous morning,
Of a home all in sadness and gloom
For the snug little crib that stood empty
In a silent, unoccupied room;

And I thought of a home from whose threshold
The gladness had faded for aye,
Since the genial, warm-hearted young master
Was mournfully carried away.

And knew, when bright faces should gather
Around our Thanksgiving repast,
There were hearts that were aching too sorely
For aught but a sorrowful fast.

So I hastened to keep my Thanksgiving
By offering "Thanks unto God"
That our little fold was unentered
When the Angel of Death was abroad!

SAY'S THANKSGIVING GUEST.

"We should be thankfuller if we were going to have turkey, and plum pudding, and nuts, and raisins, and everything nice for dessert; if we were going to have lots of company, and lived in a big house, like we used to. We should be a good deal thankfuller, shouldn't we, mamma?" said Say, with rather a rueful face at the cold joint of meat that was to serve as their Thanksgiving dinner.

"We ought to be just as thankful for what we have, my dear," said Mrs. Harris. "We'll make believe that we have just as good as anybody, and forget all about the turkey and plum pudding. Poor folks should be just as thankful as rich ones." She tried to speak cheerfully, but sharp-eyed little Say saw that her eyes were moist.

"But I do want plum pudding. I sarnt be thankful!" shouted Will, in most unorthodox rebellion. And he began to cry lustily.

"Be quiet, Will," said Say, "and I'll tell you the story mamma told me last night while you were sleeping."

"No, no!" persisted Will. "I will have—"

"Once there were two little brooks born side by side up in a great mountain," began Say, and his tears were stayed with surprising suddenness. "Now these were merry little brooks, and they played together for a long time in a little green hollow on the top of the mountain; but when they grew larger and older, and their voices, so clear and ringing, were heard far down in the valley, their queen thought it was time they should be doing something in the world, and bade them set out for the river as soon as they could. And they were glad enough to obey her, for they were tired of running in one little green place."

"I say I want plum pudding!" piped Will again, the absence of giants making the story rather tame to his critical ears.

But Say went on, never heeding the interruption. "So they started together one sunshiny morning. They took great leaps over the rocks; they struggled through little fairy forests of fern. When it was dark they sang to themselves to keep from being frightened; and when it was bright they laughed and shouted so that all the birds began to mimic them. And at last, after they had traveled very far, they found themselves in a merry green meadow.

"'What a wide world it is!' said one little brook, blinking its eyes with surprise.

"'And what a bonnie one!' said the other, tripping a bluebell that stood in its way.

"They found so many friends in the meadow that they could hardly get along for greeting this one and that one. There were the daisies, keeping house in little grassy tents, who sent them an invitation to dine. The roses nodded at them, and begged them not to hurry so fast. The birds pressed them to attend a grand concert in the woods near by. The buttercups rustled their satin dresses, and begged them to come and sit at their feet, if only for one moment; and the bees, though they were always so busy, half promised to keep holiday with them, if they would wait.

"'Let us stay,' said one little brook to the other. 'See how dark our path is growing before us; and it is so pleasant and sunny here, and there are such merry folks to keep us company. Surely we need not hurry to reach the river; and we have traveled such a long distance. Why shouldn't we have a holiday now?'

"But the other little brook said:

"'No. I have had holidays enough, and I shall hasten on. The queen said it was time I was doing some good in the world, and I long to be in the river and help carry the beautiful ships.'

"'Well,' said the other little brook, 'you can go, but I shall stay here until nightfall. And when you are in that dreadfully dark wood, you will look back at me playing in the sunshine, and wish you had stayed with me, I'm sure.'

"So they kissed each other good-by over the nose of a bluebell, and went their separate ways. It was dark and fearful in the woods; the trees frowned down on the little brook like tall grim giants, and it could not see the sky. But it kept heart by singing a merry song; and, before it had time to grow discouraged, it reached the river. The great wide sky, without a cloud, was bending over it, and all the waves were filled with strange, beautiful voices. It felt great sails rustle over it; it seemed to be carried along in the arms of cool winds, without any effort of its own; and its heart was filled with a delight it had never dreamed of before.

"But the little brook found it so pleasant in the meadows that he forgot after a while that there was any other life than that; that there was anything to do in the world but to kiss a daisy bud and flatter a rose. When he did get tired of it at last, and remembered that he was on the way to the river, he found that he had lost his path; and, after a long and vain search for it, finally died of weariness in the noontide heat. And nobody remembered or cared anything about it, only a forlorn little bird, that had loved its singing. He came and mourned a little in its vacant place, but he thought, after all, what a foolish brook it was, for it might have lived forever, when it only lived a day."

Will looked rather bewildered, but seemed deeply impressed by the rewarded virtue of the good brook, and clamored no more for plum pudding. Say had made the moral of the story rather more prominent than her mother had done when she told it to her.

"Mamma," said Say, after a little serious meditation, "things happen to everybody else; why doesn't anything happen to us? Everything's always just the same. Nobody comes to see us, and we never go to see anybody; and you do nothing but just work, work work, all the time. There is Hetty Eaton, she's poor, too, but her uncle came home from sea one day and brought her a parrot; and sometimes two aunts come to see her. Then there's little Mary Murphy, she's awful poor; her mother washes, but she's going to have company to-day. Her mother told her she might invite Bridget Collins. I wish I could invite somebody to dinner. Wouldn't it seem thankfuller to have somebody besides ourselves, anyway?"

"Who would you invite, my dear?" said Mrs. Harris, laughing. "I don't know of any one who would be likely to come, with the exception of old Uncle Toby. He would be highly flattered by an invitation from you, I've no doubt."

Uncle Toby was an old colored man, who sawed wood in the neighborhood, and with whom Say was very intimate. She was socially inclined, and made friends with him in the street.

"Uncle Toby has been invited to his daughter's, and he is going to have turkey for dinner," said Say, regretfully.

The unfortunate mention of turkey roused Will again, who, after the quieting influence of Say's story, had been meditatively pulling off the head of his sister's rubber doll.

"Don't fret, Will, and I'll take you out to walk, after I have helped mamma set the table," said Say, coaxingly.

"Mamma, if I meet anybody while I'm out—any very poor body, perhaps—who would not be likely to have as good a dinner as ours, may I ask her to come and dine with us? May I ask anybody that I please? I'll only ask one."

And Mrs. Harris, whose thoughts were far away in happier Thanksgiving days, said yes, though she had not heeded Say's question.

So Say smoothed every wrinkle out of the snowy tablecloth, arranged all the dishes with the nicest care, and, after everything else was completed, she plucked a bright scarlet blossom from her geranium, and shading it in the most artistic manner with a few green leaves, placed it in the center of the table in a little crystal vase. The sunshine came in and made a great brightness of its rich petals, the glasses sparkled like silver, and Say thought things did begin to look a little like Thanksgiving, after all. It was a clear bright day, with just enough snow on the ground to make it look like winter. Say's shoes were so thin and old that her feet were cold, but she had grown so light-hearted all of a sudden that she did not mind it at all.

"Mamma says sometimes that she feels as if something were going to happen; and I feel exactly so now," she remarked to Will, who trudged sturdily along by her side. "And it's something good, Will—something very good, remember."

"I'se been good to-day, haven't I?" said Will, doubtfully. He had implicit faith in Say, and the idea of any good thing's happening made him reflect that he might be shut out in the cold. The bad boys in Say's stories were always as mercilessly punished as the good ones were vigorously rewarded.

"Well, pretty good," said Say, wishing to be as indulgent as her conscience would allow.

"I think I should be gooder if I were to have some candy," he remarked, as they stood before the tempting window of a confectioner's shop.

Say never could pass that window without peeping in. It was a little consolation to be allowed to look at such good things. There was a great candy castle in the center, with a little candy lady standing in the door, taking a view of the tempting heaps of bonbons that were piled up in her door-yard. Will wished he were in her place. Then there were dainty little baskets full of chocolate cream-drops, and caramels, and wine-drops; gilded sheaves full of rich-colored fruits, a great cake under a white frosting of lilies; and in the midst of this wilderness of sweets, in the court-yard of the castle, played a clear little fountain, whose trickle was wonderfully suggestive of melted sugar.

"Couldn't you get one, one checkerberry peppermint?" pleaded Will, catching at Say's dress.

"No, dear, not to-day. I haven't any pennies. Some day I will."

"Well, I can't be good without it," he announced, desperately; and began to cry with all his might.

"Dear me!" said Say; "I ought to have known better than to stop here with him. Will, you must stop crying, or I shall take you home now. Some day I'll buy you a lot of candy, if you're good."

"'Tain't no use to be good," said Will, despairingly. "I has been good."

"What's the matter with the little boy?" said a gentleman, who had been standing near by for some time, strangely observant of Say's pretty, wistful face under the old red hood.

"Wants candy," said Will, speaking for himself.

Say blushed, and tried to draw him away from the spot, but a ray of hope had crept into his greedy little mind, and he refused to stir an inch.

"Will you tell me what your name is?" said the gentleman, coming nearer, and bending over poor mortified Say.

"My name is Sarah Fairlee Harris," said she, smiling up into his face.

"I like him. He looks good," she thought; "and he is so handsome! He looks like the picture of the brave knight in my story-book."

The gentleman changed color, and looked down at the child's ragged old boots and faded gown with an expression in his face that troubled her very much.

"And what's the name of the boy that wants candy?" he said, pinching Will's chubby cheek.

"William," said he, smiling with great amiability through his tears.

"Well, I suppose he may as well have candy, if he wants it." And he rushed into the store, before Say could say a word.

"O, Will! what will mamma say? You just the same as asked the gentleman to give you candy!"

Will could not be brought to feel his guilt, but expressed himself as being confident in his own goodness, and was quite satisfied with the world just then.

In a few moments the gentleman appeared, perfectly laden with dainties. Such a reckless profusion of chocolate cream-drops, caramels, cocoa-nut cakes and kisses had never fallen to the lot of either of the children before.

"O, sir, how very good you are!" Say exclaimed. "But I am afraid mamma will not like it."

As for Will, he could hardly believe his own senses; and his eyes shone as much with wonder as delight.

"Do you live near here?" asked the gentleman. "I believe I used to know your mother. I used to know her when she was a little girl, no larger than you are. Weren't you named for her? You certainly are very like the little Say Fairlee I used to go to school with."

"Why, how nice," said Say, "to think that you used to know mamma when she was a little girl! I was named for her; papa named me."

There was a bit of a cloud on her friend's face when she named papa that did not escape Say's notice.

"If you used to know mamma once, p'raps you'd like to know her again. And I wish you'd come home with us," said she, artlessly. "I'd like to have you dine with us, and so would mamma, I'm sure, only—" and she hesitated—"we ain't going to have turkey or plum pudding; not a nice dinner, at all. We are very poor, you know, and mamma has had to work very hard since papa died to get any dinners."

"Then your papa is dead?"

"Yes," said Say, sorrowfully, "he's been dead ever since Will was a wee bit of a baby—a very long time." And she did not approve of the gentleman as highly as she had done, because he really looked pleased that her papa was dead.

"I should be delighted to go home with you," said he. I'm a stranger in the village, and a hotel Thanksgiving dinner isn't likely to make one feel very thankful."

"I'm afraid you won't like our dinner; it's pretty bad, but then, we can have cocoa-nut cakes for dessert; you bought so many."

But before they reached home, her fears on that score had entirely vanished, and she was sure that Mr. Marsh—he had told her what his name was—was the very nicest gentleman she ever saw, as well as the handsomest. She chatted with him incessantly until she reached the door of their house. She confided to him all her little trials, all her little joys, and all mamma's grief and trouble, and he listened to her with such an interested, sympathetic face!

"Won't mamma be s'prised?" she said, leading the way into the poor little kitchen, that served them as dining-room, and sitting-room also. And mamma was "s'prised" when she saw the tall stranger enter in such an unceremonious way.

"I invited some one to dinner!" explained Say, triumphantly.

"You surely haven't forgotten me entirely, Sarah?" said the stranger, approaching her, and holding out his hand.

"Frank!" she exclaimed, and grew so white that Say feared she was ill.

Then, to the little girl's utter amazement, what did Mr. Marsh do, but put his arm around her and kiss her! Say's sense of propriety was dreadfully shocked, and she looked on with severity.

But things grew worse and worse. Mamma put her hand on his shoulder, and cried, and he comforted her with all sorts of endearing words and tender assurances. And they talked about things that she did not understand at all—something about a mistake and losing a letter; and all the while they seemed to forget that there was any one else but themselves in the world. Will, taking advantage of their absorbed state, had eaten all the cocoa-nut cakes.

"My dear little Say," said Mr. Marsh, at last, after they had said everything they had to say, ten times over, according to Say's idea, and the forgotten dinner had grown quite cold on the table, "you didn't know how dear a friend your mamma was to me. Do you know she promised to marry me long before she ever saw your papa? Then something happened—a mistake was made, and we were separated. She thought that I had ceased to care for her, and I thought she had ceased to care for me; and we never found out the truth of the matter until it was too late. And now, after I have missed her all these long years, she has promised again to be my wife; and if I have my way, we are to be married this very day. What do you say, Say—will you be satisfied to have me for a papa? Are you glad you invited me to come and dine with you?"

Then Say repented of her severity, and accepted him as her papa very graciously.

"Mamma," she whispered, full of delight to see her so happy, "I think this is the thankfullest Thanksgiving we ever had, after all!" And Will, with his mouth full of the remnants of the candy-feast, agreed with her fully.

It was a thankful Thanksgiving, truly; and after that there was a very different life for Say, and her mother, and Will. Mr. Marsh was a rich man, and he took them away from the miserable little place where they lived, to his own beautiful home in town, the very next day. He and Mrs. Harris were married in the morning, and Say stood up by her mother's side during the ceremony, the most dignified little bridesmaid in the world. And though she has never since been obliged to eat a cold dinner in a smoky little kitchen on Thanksgiving day, she always looks back to it as the most delightful Thanksgiving day of her life. And so indeed do Mr. and Mrs. Frank Marsh, for its thankfulness has reached through all their other Thanksgiving days.—Ballou's Monthly.

Workingmen and Savings Banks.

A savings-bank offers the laborer, for the use of his money, safe-keeping and a small, but sure, payment of interest. This is the apparent bargain. It is so advantageous that it is not strange that tens of millions of money are placed in savings-banks every year by the working classes of the United States. The real bargain, however, is far better for the laborer than the apparent one. The bank really offers him, besides safe-keeping and interest-payment, extra employment, steadier work, and better wages. For the money deposited in these banks is loaned to men who use it in the employment of labor. Those loans, whether or not made on call, may generally be relied upon by the borrower as permanent capital, so long as he pays the interest promptly. He borrows freely for this reason, and because the rate of interest is comparatively low, inasmuch as the banks get the money at cheap rates. The borrower uses his hard capital, almost invariably, to employ labor in one way or another. He extends his manufacturing enterprises. He builds stores or dwellings. He increases his stock of goods, or otherwise enlarges his business. In some of these ways he provides work for more laborers, mechanics, clerks, etc. A deposit of $1,000 in a savings bank, when loaned out, gives employment to one man or woman. Now, there are between eight and nine millions in the savings banks of Chicago. If only two-thirds of this has been borrowed by business men, the workingmen of Chicago have actually contributed the means of employing 6,000 of their number. We fear that American mechanics and laborers rarely appreciate such facts as these. If they will follow in their minds the money they add to their bank accounts, they will see that in depositing it they insure themselves not only safety and interest, but work and wages. The great prosperity of the working classes in New England is at once proved and caused by their heavy deposits in the savings banks. In Massachusetts, 117 such banks hold over $115,000,000. That sum probably keeps an army of 100,000 men and women steadily at work. The exemption of the Pacific States from financial trouble and business depression, and their inevitable result of intense suffering among the working classes is due, first, to the fact that those States have a sound specie currency, and second, that their savings-banks have heavy lines of deposits. Those of San Francisco, with only half the population of Chicago, are said to hold $24,000,000. If the working men and women of Chicago would raise their aggregate deposit from $9,000,000 to $29,000,000, as they easily might do by practicing economy, they would help themselves a hundred times more than the Relief and Aid Society and all the other city charities can ever help them. They would make many of those charities happily useless. If the poor choose to spend their earnings unproductively in the gratification of appetite for whisky and upon foolish amusements, they are dooming themselves and their fellows to future poverty. On the other hand, the man who has $1,000 in a savings-bank is giving employment, through the bank and the borrower, either to himself or to another workingman. It is surely a good investment.—Chicago Tribune.

The Agents of Putrefaction.

After examining the alterations produced in the living, we have to consider those occasioned by fermentation in the dead. When life has retreated by slow degrees from all the parts of an organized being; when, after all partial deaths have occurred, total death has possessed the depths of the subject, and broken all the springs of its activity, the work of putrefaction begins. Its task is to unmake this body, to destroy its forms and dissever its materials. The work to be done is to disorganize it, to reduce it into solids, liquids and gases, fit to go back again into the vast reservoir whence new life is incessantly issuing. This is the task that heat, moisture, air and germs will undertake in unison. It is all performed with steady diligence. Nature knows no delays; as soon as the body is cold, the protecting coating that covers all its surface, the epithelium decays in places, particularly the moister parts. The agents of disorganization, vibrios and bacteria, or rather the germ of these thread-like corpuscles, penetrate through the skin, wind into the small ducts, invade the whole blood, and by degrees all the organs. Soon they swarm everywhere, almost as numerous as the chemical molecules in the midst of which they stir and circle. The albuminoid matters are decomposed into fetid gases, escaping into the air. The fixed salts, alkaline and earthly alkaline, slowly release themselves from the organic matters with which they combined to form the tissues. The fats oxidize and grow acrid; the moisture dries away. Everything volatile vanishes, and at the end of a certain time, nothing remains save the skeleton, but a formless mingling of mineral principles, a sort of humus ready to manure the earth. Now all these complex operations absolutely required the intervention of the infusoria of putrefaction. In pure air, deprived of living germs, they could not have been accomplished. To check putrid fermentations, to insure the conservation of animal or vegetable substances in a state of perfect integrity, only one means avails, but that is an infallible one—that of thoroughly precluding the access to them of the aerial germs of vibrios and bacteria.—Popular Science Monthly.

RESTRICTED DIET IN DISEASE.—Dr. Max Von Pettenkofer disputes the rule laid down by so many physiologists that, so long as the body is unable to perform its functions, even though suffering from hunger, to take more food is superfluous. Bischoff and Voitt fully demonstrated, by their experiments on nutrition, that the result of a nourishment so restricted is an actual state of want, a continual famine, a condition incompatible, in the long run, with the normal condition of life. The body, says Pettenkofer, has need of a certain well being—of a small excess of nourishment—in order to preserve its strength and vigor, and what just prevents death from hunger is not sufficient.

A Careful Traveler.

Gov. Bradley, of Nevada, got on the train at Elko last week to go to Palisade. The car was crowded and he was compelled to perambulate the entire length of the car to obtain a seat. "Good morning, my son; how-d'ye do, sar?" said the Governor in a good natured way, to a big Missourian who had generously given up half his seat to the stranger who had thus accosted him. "That's all right, my friend," said the stranger; but don't make yourself quite so familiar with me, if you please; I have heer'd of you before—you're one of them three-card fellows—but you can't come it over me, not much. I've been thar myself, I have!" The Governor assured the stranger that he was mistaken in the man, that his mission was of a different character altogether; but it was of no use, the more the Governor protested his innocence, the more the man became convinced he had "dropped on one of them fellers." Finding his protests and arguments unavailing, and fearing the stranger might take a notion to make him vacate the seat, the Governor concluded to drop the subject. The stranger turned half round in his seat and sat watching the Governor, as if taking the dimensions of a supposed monster, until the train arrived at Carlin. Here the stranger followed the Governor to the platform, expecting every moment to see him "spread his tricks" and take some poor fellow in, but was surprised to see his "monte sharp" at once surrounded by a crowd of gentlemen. Bradley told the joke to his friends, and the stranger was brought up and introduced, and informed that his supposed highwayman was Governor of the State of Nevada. The Missourian collapsed, acknowledged himself sold, and all hands took a drink at the Governor's expense.

Modest Ways.

Nothing becomes a young girl so well as modest ways. It is so mortifying to mothers to know that their daughters act rudely when away from home. They wonder at it. They are usually good enough and ladylike at home; but the moment they are out of their sight, on the street or on the way to church, and perhaps in church, even, loud laughing and talking become the rule. Does it ever occur to those mothers to give their girls a gentle warning on leaving the parental roof, as to their manners and ways?

Says one: "I do not like to be always scolding. I talk to my daughters once in a while, and I expect that to suffice." But, mother, if you had a choice plant, a young tree that you wished to bring to perfection, would you expect it to become perfect with only an occasional trimming? No—you would be apt to watch it with great care, trimming it a little every week or every day, to see that no unruly branches put forth to mar its beauty. So it is with youth; little by little is the character formed that is to govern the after life.

I do not believe in a rough-and-ready scolding. Scolding, as a rule, has not much force. If one has to give a stern rebuke, let it be in as few words as possible. Yet I think, if parents take second thought, that a mild reproof in most cases would answer best. Young people just coming to maturity have naturally free and impulsive ways. One can excuse rudeness in boys, for it seems a natural prerogative of their nature, but a wild, romping or bold girl is a continual source of anxiety to a mother and generally distasteful to society; hence, mothers cannot be too careful of the manners of their daughters.

An Untimely Interruption.

The boys tell a good one on Jim Barndollar, of the Osage Agency. It seems he had sent his washing to a full-blood Osage squaw who was to have it done and bring it home on Saturday night. The squaw failed to fulfill the contract, however, and on Sunday Jim had to go to church with the same suit he wore during the week. In the meantime he had sent word to his washerwoman to "bring them shirts." He had just got comfortably seated in the church, and the grave minister had opened up in thunder tones on sinners generally, when in stepped a big Osage Indian with a package under his blanket, who began making all kinds of unintelligible signs to our friend. Jim appeared to take no notice of his presence, however, until by his audible whispers and frantic gesticulations the Indian had attracted the attention of the entire congregation, and fairly horrified our hero by drawing forth a shirt with a stunningly clean front, several pairs of socks, and other things that go to complete a fashionable young man's wardrobe. This was too much for him, and he immediately arose and beckoning the persistent laundry clerk out, he then and there exhausted both the English and Osage vocabulary of epithets, after which he took charge of the clothes, and told the dusky warrior to go his way. Profane language is prohibited at the Agency, but it is said that Jim made good use of all the emphatic religious adjectives that came within his grasp.—Coffeville (Kan.) Courier.

The Head of the Family.

A gentleman who purchased a box of peaches at the Central Market recently looked around for a boy who would carry them home, and presently he found a ragged lad seated on a bench eating the last remnant of a pear. The man asked him if he wouldn't like to earn ten cents by carrying the box to such a number and street, and the boy promptly replied that he wouldn't. "Why?" queried the man "Why?" echoed the boy, "because dad died the other day, and now I'm the head of the family and how'd I look lugging peaches around?"

"STEPHAN STERN mit frau and 11 kd," is one item in the steerage list of a late Hamburg steamer.

THROUGH the length and breadth of the land the celebrated SILVER-TIPPED Boots and Shoes are sold by the million, for parents know they last twice as long as those without Tips. Try them. For sale by all dealers.

COUGHS, colds, sore throat and similar troubles, if allowed to progress, will result in serious pulmonary affections—frequently incurable. Wishart's Pine Tree Tar Cordial reaches at once the seat of the disease and gives immediate relief.

WISHART'S
PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL.

It is now fifteen years since the attention of the public was first called by Dr. L. Q. C. Wishart to this wonderful remedy, and so well has it stood the test of time that to-day it not only has the confidence of the entire community, but is more frequently prescribed by physicians in their practice than any other proprietary preparation in the country. It is the vital principle of the Pine Tree, obtained by a peculiar process in the distillation of the Tar, by which its highest medicinal properties are retained. For the following complaints, Inflammation of the Lungs, Coughs, Sore Throat and Breast, Bronchitis, Consumption, Liver Complaint, Weak Stomach, Disease of the Kidneys, Urinary Complaints, Nervous Debility, Dyspepsia, and diseases arising from an impure condition of the blood, there is no remedy in the world that has been used so successfully or can show such a number of marvelous cures. The following will serve to show the estimation in which this sovereign remedy is held by those who have used it.

Consumption for Ten Years Cured.

DR. L. Q. C. WISHART: Dear Sir—I am grateful to you from the fact that you have made a medicine that will cure the disease of the Lungs. My wife has had the Consumption for ten years. Physicians had told me that they could only patch her up for the time being. She was confined to her bed and had been for some time. I heard of your Pine Tree Tar Cordial and secured one bottle; it relieved her cough. She has now finished the fourth bottle, and is able to do the work for her family; and may God speed you on with your great discovery and cure you have made for Consumption.
REV. E. H. HOPKINS,
Jackson Centre, Shelby Co., Ohio.

From St. Louis, Mo.

DR. WISHART, PHILADELPHIA: Dear Sir—During a visit to Philadelphia, some three years ago, I was suffering from a severe cold, and was induced to take a bottle of your Pine Tree Tar Cordial, which had the effect of curing me in a few days. I have used it in my family ever since, and am of the opinion that it saved the life of my daughter, who was suffering from a severe and painful cough. If the publication of this will be of any service, you are at liberty to use it. Yours respectfully,
JOHN HODNETT, St. Louis, Mo.

For sale by all Druggists and Storekeepers and at
DR. L. Q. C. WISHART'S OFFICE,
No. 232 N. Second St., Philadelphia, Pa.

THE DYING BODY
SUPPLIED WITH THE VIGOR OF LIFE
THROUGH
DR. RADWAY'S
SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT
THE GREAT
Blood Purifier!
ONE BOTTLE

Will make the Blood pure, the Skin clear, the Eyes bright, the Complexion smooth and transparent, the Hair strong, and remove all Sores, Pimples, Blotches, Pustules, Tetters, Cankers, etc., from the Head, Face, Neck, Mouth and Skin. It is pleasant to take and the dose is small.

It Resolves away Diseased Deposits; it Purifies the Blood and Renovates the System. It cures with certainty all Chronic Diseases that have lingered in the system five or ten years, whether it be Scrofula or Syphilitic, Hereditary or Contagious,
BE IT SEATED IN THE
Lungs or Stomach, Skin or Bones, Flesh or Nerves,
CORRUPTING THE SOLIDS AND VITIATING THE FLUIDS.

IT IS THE ONLY POSITIVE CURE FOR
KIDNEY and BLADDER COMPLAINTS,
Urinary and Womb Diseases, Gravel, Diabetes, Dropsy, Stoppage of Water, Incontinence of Urine, Bright's Disease, Albuminuria, and in all cases where there are brick-dust deposits, Chronic Rheumatism, Scrofula, Glandular Swelling, Hacking Dry Cough, Cancerous Affections, Syphilitic Complaints, Bleeding of the Lungs, Dyspepsia, Water-Brash, Tic Doloreux, White Swellings, Tumors, Ulcers, Skin and Hip Diseases, Mercurial Diseases, Female Complaints, Gout, Dropsy, Rickets, Salt Rheum, Bronchitis, Consumption, Liver Complaints, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth, Tumors, Nodes in the Glands and other parts of the system, Sore Eyes, Strumorous Discharges from the Ears, and the worst forms of Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Fever Sores, Scald Head, Ringworm, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Acne, Black Spots, Worms in the Flesh, Cancers in the Womb, and all weakening and painful discharges, Night Sweats, Loss of Sperm and all wastes of the life principle are within the curative range of this wonder of Modern Chemistry, and a few days' use will prove to any person using it, for either of these forms of disease, its potent power to cure them.

Sold by Druggists. $1.00 per Bottle.

R. R. R.
RADWAY'S
Ready Relief,
The Cheapest and Best Medicine for Family Use in the World!
One 50-Cent Bottle
WILL CURE MORE COMPLAINTS AND PREVENT THE SYSTEM AGAINST SUDDEN ATTACKS OF EPIDEMICS AND CONTAGIOUS DISEASES THAN ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS EXPENDED FOR OTHER MEDICINES OR MEDICAL ATTENDANCE.

THE MOMENT RADWAY'S READY RELIEF IS APPLIED EXTERNALLY—OR TAKEN INTERNALLY ACCORDING TO DIRECTIONS—PAIN, FROM WHATEVER CAUSE, CEASES TO EXIST.

IMPORTANT.—Miners, Farmers, and others residing in sparsely-settled districts, where it is difficult to secure the services of a physician, RADWAY'S READY RELIEF is invaluable. It can be used with positive assurance of doing good in all cases where pain or discomfort is experienced; or if seized with Influenza, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Bad Coughs, Hoarseness, Billious Colic, Inflammation of the Bowels, Stomach, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys; or with Croup, Quinsey, Fever and Ague; or with Neuralgia, Headache, Tic Doloreux, Toothache, Earache; or with Lumbago, Pain in the Back, or Rheumatism; or with Diarrhea, Cholera Morbus, or Dysentery; or with Burns, Scalds, or Bruises; or with Strains, Cramps, or Spasms. The application of RADWAY'S READY RELIEF will cure you of the worst of these complaints in a few hours.

Twenty drops in half a tumbler of water will in a few moments cure CRAMPS, SPASMS, SOUR STOMACH, HEARTBURN, SICK HEADACHE, DIARRHEA, DYSENTERY, COLIC, WIND IN THE BOWELS, and all INTERNAL PAINS.

Travelers should always carry a bottle of RADWAY'S READY RELIEF with them. A few drops in water will prevent sickness or pains from change of water. It is better than French Brandy or Bitters as a stimulant.

Sold by Druggists. Price 50 Cents.

DR. RADWAY'S
Regulating Pills,

Perfectly tasteless, elegantly coated with sweet gum, purge, regulate, purify, cleanse and strengthen. RADWAY'S PILLS, for the cure of all disorders of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys, Bladder, Nervous Diseases, Headache, Constipation, Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Bilious Fever, Inflammation of the Bowels, Piles, and all Derangements of the Internal Viscera. Warranted to effect a positive cure. Purely Vegetable, containing no mercury, minerals, or deleterious drugs.

☞ Observe the following symptoms resulting from Disorders of the Digestive Organs:

Constipation, Inward Piles, Fullness of the Blood in the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust of Food, Fullness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried and Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a Lying Posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Fever and Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Chest, Limbs, and sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh.

A few doses of RADWAY'S PILLS will free the system from all the above-named disorders.

Price 25 Cents per Box. Sold by Druggists.
Read "FALSE AND TRUE."

Send one letter-stamp to RADWAY & CO., No. 32 Warren Street, New York. Information worth thousands will be sent you.

The Crusades.

No sooner was Henry II. laid in his grave than Richard of England and Philip of France remembered the vow which had been taken under the old elm tree, and agreed to leave their own kingdoms and go as brothers in arms, to the rescue of the Holy Sepulcher.

On the 8th of June, in the year 1191, after a great variety of adventures, the fleet of Richard entered the Bay of Acre, amid the sound of martial music and the rejoicing shouts of the Christian army. The latter stood greatly in need of aid. The French had reached Acre before the arrival of the English. In four days after Richard, Cœur-de-Lion, had anchored in the bay, the town of Acre surrendered to his valor, and the army of Saladin was scattered.

The lion-hearted Richard won many a bloody field in the land of the infidel. So great became the terror of this prince's name, that mother's used it to frighten their children; and long years after Cœur-de-Lion had left the shores of Palestine, if a horse started, his Syrian rider would exclaim: "Dost think King Richard is in that bush?"

Near Ascalon, in the battle Azotus, Richard performed wondrous deeds of valor, and the conquered Saladin mourned the loss of seven thousand brave soldiers. Richard recovered Jaffa, the Joppa of the Bible, and rebuilt Ascalon, working on its walls with his own hands. All along the coasts of Palestine, from Gaza to Acre, he established strong posts. He had many personal encounters with the Saracens, and the strength of arm with which he dealt the blows of his heavy battle-ax excited the wondering admiration of both friend and foe.

Saladin was a worthy rival of this crusading king. They fought fiercely in battle with each other, but are said to have been mutually courteous during the seasons of peace. When Richard was ill, Saladin sent to him the cooling snows of Lebanon, with presents of damson plums and other delicious fruits from the vale of Damascus.

Cœur-de-Lion never entered Jerusalem. Led to a neighboring height, whence he might look down upon the Holy City, he is said to have raised his shield before his eyes, claiming that he was unworthy to look upon the sacred spot which he had been unable to redeem. Deserted by the French king, and delayed or thwarted in his plans, Richard, before he had fulfilled the desire of his heart, and rescued the Holy Sepulcher from the hand of the infidel, was recalled to his own kingdom.—English History.

Table-Telegraphing.

First—Drawing napkin or handkerchief through the hand—I desire to converse (by signal) with you.

Second—Unfolding and holding it by corner—Is it agreeable?

Third—Playing with fork and holding forefinger of left hand on left ear—I have something to tell you privately.

Fourth—Holding up knife and fork in each hand—When can I see you?

Fifth—Laying knife and fork together on left of plate—After the meal. (This signal will suffice for a query or answer).

Sixth—Clenched right hand on the table—To-night.

Seventh—The napkin or handkerchief held with three fingers—Yes.

Eighth—Held with two fingers showing—No.

Ninth—Holding napkin to chin with forefinger over mouth—Cease Signaling.

Tenth—Standing the knife and fork thus (A)—Can I meet you?

Eleventh—Laying knife and fork thus (X)—I am angry or displeased.

Twelfth—Balancing fork on edge of cup—Are you engaged, to-night?

Thirteenth—Folding napkin triangularly (laying it down)—Have you went out since last meal?

Fourteenth—Drawing knife through prongs of fork—I shall remain at home, to-night.

Fifteenth—Striking fork with knife—I shall go out, to-night.

Sixteenth—Balancing fork on knife—Meet me, or (if by gentleman), Can I me you?

Seventeenth—Placing knife over the glass—Will you be alone?

Eighteenth—Balancing spoon on edge of cup—I have an engagement.

Nineteenth—Stirring the spoon in cup slowly—Will you be late?

Twentieth—Holding the spoon over cup and gazing meditatingly on it—We are suspected, or, We are discovered.

Twenty-first—Slapping the ear, as if brushing away a fly—I do not understand.

Singular Case of Human Petrifaction.

A well-authenticated and rather astonishing case of petrifaction of a human body has recently been reported to the writer, but names and localities are omitted in deference to the wishes of relatives of the deceased lady whose remains furnish the phenomenon herein alluded to. The circumstances of the case are substantially as follows: A lady residing in the southern portion of the State died about eleven years ago, and was buried—the body remaining undisturbed until a few days ago, when her husband and friends deemed it expedient to remove it to another burial place. Workmen were employed to disinter the coffin inclosing the body, and in due time they had uncovered the coffin, but on attempting to lift it to the surface, were surprised to observe that it was of extraordinary weight. Subsequent investigations revealed the fact that the body, instead of showing the decay which is presumed to be the lot of all humanity, had actually been petrified during the eleven years intervening between its burial and disinterment—the body and features retaining their bony outlines, but completely solidified or turned into stone. The friends of the lady, some of whom are now residents of St. Paul, for good and sufficient reasons, dislike to have the name given to the public unless some good and useful purpose can be subserved thereby.—St. Paul Press.

An Admirer of Paper Money.—The King of Burmah is said to have taken the exceptional position of admiring the American system of finance. He approves of our plan of making money, and proposes to have a paper currency issued as soon as possible for his own subjects.

A dark night—Carbondale.

Lockjaw.

A young man named Samuel Eicholtz died at his logings in Washington from lockjaw. A short time ago he ran a rusty nail into one of his feet, the wound giving him much pain for several days. The pain ceased, and he thought he had quite recovered. He walked out into the garden adjoining his lodgings, gathered some flowers, and carried them to his house. While on his way back he suddenly felt the cords of the back of his neck commence drawing his head backward, and he became aware that his jaws were becoming set. He remarked in a laughing way, but too true, that he was getting the lockjaw. His relatives made light of the remark, and supper was announced shortly after; but when Mr. Eicholtz tried to drink some tea from a saucer he found he could not get the saucer between his teeth, and even then it was only thought he was suffering from the effects of a cold. However, they at length came to the sad conclusion as to the nature of his disease, as his jaws were set to open no more.

The nearest physician was sent for, but the case was a hopeless one, as spasms had already set in, and they continued more frequent and severe, until they were incessant, when death stepped in and relieved the poor man from the most horrible sufferings, not excepting hydrophobia, on earth. Deceased was only 30 years of age, and had been married but a few weeks.

Woman's Physical Disability.

Prof. Huxley, than whom there are few deeper thinkers, does not believe in the oft-told told tale of woman's physical incapacity. He says:

We have heard a great deal, lately, about the physical disabilities of women. Some of these alleged impediments, no doubt, are really inherent in their organization, but nine-tenths of them are artificial—the products of their mode of life. I believe that nothing would tend so effectually to get rid of these creations of idleness, weariness and that "over-stimulation of the emotions," which, in plainer-spoken days, used to be called wantonness, than a fair share of healthy work, directed toward a definite object, combined with an equally fair share of healthy play during the years of adolescence; and those who are best acquainted with the acquirements of an average medical practitioner will find it hardest to believe that the attempt to reach that standard is likely to prove exhausting to an ordinarily intelligent and well educated woman.

An Editor's Misfortune.

A few days ago a journalist came to Detroit on business, and in some way was induced to leave the straight and narrow path and take more liquor than he could carry. He fell among bad people and was robbed of his all, and was found in an alley next morning by a policeman. As he was roused up he looked around him, got his bearings, and started off.

"Here, where are you going?" shouted the officer.

"Home," shouted the editor, as he halted.

"But you haven't a cent in your pocket. You'd better go round to some of your friends and raise something."

"Friends be hanged!" replied the editor. "It's only sixty miles, good going, and three days before my paper comes out."

And he started off at a pace which made the dust jump up in little clouds and float over the fences.—Detroit Free Press.

How to Pull Teeth.—A peculiar dental operation has just come under our observation. A certain citizen had an upper tooth which was loose and troublesome, so he resolved to extract it by fastening a string to it; but after a trial, finding the operation painful, he hadn't the grit to grin and bear it. He thought if the tooth could be extracted by some sudden mode, the pain would be but transient; and after mature deliberation he hit upon an ingenious plan to jerk it out in a jiffy. Procuring a heavy flatiron he tied it to the other end of the cord attached to his tooth, then shutting both eyes he let the iron drop, which descended plump center on his pet corn. After hopping about the room, wildly, on one foot, groaning for very anguish of spirit, and reciting choice passages from profane history, he finally calmed down sufficiently to hurl the flatiron over the fence, and swathe his sore toe in camphor and cotton. But he pulled the tooth, and with it a piece of gum. And the man lived.

Perhaps the most perfect form of serene contentment known upon the planet is that developed by the Todas, a people who inhabit the plateau of the Nilghiri Hills. They live in small communities of from twenty to thirty persons. Their life is purely pastoral, and their sole dependence is upon the buffalo. They do not practice agriculture at all, simply cultivate their dairies, which are held to be sacred, and keep the buffalo and the cat as tame animals. They neither fight with their neighbors nor among themselves. Two men in every village do the dairy work; the rest, nothing. Having no politics to discuss, the elder "toads" sit on a rail fence or under a tree all day and brood; the younger branches probably stand on their heads, or follow after the other toadies. They are a fine looking race, and having more men than women, the creed of Brigham Young is reversed, and one woman has many husbands.

The Gallant Sons of Spain.—The fighting at Behobie on Monday was undeniably "without quarter" on either side. I saw one Carlist soldier being dragged in a wounded state in the direction of the bridge. His leg had been smashed, and a couple of Republican soldiers were dragging him along by the wounded limb. As the party passed one or two Republican soldiers near the entrance to the bridge, he was struck upon the head with the butt end of a rifle and killed upon the spot.—N. Y. Times' Bayonne Letter.

To clean kid gloves quickly, put them on your hands and wash them, as if you were washing your hands, in spirits of turpentine, until quite clean; then hang them up in a warm place, or where there is a current of air, and all smell of the turpentine will be removed.

All Sorts.

The Freshman Class at Harvard numbers 203 members.

Never attempt to form an opinion of a woman's weight by her sighs.

There are 24,000 idiots in this country who are acknowledged as such.

Four-fifths of the wheat arriving off the British coast is American wheat.

Colorado claims that one-half of its population consists of reconstructed invalids.

A hundred and seventy-one thousand of the "silent majority" tenant Greenwood.

The total value of silk manufactures imported at New York during September, was $3,198,517.

Charles Hennesy is the name of a convict in the Virginia State Prison. His weakness was horses.

A dog ordered to lie in a wagon in Taunton, Mass., during the absence of his master, stayed at his post from Friday until Monday without food or water, save a little meat on the first day.

They are going to try and put a stop in Germany to the sale of so-called "soothing sirups" for infants. Physicians assert that more babies are killed by these concoctions than by disease.

Prof. Watson's boast that he has discovered sixteen new stars must pale before the announcement of a Nebraska gentleman named Sandy John, who fell on his nose and discovered sixty-two, most of them of the first magnitude.

In Belgium, a fruit-grower has had great success in communicating artificial flavors to natural fruit. He punctures the fruit and keeps it a few seconds in a solution of the flavoring substance, and permits it to ripen subsequently.

Thanksgiving statistics are the most interesting when tabulated. The light thrown upon the subject by the dinner tables, the vege-tables, and the ea-tables generally which are prepared for the occasion are most satisfactory and comfortable.

Corruption in Prussia also! Gen. Moltke's accounts were recently found to be wrong. He had drawn during the war one wig and one paper of smoking tobacco for which he had never accounted to the proper authorities. Demand for remuneration has been made.

While America has almost wholly forgotten the Cardiff giant, that huge fraud, conceived in iniquity and brought forth in gypsum, a learned German has described him to the German Philological Congress, lately in session at Innspruck, as a Phœnician statue of Adonis.

The wife of the President having on two recent visits to Chicago been importuned by the woman suffragists for the weight of her influence, replied: "I am very domestic myself, and have no inclination to change my mode of living. I was a favored daughter and am an indulged wife. Mr. Grant says I have my rights and his too."

Funny decision in France on an insurance case. If a house is insured for the total value, the value of the land must be included in the sum, and may be deducted by the company from the payment of the loss. So that one must pay premiums for the insurance of that which cannot be destroyed, though he cannot have the benefit of that insurance.

Guilford, Conn., has an unfortunate man, Mr. W. Fowler. He has had his barn burned three times; dislocated his hip and received other severe bodily injures; once had his house and barn in New Haven burned, and when a member of the firm of Fowler & Newton, in the latter city, a barrel of flour fell on upon him and came within an ace of killing him.

For the year ending Sept. 30, the people of the United States consumed 580,000 bushels of peanuts. Tennessee furnished 185,000 bushels; Virginia, 225,000; North Carolina, 60,000; and the balance, 125,000 bushels, was imported from Africa. The maturing Virginia crop is said to be large, probably about 350,000 bushels, while the new North Carolina crop is estimated at 120,000 bushels. Virginia is therefore the banner State for peanuts as well as statesmen.

New Style of Cooperage.

The Kingston (N. Y.) Freeman learns that a number of New York capitalists have formed a company and are establishing their works in Snyder Hollow for the purpose of manufacturing barrels for flour, sugar, etc. The entire sides of the barrel are to be made of a single stave. Those staves are made from a section of a log cut the length of a barrel, thoroughly steamed and then placed in a powerful machine, which shaves it in a long ribbon, like the unrolling of a piece of wall paper. This ribbon wood is then cut into sections equal to the circumference of a barrel. Gores are taken out at either end to make the bilge, when it is hooped and headed. Mr. Lake, an experienced and skillful wheelwright, is erecting the machinery, which will soon be in operation, turning out 1,000 barrels per day.

The Human Pulse.

The human pulse, in all ages of the world, has been consulted as an index of health or disease. It is a kind of dial within us which gives us both the measure of time and of health.

The pulse of a person in health beats about seventy strokes in a minute, and the ordinary time of life is about seventy years. In these seventy years the pulse of a temperate person beats 2,570,440,000 times. If no actual disorganization should happen, a drunken person might live until his pulse beat this number of times; but by the constant stimulus of ardent spirits or by pulse-quickening food the pulse becomes greatly accelerated, and the two billion five hundred and seventy million four hundred and forty thousand pulsations are performed in little more than the ordinary term of human life, and life goes out in forty or forty-five years instead of seventy.

Pianos and Organs.
Fine new rosewood pianos for $300.
Fine walnut organs, six stops, $125.
Good second-hand pianos, $150 to $200.
Reed's Temple of Music, Chicago.

A gentleman lately in Winona, while eating raw oysters, found in one of them 61 pearls, besides one which he accidentally swallowed.

Whisky and the Weed.—Intelligent physiologists and pathologists admit that all so-called medicines containing alcohol—whether they emanate from the regular pharmacopœia and are called tinctures, or from the Empirical Rum Mills, and are labeled "Tonics"—are essentially dangerous and destructive. The only way in which drunkenness can be arrested is by restoring the integrity of the nerves (especially the nerves of taste and the great sympathetic nerve), and purifying the animal fluids; and these objects are more certainly and swiftly accomplished by the use of Dr. Walker's Vinegar Bitters than by any other means. Hence, probably, the opinions now so generally expressed, that this pure preparation is a sovereign remedy for the evils referred to. Should it be clearly ascertained that Vinegar Bitters is not only a specific for indigestion, liver disease, nervousness, scrofulous ulcers and eruptions, and a host of other disorders, but also inebriety, thousands will rise up and call the discoverer blessed. 10

Under the new management of Mr. Frank W. Wentworth, the Sherman House, at Chicago, recognizing the popular demand for retrenchment, has reduced its tariff of rates, and in a corresponding degree increased its merits.

Last Chance.

But a short time remains for the purchase of tickets in the Fifth Gift Concert of the Public Library of Kentucky. Agents have been notified to make returns from the 20th to the 25th inst., but for the convenience of those who may have failed to supply themselves through the agents, cash orders will be filled at the home office up to the evening of the 28th, and if any money should come too late it will be promptly returned to the party sending it.

The Great Favorite!—The popular Chill Cure of the age!! Composed of pure and simple drugs, Wilhoft's Tonic has long held the highest place in the long line of remedies for Chills and Fever. It is not only Anti-Periodic but is Anti-Panic, for it curtails the heavy expense of doctors' visits, where friendly calls are all itemized in the account current. A penny saved is a penny gained, and saving it in this way adds to health and comfort. Try Wilhoft's Tonic as a certainty, and you will never regret it. Wheelock, Finlay & Co., Proprietors, New Orleans. For sale by all druggists.

It is so hard to get a linen collar washed and ironed so as to look well. We advise every gentleman to buy the Improved Warwick. It looks better than any linen collar, fits splendidly, and keeps clean longer than any other. Try it.

Sent free, on receipt of neck and breast measure, height, weight and price, our (sample) "Model $2 Shirt." Fitted by patented model. Stylish and substantial. Address Model Shirt Co., 31 South 8th-st., Philadelphia.

The Northwestern Horse-Nail Co.'s "Finished" Nail is the best in the world.

The Prettiest Woman in New York, Miss X——, well known in our fashionable society for her distingue appearance and beautiful complexion, was once a sallow, rough-skinned girl, chagrined at her red, freckled face. She pitched into Hagen's Magnolia Balm, and is now as pretty in complexion as she is charming in manners. This article overcomes freckles, tan, sallowness, moth-patches, ring-marks, etc., and makes one look ten years younger than they are. Magnolia Balm for a transparent complexion, and Lyon's Kathairon to make the hair plentiful, luxuriant, soft and delicate, have no rivals. The Kathairon prevents the hair from turning gray, eradicates dandruff, and is the best and cheapest dressing in the world.

Damned by Faint Praise.—Jas. Beekman, clergyman of New York, was recently badly kicked by a horse, and was speedily cured by using the celebrated Mexican Mustang Liniment. When the proprietor asked him for a certificate, he replied that he "considered it a remarkable article, but it wouldn't answer for him to indorse a remedy in print." Here's consistency. But we didn't kick him, as the horse did. The world knows that for Rheumatism, Bruises, Swellings, Spavin, Scratches, Inflammation, Lameness, or any flesh, bone or muscle ailment upon man or animal, there is nothing like the Mustang Liniment. It costs but 50 cts. and $1.00 per bottle, and should be in every family. It is wrapped in a fine steel-plate label, and signed "G. W. Westbrook, Chemist."

Tonic and Recuperant Plantation Bitters.—The constantly increasing patronage which it receives has, it is true, excited the petty envy of certain splenetic advertisers of pinchbeck panaceas, who hope to make a market for their own stagnant, watery wares by decrying all spirituous medicinal preparations. But the public can stomach neither their arguments nor their potations, and consequently reject these very weak imitations of the enemy as entirely too thin!

VEGETABLE PULMONARY BALSAM! Most approved, reliable and well-known remedy for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. Get the genuine. Price $1; small 50c. CUTLER BROS. & CO., Boston.

$10 per day made with our FOOT power Scroll Saws. Price $30. Address, with stamp, BARNES BROS., Rockford, Ill.

$5 to $20 per day at home. Terms free. Address Geo. Stinson & Co., Portland, Maine.

CATARRH CURED. For full information, price-list, etc., address (with stamp) Rev. T. P. CHILDS, Troy, Ohio.

$75 A WEEK. Agents wanted everywhere. For outfit 25c. Fritch & Walker, Dayton, Ohio.

$25 PER DAY Commission or $30 a week Salary, and expenses. We offer it and will pay it. Apply now. G. Webber & Co., Marion, O.

10 Beautiful Transfer Pictures, instructions & catalogue, 10 cts. Easily transferred. 50 Gem Chromos 10 cts. Agents wanted. J. L. PATTEN & CO., 71 Pine St. N.Y.

AGENTS WANTED—Men or Women. $34 a week or $100 forfeited. The secret free. Write at once to COWEN & CO., 8th St., New York.

O! $210 a Month. Agents everywhere. First-class bus. Particulars free. R. Waller & Co., St. Louis, Mo.

ADVERTISERS! Send 25 cents to GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., 41 Park Row, New York, for their Pamphlet of 100 pages, containing lists of 3000 newspapers and estimates showing cost of advertising.

Subscription Books Choice and elegantly illustrated. Great Inducements to Agents. For terms and circulars, address NEW WORLD PUBLISHING CO., Phila.

JUST THE BOOK! MONEY IN IT SURE! Just out. Useful, Handsome, Cheap. Sells everywhere. Send for prospectus to E. C. BRIDGMAN, 5 Barclay St., N. Y., or 150 West 4th St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

OPIUM HABIT CURED at Home. No Publicity. Terms moderate. Time short. Four years of unparalleled success. Describe case. 400 testimonials. Address Dr. F. E. Marsh, Quincy, Mich.

ONE agent sold in one month 501 copies of the LIFE OF LIVINGSTONE, which unfolds the thrilling experiences of a veritable Hero and the curiosities of a wonderful country. More agents wanted. Address LIVINGSTONE PUBLISHERS, either at Cincinnati, Detroit, Chicago, Davenport, or St. Louis.

BOOK AGENTS get best selling book and best terms. Everybody's Own Physician, or how to acquire and preserve health. by C. W. Gleason, M. D. 350 engravings, 490 pages. Royal octavo. Gilt. Send for circulars. Co-operative Bible & Pub. Co., Muscatine, Iowa.

OUR NEW "Ladies' Friend" contains 7 articles needed by every Lady—Patent Spool Holder, Scissors, Thimble, &c.—guaranteed worth $1.50 Sample Box, by mail, 50 cents. Agents wanted. PLUMB & CO., 108 S. 8th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

A Present for Every Boy and Girl who subscribes to the YOUNG FOLKS' NEWS. A Bright little Paper for the Young, with Handsome Illustrations. Published Weekly at $1.25 per year. (With the Postage Paid.) The paper is Lively, Entertaining, and Instructive, yet not forgetting a share of Innocent Fun and Frolic.

This happy boy comes to young people with good news—telling them that any one who sends $1.25 to Mr. Alfred Martien, Philadelphia, will not only get a copy every week for a whole year of that nice little paper, THE YOUNG FOLKS' NEWS, with the postage paid, but will also receive a beautiful Oil Chromo Picture, taking their choice of four handsome Chromos, called "A Frolic in the Woods;" "The Boat Race;" "Getting Ready for Sea," and "The Shipwreck." Or, if they will send 25 cents more—that is $1.50 altogether—they will get with the paper the picture varnished and mounted on a cardboard, ready for framing; or $1.75 will procure two Chromos mounted and the paper for one year, postage paid; or $2.25 will procure the four Chromos mounted and the paper for one year, postage paid. Mounted Chromos will please best.

Send a three-cent stamp for a Specimen Number.
ALFRED MARTIEN, Publisher,
21 South Seventh Street, Philadelphia.

$72 Each Week. Agents wanted. Particulars free. WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

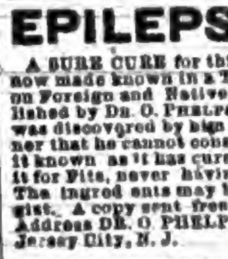
The Home Corn-Sheller.
The best hand-sheller for family use in the market. EVERY MACHINE WARRANTED. Price, $2.50. Agents wanted in every town. Address LIVINGSTON & CO., Iron Founders, Pittsburgh, Pa.

OPIUM EATERS THOROUGHLY CURED. Cheap, quick; no suffering. 6 yrs wonderful success. Describe case. Dr. Armstrong, Berrien, Mich.

$200 and expenses a month to Agents. Address A. L. Stoddard, Jonesville, Mich.

A GREAT NOVELTY.
BOOK CANVASSERS WANTED
For the most remarkable Book ever published in America. By Mark Twain, Whitelaw Reid, P. V. Nasby, Wilkie Collins, Alfred Tennyson, John Hay, and others. Entirely new, splendidly illustrated, magnificently bound. Cost $5,000 to produce. Will take immensely. Extra Premiums to Agents. Address, immediately, WM. F. GILL & CO., 151 Washington Street, Boston, Mass.

FOR NOTHING. Specimen Copies of the Toledo WEEKLY BLADE (Nasby's Paper), the largest, best and cheapest paper in the world, sent free to any address. 64 columns of good reading matter. Send to LOCKE & JONES, Toledo, Ohio.



HOG RINGER.
15,000,000 Rings,
70,000 Ringers,
3,500 Tongs Sold.
Hardware Dealers Sell Them. Ringer $1, Rings per 100 50 cts, Tongs $1.25, by mail, post paid Circulars free. Address H. W. HILL & CO. Decatur, Ill.

EPILEPSY or FITS.
A SURE CURE for this distressing complaint is now made known in a Treatise (of 48 octavo pages) on Foreign and Native Herbal Preparations, published by Dr. O. Phelps Brown. The prescription was discovered by him in such a providential manner that he cannot conscientiously refuse to make it known, as it has cured everybody who has used it for Fits, never having failed in a single case. The ingredients may be obtained from any druggist. A copy sent free to all applicants by mail. Address DR. O. PHELPS BROWN, 21 Grand Street Jersey City, N. J.

STEINWAY
Grand, Square and Upright Pianos,
Superior to all others. Every Piano Warranted for Five Years. Illustrated Catalogues, with Price List, mailed free on application.
STEINWAY & SONS.
Nos. 107, 109 & 111 East 14th Street, New York.

PROF. D. MEEKER'S
Painless Opium Cure!
The Only Successful Remedy of the Present Day.
Send for Paper on Opium Eating, its Consequences and Cure.
P. O. Box 475, - - Laporte, Ind.

SAFE
S. H. HARRIS THE BEST
MANUFACTORY AND SALESROOM,
23 & 25 RANDOLPH ST., CHICAGO

WE WANT AGENTS AGENTS AGENTS AGENTS AGENTS FOR OUR Adjustable Threshold in every town and city in the United States. It sells well and is just what every house needs. It is the only invention in the world that will positively prevent rain, cold, snow and dust from coming under door bottoms. Carpenters make lots of money handling it. Send at once for our circular. WILSON, PEIRCE & Co., Sole Manufacturers, 182 Clark St., Chicago.

FOR NEARLY THIRTY YEARS THE RICHMOND PRINTS
have been held in high esteem by those who use a Calico. They are produced in all the novelties of changing fashions, and in conservative styles suited to the wants of many persons. Among the latter are the
"Standard Gray Styles," proper for the house or street—beautiful in designs and pleasing in coloring.
"CHOCOLATE STANDARD STYLES,"
in great variety, and widely known as most serviceable prints. Nothing better for daily wear. These goods bear tickets as quoted above. Your retailer should have them, and your examination and approval will coincide.

MASON & HAMLIN
CABINET ORGANS.
Winners of THREE HIGHEST MEDALS AND DIPLOMA OF HONOR at VIENNA, 1873, PARIS 1867, and in AMERICA ALWAYS. Declared by MUSICIANS GENERALLY to be UNRIVALED and INCOMPARABLE. Sold at fixed uniform prices to all, which are printed and invariable.
PURCHASERS OF ORGANS ARE REMINDED that the temptation to Dealers and Peddlers is very strong to sell and recommend as best the organs of those makers who will pay them the largest commissions or discounts for selling.
The MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., printing as they do their lowest prices, can afford to dealers only the smallest commissions. This plan secures to every purchaser the lowest price, because the dealer cannot ask more than the Catalogue price; but it causes many dealers to do their best to sell other organs, simply because they get enormous discounts on them. Some organs are currently sold to dealers at seventy-five per cent. discount, or at one quarter the prices printed for them. As a rule, the poorer the organ the higher its printed price and the greater the discount on it.
The MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO. are now offering new styles, with important improvements; and are selling not only for cash exclusively, but also on new plans of easy payments, running through one year or longer. They also rent new Organs with privilege of purchase. Rent paid three years, purchases the Organ.
Send for the Illustrated Catalogues and circulars which give very full information, and are sent free. Address THE MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., at either New York, Boston, or Chicago.

VINEGAR BITTERS
PURELY VEGETABLE
FREE FROM ALCOHOL
DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
EUREKA
VINEGAR BITTERS

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of Vinegar Bitters?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of Vinegar Bitters in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of Dr. Walker's Vinegar Bitters are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.
R. H. McDONALD & CO.,
Druggists and Gen. Agts., San Francisco, California, and cor. of Washington and Charlton Sts., N. Y.
Sold by all Druggists and Dealers.

ADVERTISERS.
The American Newspaper Union numbers over 1,000 papers, separated into seven subdivisions. For separate lists and cost of advertising, address S. P. SANBORN, 114 Monroe St., Chicago.

HALL'S PATENT STANDARD
SAFES
AT "HARD PAN" PRICES.
HALL'S SAFE & LOCK CO.
CHICAGO, ILL.

Agents Wanted for
GUIZOT'S HISTORY OF FRANCE, 400 MAGNIFICENT ILLUSTRATIONS.
WE take pleasure in announcing that we have just received news of the fact that the great Statesman and Historian had just completed this important work before his death, the MS. of the last volume being now in the hands of the Paris publishers. We are now issuing the work in semi-monthly parts, at 50 cts. per part.
It is one of the most superb specimens of book-making ever published in America. First-class canvassing agents wanted in every part of the country. It is the GREAT BOOK of the year. Apply at once to ESTES & LAURIAT,
143 Washington Street, Boston.
O. J. GRIFFITHS,
126 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

BECKWITH
$20.
Portable Family Sewing Machine,
ON
30 DAYS' TRIAL.
We will send to any address, C. O. D., one of our machines with privilege of examination before taking out of Express office; and if it does not give satisfaction we will refund the money, less Express charges, on return of machine within the time specified.
Beckwith Sewing Machine Co.
New York: 862 Broadway.
Chicago: 231 Wabash Ave.

NO POSTPONEMENT!
GRAND MUSICAL JUBILEE AND GIFT CONCERT,
AT SIOUX CITY, IOWA,
Positively Thursday, Nov. 26th, 1874.
$100,000 IN CASH
And Valuable Real Estate
Will be distributed among the ticket holders. Only 60,000 tickets will be issued—a large portion of these already sold. People's Scheme. Net profits to go to Chamber of Commerce, Fire and Militia Companies, and the Public Library of Sioux City. Single Tickets, $3; Two for $5. Reliable agents wanted. Liberal commissions allowed. Send for tickets, terms or circulars to N. HATTENBACH & CO., Sioux City, Iowa.

"PSYCHOMANCY, or Soul Charming." How either sex may fascinate and gain the love and affection of any person they choose, instantly. This art all can possess, free, by mail, 25 cents; together with a Marriage Guide, Egyptian Oracle, Dreams, Hints to Ladies, &c. 1,000,000 sold. A queer book. Address T. WILLIAM & Co., Pub's, Philadelphia.

MARRIAGE GUIDE An interesting illustrated work of 260 pages, containing valuable information for those who are married or contemplate marriage. Price 50 cts. by mail. Address Dr. Butts' Dispensary, 12 North Eighth Street, St. Louis, Mo.

DR. A. G. OLIN HAPPY RELIEF. Don't despair! Read the cream of medical literature! Thirty years among the afflicted, thousands saved from an early grave; lost vitality, nervous weakness; who may marry; why not; lost memory; impaired health. Thirty lectures delivered at Chicago Medical Institute, price 50 cts. Consultation free. Cures guaranteed. Address or call on Dr. A. G. OLIN, 187 Washington-st., Chicago, Ill. Pleasant home for patients. All correspondence confidential.

DR. WHITTIER,
No. 617 St. Charles Street, St. Louis, Mo.,
continues to treat all cases of obstacles to marriage, blood impurities, every ailment or sickness which results from indiscretion or imprudence, with unparalleled success. Dr. W.'s establishment is chartered by the State of Missouri, was founded and has been established to secure safe, certain and reliable relief. Being a graduate of several medical colleges, and having the experience of a long and successful life in his specialties, he has perfected remedies that are effectual in all these cases. His patients are being treated by mail or express everywhere. No matter who failed, call or write. From the great number of applications he is enabled to keep his charges low. 36 pages, giving full symptoms, for two stamps.
MARRIAGE GUIDE,
260 pages, a popular book which should be read by everybody. No married pair, or persons contemplating marriage, can afford to do without it. It contains the cream of medical literature on this subject, the results of Dr. W.'s long experience; also the best thoughts from late works in Europe and America. Sent sealed, post-paid for 50 cts.

C. N. U. No. 47

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS, please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

$14.60 SHOTGUN. A DOUBLE-BARREL GUN, front-action bar locks, warranted English twist barrels, a GOOD SHOOTER, with Flask, Pouch and Wad-cutter. Sent C.O.D. with privilege to examine before paying bill, upon paying Express charges both ways. Send stamp for particulars to RUDOLPH & CO., Gun Dealers, 1018 N. Fifth street, St. Louis, Mo.

THINKING OF HEAVEN.

Since the Young Folk's Social our thoughts have wondered in the direction of the above theme. There have been several "old ladies" who propose running this new organization, but we hope no one will be offended at our writing, as we have no particular person in view.

There are people who take solid comfort day after day and never have a thought of enjoyment for their children. On the morning after their son or daughter has returned from an evening's entertainment, and greatly enjoyed the hospitalies thereof, they indulge in a curtain lecture as long as the moral law. After thus giving vent to her feelings on the sins and short comings of her neighbors, for the rest of the day she solaces hereself with the thoughts of Heaven.

The object of the Young Folks' Social of this place is to give pecuniary assistance to the churches, and holding that the end justifies the means, people ordinarily honest enough in secular transactions, will resort, for the purpose of raising funds for church or charity, to means far removed from even an appearance of respectability. At church fairs or festivals they welcome the bawd for the quarter she brings, cater to the tipler for the profit on beer, send their pretty daughters into a polluted crowd to solicit patronage; and in the livery of lottery men play such fantastic tricks before high heaven as make confidence men weep. We are interested on this subject and could say more, but feel there are some that we could not convince that, of the two plans adopted for replenishing the ex-chequer of their churches, etc., that their way is not the better. And with the thoughts that they are right in this, as in every thing else, they sit down with folded arms and enjoy a thought or two "of Heaven."

"This is an excellent way for parents to bring up their children," and the son or daughter "enjoys the life that nature intended them to have," after they steal it from their parents sight. Children ought to be brought up under a pious training, and if these fond mothers will always escape that terrible disease "up your snoot ic" we expect to see the day when their boys may tell the news of the world on a postal card, read through artificial eyes when circuses will travel in balloons, a trip to the rocky mountains be made in an hour, and when fashionable audiences in Auburn go to hear some renouned singer performing in New York. What a glorious time these people might bring in a few years hence. Mephistophles smile as greatful at this imagination as does those who are pledged to keep up the finances connected with the church. We long to see the approach of this glorious day, and to know that the comfort of these good, pious souls, who have strained every muscle in their body for the comfort of their children, has dawned upon them. Oh, what a beautiful tableau it will be to see them pleasantly seated in an old hickory chair, built in 1874, Thinking of Heaven! I. O. U.

The Danger of a Pocket Knife.

A singular accident happened at Lawrence, Mass., last week to an 11 year old son of Alonzo Winkley, which resulted in the loss of his right leg.—The father had purchase a pocket knife for the boy during the day, and while the lad was cutting a thin piece of wood, which was resting on the thigh of his right leg, the wood split and the blade of the knife was driven into the flesh through the femoral artery. Physicians stopped the flow of blood with a tourniquet, and, after etherizing the patient, dissected down to the femoeal artery, which was elevated and a ligature applied just above the incision. All compression was then removed and the leg moved in position when venous blood came pouring out showing that the femoral vein was, like the artery, badly cut. More physicians were called, and it was decided that the amputation of the leg was the only means of saving the patient's life, and it was taken off about one third of the distance from the knee to the body. The patient is doing well and his recovery is anticipated The injury was similar to that received by the notorious burglar, Carroll Sanborn who was shot through the thigh by an officer. The surgeon in charge of the House of Correction at the time called to his assistance eminent surgical talent from Boston, and an attempt made to ligate the artery, which proved fatal to the prisoner.

◆

The waters in our lakes and creeks are getting powerful, and sweeping in their way.

Jones' Experience with Grasshoppers.

Jones was a farmer in Kansas.

His crop looked fine, and he chuckled to himself as he thought of the pile of "rags," embellished with Chase' photographs, he would have in his pockets when his wheat was sold.

Jones read in the newspapers about the grasshoppers in his State. After he had heard an accident one evening he remarked:

"Grasshoppers be blamed! The idea of a little thing like a grasshopper doing all this damage: Why these fellows must be looney!"

Pretty soon the rumor came that the hoppers had got into his own county, but still Jones was skeptical.

One day, while he was in the kitchen taking a drink of water he heard something drop on the floor. He looked around and there was a hopper sitting on the floor quietly chewing a nail-head.

Mr. Jones said nothing, but he kept up a deal of thinking.

Next day he went into his wheat field and found it alive with hoppers. This looked to him as if grasshopper were a reality, anyhow.

Soon they came—thicker and faster—came into Jones' house, they ate all the nail-heads out of the weather boarding, and the boards dropped off on the ground, they chewed his chimney down flush with the roof, and his cook stove they even ate his cellar out, so that he could not even find the hold it came out of.

He had a wagon painted green.—The 'hoppers thought it was something good to eat, and so they got the wagon inside of themselves also.

Jones stood and saw all of this distruction. He has heard to remark:

"Oh, the dickens! won't I believe the newspapers after this," and with these remarks he started on a run for the depot. He took the first train East, and now believes that such thing as grasshoppers exist.—Danbury News

S. C. EVANS, Pres't, C. M. DAWSON, Chash'r

MERCHANTS

National Bank!

FORT WAYNE, IND.

Capital and Surplus $112 000

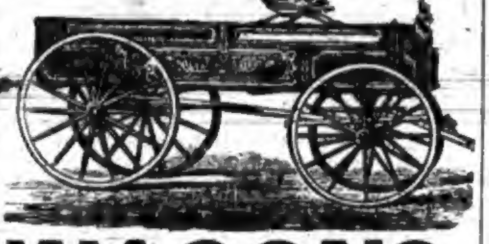
Receives Deposits, Discounts Business Paper, issues Letters of Credit, and Collects at all points at the lowest rates of exchange.

Directors:

S. CARY EVANS, R. C. ROBERTSON,
H. C. HANNA, N. P. STOCKBRIDGE
A. C. DAWSON.

Organized 1865. April 9, '74

The Auburn



WAGONS

Made from the Best Materials,

And constructed with all the late improvements—The new and extensive

WAGON SHOPS

—OF—

J. W. SHAFFER

South Main Street

are now in full running order and all orders for

WAGONS, BUGGIES, &c.

promptly attended to. Special care taken in getting the best Seasoned Timber. Our prices are very reasonable and we solicit the public to give us a call and ascertain our prices.

THE NEW

Drug Store!

FRESH DRUGS,

Medicines, Chemicals, Spices,

Dyes,
Combs,
Brushes,
Perfumery,
Propretory Articles
Fancy Goods, &c., &c

....

Wines and Liquors!

For Medical purposes only.

Stock New, prices to suit the times at the

NEW DRUG STORE,

Wood's old Stand!

Seventh St. Auburn, Ind.

Littlefield Bros.

Physicians prescriptions dispensed from pure medicines, day and night.

V. A. BEARD

Oldest Grocer in Auburn, North of Court House on Seventh Street,

DEALER IN

GROCERIES and PROVISIONS

TEAS, COFFEES, SUGGARS, SALT FISH.

Flour and Feed, Tubs Pails, Buckets, Sugars Boxes, Etc. A large variety of

TOBACCOS AND CIGARS,

Confectioneries of all kinds, and Fancy Notions, Cove Oysters, &c. A speciality in Green and Dried Fruits, and Canned Fruits. Goods delivered inside the corpora ion.

DRY GOODS

GEO. DeWALD & CO.

WHEN LOOKING FOR BARGAINS

—IN—

Dry Goods or Notions,

CALL AT THE STORE OF

Geo. DeWald & Co

No 107 Columbia St., Ft. WYNE,

Where can be found a large assortment of

STAPLE AND FANCY GOODS

which will be sold LOW for cash.

ASK FOR THE "HATTIE" CORSET

The best thing in the market, is made glove-fitting, and of the best material; and in order to introduce, we are offering

ONE DOLLAR

THIS IS A BARGAIN!!

T. B. TOTTEN

DEALER IN

Hats, Caps,

AND GENTS'

Furnshing Goods!

Ladies' and Gents' HAND VALISES

MODERWELL & FOWLER'S FINE SHIRTS

Made to Order.

Paper and Envelopes, Choice CIGARS & TOBACCO

Also a specialty in Jas. Harper & Co's.

SILK HATS,

and old styles made new as ever

BY CALLING ON T. B. TOTTEN.

In Hebel's Corner

Auburn Bakery!

AND

EATING HOUSE

BAKER BROS.

PROPRIETORS OF

Fresh baked Pies, Cakes etc., always on hand. Good lunches served at all hours.

BAKER BROS.

A NEW STORE!

With an entire stock of

NEW GOODS!

BOOTS & SHOES

at the lowest PRICES.

J. E. WOODFORD,

has located at Auburn with a fine new stock of BOOTS & SHOES, which will be sold at the lowest figures for

CASH ONLY

Call and examine this bran new stock, as there are no old goods that have been on the shelf for years. Store on Main street opposite Fluke's residence, Auburn, Ind.

J. J. Van Auken,

COUNTY SURVEYOR.

Will attend promptly to all surveying. Office with Rose & Hartman, Auburn Indiana. Persons requesting work by letter should give township and section.

A. CARD.

A Clergyman, while residing in South America, as missionary, discovered a safe and simple remedy for the cure of Nervous weakness, Early Decay, Disease of the Urinary and Seminal Organs, and the train of disorders brought on by baneful and vicious habits. Great numbers have been cured by this noble remedy. Prompted by a desire to benefit the afflicted and unfortunate, I will send the receipt for preparing and using this medicine, in a sealed envelope, to any one who needs it, Free o Charge. Address,

JOSEPH T. INMAN,
Station D Bible House, New York City

FALL AND WINTER

CLOTHING!

S. Lauferty

FURNISHING STORE!

You will find the best selected stock and at prices that defy competition. You can get a nice suit of Sam. from

$6 UPWARDS!

I also keep on hand nice fine stock of Woolen and White

SHIRTS!

which will be sold at prices as ow as any oth place, Ft Wayne ot excluded. find the est assortment which you can get at my store for less than you are aware of as I can say, what the most of my competers cannot, as I am now engaged in all the above line of goods for the last 20 years I have paid a good tuition which others will have to pay yet, and this will be the best assurance that S. Lauferty can sell you his line of goods for less than any other house around or about. I also keep in connection with the above, a fine and well selected stock of Plain and Fancy French English, German and Domestic

Hats & Caps!

Cassimeres

Broad Cloth and Vestings. have also engaged one of the bes Tailors west of New York or east of Chicago. All I ask is to come and examine my stock and prices and I will assure you will buy of me and go home well pleased and satisfied. I sell now strictly for Cash. S. LAUFERTY.

Sutermeister,

Becker & Bond,

ARCHITECTS

BUILDING

CONTRACTORS,

AND DEALERS IN

Building Stone

AMERICAN AND

ITALIAN MARBE,

GRANITE,
TOOMBSTONES,
MONUMENTS,
MANTELS,
GRATES, &C.,

Corner Main and Fulton Streets,
Fort Wayne, Ind.

BOOTS AND SHOES

Marked Down!

To compare with hard times. Just look at our prices and see if you cant save 25 to 50 cents on every Dollar

Men's waxed kip boots	$3 00
Boys' " "	2 25
Youths' " "	1 75
Mens' stoga kip boots, warranted,	3 50
Boys " " "	2 50
Youths " " "	2 00
Mens' western kip boots, hand made,	4 00
Boys " " "	2 75
Yoths' " " "	2 25
Mens' fine kip boots, hand made	4 50
Mens' genuine French kip boots hand made....	5 00
Womens' calf shoes	1 75 to $2 50
Ladies lasting or serve polish	1 25 to 2 25
Ladies calf sewed shoes	2 50
Childrens shoes in large variety from	20 to 1 25
Mens first class rubber boots tap sole	3 75

Rubber BOOTS and SHOES of every desscription always on hand at the lowest prices. Mens' wool and Buffalo lined boots and shoes cheaper than ever. All goods sold

FOR CASH.

Mens' Wool Line, good,

BOOTS AND SHOES,

in great variety which will be sold cheaper than ever. Our Motto is quick Sales, Small Profits, and Ready Pay. Don't fail to call and examine our stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere as we are satisfied it is money in your pockets.

E. Vordermark & Sons

North of Court House,

Odd Fellows' Building

AUBURN, INDIANA.

Dr. King's New Discovery!

FOR CONSUMPTION!

DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY FOR CONSUMPTION
DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY

THE GREATEST

DISCOVERY OF THE AGE.

THE ONLY SURE CURE FOR

CONSUMPTION

Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, and all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs!

THIS IS THE ONLY REMEDY

of the kind sold under a Positive Guarantee.—All persons suffering with any of the diseases for which this Wonderful Remedy!!

is recommended, are requested to call at

F. E. Davenport & Co.

DRUG STORE, AUBURN, IND.

and get a sample bottle free of charge, which will convince the most skeptical of its really extraordinary merits, and show you what a regular One Dollar size bottle will do. April 16

W. and E. STEVENS,

Carriage & Buggy Builders

Fort Wayne, Indiana

The public is respecfully requested to examine our stock of

CARRIAGES, BUGGIES, PHAETONS, &C., &C.

We keep constantly on hand a large assortment of work ready for the road. We

WARRANT OUR WORK

and guarantee to give entire satisfaction. Prices as low as any other House in the trade.

Manufactory on Clay-st, east end of Main

Clerk's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY AND TO THE COLLECTION OF LOCAL AND GENERAL NEWS

Vol. 4. Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, December 3, 1874. No. 49.

ROSE & HARTMAN
LAW, ABSTRACT AND COLLECTION OFFICE!

All legal business promptly attended to in DeKalb and adjoining counties. Have the only

ABSTRACT OF TITLE

to REAL ESTATE in the county. They contain Deeds and Mortgages made before the organization of the county and not on the county records, as well as all those made and recorded since. Written abstracts and opinions of title furnished. No one should invest in land without examining the Title.

OFFICE OPP. SWINEFORD HOUSE
S. W. Cor. Public Square. AUBURN, INDIANA.

The Auburn Weekly Courier
Published every Thursday, by
TOM. C. MAYS.
One Year, ... $2. | Six Months, ... $1.

Advertising Rates.

	1m.	3m.	6m.	1 y.
One Square	2 50	5 00	7 00	12 00
¼ Column	6 00	12 00	18 00	30 00
½ Column	10 00	18 00	30 00	50 00
1 Column	15 00	20 00	50 00	100 00

Local Notices 10 cents per line, first insertion; 5 cents each insertion thereafter. Business Cards 6 dollars.

Business Cards.

RICKEL & TEFFT,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Auburn, Ind. Office in the Court House.
J. W. RICKEL. R. DEXTER TEFFT.

COURIER OFFICE.
JOB PRINTING neatly executed. Fine work a specialty. Office in Odd Fellows' Building 2nd floor.

AMERICAN HOUSE,
AT FORT WAYNE, only $2 a day. Good accommodations for traveling men.
C. B. OAKLEY, Prop'r.

DR. J. A. COWAN,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office up Main street, over Central Grocery.

Joseph H. Stophlet,
ARCHITECT. Office over No. 17 Court street 1st door north of Empire Line office, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Drawings and specifications furnished for all classes of buildings, at reasonable rates.

GUY PLUM,
ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public, Office in the Court House. Special attention paid to the collection of claims. Also agent for Home Insurance Company.

Medical Society.
OF DeKALB COUNTY, meets at Auburn, Ind., the 2nd Tuesday in each month.
J. H. FORD, Pres't.
J. A. COWAN, Sec'y.

A. F. PINCHIN,
ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public, Butler, DeKalb Co., Ind. Insurance and real estate business promptly attended to.

H. C. PETERSON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office over Davis' hardware store, Auburn, Ind.

SWINEFORD HOUSE.
CORNER MAIN AND NINTH STREETS, opposite the Court House. S. C. SWINEFORD, Pro.

J. J. LITTLEFIELD,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. Office over Miller and Casebeer's Store, Auburn, Indiana.

DRS. SEBRING & GRAHAM.
PARTNERS in the practice of Medicine. Office in Shaffer's brick building, second story, Main street, Auburn, Ind.

G. H. K. MOSS. P. V. HOFFMAN
MOSS and HOFFMAN,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW and Notaries Public Butler, Ind. Special attention given to collections. Also buy and sell Real Estate.

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office first door to right, Masonic Hall, over the Shoe Store of Sprott & Son.

PENFIELD and MOODY,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana.

R. M. and W. C. LOCKHART,
DEALERS IN LUMBER of every description, Waterloo City, Ind. We buy and ship Lumber at the going cash rates, at all times.

McBRIDE and MORLAN,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in any of the courts of the State. Office over O. T. Clark's Dry Goods store.

WOODHULL and CROXTON,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW Angola, Indiana. Practice in Steuben and DeKalb Counties.

CHAS. A. O. McCLELLAN,
ATTORNEY AT LAW, Waterloo, Indana. Will practice in the Courts of DeKalb and Steuben counties. Liberal Advances Made on all First-class Claims left in my hands for collection.

COURTS IN STEUB'N CO.	COURTS IN DEKALB CO.
1st Monday in February	3rd Monday in Feb.
4th Monday in April	2nd Monday in May
1st Monday in September	3rd Monday in Sep.
4th Monday in November	2nd Monday in Dec

H. Wartenslaben
PAINTER and paper hanger. House painting a specialty. Residence corner Williams and Cedar street.

Toledo Business Cards.

Chas. L. Luce. Fred. C. Chapin. James Blass
Luce, Chapin & Blass,
IMPORTERS AND JOBBERS of foreign and domestic dry goods, notions, white goods, &c 132 and 134 Summit street, Toledo, Ohio.

Chris. Gerber. M. O. Waggoner.
C. Gerber & Co.,
WHOLESALE DEALERS in general hardware. Sign of the big jack knife and star ax. 128 Summit and 81 Water streets, Toledo, Ohio.

Geo. Emerson. Pliny Watson. Z. C. Pheatt.
Emerson & Co.,
WHOLESALE GROCERS, 142, 144 and 46 Summit street, Toledo, Ohio.

V. Hamilton. E. Goldsmith.
Hamilton & Goldsmith,
COMMISSION MERCHANTS, Water street Toledo, Ohio.

Ft. Wayne, Muncie & Cin R. R.

Time Table to take effect Sept 6, 1874.

Going South.

Fort Wayne	10 00am	5 [illegible]	1 40pm
Ossian	10 12am		2 22
Bluffton	11 10	3 15	2 50
Keystone	11 29am	9 40	3 20
Montpelier	11 45		3 30
Hartford	12 10pm	4 05	3 56
Eaton	12 30		4 19
Muncie	1 00	4 45	4 53
McCowan's	1 15
New Castle	2 05	4 06
Cam. City	2 36
Beesons	2 54
Connersville	3 10
Indianapolis		7 05	6 50pm
Louisville		1 00pm	11 25am
Cincinnati	6 20

Going North.

Cincinnati	6 45am	pm
Louisville		2 00	11 25
Indianapolis		7 50	3 40
Connersville	10 25
Beesons	10 40
Cam City	11 00
New Castle	11 45pm
McCowans	12 32pm
Muncie	1 00	10 27	5 45am
Eaton	1 21		6 25
Hartford	1 43	11 10	6 51
Montpelier	1 52		7 26
Keystone	2 15		7 35
Bluffton	5 15	12 05am	8 15
Ossian	2 47		8 50
Ft. Wayne	3 25	1 15	9 45

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Gen'l. Supt.
ROBT. BILLIE, Gen'l Ticket Agt.

Ft. Wayne, Jackson & Sag. R. R

Short Line Between
Michigan and the South.

Time card in effect May 24th—run by Chicago time

Going North.

Stations	Mail	Accom.	Ft W.Acm
Cincinnati		6 45	4 30pm
Louisville	11 25pm	6 50	3 00
Indianapolis	3 40	11 48	7 50
Ft Wayne	10 35	5 00	1 05
Auburn	11 34	6 30	1 57
Waterloo	11 48	6 55	2 00
Summit
Pleasant Lake	12 20
Ar Angola	12 30	7 37	2 45
Reading	1 55	9 50	3 37
Bankers	1 10	10 09	3 50
Jonesville	2 27	10 23	4 03
Jackson	2 40	12 26	5 02
Detroit	6 30		6 00
Grand Rapids	9 15	5 45	4 40 p
Lansing	5 35		8 40
Saginaw	8 30		11 35
Bay City	9 15		12 23

Going South.

Bay City		6 30	3 30
Saginaw		7 17	4 05
Lansing		10 40	7 40
Grand Rapids	10 30 pm	6 30	12 25
Detroit		7 00	5 40
Jackson Dep	7 20a m	12 25	9 40
Jonesville	8 25	2 20	10 43
Bankers	8 42	2 55	11 58
Reading	8 56	3 25	11 10
Ar Angola	9 56	5 10	12 00
Pleasant Lake
Waterloo	10 43	6 05	12 42
Auburn	10 56	6 35	12 47
Auburn Junction			12 50
Fort Wayne, Arrive	11 55	7 50	1 38
Indianapolis	6 50 p m		6 45a
Louisville	11 25		1 10p
Cincinnati	8 40 a m		9 45

W. A. ERNST, Sup
S. K. HOOPER Gen. Ticket Ag't.

BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R

The Shortest and Quickest Route to
WASHINGTON AND BALTIMORE!
The East and Southeast.

CONDENSED TIME TABLE, THRO' TRAINS.

VIA PARKERSBURG, N. V 21 '74.	Fast Line, Daily:	Express, Daily.
Lve. Cincinnati	9 10 a m	9 30 p m
Arr. Chillicothe	1 12 p m	1 10 a m
" [illegible]	5 57	10 20
" Marietta	5 28	5 20
" Parkersburg	5 30	5 30
Arr. Grafton	9 12	9 40
" Oakland	11 24	11 34
" Deer Park	11 43	11 43
" Cumberland	1 50 a m	2 00 p m
" Harper's Ferry	5 02	4 56 p m
" Washington	7 10	6 50
" Richmond	1 30 p m	4 50 a m
" Baltimore	8 40 a m	8 20 p m
" Wilmington	12 17 p m	1 31 a m
" Philadelphia	1 20	2 35
" New York	1 15	6 05
" Boston	2 50 a m	4 50 p m

VIA BELLAIRE—MAY 31, 1874	Fast Line, Daily.	Express, Sun. Ex,
Lve. Columbus	11 15 a m	11 45 p m
Arr. Newark	12 35 p m	12 50 a m
Lve. Sandusky	7 45 a m	7 00 p m
" Monroeville	8 25	7 50 p m
" Mansfield	10 07	9 51
Arr. Newark	12 30 p m	12 46 a m
" Zanesville	1 35	1 55
" Bellaire	4 50	5 15
" Wheeling	6 10 p m	5 45
" Grafton	9 05	9 20
" Oakland	11 24	11 34
" Deer Park	11 43	11 47
" Cumberland	1 50 a m	2 00 p m
" Harper's Ferry	5 02	4 56
" Washington	7 10	6 50
" Richmond	1 30 p m	4 50 a m
" Baltimore	8 40 a m	8 20 p m
" Wilmington	12 17 p m	1 31 a m
" Philadelphia	1 20	2 35
" New York	5 15	6 05
" Boston	5 50 a m	4 50 p m

THOS. P. BARRY, West. pass agt., Cin.
L. M. COLE, Gen'l ticket agt., Bal. Md.
THOS. R. SHARP, Mas. of Tran.

S. U. Tarney

PROPRIETOR

AUBURN MEAT MARKET!

KEEPS ALWAYS ON HAND

Fresh Beef, Pork, Veal, Mutton and Bologna Sausage, clean and sweet. Prices reasonable. Main st first door north of Miller & Casebeer's store.

DETROIT, EEL RIVER & ILLINOIS Rail Road.

Short Line between Auburn and the East and West.

Trains run on Cleveland time. Through trains will run on the following time, in effect Sunday Sept 27, 1874.

Going East.			Going West
Way Fr.	Mail	Stations	Mail	Acc'
5 10	10 10 am	Logansport	7 45 p.m	2 55
		Peoria
8 40	11 15 am	Denver	6 [illegible]	1 30
10 00	12 10 pm	N. Manches'r	5 59	12 11
12 47	12 57	Col. City	5 08	11 51
4 25 pm	2 04 pm	Auburn	3 53	8 46
5 15	2 30	ar. Butler lv	3 20	8 00
		Toledo
		Detroit

CONNECTIONS—At Logansport with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St Louis, Logansport, Crawfordsville & Southwestern and Toledo, Wabash & Western R. R's. At Denver with Indianaplis, Peru & Chicago Railway, for Rochester, Plymouth, LaPorte, Michigan City, Peru, Kokomo and Indianapolis At N. Manchester, with Cincinnati, Wabash & Mich R'y. At Columbia City with Pittsburg, Ft. W. & Chicago, for Ft Wayne Lima, Crestline and Pittsburg. At Grand Rapids crossing with Grand Rapids R'y. At Auburn Junction with Ft. Wayne Jackson & Saginaw, for Angola, Jackson and Saginaw R'y. for Butler with Lake Shore & Mich. Southern Cw. Toledo, Detroit and all eastern cities.
J. A. HUGHSTON, Gen. Ticket Agt.
A. B. SOUTHARD, Gen. Supt.

Lake Shore & Mich. Southern R. R
Air Line Division

ON and after Sunday, Nov. 15, 1874 Passenger Trains will leave Waterloo city and other Stations as follows, daily except Sundays:

GOING WEST

	Special Ex.	Pacific Ex.	Accom'd'n
Butler	2 40 p m	x 2 35 a m	8 00 p m
Waterloo	2 50	2 44 "	8 10 "
Sedan	3 05	3 04	8 30 "
Corunna	3 10	3 16	8 35 "

GOING EAST.

Corunna	2 16 pm	11 30 pm	6 50 p m
Sedan	2 20	11 35	7 02 "
Waterloo	2 28 "	11 44 "	7 14 "
Butler	2 40 "	x12 01a m	7 5[illegible] "

CHAS. PAINE, Gen. Supt.
J. W. CARY, Gen Tic. Agt.
J. E. CURTIS, Division Supt

Pittsburgh, Ft Wayne & Chicago R. R

ON and after Nov 15 1874 Trains will leave stations daily, (Sundays excepted) as follow:

Going West.

STATIONS	FAST EX.	MAIL.	PAC. EX.	NIGHT EX
Pittsburg	2,00 A M	6,00 A M	9,10 A M	2,00 P M
Rochester	"	7,25 "	10,50 "	3,11 "
Alliance	5,32 "	11,30 "	1,30 P M	5,57 "
Orrville	7,12 "	12,52 P M	3,15 "	7,40 "
Mansfield	9,20 "	8,15 "	5,28 "	9,40 "
Crestline ar	9,50 "	3,50 "	6,00 "	10,10 "
Crestline lv	10,10 "	5,00 A M	6,25 "	10,20 "
Forest	11,33 "	6,32 "	8,55 "	11,52 "
Lima	12,30 P M	8,00 "	9,50 "	12,59 A M
Ft Wayne	2,50 "	10,40 "	12,15 A M	3,15 "
Plymouth	5,00 "	1,25 P M	3,00 "	5,40 "
Chicago	8,20 "	5,25 "	6,50 "	9,20 "

Going East.

STATIONS	MAIL	FAST EX.	PAC. EX.	NIGHT EX
Chicago	5,15 A M	9,20 A M	5,35 A M	10,20 P M
Plymouth	9,25 "	12,15 P M	9,10 "	2,25 A M
Ft Wayne	12,30 P M	2,45 "	11,45 "	5,50 "
Lima	2,55 "	4,35 "	1,52 A M	8,00 "
Forest	4,10 "	5,34 "	3,01 "	9,17 "
Crestline ar	5,50 "	7,00 "	4,40 "	11,10 "
Crestline lv	6,05 A M	7,20 "	4,50 "	11,20 "
Mansfield	6,40 "	7,50 "	5,20 "	11,51 "
Orrville	9,05 "	9,42 "	7,12 "	1,46 P M
Alliance	11,20 "	11,20 "	9 00 "	3,40
Rochester	2,10 P M		11,12 "	5,58
ittsburg	3,30 "	3,20 a m	12 15 A M	7,05

F. R. MYERS,
General Passenger and Ticket Agent

Examination of Teachers.

Examinations will be held at Auburn, on the first Saturday in each month, and at Waterloo the last Saturday in each month until further notice. A stamped envelope for the return of license, will be required of each applicant.
JAMES A. BARNS, Co., Supt.

Thomas Baldock
Building Contractor

AUBURN INDIANA.

will be ready at all times with an experienced Corps of workmen to erect Houses, Barns, and do Carpenter and joiner work of all kinds at reasonable rates.

BRICK FOR SALE

FRITZ GROESCOP.

Having just burned a fine kiln of brick, about one hundred thousand, is now ready to supply all who want good brick at reasonable figures. Residence two miles north of Auburn on the Kutzner road; three miles south west of Waterloo.

John M. Miller,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FINE FURNITURE,
CHAIRS.
Husk & Hair Matrasses
50 and 52 East Main Street,
FORT WAYNE, IND.

J. G. FLEDDERMAN,

No. 27, East Main-St.
FORT WAYNE, IND'A

Has the largest and finest stock of

CLOTHS, COATINGS, CHEVIOTS,
—AND—
CassimereS

in Ft. Wayne. The finest line of

Made up Clothing!

ever shown in Fort Wayne

Youths' and Children's Clothing!
Furnishing Goods, &c.
Merchant Tailoring.

All work done in all the latest styles, promptly attended to. do and see his largest stock of Gp

AUBURN
Meat Market.

Main St. Next door to Klotz's.

Houston and Benedict,
PROPRIETORS.

Having fitted up our establishment in first class style, with increased facilities, were are now prepared to furnish Fresh Meats in the best of order at reasonable rates. Give us a call.

THE Eagle Mills!

Having been recently refitted and improved, is now in excellent running order. Having employed one of the best Millers in the country, I can now guarantee satisfaction. Prompt attention given to Custom Work.

FLOUR, BRAN, MILL FEED, ETC.,
on hand at low prices.
L. BOWERS.

Auburn Bakery!
AND
EATING HOUSE
BAKER BROS.

PROPRIETORS OF

Fresh baked Pies, Cakes etc., always on hand. Good lunches served at all hours.
BAKER BROS.

The Great Cause of
HUMAN MISERY

Just Published in a Sealed Envelope. Price 6 cts

A LECTURE on the nature, treatment and radical cure of Seminal Weakness, or Spermatorrhœa, introduced by self abuse Involuntary Emissions, Impotency, Nervous Debility and fits; Mental and Physical Incapacity, &c—by Robt J. Culverwell, M. D. author of the "Green Book," &c.

The world renowned author, in this admirable Lecture, clearly proves from his own experience that the awful consequences of self abuse may be cured without medicine, and without dangerous surgical operations; pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands. Sent, under seal, in a plain envelope to any address, on receipt of 6 cents, or two postage stamps. Address
CHAS. J. C. KLINE & CO.,
127 Bowery, N. Y. Post Office Box 4586

T. B. TOTTEN

DEALER IN

Hats, Caps,
AND GENTS'
Furnshing Goods!

Ladies' and Gents' HAND VALISES
MODERWELL & FOWLER'S FINE SHIRTS
Made to Order.
Paper and Envelopes, Choice CIGARS & TOBACCO
Also a specialty in Jas. Harper & Co's.

SILK HATS,

and old styles made new as ever
BY CALLING ON T. B. TOTTEN.
In Hebel's Corner

The Newest & Best
The Mammoth House

19 WEST MAIN-ST.,
FORT WAYNE, IND.

M. E. Woodward!

Has just received the finest and largest stock of

Clothing,
PIECE GOODS, ETC.

at his new store, ever in the place.

NO OLD GOODS!

and Fashionable Furnishing Goods, Boys &c. Don't fail to see the new store.

AUBURN LIVERY
—AND—

SALE STABLE!

Ryan & Mader, pro's

Having on hand everything in the line of
Carriages, Buggies, Wagons, etc
they are prepared to furnish rigs at all times at reasonable prices. Stable east of Court House.

THE OLD AGE OF LEXINGTON.

Nine miles from Frankfort, on the road to Lexington, stands one of the finest and richest farms in Kentucky that owned by Mr. Alexander. On this superb farm we saw 300 blooded horses, ranging in rank from old "Lexington," the monarch of the turf, to the kittenish and frisky yearling.—Here also Mr. Alexander has collected $100,000 worth of cattle comprising some of the finest stock in the world and peeping into the inclosure where the costly cattle were kept, we saw one diminutive heifer worth $27,000, and a variety of foreign creatures whose value seemed almost fabulous. On this farm are bred the great majority of fine-trotting and running horses which appear in our parks during the racing season. Mr. Alexander's estate which is admirably stocked with fine farm-houses, barns, and stables, and which is more like a ducal manor than the ordinary American farm, extends over 3,200 acres. The roads, the stone walls, and the fine lawns covered with massive shade trees, make a series of delightful pictures. The annual sale of horses on the Alexander farm occurs in June. Only yearling colts are sold. Hundreds of people from all the country around, and from every State in the Union, flock to this sale. An immense barbecue is held, and high wassail marks the conclusion of the occasion.

We paid a respectful visit to old "Lexington," the mighty sire of a mightier equine family. He is now quite blind, a veteran of twenty two, afflicted with goiter, and stood gazing in the direction from which our voices came, a melancholy wreck of his former greatness. The princes of the race-course of the present galloped by, neighing and pawing the ground, as if annoyed at our presence. One of them named "Asteroid," so far forgot his princely dignity as to charge incontinently upon the fence where we were seated, and the artist has depicted the result in a spirited sketch. The negro men who manage these erratic brutes undergo all sorts possess as many lives as a cat, and, like that animal, always land on their feet, no matter how far the plunging and rearing horses may throw them.—Edward King; Scribner's for December.

Dry, Indeed!

An honest old farmer from the country gave his recollections of the hot spell as follows: "It was so dry that we couldn't spare water to put in our whiskey. The grass was so dry that every time the wind blew it flew like so much ashes. There wasn't a tear shed at a funeral for a month.—The sun dried up all the cattle, and burned off the hair ti'l they looked like Mexican dogs, and the sheep looked like poodle puppies, they shrank up so. We had to soak our hogs to make them hold swill, and if any cattle were killed in the morning they'd be dried beef at dark. The woods dried up so that farmers choped seasoned timber all through August, and there ain't a match all through the country—in fact no wedding since the widow Gleen married old Baker three months ago. What few grasshoppers are left are the skin and legs, and I didn't hear the teakettle sing for six weeks. We eat our potatoes baked, they being all ready, and we couldn't spare water to boil 'em. All the redheaded girls were afraid to stir out of the house in daylight. Why, we had to haul water all summer to keep the ferry running, and—say, it's getting dry; let's take suthin'."—Ex.

The Hamilton Spectator ([illegible] Australia) publishes details of the "Greathead" cure for Diptheria.—The disease is declared by Mr. Greathead to be of hydated growth, and that the germs of it floating about in certaid impure atmospheres were inhaled by human beings. For a grown person four drops of Sulphuric Acid, unliuted in three-quarters of a tumbler of water; with a smaller dose for children. The effect of this treatment was instantaneous, the acid at once destroying the parasites and patients coughing up obstructions. The papers have teemed with the accounts of sufferers who have recovered in a few minutes by adopting the "Greathead" treatment—Children previously almost in a dying state where declared to be playing about within ten minutes, and at a moderate computation some forty or fifty of these sudden recoveries have been placed on record with full particulars.

The Arkansas Legislature (Democratic), now in session, has a colored man for Enrolling Clerk of the House and another as Doorkeeper of the Senate.

Why Marriage is Dying Out.

Much of the careless morality of the present day is owing to the way in which woman dress. There is no caviling at the fact or pretending to ignore it, but the moderately dressed wife and mother is fast disappearing from our homes.

The domestic daughter has long since become a myth, and in her place we have a creature of hair and lips—a wasp-hipped, Grecian-bended, high-heeled, chignoned young lady, who laughs loud and talks fast, and writes herself "Marie" or "Julie" and who is a complete success in doing nothing, and knowing nothing, except the slang literature of the day.

I think the reason that young men do not marry is because girls have ceased to be domestic, and spend a great deal of money upon dress. They are not contented to live in a quiet way and dress moderately; They must go out, dress and ride and frequent places of amusement; have suppers and boquets, and receive adulation. It costs a great deal of money, which the young man furnishes, and he never gets ahead enough to marry; so they repent and try their luck over again. It is the easiest thing in the world to do with less luxury, but it involves a little self-sacrifice and economy, and these virtues are fast becoming exotics.

Fully one-half of the girls who are now filling situations in stores, offices, go there in the first place in order to be able to dress better. They live in plain and comfortable homes, and must help with the house work or the children of their kin; but they hear glowing accounts of the city; they want the finery that is denied them, and they want to go from those peaceful home lives, from the kind guardianship of parents, to the toil and temptation of the ten-hour system.

They go plain country girls, with modest, blushing cheeks and smooth shining hair. They stay there a year or two, and their cheeks are pale and their hair is frizzed. They have lost the gaucherie and blushing, and are bad at repartee. They dress somehow and live somehow, but they have hours of despondency that make [illegible].—It is one long struggle with labor and temptation, and, how they preserve their integrity God, only knows!

Now, would not these girls be happier as the wives of farmers and mechanics? Would not one word of genuine love outweigh a ton of admiration? Would not a smile of a little child be a thousand times better than the gaze of the libertine? Is it not easier to word for one's own than for strangers? to feel that you are king in your castle, it it be but a one story cottage?

Woman's independence will work her a deadlier wrong than any bond she has ever worn. When she steps beyond the fair threshold of womanly power—the archetypal home, where God has made her supreme, to fight the demons of political or commercial life, she lays down a sceptre to take up a chain, whose iron canker well eat her soul.

Congress Without Ben Butler.

What will the House of Representatives do without its dear leader?—What will the members for Essex do without the House of Representatives? After ten years of Butlerism it is difficult to appreciate the comparative quiet which may reasonably be expected to reign supreme after the military genius of Fort Fisher shall have succumbed to a party by the name of Tompson. The mills of the gods, grind slowly, but they have ground [illegible] third-termism and Butlerism [illegible] palpable powder, and what are [illegible] do for a fellow to shake his cap and bells and flourish his spoons, now that Butler is bottled up! It is hard but all things considered, we suppose it is just.—St. Louis Rep.

The police of Philadelphia hear such words as these: "Come Henry, its time to build the fire." "Shan't do it." "Come, Henry." "Lemme alone." At the end of another moment the sounds of a struggle are heard, and a voice yells: "Let go of my hair, Mary—I cave!

A Frenchman has invented an instrument to measure sound, and now perhaps we can get a correct idea of how far a woman's voice can be heard as she meets her husband at the door and wants to know 'what lodge he has been to this time.'

The Duke of Brunswick, whose age is 86 is going to marry a girl of 18.—He'll do just as he pleases about it, but its some satisfaction to call him a blamed old bootjack.

AUBURN COURIER

THURSDAY, DEC. 3, 1874.

NEWS SUMMARY.

The East.

IN the matter of the appeal of Mr. Beecher, asking for a bill of particulars, one Judge (McCue) thinks he ought to have the particulars, while the other Judge (Nelson) takes opposite ground. Who is to decide the thing the dispatches do not state.

A FIRE broke out in a livery stable at Brookville, Pa., last week, and very soon spread over the entire block bounded by Pickering and Will streets, destroying every building on Main street, including the Opera-House, the Oak Hall Hotel, the Franklin House, the Masonic Hall, the Odd Fellows' Hall, the Republican printing office, and a large number of stores and dwellings. The total loss amounts to $250,000, and the insurance to $100,000.

EIGHT prisoners were flogged and three pilloried at New Castle, Delaware, last week.... D. D. Williams, found guilty of embezzling the funds of the Conneautville (Pa.) National Bank, was sentenced to five years' imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary of Pennsylvania.... The public schools of Rochester have been closed owing to the want of funds.

The West.

C. T. QUISENBERRY the Treasurer of the State Grange of Missouri, has stolen $20,000. He speculated with the money and lost it.

ON the 19th, a daughter of William Sharon, the San Francisco banker, was married by Archbishop Alemany, to T. G. Newlands, an attorney. A brilliant assemblage was present. The wedding present from the father of the bride was $1,000,000.

IN the case of Coroner Rice, of San Francisco, Cal., the Twelfth District Court rendered a decision ousting him from office for malfeasance.

AT St. Louis, last week, a destructive fire burned two large stores on Fourth street, occupied by the Empire Hair Works, and Hiram Probasco's candy factory. William H. Keys, formerly of Boston, a member of the salvage corps, was killed while spreading tarpauline in Probasco's store, by the falling of the upper floors. The total loss of property is about $100,000....It is reported that Robert Thiem, a boot and shoe dealer of Chicago, and a member elect of the Legislature from the Sixth district of Illinois, has absconded with $20,000 belonging to the business firm of which he was a member..... In rebuilding the Studebaker wagon factory at South Bend, Ind., a terrible accident occurred last week. The foundation walls became weakened and fell, when two men were killed, and seven were severely injured....A stage near Redding, Cal., was robbed last week. Wells & Fargo lost $2,300.

THE Atchison (Kan.) Champion computes the number of destitute in the State from 20,000 to 25,000, but of these many are located in the older counties, where the crops, with the exception of corn, were fair to average. In eight counties the destitution is general. Almost the whole population will need more or less assistance. At least 15,000 people must be assisted during the winter and until another crop is grown.

THE schooner Augustus Ford, from Detroit to Oswego, with wheat, was wrecked at Port Maitland during the late gale. Capt. Pease and three of the crew, one named Charles E. Hurd, and a woman cook, were lost.

The South.

JUDGE POLAND, of Vermont, member of the Arkansas Investigating Committee, in relation to the Garland-Smith complication says Smith is a "firebrand" and no more Governor than Baxter. If the Garland government is disturbed, Smith ought not, in Judge Poland's opinion, to be recognized; but the government should revert to Brooks. Judge Poland is not prepared to give an opinion as to the validity of the new constitution; and this after all, is the main question at issue.

A HURRICANE at Tuscumbia, Ala., Nov. 22, made terrible havoc, killing some twelve persons, and injuring many others, besides destroying one-half of the residences. Among the killed are: Mrs. William Winston, the mother of the late ex-Gov. Winston; the wife and two children of the Hon. J. B. Moore, State Senator, and F. D. Hodgkin, Esq., editor of the Chronicle, his wife, and four children. Appeals for assistance have been made to Huntsville, Louisville, Nashville and Memphis. The storm also visited the town of Montevallo, north of Selma, killing two persons, and seriously injuring fifteen or twenty others, besides destroying twelve houses.

A LITTLE ROCK (ARK.) dispatch of the 22th of November states that Gov. Garland has offered a reward of $1,000 for the arrest of V. V. Smith, the rival claimant to the Governorship. Smith was reported to be concealed in the United States Arsenal at Little Rock. Garland had telegraphed to the President that he had no case to submit; that he was elected by 75,000 votes, and would not surrender the office....A New Orleans telegram states that a court-martial has been ordered by Gen. Emory for the trial of Lieut. Hodgson, upon charges preferred by Gen. Morrow, who was sent to investigate Hodgson's actions and conduct in North Louisiana.... Later and more authentic reports of the tornado at Tuscumbia, Ala., have been received. The storm did fearful work. Eleven lives were lost, and $100,000 to $150,000 worth of property was destroyed. An appeal for aid has been sent to President Grant by the inhabitants of the village, and refused by him on the ground that the army supplies are barely sufficient for ordinary purposes. A general appeal to the public has been made by the authorities of the stricken town.

Washington.

THE belief that Miss Vinnie Ream, the sculpress, will be selected to make the statue of Admiral Farragut creates much dissatisfaction in art circles....The Commission for the examination of the subject of an inter-oceanic canal across the Isthmus of Panama met at Washington on the 20th inst., to examine the different reports presented, and to determine the practicability of the work....The production of spirits last year was 69,572,062 taxable gallons. The government received $49,444,090 from this source. The government also collected tax on nearly two billions of cigars, nearly a hundred millions more than paid taxes last year.

FROM a dispatch to a Western paper we learn that the views which the President will probably submit to Congress on the Civil Rights bill are foreshadowed by the opinions which he has expressed within a day or two in conversation, to some of his friends. He says that he has always looked upon some of the measures advocated in that direction as exceedingly unwise. He does not think that legislation designed to regulate the social relations of any class of people is judicious, as it generally gives rise to a state of feeling calculated to do more mischief than good.

THE Legislative, Judicial, and Executive Appropriation bill for the next fiscal year is being framed on the basis of a reduction from last year's estimates of 5 to 10 per cent ...Mullet, the Supervising Architect of the Treasury, has tendered his resignation to the Secretary of the Treasury, on account of certain disagreements between the two officials.

SECRETARY DELANO has requested the War Department to remove the gold-seekers from the Sioux reservation in the Black Hills, to the end that all provocation to war on the part of the Indians may be avoided.... There is much interest manifested among printers in the type-setting contest which is to take place in Washington on the 5th December. Two composing sticks, one gold and the other silver, are the prizes.... The Senate Committee on Transportation, in their report, just published, devote considerable space to the subject of sleeping cars in relation to the expenses of railroad companies. Their conclusions are that the sleeping car companies are a questionable advantage to the railroads, and that the charges for the berths are excessive. Mr. Pullman, President of the Palace Car Company, in a letter to the committee, contends that the railroad companies cannot manage the system of sleeping and drawing-room coaches so satisfactorily as a company that makes a specialty, and that by the adoption of his system constant annoyance is saved to invalids, ladies and traveling parties.

THE Secretary of the Interior has received additional information that parties of miners are working on the Sioux reservation in the Black Hills. He has requested the War Department to instruct the military officers to remove all such trespassers, to avoid trouble with the Indians....It seems certain that E. B. Washburne is about to return from France on a brief leave of absence. It is officially stated that his visit has no political significance.

Political.

SENATOR CHANDLER sends word to a friend in Washington that his re-election is assured. The Republican majority on joint ballot in the Michigan Legislature is estimated at 22.

A WASHINGTON dispatch to the Chicago Tribune says: "Some of the Republican Congressmen who have arrived have started a new political rumor. They state that the ticket which is now favored by the President for the succession in 1876 is: For President, Elihu B. Washburne, of Illinois; for Vice-President, Marshall Jewell, of Connecticut; subject, of course, to such modification as future exigencies may demand."

General.

THERE has lately been enough lawlessness in Williamson county, Ill. (in the third tier of counties from the southern border), to engage the attention of Gov. Beveridge. A band of fifty or sixty men is ordering citizens to leave the county on pain of death. The Governor promises to put a stop to it....The strike of the New York 'longshoremen has been partially successful.

JUDGE BLATCHFORD, in the United States Court, at New York, last week, directed a verdict for the government for $50,000 against ex-Gov. Caleb Lyon, of Idaho, in a suit on his official bond. Lyon's accounts were $46,-585 short, of which amount he claims to have been robbed.

THE international feature of the Centennial Exhibition is doomed to failure. Not a single respectable government will take a hand in it.

Foreign.

M. ROUHER, a leading Bonapartist, has gone to Chiselhurst, Eng., where the ex-Empress lives to attend the council of Imperialists summoned in view of the approaching session of the French Assembly... Prince Alfonso, after a short sojourn in France, has returned to the Carlist headquarters in Spain....A letter from Havana, Cuba, says a rumor is in circulation that Capt.-Gen. Concha is about to resign or be superseded....The infant son of the Duke of Edinburgh has been christened Albert Alexander.... The object of the journey of English Bishops to Rome is to obtain permission to pursue an independent course in case the British government should seek to restrict the liberty of action of the Catholic clergy. They will represent to the Pope that they wish to respect the laws of England, and cannot blindly accept such regulations as are imposed on continental bishops....Sixteen vessels were driven ashore in the West Indies, and wrecked or damaged by the recent hurricane. From all the islands there is news of the great destruction of property, including crops.....An alarming explosion occurred in a chemical factory in St. Denis, near Paris, France, last week. The building was destroyed and the railway station near it badly damaged. Three persons were killed and fifteen injured. Half the windows in the town were broken....A boat belonging to Her Britannic Majesty's ship Aurora was run down on the Clyde, recently, and seventeen men drowned.

EXPLOSIONS continue in England. The latest occurred in a colliery at Warrensvale, Yorkshire, where 24 men were killed. A number were recovered more or less injured... Roche & Co., lumber dealers, of Quebec, have failed, with liabilities $300,000....The Carlists have shot thirty-seven prisoners captured at Cavello....Tom Hood, editor of Fun, died in London recently.

THE Chinese government has ordered a large quantity of breech-loading rifles from Berlin...It is rumored that Morocco will soon cede a port to Germany....A dispatch from Rome states that a heavy gale has prevailed on the Mediterranean, and several large vessels are ashore. One American vessel is a total wreck, and all but three on board have been lost.

The annual municipal elections were held in France on Sunday, the 22d of November. The Republicans were well organized and generally victorious throughout the country. ....The revolution in the Argentine Republic of [illegible] America is ended. [illegible] announced from Madrid that the Spanish government has expressed a willingness to pay indemnity in the Virginius case to the United States on the same basis as that with which Great Britain was satisfied for the outrage perpetrated on her subjects....Last week's Mark Lane Express reports a general advance in the continental market, since the previous issue, of one shilling in the price of wheat.

BUREAU REPORTS.

Pensions.

Gen. J. H. Baker, Commissioner of Pensions, under date of Oct. 15, 1874, has submitted his annual report to the Secretary of the Interior. During the year 5,758 new applications for army invalid pensions were allowed, at an aggregate annual rate of $39,332.50; the pensions of 8,063 pensioners of this class were increased at an aggregate annual rate of $416,257.50; the losses to this roll [illegible] 4,105, whose pensions [illegible] of reduction of the rates of other invalid pensions, aggregated $377,452.55 annually.

On the 30th of June, 1874, there were [illegible] 487 army invalid pensioners on the roll. The aggregate annual pay of this class was $10,-658,377.54. The increase in the number of this class was [illegible], and the aggregate increase of pensions was $431,187.43. During the year, 3,000 new pensions for army widows and dependent relatives were allowed, at an aggregate annual rate of $416,433, and the pensions of 12,922 pensioners of this class were increased at an aggregate annual rate of $408,111.23. There were stricken from the roll of this class of pensioners 7,623 names, whose pensions aggregated $1,280,118.05. On the 30th of June, 1874, there were on the roll of army widows and dependent relatives 107,516 names, at an aggregate annual rate of $13,-357,195.56, the decrease for the year being 4,572 names, and the decrease of pensions of this class being $424,868.08.

On the 30th of June there were 1,551 navy invalid pensioners, at an aggregate annual rate of $169,492, an increase in the year of 121 in the number of pensioners, and $18,-954.25 in the annual rate of pensions of this class. On the 30th of June there were 1,785 pensioners on the navy roll of widows and dependent relatives, at a total rate of $287,-534, an increase for the year of 15 in the number of names, and $6,984 in the rate of pensions.

The names of 571 new pensioners were added to the roll of survivors of the war of 1812, and 1,217 of this class were lost by death, leaving on the 30th of June 17,620 pensioners of this class, at a total annual rate of $1,691,-520—a decrease for the year of 646 in the number of pensioners, and $62,016 in the rate of pensions of this class. The names of 813 widows of soldiers of 1812 were added to the roll, and 554 were lost by death during that period, leaving on the 30th of June 5,312 pensioners of this class—an increase for the year of 259 in the number of pensioners and $24,-846 in the rate of pensions.

The total number of pensioners of all classes on the 30th of June, 1874, was 236,241, a decrease of 2,170 during the year; the aggregate annual rate of pensions of all classes on June 30, was $26,254,071.10, a decrease from the preceding year of $5,645.18. The roll contains the names of 410 widows and soldiers in the Revolutionary War.

Certain specific increases allowed to invalid pensioners, by laws passed at the last session of Congress, and the steady increase in the number on the invalid roll, will probably bring the disbursements to invalids for the present fiscal year up to those of last year; but in the payments to widows, minors, etc., a reduction may reasonably be expected.

During the year 234 claims for bounty land warrants were allowed, the warrants calling for 35,640 acres of land. The number of applications for bounty lands received during the year was 529. There are now upon the suspended files of the office nearly 100,000 applications for bounty lands. Of this number 359 cases were prosecuted during the year. The existence of suspended claims is a temptation to unscrupulous agents to fabricate testimony with a view to obtaining the allowance of claims not admissible upon existing known evidence. The last act of Congress granting bounty lands has been in force for twenty years, a sufficient time for all those who are entitled to its benefits to avail themselves of its provisions. It would therefore, in the opinion of the Commissioner, be consistent with justice, and for the interest of the government, that a limit should be put by Congress to the period during which the various acts granting bounty lands shall remain in force.

During the last fiscal year the special service division has performed important service in the detection and prevention of fraud in the prosecution of claims for pensions. Claims were investigated by this division numbering 1,263, and during the year 13 persons were convicted of violation of the law relative to the prosecution of claims, and five awaited trial at the close of the year.

An account is given in the report of the service of the medical division of the office, and the Commissioner says there can be no doubt that if higher fees were paid to Examining Surgeons, better talent would be at the command of this branch of the service, and, while more exact justice would be done to individual pensioners, a saving to the government would be effected. He therefore recommends that by proper legislation the fee for ordinary examinations, and certificates therefor, be fixed at $3, and that in all cases requiring special skill and the use of instruments, the fee be fixed at $5.

The amount of appropriations that will be required for the pension service during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1875, will be $30,-500,000.

The Commissioner would again respectfully call the attention of the Secretary of the Interior to the danger of destruction by fire to which the records of this office are liable in consequence of the exposure of the Seaton House to such an accident. Congress should be reminded of the great risk to which these valuable records are exposed, to the end that a more suitable building be provided for the use of this office.

Patents.

The Commissioner of Patents, Gen. M. D. Leggett, submitted his report to the Secretary of the Interior only a few days prior to resigning the office. He says that the number of applications and of patents granted is a slight increase upon those of the preceding year. The prompt publication of abstracts of patents issued—the publications being made at the same time that the patents are mailed to the inventors—has probably very considerably diminished the number of applications for patents, and has improved the character of such applications, thereby warranting the issue of patents for much larger proportion than could otherwise be granted. Before the establishment of the Patent Office Gazette it was from two and a half to three years after the issue of a patent before the public had any means of knowing of its contents. Consequently there would be in existence from 25,000 to 30,000 patents, the substance of which was sealed to all except their owners; hence applications were constantly being made to patent devices which had been previously patented by others.

Since 1836 there have been issued over 155,000 patents. Each annual report of the Commissioner has contained a list of the patents granted during the year, but no general index was prepared. The labor of searching patents was greatly increased, and there was a large liability to mistakes on this account. During the last two years a general index has been prepared of all the patents issued to the present time. This index will be published in two sets of three volumes. One set will be a subject-matter index, and the other an index of names. The subject-matter index is in press, and nearly ready to issue. The index has been stereotyped, and will be sold at $20 per set, ultimately reimbursing the office for the cost of their preparation.

In carrying on the work for the reproduction of the drawings of old patents, the Commissioner has caused entire classes to be taken up, and all the old patents have been reproduced chronologically from July, 1, 1871; besides, thirty-five entire classes have been completed. The importance of multiplying these drawings is illustrated and explained. It expedites the work of the office, and renders the publication of patents less likely. The duplication of patents of certain classes is a matter that brings great injury upon the inventors and manufacturing interest of the country. Since the reproduction of the class "Harvesters," enough copies have been sold to inventors and manufacturers in this class, and to attorneys practicing in the [illegible] before the Patent Office, to more than pay the entire expenses of reproducing the class, and yet copies enough are retained in the office to meet all orders for months to come. A much larger appropriation to carry forward the reproduction of old drawings is asked, and the Commissioner thinks the amount should be at least $100,000. When once completed, the sales of these reproductions would soon reimburse the government for their cost, and be a source of revenue for some time to come. It was also put aside the necessity of an increase in the force of examiners, as, by the aid of these reproductions, the present force will be for a long time sufficient, unless there is a great increase in the business of the office.

The Commissioner also urges the necessity of preparing a digest of all the applications on file in the office. In making an examination of a new application the examiner has to know all that is contained in all previous applications for inventions of the same class. In the class of sewing-machines, for instance, 3,000 applications have to be examined. Twenty-five per cent. of the time of the examiner would be saved by the existence of a digest of all the applications on file in the office, which now number nearly 300,000.

Additional room is required for the use of the patent office. It is utterly impossible to properly transact the work of the office in the narrow quarters granted to it. Eight additional rooms are needed immediately. The report pays a just tribute to the character of the persons employed in the patent office, and regrets that the salaries paid are not sufficiently large to retain the best men in the service, who are constantly leaving for more lucrative employments.

Accompanying the report are the following tables showing the receipts and expenditures, and the business of the office during the last year:

STATEMENT OF MONEYS RECEIVED.

Amounts received for applications for patents, extensions, caveats, disclaimers, appeals, and trade-marks	$648,480 00
For caveats	47,923 30
For recording assignments	18,152 40
For subscriptions to Official Gazette	8,913 50
For registration of labels (since August 1874)	642 00
Total	$721,111 90

STATEMENT OF MONEYS EXPENDED.

Amount paid for salaries	$464,494 94
Amount paid for photographing back issues	86,223 60
Amount paid for illustrations for Gazette	85,292 23
Amount paid for contingent expenses	83,082 61
Amount paid for tracings	8,868 12
Total	$694,075 72

STATEMENT OF THE BUSINESS OF THE OFFICE.

Number of applications for patents from Oct. 1, 1873, to Sept. 30, 1874	21,077
Number of patents issued, including reissues and designs	13,541
Application for extension of patents	229
Patents extended	204
Caveats filed	3,121
Patents expired	5,281
Patents allowed but not issued for want of the final fee	2,680
Applications for registration of trade-marks	584
Trade-marks registered	524
Applications for registration of labels	104
Labels registered (since August, 1874)	100

Internal Revenue.

Commissioner of Internal Revenue Douglass reports that the receipts of the fiscal year were $102,644,747, $2,644,747 in excess of the estimate. The estimate of the current fiscal year is 107,000,000. The total drawback on spirits, tobacco, and general merchandise, for the past fiscal year, was $52,346—and for 1874, $35,495. No spirits were exported for drawback during the last year, and the quantity of tobacco was very slight compared with the amount exported in bond. The amounts refunded for taxes illegally collected were $618,667 in 1873, and $239,749 in 1874. The receipts from distilled spirits, for the fiscal year 1874, were $49,444,-090, a net decrease of $2,655,231. The receipts from special taxes on rectifiers and dealers, show an increase of $799,413. The production of spirits during the year was 69,572,062 taxable gallons. The seizures amounted in value to $476,332. The amount of distilled spirits remaining in warehouse, Sept. 30, for payment of tax, was $12,577,096, making a decrease of $3,240,613 from June 30. The amount remaining for export was reduced in the same time from 2,146,010 gallons to 1,049,714 gallons.

The annual receipts from all sources relating to fermented liquors, for the year, were $9,304,679. Receipts from tobacco, in all forms, $33,242,875, a decrease of $1,143,427, due to the closing out of bonded warehouses in the early part of the year, and the effect of the panic. From last November to the present time, there has been a steady increase of collections over any previous corresponding period. The largest amount collected in any quarter was the first quarter of the present fiscal year, $10,162,754. The receipts of the fiscal year from this source are expected to aggregate $36,000,000.

The production of tobacco for the first fiscal year was 118,548,619 pounds, an increase over the preceding year of 2,107,684 pounds. The number of cigars, cheroots, etc., on which taxes were collected, was 1,886,697,498, or 79,662,852 in excess of the previous year. The quantity of tobacco removed without payment of tax for exportation, for the fiscal year, was 10,300,927 pounds, an excess of nearly three-quarters of a million pounds over the preceding year. The Commissioner considers it indispensably necessary to control the movement of raw or leaf tobacco, by continuance of the leaf clauses of the act of June 6, 1872.

The receipts from other sources were: Bank deposits, savings banks capital, and bank circulation, $3,387,100; adhesive stamps, $6,136,814; penalties, $364,216: articles and occupations formerly taxed but now exempt, $764,880.

The Commissioner extols the system of abolishing assessorships, and leaving the whole matter with the Collectors, as securing more prompt payment and a larger amount of tax.

The tax against banks and bankers realized $3,000,734, an increase of $403,013 over the previous year, notwithstanding the financial disasters of the fall of 1873. The increase is largely due the new system of assessment, the results of which are still more apparent in the increase of collections from special taxes. For the last quarter of the fiscal year 1872 they amounted to $1,303,530, while this year they foot up $5,855,581 in the last quarter of the fiscal year 1874.

The Commissioner suggests that the bureau of engraving and printing thereafter, upon his requisition, furnish all stamps necessary under the law, except proprietary and documentary stamps; and asks positive provision from Congress upon the subject.

Should Congress wish to abolish stamps on bank checks, etc., perfumery, cosmetics, patent medicines, matches, etc., which yielded last year $6,136,844, but still be of opinion the revenue cannot be diminished with safety, the Commissioner says an equivalent could be had by increasing the tax on spirits 10 cents per gallon, which would yield $6,957,000, or 4 cents per pound on tobacco would yield $4,-6 2,000.

Educational.

The United States Commissioner of Education has published his annual report for 1873. Notwithstanding the disasters which have fallen upon the industries of the country, he states that on the whole the past year was one of substantial progress in educational matters.

Ohio having changed the legal school age from 5-21 to 6-21, exhibits, probably from this cause, an apparent falling off in school population of 81,556. She raised in 1873, for school purposes, $7,705,603, against $7,420,338 in 1872.

Michigan raised for school purposes, in 1873, $3,939,529, against $3,563,479 in 1872. The condition of the public schools is reported to have much improved under county supervision.

Indiana, without giving full statistics for 1873, claims a net increase of school revenue amounting to $165,581 over 1872, with 465 new school houses, built at a cost of $872,900. The permanent school fund has been augmented and more than the usual amount raised by taxation.

Illinois shows a school population larger by 27,185 than in 1872, a smaller enrollment in schools, but an average attendance about the same. Her school revenue, $9,359,441, has [illegible] year.

Wisconsin, for a comparatively new State, without the aid of large and wealthy cities, has raised for school purposes $2,628,037, and expended for repairs of school-houses [illegible].

Minnesota, out of 196,075 children scattered over her great surface, shows the fair proportion of [illegible],529 enrolled in her free schools, with about 2,356 more in pay schools. During the past year 229 new school-houses have been erected, at a cost of $308,311.

Iowa expends $4,[illegible] raised to instruct a school population numbering 491,644, of whom 347,572 are enrolled in public schools, and 12,-135 in private ones. The sum of $1,169,954 has been expended in this State in the erection of new school-houses and supply of libraries and apparatus.

In Missouri the enrollment in public schools is 389,956 out of 673,493 children of school age, and the amount raised for the support of schools is $1,700,313.

Kansas has [illegible] in [illegible] out of a school population reaching only 184,[illegible], and has devoted to the education of this number $1,363,098, with $615,071 for school buildings and repairs, the increase of school-houses for 1873 being 696, and that of enrollment 15,027.

Nebraska, with a school population of 68,-108, has on her school rolls 37,272, and has raised for school purposes $793,650.

California justifies the general sense of her importance by reporting a school population of 141,610 and a school enrollment of 107,503, her school revenue reaching $2,551,769, or about $23.70 for each enrolled child. Clear evidence of popular favor toward her public schools comes in the fact that within eight years 15,294 children have been transferred from private schools to them.

Hopeful progress is manifest in the growth of special schools for the training of teachers for our public schools. Statistics are given of 113 normal schools and normal departments, having 877 instructors and 16,620 students. Eleven of these were established or organized in 1873, the most notable being the Massachusetts State Normal Art School.

The Commissioner estimates the population between the ages of 6 and 16 in the thirty-seven States and eleven Territories at about 10,228,000.

Allowing forty pupils to each teacher, the number required to teach the youths between 6 and 16 years of age is estimated at 260,000. It is estimated that the public school teachers in Massachusetts teach on an average three years. Perhaps this period of service would be a high average for the whole country. Hence, confining the estimate to the school population between 6 and 16 years of age, the number of new teachers which should be prepared each year to take up the work would be 86,666.

The report presents a summary of the statistics of 1,039 schools for secondary instruction, commonly denominated academies, seminaries, institutes, etc., including college preparatory schools. The number of instructors in these schools was 5,748; number of students, 131,057; total number of volumes in library, 559,188.

The number of institutions for the superior instruction of women reporting in 1873, not including the five colleges for women in the State of New York, was 205, with 2,120 instructors and 24,613 students; 107 of the number are designed as colleges, 6,321 of the students were in the preparatory departments, 17,267 were reported to be in regular or advanced courses of study, and 1,025 in special and post-graduate courses. The number of volumes reported in the libraries was 213,675.

The number of schools of science (including special scientific departments of universities) embraced in the Commissioner's tables in 68, reporting 650 professors and instructors, 6,396 students in regular courses, 533 in special courses, 68 in post-graduate courses, 1,426 in preparatory courses; 163,000 volumes in libraries, about 44,000 volumes having been added to them during the year.

The number of schools of theology in the country, in 1873, was 110, having 573 professors and 3,833 students; volumes in libraries, 562,484; increase in libraries during the year, 36,303 volumes. The aggregate corporate property of the schools, as far as reported, was $7,768,498; endowments, $5,455,-097. Of the 110 theological schools and theological departments of colleges in the United States, 20 are Presbyterians, 16 Roman Catholic, 16 Baptist, 18 Lutheran and Reformed, 10 Protestant Episcopal, 10 Methodist, 8 Congregational, 2 unsectarian, and 1 each Unitarian, Moravian, New Jerusalem and Union Evangelical.

There are in the United States 40 institutions for the instruction of deaf mutes. The number of instructors employed in them is 289. The number of inmates under instruction in 1873 was 4,534.

The number of asylums for the blind is 28, having 545 teachers. The number of inmates under instruction during the year was 1,916.

There are probably more than 400 institutions for orphans and homeless youths in this country, sheltering not less than 45,000 poor and unfortunate children. Information concerning 178 of these asylums is given in the report. They were under the supervision and care of 1,484 persons and contained over 22,-000 inmates, most of whom were probably under instruction.

The number of institutions distinctively known as reform schools which furnished information for the bureau was 34. The number of commitments during the year was 6,-858. The number who received instruction in reading in the year was 1,675; number taught to write, 1,908. Number of volumes reported in the libraries of these schools was 27,747.

The number of instructors in all classes of educational institutions in 1870, according to the census, was 221,042; number of pupils 7,-209,938. According to the Commissioner's report there were in 1873, in all classes of institutions about which information was obtained, 246,932 teachers and 8,722,245 pupils.

Indians.

The Hon. E. P. Smith, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, has made his report to the Secretary of the Interior. He discerns unmistakable evidences of advancing civilization among almost all of the aborigines. At twenty-one agencies, Indians who, three years ago, made no effort and showed no inclination toward labor or education seem now to have settled into an earnest purpose to learn to provide for themselves, and adopt a civilized mode of life.

The Commissioner classifies the Indians under three heads, for easier reference:

1. Wild; tractable only to the extent of being willing to take rations and blankets from the government.
2. Indians actually undertaking labor, and accepting more or less the assistance and direction of government agents to this end.
3. Indians with landed estates.

The first class numbers 89,819; the second, 51,429; the third class about 100,000. There is also a fourth class of vagrants, numbering about 14,000. This would make a total of 255,248 Indians now in the United States.

The Indians of the first class are as yet unreached by missionary influence, and the superstitions of their native Paganism frequently forbid their being counted for enrolment. It is from these Indians that any such hostilities are to be apprehended as would require the presence or use of the military. Possibly only from 7,000 to 10,000 of these could be properly designated as hostile, and they are so scattered and divided into bands that it is not probable that over 600 warriors will ever again be mustered for a fight. The Commissioner thinks a general Indian war can never recur in this country. Even the highly disturbed feeling of the Sioux lately has not led to an attempt at war, and military posts have been successfully established at Red Cloud and Spotted Tail agencies in the face of violent declarations that no soldiers should ever cross the Platte river. The Sioux hate to lose their coffee, sugar and beef by fighting. It has also been proven to be cheaper to feed than to fight wild Indians. The Commissioner deprecates any leniency in treating with Indian outrages. They should be punished at all hazards. The necessity of making war on the Comanches and Cheyennes in the Indian Territory originated largely in a failure to observe this rule. The military force stationed around and among these wild Indians is deemed sufficient for their restraint, and it is confidently believed that this class will diminish in number year by year.

The Commissioner treats of the [illegible] in civilization. They have generally abandoned the medicine dance, and have come directly under the influence and control of religious teaching. The agents are very hopeful of the future of these people. The implements and adjuncts of advanced civilization are needed for them, but all bounty and aid from the government should, in the opinion of the Commissioner, come to this kind of Indian ward in the form of payment for labor performed. Here the Commissioner puts in a short plea for additional appropriations.

The third class embraces the majority of the Indians of the United States. They may be called civilized, and have been greatly assisted in attaining to this condition by the long-continued religious teachings of missionaries. They need to become American citizens. Yet most of them hesitate to take any steps which would lead them out of the tribal condition.

"Pride of nationality, dread of competition with the enterprise of white man, and fear of loss of property by taxation or suit for debt, cause this hesitation among the mass of the less educated, while the more forehanded and better educated among them, being generally the government de facto and thus intrusted with funds and power, are in no haste for a change. Both classes appeal most strenuously to the letter of their treaty, which requires the United States to treat them as sovereignties forever; and the question will sooner or later arise at this point, as in the case of cash annuities, whether the government will hold itself bound forever by the liberal terms of its bargain with its wards to the palpable damage of both contracting parties."

Of the 14,000 vagrants little can be said. They are as harmless as vagrants can be in a civilized country. The Commissioner justly remarks that "they seem to serve by their continued existence but a single useful purpose—that of affording a living illustration of the tendency and effect of barbarism allowed to expend itself uncured."

The Commissioner regrets the Black Hills excitement, but believes that the undesirableness of the country to white people and the total absence of mineral wealth in that region will preserve it for the Sioux. Scarcely greater evil, he thinks, could come to the Sioux people than the disturbance and demoralization incident to an attempt to dispossess them of their country.

The Commissioner deprecates the course of the government in relation to Satanta and Big Tree, believing that they should have been summarily punished when they were first captured. Expeditions for plunder and murder have grown rankly out of the belief on the part of the Kiowas and Comanches that there was little to fear from the government. These tribes have, however, been chastised lately, and will have more respect for authority hereafter. He thinks they have forfeited all their treaty rights, and that they should be removed to a reservation, cattle given them for their ponies and arms, and labor required in return for their rations and clothing.

He states that the Indian Territory is without law, and that white thieves and buffalo-hunters have things their own way. The United States District Court of Arkansas administers what scarcely deserves the name of law, on account of the impossibility of two or three United States Marshals being of much account in an area of 30,000 square miles.

The Indian Territory has a population at present averaging a little over one inhabitant to the square mile. The unoccupied portions of this country are sufficient in extent to furnish a homestead to every Indian family in the United States.

He believes the need of the following Congressional action to be immediate:

1. A suitable government of Indians—by providing that the criminal laws of the United States shall be in force upon Indian reservations, and shall apply to all offenses, including offenses of Indians against Indians, and extending the jurisdiction of the United States courts to enforce the same; by declaring Indians amenable to the police laws of the State or Territory for any act committed outside a reservation; by conferring upon the President authority, at his discretion, to extend the jurisdiction of the State courts, or any portion of them, to any reservation whenever in his judgment any tribe is prepared for such control; by providing a sufficient force of Deputy Marshals to enforce law and order, both among and in behalf of Indians; by giving authority to the Secretary of the Interior to prescribe for all tribes prepared, in his judgment, to adopt the same, an elective government through which shall be administered all necessary police regulations of a reservation; and by providing a district territorial government or United States court, wherever Indians are in sufficient numbers to justify it.

2. Legislation for the encouragement of individual improvement; by providing a way into citizenship for such as desire it; by providing for holding lands in severalty by allotment for occupation, and for patents with an ultimate fee, but inalienable for a term of years; by providing that whenever per capita distribution provided by treaty has proved injurious, or without benefit to its recipients, a distribution of the same may, in the discretion of the President, be made only in return for labor of some sort.

The Commissioner takes occasion frequently in the report to remark upon the value of religious influence among the tribes, concluding as follows:

"The main difficulty, so far as the government is concerned, lies in the fact that the Indian's deepest need is that which the government, through its political organization and operations, cannot well bestow; the first help which a man in barbarism requires is not that which can be afforded through a political party, but that which is offered by a fellow-man, wiser than himself, coming personally and extending a hand of sympathy and truth. No amount of appropriations and no government machinery can do much toward lifting an ignorant and degraded people, except as it works through the willing hands of men made strong and constant by their love for their fellow-men. If, therefore, it should be possible to continue the sympathy and aid of the religious people of the land in this work, and to rally for its prosecution the enthusiasm and zeal which belong to religion, and also if it shall be possible to procure the enactment of such laws as will recognize the essential manhood and consequent capabilities and necessities of the Indian, and provide reasonably adequate appropriations, which shall be expended both honestly and wisely for their benefit, and hold steadily to a well-defined and carefully prepared method of treatment, every year will witness a steady decrease of barbarism, and its consequent danger and annoyance, and a constant accession to the number of peaceful and intelligent Indians who shall take their place and part as subjects of the United States. Surely this cannot be too much to ask and expect of the people of the great republic. The record of the past is not pleasant to recall, and it cannot be rewritten. Much of administrative mistake, neglect and injustice is beyond repair. But for those now living, much of protection and elevation and salvation is still not only possible, but feasible and highly promising; and well will it be if we are wise enough to make the most of the opportunity left to deal justly and humanely with these remnants of the first American people."

"DR. PETER GUNSOLUS," says a Texas paper, "now residing in the neighborhood of Fort Griffin, and who is 76 years old, stout, hale and hearty, and who lived on the frontier the greater portion of his life, informed us that he was now living with his sixth wife; married a young girl each time; has fifty-four children, forty-eight of whom are still alive, and scattered from here to the Pacific, and all doing well."

THEY have just been having a nose-show in Austria. Eighty persons competed for the prize offered for the most extraordinary nasal prominence in form, size, and color. The jury decided that only three out of the whole could be admitted to compete for the prize, which was finally adjudged to a competitor from Vienna, possessor of what is stated to be "a gigantic nose, of deep violet-blue."

AUBURN COURIER

T. C. HAYS, Publisher.

FARM AND GARDEN.

Dirge for Autumn.

Sad winds are sighing:
Autumn is dead!
Deep in the dreary,
Solemn old wood
Cold he is lying
On his lone bed.

The red maple leaves
Pillow his form,
And the grim oak bows
Above him forlorn
In the blast of the rude
Wild winter storm.

Draw to the curtains,
Close up the door;
Shut out the tempest
Beginning to roar;
Bid Autumn adieu
And weep no more;

For spring-time verdure
Will come, we know,
And June's sweet fingers
Will violets throw
On the spot where he lies
Shrouded in snow.

Beneficial Sparrows.

In his "Key to North American Birds," Mr. Coues expressed his apprehensions that the English sparrow would molest and drive away our native species. He now writes to the American Naturalist that these apprehensions have already been verified. From a letter written by Mr. Thomas G. Gentry, it appears that in the neighborhood of Germantown, Pa., the English sparrows are driving away the robins, bluebirds and native sparrows. "They increase so rapidly, and are so pugnacious, that our smaller native birds are compelled to seek quarters elsewhere." It is chiefly on this account that Mr. Coues has already been opposed to the introduction of the English sparrow, but also for other reasons. He holds that there is no occasion for them in this country, and that the good they do in destroying certain insects has been overrated. The time will come, he says, when it will be deemed advisable to take measures to get rid of these birds, or at least to check their increase.

How to Drive Sheep.

Like many other persons, I handled sheep a long time before acquiring the art of driving them to the best advantage, when the sheep are turned on the road without any help to assist me. The first day I drove eight to ten miles, and got them in good pasture at night. The next morning, after getting under way, I found the sheep were very hard to drive; they wanted to lie down under every shade, and I labored hard all day, and only made seven or eight miles on the journey; and this was my experience for three or four days. I began at last to reflect as to the cause of the sheep driving so badly, and it occurred to me the reason was they had filled themselves during the night, and wanted to lie down and chew their cud, instead of traveling on a full stomach. I resolved to change my tactics at the next stopping place. Accordingly when night came, instead of turning them into a pasture field as heretofore, I put them into a nice clean barnyard, and let them rest all night instead of eating. The result was that next morning when I turned them on the road I had to get before them to restrain them. I found it necessary to use a long pole to keep them back, so marvelous was their anxiety to push ahead. The reason for this change was simply owing to the fact that the sheep had had a good night's rest, and were fresh and hungry.—Dr. Am. Farmer.

A Few Needed Small Things.

There are a great many farms that are supplied with the best of all kinds of large field implements, such as reapers and mowers, horse-rakes, horse pitchforks, hay-loaders, gang and single plows, cultivators, planters, harrows, markers, and so on through the list, but yet you cannot find about them many little conveniences, trifling so far as costs concerned, that save time and labor, and do away with many of the vexations that beset the craft. How many farms are well supplied with ladders for fruit-picking, mounting the house or barn, or with step-ladders for inside use? The garden, or even the ordinary canal wheelbarrow is not found with any great frequency, yet they are exceedingly convenient at most seasons of the year. The wagon-jack is another little thing that finds a welcome place in the considerate farmer's hands. The farm scale should not be forgotten, neither should the kit of carpenter's tools including a plane or two, saws, chisels, etc. We only enumerate a few of the many little articles or tools not often found but always needed, and call upon readers to fill out the list with all the small contrivances that they have invented, or whose usefulness has been proved by others. Another thing, when purchasing these things always get the best; they may cost a little more at the start, but their durability more than repays. When got, beware of the borrower. Choose your customers in this respect.

A New View of Draining Flower Pots.

Mr. Peter Henderson, who grows hundreds of thousands of pot plants without drainage, writes to this effect in a contemporary:

The question of drainage is not whether plants require it or not, we all agree on that. But the question is in what way the water passes from the pot; whether from the bottom or whether from the sides. We who advocate that the practice of crocking pots is useless, claim that nine-tenths of the escape of moisture is from the sides; they who practice "bottom drainage," would signify by so doing that in their opinion the escape of water is mainly from the bottom. If any one wishes to decide this matter for himself, let him take half a dozen glazed pots, such as water will not percolate through, let him knock the whole bottom out if he will, and "drain" in the usual way with potsherds, charcoal, or anything else he thinks fit. Let him also take half a dozen of the ordinary style of flower pot. Fill these up with the same soil as used for the glazed pots, but without drainage. Let the same sort of plant be grown in each lot, and under the same conditions of temperature and moisture. Let him note the result three weeks after the experiment has been made, and if he does not find that the glazed pots, with the bottom drainage, show indications of stagnant water in a greater degree than those in the porous pots, then all my observations on this subject have gone for nothing. If I am correct in this, does it not emphatically prove that the escape of moisture is nearly entirely from the sides of the pot, and not from the bottom, and hence the futility of placing potsherds in the bottom for drainage?—Michigan Farmer.

Observations on Wintering Bees.

An Iowa correspondent of the American Bee Journal gives his experience in that direction. He says:

Last fall I dug a cave, or outdoor cellar, 10x14 feet, and six deep. Through the center was set a row of posts, and on these and the dirt sides rested a roof composed of poles, brush, hay and dirt. This roof was about two feet thick, and two ventilators 4x6 inches were inserted in it, one of which reached to the floor of the cave. The doorway was large, with loose inner and outer door, the intervening space filled with hay. In this cave thirty stands of bees were wintered from the 22d and 24th of November to the 20th and 23d of March. During the winter, the temperature in the cave varied from thirty-four to forty degrees.

Once a week we went into the cave to [illegible] that all was right, generally raising [illegible] or all of the hives to examine [illegible]. Five times, at intervals of about [illegible] weeks, fire was built in the cave, and the temperature raised to fifty or sixty degrees for a short time. Twenty-six stocks were in the Quinby hive, covered with cotton cloth, well gummed down with propolis, and with rather tight, flat roofs. To these stocks no ventilation upward was given until Jan. 18, when considerable upward ventilation was given, as much moisture had collected. Plenty of ventilation was given the four box-hives at all times. Following Burch's suggestions, some hives were raised, on boxes, twelve inches from the shelf, some four inches, and some were set flat on the shelves.

Now for results. No signs of disease appeared in any hive, but all were bright when set out. All wintered on honey gathered in August and September, and consumed from ten to fifteen pounds per hive. Out of thirty hives, nearly three quarts of bees died, but this loss was quite unevenly distributed. The box-hives lost almost none, the strongest stocks in movable combs next least, and the weak stocks most. Those hives raised on boxes lost more than those sitting directly on the shelves.

Household Helps.

ANTS.—The best remedy for ants among pots, green-houses or vicinity, is very hot boiling water.

IN order to preserve fruit jellies from mold, cover the surface one-fourth of an inch deep with fine pulverized loaf sugar. When thus protected, the jellies will keep for years in good condition, and free from mouldiness.

POTATO SALAD.—Cut a dozen cold boiled potatoes in thin slices and mix them thoroughly with a little onion chopped very fine, teaspoonful of salad oil or melted butter, a chopped apple, a bit of parsley and a half a gill of vinegar. This makes a nice relish for tea or lunch.

BROWN BREAD.—Peel, core and quarter good tart apples. Half fill a pipkin or stone jar with them, and nearly fill apples with water. Then fill up the jar with the crusts and crumbs of the rye and Indian loaf, covered close and stew gently until apples and crusts are all tender; then mix intimately and serve warm as a dish.

COFFEE.—Never boil coffee. The reason is that not only the better part (the exhilerating) escapes, but that the extractive properties, which, if largely used, are unhealthy, are alone present. Bring up to the boiling point, but do not boil it. You thus get sufficient of the extractive matter to give body, retaining all the volatile, healthy and relishing properties.

NEURALGIA.—One who has tried it recommends the following recipe for neuralgia: An ounce and a half of gum guaiacum dissolved in half a pint of alcohol. Take one teaspoonful three times a day before meals. Another remedy is two teaspoonfuls of magnesia and charcoal mixed together in a little water, and taken night and morning. Usually two doses will effect a cure.

A REMEDY FOR TOOTHACHE.—A correspondent writes to the Scientific American that the worst toothache, or neuralgia coming from the teeth, may be speedily and delightfully ended by the application of a small bit of cotton saturated in a strong solution of ammonia to the defective tooth. Sometimes the late sufferer is prompted to momentary nervous laughter by the application, but the pain has disappeared.

SOAP ON THE FACE.—There is rarely, if ever, any need of using soap on the face, except for very dirty people, or where there is much oil secreted by the skin. Pure soft water is generally quite sufficient. As a rule, avoid the very free use of soap on the skin, except the mildest kinds. Face powders injure the skin just as dirt does, by obstructing the pores. If there is any poison in the face powder, as there often is, it only adds poison to dirt and makes the matter so much the worse.

BUTTER.—In Turkey and Eastern countries they test their butter by heat; so says Dr. Edward Smith. When fresh, it is placed in a long-necked vessel over a heat not exceeding 140 deg. Far., by which it will rise to the surface as a clear transparent fluid, and should be carefully removed. It is then strained through a cloth, and cooled by immersion in cold water, after which it may be mixed with salt and packed closely. The action of the salt seems to be chiefly that of attracting any water which remains.

A FINE DISINFECTANT.—Permanganate of potassa is one of the most efficient and elegant of all disinfectants. Twenty-five grains will be ample for two quarts of water, and a tablespoonful in a soup plate of water, exposed in a room of ordinary dimensions, quickly removes any ordinary smell. When the pink color disappears more must be added. It is frequently used to remove the smell of bilge-water and guano from ships. It speedily cleanses foul water and makes it drinkable. A tablespoonful to a hogshead is generally enough, but more may be added until the water retains a slight pinkish tint. This will disappear by putting a stick in the water for a few minutes. No sick room—especially one in which an infectious disease is prevailing—should be without this invaluable disinfectant.

HONEY FOR WINTER USE.—The luxury of honey with buckwheat cakes furnishes of itself sufficient inducement to the housekeeper to make timely provision for its supply. Honey brought to table in the comb makes a very pretty dish, but can only be thus served during a short season. If purchased in any larger quantity, exposure to heat causes honey to ferment and become thin, while the first severe cold weather hardens it into a solid, white mass, uninviting in appearance and rough to the palate. Pour all your honey together into a clean colander; support the ears of the colander by two rods resting on the rim of the bowl. Cut the comb transversely and repeatedly, then leave it to drain. This will be accomplished perfectly in a day or two, the honey running through a clear liquid, leaving the wax behind clean and dry. Bottle the strained honey, cork tight, and it will be ready for use at any time. To make assurance doubly sure some housekeepers let their strained honey boil before bottling, and say that thus prepared it may be kept for an indefinite length of time. A warm, dry storeroom is to be preferred as a place of deposit.

Trades-Union Funds.

Some of the trades unions of this country and England have accumulated large sums of money. One English society claims a capital of $2,000,000. Another has over $1,000,000. It is but natural that these enormous sums in the hands of men unaccustomed to the use of money and ignorant of the alphabet of political economy should be misapplied. In too many cases they are worse than wasted. Men shirk work because they know they will get a regular stipend from an overflowing treasury by asking for it. They strike, foolishly and vainly, because they know that their union will pay them while idle, and they like such easy methods of earning money. Even when necessity forces operatives to strike, the funds given them are still wasted. They are spent unproductively for the support of men who do nothing in return. So much capital is destroyed. The workingmen are, therefore, worse off than before. They have dissipated a great part of the funds of their union, and have almost certainly got no satisfactory returns for the money, and they have diminished the stock of the world's capital, and have therefore lessened the chances of future employment for themselves and for all toilers. For the labor done in this world is measured by capital. The more capital, the more labor. The less capital, the less labor. So, in wasting thousands of dollars by spending it unproductively, these unions of workingmen harm workingmen for unnumbered years to come. Labor, having gained some capital, uses the weapon against, instead of for, the employe. It might so readily be used for his advantage that this error needs a protest. In very many cases it would be cheaper for trades-unions to set up a lot of its members in business on their own account than to support them during a strike. Why should it not do so? The danger of this course would be that the inexperience of the men might wreck the enterprise. To avoid this peril, the union might devote its surplus funds, from time to time, to enabling its members to buy an interest in the shops in which they are employed. There are few employers who would not be willing, for ready cash, to form an industrial partnership with their men on the plan which the Brigg Brothers' experiment has made famous. A loan to men thus taken into partnership, secured by mortgage on their stock, would be as safe as any investment. In this way a trades union could gradually make all its members independent, instead of keeping them and their successors poor. It is because this productive use of the capital accumulated by labor is so easy that its unproductive waste is inexcusable.—Chicago Tribune.

Æsop.

Probably every one has heard of the fables of Æsop, yet if questioned as to their authorship, how many could give any account?

The life of Æsop, as it is given before so many editions of his fables, is an invention of one Planudes, a Greek monk of the sixth or seventh century. The same may be said of a large proportion of the fables which bear his name. Scores of fables by the priests and monks of the first to the sixth century are accredited to Æsop. It is so with many traditions.

Of the real life of Æsop little is known with certainty. "The different traditions, opinions and conjectures of Æsop by both ancient and modern writers would fill a large volume." Phædrus, Euripides, Plutarch, Plato, Aristotle, Gellius, and in fact nearly all of the writers of the ancient Greeks mention him. "You have not so much as read Æsop," was a proverbial expression for ignorance.

Æsop flourished about B. C. 550, a hundred years before Herodotus, the most ancient Greek historian, and four hundred years after Homer. He was born at some town in Phrygia, and was by condition a slave, though probably he rose above that condition, as he became an eminent speaker. Most writers also ascribe to him a deformed person. Perhaps it is on this account he got the name of Gelootopotos, as he is called by Lucian.

Indeed, it is not material whether he was bond or free, whether handsome or ugly. He has left us a legacy in his writings that for 2,500 years has preserved his memory dear to us. And although in this long period the circumstances of his life have been lost, his fables remain, and will continue to instruct as they have in the past.—Hearth and Home.

To make a telling speech a man should tell something.

INDIANA NEWS.

THE Secretary of State has completed the footings of the election returns on the State ticket, and gives the following result:

For Secretary of State—W. W. Curry, 164,903; J. E. Neff, 182,134; Neff's majority, 17,232.

For Auditor of State—James A. Wildman, 165,-264; Ebenezer Henderson, 181,123; Henderson's majority, 15,469.

For Treasurer of State—John B. Glover, 164,-971; B. C. Shaw, 181,380; Shaw's majority, 16,-409.

For Attorney General—J. C. Denny, 166,155; C. A. Buskirk, 179,899; Buskirk's majority, 13,744.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction—J. W. Bloss, 164,962; J. H. Smart, 181,081; Smart's majority, 16,120.

For Judge of Supreme Court—Andrew L. Osborn, 172,224; H. L. Biddle, 198,689; Biddle's majority, 26,465.

The Independents received the following vote: J. C. Stout, for Secretary, 16,233; C. J. Bowles, same, 2,287; T. J. Truscott, for Auditor, 16,385; M. S. Bennett, for [illegible], 18,047; W. A. Peelle, for Attorney-General, 18,618; A. H. Graham, for Superintendent of Public Instruction, 18,806.

A BRAKEMAN named Corwin, on the accommodation train of the Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Lafayette railroad, fell from the platform of a baggage car, near Lafayette, last week, and was instantly killed, both legs being cut off, and his head and body terribly mangled.

JUDGE KIBBEY, of Richmond, has rendered a decision in the Muncie railroad case, continuing the Receivership. This involves the speedy sale of the railroad under a foreclosure of the first mortgage.

A LOGANSPORT boy named David Young, aged 11, while testing a disused gun to see if it was loaded, the other day, received the charge in his head, killing him instantly.

J. TILBERRY, a man employed on a canal boat, was instantly killed at New Haven last week. As the boat was passing a bridge he stuck his head out, and was caught between the bridge and the boat, smashing his head to jelly. He leaves a large family.

THE bonded debt of Logansport is $254,000.

THE State Grange met at Indianapolis on Tuesday, Nov. 24, and was presided over by Henley James, W. M., of Grant county. About 250 delegates were present, including several ladies. Since the first meeting of the State Grange, one year ago, the number of granges has increased from 305 to 1,999, and as each grange is entitled to one delegate the State Grange threatens to be an unwieldy body. In addition, the wives of the delegates were entitled to membership if belonging to the order. The question of reducing the ratio of representation was settled by the report of a committee, giving each county and every fifteen granges one delegate, 219 in all.

THE annual report of the State Board of Agriculture has been submitted to the Governor. The document embraced the reports of the several agricultural societies throughout the State, and the premium list of the late State Fair, and is quite voluminous in its details. The financial condition of the Board is as follows:

Entire indebtedness, bonded	$ 40,000
Assets—Guaranteed bonds	30,000
Cash and notes payable	8,500
Thirty-six acres in fair ground, valued	180,000
Three acres by Peru railroad switch	15,000
Improvements (actual cost $120,000)	318,000
Total	$350,500

Indiana Items.

AARON N. MILLER, a highly-esteemed citizen, long resident in that section, prominent in Odd Fellowship, and Master of the County Council of the Patrons of Husbandry, died at his house, in German Township, near South Bend, recently.

THE Chicago and South - Atlantic Railroad has commenced grading north of Dyer, Ind. It is expected to have the track ready for rails to that point by the 1st of January. They have over 1,000 men at work on different sections of the road between Chicago and Kankakee.

A FARMER of Jackson Township, Wayne county, named Julius Voirol, while digging a well on his farm, received a blow from a brick which fell from the top of the well, inflicting injuries which caused death in two hours.

RINDSKOPF and other bondholders who lately had the Fort Wayne, Muncie, and Cincinnati Railroad placed in the hands of a receiver, at Fort Wayne, has attached the rolling stock and machinery belonging or supposed to belong to the Muncie Transportation Company, for damages to the tune of $1,000,000. It is alleged that extensive frauds have been perpetrated upon the first mortgage bondholders.

MISS SARAH P. MORRISON, daughter of the Board of Trustees and adjunct Professor of English Literature in the State University, has been struck against by a portion of the students, who refuse to recite to her. No adjustment of the difficulty has yet been made.

THE Madisonville Times has the following: "Miss Lou Oliver, a young girl about thirteen years of age, daughter of Mr. J. B. Oliver, near Nebo, met with a terrible fatal accident last Thursday. She was in a loft of some outbuilding, and in moving about placed her foot on a loose board, which gave way and precipitated her to the floor. Her skull was crushed, and she died in about an hour and a half after receiving the injuries."

THE Noblesville Ledger says: "By a careful estimate, made up from as correct data as possible, it has been ascertained that the corn crop alone in Hamilton county, for 1874, amounted to 1,680,000 bushels. This estimate is made upon a basis of forty bushels to the acre and we are satisfied that this average has been reached, if not more. Then we may safely assume that the cornfields of the county the past season have yielded a product worth in money about $700,000."

THE mystery of the disappearance of Walter Scales, of Booneville, several months since, has been partially cleared up by the discovery of his body in a cistern in Taylorsville, the head beaten and bruised, indicating unmistakably that he had come to his death by violence.

Indiana Deaf and Dumb Asylum.

The thirty-fifth annual report of the Deaf and Dumb Institution has been submitted to the Governor. During the past year there have been 334 pupils—193 males and 141 females. Two have died and 41 graduated, leaving 291 now in the institution. The estimates of expenses for the year ending March 31, 1876, are $69,600, and the same for the succeeding year. The superintendent reports an increase of deafness, as indicated by applications for admission, largely in excess of the increase of population. Statistics show the increase to be from disease rather than in those born deaf, and spotted fever is the exciting cause in 35 cases of 59 cases received. The total expense for the year has been $66,830.58.

Assassination.

The Wilkinson, Georgia, Appeal, of a late date, publishes an account of the murder of Will C. Moreau, formerly a well-known citizen of that State. The particulars of the affair, which occurred on the evening of the 9th, at his residence in Washington county, Georgia, are furnished the Appeal by a member of the coroner's jury who sat upon the case. It appears Mr. Moreau was sitting in a rocking-chair in front of the fire, reading a newspaper. His wife sat by his side, and behind him sat a little girl, who lived with the family, while their little daughter lay asleep on a bed in the same room. The murderer approached an uncurtained window by mounting the piazza, and fired the fatal shot through one of the lower panes. The charge (evidently of buckshot) broke the window and the lamp, (which it extinguished), and entered the body of Mr. Moreau, causing almost instant death. Terribly frightened, but not yet realizing the full measure of the horrible deed, Mrs. Moreau and the little girl fled to the negro quarters, and thence to a wagoner's camp near by. Appealing to the wagoners for aid they accompanied them back to the house, where they found Mr. Moreau dead. The news of the assassination spread rapidly, and the neighbors soon gathered in. Search disclosed footprints in the muddy ground leading to the spot where the fatal shot was fired, from the cabin of a negro named Richard Aiken, and returning over the same route. Aiken was arrested and lodged in jail. The coroner's jury found that the deceased had come to his death by means of gunshot wounds inflicted by the negro Aiken. No cause has been assigned for the commission of the deed. Since his departure from this State Moreau had been engaged in preaching the gospel to a church in Washington county, Georgia, and, so far as could be learned, had led an exemplary life.

Obituary.

The University of Notre Dame and the Congregation of the Holy Cross have suffered a second severe loss, following quickly on the death Rev. Father Lemonnier, President of the University. Rev. Neal H. Gillespie, C. S. C., died at St. Mary's recently after an acute illness of nearly 12 months. Father Gillespie was born in Brownsville, Pa., in 1830, his family being connected by marriage with the Ewings and Shermans. He was the first graduate of the regular course at Notre Dame University, receiving his degree in 1849. He entered the novitiate of the Holy Cross Congregation two years later, teaching mathematics in the university while studying theology; made his religious profession in 1853; completed his theological course in Rome, where he was ordained priest in 1856; was appointed Vice-President of Notre Dame University the same year, and in 1863 became President of St. Mary's College, Chicago. The following year he returned to his old post; spent 1868 in Paris, and the three subsequent years at the mother house of the congregation in Maus, France. On his return, he became master of novices at Notre Dame, and editor of Ave Maria, which he permanently established. Father Gillespie's marked ability and culture placed him among the foremost priests of his congregation. He was especially admired for his vigorous adherence to discipline, and beloved for the nobleness of spirit which characterized his greatest and least acts. His venerable mother and his sister, Mrs. Ewing, were present at his death. The funeral took place at Notre Dame.

A Colony of Poles.

Describing a colony of Poles at Laporte, Ind., a correspondent says: "The new Polish arrival has an unpleasant, cringing way of doffing his hat, that makes you think of monarchy. The men shake hands when they meet, and salute each other with a kiss; and they bless each other, in the name of the Mother of All Sorrow, at parting. A few of them, if the very quintessence of truth were known, doubt that this is the best country lighted by the sun. They vote any ticket that happens to fall into their hands, and they do it with an unconcern which can only come from an unequivocal incomprehension of its meaning. When they enter a grocery they call for the best of what they want, and pay for it without questioning the price. They buy the best sugar, the best coffee, the best alcohol, and bow to the salesman on leaving the room. They take to the woods, on first coming to America, as naturally as babies take the measles, or muskrats to the water."

Not Guilty of Murder.

The preliminary examination of Patrick Dever, charged with killing his daughter, at Vienna, recently, took place at Rushville last week, and finally resulted in his release. The evidence of the shooting was all confined to the family of the deceased, who testified that it was purely accidental. It was admitted by them, however, that defendant was a drunkard, and a vicious, wicked man, who took special delight in breaking furniture, dishes, and everything else that came in his way.

Wm. Rudifer and Chas. Dudley, who shot a traveling man named Jerry Pickard in the streets of Terre Haute about a month ago, have been sentenced to the penitentiary for terms of ten and nine years respectively. On the eve of his departure Dudley was married to a woman named Winnie Shaler, from Indianapolis. Pickard is recovering.

THE largest plate of glass ever manufactured in the United States was recently cast in Indiana. It is 184 by 61 inches.

JUSTICE TO THE DEAD.

Citizen—Who's dead, good sexton? Why those chimes?
You've struck the bell a hundred times.

Sexton—Puir mon! puir mon! the church's pillar
Not less than Peter Grist, the miller.

Citizen—Not Peter! Then your bell is wrong;
He was but fifty—for as long
As I have lived I always knew
How old he was, and—

Sexton— Yes, 'tis true;
But then, in ringin' him awa
I gav' him more than was the law,
'Twill please him, for the goody soul
Was fond of takin' double toll.

Humorous.

A NOD FELLOW—Morpheus.

THE devil likes to sign himself "soul proprietor."

A CANNIBAL'S epitaph—"Write me as one who loves his fellow-man."

JOSH BILLINGS says he don't care how much people talk, if they will only say it in a few words.

His 'and was free, his means was easy,
A finer, nobler gent than he,
Ne'er rode along the Shone Eleesy,
Or paced the Roo de Rivolee!

A MAN in Cincinnati, advertising for a situation, says: "Work is not so much an object as good wages."

A WESTERN paper announces the death of a lady celebrated for the beauty of her character and complexion."

ONE-HALF of the territory of Massachusetts, comprising one hundred and seventy-eight towns and cities, lies within forty-eight miles of Boston.

ON his death-bed a distinguished humorist requested that no one might be invited to his funeral, "Because," sobbed out the dying man, "it is a civility I can never repay."

WHEN a young lady notices your shirt button hanging by a single thread on the ragged edge of the buttonhole, and calls your attention to it, don't wait for another hint like that, as you may never get it.

THE winter style of hat for gentlemen is made with such a stiff crown that if he goes home drunk and is struck on the head with a poker, he merely thinks he grazed the hall lamp as he was passing.

AT the Paris Morgue there was recently exposed the body of a young woman so wondrously beautiful that the authorities caused a model to be taken of her. She was seen to throw herself into the river.

THIS is the way the Indian Magistrates of Naitck used to issue their warrants: "You, you big Constable, quick you catchum Jeremiah Offscow, strong you holdum, safe you bringum afore me. Thomas Waban, Justice Peace."

A MEMBER of Parliament at a London dinner party was selected to say grace. He ended: "Oh, Lord, make us truly thankful, and what do you think of the improvement along the Thames?" the question being put in the same breath to an Ambassador who sat on his right.

A GENTLEMAN sat down at a table in an Oshkosh restaurant, the other day, and called for "a bill of particulars." "Brooklyn, by thunder!" roared the bystanders, in a gust of moral indignation, as they shot him through the doorway with the velocity of a Remington rifle ball.—Brooklyn Argus.

A DOCTOR went out West to practice his profession. An old friend met him on the street one day, and asked him how he was succeeding in his business. "First-rate!" he replied; "I've had one case." "Well, and what was that?" "It was a birth," said the doctor. "How did you succeed with that?" "Well, the old woman died, and the child died; but, by the grace of God, I'll save the old man yet!"

A lady declared that she never could see
How the men could all smoke. "Why, it kills 'em," said she.
"I don't know," said Sam; "there's my father, ain't slow,
Who smokes every day, and he's eighty, you know."
"But, sir, if he never had used the vile weed,
He might have been ninety—he might, sir, indeed."

TWENTY-FIVE thousand dollars will be offered for the dead body of the man who wrote the following poem:

"If I was a lokle editor,
Wouldn't I have a time?
I wouldn't print a cussed word
For lessen a $ a line.

"I'd get my grub and licker free,
& tickets to the shows,
I wouldn't pay for buggy hier,
& wouldn't I wear good close!"

Alarm Caused by a Newspaper Article.

The article which appeared in the Herald yesterday, purporting to be an account of the escape of the wild beasts in Central Park and their subsequent ravages in the quiet neighborhoods of the city, produced an effect which it is charitable to hope the writer could not have foreseen. In many instances people read only the head-lines, and others again did not see the denial in the short paragraph at the end. The headlines were sufficient to excite the apprehensions of readers, and with visions of wild animals roaming about the city, the head of the family cautioned his household not to go out of doors. The issue of the same sheet in the form of an "Extra," later in the day, increased this apprehension, until the excitement became quite marked. Many fathers telegraphed home to prevent their children from going to school or their wives from venturing out of doors. At Police Headquarters, the Superintendent was called upon by a number of persons anxious to know the exact truth of the statement, having failed to see the supposed satire, and were much enraged when informed that the whole story was a hoax. The telegraph offices received telegrams sent by husbands to their wives warning them of danger, and when the hoax was appreciated, additional telegrams relieving apprehension. The public schools suffered considerably in the attendance, especially those around Central Park.—New York Tribune.

THE Richmond (Va.) Enquirer says: "Lynchburg is to have a likeness of Senator Thurman, taken by her own photographer. During his recent visit to his native town the Senator gave Van Ness a sitting, and the vainest town in the State is supremely happy in the possession of her favorite son's negative."

Auburn Courier.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 3rd, 1874.

The indications of a speedy and permanent revival of business are most cheering, and there is every reason to hope that the worst pinch of heard times is over. If all can be induced to except this view of the situation as the correct one, such acceptance will help matters very much.—More than half of the enterprises of the world are based upon hope and faith. When gloom prevails, even capital lies dorment. Let us smilingly greet the bright dawn of a better day, and take courage. Let the idle dollars emerge from their hoarding places and fly from hand to hand on their mission of good, for articles of necessity, graceful ornament and solid comfort, or as helpers in honorable enterprises, and grim visaged hard times, will vanish from our midst.—Logansport Journal.

That's the way to talk. Now that the democracy has been called to take possession, prospects are most cheering. Let us hope it is the dawn of better, happier times, when the sword shall be beaten with a plowshare, and honesty and economy, shall reign in the old times when GeneralJackson said in the language of the Poet. "By the eternal" etc.

Governors of Indiana.

The student of Indiana political history will find the following table convenient for reference:

Territorial Governors.

Atherton St. Clair, governors N. W territory.

William H, Harrison, from 1800 to 1812.

Thomas Posey, from 1812 to 1816.

Governors of the State.

Jonathan Jennings, from 1816 to 1819.

Jonathan Jennings, (second term) from 1819 to 1822.

William Hendricks, from 1822 to 1825.

James B. Ray (acting), February 1825.

James B. Ray, from 1825 to 1828.

James B. Ray (second term), from 1828 to 1831.

Noah Noble, from 1831 to 1834.

Noah Noble (second term), from 1834 to 1837.

David Wallace, from 1837 to 1839.

Samuel Bigger, from 1840 to 1843

James Whitcomb, from 1843 to 1846.

James Whitcomb (second term) from 1846 to 1848.

Paris Dunning. (acting), from 1848 to 1849.

Joseph A. Wright, from 1849 to 1853.

Joseph A. Wright (second term) from 1853 to 1857.

Ashbel P. Willard, from 1857 to 1859.

Abram A. Hammond, from 1859 to 1861.

Henry S. Lane, (a few days), 1860

Oliver P. Morton (acting), from 1861 to 1865.

Conrad Baker, from 1869 to 1873.

Thomas A. Hendricks, from 1873 to —.

ATTORNEY GENERAL BUSKIRK ON TAXES.

Hon. James A. Wildman, Auditor of State:

Dear Sir:—Your letter of the 24th inst. is received, in which you inquire as follows: Should a penalty of ten per cent. be added to the unpaid second installment of taxes after Nov. 12th, where the first half was paid on or prior to the third Monday in April, and if the penalty is added, can the real estate be advertised and sold when there has been no opportunity to make the taxes out of personal property?" In my opinion your first question should be answered in the affirmative, and your second in the negative. The act approved Dec. 21, 1872, provides as follows: "Sec. 115. In case any person should refuse or neglect to pay the tax imposed on him, the county treasurer shall after the third Monday in April, levy the same, together with ten per centum damages, etc." This act provided for the payments and collection of the taxes due for the entire year. in one sum. The act approved March 8. 1873, Sec. 1 provides "that each person or tax-payer charged with taxes on a tax duplicate in the hands of the county treasurer, may pay the full amount of such taxes on or before the third Monday in April, or may at his option, pay one-half thereon on or the said third Monday in April, and the remaining on or before the 15th day of November following." The same section contains a proviso. "That in all cases where as much as one-half of the amount of tax charged against a taxpayer shall not be paid on or before the third Monday in April the whole amount charged shall become due and be returned delinquent and collected as provided by law." I understand your inquiry, therefore, to be predicated upon the assumption that the one-half due as the first installment in April has been paid in full. The act approved March 8, 1873, was intended for the relief of tax-payers by permitting them to divide the burden of their annual taxes into two payments, at their option. It was not intended, manifestly to place any obstacle in the way of collection of taxes. Such would be the effect, however, if it should received such a construction that taxpayers could.

Fail or refuse to pay the one-half of their annual taxes due in November, and no penalty added.—Such a construction should not be given, unless plainly required by the terms of the act. And this is not the case in this instance. The repealing clause of the act of 1873 provides. "That all acts or parts of acts, conflicting with the provisions of this act, be. and the same are hereby repealed."—The provision by which tax-payers are premitted, at their option, to discharge their taxes in two installments is simply an extension of time for the payment for one-half of the sum which the tax-payers owes. It is not in conflict with section 155 of the act approved December 21, 1872, quoted supera On the contrary, they are to be construed and enforced together. As to your second inquiry, it is true that inasmuch as the statute provides for the sale of real estate on the second Monday in Febuary the time is so brief after the November installment shall have become over due, as to make it inconvenient for the treasurer to levy upon and sell personal property within the requisite period before the sale of real estate. But this is one of those inconveniences which sometimes occur as the result of legislation, especially where, as in the instance before us, two statutes are enacted upon the same subject-matter. with different and distinct objects in view. The remedy for such inconveniences, however, is with the legislature, and not with the courts. The inconvenience under consideration can not alter the requirements of stationary enactment and judicial determination, that the personal property of the tax-payers first must be levied upon and sold before there can be a lawful sale of his real estate.

Life Without Sentiment.

[From the St. Louis Republican.]

There was no sentiment whatever about Mark Kaller, of Augusta county Va. There was no sentiment in his courtship, none in his marriage and none in his married life. He lived without it. He had some property and a house, and he wanted a housekeeper. He paid an agent $25 to get him a wife. He married her without a word of love making and put her in his house, and went on with his life. The couple were entirely congenial and exceedingly harmonious in one respect they both loved whiskey, and they drank a great deal of it. They never quarrelled over the bottle, and life flowed smoothly on. They drank as much as they could and got drunk together, and went to sleep when they were sleepy and it was no body's business. They got old together in Old Virginia. One day they had some distance to walk on a public highway. Old Mark tramped along with his cane and the old woman trudged along behind smokeing her pipe. There was a good long distance between them, as the woman was woddling with difficulty. By some means her clothing caught fire and she was burned to death there on the public road. Two gentlemen came along on horse-back, and saw the roasted woman. They espied a man disappearing in the distance. One of them rode ahead, and overtaking the man, informed him of the occurrence, Mark expressed neither sentiment nor emotion, but with a grunt turned around and retraced his steps. There laid his wife so charred and disfigured as scarcely to be recognized. Mark hobbled up to the body, and gave it a punch with his stick, said. "Humph, I told her to leave her pipe to home. Now what'll I do for a house-keeper?" This was the only thing like a sentiment he ever uttered in his life. Old Mark Keller is dead now, but his type still live in a good many men who hobble through life without a color of sentiment.

Crand Opening for the HOLIDAYS!

STIEFEL & OCHS,

OF BUTER, INDIANA.

Have just opened a splendid stock of

DRY GOODS,

bought at a great reduction of prices.

FRESH ARRIVAL!

of the late styles of everything in the DRY GOODS and

Millinery Line.

Their MLLINERY GOODS, are being offered very low. They keep a 1st class Milliner and are ready to manufacture anything in this line to order. West side of Bradway, BUTLER. IND.

SPECIAL INDUCEMENTS FOR THE NEXT

30 Days

TO GOOD CASH BUYERS, AT

MILLER & CASEBEER'S,

THE LEADING MERCHANTS OF AUBURN, INDIANA.

Corner Main and Ninth Streets.

SANTA-CLAUS IS COMING

HOLIDAY PRICES

—AT THE—

FRUIT HOUSE.

We never had such an immense stock for the coming holidays. If times are dull and money is scarce our trade is better than ever. We are selling more Teas, Coffees, Sugars and Groceries than all the other groceries combined. We have no two prices in our business; that is, a price for those who pay the cash, and a differant price for those who have it "booked." We have one cash price and keep no books, hence you can easily see why we can undersell all others; no secret in it, simply purchasing at first hands and selling direct to the consumers.

Just take teas, for instance: We save our consumers on that article alone three profits, as we purchase direct from the importer.

We save the profit of the jobber, 10 per cent, of the speculator, which is 15 per cent, of the wholesale grocer, which 19 to 20 per cent, or as much more as he can get. All these profits our customers have the profit of.

We still keep up the reduction of 15 per cent.

TEAS! TEAS! TEAS!

Young Hyson, 30c, 50c 80 $1, 1 10 per pound.
Gunpowder 50c, 80c, $1, 1 10 per pound.
Imperial, 50c, 30c, $1, best 1 10 per pound.
Oolong 30c 60c, 80c, best 95c, per pound.
Uncolored Japan, 40c, 80c, best 90c, per pound,
All of those teas are the best in the market, and at least 20 to 40 cents are saved on every pound

SUGARS! SUGARS! SUGARS! SUGARS! SUGARS!

The same saving to purchasers as on teas. No middle man with [illegible]

Coffee B, 10½ per pound,
Coffee E, 10c, per pound.
Yellow Sugar 8c and 9c, per pound.
Crushed and Powdered, 11c, per pound.
Granulated 11c, per pound.

COFFEE! COFFEE! COFFEE!

At least 2 to 5 per cent saved

Rio, 25c, best Rio, 25c. per pound
Roasted Rio, 27c,
Old Java. 30c.

FOR CHRISTMAS CAKE.

Raisins 12½c, per pound,
Currants 25c.
Citron, 40c
Orange and Lemon Peel 30c.
Shelled Almonds, 40c.
Filberts, 20 cents per quart.
Almonds 20c.
English Walnuts, 15c.
Pecans 12½c.
Brasil 12½c.
Roasted Peanuts. 8c.
Oranges and Lemons, 30 to 50c per dozen.

WINES AND LIQUORS FOR THE HOLIDAYS.

Sherry and Port Wine, $1,50 best $2 50 per gal
California. Muscatel and Angelica $1, best 2 50.
New England Rum, $1 50 best 2 50.
Holland Gin $1 50 old Tom Gin 2 50.
Rye and Bourbon Whiskey, new 90c $1 25.
One and two years old do, $1 40 to 1 75.
Old '76' for Medical purposes $2 50 and 3 00.
Brandies from $1 50 to French imported $6.
Scotch and Irish Whiskies, London and Dublin Porter, Edinburgh Ale, &c.

CANDIES AND TOYS

Candies—Stick, choice, assorted, French toy candy, imperials, balls and fruit candies at about one half price
Best stick 25c per pound.
Barber poles 20c.
French choice, 25c.
Fruits and Almons, 30c.
Toys—Toys in immense variety your children can get from 1c to $1.
No end to the variety of mon eys, birds cats, dogs wagons, jumping jacks, china dolls, wax doll fancy play houses, moustache cups, hair oils, vases, soldiers drums, lions tigers' horses bugles, whistles, rattles, fancy baskets, ladies work boxes, at all prices and at one-half the price you will pay elsewhere.

DRIED AND CANNED FRUITS CIGARS AND TOBACO,

Dried Fruits—new Dried Peaches. 8c,
Prunes, 8 and 15c.
Dried apples 8 and 10c.
Pared Peaches 25c.
Green gages, 30c.
Canned peaches 20c,
Tomatoes 15c, Blackberries 15c
Mammoth cans 20 and 25c,
English Damsons 30c.
Cigars and Tobacco—Best high flypere, $1 60 and 2, per box.
Havana pure, $2 50, 3 and 4,
Plug Tobacco, 30c, 40, and 50c.
Best Twin Brothers, 60c,
Fine cut 50, and 60c.
Best light yellow color 90c.
Shorts, 35c.

WOODEN WARE CHEAPER.

Best large 3 hoop tubs 85c No, 2 75c No 4 65c.
This is a reduction of 15c, on each tub.
Pail, 2 hoop, 18c, 3 hoop 22c.
Wash boards 20 and 25c.
Churns, 65c 75c. 85c $1.
Clothes lines, ropes. coal oil lamps, globes, starch spices and dye stuffs.

SYRUPS,

Best sugar loaf, pure as honey, $1, per gallon.
White drip 35c.
Silver drip, 75.
Extra Golden 50c.

SYRUPS.

Cups, 40.
New Orleans 70c, and $1.
You can save at least 25c on the dollar.

FRESH OYSTERS.

35c 30 and 40c, cans.
Sugar cured hams 15c.
Shoulders 10c,
Farmers living at a distance can club together select their goods, and send their orders. Each man's goods will be put up seperate and the name marked on the packages. No danger of getting lost.
We will guarantee the safety.

Oils! Oils! Oils!

Fish and Neat's Foot Oil $1, per gallon
Coal and Rose Oil, 20c, per gallon.
Headlight and Vaseline, 15c per gallon.
Machine Oil, 50c and 80c, per gallon.
Lard Oil, $1, per gallon,
Twenty-five cents on the dollar saved

J. B. WHITE, Prop.

DRY GOODS

GEO. DeWALD & CO.

WHEN LOOKING FOR BARGAINS

—IN—

Dry Goods or Notions,

CALL AT THE STORE OF

Geo. DeWald & Co

No 107 Columbia St., Ft. WYNE,

Where can be found a large assortment of

STAPLE AND FANCY GOODS

which will be sold LOW for cash.

ASK FOR THE "HATTIE" CORSET

The best thing in the market, is made glove-fitting, and of the best material, and in order to introduce, we are offering

ONE DOLLAR

THIS IS A BARGAIN!!

We Have Received,

And are now daily opening our general stock for the Fall and Winter Trade in every department of our business.

The unexplained depression in the Dry Goods market during the last two weeks, has offered an opportunity to cash buyers not before known in many years. DRY GOODS have now reached a lower bottom than ever seemed possible again in this country. The panic prices were "war prices" compared to what we have been buying the best class of desirable goods at for the past two weeks about the dulest period of trade in the history of New York.

Our stock was never more complete in every department—seldom ever so good. We seldom ever offered in every way such inducements as now.—The stock is the completest and most attractive of any season in many years. Having bought at the present low prices we are prepared to give our costomers better value for their money, and more of it than at any time before.

Close Cash Buyers!

Should examin our elegant line of

Beaded Passementrie Trimmings
Beaded Buttons and Ornaments, Beaded Belts
Pocket and Cloaks
Loops

EXAMINE
New cloaks, New Shawls and Furs.
EXAMINE
New Felt Skirts and Water Proofs
EXAMINE
Underwear, Hosiery, and Gloves.
EXAMINE
Housekeeping Linens, and Cottons,
EXAMINE
Black Cashmeres and De Este
EXAMINE
New Winter Dress Goods
EXAMINE
New Calicoes and Domestics
EXAMINE
Cloak and Trimming Velvets
EXAMINE
Cloaking and Cassimeres
EXAMINE
Flannels and Blankets
EXAMINE
New Goods which are arriving daily

Root & Company,

At their New Location

46 & 48 Columbia-st

AT THE

New York Store.

Henry W. Bond,

FORMERLY OF

DeWALD, BOND & COMPANY

FORT WAYNE, IND.

Has opened a new

FANCY, DRY
GOODS, AND LADIES' FURNISHING STORE

AT

21 West Main St.

A few doors west of the Court House.

His stock comprises FANCY GOODS, of all kinds
Flannel,
Yarns,
Cotton,
Cotton Flannels,
Linens, Laces,
Embroiders,
Hosiery, Gloves
Zephyrs, Canvass,
and everything needed for fancy work and embroidery. I extend a cordial invitation to the citizens of Auburn to call and see me when in Fort Wayne.

My goods are all new and was purchased stiricly for cash are being sold from 25 to 50 per cent lower than regular prices.

HENRY W. BOND

ELLSWORTH, ANDREW & CO.,

SUCCESSPRS TO

JOHN MAC DOUGAL,

DEALERS IN

CARPETS,

Oil Cloths,

Curtains & Fixtr's

26 East Berry street.

Fort Wayne, Ind.

The Best and Cheapest place to by Carpets in the city.

Pittsburg, Baltimore & Ohio R.R

IS COMING.

Therefore buy your

Dry Goods,

Notions, etc., of

CHARLES KLOTZ

AT HIS

Old Stand

ON MAN STREET,

Opposite Court Square

AUBURN, INDIANA

Where he may be found at all times ready to accommodate customers, and sell them such goods as they may need,

CLOTHING

Of all descriptions, and

HANDSOME SUITS

Made to Order!

GREATLY IMPROVED.

A NEW STORE!

With an entire stock of

NEW GOODS!

BOOTS & SHOES

at the lowest PRICES.

J. E. WOODFORD

has located at Auburn with a fine new stock of BOOTS & SHOES, which will be sold at the lowest figures for

CASH ONLY

Call and examine this bran new stock, as there are no old goods that have been on the shelf for years. Store on Main street opposite Finke's residence, Auburn, Ind.

Auburn Courier.

Butter 25c.
Potatoes 50
Oats, 48 cts.
Apples 45 cts.
Eggs, 18 cents.
Corn 48 @ 50 cts.
Wheat, white, $1
Wood $1.75 @ $2.
Live hogs 5½c per pound.

Local and Miscellaneous.

Sleighing splendid.

Courier $2 a year.

Hogs in the market.

Good time to flip down

Holiday Goods at Beard's.

Court in session next week.

Beer drinking is not so heavy.

Look up jewelry for your Jane.

Call at this office for job printing

Now is the time for boiled dinners.

See the Fruit House advertisement

Saw logs are coming in "by the bushel"

The educational department is on the last page.

Abright's Steam Show is all the attraction.

Beard has the largest lot of candies in the market.

An addition has been made to the post-office boxes.

Sheriff Meese is busy preparing for Court week.

The ring-tailed coon has hunted his hollow tree and doubled up.

F. N. Wright & Company sell lumber by the car load at jobbing rates.

Call early at Abright's and select a present from a full stock.

One of our religious denominations have "buried the hatchet."

Huston & Benedict are bringing in gobblers with their feet handcuffed.

Get your little sack of sulpher on your neck, Maggie, and hurry off to school

The Methodist denomination are occupying Ensly's Hall for the present.

We never saw a finer stock of gold rings than Abright keeps.

The boys around "these diggins" don't seem to be on the marry very big. Take a hold.

Teams have commenced hauling brick for Hebel's block. How you like off dot business.

Weamer claims to have a large number of lady visitors. How would it do to "Jeff" for 'em.

Ed Eldridge, proprietor of the Central Grocery, has been fixing up in the way of some splendid show cases.

Bishop McCloskey, of Indianapolis, delivered a sermon in Ensly's Hall last Sabbath evening.

Young man, remember that your gal wants a pair of Bracelets Christmas. Joe Abright keeps them.

Make your wife happy by going to Joe Abright's and buying her a gold watch and chain.

Maj. Casebeer went, last week, for a new stock of goods. Look out for something extensive.

The sleding in town is about "gone up" and the wheeled vehicles are brought into line again.

Miller & Casebeer appear in a new advertisement this week. They are building up an immense trade.

A heavy snow fell last Saturday and Sunday, and the conclusion is that winter has set in.

The boys are "out with their girls sleigh riding day and night." They'll burst up the liveries.

The Pioneer Sketches are "blade out," and we hope some of our readers have enjoyed them.

The State Teachers' Association will convene at Indianapolis, Dec. 29, 30 & 31 Reduced fair on the railroads and hotels has been secured.

Houser has received a very fine stock of Holiday Goods, embracing many things that would make an admirable present Go and see them.

Chas Rowland, pulisher of the Hicksville Independent, gave us a short call last Wednesday. Mr. R. is getting up a lively paper for that place.

The fine dwelling of Geo Keen, in Richland tp., was destroyed by fire one day last week, and very little of the contents were saved. Insurance, $1200.

THE GREAT REMEDY.

"Dr. King's New Discovery" for Consumption and all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs. For sale at Davenport's drug store. Sample trial bottle free of charge

There is an effort now being made to finish the Washington monument. The epitaph should be, "First in War, First in Peace, and the last, To get a Monument."

The Fort Wayne Journal done John Peter Cleaver last week. It is as delightful reading as the first efforts of a school boy, and a great deal more romantic.

The best of goods at the cheapest prices for cash at Vordermarks. A large lot o boots and shoes for winter wear just open to dou. Everything reduced down low to suit the hard times.

Remember that Rush has a little store way up town where you can buy goods cheaper than you can imagine. Go to Ward's building and satisfy yourself of what we say.

Take a look at John L. Davis' new advertisement in this issue. Mr. D. has been marking his goods down so low that you would be astonished were you to call at his store and price them. Just drop in sometime.

We thought "swinging on the gate" had become a thing of the past, but it seems to be the case here at present. If the old man won't let [illegible] come in, stick to the gate. We kn[illegible]u don't care anything about her, but [illegible] show your pluck.

Geo. J. Aveline, a son of Mrs. Julia Aveline, late proprietor of the hotel by that name in Fort Wayne, died very suddenly last Saturday morning. George was a good boy, and we regret to learn of his untimely demise.

Messrs. Geo. Patterson, T. H. Sprott, F. Benedict, H. Griswold and T. H. Leasure, went to Toledo last Monday and returned yesterday. They report things lively in the corn city. They did'nt attend the "Comique," oh, no.

Now, that we have fires about all the time, it becomes the duty of everyone to constitute himself a fire committee, to look after the safety of his dwelling. Examine your flues, and use the utmost vigilence to prevent fires.

Stiefel & Ochs, of Butler, are offering splendid bargains in the Dry Goods trade. They keep a fine stock at the lowest prices, and their store is generally crowded. When you go to town give them a call.—See advertisement.

Arthur Bonnicastle is the name of a charming story written by Dr. J. G. Holland. It had a popular run in Scribner's Monthly, and is now handsomely bound, and for sale at Davenport's drug store — No one's literary education is complete without reading one of Dr. Holland's stories.

Friend Mays is no longer prejudiced against color—Republican.

Who said he was. If there is any of the above stuff remaining in the mind of our neighbor he can soon have it taken out, though the emblematical green would indicate that such is not the case

Death of an old Citizen—Esquire L. Ingman, the oldest resident in this township died last Tuesday evening of gravel complaint by which he had been afflicted for years. He settled in this township in 1836 and was about 70 years old at the time of his death.

Look out for a grand dramatic play about the Holidays. Several of our best talented young men will appear in a fine play, and we can assure all that they will be pleasantly entertained. Master Johnny Picker will sing several of his comic songs, and the whole programme is interesting and amusing.

DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY.

Cures all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs. Never known to fail. Every bottle warranted to give satisfaction or money cheerfully refunded. For sale at Davenport's drug store. Sample bottles free. Try it.

Mr. O. Curtis, of Concord tp., brough us a lot of splendid corn last week. He claims to have taken 120 bushels to the acre, this fall, from his farm along the St. Joe River. The ears are very large and filled with good, solid crop.

We hope the streets will not be blockaded in the future as they were nearly every day this week. Hitching posts should be put on the back streets, and save this confusion on our business thoroughfares. Work teams are delayed and its inconvenient for our farmers.

There was a put-up-job on two young men last week. They had sent their card to spend the evening with one of Auburn's handsomest girls, and another "gal" feeling in a different direction, got up a select party, and don't you think, tried to induce these chaps not to go where they had sent their cards. It did'nt "Operate."

Holiday Goods.—Houser has just received a large lot of holiday goods, such as Albums, Holiday Books, Stereoscopic Views, Kaleidoscopes, Picture Books for boys and girls, Autographs, Portfolios, &c. When you visit town don't fail to call at his book store in the brick block north of the court house.

They are now talking of "cheap" festivals—not have anything to eat. The name is at least suggestive.

Cranberries, Sour Pickels at Beard's.

The Great Festival.

The Odd Fellows are setting things in motion to have a grand festival before many days. When they do they will get up the "boss" festival. They are terribly in debt for their handsome edifice, and a little assistance from the public would be greatly appreciated. The time of the festival will be announced in due time.

The new town at which the Baltimore shops are to be located has a variety of names. It is called, East Chicago, Garnet City, New Jerusalem, Hole in the Swamp, and West Auburn. The time card gives it the latter name and we think it more appropriate than East Chicago.

The big foot in front of Vordermark's store is nowhere. Uncle Lige Depew has ordered a pair made that will discount two sides of leather. He believes in getting the worf of de money.—And he'll use the fork of the roads for a book-jack.

There is a map of this State representing the intelligence of the inhabitants, light shading, indicating cultivation, and dark, ignorance. The dark lines commence at Fort Wayne and meander southward. This county, of course, is white. For this are we doctors. Our information comes from a prominent Fort Wayne educator.

The Young Folks Society met at Mr. Ryan's last Tuesday evening, but the attendance was not large. We regret to see a studied effort upon the part of few to discourage them. We do think Auburn can dish up about as lively a plate of jealously and bigotry among her churches as any place we ever saw, and yet there are a great many good people among them. A few seem to leaven the whole l

Messrs. Miller & Moritz, formely of the Aveline House, have purchased the same for 70,000. They will make a good hotel out of it. In the first place they know how to begin, and in the second they know how to keep on, until its superiority is recognized. A good hotel is needed in Fort Wayne, and we believe these gentlemen will supply this want long felt.

We have neglected to mention a little domestic episode, a nine pounder, that occurred at Waterloo the other week. Supt Barns has been advanced from the primary class to a higher sphere where every thing is in good working order. In doing this he assumes a responsibility he never knew before. Its a little girl of the female persuasion, and comes to relieve its parentage from an unmerited charge. We take it back.

The special election in Steuben County for Treasurer, resulted in the election of the Independent candidate by a majority of 82. This shows conclusively that what has been done can be done again, only a little more so. Let our friends up there feel happy. In October they received a large invoice of good news, and now the order has been duplicated and they ought to be very thankful for favors, at proportionate rates.

Cigars, Toys Candies of every kind at Beard's.

Last week, our enterprising townsman, J. W. Shaffer, Esq., and his accomplished better-half, gave our band boys a surprise party. None of the "boys in blue" had any idea of what was coming, and after being seated at the tempting table, with mouths watering, and about to partake of the numerous luxuries thereon, Mrs. Shaffer opened the parlor door and said: "Ladies, supper is waiting." The boys then gazed on their "fraus," with a expressive smile, and with the command, "Go in b'hoys, saved the girls the trouble of reading off the table.

For the Auburn Courier.

To the Emigrants for Salt River Kentucy.

Trough line in the night. Car number 1874, will leave Angola Station the 30th, Dec. next, at midnight, for Salt River.—Emigrants desiring passage will please apply to W. W. Curry, Secretary of State, Indianapolis. Tickets, free, conductor Local agent at Steuben Court House.

Lots on First-st., in the town of Salt River, reserved for salary-grabbers—on Ben Butler Bluff, Second-st, for sympathisers.

Lots to lease for persons wishing to return in two years. Safe trip guaranteed, without accident.

Recline chairs for eminent counsel that wish to stop off at Indianapolis to instruct the Governor in—constitutional laws. Let us have peace.

Marriage Licenses—The following marriage licenses were issued from the Clerk's office during November:

J W Campbell and Manda Love, David Treesh and Ella J Leighty, Uriah J Davis and Mary Jennings, Levi Freed and Hannah A Crawford, Chas W Widney and M Sechler, Peter Draggon and Hattie C Knauer, Henry Beidler and Hattie L Unger, Robt Davis and R E Pilkington, Ella Wilmott Florance D Coburn, Saml Hood and Jennie McQuillen, Chas Smith and P Campbell, Wm F Holden and Mary A Garver, Alex DeVilbiss and Margaret J Dilly James P Pillars and Sarah A Butler, S Martin and Emma Trait, Hiram Steel and Susie Hart, Adam H Stroh and Ella Hemstreet, Geo W Ottis and Susannah Norris, Jas F Reed and Mary H Abbott, Byron B. Case and C E Staley, Daniel Turner and Mary E Kelham, Solomon Link and Mary McKnterfer, Geo W Crocker and Ella B Baird.

Examination of Teachers.

No further regular examination will be held until March, as the the teachers for the winter schools are nearly, or quite, all engaged; and I wish to have all my time for institute work. But should any require examination, time and place can be settled by applying to me.

James A. Barns, Co., Supt.
Waterloo, Nov 28, 1874.

Court Next Week.

Circuit Court convenes next Monday, Judge Best presiding. There will be over 200 cases on the docket.

As a great many of our friends through out the county will be in attendance, we hope those indebted to the Courier, will bring along sufficient cash to pay up promptly. We want all those indebted for a year or more to square up by the first of the year, as we cannot wait any longer, and all accounts not settled will be placed in proper hands for collection.

One of the greatest institutions in Fort Wayne, and, in fact, in the State, is the mammoth Fruit House, on Berry street. Strangers visiting the city are directed to it with pride, and the lively scene presented, like that of a Donnybrook Fair, never fails to interest the casual observer.—Here all the table luxuries of the world are displayed in endless variety, while all the articles that enter into household consumption, are offered at the lowest prices. Hundreds visit it every day, purchase and marvel at the cheapness of everything.—Capt. White seems to be eclipsing all former efforts in the display of a larger and more extensive stock, bidding defiance to the world in low prices. See new price list in another column.

A Chicago daily amuses and interests its readers with the following proposition. Any number of figures you may wish to multiply by 5 will give the same result if divided by two—a much quicker operation; but you must remember to annex an 0 to the answer when there is no remainder, and when there is a remainder, whatever it may be, annex a 5 to the answer. Multiply 464 by 5, and the answer will be 2,320; divide the same by 2, and you have 232, and, as there is no remainder, you add a 0. Now take 359, multiply by 5, the answer is 1,795: and dividing this by 2, there is 179 and a remainder; you therefore place a 5 at the end of the line, and the result is 1,795.

Real Estate Transfers.

Furnished by Rose & Hartman, attorneys at law, who have the only abstract of title in the county. Deeds and mortgages to be good against subsequent bona fide purchasers or mortgagees must be recorded within ninety days from their execution. Chattle mortgages within ten days. Mechanics' liens within 60 days from commencement of building or furnishing of material.

J W McKay to J Hebel mid pt lot 27 O P Auburn $650

C Haines to A Porter e ½ of s e ¼ and pt s½ of n e¼ sec 1 Wilmington $7150

E W Fosdick to D C Headly lot 234 Eg. ad Butler 1000.

A Porter to Chas Deaces lot 36 D ad Butler $3500

L Spangler to A J Stahl lot 12 Auburn Junction $100

John Jenkins A Rhoback 20a in e½ of n e¼ sec 19 Wilmington $700

M Askey to John Jenkins about 6a near Waterloo in s e¼ sec 3 Union $1500.

E Kuhlman to F Palon lot 35 K ad Auburn $525

(Iowa State Register, Oct. 30)

Gov. Carpenter's Endorsement of Andreas' Iowa State Atlas.

STATE OF IOWA.
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.
DES MOINES, Oct. 28, 1874.

To Whom it May Concern.—I have examined the proof sheets of the Minnesota Illustrated Historical Atlas, by Capt. A. T. Andreas, of Chicago, and I regard it as a work of superior merit, and it seems to me any citizen of Minnesota could hardly do without. I understand from Mr. E. C. Phelps that Capt. Andreas is now taking the preliminary steps preparatory to publishing a similar Atlas of Iowa, with such improvements as past experience in this business naturally suggests to his mind. Having known Mr. Andreas intimately and well for many years, I have no hesitation in assuring all who may read this that he will do all he proposes, and that the public will find his work fully equal to the promises of his circular and advertisements.

C. C. Carpenter.

Work has already commenced in this county for a similar map for the State of Indiana. It will be voluminous and complete, and the engravings of the finest description. It will embrace census reports, of the state for years back, statistics of all kinds, illustrative of the development of the State's resources, drawings of all the cities and chief towns of the State, charts, showing the density of population Each county will be shown by maps occupying a whole page, in which township, town and section will be given, together with the location of each schoo-house, church &c. The Senatorial, Congressional and Judicial districts of the State will be given, and many other features that have never been offered in a work of this kind before. It will contain about everything desirable and worth knowing in regard to the State. It will contain a handsome engraving of the principal towns in the State and the photographs of our great men. Canvassers will be employed in each county to solicit orders for the work and a copy should be in every household.

Rock Salt, Buckwheat Flour, at Beard's.

New Price List.

C. Beugnot & Co., of the Stave Factory announce the following prices for Stave Bolts to take effect Dec. 1st, 1874:

Oak Stave Bolts, per cord	$3 50
Elm " "	2 50
Ash Heading Bolts No. 1	4 00
" " No. 2	3 50
Bass or Cotton Wood No 1	3 00
" " " 2	2 50
Sycamore Headings	2 50

3t

For Sale or Rent.—A neat and commodious dwelling in the lower part of town for sale cheap. Apply to C. F. Maded.
46tf.

HERE'S SOMETHING NOVEL.

A Chance for Somebody to win a $500 City Lot in Rockhill's Addition.
Tickets Given Away.

A novel idea in the way of advertising has been brought to our notice by Messrs Sam Pete and Max, managers of the noted Star Clothing house. They propose to to distribute a thousand tickets between this and January 1st 1875. No one is asked to buy these tickets, or pay for them, in any way. It is simply a new method of advertising their establishment

The lucky ticket will be determined by the Mayor of the city, before a number of prominent citizens. All the numbers from 1 to 1000 will be placed in a wheel which will be shaken up, and the committee can decide whether the first or any preceeding number shall win the $500 prize, lot No. 69 corner Mechanic and Walnut streets Rockhill's 2d addition.—Every purchaser of clothing to the amn't of ten dollars (10) will receive a ticket the purchaser selecting any number he desires.

No person will, under any circumstances, be allowed more than one ticket.

The clear title deed, paid in full, can be seen at the Star Clothing House No. 5 East Main st. Ft. Wayne Ind.

To Contractors.

JAIL BUILDING.

Auditor's Office
Auburn, Indiana, December 3rd, 1874.

Sealed proposals will be received at the Auditor's Office in Auburn, Indiana, until

JANUARY 15th, 1875,

at noon, for the furnishing of all material and labor required in the construction and completion of a jail in Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, according to plans and specifications furnished by T. J. Tolan & Son of Delphos, Ohio.

Plans and specifications can be seen at the Auditor's office in Auburn on and after this date

The work is required to be completed by the 1st of November 1875.

All proposals must be accompanied by a certified bond in the sum of $1000 that the bidder or bidders will give the proper bond if awarded the contract. And no bid will be accepted unless such bond accompanies the bid.

The contractors will be paid in monthly estimates as the work progresses.

The Commissioners reserve the right to accept or reject any and all bids.

By order of the Commissioners.
ISAAC HAGUE, Auditor.

Surveyor's Notice.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested that the County Surveyor will at my request proceed to survey, locate, relocate, establish and re-establish all lines and corners in and adjoining section twenty-four [24] township thirty-three [33] north of range fourteen [14] east, and that said Surveyor will meet such interested persons at the south west corner of said section on Tuesday, December 15th, 1874 at 8 o'clock am.

JOHN F. COBURN, Applicant.
J. J. VAN AUKEN, County Surveyor.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb County Circuit Court, the undersigned Administrator of the estate of Fredrick E. Rohm, deceased will offer for sale at auction on the premises, on Saturday December 5th, 1874, town lot No. three (3) in Ensley's 1st addition to the town of Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana.

Terms—One third cash in hand, the residue in two equal payments at twelve and eighteen months, with notes at interest, waiving valuation and appraisement laws and secured by mortgage on the premises. Sale to begin at 2 o'clock pm.

JOHN TREESH, Adm'r.

Notice of Sale.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court the undersigned administrator of the estate of Samuel Hurnie, deceased, will offer for sale at auction on the premises on an equal undivided two third of the following described land: The northeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section twenty eight [28] township thirty-three [33] north of range thirteen [13] east in DeKalb County, Indiana.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 5th, 1874,

TERMS—One third cash, the residue in equal payments at 12 and 18 months, with notes at interest, waiving benefit of appraisement laws, and security by mortgage on the premises. Sale to begin at 2 o'clock pm. on said day.

JAMES G. LAWHEAD, Adm'r.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a DECREE to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court in a cause wherein John K. Evans is Plaintiff and Robert Bell, Margaret Bell and Evern Jones are Defendants requiring me to make the sum of nine hundred and twenty-two dollars and forty cents, with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at public sale to the highest bidder

ON SATURDAY, DEC. 5th, 1874,

between the hours of 10 o'clock am. and 4 o'clock pm. of said day, at the door of the Court House of DeKalb County, Indiana, the rents and profits, for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit:

The north half of the northwest quarter of section seventeen (17) in township thirty-three [33] north of range twelve [12] east, in DeKalb County, Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interests and costs, I will at the same time and place, expose at public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs.

Sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation and appraisement laws.

W. L. MEESE, Sheriff.

Auburn, Indiana, Nov. 12, 1874.
D. STUDABAKER, Atty for Plff.
$10 50

Colorado Excursions—Go West Thro St. Louis.

During the Summer Season, the Missouri Pacific and Kansas Pacific Through Line, via St. Louis and Kansas City, will sell Excursion Tickets from St. Louis to Denver and Return, good ninety days from date of sale, at extremely low rates thus affording every one an excellent opportunity to visit the famous resorts of Colorado, among the beautiful Parks of the Rocky Mountains.

To all who are seeking new homes and are about to take a trip to Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Nebraska, Oregon or California, we recommend a cheap, safe, quick and direct route by the way of St. Louis, over the Missouri Pacific Through Line. It is equipped with fine day Coaches, Buck's Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman's Palace Sleepers the famous Miller Safety Platform and the celebrated Westinghouse Air Brake and runs its trains from St. Louis to principal points in the West without change. The Texas connection of this road is now completed and passengers are offered a first-class all-rail route from St. Louis to Texas, either over the Missouri, Kansas & Texas R. R., via Sedalia, or over the Atlantic & Pacific R. R., via Vinita.

For full information in regard to Colorado Excursions, or trips to any point in the Great West, address or call upon either of the following named Agents of the Line: J. F. Thompson, 155 Exchange St. Buffalo, N. Y.; S. H. Thompson, Union Depot, Columbus Ohio; or E. A. Ford Gen'l Passenger Agent, 25 South Fourth Street St. Louis. Questions will be cheerfully and promptly answered.

Tittea keeps the best brand of cigars in town. Try them.

NOTICE TO HEIRS OF PETITION TO SELL REAL ESTATE.

State of Indiana DeKalb County: Notice is hereby givin that John Martz Administrator Bonus non of Estate of Charles Ahrens, deceased has filed his petition to sell the Real Estate of the decedent, his personal being insufficient to pay his debts; and that said petition will be heard at the next term of Circuit Court of said county.

J. R. Lanning Clerk.

NOTICE TO STOCKHOLDERS.

NOTICE is hereby given to the Stockholders of the North-Eastern Indiana Agricultural Association, that the Annual Meeting of the Stockholders of said Association will be held at the Engine House at Waterloo DeKalb County Indiana, at 2 o'clock p. m. on Monday January 4, 1875. Business of importance will come before the meeting, including the election of officers.

ALSO

That the books of said Association will be closed [illegible] for the issuing of Shares. All those having unclaimed accrued dividends are requested to call at the Secretary's Office, and procure certificates of stock in lieu of the same. By order of the Executive Committee.

JAMES L. CHAMBERLAIN, President.
JOHN BUTT Secretary.
Waterloo, Indiana, December 3, 1874.

$100.........PER MONTH.........$100.

Agents are making $100 per month selling the Howe Sewing Machines. Liberal commissions paid to live, energetic men, to canvass. Apply to R. S. Kester, Auburn. 46t4.

The Pioneer

HARDWARE!

Emporium!

Now full to overflowing with an immense stock of

HEAVY AND SHELF

Hardware, Cutlery, Tin Ware.

I would call special attention to my department of

HARDWARE,
FURNISHING & BUIDERS STOCK,

in which will be found everything at the very

LOWEST PRICES,

Such as:—

OILS, PAINTS,
GLASS,
NAILS,
SASH,
DOORS, ETC.

—A FIST-CLASS—

Tin-Shop,

In connection with the Hardware Store, with a skillful foreman. All kinds of Tin-ware manufactured and repaired on short notice.

JOHN L. DAVIS,

THE NEW

Drug Store!

FRESH DRUGS,

Medicines, Chemicals, Spices,

Dyes,
Combs,
Brushes,
Perfumery,
Proprietary Articles,
Fancy Goods, &c., &c

Wines and Liquors!

For Medical purposes only.

Stock New, prices to suit the times at the

NEW DRUG STORE,

Wood's old Stand!

Seventh St. Auburn, Ind.

Littlefield Bros.

Physicians prescriptions desperred from pure medicines, day and night.

FAMILY READING.

BY ORPHEUS C. KERR.

An American male parent, unto his babies said he "Come hither, pretty little ones, and sit on either knee,
And tell me what you've lately heard your mother read, and me."

In his fatherly assurance, and fond parental way,
He wanted to discover what the innocents would say
About a missionary-book they'd heard the other day.

Full of glee spake young Alonzo, all legs and curly hair:
"You yead about the man they hung, and all the people there;
And mamma yead the funny part of how it made him swear."

Joining quickly in," cried Minnie—all waist and dimpled neck:
"It wasn't half so funny, though, as that about the check
They caught somebody forging, 'cause he was so green, I 'speck."

"But the thing I liked the bestest," Alonzo piped [illegible]
"Was how somebody runned away, and won't come back again,
And took somebody's wife with him upon a yail-yoad train."

"Then you wasn't list'ning, 'Lonzo," came swift from Minnie, small.
"When papa read about the girl that tookt her only shawl,
And wrapt a baby up in it, and left it in a hall."

"Oh, I wa'n't, hey?" trilled Alonzo, dismayed to be outdone;
"I'm go'n to learn to yead, myself; and you can have the Sun;
And I'll yead Herald 'Personals,' and never tell you one!"

The American male parent, his hair rose on end;
On either knee an infant form he did reverse and bend,
And from their little mouths straitway made dismal howls ascend.

—The Graphic.

CALEVAR.

A Tale of Cuban Vengeance.

The approaching marriage of Isa Cantelvar, the wealthy belle of Havana, was no secret in the Cuban capital. Her Spanish lover, a lineal descendant of the fierce subduer of the Aztecs, old Herman Cortez, was crossing the ocean to claim his love, and great preparations for the event were going on at the Cantelvar mansion, whose foundation was washed by the waters of the gulf.

Isa was very beautiful, and her accomplishments were of the highest order. The only child of a man who was proud of his name and of her face; she had been petted but I will not say spoiled. Her jewels were as remarkable as her beauty, and it was rumored that Senor Cantelvar had purchased some of ex-Queen Isabella's gems for his daughter's nuptials. This rumor was pretty generally believed, and many fashionable people went to the mansion hoping to catch a glimpse of the stones that had once glittered on the bosom of royalty. But the curiosity seekers were disappointed; they saw no ex-Spanish gems.

In due time, a vessel landed the Castilian lover on Cuban soil, and the great event—Isa's marriage—neared its consummation.

Among the many people who had witnessed the lover's debarkation, was a tall, dark featured man, about forty years of age. He was remarkably handsome; his eyes were dark and lustrous, and his mouth was shaded by the silken hairs of a mustache. He wore the undress uniform of a Captain in the Spanish navy, which was not needed to give him a commanding appearance. His whole bearing indicated a firmness of purpose, a stubbornness of will, that would listen to no arguments, and a daring that would shrink from no undertaking.

He stood apart from all other people watching the debarkation of the Vulture's passengers. The soft tropical twilight hung over the island capital; but he could see the faces of the passengers quite distinctly.

Suddenly he started, and mechanically his right hand clenched vengefully. There was a rising and falling of the mustache, as if the unseen lips had opened and closed again, and the eyes were assuming an animated brilliancy.

The cause of this strange commotion was a man who had just stepped upon the pier.

He stood scarcely twenty feet from the Captain, and his face was plainly discernible.

A handsome man he was. There was the stamp of nobility on his face, and he bore a resemblance to certain portraits of Cortez still extant. He was watching the debarkation of numerous trunks that bore the name of Don Cortez d'Alvaro.

But by and by he turned away, and hailed the driver of a violante.

"It is he!" muttered the Captain, speaking audibly for the first time. "He is the chosen lover of Senorita Isa. His trunks are full of jewels no doubt."

And then a develish laugh rippled over the unseen lips.

He watched the violante until it vanished from sight, when he walked forward and began to inspect the trunks. They numbered quite a score, and some were small but heavily bound. He walked among them carelessly as it were, but noticed everything, and all at once he burt forth with—

"Five trunks full of jewels! Why they would make a don out of Calevar."

A moment later he walked away, closely followed by a dwarfish man who had the peculiar gait of the sailor. Though the Captain walked fast, the sailor gained on him, and as he was about to enter a hotel a hand touched his elbow.

The tall man turned quickly, and peered down into the distorted face.

"And so you are here?" he said in melodious Spanish. "Where have you been?"

"To the wharf."

The Captain's eyes glistened—

"He came—"

"With five trunks of jewels for his bride."

"But she shall never wear them."

"No."

"Good! Come to my room. I want to show you something."

The two men passed into the narrow hall and ascended a stairway to a room. In the center of this apartment stood a table on which lay an elegant sword of genuine Toledo workmanship. On the sheath, elegantly worked, was the name "Calevar," and the blade bore the inscription: "From the Queen to Calevar." Above the single bed hung the gorgeous dress uniform of a Spanish naval commander, and a pair of splendid boots stood under the table.

All this was revealed when the room was lighted up, and Calevar threw himself into a chair beside the table, and drew a paper from an inner pocket.

Unrolling it he disclosed to the eyes of the dwarf—who perched upon a stool was bending over the table like a monkey—the complicated plan of a house.

"Here is the Gulf," said Calevar, touching a shaded place with his finger. You will wait for me here. You see I have designated the exact spot. You cannot miss it. Long ago, some person—Calevar's father perhaps—drove a huge staple into the wall. It is there. See it. You cannot miss it. It is beneath that staple that you will await for my signal."

The dwarf looked up, and smiling hideously, nodded.

"Can't you fail, senor Captain?"

"Fail? No!" said Calevar. "I know the interior of the house. I can go directly to the treasure room, and, so sure as there's a God in heaven, I'll show you the girl's jewels on my own deck. She wouldn't marry Calevar. If she marries D'Alvaro, she will do so jewelless. Ah! this, Domargo, is Calevar's revenge!"

He laughed devilishly, and in that laugh the chattering of the dwarf joined. Then several bottles of wine were produced from a sideboard, and the twain drank long and deep.

It was midnight when Domargo, the sailor dwarf, left the room. He stole out quietly, for Calevar was asleep. The wine had affected him.

"For twelve years Domago has served Calevar," said the dwarf, when he again found himself on the deserted streets. "He has sailed with him to other worlds biding his time. That time is very near at hand. Calevar does not think that Domargo is the brother of the little girl he made his wife in Barcelona, and then murdered on shipboard."

The last words, full of hellish revenge, dropped in hisses from the repulsive lips of the dwarf, and at last he lost himself among the shipping in the harbor.

And Calevar, the revengeful, the covetous, the rejected lover of Isa Cantelvar, slumbered on, never dreaming that the dwarf who had served him so faithfully for twelve years, was delivering him over to a fate, from the contemplation of which the mind would shrink with horror.

It was the night before Isa Cantelvar's wedding.

The hour was twelve, and Havana slept on the edge of the Gulf.

Not a sound came from the old house so soon to resound with marriage music, and with the groans of one doomed to a living death.

The fair Isa, no doubt, was sleeping away her last maiden hours, for the day soon to dawn was to see her a bride before it departed.

The sky was covered with opaque clouds. Not a star was visible, for the rifts, if there were any, were as black as the clouds.

Therefore, the crouching figure that crossed the flower garden was not perceived. It seemed a man, yet it had the motion of an animal.

It paused before a low door in the eastern wing of the Cantelvar mansion and listened.

The wash of the waves against the walls was the only sound that came to the solitary being. Then it struck the door twice, and the portal opened noiselessly, and closed again. But the night prowler was not to be seen without; he was within the mansion.

The person who had admitted him seemed to be a small man. The person admitted was tall and wore a mask that effectually concealed his features.

"You can find your way now?" asked the traitor.

"Yes; give me the light."

The dark taper was placed in his hands.

"You have the keys," said the traitor. "May the Virgin speed you; I will be at the wharf. We sail to-night."

"Yes, to-night. Be there!"

A moment later the tall man moved off, leaving the other watching him and his light.

More than one long corridor the masked one traveled, and the silence of death was about him. His feet gave forth no sound, for they were encased in nothing but short Cuban hose, and there were no obstacles in his path. The ornamented butts of the pistols visible just above his belt told that he was prepared for an emergency, and his left hand clutched the hilt of a dagger whose blade was hidden in his sleeve.

At last he paused before a door much smaller than any he had encountered in the house, and its heavy locks told that it led to a room where valuable treasure lay.

The mask listened a long time at the door before he tried to open it. He knew that he was underground, for the stone floor on which he stood was quite damp, and the walls about him were covered with icy sweat. The curiously shaped key that he drew from his pocket opened the little door, and the night prowler found himself in a small room.

Closing the door gently he soon produced a stronger light, and the glare that suddenly dazzled his eyes almost sent him to the floor.

A table stood in the center of the treasure room, and on that table were the treasures for which he had seemingly entered the Cantelvar mansion.

There were necklaces of diamonds and tiaras of rubies; bracelets of pearls and pins of emeralds; head-dresses of beaten gold, studded with precious stones, and rings whose value seemed incalculable. He stood before Isa Cantelvar's wedding gifts!

About him on the floor was the old Cuban's wealth—coffers full of doubloons, safes well stored with precious stones. The five small trunks which Capt. Calevar had noticed on the pier were there, but they were empty. The jewels they had carried across the ocean glittered on the table.

For many minutes the mask stared at the array of wealth, and then, as if to test the reality of things, he approached and took up a costly necklace.

"She shall never wear this!" he said after a moment's inspection, and then the costly bauble disappeared beneath his doublet.

A tiara of beautiful rubies followed the necklace, and then rings, bracelets and other rich personal ornaments disappeared. He discarded many rich things with the discrimination of a lapidary, and when he was about to turn away, he laughed.

"I can't take any of your doubloons, Senor Cantelvar!" he said. "They are very pretty, very good, but your daughter's wealth is more portable. I [illegible] I carry about four hundred thousand doubloons' worth of pebbles on my person. Ha! ha! Isa wouldn't marry Calevar!"

He put his hand on the door, when the slightest of noises startled him.

"Calevar!"

At the sound of his name he turned quickly, and faced six men with drawn pistols.

Had they sprung from the floor of the treasure room?

There stood old Senor Cantelvar, and his lips were still quivering with the name just spoken.

Beside the Cuban stood the youth who had lately landed from the Vulture. The mask did not drop his taper and turn for flight. On the contrary, he said, "Wait!" and looked into the muzzles of the pistols without a tremor.

"We know you!" said Senor Cantelvar.

"And I know you!" was the rejoinder.

"You came thither for the wedding gifts."

"And I have got them!"

"Do you expect to keep them?"

"No—not now!"

"Advance and put them on the table."

Calevar advanced without hesitation, and his hand crept to his bosom. But it did not draw a single diamond thence. It came forth empty, but the next instant it was filled by the butt of a pistol. He raised it quickly, and Senor Cantelvar went to the floor.

The next moment there were sounds of struggling in the treasure room, and when they grew still Calevar, with the mask stripped from his handsome Spanish face, sat in a great iron arm-chair.

Strong ropes bound him to the seat, and iron bands fastened his feet to the floor.

The table groaned beneath the most palatable of Cuban viands, and a rich candelabrum, suspended from the ceiling, revealed the sumptuous board. There was numerous bottles of Spanish and island wines on the table; but he could not touch one with his outstretched arm. Piled up on either side of him were chests of Spanish doubloons, and the doors of iron safes were open revealing the glittering wealth of more than one mine. He groaned when he comprehended his situation, and then he cursed till his tongue refused to blaspheme longer.

"This is your fate Capt. Calevar," said Senor Cantelvar's well-known voice. "You sought wealth and you have it. What you see is yours. You are welcome to take it away. You'll find the wine the best. There are two bottles of your favorite Catalonia, and two of thirty-five year Madeira. Pleasand dreams to you, Senor Captain!"

The silence that followed was awful.

"If Domargo knew this!" cried Calevar. "Holy Virgin! where is the dwarf?"

A hellish laugh answered him.

"Dormargo is here!" said the dwarf's voice. "He is Vinities' brother! Ha! ha! ha! Good-by Captain! The Sea Cross will sail this time without you."

"Betrayed!" groaned the doomed man, and for the first time his bravery deserted him.

He fainted in the iron chair.

The next day there was the sound of merry voices far above him. Angels seemed to be singing to him in hell.

By and by the sounds ceased. Isa Cantelvar was a bride!

No sounds now but the wash of the gulf waves against the walls of the treasure room.

Days came and went.

The bottles on the table grew moldy; the oranges rotted; the delicacies spoiled; the candelabrum's light went out; but there was a grinning man in the iron chair. The Sea Cross sailed away without him.

A year ago that terrible room was opened. A skeleton seated in an iron chair told the story of Cuban vengeance.

How to Make Mischief.

Keep your eye on your neighbors. Take care of them. Do not let them stir without watching. They may do something wrong if you do. To be sure, you never knew them to do anything bad, but it may be on your account they have not. Perhaps if it had not been for your kind care, they might have disgraced themselves a long time ago. Therefore do not relax any effort to keep them where they ought to be. Never mind your own business—that will take care of itself. There is a man passing along—he is looking over the fence—be suspicious of him; perhaps he contemplates stealing, some of these dark nights, there is no knowing what queer fancies may have got into his head.

If you find any symptoms of any one passing out of the path of duty, tell every one else what you see, and be particular to see a great many. It is a good way to circulate such things, though it may not benefit yourself particularly. Do keep something going—silence is a dreadful thing; though it is said there was silence in heaven for the space of half an hour, do not let any such thing occur on earth, it would be too much for this mundane sphere.

MISTAKEN ADVERTISING. — An exchange expresses the opinion that the public can be better reached through the columns of a newspaper of a fair circulation than through all the other mediums, costly circulars, cards, posters, give-aways and jimcracks put together. The old-established county newspaper is, after all, the only general, judicious medium for advantageous advertising. A thousand doors are opened to welcome it; a thousand messengers are weekly seeking the Post-office to receive it; a thousand families look for its coming, and ten thousand read it when it does come, advertisements and all. There is much truth in this. The thousands of dollars wasted annually upon expensive almanacs, circulars and other questionable methods of advertising, which, in company with Patent Office reports, find their way to the junk-shop, would render very material aid toward the support of numbers of deserving papers, and also return something in the way of profit to the advertiser.

A Man Slaughters One Hundred Striped Snakes.

Last spring Will Moody moved out of his log house in Union Grove, and it stood unoccupied and desolate for several weeks, but last July Ed. Asher purchased the property and moved into the old house to stop only while he could build a new frame house.

He had hardly settled his family in their new quarters before they had a practical demonstration that there were occupants there before them, who evidently looked upon the new comers as intruders, and these old settlers were snakes! The little striped garter-snakes.

The first night in the house, there was a great rustling on the floor like the pattering of myriads of mice, but it was mice not that made the noise; it was the sound from dozens of snakes as they dragged themselves across the floor. Delightful!

In the morning Mr. A. used to get up, shake the reptiles out of his clothes, grasp a pitchfork and pitch the slimy devils out of doors. It was no uncommon thing to kill half a dozen in the morning. The second and third days were worse than the first. At breakfast one morning Mr. A. felt something crawling up his leg, and, glancing downward, found a beautiful little striped fellow working his way up in the world. Another time he found a three-foot fellow in his overcoat pocket, who greeted him on his approach with a friendly kiss.

This nuisance became intolerable. The house was old and the mortar in the clinking had given away in many places, and in the evening no sooner was the lamp lighted than a serenade of hisses would begin, and nearly every one of the holes would be ornamented with a snake's head. At the end of the fourth day, Mr. Asher grasped his shovel and went to the banking of the house, a mass of straw and dirt that had not been moved for several years, and here were their snakeships in all their glory. It was a perfect massacre, for in that banking he found and killed an even hundred garter snakes. Thirty were found in one nest.

There's a scarcity of the serpent around Mr. A.'s farm now.—Litchfield (Minn.) Ledger.

Wonderful Curiosity.

The British ship Scindia, Capt. Geo. Harrison, arrived here a few days since from Calcutta, having on board one of the most remarkable natural curiosities the world has probably ever seen. It consists of a short-horned, sacred Brahmin bull, born in Nepaul, Northern India, in 1871, and imported here by Capt. William Dennison Folger, formerly of this city, but latterly a resident of Calcutta. The bull itself is a remarkable curiosity, and is one of that description of animals held in great reverence by the natives of India, on account of its traditional sacred character. But in this case a novel lusus naturæ renders it a most singular creature. The brute portion is symmetrically formed with a glossy coat of fawn colored hair and well-shaped body and limbs. But protruding, as it were, from the left side of the hump on the back of the neck of the animal, is a wonderful and regularly-shaped, in nearly all respects, human arm. The deltoid and triceps and biceps muscles are well developed, particularly the latter; the joint at the elbow is flexible, the forearm rather attenuated, the wrist as fully flexible as in the human arm proper, while the hand is composed of four distinctly marked fingers, two of them connected together. The extraordinary appendage to an otherwise well-formed body does not appear to give the creature any inconvenience or pain, generally hanging listlessly by its side, except when it is angered or annoyed, when the arm raises as if its possessor felt inclined to "strike from the shoulder." The animal is quite healthy, enjoys a ravenous appetite, the nice grass of its native clime being its favorite food, and does not seem to have suffered any bodily injury by its long sea voyage. If not disposed of in this country, we learn that it is the intention of the importer to take the creature to England, and secure it a place in the London Zoological Gardens, where such novelties are highly prized. It would prove a unique attraction to the natural curiosities in our Central Park. It has already been visited on the Scindia by several scientific gentlemen of this city and Brooklyn, where the ship lies, near he Fulton ferry.—New York Herald.

A British State Secret Out.

Official circles in England are agitated just now by the fact that a secret for which Mr. Gladstone's government paid a heavy price appears to have been resold to the German government. For the exclusive knowledge of how to make the destructive "fish" torpedo the sum of $80,000 was paid, and the manufacture of this new engine of naval warfare has been going on at Woolwich with the most careful secrecy, the slightest allusion to it being tabooed. The German Admiralty, however, has paid to an Englishman, who claims to be the inventor of the torpedo, a very large sum for the secret of its manufacture, and experiments with the torpedo have been made in the presence of the Emperor. The British authorities do not believe that the thing has been twice invented, and is persuaded that some person employed at Woolwich has proved treacherous.

Boston Sugar Trade.

The sugar trade of Boston, according to the Journal, exceeds that of any other kind of business. The following figures show the receipts at that port in nine months of 1873 and 1874: 1873, 56,170 hogsheads, 571,245 bags and baskets, 7,990 boxes; 1874, 80,195 hogsheads, 283,201 bags and baskets, 8,851 boxes. By this it will be seen that while the hogsheads have increased 30,005 in number, or nearly 100 small cargoes, the bags and baskets have declined from 1873 more than one-half. Last year the receipts of India sugars were immense, and the importations resulted in enormous losses to all purchasers. This has caused almost a cessation of purchasers in these quarters this year, although the receipts of nearly 300,000 packages in nine months of 1874 was fully up to the average.

THE Prophet is failing. He cannot expect to B. Young forever.

The Princess Souvoroff.

One of the best-known characters seen at the Continental gambling places—Wiesbaden, Baden-Baden, Hombourg-es-Bains, Ems, and Monaco—was a lady of prepossessing appearance, whose bold play, and calm nonchalance at losing fortune, made her the observed of all observers. The lady, who was called Princess Souvoroff, made her entree to the Kursaal of Monaco regularly whenever the cold season set in in the northern part of Europe, and left that place again as soon as the swallows flew northward, to seek the green table of a cooler clime. Her history is well worthy of being chronicled.

A child of parents of the middle class in Russia, she received an education to fit her for being governess of rich people's children. There lived a widower-millionaire in St. Petersburg, Col. Nicolajeff, who had a little son; and after looking some time for some one to teach his child, he engaged this young lady. She must have filled her place to perfection; for, after but a short stay in the house of the Colonel, she became his wife. Fortune continued to favor her afterwards; for death freed her, within a year after her marriage, from a husband who was old enough to be her grandfather.

"L'appetit vient en mangeant;" and that does not apply to victuals only. For the ci-devant governess, now millionaire, was not satisfied with the position which she had so luckily gained at an early age, but wanted to reach that climax of all aspirations which smoulders in the breasts of [illegible] subjects of a monarch. She wan[illegible] have a title and belong to the no[illegible]. It was that wish which made h[illegible] refuse the offers of many ardent admirers; and at last she found a way to reach her aim. One of the descendants of the old family of Souvoroff, who was very poor, unmarried, and 75 years of age, was induced, by an annuity of $15,000 paid to him by her, to meet her in church for the purpose of marrying her, giving her his name, and immediately departing wherever he wished on the condition of never coming near his wife again. The ceremony was held, the contracts signed, and the new-fledged Princess left the church proud of her name.

Not being able to make the true-blue blood open their doors to the parvenu member of the aristocracy, the Princess left Russia for travels through Europe, which consisted chiefly visits to the gambling establishments, as stated above.

Her extravagance was astonishing. At Monaco, during the winter of 1868-9, she broke the bank several times, and still she was obliged to sell her villa at Nice in order to be able to satisfy her longing for play. She signed the deed in the ante-room of the gambling establishment, at half-past 3 o'clock in the afternoon—knowing that her little son was lying seriously ill in a room of the very villa which she sold. With the money which she received she went to play, and, being lucky, she won in a short time 300,000 francs; and bought back her charming place on the "Promenade Anglais," at 5 o'clock of the same day, by paying a bonus of $30,000.

It happened many times that she lost all the money which she had in her capacious pockets, generally constituting a fortune in itself, and she calmly went across the garden of the Kursaal to an obliging jeweler, who furnished her money on her depositing her diamonds, which were of enormous value. Some days she pawned and redeemed her bijoux four or five times,—always playing with the advanced money, winning, redeeming, losing, and pawning again.

One day, when she had lost all, pawned all, and no friend was near to lend her money, she was not too proud to accept the offer of an admiring waiter of the Hotel de Paris, which she entered to take tea, and who laid his savings, 10,000 francs, at her feet. She accepted the money with a smile of thanks, went back to play, broke the bank, and repaid the waiter so abundantly that he was enabled to buy one of the best hotels in the place, which he possesses now.

But the catastrophe which overtake all habitual gamblers did not fail to reach her, and the day came when there was nothing more left to pawn or sell, and no friends to help her. One of the principal reasons of her distress was a peremptory order of the Russian Emperor not to send any more of the revenues to the eccentric Princess, though he did not wish to interfere in her management of her fortune, any further than to prevent its being spent in a senseless manner out of her country. The bank of Monaco showed itself sufficiently gallant not to leave one of its best clients in distress, and presented the Princess with a draft of 25,000 francs to enable her to journey homeward, a wiser if not a better woman.

The closing of all those gambling establishments, except Monaco, by order of the respective governments, now compels the Princess to do without her favorite pastime, at least during the summer-season.

Journalism as a Profession.

The Secretary of the Treasury, in a decision rendered has given the profession of journalism a new distinction. He has recognized it as one of the learned professions, to be ranked, at least so far as classification in the tariff laws goes, with medicine, jurisprudence, and theology. An American journalist, who was returning from Europe, bringing with him a considerable quantity of books, amounting in value to several hundred dollars, for use in his own library, claimed that the books were entitled to be entered duty free as a portion of his professional journal library. He bases this application upon that section in the customs laws which makes provision for the free importation of books for the use of a library of a physician, a lawyer, and a clergyman. The Custom-House officers at Baltimore, at which port the books were imported, decided that journalism is not a profession, and that these books could not be imported under that provision. An appeal was taken to the Secretary of the Treasury, who has decided that journalism is a profession to such an extent as will give a journalist the advantages of this provision of the law.

All Sorts.

IT costs only half a cent a mile to go to Europe.

THE more honesty a man has, the less he affects the air of a saint.

OLIVE HARPER, a gossipping American newspaper correspondent, has just been married to a French Marquis.

UPON reaching the age of 16, the average Italian youth is called upon to elect whether he will join the clergy or the brigands.

JOAQUIN MILLER says he don't know how soon he is coming back to America. Don't start until you have meditated well on the subject, Joaquin.

IT is stated that among persons of eighteen and under, the proportion of the illiterate is smaller in San Francisco than in any other large city in the Union.

A FOUR-YEAR OLD child in Tuscarora, Pa., has actually died of drunkenness. Its besotted mother fed it with whisky until after weeks of steady intoxication it died.

CAPT. JOHN BOSTON, of Lewis county, Ky., aged 95, and a veteran of the war of 1812, is about to be married. His intended bride is only a year older than himself.

MRS. SCOTT-SIDDONS has left England on a "farewell tour" through India, China, Japan and the United States, and it will take two years to bid everybody adieu.

THE state scrip of Arkansas has rise rapidly in value since the elections an the adoption of the new constitution, and will soon be worth ninety cents on the dollar.

THE English firm of powder manufacturers that owned the cargo which recently exploded with such damaging results a few weeks ago, contributed $500 to the relief fund of the sufferers.

A REMARKABLE instance of the increase in the sale of imported ox tongues is afforded by the trade done at Paysanau, in Uraguay. At this little town, during the last season, about 150,000 ox tongues were packed in hermetically sealed tins and shipped to England.

C. COBB, a printer, while trying to mount his fiery steed upon the streets of St. Louis the other day, was bitten by the other cob upon the arm. A fellow feeling, probably, made the animal wondrous kind. He saw a Cobb, and thinking him "corned," wanted to eat him.

IF a young lady has a brother, and that brother wears a brown felt hat worth $2, and he should come home late at night from seeing some friends, with that hat crushed into "forty-seven" shapes, the young lady should immediately seize it and by strewing a rosette of velvet and some ribbon over it, she will have a hat of the latest style, worth about $10.

THE Marchioness of Thomond, who has just died at 82 years of age, was the widow of a nobleman who used to claim that according to lineal descent, he would be the lawful King of Ireland. The Marquis and Marchioness used to live at Bath, and their equipage was about the best known in that city. The Marquis died some twenty years go. The widow married Rear Admiral Fane, R. N.

An Old Maid's Soliloquy.

"Bachelor Homes" is the latest proposition of philanthropy. We fancy we can hear the venerable maiden across the street remark, as she sips her tea, and strokes her tabby, "Drat them, they don't deserve to have any homes. Here I have been living all these five and—no matter—years alone and unprotected, and so many of those ugly, crusty, male wretches preferring their filthy pipes and their old coats and their latch keys to a comfortable home, and a fair— You may laugh, my cat, but I was one of your handsome girls, before I became the tee-total wreck you see. Homes, forsooth! If I had my way, I'd put them all into a cold cell, beside a tread-mill, and come every day, and look through the grating to see the wretches grin.

LANDLORDS in England who let houses infected with fever are heavily fined by the courts.

REV. E. H. HOPKINS, of Jackson Center, Shelby county, Ohio, says: "My wife had the consumption for ten years, and had been confined to her bed for some time. I heard of Dr. L. Q. C. Wishart's Pine Tree Tar Cordial, and after using four bottles she was able to do the work for her family."

A PROTRUDING toe is not a pretty sight, and is never seen where children wear SILVER-TIPPED Shoes. They will save half your shoe bills. For sale by all dealers.

Wishart's

Pine Tree Tar

Cordial!

Nature's Great

Remedy

FOR ALL

Throat & Lung

Diseases.

For Sale by all Druggists and Storekeepers.

A Murderous Weapon.

The following is taken from a Portland, Oregon, paper: At the office of Wells, Fargo & Co. in this city we were shown a large and savage-appearing knife which, if wielded by reckless hands, would be sufficient to strike terror to the heart of the bravest man in the land. The knife was the property of the desperado Frank Johnson, who was arrested some time ago for robbery committed near Baker City, and recently tried and sentenced to the penitentiary from Baker county. Johnson, in company with an accomplice, was arrested near Winnemucca and brought back in irons. On his person was found the knife in question. The weapon, from appearances, is a fit companion to associate with a man of Johnson's desperate character. The blade is over a foot in length, and, including the handle, is nearly eighteen inches long. The handle is made of buckhorn, strongly riveted to iron, while the blade is very heavy—more than half an inch thick at the back—and made of the best quality of English steel. The point is rather blunt, but the edge is as keen as a razor. This knife will weigh about five pounds, and can be used as a good substitute for a hatchet. To a hunter or a frontiersman such a weapon would be indispensable, as it could be used as an ordinary bowieknife or a hand-ax in hewing a trail through the forest, or cutting wood for a camp fire. In a hand-to-hand encounter such a knife would be sufficient to almost sever an arm or the head from the body. Along the blade is rudely carved the significant words: "Rio Grande Camp Knife," evidently engraven by the owner. It is asserted on good authority that Johnson used it in scalping nine Indians after he had shot them, and also had killed two Mormons with the same weapon. Mr. Paige, who brought Johnson down, is of the opinion that the knife has been employed in taking the lives of perhaps 20 or 30 men, as it is much worn, and appears to have been used for years. There is no telling through how many desperadoes' hands the weapon has passed, or in how many sanguinary border conflicts it has played a conspicuous part. It is incased in a strong leather scabbard. An unwritten history of bloodshed, crime and outlawry is intimately associated with this piece of "jewelry."

The Old Age of Lexington.

Nine miles from Frankfort, on the road to Lexington, stands one of the finest and richest farms in Kentucky—that owned by Mr. Alexander. On this superb stock farm we saw 300 blooded horses, ranging in rank from old "Lexington," the monarch of the turf, to the kittenish and frisky yearling. Here also Mr. Alexander has collected $100,000 worth of cattle, comprising some of the finest stock in the world, and peeping into the inclosure where the costly cattle were kept, we saw one diminutive heifer worth $27,000, and a variety of foreign creatures whose value seemed almost fabulous. On this farm are bred the great majority of fine trotting and running horses which appear in our parks during the racing season. Mr. Alexander's estate, which is admirably stocked with fine farm-houses, barns and stables, and which is more like a ducal manor than the ordinary American farm, extends over 3,200 acres. Near by is old John Harper's modest farm of 2,600 acres. The roads, the stone walls, and the fine lawns covered with massive shade trees, make a series of delightful pictures. The annual sale of horses on the Alexander farm occurs in June. Only yearling colts are sold. Hundreds of people from all the country around, and from every State in the Union, flock to this sale. An immense barbecue is held, and high wassail marks the conclusion of the occasion.

We paid a respectful visit to old Lexington, the mighty sire of a mightier equine family. He is now quite blind, a veteran of 22, afflicted with goitre, and stood gazing in the direction from which our voices came, a melancholy wreck of his former greatness. The princes of the race-course of the present galloped by, neighing and pawing the ground, as if annoyed at our presence. One of them, named Asteroid, so far forgot his princely dignity as to charge incontinently upon the fence where we were seated. The negro men who manage these erratic brutes undergo all sorts of perilous adventures, but they seem to possess as many lives as a cat, and, like that animal, always land on their feet, no matter how far the plunging and rearing horses may throw them.—Edward King, in Scribner's for December.

The Weather.

It is predicted by those who profess to be "weatherwise," if not otherwise, that the extraordinary mildness of the present season will characterize the whole winter; in other words, that the winter of 1874–'5 will bear comparison with some which have "long gone by." Thus, an English chronicle relates that in 1172 the temperature was so high that leaves came out on the trees in January and birds hatched their brood in February. In 1289 the winter was equally mild, and the maidens of Cologne wore wreaths of violets and corn-flowers at Christmas and on Twelfth Day. In 1421 the trees flowered in the month of March, and the vines in the month of April; cherries ripened in the same month, and grapes appeared in May. In 1572 the trees were covered with leaves in January, and the birds hatched their young in February, as in 1172; in 1585 the same thing was repeated, and it is added that the corn was in the ear at Easter. There was in France neither frost or snow throughout the winters of 1538, 1607, 1609, 1617, and 1659; finally, in 1662, even in the north of Germany, the stoves were not lighted, and trees flowered in February. Coming to late dates, the winter of 1846—'7, and that of 1866, the year of the great inundation of the Seine, may be mentioned as exceptionally mild.

Rice Cake.—One cup of rice flour, three eggs, one cup of sugar. Beat the eggs to a standing froth, then add the sugar and beat as much longer or until light; add the rice flour and beat light again. Bake in a quick oven. As there is neither butter nor soda in it, it is a good cake for invalids.

Death of Gloster, the Trotter.

The celebrated trotting horse Gloster died in this city at 11 o'clock noon yesterday. He was the property of Alden B. Goldsmith, Esq., of Goshen, Orange county, New York, was a dark bay gelding, nine years old, and was physically the largest trotter in the United States, standing about 17 hands high. He was sired by Volunteer, and he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian, his dam being by Stockbridge Chief, and was considered by all who knew his points one of the most promising horses in this country. He had a record of 2:17, made at the Rochester Driving Park, Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 17, in a three-in-five race with Red Cloud, Sensation, St. James, Gazelle, and Camors. He made a dead heat with Red Cloud in the first heat in 2:18; won the second in 2:17½; the third in 2:17, and the fourth in 2:19. He was the especial pet and favorite of his owner, who reared him, he being also the owner of Volunteer, Gloster's sire, and it was with great reluctance that he consented to the proposed trip to this coast. Mr. Goldsmith refused an offer of $40,000 for Gloster shortly before the horse left home, and will feel his loss almost as a broker a smash in stock. Gloster arrived in this city about the 17th of this month, in company with the famous trotter Judge Fullerton, having come overland, in charge of Budd Doble, in that gentleman's special car. His disease—lung fever—was contracted en route, and immediately upon his arrival in this city he was placed in the hands of Dr. A. De Tavel, the well known veterinary surgeon, and quartered in the spacious and comfortable stables of Col. John C. Morrison, Jr., that gentleman kindly tendering a stall for his use. Everything that the skill and experience of the veterinarian could suggest was done for him, but without avail. His dead body was taken yesterday afternoon to the track of the Bay District Fair Ground Association, where a post-mortem examination was made by Dr. De Tavel, which disclosed the fact that one lung was almost entirely consumed, and the other comparatively untouched. He will probably be buried within the circle of the course, with the respect due his merits and fame.—San Francisco Call, Oct. 31.

Von Moltke's Habit of Life.

A French tourist in Germany gives an account of Von Moltke's daily life in the country. The chateau and village belonging to the old Marshal are situated in Silesia, where they lie amid fertile lands diversified by pleasant scenery. The dwelling house is more spacious than elegant, its whitewashed walls and green shutters making it look like the house of a peasant grown rich. Its solitary owner rises regularly at 5, warms his coffee which is prepared over night, on his lamp fed by spirits of wine, and then goes out immediately into the park. His meditative air as he walks up and down the alleys, his closely shaven face well furrowed with wrinkles, his stiff black cravat, long coat and slouch hat, give him the air of an old Lutheran minister preparing his Sunday sermon. At 7 the Marshal commences a general round of inspection through the stables, granary, mills and distillery, until he arrives at the orchard, where loves to linger, knife in hand, now pruning some unruly branch, or anon removing dead twigs. At 10 he breakfasts on a bowl of soup or a glass of wine, with a slice of bread and butter, then he runs through his correspondence. Walking follows, or a drive to visit some neighbor, and the return does not take place until 8 o'clock for tea. On Sundays alone he abstains from work, but after going to church he spends the remaining hours among his workmen and laborers in pious readings, for he is sincerely religious. Often at night he visits his wife's tomb, which is concealed by a row of cypresses, on a hill in the park. She died on the Christmas eve of 1868. She was young and charming, and they appear to have been tenderly attached to each other, although he might have been her father. When he arrives at his seat, his first care prior to entering the house, is to go and pray at her grave.

Habits of the Ostrich.

The fallacy that ostriches do not sit on their eggs, but leave them to be hatched out by the heat of the sun, is upset by the report of a Captain of an Algerian regiment in the Bulletin of the Paris Acclimatization Society. According to the same authority, the number of eggs laid by one female averages about eighteen, but the whole of these are hardly ever sat upon. In many cases they are left entirely alone, without being once covered, and of course they are not hatched. In those cases where the birds brood over the eggs, three or four are always ejected from the nest. This apparent wantonness on the part of the parent bird has its object; and the object is, that the eggs shall serve as food for the chicks till they are big enough to accompany their parents to the breeding-grounds. An ostrich's nest is often built in the midst of a desert, many miles away from a blade of grass; and if some provision were not made for the young bird, it would be born only to die. This fact has been proved by placing some food cut fine near the newly-hatched ostriches, but they refused it, and, the mother having broken the shells of several of the rejected eggs, they greedily ate the contents, swallowing a quantity of sand with the yelk of the egg.

Phœbe Cousins has faith in the ultimate triumph of Susan B. Anthony and her co-laborers.

Frank Wentworth is rapidly making the Sherman House the most popular hotel in Chicago. While increasing its already unequaled merits he has also materially reduced its scale of prices.

Every reader of this paper can receive, free, a copy of the best Agricultural and Family newspaper in this country by addressing Moore's Rural New-Yorker, 78 Duane-st., New York.

If you have been wearing paper collars and have not tried the Elmwood, we would advise you to do so at once. They fit splendidly. All the edges are folded, so they will not turn out, and the collars will not soil as easily as others.

The Northwestern Horse-Nail Co.'s "Finished" Nail is the best in the world.

Let Us Consider.—Since the introduction of distilled spirits in the sixteenth century, they have been habitually prescribed as remedies. We know that alcohol in all its forms, is pernicious to health. Knowing these things and that under the system of treatment which includes their use the mortality among the sick is, and ever has been, enormous, is it not worth while to try the effect of a remedy which combines in their highest excellence the qualities of a Tonic, an Alterative and a Regulator; contains no mineral bane or murderous alkaloid or alcoholic poison; does its curative office without pain and with uniform certainty? Dr. Walker's Vinegar Bitters fulfills all these conditions, and is now effecting the most extraordinary cures, in cases where every "specialist" of the faculty has ignominiously failed. Consider, in view of these facts, whether any sick person is justified by reason and common sense in declining to test the virtues of this undefiled and irresistible remedy. 11

Safe, Permanent and Complete!—Wilhoft's Tonic cures Chills and Fever, Dumb Chills and Bilious Fevers—those Titans that kill their thousands where this remedy is unknown. It cures Enlargement of the Spleen. It cures Hypertrophy of the Liver. It hurts no one. It cures all types of Malarial Fevers and is perfectly protective in all its efforts. Try Wilhoft's Tonic, the great infallible Chill Cure. Wheelock, Finlay & Co., Proprietors, New Orleans. For sale by all druggists.

The advertisement of the Cincinnati Weekly Gazette appears in this paper. The Gazette is Republican in principle, but exposes corruption in all parties without fear or favor. It is the best newspaper in the West.

The Prettiest Woman in New York. Miss K——, well known in our fashionable society for her distingue appearance and beautiful complexion, was once a sallow, rough-skinned girl, chagrined at her red, freckled face. She pitched into Hagan's Magnolia Balm, and is now as pretty in complexion as she is charming in manners. This article overcomes freckles, tan, sallowness, moth-patches, ring-marks, etc., and makes one look ten years younger than they are. Magnolia Balm for a transparent complexion, and Lyon's Kathairon to make the hair plentiful, luxuriant, soft and delicate, have no rivals. The Kathairon prevents the hair from turning gray, eradicates dandruff, and is the best and cheapest dressing in the world.

Damned by Faint Praise.—Jas. Beekman, clergyman of New York, was recently badly kicked by a horse, and was speedily cured by using the celebrated Mexican Mustang Liniment. When the proprietor asked him for a certificate, he replied that he "considered it a remarkable article, but it wouldn't answer for him to indorse a remedy in print." Here's consistency. But we didn't kick him, as the horse did. The world knows that for Rheumatism, Bruises, Swellings, Spavin, Scratches, Inflammation, Lameness, or any flesh, bone or muscle ailment upon man or animal, there is nothing like the Mustang Liniment. It costs but 50 cts. and $1.00 per bottle, and should be in every family. It is wrapped in a fine steel-plate label, and signed "G. W. Westbrook, Chemist."

Tonic and Recuperant Plantation Bitters.—The constantly increasing patronage which it receives has, it is true, excited the petty envy of certain splenetic advertisers of pinchbeck panaceas, who hope to make a market for their own stagnant, watery wares by decrying all spirituous medicinal preparations. But the public can stomach neither their arguments nor their potations, and consequently reject these very weak imitations of the enemy as entirely too thin!

The Markets.

NEW YORK.
Beeves	8½ @ 13½
Hogs—Dressed	@
Cotton	14½ @ 15
Flour—Superfine Western	[illegible] @ 4 50
Wheat—No. 2 Chicago	1 09 @ 1 10
No. 1 Spring	1 17 @ 1 27
Corn	85 @ 92
Oats	67 @ 69
Rye	94 @ 95
Pork—New Mess	20 75 @ 21 00
Lard—Steam	13½ @ 14¼
CHICAGO.
Beeves—Choice Graded Steers	6 25 @ 6 75
Choice Natives	5 50 @ 6 10
Good to Prime Steers	4 75 @ 5 25
Cows and Heifers	2 50 @ 4 00
Medium to Fair	4 00 @ 4 50
Inferior to Common	1 75 @ 2 00
Hogs—Live	6 50 @ 6 75
Flour—Fancy White Winter	6 00 @ 7 00
Red Winter	5 00 @ 5 50
Wheat—No. 1 Spring	..
No. 2 Spring	90 @ 90½
No. 3 Spring	84½ @ 85
Corn—No. 2	68 @ 69
Oats—No. 2	53 @ 57
Rye—No. 2	91 @ 93
Barley—No. 2	1 28 @ 1 30
Butter—Fancy	31 @ 37
Eggs—Fresh	24 @ 26
Pork—Mess	19 00 @ 19 30
Lard	13 @ 13¼
ST. LOUIS.
Wheat—No. 2 Red	1 05 @ 1 07
Corn—No. 2 New	70 @ 72
Oats—No. 2	58 @ 58½
Rye—No. 2	90 @ 95
Pork—Mess	19 50 @ 19 75
Lard	13½ @ 14
Hogs	4 75 @ 7 50
Cattle	3 50 @ 5 50
MILWAUKEE.
Wheat—No. 1	1 01 @ 1 02
No. 2	93 @ 93½
Corn—No. 2	73 @ 75
Oats—No. 2	47 @ 49
Rye	89 @ 91
Barley—No. 2	1 25 @ 1 32
CINCINNATI.
Wheat—Red	1 06 @ 1 08
Corn—New	65 @ 70
Oats	57 @ 60
Rye	1 00 @ 1 08
Pork—Mess	20 50 @ 21 00
Lard	13 @ 13½
TOLEDO.
Wheat—No. 1 Red	1 10 @ 1 11
Amber Michigan	1 09 @ 1 10
Corn—New	70 @ 72½
Oats	55 @ 56
DETROIT.
Wheat—Extra	1 18 @ 1 19
Amber	1 07 @ 1 08
Corn	77 @ 78
Oats	53 @ 54
CLEVELAND.
Wheat—No. 1 Red	1 10 @ 1 11
No. 2 Red	1 04 @ 1 05
Corn	69 @ 72
Oats	56 @ 59

$72 Each Week. Agents wanted. Particulars free. WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

$25 PER DAY Commission or $30 a week Salary, and expenses. We offer it and will pay it. Apply now. G. Webber & Co., Marion, O.

10 Beautiful Transfer Pictures, instructions & catalogue, 10 cts. Easily transferred. Also Chromos 10 cts. Agents wanted. J. L. PATTEN & CO., 71 Pine St., N. Y.

AGENTS WANTED—Men or Women. $34 a week or $100 forfeited. The secret free. Write at once to COWEN & CO., 8th St., New York.

ADVERTISERS! Send 25 cents to GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., 41 Park Row, New York, for their Pamphlet of 100 pages, containing lists of 3000 newspapers and estimates showing cost of advertising.

CONSTANT EMPLOYMENT—At home, Male or Female. $30 a week insured. No capital required. Particulars and valuable sample free. Address, with 6c return stamp, C. Ross, Williamsburgh, N. Y.

JUST THE BOOK | MONEY IN IT SURE! Just out. Useful, Handsome, Cheap. Sells everywhere. Send for prospectus to E. C. BRIDGMAN, 5 Barclay St., N. Y., or 179 West 4th St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

BOOK AGENTS get best selling book and best terms. Everybody's Own Physician, or how to acquire and preserve health, by C. W. GLEASON, M. D. 250 engravings. 496 pages. Royal octavo. Gilt. Send for circulars. CO-OPERATIVE BIBLE & PUB. CO., Muscatine, Iowa.

HILL'S HOG RINGER. 15,000,000 Rings, 70,000 Ringers, 3,500 Tongs Sold. Hardware Dealers Sell Them. Ringer $1, Rings per 100 50cts, Tongs $1.25, by mail, post paid. Circulars free. Address H. W. HILL & CO, Decatur, Ill.

CAUTION.

On account of the popularity of the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machines, parties have largely been engaged in purchasing old and second-hand machines of that make, and imposed upon the public by selling them as new machines. The Wheeler & Wilson Company begs to advise the public that any one desiring to buy their second-hand machines can be supplied by that Company direct, on better terms than others can afford them, and be assured of what they are buying. Address WHEELER & WILSON M'F'G CO., 625 Broadway, New York.

[illegible] LIFE OF LIVINGSTONE, which unfolds the thrilling experiences of a veritable Hero and the curiosities of a wonderful country. [illegible] STONE PUBLISHERS, either at Cincinnati, Detroit, Chicago, Davenport, or St. Louis.

ADVERTISERS.

The American Newspaper Union numbers over 1,000 papers, separated into seven subdivisions. For separate lists and cost of advertising, address S. P. SANBORN, 216 Monroe St., Chicago.

This PATENT CABINET or LETTER FILE is useful to every business man, to keep BILLS, LETTERS or PAPERS always clean and in alphabetical order; holds 4,000 Letters, can be used on a desk or hung to the wall. We prepay Express charges. Send for circular and price list with 1,000 references. Address C. A. COOK & CO., Chicago, Ill.

THE WEEKLY SUN. A large, eight-page, independent, honest and fearless newspaper, of 56 broad columns, especially designed for the farmer, the mechanic, the merchant and the professional man, and their wives and children. We aim to make the Weekly Sun the best family newspaper in the world. It is full of entertaining and instructive reading of every sort, but prints nothing to offend the most scrupulous and delicate taste. Price $1.20 per year, postage prepaid. The cheapest paper published. Try it. Address THE SUN, New York City.

EMPLOYMENT.

I want 1,000 agents to canvass for the COMPLETE HERBALIST and THE GROWING WORLD. I will give such terms and furnish such advertising facilities that no man need make less than $300 per month and all expenses—no matter whether he ever canvassed before or not. Address Dr. O. PHELPS BROWN, No. 21 Grand St., Jersey City, N. J., and full particulars will be sent by return mail.

PROF. D. MEEKER'S Painless Opium Cure! The Only Successful Remedy of the Present Day. Send for Paper on Opium Eating, its Consequences and Cure. P. O. Box 475, Laporte, Ind.

WANTED AGENTS $10 PER DAY. To sell the HOME SHUTTLE SEWING MACHINE. [illegible] Reader!! you can make money selling the "HOME SHUTTLE," whether you are EXPERIENCED in the business or not. If you wish to buy a SEWING MACHINE for family use, our circulars will show you how to save money. Address JOHNSON, CLARK & Co., CHICAGO, ILL.

Canned Fruits and Vegetables. Of the Choicest Kinds Within Reach of All. Case of 24 cans assorted Table Fruits, $5.50. Case of 24 cans assorted Vegetables, $4.00. The country has been flooded with inferior goods. Purchasers will find our assortment the best and cheapest. Sent on receipt of price. F. A. WAIDNER, 45 River St., Chicago.

S. H. HARRIS SAFE THE BEST. MANUFACTORY AND SALESROOM, 23 & 25 RANDOLPH ST., CHICAGO.

WE WANT AGENTS AGENTS AGENTS AGENTS AGENTS For our Adjustable Threshold in every town and city in the United States. It sells well and is just what every house needs. It is the only invention in the world that will positively prevent rain, cold, snow and dust from coming under door bottoms. Carpenters make lots of money handling it. Send stamp for our circular. WILSON, PEIRCE & Co., Sole Manufacturers, 192 Clark St., Chicago.

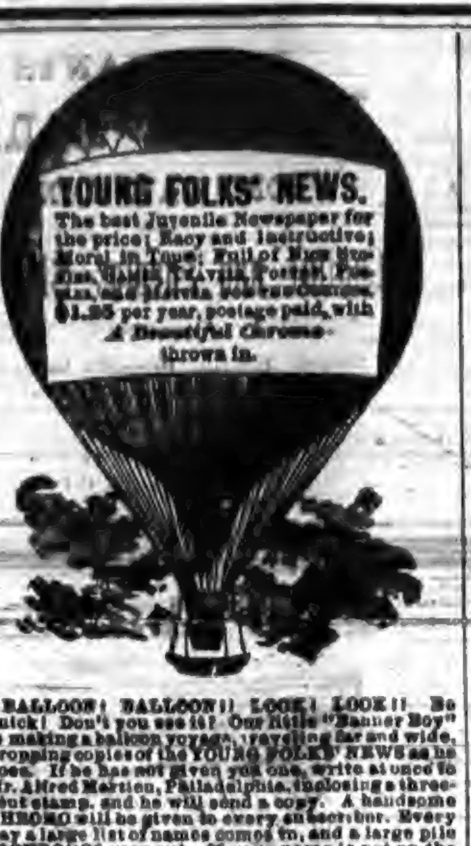
DUNHAM PIANOS. Dunham & Sons, Manufacturers, Warerooms, 18 East 14th Street, [Established 1834.] NEW YORK. Send for Illustrated Circular and Price List.

OFFER EXTRAORDINARY! No paper in the world offers such extraordinary inducements to new subscribers in the way of premiums, books, silverware, presents, etc., as the LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL, an old-established, live, wide-awake, progressive, newsy, bright and spicy paper. $10,000 distributed to its patrons on [illegible] time to subscribe. Circulars, with full particulars and specimen copies, sent free on application. Terms, $2 a year, and liberal offers to clubs. Address W. N. HALDEMAN, Pres't Courier-Journal Company, Louisville, Ky.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE TRUE HISTORY OF THE BROOKLYN SCANDAL. The astounding revelations and startling disclosures made in this work are creating the most intense desire in the minds of the people to obtain it. It gives the whole inner history of the Great Scandal, and is the only full and authentic work on the subject. It sells at sight. Send for terms to Agents and a full description of the work. Address NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Chicago, Ill., or St. Louis, Mo.

THE BEST PAYING BUSINESS. We now offer the field for the Fall and coming Winter, and are furnishing the best paying and most easily worked agency in the world. Our agents have always been the most successful, and we have lately added new and exceedingly taking inducements, requiring only intelligence and application for any one, young or old, of either sex, to make a really first-class paying business for themselves. We have the most agents and do the largest business in our line. We give right to exclusive territory, furnish the best tools to work with, give the largest cash pay. Book Agents and all experienced agents find the business we furnish decidedly the most profitable. Everybody can make money. Send for terms and address at once for circulars, terms, etc. Agents, no matter what you are doing, send to us for particulars. Address WATERS & TINKER, Publishers, Chicago, Ill.

CINCINNATI WEEKLY GAZETTE. 1875 GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES FOR 1875. POSTAGE WILL BE PAID BY THE PUBLISHERS. THE GAZETTE is the great newspaper of the country. Thousands of practical farmers contribute to its agricultural columns annually. As a commercial paper it is standard authority. It gives all the news of the day, at home and abroad. The Gazette is Republican in principle, but exposes wrong in all parties, without fear or favor. Specimen Copies Free. SEND FOR TERMS TO AGENTS. CINCINNATI GAZETTE CO.



YOUNG FOLKS' NEWS. The best Juvenile Newspaper for the price; Racy and Instructive; Moral in Tone; [illegible] $1.25 per year, postage paid, with A Beautiful Chromo thrown in.

BALLOON! BALLOON!! LOOK! LOOK!! Be quick! Don't you see it? Our little "Banner Boy" is making a balloon voyage, traveling far and wide, dropping copies of the YOUNG FOLKS' NEWS as he goes. If he has not yet come your way, write at once to Mr. Alfred Martien, Philadelphia, inclosing a three-cent stamp, and he will send a copy. A handsome CHROMO will be given to every subscriber. Every day a large list of names comes in, and a large pile of CHROMOS goes out. If your name is not on the list, send it in at once, with $1.25, and you will receive the paper for one year (postage paid) and the choice of four handsome Chromos, viz.: "A Frolic in the Woods;" "The Boat Race;" "Getting Ready for Sea;" or "The Shipwreck." The Chromos can be had varnished and mounted on Card-board, ready for framing, by sending 25 cents additional for each Chromo—that is, $1.50 will procure the paper (postage paid) and a Chromo varnished and mounted; or $1.75 will procure two Chromos mounted and the paper for one year, postage paid; or $2.25 will procure the four Chromos mounted and the paper for one year, postage paid. Mounted Chromos will please best. Send a three-cent stamp for a Specimen Number. ALFRED MARTIEN, Publisher, 21 South Seventh St., Philadelphia.

STEINWAY Grand, Square and Upright Pianos, Superior to all others. Every Piano Warranted for Five Years. Illustrated Catalogues, with Price List, mailed free on application. STEINWAY & SONS, Nos. 107, 109 & 111 East 14th Street, New York.

FOR NEARLY THIRTY YEARS THE RICHMOND PRINTS have been held in high esteem by those who use a Calico. They are produced in all the novelties of changing fashions, and in conservative styles suited to the wants of many persons. Among the latter are the "Standard Gray Styles," proper for the house or street—beautiful in designs and pleasing in coloring. "CHOCOLATE STANDARD STYLES," in great variety, and widely known as most serviceable prints. Nothing better for daily wear. These goods bear tickets as quoted above. Your retailer should have them, and your examination and approval will coincide.

BECKWITH $20. Portable Family Sewing Machine, ON 30 DAYS' TRIAL. We will send to any address, C. O. D., one of our machines with privilege of examination before taking [illegible]. Beckwith Sewing Machine Co. New York: 862 Broadway. Chicago: 231 Wabash Ave.

MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS. Winners of THREE HIGHEST MEDALS AND DIPLOMA OF HONOR at VIENNA, 1873, PARIS 1867, and in AMERICA ALWAYS. Declared by MUSICIANS GENERALLY to be UNRIVALED and INCOMPARABLE. Sold at fixed and lowest prices to all, which are printed and invariable. PURCHASERS OF ORGANS ARE REMINDED that the temptation to Dealers and Peddlers is very strong to sell and recommend [illegible] The MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO. are now offering new styles, with important improvements; and are selling not only for cash exclusively, but also on new plans of easy payments, running through one year or longer. They also rent new Organs with privilege of purchase. Rent paid three years purchases the Organ. Send for the Illustrated Catalogue and Circulars, which give very full information, and are sent free. Address THE MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., at either New York, Boston, or Chicago.

JUST PUBLISHED: Piano at Home. A large collection of the best FOUR-HAND PIECES FOR THE PIANOFORTE. No book is better fitted for "Home" musical entertainment than this. Beginners can play the easier duets. Advanced players and teachers need not to be told that practice with four hands is the very best to acquire "time" and "certainty." Practice in the "Piano at Home" is nothing but a continual pleasure. 250 pages, full sheet music size. In boards, $2.50; cloth, $3.00; full gilt, $4.00.

For Choirs: THE LEADER. Price $1.38. For Singing Schools: THE SONG MONARCH, 75 cts.

THE EMERSON METHOD For REED ORGANS. By L. O. EMERSON and W. S. B. MATTHEWS. Easy and progressive lessons, scales, studies, voluntaries, interludes, quartets, songs and other pieces in profusion. All well arranged by skillful hands. Price $2.50.

For Choirs: PERKINS' ANTHEM BOOK. $1.50. For Quartet Choirs: THOMAS' QUARTETS. $2.50. Specimen copies sent postpaid for retail price. OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston. CHAS. H. DITSON & CO., 711 Broadway, N. Y.

DR. WHITTIER, No. 617 St. Charles Street, St. Louis, Mo., continues to treat all cases of obstacles to marriage, blood impurities, every ailment or sickness which results from indiscretion or imprudence, with unparalleled success. [illegible] MARRIAGE GUIDE, 260 pages, a popular book which should be read by everybody. No married pair, or persons contemplating marriage, can afford to do without it. [illegible] Sent sealed, post-paid for 50 cts.

MARRIAGE GUIDE. An interesting illustrated work of 260 pages, containing valuable information for those who are married or contemplate marriage. Price 50 cts. by mail. Address Dr. Butts' Dispensary, 12 North Eighth Street, St. Louis, Mo.

VINEGAR BITTERS. PURELY VEGETABLE. FREE FROM ALCOHOL. DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS.

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of Vinegar Bitters?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of Vinegar Bitters in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of Dr. Walker's Vinegar Bitters are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

Grateful Thousands proclaim Vinegar Bitters the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J. Walker's Vinegar Bitters, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with Vinegar Bitters. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, Walker's Vinegar Bitters have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of Walker's Vinegar Bitters occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

R. H. McDONALD & CO., Druggists and Gen. Agts., San Francisco, California, and cor. of Washington and Charlton Sts., N. Y. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers.

$5 to $20 per day at home. Terms free. Address GEO. STINSON & CO., Portland, Maine.

DR. A. G. OLIN. HAPPY RELIEF. [illegible] Chicago, Ill. [illegible]

C. N. U. No. 48

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS, please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

Educational Department.

A. R. HUFFMAN, Conductor.

TO A PICTURE.

Would, Oh would that thou couldst speak
Thine eye is rayless, yet me seems
I see one faint lustre.—On thy cheek
The bloom of health, in fancy's dreams—
Round those lips a smile I faintly trace.
Thy brow as if in pensive mood,
Is arched but slightly and fit to grace
An angel's, yea a seraph's face.
Such is thine. Iona.

Yes thou wert lovely, noble, and true,
Pure thy thoughts as the crystal day,
With ever a smile and cheerful mien
Thy songs with that of the chirping birds
Through woodland echoed sweet and clear—
And thy pure soul in such gleesome words,
Rang early and late. Both far and near,
In grove and bower thy lay was heard,
Such wert thou, Iona.

But, alas, ever for earth thou wert too pure,
Thy maker called thee home to rest;
The pangs of death thou'lt no more endure.
Thy home is Elysian—thou art blest,
Angels songs thy soul doth fill.
Pure the river—the streets are bright
Where, a saint, thou doest thy Maker's will
In the land that knoweth no night.
Such art thou, Iona.

Miss Lucinda Daniels will teach the Butler schools this winter.

We understand that our friend D. M Allen will take charge of the Spencerville school this winter.

Mr. Allen is one of DeKalb's prominent teachers and we anticipate a pleasant time for him this winter.

This week many of our country schools will be commenced, and we have reason to believe that this will be the most prosperous year in the educational history of the county.

The disposition manifested by the teachers at our institute indicates that the teachers have a heart to attempt and a will to succeed.

May the good work go on.

Let such an energy prevail as will move the county to a higher standard of educational interest.

How to Regulate Whispering.

A school is a little republic in embryo. In it are little statesmen, artists mechanics, artificers, monarchs, ministers, teachers and in as the full grown republic, there are also thieves bangabouts, idlers, and mischief-makers.

Now it is the teacher's province to regulate the communication, business transactions and general affaris of this embryo republic.

Let us treat these pupils according to the above stated principles, instead of endeavoring to deprive them of the one best blessing of Heaven, let us regulate the use of it.

As opportunity occurs, cultivate in them neatness and order, propriety and equity.

Let the same care and exactness be exercised in regard to whispering, and it will not be long till the pupils will regard the work of the school-room with a new and wonderful degree of interest.

They will look upon your plans as a means of improvement and will give up all diffident, uncouth and vulgar habits and implant habits of refinement.

There are times in each school session when some means of communication becomes necessary; therefore the teacher must allow it or they will take it.

In ungraded schools, I have found it best to allow from one to three minutes every 30 or 40 minutes, for a quiet, orderly, business transaction, such as, asking necessary questions, getting books, borrowing pencils, if need be, and any business that may present itself; this, of course, to be under the direction of the teacher so that order may prevail. After this there is no need of any communication until permission is again given. Pupils soon see the beauty of this system and act accordingly.

While some may succeed best this way, others may succeed best by requiring the pupil to indicate his desire to speak by a uniform signal, leaving it to the disposal of the teacher.—This, however, is often annoying.

Then to succeed well in this matter make it a subject of consideration among the scholars themselves, and not of downright authority, or your rule will be broken and you will lose your caste among them.

Cultivate propriety and with it common sense, and I believe there is no common sense in endeavoring to "pin down" a school an hour and a half at a time without some means of communication.

It is abnormal and consequently wrong.

We do sincerely hope these few hints may do some weary, care-worn teacher good and make his work easier as well as more pleasant.

S. C. EVANS, Pres't, C. M. DAWSON, Cash'r

MERCHANTS
National Bank!
FORT WAYNE, IND.

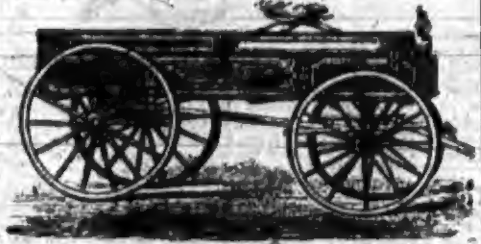
Capital and Surplus $112.000

Receives Deposits, Discounts Business Paper, issues Letters of Credit, and Collects at all points at the lowest rates of exchange.

Directors:
S. CARY EVANS, R. C. ROBERTSON,
A. C. DAWSON.

Organized 1865. April 9, '74

The Auburn



WAGONS

Made from the Best Materials,

And constructed with all the late improvements—The new and extensive

WAGON SHOPS
—OF—
J. W. SHAFFER

South Main Street

are now in full running order and all orders for

WAGONS, BUGGIES, &c.

promptly attended to Special care taken in getting the best Seasoned Timber. Our prices are very reasonable and we solicit the public to give us a call and ascertain our prices.

Sutermeister,
Becker & Bond,
ARCHITECTS
BUILDING
CONTRACTORS,
AND DEALERS IN Building Stone
AMERICAN AND
ITALIAN MARBE,
GRANITE.
TOOMBSTONES,
MONUMENTS,
MANTELS,
GRATES, &C.,
Corner Main and Fulton Streets,
Fort Wayne, Ind.

FALL AND WINTER
CLOTHING!
S. Lauferty
FURNISHING STORE!

You will find the best selected stock and at prices that defy competition. You can get a nice suit of Sam. from

$6 UPWARDS!

I also keep on hand nice fine stock of Woolen and White

SHIRTS!

which will be sold at prices as low as any other place, Ft Wayne not excluded. You can find the largest assortmen which you can get at my store or less than you are aware of as I can say what the most of my competers cannot, as I am now engaged in all the above line of goods for the last 20 years. I have paid a good tuition which others will have to pay yet, and this will be the best assurance that S. Lauferty can sell you his line of goods for less than any other house around or about. I also keep in connection with the above, a fine and well selected stock of Plain and Fancy French English, German and Domestic

Hats & Caps!

Cassimeres

Broad Cloth and Vestings. have also engaged one of the best Tailors west of New York or east of Chicago. All I ask is to come and examine my stock and prices and I will assure you will buy of me and go home well pleased and satisfied. I sell now strictly for Cash. S. LAUFERTY.

Boots & Shoes
FOR SERVICE!

Buy the Stylish, Good-Fitting Double-Seamed
FINE SHOES!
For LADIES' and MISSES' wear, with this Trade Mark in every shoe.

DOUBLE SEWED
P
NEVER RIP.

The Soles are attached to the Uppers with two rows of five-cord waxed thread, (instead of one row as in other shoes,) and are
WARRANTED
Never to rip from the uppers.

S. W. Sprott & Son,
SOLE AGENTS.
Where also may be found a full line of
BOOTS & SHOES,
Both Fine and Coarse, for Men, Women and Children.
Our Stock is full and Complete,
And we can please you both in quality and price.

Custom Work a Specialty.
CALL AND SEE US.
S. W. SPROTT & SON.

V. A BEARD

Oldest Grocer in Auburn, North of Court House on Seventh Street,
DEALER IN
GROCERIES and PROVISIONS
TEAS, COFFEES, SUGARS, SALT FISH.
Flour and Feed, Tubs Pails, Buckets, Sugars Boxes, Etc. A large variety of
TOBACCOS AND CIGARS,
Confectioneries of all kinds, and Fancy Notions, Cove Oysters, &c. A speciality in Green and Dried Fruits, and Canned Fruits. Goods delivered inside the corporation.

LUMBER! LUMBER!
DIRECT FROM THE MILL.
GREATLY REDUCED PRICES!
F. N. Wright & Co.

Manufacture their own lumber with their own mill, at Greenville Michigan, and can therefor sell for less than any other local Dealor in Lumber

A Lumberyard has been established at Auburn by this Company Where there can be found an extensive variety of Lumber

LATH AND SHINGLES

Which will be sold for less than ever has been offered before. We know that we can sell Low and furnish as good an article of lumber as has ever been seen in the County.

Yard on Jackson Street near Berry's Planing Mill.

A. LEWIS Supt.

A NEW STORE!
With an entire stock of
NEW GOODS!
BOOTS & SHOES
at the lowest PRICES.
J. E. WOODFORD, has located at Auburn with a fine new stock of BOOTS & SHOES, which will be sold at the lowest figures for
CASH ONLY

Call and examine this bran new stock, as there are no old goods that have been on the shelf for years. Store on Main street opposite Finke's residence, Auburn, Ind.

J. J. VanAuken,
COUNTY SURVEYOR.

Will attend promptly to all surveying. Office with Rose & Hartman, Auburn Indiana. Persons requesting work by letter should give township and section.

$100.........PER MONTH.........$100.

Agents are making $100 per month selling the Howe Sewing Machines. Liberal commissions paid to live, energetic men, to canvass. Apply to R. S. Kester, Auburn. 46t4.

THE NEW
Drug Store!
FRESH DRUGS,
Medicines, Chemicals, Spices,
Dyes,
Combs,
Brushes,
Perfumery,
Propretory Articles,
Fancy Goods, &c., &c
....
Wines and Liquors!
For Medical purposes only.

Stock New, prices to suit the times at the
NEW DRUG STORE,
Wood's old Stand!
Seventh St. Auburn, Ind.
Littlefield Bros.

Physicians prescriptions despensed from pure medicines, day and night.

A CARD.

A Clergyman, while residing in South America, as missionary, discovered a safe and simple remedy for the cure of Nervous weakness, Early Decay, Disease of the Urinary and Seminal Organs, and the train of disorders brought on by baneful and vicious habits. Great numbers have been cured by this noble remedy. Prompted by a desire to benefit the afflicted and unfortunate, I will send the receipt for preparing and using this medicine, in a sealed envelope, to any one who needs it, Free of Charge. Address,
JOSEPH T. INMAN,
Station D Bible House, New York City

BOOTS AND SHOES
Marked Down!
To compare with hard times. Just look at our prices and see if you cant save 25 to 50 cents on every Dollar

Men's waxed kip boots	$3 00
Boys' " "	2 25
Youths' " "	1 75
Mens' stoga kip boots, warranted,	3 50
Boys " " "	2 50
Youths " " "	2 00
Mens' western kip boots, hand made,	4 00
Boys " " "	2 75
Youths' " " "	2 25
Mens' fine kip boots, hand made	4 50
Mens' genuine French kip boots hand made	5 00
Womens' calf shoes	1 75 to $2 50
Ladies lasting or serge polish	1 25 to 2 25
Ladies calf sewed shoes	2 50
Children shoes in large variety from	20 to 1 25
Mens first class rubber boots tap sole	3 75

Rubber BOOTS and SHOES of every desscription always on hand at the lowest prices. Mens' wool and Buffalo lined boots and shoes cheaper than ever. All goods sold

FOR CASH.

Mens' Wool Line, good,

BOOTS AND SHOES,

in great variety which will be sold cheaper than ever. Our Motto is quick Sales, Small Profits, and Ready Pay. Don't fail to call and examine our stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere as we are satisfied it is money in your pockets.

E. Vordermark & Sons
North of Court House,
Odd Fellows' Building
AUBURN, INDIANA.

Dr. King's New Discovery!
FOR CONSUMPTION!

DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY FOR CONSUMPTION
DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY
TAYLOR

THE GREATEST
DISCOVERY OF THE AGE.
THE ONLY SURE CURE FOR CONSUMPTION
Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, and all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs!
THIS IS THE ONLY REMEDY
of the kind sold under a Positive Guarantee.—All persons suffering with any of the diseases for which this Wonderful Remedy!! is recommended, are requested to call at
F. E. Davenport & Co.
DRUG STORE, AUBURN, IND.
and get a sample bottle free of charge, which will convince the most skeptical of its really extraordinary merits, and show you what a regular One Dollar size bottle will do. April 16

THE OLD RELIABLE.
F. E. DAVENPORT,
Corner Main and Eighth-Sts.,
—DEALER IN—
Pure Drugs and Medicines,
DYE STUFFS, PERFUMERY,
Toilet Soaps Cosmetics, Hair Oils, Brushes, Combs, Toilet Mirrors and Druggists' Sundries in General.
BOOKS AND STATIONERY!
Wall and Window Paper!
Oiled, Linen and Slat Window Shades, and Shade Fixtures.
All the lattest POEMS and MISSELANIOUS BOOKS constantly on hand or ordered. Blank Books, Pocket Memorandas, Portmonies and Bill Books, WRITING PAPERS. All Styles and prices ALBUMS! ALBUMS! ALBUMS just received for the Holliday trade
Over $300.00 worth of Juvenile and Toy Books, which will be sold at panic prices. Smith's Gold Pens, warranted the best. Also steel Pens, Penholders, Pencils, Ink and Ink Stands &c.
SCHOOL BOOKS!
Covered with best Cover ever invented Free Of Charge
Davenport has the exclusive right to use this book cover in Auburn, and will give his patrons the benefit of the same

THE AUBURN COURIER.

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY AND TO THE COLLECTION OF LOCAL AND GENERAL NEWS

Vol. 4. Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, December 10, 1874. No. 50.

ROSE & HARTMAN
LAW, ABSTRACT AND COLLECTION OFFICE!

All legal business promptly attended to in DeKalb and adjoining counties. Have the only

ABSTRACT OF TITLE

to REAL ESTATE in the county. They contain Deeds and Mortgages made before the organization of the county and not on the county records, as well as all those made and recorded since. Written abstracts and opinions of title furnished. No one should invest in land without examining the Title.

OFFICE OPP. SWINEFORD HOUSE
S. W. Cor. Public Square, AUBURN, INDIANA.

The Auburn Weekly Courier
Published every Thursday, by
TOM. C. MAYS.
One Year,........$2. | Six Months......$1.

Advertising Rates.

	1m.	3m.	6 m.	1 y.
One Square	2 50	5 00	7 00	12 00
¼ Column	6 00	12 00	18 00	30 00
½ Column	10 00	18 00	30 00	50 00
1 Column	15 00	30 00	50 00	100 00

Local Notices 10 cents per line, first insertion; 5 cents each insertion thereafter. Business Cards 6 dollars.

Business Cards.

RICKEL & TEFFT,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Auburn, Ind. Office in the Court House.
J. W. RICKEL, R. DEXTER TEFFT.

COURIER OFFICE,
JOB PRINTING neatly executed. Fine work a specialty. Office in Odd Fellows' Building 2nd floor.

AMERICAN HOUSE,
AT FORT WAYNE, only $2 a day. Good accommodations for traveling men.
C. B. OAKLEY, Prop'r.

DR. J. A. COWAN,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON, Auburn, Ind., Office on Main street, over Central Grocery.

Joseph H. Stophlet.
ARCHITECT. Office over No. 17 Court street 1st door north of Empire Line office, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Drawings and specifications furnished for all classes of buildings, at reasonable rates.

GUY PLUM,
ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office in the Court House. Special attention paid to the collection of claims. Also agent for Home Insurance Company.

Medical Society.
OF DeKALB COUNTY, meets at Auburn, Ind., the 2nd Tuesday in each month.
J. H. FORD, Pres't.
J. A. COWAN, Sec'y.

A. F. PINCHIN,
ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public, Butler, DeKalb Co., Ind. Insurance and real estate business promptly attended to.

H. C. PETERSON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office over Davis' hardware store, Auburn, Ind.

SWINEFORD HOUSE.
CORNER MAIN AND NINTH STREETS, opposite the Court House. S. C. SWINEFORD, Pro.

J. J. LITTLEFIELD,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. Office over Miller and Casebeer's Store, Auburn, Indiana.

DRS. SEBRING & GRAHAM.
PARTNERS in the practice of Medicine. Office in Shaffer's brick building, second story; Main street, Auburn, Ind.

O. H. K. MOSS. P. V. HOFFMAN
MOSS and HOFFMAN,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW and Notaries Public Butler, Ind. Special attention given to collections. Also buy and sell Real Estate.

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office first door [illegible] right, Masonic Hall, over the Shoe Store of Sprott & Son.

PENFIELD and MOODY,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana.

R. M. and W. C. LOCKHART,
DEALERS IN LUMBER of every description. Waterloo City, Ind. We buy and ship Lumber at the going cash rates, at all times.

McBRIDE and MORLAN,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in any of the courts of the State. Office over O. T. Clark's Dry Goods store.

WOODHULL and CROXTON,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW Angola, Indiana. Practice in Steuben and DeKalb Counties.

CHAS. A. O. McCLELLAN.
ATTORNEY AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in the Courts of DeKalb and Steuben counties. Liberal Advances Made on all First-class Claims left in my hands for collection.

COURTS IN STEUBEN CO.	COURTS IN DEKALB CO.
1st Monday in February	3rd Monday in Feb.
4th Monday in April	2nd Monday in May
1st Monday in September	3rd Monday in Sep.
4th Monday in November	2nd Monday in Dec.

H. Wartenslaben
PAINTER and paper hanger. House painting a specialty. Residence corner Williams and Cedar street.

Toledo Business Cards.

Chas. L. Luce. Fred. C. Chapin. James Blass
Luce, Chapin & Blass,
IMPORTERS AND JOBBERS of foreign and domestic dry goods, notions, white goods, &c 162 and 134 Summit street, Toledo, Ohio.

Chris. Gerber, M. O. Waggoner.
C. Gerber & Co.,
WHOLESALE DEALERS in general hardware. Sign of the big jack knife and star ax. 148 Summit and 83 Water streets, Toledo, Ohio.

Geo. Emerson. Pliny Watson. Z. C. Pheatt.
Emerson & Co.,
WHOLESALE GROCERS, 142, 144 and 46 Summit street, Toledo, Ohio.

V. Hamilton. E. Goldsmith.
Hamilton & Goldsmith,
COMMISSION MERCHANTS, Water street Toledo, Ohio.

Ft. Wayne, Muncie & Cin R. R.

Time Table to take effect Sept 6, 1874.

Going South.

Fort Wayne	10 00am	5 00am	1 40pm
Ossian	10 42am		2 22
Bluffton	11 10	3 15	2 50
Keystone	11 30am	3 40	3 20
Montpelier	11 40		3 39
Hartford	12 10pm	4 05	3 56
Eaton	12 30		4 19
Muncie	1 00	4 45	4 33
McCowan's	1 15
New Castle	2 05	4 05
Cam. City	2 30
Beesons	2 54
Connersville	3 10
Indianapolis		7 00	9 50pm
Louisville		1 00pm	11 25am
Cincinnati	6 20

Going North.

Cincinnati	6 45am	pm
Louisville		3 00	11 25
Indianapolis		7 50	3 40
Connersville	10 25
Beesons	10 40
Cam City	11 00
New Castle	11 45pm
McCowans	12 32pm
Muncie	1 00	10 27	5 45am
Eaton	1 20		6 25
Hartford	1 43	11 10	6 51
Montpelier	1 53		7 24
Keystone	2 14		7 35
Bluffton	2 15	12 05am	8 15
Ossian	2 47		8 50
Ft. Wayne	3 25	1 15	9 45

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Gen'l Supt.
ROBT. ELLIS, Gen'l Ticket Agt.

Ft. Wayne, Jackson & Sag. R. R

Short Line Between
Michigan and the South.

Time card in effect May 24th—run by Chicago time

Going North.

Stations	Mail	Accom.	Ft W. Acm
Cincinnati		8 45	4 20pm
Louisville	11 25pm	6 50	5 00
Indianapolis	3 40	11 45	7 50
Ft Wayne	10 25	5 00	1 05
Auburn	11 24	6 30	1 57
Waterloo	11 45	6 55	2 00
Summit
Pleasant Lake	12 29
Ar Angola	12 30	7 37	2 45
Reading	1 55	9 50	3 37
Bankers	2 10	10 09	3 50
Jonesville	2 27	10 33	4 05
Jackson	3 40	12 20	5 02
Detroit	6 30		6 00
Grand Rapids	9 15	5 45	4 40 p
Lansing	5 35		8 40
Saginaw	8 20		11 25
Bay City	9 15		12 25

Going South.

Bay City		6 5[illegible]	3 30
Saginaw		7 17	4 05
Lansing		10 46	7 40
Grand Rapids	10 50 pm	6 36	12 25
Detroit		7 00	5 20
Jackson	7 25a.m	12 25	9 40
Jonesville	8 25	2 20	10 43
Bankers	8 42	2 55	11 58
Reading	8 56	3 25	11 10
Ar Angola	9 56	5 10	12 00
Pleasant Lake	10 42	6 05	12 42
Waterloo	10 56	6 25	12 47
Auburn			12 50
Auburn Junction	11 55	7 40	1 38
Fort Wayne, Arrive	6 50 p m		6 45a
Indianapolis	11 25		1 10p
Louisville	8 40 a m		9 45
Cincinnati

W. A. ERNST, Sup
S. K. HOOPER Gen. Ticket Ag't.

BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R

The Shortest and Quickest Route to
WASHINGTON AND BALTIMORE!
The East and Southeast.

CONDENSED TIME TABLE, THRO' TRAINS.

VIA PARKERSBURG, MAY 31 '74	Fast Line. Daily.	Express, Daily.
Lve. Cincinnati	9 15 a m	9 30 p m
Arr. Chillicothe	1 13 p m	1 10 a m
" Portsmouth	5 55	10 20
" Marietta	[illegible]	7 20
" Parkersburg	5 30	5 30
Arr. Grafton	9 15	9 40
" Oakland	11 24	11 31
" Deer Park	11 43	11 43
" Cumberland	1 50 a m	2 00 p m
" Harper's Ferry	5 02	4 56 p m
" Washington	7 10	6 50
" Richmond	1 50 p m	4 50 a m
" Baltimore	8 40 a m	8 20 p m
" Wilmington	12 17 p m	1 31 a m
" Philadelphia	1 20	2 35
" New York	1 15	6 05
" Boston	2 50 a m	4 50 p m

VIA BELLAIRE—MAY 31, 1874	Fast Line Daily.	Express. Sun. Ex.
Lve. Columbus	11 15 a m	11 45 p m
Arr. Newark	12 35 p m	12 50 a m
Lve. Sandusky	7 45 a m	7 00 p m
" Monroeville	8 25	7 50 p m
" Mansfield	10 07	9 51
Arr. Newark	12 40 p m	12 45 a m
" Zanesville	1 35	1 55
" Bellaire	4 50	5 15
" Wheeling	6 10 p m	5 45
" Grafton	9 45	9 20
" Oakland	11 24	11 31
" Deer Park	11 43	11 47
" Cumberland	1 50 a m	2 00 p m
" Harper's Ferry	5 02	4 56
" Washington	7 10	6 50
" Richmond	1 50 p m	4 50 a m
" Baltimore	8 40 a m	8 20 p m
" Wilmington	12 17 p m	1 31 a m
" Philadelphia	1 20	2 35
" New York	5 15	6 05
" Boston	5 50 a m	4 50 p m

THOS. P. BARRY, West. pass agt., Cin.
L. M. COLE, Gen'l ticket agt., Bal. Md.
THOS. R. SHARP, Mas. of Tran.

S. U. Tarney
PROPRIETOR
AUBURN MEAT MARKET!
KEEPS ALWAYS ON HAND
Fresh Beef, Pork, Veal, Mutton and Bologna Sausage, clean and sweet. Prices reasonable. Main st. first door north of Miller & Casebeer's store.

DETROIT, EEL RIVER & ILLINOIS Rail Road.

Short Line between Auburn and the East and West.

[illegible] Through trains will run on the following time, in effect Sunday Sept 27, 1874.

Going East.			Going West
Way Fr.	Mail	Stations	Mail	Acc'
5 10	10 10 am	Logansport	7 45 p.m	2 55
		Peoria
8 16	11 15 am	Denver	6 56	1 30
10 00	12 10 pm	N. Manchester	5 59	12 11
12 47	12 57	Col. City	5 08	10 51
4 25 pm	2 01 pm	Auburn	3 53	8 48
5 15	2 30	ar. Butler lv	3 20	8 00
		Toledo
		Detroit

CONNECTIONS—At Logansport with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St Louis, Logansport, Crawfordsville & Southwestern and Toledo, Wabash & Western R. R's. At Denver with Indianapolis, Peru & Chicago Railway, for Rochester, Plymouth, LaPorte, Michigan City, Peru, Kokomo and Indianapolis At N. Manchester with Cincinnati, Wabash & Mich R'y., At Columbia City with Pittsburg, Ft. W. & Chicago, for Ft Wayne Lima, Crestline and Pittsburg. At Grand Rapids crossing with Grand Rapids R'y. At Auburn Junction with Ft. Wayne Jackson & Saginaw, for Angola, Jackson and Saginaw R'y. for Butler with Lake Shore & Mich. Southern Cars. Toledo, Detroit and all eastern cities.
J. A. HUGHSTON, Gen. Ticket Agt.
A. B. SOUTHARD, Gen. Supt.

Lake Shore & Mich. Southern R. R
Air Line Division

ON and after Sunday, Nov. 15, 1874 Passenger Trains will leave Waterloo city and other Stations as follows, daily except Sundays.

GOING WEST

	Special Ex.	Pacific Ex.	Accom'd'n
Butler	2 40 p m.	x 2 25 a m.	5 30 p m
Waterloo	2 50 "	2 53 "	8 19 "
Sedan	3 05	3 00	8 30 "
Corunna	3 10	3 06	8 35 "

GOING EAST.

Corunna	2 15 pm	11 50 pm	6 50 p m
Sedan	2 20	11 55	7 02 "
Waterloo	2 28 "	11 41 "	7 11 "
Butler	2 40 "	x 12 01 a m	7 55 "

CHAS. PAINE, Gen. Supt.
J. W. CARY, Gen Tic. Agt.
J. E. CURTIS, Division Supt

Pittsburgh, Ft Wayne & Chicago R. R

ON and after Nov. 5 1874 Trains will leave stations daily, (Sundays excepted) as follow:

Going West.

STATIONS	FAST EX.	MAIL.	PAC. EX.	NIGHT EX
Pittsburg	2 00 A M	6 00 A. M	9 40 A M	2 00 P. M.
Rochester	"	7 25 "	10 50 "	3 11 "
Alliance	5 32 "	11 00 "	1 50 P M	5 57 "
Orrville	7 [illegible]	12 52 P. M	3 15 "	7 40 "
Mansfield	9 20 "	3 5 "	5 26 "	9 10 "
Crestline ar	9 50 "	3 50 "	6 00 "	10 10 "
Crestline lv	10 10 "	5 00 A. M	6 25 "	10 20 "
Forest	11 22 "	6 22 "	8 15 "	11 52 "
Lima	12 50 P M	8 10 "	9 30 "	12 59 A "
Ft Wayne	2 50 "	10 40 "	12 15 A M	3 10 "
Plymouth	5 06 "	1 25 P. M	3 00 "	5 40 "
Chicago	8 20 "	5 25 "	4 50 "	9 20 "

Going East.

STATIONS	MAIL	FAST EX.	PAC. EX.	NIGHT EX
Chicago	5 16 A M	9 20 A. M	5 35 A. M	10 20 P. M
Plymouth	9 25 "	12 25 P. M	9 10 "	2 25 A. M
Ft Wayne	12 50 P M	2 45 "	11 45 "	5 20 "
Lima	2 55 "	4 25 "	1 52 A. M.	8 00 "
Forest	4 10 "	5 24 "	3 01 "	9 17 "
Crestline ar	5 50 "	7 00 "	4 50 "	11 10 "
Crestline lv	6 05 A M	7 20 "	4 50 "	11 20 "
Mansfield	6 40 "	7 70 "	5 20 "	11 51 "
Orrville	9 05 "	9 42 "	7 12 "	1 4 P M
Alliance	11 [illegible]	11 20 "	9 40 "	3 40
Rochester	2 10 P M		11 12 "	5 58
Pittsburg	3 20 "	2 20 a m	12 15 A. M.	7 05

F. R. MYERS,
General Passenger and Ticket Agent

Thomas Baldock
Building Contractor
AUBURN INDIANA.
will be ready at all times with an experienced Corps of workmen to erect Houses, Barns, and do Carpenter and joiner work of all kinds at reasonable rates.

BRICK FOR SALE
FRITZ GROESCOP.
Having just burned a fine kiln of brick, about one hundred thousand, is now ready to supply all who want good brick at reasonable figures. Residence two miles north of Auburn on the Kutzner road; three miles south west of Waterloo.

John M. Miller,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
FINE FURNITURE,
CHAIRS.
Husk & Hair Matrasses
50 and 52 East Main Street,
FORT WAYNE, IND.

J. G. FLEDDERMAN,
No. 27, East Main-St.
FORT WAYNE, IND'A
Has the largest and finest stock of
CLOTHS, COATINGS, CHEVIOTS,
AND
CassimereS
in Ft. Wayne. The finest line of
Made up Clothing!
ever shown in Fort Wayne
Youths' and Children's Clothing!
Furnishing Goods, &c,
Merchant Tailoring.
All work done in all the latest styles, promptly attended to. Go and see his large stock of Goods.

Among the population of London, which amounts to about 4,000,000 at present, there are more Jews than in Palistine, more Scotchmen than in Edinburg, more Irish than at Dublin and more Catholics than at Rome.

AUBURN
Meat Market.
Main St. Next door to Klotz's.
Houston and Benedict,
PROPRIETORS.
Having fitted up our establishment in first class style, with increased facilities, were are now prepared to furnish Fresh Meats in the best of order at reasonable rates. Give us a call.

THE
Eagle Mills!
Having been recently refitted and improved, is now in excellent running order. Having employed one of the best Millers in the country, I can now guarantee satisfaction. Prompt attention given to Custom Work.
FLOUR, BRAN, MILL FEED, ETC.,
on hand at low prices.
L. BOWERS.

Auburn Bakery!
AND
EATING HOUSE
BAKER BROS.
PROPRIETORS OF
Fresh baked Pies, Cakes etc, always on hand. Good lunches served at all hours.
BAKER BROS.

The Great Cause of
HUMAN MISERY
Just Published in a Sealed Envelope. Price 6 cts
A LECTURE on the nature, treatment and radical cure of Seminal Weakness, or Spermatorrhoea, introduced by self abuse, Involuntary Emissions, Impotency, Nervous Debility and fits; Mental and Physical Incapacity, &c—by Robt J. Culverwell, M. D., author of the 'Green Book,' &c.
The world renowned author, in this admirable Lecture, clearly proves from his own experience that the awful consequences of self abuse may be cured without medicine, and without dangerous surgical operations; pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically. This lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands. Sent under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, on receipt of 6 cents, or two postage stamps. Address
CHAS. J. C. KLINE & CO.,
127 Bowery, N. Y. Post Office Box 4586

T. B. TOTTEN
DEALER IN
Hats, Caps,
AND GENTS'
Furnshing Goods!
Ladies' and Gents' HAND-VALISES
MODERWELL & FOWLER'S FINE SHIRTS
Made to Order.
Paper and Envelopes, Choice CIGARS & TOBACCO
Also a specialty in Jas. Harper & Co's. ...
SILK HATS,
and old styles made new as ever
BY CALLING ON T. B. TOTTEN.
In Hebel's Corner

The Newest & Best
The Mammoth House
19 WEST MAIN-ST.,
FORT WAYNE, IND.

M. E. Woodward!
Has just received the finest and largest stock of Clothing,
PIECE GOODS, ETC.
at his new store, ever in the place.
NO OLD GOODS!
and Fashionable Furnishing Goods, Boys &c. Don't fail to see the new store.

AUBURN LIVERY
AND

SALE STABLE!
Ryan & Mader, pro's
Having on hand everything in the line of
Carriages, Buggies, Wagons, etc
they are prepared to furnish rigs at all times at reasonable prices. Stable east of Court House.

TERRIBLE NIGHT'S RIDE

Raging Fires Added to the Horrors of Starvation in Nbraska—A Wild Gallop Before the Flames.

[St. Joseph, Mo., Herald Nov. 12]

Thursday evening Captain George Lackland and Mr. Charles [illegible], who came in on the 11 o'clock train of the Kansas city and St. Joseph & Council Bluffs Railroad from Gage county, Nebraska, brought the news of a sad accident that occured by reason of the great prairie fires that are now raging in that part of the state. These gentlemen claim that it is not altogether improbable that many other families have suffered in the same manner, and that it will be necessary to extend liberal aid, and that very shortly. Capt. Lackland, a recent citizen of Lincoln, Nebraska, and a gentleman well known in this community, says that ever since Friday night one week ago the prarie has been burning with terrible vim, sweeping everything that comes in the way. The heavy winds now prevalent upon the prairies of course add furry to the flames, and those famlies that can move are hastening to avoid its wrath and save what little of their property they can. Many of them are leaving behind almost all of their worldly possessions and are traveling with nothing but their teams and a scant allowance of provisions. Many of these people are but poorly clad, and have already suffered much from the pinching wind. He says that their sufferings must of necessity be great.

He gives us the terrible detail of the terrible calamity that overtook the family of Mr. Wm. S. Herndon, a well known farmer of Gage county.—He says he met Mr. Herndon on Monday night on his way to Lincoln, where he has relations residing, and where he expects aid. From Mr. Herndon's own lips he learned the story of his sufferings. Some three years ago Mr. Herndon moved to Gage county from Iowa, and purchased sixty acres of land nine miles from the county-seat. He prospered, and was exceeding well until the late disaster, which not only distroyed his proptery but left him alone in the world, the fire having overtaken his family consisting of his wife and two children, and burned them to death.

Herndon said that he noticed the fire miles away on Saturday night, but it was no uncommon thing to see grass burning, and he paid but little attention to it, although his wife seemed considerable alarmed, and before bed time she called his attention to it several times. He still thought nothing of it, or that it was nothing more than the grass burning. Under this belief he, with his family retired. In the morning in was noticed that the fire was even burning with more vim, and had evidently come nearer them. He was still inclined to believe that it would pass around and leave him unmolested, or that it would rain and put danger out of the question.

A heavy wind springing up at noon however, and blowing directly from the are toward the house warned him that the danger was growing imminent. His children were now crying through fear, and his wife importuning him to make the best time. Arrangements were soon made, for the journey, and in a two horse wagon they started, not more than ten miles in advance of the fire, with every possibility of being able to get out of its reach.

Good time was made by the team, and not until late in the evening, when the wind increased in fury, was there any apprehension of danger. About dusk the wind increased to a hurricane and the flames began to approach them with terrible speed and awful grandeur. Faster and faster they came, and Mr. Herndon says that it was evident that they would overtake them in a very few minutes. What was to be done, under the circumstances was a question that had to be decided quickly. The horses had now became unmanageable, and were as likely to overturn the wagon and start for the flames as any other way. A marshy piece of ground was some two miles distant, and near this was a small branch of water, from which he remembered he had frequently watered his horses.—This was the only chance for life, and hastily leaving his team and wagon to their fate, he started to the marsh with his youngest child, a lad of eight years in his arms. It was a struggle for life. Death was coming, and they made one grand effort to get out of its reach, but, alas! it was unavailing. We will not undertake to depict the anguish of that father as he was compelled to see the cherished ones of his own heart those whome he loved even better than his own life-blood, sink down one after the other, and become a prey to that most terrible of all deaths—by fire. The little daughter was the first to be overtaken, and the mother was prone to stay and give up her life with her darling, but she kept on, while the flames were yet more than a hundred yards behind, and litlte Mary was left upon her kneese, praying that her Heavenly Father might take her to His bosom, and save her mother and father and her little brother from perishing. Death soon came for her, and not long did it wait for the mother and the little brother. In a few moments the mother's clothes were on fire, and she was unable to procede.—The father with desperate determination to save the little son, pushed on; but already his clothes were on fire, and the little boy, the pride of his heart, was struggleing to free himself from the tortures, and soon he was at rest in death. His body but hindered the progress of his father, and to save himself, he determined to abandon it. Thus freed of all encumbrances he made greater speed and succeeded in reaching the stream.

After the fire had passed by, he retraced his steps and gathered in one place all that was earthly of his treasured ones. It was a sight when the poor father gathered the blackened and charred remains of his late household in the stillness of the night upon that lone and desolate prairie which we hope the world will never be called upon to witness again. Next day the homes of some distant farmers were reached, and they returned with Herndon and assisted him in the burial.

The homes of many farmers in that county and locality were destroyed, and these gentlemen inform us that a delegation of citizens from Lincoln and other cities in Nebraska will soon visit St. Joseph for the purpose of soliciting aid for the suffers. It will be distributed among all those who are needy in the State—and there are thousands of them—many of whome are destitute entirely by the grasshoppers. Let our citizens respond nobly, and like the bread cast upon the waters, it will return again after many days.

A Strange Dream Fulfilled.

Rev. L. W. Lewis, in his Reminiscences of the war, Published in the Texas Christian Advocate, relates the annexed remarkable instance as literally true. The battle referred to was that of Prairie Grove, in Northwest Arkansas, fought Dec. 7, 1892:

A curious fulfillment of a dream occurred at the battle under my own eyes. A man by the name of Joe Williams had told a dream to many of his fellow soldiers, some of whome had related it to me months previous to the occurrence which I now relate.

He dreamed that we crossed a river marched over a mountain, and camped near a church located in a woods near which a terrible battle ensued, and in a charge just as we crossed the revine he was shot in the breast. On the ever memorable 7th of Dec. 1862, as we moved a double-quick to take our place in the line of battle, then already hotly engaged, we passed Prairie Grove church, a small frame building, belonging to the Cumberland Presbyterians. I was riding in the flank of the command, and opposite to Williams, as we came in view of the house. "That is the church, Colonel, I saw in my dream," said he. I made no reply and never thought of the matter again until that evening. We had broken the enemy's line, and were in full pursuit when we came to a dry ravine in the wood, and Williams said: "Just on the other side of the hollow, I was shot in my dream, and I will stick my hat under my shirt." Suiting the action to the word as he ran along, he doubled it up and crammed it in his bosom. Scarcely had he adjusted it before a minie ball knocked him out of the line. Jumping up quickly he pulled out his hat, waved it over his head and shouted; "I'm all right!" The ball raised a black spot about the size of a man's hand just over his heart and dropped into his shoe.

The late counting in of the Democratic member of Congress in the Twenty-seventh District of Pensylvania by a majority of eleven votes only gives the Democrats seventeen members to the Republicans—ten. In the present House the delegation stands twenty-two Republicans to five Democrats. There is, therefore, the nice little gain of twelve members, which makes a change of twenty-four votes in a delegation of twenty-seven. We think that will do.

The supreme council of Masons in France, has invited the supreme councils of all the lodges in the world to take part in the proceeding of a general congress, to be held on the first Monday in September 1875.

The Railroads have volunteered to transport all donations contributed through the state relief and aid society of Nebraska free of charge.

A LITERARY HOAX.

A rich hoax was successfully perpetrated at the dinner of the Boston Press Club, on Saturday evening. Several letters were read, purporting to come from distinguished individuals, among them one from Brett Harte, with two "t's," inclosing a characteristic poem, which the author of the "Heathen Chinee" would, we think, be almost willing to claim as indited, if not by himself, certainly by a "double." No assertion was made at the table that the epistle or the verses came from Bret Harte with one "t," but all present, save the few in the secret, jumped at the fallacious conclusion; and so have several of the papers since. The lines were, in fact, written over the initials "B. H." by J. Cheever Goodwin, and all will agree that he was far more than a parodist, and excuse the jocose chap very willingly.

Here is the Brett Harte poem of the occasion:

PRESS-ROOM BILL.

Bill was case;
Slept all night on a pile of stock—
Hard as a rock.
But what'd he care! He'd no friends
That would make a muss
If he slept in the streets.
So he sends
For a pot of beer, and a bite to eat
In the press-room,
Where, with leg-room
To stretch out straight,
He'd wait
Till the boys got round in the upper regions;
And by legions
He fed the sheets to the hungry maws
And iron jaws
Of the press.
You can guess
How he loved the machine and his work.
He shirk?
When he gave his word
That settled it sure. Whatever it was
You could be poz
That he'd do as he said, if it took a leg.
Not a peg
Would he move, whatever he saw or heard,
To break a promise
Was farthest from his Thoughts of what was the duty of man,
And where the law of right began.
One night the boss
(Member of Congress now, they says)
Came down stairs
Putting on airs
(His usual way).
Pretty soon he came across
Bill, who was putting the forms in place.
"Bill," says he,
"I want a copy brought up to me
At four o'clock in any case;
For I leave at five
By an early train,
So look alive;
"Or"—here his language became profane—
"You'll do it, Bill?"
Says Bill, "I will."
That night at just about half-past one,
The bells begun
The awful clangor that tells of fire.
'Twas our old place
That was being burnt.
When Bill learnt
The fact, by his linen-coat tails' blaze,
The room was getting about red hot.
There was just one spot
That the fire had managed, so far, to spare,
And the press stood there.
Bill wasn't a crier,
And when he saw
There was no use trying to save a thing
Out of the fiery dragon's maw.
He gave one spring
For the stock; there wasn't an atom left.
Bill says the heft
Of his heart, when he found there wasn't one
Identical sheet that he could use,
Was more'n a ton.
In his two hours' snooze,
He hadn't taken his garment off.
They came off now.
That is he stripped, as if for a row,
Down to the buff.
Let us draw the veil,
And end this tale
With a scene that morning sharp at four.
Bill knocked at the door
Of the boss's house, and out he came,
Not knowing the place was all aflame;
"Got the paper?" Says Bill, "You're right,
The — — old office burnt down to night,
There wasn't no one hurt,
And I got you a copy." Here he gave
The boss, who was just beginning to rave,
An impression struck off on his shirt.

P. S. 'Twas Bill's shirt, not the bosses.
I tell you Bill was one of the bosses.

NOVEMBER 5, 1874.

IVAN THE TERRIBLE.

Precisely at what time the faithful and affectionate subjects of his Majesty Ivan IV., Czar of all the Russias, conferred upon him his pet name, "The Terrible," history neglects to inform us, but we are left in no uncertainty as to the entire appropriateness of the title, which is now inseparably linked with his baptismal name. He inherited the throne at the age of 3 years, and his early education was carefully attended to by his faithful guardians, who snubbed and scared him, in the hope that they might so far weaken his intellect as to secure a permanent control over him, and through him govern Russia as they pleased. They made a footstool of him sometimes, and a football at others, and, under their system of training, the development of those qualities of mind and heart for which he is celebrated was remarkably rapid. He was always Ivan the terrified, and he became Ivan the terrible before he was old enough to have played a reasonably good game of marbles, or to have become tolerably expert in the art of mumbling the peg. Indeed, it would seem that the young grand Prince was wholly insensible to the joys of these and the other excellent sports in which ordinary youth delight, and, being of an ingenious turn of mind, he invented others better suited to his tastes and character. One of these pastimes, perhaps the first and simplest one devised by the youthful genius, consisted in the dropping of cats, dogs, and other domestic animals, from the top of the palace to the pavement below, and sentimental historians have constructed these interesting experiments upon the law of gravitation into cruelty. Another of the young Czar's amusements was to turn half-famished pet-bears loose upon passing pedestrians, and it is the part of charity to suppose that his purpose in this was to study the psychological and physiognomical phenomena of fear. A less profitable way he had of accomplishing the same thing was by throwing, or, as youthful Americans phrase it, "shying" stones at passers by, concealing himself meanwhile behind a screen. He cultivated his skill in horsemanship by riding over elderly people, cripples, and children. In short, his boyish sports were all of an original and highly interesting sort.

Up to the age of 13 Ivan was under the tutelage of a council, of which the Prince Shuisky was chief, and it was this Prince who domineered over the boy and made a footstool and a football of his body. At that age Ivan asserted his independence in a very positive and emphatic way, which even the Prince Shuisky could not misapprehend. The young Czar was out hunting, accompanied by Shuisky and other Princes and boyards, among whom was Prince Gluisky, a rival of Shuisky's, who was prejudiced against that excellent gentleman. At his suggestion, Ivan addressed his guardian Shuisky in language which the latter deemed insolent. Shuisky replied angrily, and Ivan requested his dogs to remonstrate with the Prince, which they did by tearing him limb from limb.

Having thus silenced the dictation of Shuisky, the young Prince became the ward of the no less excellent Gluisky, and was carefully taught that the only way in which he could effectually assert authority was by punishment. It was made clear to his budding intellect, too, that the shortest, simplest, and altogether the best way to get rid of disagreeable people, was to put them to death, and throughout his life Ivan never forgot this lesson for a single moment. Power, he was told, was worthless unless it was used, and the only way in which it could be really used was by oppression. For three years no pains were spared to teach him this system of ethics and politics, and the young Prince, in his anxiety to perfect himself in the art of governing, diligently practiced all these precepts.

When he was 17 years of age he was formally crowned Czar. The citizens, ignorant of the truths of political economy and the principles of governmental science underlying the young Czar's system, became alarmed and fired the city one night. When Ivan awoke he was terrified, being of an abnormally nervous temperament, and the apparition of a warning monk, together with the influence of Anastatia, the young Czarina, led the Czar to abandon the simple and straightforward methods of government in which he had been bred, and for thirteen years, under the dictation of Alexis Adascheff and the monk Sylvester, Ivan devoted himself to the commonplace employments of developing Russia politically and socially. He dismissed his Ministers and put others in their places. He reorganized the army; revised the code in the interest of abstract justice; equalized assessments; subdued the Tartars; established forts for the protection of the frontiers; laid the foundation for the future greatness of his empire; began the work which was completed so grandly under Peter the Great; introduced printing into Russia; added greatly to her possessions; checked the abuses of her clergy; brought artists from Western Europe, and in a hundred ways made himself famous by doing those things which historians love to chronicle.

Meanwhile, his genius for governing upon the Gluiskian system lay dormant. It was not dead, but slept, and after its nap of thirteen years it awoke one day, refreshed. Anastatia, the beautiful Queen, whose influence had been supreme for so long a time, died, and Ivan was free again. He recalled an old Bishop who had been banished for his crimes, and consulted him as to his future course.

"If you wish to be truly a sovereign," said this eminent prelate, "never seek a counselor wiser than yourself; never receive advice from any man. Command, but never obey; and you will be a terror to the boyards. Remember that he who is permitted to begin by advising is certain to end by ruling his sovereign."

Here was advice of a sort suited to Ivan's taste and education, and for reply he kissed the good Bishop's hand, saying:

"My own father could not have spoken more wisely."

That the Czar spoke sincerely, his faithfulness in following the Bishop's precepts abundantly attests.

His Ministers and advisers being manifestly wiser than he, and therefore not at all the proper kind of people to have about, he straightway banished them. He then began a diligent search for their partisans, some of whom he put to death, condemning others to imprisonment and torture. He next turned his attention to his own household, which he was resolved upon ruling absolutely, at least, if not well. One of the Princes made himself disagreeable by declining to participate freely in the pleasures of the place, and for the sake of domestic harmony, Ivan had him poniarded while he was at his prayers. Another so far overstepped the bounds of courtesy and propriety as to remonstrate with one of the new favorites upon his improper conduct, and Ivan, in order that there might be no bickerings and hard feelings in his family, slew the discourteous Prince with his own hand.

He was in the habit of carrying an iron rod about with him, and he had a playful way of striking his friends with it now and then, merely for his amusement. His pleasantries of this and other like sorts, were endless. One day Prince Boris, a boyard, came to pay his respects to the Czar, and as he bowed to the ground, according to custom, Ivan, seizing a knife, said: "God bless thee, my dear Boris; thou deservest a proof of my favor," and with that he kindly cut the nobleman's ear off.

When Prince Kurbsky, whom he had threatened with death, fled to Poland, and wrote him a letter thence, telling him pretty plainly what he thought of him, the Czar playfully struck the bearer of the missive with his iron rod, as a preliminary to the reading of the letter, and the blood flowed copiously from the man's wounds while Ivan pondered the words of his rebellious subject. He then became convinced that the boyards generally sympathized with Kurbsky, and to teach them better, he put a good many of them to death by torture, and deprived many others of their estates. His alarm was very real, however, for he was a phenomenon of abject cowardice. He therefore fled to a fortified place in the midst of a dense forest, where he remained a month, writing letters to the people, telling them that he had abdicated and left them to their fate as a punishment for their disloyalty and their crimes. Singularly enough, his flight terrified the people. He had taught them that he was their god as God was his, and his flight to Alexandrovsky seemed to them a withdrawal of the protection of Providence itself. Business was suspended. The courts ceased to sit. The people were in an agony of terror. A large deputation of boyards and priests journeyed to Alexandrovsky, and besought the sovereign to return and resume his holy functions as the head of the church, that the souls of so many millions might not perish. Exacting of clergy and nobles an admission of his absolute right to do as he pleased, and a promise that they would in no way interfere with or resist authority, he returned to Moscow. Here he surrounded himself with a body-guard of desperadoes, 1,000 strong at first, and afterwards increased to 6,000, whose duty it was to discover the Czar's enemies and sweep them from the face of the earth. As emblems of these, their functions, each member of the guard carried at his saddle-bow a dog's head and a broom. As the punishment of the Czar's enemies included the confiscation of their property, a large part of which was given to the guards themselves, these were always singularly successful in discovering the disaffection of wealthy nobles, discovering it oftentimes before the nobles themselves were aware of their own treasonable sentiments.

Feeling unsafe still, Ivan built for himself a new palace, outside the walls of the Kremlin, making it an impregnable castle. Then, finding that even this did not lull his shaken nerves to rest, he proceeded to put danger afar off by dispossessing the 12,000 rich nobles whose estates lay nearest the palace, and giving their property to his personal followers, so that the head which wore the crown might lie easy in the conviction that there were no possible enemies near on the other side of the impregnable walls which shut him in. But even then he could not sleep easily, and so he repaired again to his forest stronghold at Alexandrovsky, where he surrounded himself with guards and ramparts. Here he converted the palace into a monastery, made himself abbot and his rascally followers monks. He rigorously enforced monastic observances, of the severest sort, and no doubt became a saint, in his own estimation. He spent most of his time at prayers, allowing himself no recreation except a daily sight of the torture of the prisoners who were confined in the dungeons of the fortress. His guards were allowed a rather larger share of amusement, and they wandered from street to street during the day, punishing, with their hatchets, such disloyal people as they encountered. They were moderate in their indulgences, however, in imitation of their sovereign, doubtless, and it is recorded to their credit, that, at this time, they rarely ever killed more than twenty people in one day, while sometimes the number was as low as five.

But a quiet life of this kind could not always content the Czar. Naturally, he grew tired of individual killings, and began to long for some more exciting sport. When one day a quarrel arose between some of his guards and a few of the people of Torjes, Ivan saw at a glance that all the inhabitants of Torjek were mutinous rebels, and of course it became his duty to put them all to death, which he straightway did.

Up to this time, the genius of Ivan seems to have been cautiously feeling its way, and so the part of his history already sketched may be regarded as a mere preliminary to his real career. His extraordinary capacity for ruling an empire on the principles taught him by the Prince Gluisky was now about to show itself in all its greatness. A criminal of Novgorod, feeling himself aggrieved by the authorities of that city, who had incarcerated him for a time, wrote a letter offering to place the city under Polish protection. This letter he signed, not with his own name, but with that of the Archbishop, and instead of sending it to the King of Poland, to whom it was addressed, he secreted it in the church of St. Sophia. Then going to Alexandrovsky, he told Ivan that treason was contemplated by the Novgorodians, and that the treasonable letter would be found behind the statue of the Virgin in the church. Ivan sent a messenger to find the letter, and upon his return the Czar began his march upon the doomed city. Happening to pass through the town of Khur on his way to Novorod, he put all its inhabitants to death, with the purpose, doubtless, of training his troops in the art of wholesale massacre, before requiring them to practice it upon the people of Novgorod. Finding this system of drill an agreeable pastime, he repeated it upon his arrival at the city of Twer, and then, in order that the other towns along this route might have no reason to complain of partiality, he bestowed upon all of them a like manifestation of his imperial regard.

It is not my purpose to describe in detail the elaborate, ingenious cruelty practiced in the massacre of the Novgorodians. The story is sickening. Ivan first heard mass, and then began the butchery, which lasted for many days, was conducted with the utmost deliberation and most ingenious cruelty, and ended in the slaughter of 60,000 people. Ivan had selected certain prominent citizens, to the number of several hundred, whom he reserved for public and particularly cruel execution at Moscow. Summoning the small and wretched remnant of the population to his presence, he besought their prayers for the continuance and prosperity of his reign, and, with gracious words of farewell, took his departure from the murdered city.

The execution in Moscow of the reserved victims was a scene too horrible to be described in these pages. Indeed, the half of Ivan's enormities may not be told here at all, and even the historians content themselves with the barest outlines of many parts of his career. He thought himself in some sense a deity, and blasphemously asserted that his throne was surrounded by archangels, precisely as God's is. Identifying himself with the Almighty, he claimed exemption from the observance of God's laws, and, in defiance of the fundamental principles of the Greek Church, of which he was the head, he married seven wives. Believing that he might with equal impunity insult the moral sense of other nations, he actually sought to add England's Queen, Elizabeth, to the list of his spouses. And he was so far right in his estimate of his power to do as he pleased, that the Virgin Queen, head of the English Church, while she would not herself become one of his wives, consented to assist him, and selected for his eighth consort Mary Hastings, the daughter of the Earl of Huntington. She came near bringing about a marriage between the two, in face of the fact that the two churches of which Ivan and she were respectively head were agreed in condemning polygamy as a heinous crime.

For one only of all his crimes Ivan showed regret, if not remorse. His oldest and favorite son, when the city of Pskof was besieged by the Poles, asked that he might be intrusted with the command of a body of troops with which to assist the beleaguered place. Ivan was so great a coward that he dared not trust the affection and loyalty of even his own favorite child, and in a fit of mingled fear and rage he beat the young man to death with his iron staff, saying:

"Rebel, you are leagued with the boyards in a conspiracy to dethrone me."

Remorse seizing upon him at once, his sufferings and fears of retribution were terrible. Finally he determined to abandon the throne and seek peace in a convent, but the infatuated Russians besought him not to desert them. He died in 1580, and on his death-bed attempted one of the most infamous crimes of his life, and was balked only by the flight of his victim and his own inability to follow her. She was a member of his family, being the wife of his son.

Did Scheherezade herself ever imagine a stranger story than this? And yet it is plain history, and is only a fragment of the truth.—George Cary Eggleston, in American Homes for November.

A Dying Man—The Latest Detroit Dodge.

Wednesday morning last a stranger entered a dry goods store on Woodward avenue and inquired for the proprietor, whose feelings are herewith respected and his name suppressed. The stranger introduced himself as Fiske, and said that a man who lay dying at a certain boarding-house on Larned street west had something to say to the merchant before he passed away. Thinking it very singular, the merchant put on his overcoat and went down to the house in company with the stranger. On a bed up stairs he found the dying man. The merchant expected to find a pale, emaciated patient, but instead he found a pretty healthy looking fellow, who was, however, snugly covered up in bed, and whose voice was away down in his throat.

"You wished to see me, did you?" asked the merchant as he sat down.

"I did," answered the patient. "The doctor says that I will not live twenty-four hours, and I want to confess a crime and ask your forgiveness. You don't know me, but I know you. You were keeping store in St. Joseph in 1857."

"Yes," answered the merchant.

"Well," continued the man, "I happened to be in St. Joseph that year, and one day while you were at dinner and your clerk busy I stole a pair of boots and a cap, amounting in value to perhaps six dollars. It is the only theft I ever committed, and it has caused me endless anxiety. Now, before I die, I wish to ask your forgiveness and to restore the value of the goods."

The merchant could not remember anything about the affair, nor of the man, who said his name was Jefferson, and he replied that it was all right, and that he didn't care for compensation. But both men pressed him to take at least fifteen dollars for the amount stolen so long ago, and he reluctantly consented. The dying man pulled out a roll of bills, all of the denomination of $100, and the merchant handed back fifty-four dollars, all the money he had, and told the well man to come to the store after the rest. He shook hands with the patient, hoped that death might be arrested and returned to the store alone having the $100 bill in his vest pocket. The stranger had not called up to 2 p. m., and the merchant finally took a closer look at the bill. His hair began to raise up, and he started for a bank.

"Best counterfeit I've seen for a year," remarked the cashier as he handed the bill back.

The merchant then secured the services of a detective and they hastened to the boarding-house to find that the men had departed before noon. They came there the evening previous, paid for two days' board, and the landlady did not know anything about them, but supposed the merchant knew them both. One at least must have known something of the merchant's former history, as he referred to facts, and although they did not get the stake they played for, they nevertheless made a good enough thing of it. Ever since Wednesday a detective has been looking for the men, and the greatest care has been taken that the reporters shouldn't get hold of the item.—Detroit Free Press.

A Lover's Revenge.

Some five or six weeks ago a young man, named Charles Perrin, 23 years old, a carpenter by trade, fell in love with a good-looking girl whose parents reside on Orchard street. Charles had red hair and a freckled face, and although the young lady treated him courteously when he called at the house, she had her mind made up that she could never wed a red-headed man. After an acquaintance of three weeks he asked her to become Mrs. Perrin, and was greatly taken down when she told him that she couldn't think of such a thing. Charles then sought to have the old folks put in a good word for him, but they declined to interfere. He continued his visits, perhaps hoping to soften the young girl's heart, but Thursday evening the crisis came. He went to the house with a bottle of acid in his pocket, prepared to spoil her beauty if she did not give him a favorable answer. There was no one at home but the girl and her mother, and Perrin first wanted the girl to take a walk with him. She refused to go, and he asked to see her alone. She also refused this request, and the lover had just got ready to draw the bottle from his pocket when something bit him. He thought it was a dog, but it wasn't. The cork had worked out of the bottle, and his coat-tails were turning brick color at the rate of a yard a minute. The acid wasn't content with the coat-tails, but struck out for flesh, and in about a minute the young man was dancing around the house as if to escape a bullet. Shouting and whooping he got out of doors and threw off most of his clothing and rolled in the mud, and it was some time before any one could find out whether he had snakes in his boots or had sat down on a brad-awl. He was so badly burned that two men had to help him to his boarding house on Fifth street, where a physician dressed the burns. There is a good deal of laughing at his expense, and if he makes his appearance at the house again he will be arrested, as he told one of his friends in advance that he meant the acid for the girl.—Detroit Free Press.

CONGRESSMAN ELLIOTT (colored) has been elected Speaker of the South Carolina Legislature.

TERRIBLE CYCLONE.

The Destruction of Tuscumbia, Ala., by a Tornado—Incidents of the Disaster—Heartrending Scenes Among the Ruins.

Tuscumbia, Ala. (Nov. 23), Cor. of the New York Times.

Yesterday evening, shortly after sundown, a wind-storm of unprecedented violence struck the town of Tuscumbia, in this state, and, in the short space of two minutes, destroyed upward of 100 buildings, killing 11 persons outright, and wounding not less than 30 others. Tuscumbia is one of the oldest towns in Northern Alabama. Its population numbers about 2,000, and it has long enjoyed the reputation of being the center of the most refined circles in the South.

All day yesterday the weather in this part of the country was exceedingly warm for this time of the year, many persons remarking that it seemed like a July day. Toward evening a soft, warm wind began to blow from the southwest, and a thick bank of dark clouds was seen to form in that direction. At sundown rain began to fall, and lightning was seen in the distance. Shortly after dark most of the people were quietly seated around their supper tables, when suddenly a sound like rushing thunder was heard in the streets, and before the terrified inhabitants were fully aware of the danger that threatened them, the storm had passed over. The people whose houses were uninjured immediately rushed into the streets. They found men, women, and children, flying in all directions, their cries of alarm mingling with the moaning of dying animals. Houses were blown down in many places, and the streets and roads were everywhere filled with crumbling walls and shattered timbers.

A few of the citizens hastily formed themselves into an organized body, appointed a leader, and set about ascertaining the nature of the damage that had been done. As they were about to set out, they were met by a little girl named Lillie Elliott, who, with white lips and trembling voice, told them that her aunt's house had been completely blown down, and that she feared every one in it had been killed. The party at once hastened to the house indicated, and found that it was indeed a ruin. Everything was still about the place, and the men were about to turn away from it when they heard the voice of a child crying for assistance. The call came from the middle of the fallen building, and the party, by this time largely reinforced, set at once to work to remove the brick and timber near the place indicated. After fifteen minutes' hard work they were rewarded by finding two little girls, one five and the other eight years of age. One of the children was entirely unhurt, and was easily removed. The other had her arm firmly wedged in between two beams; but, with a courage that was marvelous in one so young, she called out to the men, "Get my mother out, get my mother out, never mind me." At last the beams were cut away and the little one released.

Digging further into the rubbish, a terrible sight met the eyes of the workmen. On the broken bed lay the body of a dead woman, two massive cross-timbers resting on her neck. Under her were two little children locked in each other's arms, both dead and crushed out of all shape. The lady was the wife of State Senator Moore, who was recently elected. Both her youngest children were undressed when found, and the little girls who were rescued said that their mother was just putting the children to bed when the house was blown down.

Little Lillie Elliott, who gave the alarm, was a niece of Mrs. Moore's, and was visiting her little girls when the storm came on. She says that she felt the house falling all about her, but, strange as it may seem, she was unharmed, finding herself on top of the fallen house. The bodies of Mrs. Moore and her two children were conveyed to the house of a friend.

When the first shock of the tornado had passed, John Hodgkins, a young man well known in the town, crawled into the hall of the Tuscumbia Hotel, and stated that he had been thrown out of the second-story window of his house by the force of the storm, that the house had been entirely blown down, and that his brother's family were buried beneath the ruins.

A party at once formed, and, headed by Mr. James Halsey, a traveler for a New York house, proceeded to the residence of Mr. Hodgkins. They found the building level with the ground. Through an opening which had been formed through the falling timbers Mr. Halsey crawled under the house, and discovered Mr. Hodgkins and his wife lying upon a bed apparently dead. His party at once set to work to remove the rubbish which had fallen upon the bodies. The side of the fallen roof was cut through by willing hands, and in twenty minutes the bodies were reached. At the foot of bed, lying across it, was Mr. Hodgkins, beside him his wife, and under them their four children. The six were quite dead. The mother held her youngest child in her arms, and the father was lying as if he had died in an effort to protect the other children. The bodies were fully dressed, and not at all mangled. They had evidently died of suffocation. The bodies were removed just as they were to an adjoining house.

Shortly after the finding of the Hodgkins family, a party proceeded to the house of Mrs. J. W. Winston, a well known lady of this place. The house was one of the finest in this place, having cost $40,000 before the war. It was entirely destroyed, and Mrs. Winston killed. As the side of the house fell in she was driven against the standing wall of the room on the second floor, which she occupied, and a heavy wardrobe and other pieces of furniture falling on her, she was killed instantly. Her son-in-law and his family, who were in the lower story, escaped unhurt.

Mrs. Winston was the mother of ex-Gov. Winston and mother-in-law of ex-Gov. Lindsey, of this State.

Later in the evening it was discovered that Miss Bessie Sherrod, a young lady living a mile out of the town, had been killed by the falling of the cottage in which she lived.

In addition to the persons found dead as narrated above, there are a number very severely wounded. Two of these are not expected to recover.

Martin Patterson, an old resident of this place, when he first felt the shock of the storm, caught his two children in his arms, and, calling his wife, rushed to the door. He succeeded in conveying one child and his wife to the street in safety, and was about to pass out with the other child when he was caught by a mass of falling timbers. With wonderful presence of mind he threw the child from him into the street, where it was taken up by its mother unharmed. Patterson was so firmly wedged in that it was some hours before he could be freed. His life is dispaired of.

A man named Craig Throckmorton was in the act of carrying one of his children from his house, after the storm had passed over, when the stairway suddenly fell in. Throckmorton succeeded in reaching the street, but he is very badly cut about the head and face, and his condition is considered critical. His child was unhurt.

There were many remarkable circumstances connected with the storm. It passed through the town from the southwest, commencing at the fair grounds, and tore itself a path varying from 300 to 400 feet in width. In some places the strongest and most carefully constructed buildings were lifted completely from their foundations and laid level with the ground. Not far from these, old and dilapidated frame buildings were left standing, apparently unharmed.

After the storm the houseless families were taken to the residences of more fortunate friends. About 300 were deprived of homes, and it is estimated that the total loss to the town and private individuals will reach $500,000. The Memphis and Charleston Railroad Company loses $20,000.

A Poet's Prosperity.

Bryant has made more money than any poet that ever lived. It has, however, not been the product of his Muse, but of his newspaper. To this is to be added the fact that he is of simple habits, and cannot but be moderate in general expenses. He is estimated to be worth from $400,000 up to $600,000, which is certainly doing very well. No other editor except Bennett has exceded this sum, or even equaled it, while, as for poets, which of this gifted clan ever dreamed of such success? Bryant, indeed, reminds us (in this point at least) of what Jeffrey said of Byron in his critique, "He never lived in a garret like thoroughbred poets." But wealth never inflated his vanity. It came as the earnings of a great journal, and was never used for display.—New York Letter.

New York Officials.

The constitutional amendments adopted in New York, at the late election, raise the salary of the Governor from $4,000 to $10,000, with a house at Albany; and increase the pay of legislators from $300 to $1,500 a year. The Governor can veto any item of an appropriation bill, and he is required to pass on all bills left unacted upon the adjournment of the Legislature within thirty days. Special legislation is practically prohibited, and bribe-taking is punishable as a felony. Every elective officer is required to make oath that he has neither bribed nor corruptly influenced any one to vote for him, and no one can hold a State and city, or a State and county, or a State and Federal office at the same time. The oath about bribery don't weigh much. Any one who commits the offense will swear out.

THE CENTER OF POPULATION.—North and South, the center of population steadily clings to the thirty-ninth parallel, along which are situated Baltimore, Washington and Cincinnati. At no time from 1790 to 1870 has the center of population departed north or south of this line more than twenty-six miles. It has marched westward 399 miles in that period, the greatest leap being from 1850 to 1860 (eighty-one miles) when the transfer of a small population to the Pacific coast gave a sudden elongation to the Western arm of the lever and necessitated the moving of the fulcrum quite a distance. It is now forty-eight miles east of Cincinnati, and in 1880 will nearly coincide with that city.

ANNA S. GETSINGER, of Honesdale, Pa., writes the following: "After suffering for nearly two years from neuralgia in the breast, passing up into the throat, face and head, I was entirely cured and restored to health by using Dr. L. Q. C. Wishart's Pine Tree Tar Cordial."

THERE is nothing like leather shoes with a SILVER TIP for children. Try them. They never wear through at the toes. For sale by all dealers.

WISHART'S

PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL.

It is now fifteen years since the attention of the public was first called by Dr. L. Q. C. Wishart to this wonderful remedy, and so well has it stood the test of time that to-day it not only has the confidence of the entire community, but is more frequently prescribed by physicians in their practice than any other proprietary preparation in the country. It is the vital principle of the Pine Tree, obtained by a peculiar process in the distillation of the Tar, by which its highest medicinal properties are retained. For the following complaints, Inflammation of the Lungs, Coughs, Sore Throat and Breast, Bronchitis, Consumption, Liver Complaint, Weak Stomach, Disease of the Kidneys, Urinary Complaints, Nervous Debility, Dyspepsia, and diseases arising from an impure condition of the blood, there is no remedy in the world that has been used so successfully or can show such a number of marvelous cures. The following will serve to show the estimation in which this sovereign remedy is held by those who have used it.

Consumption for Ten Years Cured.

DR. L. Q. C. WISHART: Dear Sir—I am grateful to you from the fact that you have made a medicine that will cure the disease of the Lungs. My wife has had the Consumption for ten years. Physicians had told me that they could only patch her up for the time being. She was confined to her bed and had been for some time. I heard of your Pine Tree Tar Cordial and secured one bottle; it relieved her cough. She has now finished the fourth bottle, and is able to do the work for her family; and may God speed you on with your great discovery and cure you have made for Consumption.
REV. E. H. HOPKINS,
Jackson Centre, Shelby Co., Ohio.

From St. Louis, Mo.

DR. WISHART, PHILADELPHIA: Dear Sir—During a visit to Philadelphia, some three years ago, I was suffering from a severe cold, and was induced to take a bottle of your Pine Tree Tar Cordial, which had the effect of curing me in a few days. I have used it in my family ever since, and am of the opinion that it saved the life of my daughter, who was suffering from a severe and painful cough. If the publication of this will be of any service, you are at liberty to use it. Yours respectfully,
JOHN HODNETT, St. Louis, Mo.

For sale by all Druggists and Storekeepers and at

DR. L. Q. C. WISHART'S OFFICE,

No. 232 N. Second St., Philadelphia, Pa.

A New Ship-Canal Project.

Late Washington dispatches mention a new ship canal project which is to be urged in Congress at the next session by Baltimore interests. The proposition, it appears, is to cut a canal sixty feet wide at top, forty feet wide at bottom, and twenty-five feet deep, across the Maryland peninsula, connecting the Chesapeake and Delaware bays. The National Commercial Convention of 1871 indorsed this scheme, and asked Congress to have the route surveyed. The length of the work would be about seventeen miles, and would cost at a rough estimate from $6,000,000 to $8,000,000. It would shorten the distance between Baltimore and New York and New England ports about 200 miles, and would, it is claimed, make Baltimore as accessible to ocean commerce as New York. From certain indications it is thought that the Baltimore and Ohio railroad will take hold of the enterprise, and give material aid to the effort to secure for it an appropriation from Congress.

Came to Grief.

Mrs. Hooper in one of her recent Paris letters gives the following incident, showing how an ill-mannered Englishwoman came to grief in Rome: "Her abuse was leveled at Americans, and one particular one who happened to be standing in front of her and obstructing her view in the Sistine Chapel. At last the Englishwoman was so wrought up as to pull the dress of the supposed American to make her sit down, when she turned round and dealt her tormentor a smart slap in the face, pouring forth at the same time a volley of abuse in purest French, much to the amusement of the quiet American spectator of the scene, who, when narrating the story to me, added, "It was very wrong of the Frenchwoman thus to assault her adversary, but I was very glad that she did.'"

Surgical Freezing.

The successful employment of an anæsthetic which prevents pain without destroying consciousness, is a matter of interest and importance to medical people everywhere. Dr. W. B. Richardson, in the London Lancet, describes two operations of this kind, by him performed, for removal of cancerous tumors of the breast, both patients being ladies. A spray of common ether was directed upon the tumor until thoroughly chilled. The lighter fluid, a compound of ether with hydride of amyl, specific gravity .720, was then applied until the whole of the breast was frozen like a snowball. Instead of with a scalpel, the incisions and removal were effected by means of small, strong, sharp and curved scissors. The operations were successful, the healing speedy, without discharge or trouble of any kind.

A Bone for the Baby.

Almost every one who ever had a bright dog can tell curious stories about dog behavior. A gentleman in Erie, Pa., furnishes the Observer with this funny anecdote: Mrs. J. has for some time past been the owner of a fine Esquimaux dog. A few weeks ago Mrs. J. became the mother of a beautiful little girl, of whom the dog at first was very jealous. His better nature, however, soon asserted itself, and he became very fond of the child. A few weeks ago baby was crying loud and long. Doggie came up stairs in evident distress of spirit, whined in answer to the child's cry; but, finally, as if a sudden thought had startled him, trotted down stairs. He presently retured with a bone, well picked, of course, in his mouth, which, standing on his hind legs, he gravely presented to the baby.

Good Management.

"A Bachelor" says, in a communication to the New York Times, on the subject of matrimony practically considered: "I have a good room, for which I pay twenty dollars a month, with gas and fire. I cook my own breakfast, which consists usually of fresh rolls and butter with coffee or chocolate, and a couple of eggs, or a few oysters, with fruit in season, and, if I choose, a little pickled salmon, cheese or caviar, as a relish. My breakfast costs me, on an average, fifteen cents a day, an estimate which looks ridiculously small, but which any person can verify by trying the same plan himself." This bachelor, however, eats square dinners and dresses well, so that his annual expenditure averages $921.

IN the present Congress, Fernando Wood has the distinction of having served a term (1841–43) at an earlier date than any other now a member of the House. But to the next Congress is elected the venerable ex-Gov. Philip F. Thomas, of Maryland, who served the term 1839–41. William D. Kelley, of Pennsylvania, will be the "Father of the House," in the next Congress, by virtue of continuous services since 1861, although the following members-elect entered the House at earlier dates, viz: Philip F. Thomas, 1839, Fernando Wood, 1841; Alexander H. Stephens, 1843; William Pitt Lynde, of Wisconsin, 1848; John Robbins, of Pennsylvania, 1849; Charles J. Faulkner, of West Virginia, 1851; Nathaniel P. Banks, of Massachusetts, 1853; James Buffington, of Massachusetts, 1855; John H. Reagan, of Texas; Thomas L. Jones, of Kentucky; Alfred M. Scales, of North Carolina, and Elijah Ward, of New York, in 1857; and John Young Brown, of Kentucky, in 1859.

THE last Democratic United States Senators from this State were Daniel S. Dickinson and John A. Dix, both of whom have, since the Republicans came into power, held office under that party. When Silas Wright was elected Governor in 1844 he resigned his seat in the United States Senate, and Gov. Bouck appointed Henry A. Foster as his successor. When the Legislature assembled in January, 1845, that body elected John A. Dix to serve during the unexpired term of Mr. Wright, and Dickinson was elected at the same time in the place of Tallmadge. Mr. Dix was in the Senate until the 4th of March, 1849, when he was succeeded by Mr. Seward. Mr. Dickinson was in the Senate until March 4, 1851, when he was succeeded by Hamilton Fish. Since then every United States Senator from this State has been either Whig or Republican.—New York World.

Printers and Preachers.

The Augusta (Me.) Journal has this paragraph: "We understand that Mr. George H. Blake, formerly of the Portland Press and Rockland Globe, has gone to New Jersey and is to engage in the duties of a clergyman. He went to one of the Western States, but, the business outlook being poor there, thought he would return further East and assume the clerical robes. It may be that the story is but an idle rumor, and that George hasn't come to that; but if true, it shows that a newspaper man's resources are almost endless; if he can't print he can preach; if the newspaper fails he can set up a missionary station, or turn his hand to almost everything. Recently a gentleman occupied the Free Baptist desk, in this city, who formerly worked at type-setting in the Kennebec Journal office. It seemed to us very curious, but it was doubtless the legitimate results of his youthful instruction. Another graduate from this office is a Methodist minister."

THE railroad casualties for October in the United States, that have been reported, amount to eighty-one in all, making an average of about three accidents per day during the month. There has been also during the same time about one person killed in every two days, and two injured every day. During the year ending November 1, there were about 1,000 accidents, over 200 killed and over 700 injured. It is a fact well-known to railroad men that not nearly all the casualties on the lines are reported to the general public or the statisticians. If they were, the averages in the tables of accidents, deaths and injuries on railroads would be materially increased.

THE Binghamton Times prints a copy of an original letter of President Lincoln, now in the possession of Hon. Henry R. Mygatt, of Oxford, to whom it was given by the confidential clerk of the Secretary of War, soon after it was written. It reads as follows:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, Nov. 11, 1861.—HON. SECRETARY OF WAR.—My Dear Sir: I personally wish Jacob R. Freer, of New Jersey, to be appointed a Colonel for a colored regiment, and this regardless of whether he can tell the exact shade of Julius Cæsar's hair. Yours truly, A. LINCOLN.

THE Sherman House, Chicago, recognizing the necessity for retrenchment these close times, has made a material reduction in its rates. But there has been no reduction in its merits as a first-class hotel.

Pianos and Organs.

Fine new rosewood pianos for $300.
Fine walnut organs, six stops, $125.
Good second-hand pianos, $150 to $200.
Reed's Temple of Music, Chicago.

Indisputable Evidence.

ST. ELMO, Ill., July 8, 1874.

R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.:—I wish to add my testimony to the wonderful curative properties of your Alt. Ext., or Golden Medical Discovery. I have taken great interest in this medicine since I first used it. I was badly afflicted with dyspepsia, liver deranged and an almost perfect prostration of the nervous system. So rapid and complete did the Discovery effect a perfect cure that it seemed more like magic and a perfect wonder to myself, and since that time we have never been without a bottle of the Discovery and Purgative Pellets in the house. They are a solid, sound family physician in the house, and ready at all times to fly to the relief of sickness—without charge. We have never had a doctor in the house since we first began the use of your Pellets and Discovery. I have recommended the use of these medicines in several severe and complicated cases arising from, as I thought, an impure state of the blood, and in no one case have they failed to more than accomplish all they are claimed to do. I will only mention one as remarkable (though I could give you dozens)—Henry Koster, furniture dealer of this place, who was one of the most pitiful objects ever seen, his face swollen out of shape, scales and eruptions without end extending to his body, which was completely covered with blotches and scales. Nothing that he took seemed to affect it a particle. I finally induced him to try a few bottles of the Golden Medical Discovery, with daily use of the Pellets, assuring him it would surely cure him. He commenced its use some six weeks since, taking two Pellets each night for a week, then one each night, and the Discovery as directed. The result is to-day his skin is perfectly smooth, and the scaly eruptions are gone. He has taken some seven or eight bottles in all, and considers himself cured. This case had baffled the skill of our best physicians. Messrs. Dunsford & Co., druggists of this place, are selling largely of your medicines, and the demand steadily increases, and they give perfect satisfaction in every case. Respectfully,

W. H. CHAMPLIN, Agt. Am. Exp. Co.

SAFE, PERMANENT AND COMPLETE!—Wilhoft's Tonic cures Chills and Fever, Dumb Chills and Bilious Fevers—those Titans that kill their thousands where this remedy is unknown. It cures Enlargement of the Spleen, It cures Hypertrophy of the Liver. It hurts no one. It cures all types of Malarial Fevers and is perfectly protective in all its effects. Try Wilhoft's Tonic, the great infallible Chill Cure. WHEELOCK, FINLAY & Co., Proprietors, New Orleans. For sale by all druggists.

IF you want to look well and feel nicely around the neck, wear the Improved Warwick Collar. It is the latest style in width, and all the edges being folded, the corners do not turn up. It looks better than any other collar, whether linen or paper.

The Prettiest Woman in New York, Miss K——, well known in our fashionable society for her distingue appearance and beautiful complexion, was once a sallow, rough-skinned girl, chagrined at her red, freckled face. She pitched into Hagan's Magnolia Balm and is now as pretty in complexion as she is charming in manners. This article overcomes freckles, tan, sallowness, moth-patches, ring-marks, etc., and makes one look ten years younger than they are. Magnolia Balm for a transparent complexion, and Lyon's Kathairon to make the hair plentiful, luxuriant, soft and delicate, have no rivals. The Kathairon prevents the hair from turning gray, eradicates dandruff, and is the best and cheapest dressing in the world.

Damned by Faint Praise.—Jas. Beekman, clergyman of New York, was recently badly kicked by a horse, and was speedily cured by using the celebrated Mexican Mustang Liniment. When the proprietor asked him for a certificate, he replied that he "considered it a remarkable article, but it wouldn't answer for him to indorse a remedy in print." Here's consistency. But we didn't kick him, as the horse did. The world knows that for Rheumatism, Bruises, Swellings, Spavin, Scratches, Inflammation, Lameness, or any flesh, bone or muscle ailment upon man or animal, there is nothing like the Mustang Liniment. It costs but 50 cts. and $1.00 per bottle, and should be in every family. It is wrapped in a fine steel-plate label, and signed "G. W. Westbrook, Chemist."

Tonic and Recuperant Plantation Bitters.—The constantly increasing patronage which it receives has, it is true, excited the petty envy of certain splenetic advertisers of pinchbeck panaceas, who hope to make a market for their own stagnant, watery wares by decrying all spirituous medicinal preparations. But the public can stomach neither their arguments nor their potations, and consequently reject these very weak imitations of the enemy as entirely too thin!

VEGETABLE PULMONARY BALSAM! Most approved, reliable and well-known remedy for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. Get the genuine. Price $1; small 50c. CUTLER BROS. & CO., Boston

A PROVIDENTIAL MAN.—This title now justly belongs to a physician who has added to the list of medicines a new remedy, which appears to include all that is most valuable in the old pharmacopœia, and not to include any of the drawbacks with which the so-called specifics of the Faculty are chargeable. The providential man is DR. JOSEPH WALKER, of California, whose VINEGAR BITTERS have achieved, in the short space of two years, a degree of popularity never before attained by any advertised preparation in this country. We have too much confidence in the shrewdness of the American people to suppose that this sudden and surprising celebrity is the outgrowth of a delusion. Indeed, we have reason to know that it is founded on innumerable and well-authenticated cures of almost all the bodily ills that flesh is heir to. Not the least among the merits of the famous Tonic and Restorative, is its entire freedom from alcohol, as well as from all mineral drugs. It is composed exclusively of rare vegetable extracts. 12

THE NORTHWESTERN HORSE-NAIL CO.'s "Finished" Nail is the best in the world.

The Markets.

NEW YORK.
Beeves	8 @ 13
Hogs—Dressed	8 @ 9
Cotton	14¼ @ 15
Flour—Superfine Western	4 00 @ 4 65
Wheat—No. 2 Chicago	1 08 @ 1 09
No. 1 Spring	1 17 @ 1 24
Corn	87 @ 91
Oats	68 @ 71
Rye	94 @ 98
Pork—New Mess	21 00 @21 25
Lard—Steam	13 @ 13½
CHICAGO.
Beeves—Choice Graded Steers	6 25 @ 6 62½
Choice Natives	5 75 @ 6 00
Good to Prime Steers	5 00 @ 5 50
Cows and Heifers	2 00 @ 2 50
Medium to Fair	3 75 @ 4 50
Inferior to Common	2 00 @ 2 75
Hogs—Live	7 00 @ 7 40
Flour—Fancy White Winter	6 00 @ 7 00
Red Winter	5 00 @ 5 50
Wheat—No. 1 Spring	93½@ 94
No. 2 Spring	90 @ 90½
No. 3 Spring	84 @ 85
Corn—No. 2	71½@ 73
Oats—No. 2	51½@ 52½
Rye—No. 2	96 @ 98
Barley—No. 2	1 24 @ 1 26
Butter—Fancy	35 @ 39
Eggs—Fresh	25 @ 26
Pork—Mess	19 50 @19 80
Lard	13½@ ..
ST. LOUIS.
Wheat—No. 2 Red	1 05 @ 1 07
Corn—No. 2 New	70 @ 71
Oats—No. 2	55 @ 56
Rye—No. 2	1 00 @ 1 03
Pork—Mess	20 00 @ ..
Lard	13 @ ..
Hogs	7 00 @ 7 75
Cattle	5 25 @ 6 00
MILWAUKEE.
Wheat—No. 1	90 @ 92
No. 2	88 @ 89
Corn—No. 2	71 @ 73
Oats—No. 2	52 @ 54
Rye	94 @ 96
Barley—No. 2	1 25 @ 1 28
CINCINNATI.
Wheat—Red	1 08 @ 1 12
Corn—New	70 @ 71
Oats	55 @ 60
Rye	1 05 @ 1 08
Pork—Mess	20 25 @20 50
Lard	13 @ 13½
TOLEDO.
Wheat—No. 1 Red	1 09 @ 1 10
Amber Michigan	1 08 @ 1 09
Corn—New	69 @ 71
Oats	54 @ 55
DETROIT.
Wheat—Extra	1 15 @ 1 17
Amber	1 08 @ 1 09
Corn	73 @ 75
Oats	54 @ 55
CLEVELAND.
Wheat—No. 1 Red	1 10 @ 1 12
No. 2 Red	1 06 @ 1 07
Corn	71 @ 72
Oats	58 @ 59

$72 Each Week. Agents wanted. Particulars free. WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

$5 to $20 per day at home. Terms free. Address GEO. STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

AGENTS WANTED—Men or Women, $34 a week or $100 forfeited. The secret free. Write at once to COWEN & CO., 8th St., New York.

17.50 per day made by our agents selling staple articles used in every family. Address H. H. Miller & Co., 164 Randolph-st., Chicago

O! $210 a Month. Agents everywhere. First-class biz. Particulars free. B. Waller & Co., St. Louis, Mo.

$25 PER DAY Commission or $30 a week Salary, and expenses. We offer it and will pay it. Apply now. G. Webber & Co., Marion, O

EPILEPSY or FITS cured by the use of Ross' Epileptic Remedies. Trial Package FREE. For circulars, evidence of success, etc., address ROSS BROS., Richmond, Ind.

"AROUND THE TEA TABLE," a new subscription book, by Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, author of "Crumbs Swept Up," &c. Agents wanted. JOHN E. MILLER & CO., Publishers, Chicago, Ill.

CONSTANT EMPLOYMENT—At home, Male or Female. $30 a week insured. No capital required. Particulars and valuable sample free. Address with 6c return stamp, C. Ross, Williamsburgh, N.Y.

ADVERTISERS! Send 25 cents to GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., 41 Park Row, New York, for their Pamphlet of 100 pages, containing lists of 3000 newspapers and estimates showing cost of advertising.

OPIUM EATERS THOROUGHLY CURED. Cheap, quick; no suffering. Gyre wonderful success. Describe case. DR. ARMSTRONG, Berrien, Mich.

$200 and expenses a month to Agents. Address A. L. STODDARD, Jonesville, Mich.

CATARRH CURED. For full information, price-list, etc., address (with stamp) Rev. T. P. CHILDS, Troy, Ohio.

$75 A WEEK. Agents wanted everywhere. Outfit 25c. FRITCH & WALKER, Dayton, Ohio.

ONE agent sold in one month 801 copies of the LIFE OF LIVINGSTONE, which unfolds the thrilling experiences of a veritable Hero and the curiosities of a wonderful country. More agents wanted. Address LIVINGSTONE PUBLISHERS, either at Cincinnati, Detroit, Chicago, Davenport, or St. Louis.

ADVERTISERS.

The American Newspaper Union numbers over 1,600 papers, separated into seven subdivisions. For separate lists and cost of advertising, address S. P. SANBORN, 114 Monroe St., Chicago.

FREE! Specimen Copies of the best Agricultural Paper in the world.

AMERICAN FARM JOURNAL.

Sixteen large pages for only 75 Cents per Year. Save your money. Specimen Copies free to any address. Send Postal Card to LOCKE & JONES, Toledo, Ohio.

You will like the paper.

HOG RINGER. 15,000,000 Rings, 70,000 Ringers, 3,500 Tongs Sold. Hardware Dealers Sell Them. Ringer $1, Rings per 100 50cts, Tongs $1.25, by mail, post paid. Circulars free. Address H. W. HILL & CO. Decatur, Ill.

PROF. D. MEEKER'S

Painless Opium Cure!

The Only Successful Remedy of the Present Day.

Send for Paper on Opium Eating, its Consequences and Cure.

P. O. Box 475, Laporte, Ind.

THE WEEKLY SUN. A large, eight-page, independent, honest and fearless newspaper, of 56 broad columns, especially designed for the farmer, the mechanic, the merchant and the professional man, and their wives and children. We aim to make the Weekly Sun the best family newspaper in the world. It is full of entertaining and instructive reading of every sort, but prints nothing to offend the most scrupulous and delicate taste. Price $1.20 per year, postage prepaid. The cheapest paper published. Try it. Address THE SUN, New York City.

CAUTION.

On account of the popularity of the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machines, parties have largely been engaged in purchasing old and second-hand machines of that make, and imposed upon the public by selling them as new machines. The Wheeler & Wilson Company begs to advise the public that any one desiring to buy their second-hand machines can be supplied by that Company direct, on better terms than others can afford them, and be assured of what they are buying. Address

WHEELER & WILSON M'F'G CO.,
625 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

[illegible]

OPIUM HABIT CURED at Home. No Publicity. Terms moderate. Time short. Four years of unparalleled success. Describe case. 400 testimonials. Address Dr. F. E. Marsh, Quincy, Mich.

OPTIC'S MAGAZINE, 1875

Now is the time to Subscribe! The New Volume will contain New Stories by Oliver Optic, Elijah Kellogg and others, besides many new features, all of which are duly set forth in our Prospectus. Terms $3.00 per year, in advance. Specimen number mailed free on application.

LEE & SHEPARD, Publishers, Boston.

EPILEPSY or FITS.

A SURE CURE for this distressing complaint is now made known in a Treatise (of 48 octavo pages) on Foreign and Native Herbal Preparations, published by DR. O. PHELPS BROWN. The prescription was discovered by him in such a providential manner that he cannot conscientiously refuse to make it known, as it has cured everybody who has used it for Fits, never having failed in a single case. The ingredients may be obtained from any druggist. A copy sent free to all applicants by mail. Address DR. O. PHELPS BROWN, 21 Grand Street Jersey City, N. J.

Canned Fruits and Vegetables

Of the Choicest Kinds Within Reach of All.

Case of 24 cans assorted Table Fruits, $5 50.
Case of 24 cans assorted Vegetables, $4.50.
The country has been flooded with inferior goods. Purchasers will find our assortment the best and cheapest. Sent on receipt of price.
F. A. WAIDNER, 45 River St., Chicago.

SAFE
S.H. HARRIS — THE BEST
MANUFACTORY AND SALESROOM,
23 & 25 RANDOLPH ST., CHICAGO

THE CINCINNATI WEEKLY STAR

Including postage and the finely-illustrated Star Almanac, $1 per year. Anti-Monopoly—the Granger's Paper—containing 8 large pages of excellent reading matter. The farmer, merchant and mechanic in any part of the country will find this the best of the weeklies, to say nothing of the low price. Agents are offered inducements superior to anything heretofore attempted. Specimen copies free. Address "THE STAR," Cincinnati, O.

ALL PAPERS QUOTE FROM IT!

The Detroit FREE PRESS The liveliest of family newspapers, full of interesting news, literature, humorous sketches, spicy paragraphs, etc. Sample Copies free. Subscription $2 a year, post-paid. Address

DETROIT FREE PRESS,
Detroit, Mich.

STEINWAY

Grand, Square and Upright Pianos,

Superior to all others. Every Piano Warranted for Five Years. Illustrated Catalogues, with Price List, mailed free on application.

STEINWAY & SONS,
Nos. 107, 109 & 111 East 14th Street, New York.

THE NORTHWESTERN HORSE-NAIL CO.'s "Finished" Nail is the best in the world.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE

HISTORY OF THE GRANGE MOVEMENT

OR THE

FARMER'S WAR AGAINST MONOPOLIES.

Being a full and authentic account of the struggles of the American farmers against the extortions of the Railroad Companies, with a history of the rise and progress of the Order of Patrons of Husbandry. It sells at sight. Send for specimen pages and terms to Agents, and see why it sells faster than any other book. Address NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Chicago, Ill., or St. Louis, Mo.

EVERY HOUSEHOLD CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH A BEAUTIFUL ILLUMINATING GAS BY THE KEYSTONE SAFETY GAS MACHINE. IT IS SIMPLE IN CONSTRUCTION, SAFE IN OPERATION, AND CERTAIN IN RESULTS. FOR VILLAGES, CHURCHES, RURAL HOMES, INSTITUTIONS, ETC., THE KEYSTONE APPARATUS AFFORDS THE MOST PERFECT MEANS OF ILLUMINATION YET DISCOVERED. PAMPHLETS AND FULL INFORMATION ON APPLICATION. KEYSTONE SAFETY GAS MACHINE CO.; J. B. WILSON, PRES.; C. H. BAKER, SEC.; 717 SANSOM ST., PHILADELPHIA; 110 LIBERTY ST., NEW YORK.

WONDERFUL CURES BY THE

WAUKESHA

Mineral Rock Spring Water for

Diabetes,

And all diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs. The increase of this disease is becoming more apparent every day; but thanks to a kind Providence for the timely discovery of this healing water. It is unsurpassed in the known world. For information giving description of the above diseases, the "Geology of Waukesha," by Prof. I. A. Lapham, State Geologist, how the medicinal properties of this water are formed. Send for a pamphlet published by

C. C. OLIN & CO., Proprietors,
Waukesha, Wis.

Agents Wanted. Price of water, $12 a bbl., $7 half bbl., 50 cts a gal., in jugs or cans. Jugs and cans extra only.

A Beautiful Gift FOR YOUR CHILDREN.

THE LITTLE CORPORAL

For 1875.

Emily Huntington Miller, Editor.

Each number of the magazine contains matter suitable to the Little Folks, the Young Folks and the Old Folks who have young hearts. All new subscribers for next year, whose names are received before January 1st, will receive the remaining numbers of this year free. Beautiful Premiums for clubs. We want agents everywhere to raise clubs. Now is the time to begin. Send stamp for Premium List. Terms for 1875 are: Single copies, $1.50 a year; five copies for $6, and a premium to the person sending the club. Specimen numbers, 10 cents.

Webster's Primary Dictionary, new Illustrated Edition; 352 pages, 200 engravings; cloth and leather binding. Price, postpaid, 75c; or Little Corporal one year and Dictionary, postage paid on both, for only $1.60.

Webster's Common School Dictionary, with Synonyms, useful Tables, List of Foreign Words and Phrases; 400 pages, 280 engravings; cloth and leather binding. Price, postpaid, $1; or the Corporal one year and Dictionary, both postpaid, for $1.80.

You are invited to subscribe. Address

JOHN E. MILLER, Publisher,
164 Randolph street, Chicago, Ill.

1875 PROSPECTUS 1875

OF THE

CHICAGO TRIBUNE

The Leading Newspaper in the West.

INDEPENDENT REPUBLICAN.

Daily, Tri-Weekly and Weekly.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, under the guidance of its former editor, has resumed its old position at the head of Republican journals, and will do battle in the future for the true principles of free government, and for a purified and honest administration of National, State and Municipal affairs.

While giving to the Republican party a cordial and earnest support in all wise measures and to all fit candidates, THE TRIBUNE will never be the organ of any individual, faction or ism, nor will it cease to combat [illegible] schemes for plundering the Treasury or the people. It will wage perpetual war on the rings who prowl around the halls of legislation in quest of spoil.

The Recent Elections.

The recent elections, while inflicting temporary defeat on the Republican party, have done great good in sweeping away fanatical and side issues which embarrassed its freedom of action, and in crushing out those baleful and corrupting influences known as "Butlerisms," which poisoned the channels of the public life. Purified, as by fire, of the evil things which had infected its garments, the Republican party will enter upon the tremendous struggle of 1876 with renewed vigor for the possession of the Government and the shaping of the policy of the nation when it enters upon the second century of its existence.

Perils of the Future.

The Democratic leaders, misinterpreting the real causes of their triumph, are proclaiming the result a "reaction" of the popular mind against the principles of the Republican party, and an indorsement of the fundamental doctrines of the Democratic party, which means "State Sovereignty," and all that expression includes. When that party obtains possession of the Government, under the resumed leadership of their Southern right wing, steps will surely be taken in Congress to refund the cotton War tax from the Federal Treasury, principal and interest amounting to $100,000,000 or more. A bill will be passed to compensate the Democratic rebels for losses and damages sustained by them while resisting the Union armies and upholding the "sovereign" State right of secession. And lastly will come a demand for the value of the emancipated slaves, who, under the doctrine of State Sovereignty, are alleged to have been unconstitutionally liberated. These claims will more than double the National Debt. In the meantime, what will become of the rights and freedom of the colored race thus placed under the absolute control of their old masters? Against these perils to the future peace and welfare of the country all true Republicans must present a solid front.

The Tribune's Platform.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's position on the leading measures now before the country may be condensed into the following enunciations:

As Agriculture is the basis of National wealth, whatever policy benefits that great interest promotes the prosperity of the whole country. The cost of transportation of Western farm products to foreign markets consumes half the selling value, and the high duties levied to subsidize special interests doubles the retail price of the goods received in exchange for the crops—thus bleeding and burdening the farmer until he staggers from weakness under the weight of the load. Hence the chief cause of "hard times" among farmers.

Tariff and Transportation Charges.

THE TRIBUNE will advocate the adoption of such measures as will cheapen transportation and reduce the taxes on goods. The lightest tariff which will provide the Government with necessary funds to carry it on and maintain its credit should only be imposed on imports, and the national highways should be improved to create a stronger competition with the railroad monopolies, which will compel them to lower their tariff of charges.

Reduction of State and Local Taxes.

The utmost reduction of all direct taxes must be insisted upon by the people. Within a few years county, township and municipal taxation has enormously increased and become almost beyond endurance throughout the Western States. Steps must be taken to retrench these expenditures, as well as those of the National Government, and choke down the insatiable greed of the local tax-eaters, before all the surplus earnings of the industrious classes are confiscated by those tax-devourers.

The Currency.

Plenty of currency for all the legitimate wants of the country, with Elasticity as to quantity, and Stability as to value by convertibility into coin. An end should be put to the continual fluctuations in the value of the currency, which inflicts incalculable injury on industry and enterprise, as it introduces an element of doubt and uncertainty into all transactions, and makes business little better than gambling. It is a National disgrace as well as evil for the monetary standard of values to be kept in such vacillating and changeable condition.

No Repudiation.

THE TRIBUNE will sternly combat repudiation of public obligations in the form of watering and debasing the currency or any other guise it may assume. For every dollar out of which the public creditors may be cheated by any form of currency dilution or repudiation the people will suffer the loss of a hundred which will result from the destruction of credit that will fall like a blight on State and Municipal Governments as well as on corporations and individuals. The national credit must be maintained pure and unsullied, and, like the virtue of Cæsar's wife, above suspicion.

No More Subsidies or Bounties.

Subsidies and bounties of public lands, money, or credit to enrich railroad-rings, run steamship companies, or furnish capital to other corporations are flagrant abuses of the powers of Government, and tend to promote corruption, extravagance and peculation. THE TRIBUNE will therefore in the future, as in the past, fight all such schemes of public plunder.

The general character of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is too well established to need recapitulation. It is always independent and fearless in the expression of its views. In its news department it is second to none in the United States. The Weekly Edition contains a carefully-prepared summary of the news of the week, brought down to the hour of going to press.

Literary, political, financial, social and agricultural topics will constitute, as heretofore, leading features of the Weekly Edition, and no pains will be spared to increase its attractiveness in those departments. Its market reports are unsurpassed, embracing all the information which farmers require for the intelligent transaction of business, both as sellers and buyers.

THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE is a large eight-page sheet, of the same size as THE DAILY TRIBUNE, consisting of fifty-six columns of closely printed matter, and, as a family newspaper, and in its general make-up, is unsurpassed by any paper in the land.

THE TRIBUNE will be furnished during the ensuing year at the following rates, payable in advance, ALL POSTAGE BEING PREPAID by THE TRIBUNE Company:

WEEKLY TRIBUNE.
One copy—one year	$ 2 00
Five copies—one year	8 00
Ten copies—one year	14 50
Fifteen copies—one year	20 00
Twenty copies—one year	23 00
DAILY TRIBUNE.
Daily Edition	$13 00
Sunday Edition	3 00
TRI-WEEKLY TRIBUNE.
One copy—one year	$ 6 50
Five copies—one year	30 00
Ten copies—one year	55 00

☞ Postmasters and others forming clubs may retain 10 per cent. on all subscriptions, and add single copies at club rates after they are formed.

Remittances may be made by draft, money order, or registered letter, at our risk.

Specimen Copies Sent Free.

Give Postoffice address in full, including State and County, and address

TRIBUNE COMPANY, Chicago, Ill.

ASTHMA AND CATARRH. Having struggled twenty years between life and death with ASTHMA, I experimented by compounding roots and herbs and inhaling the medicine. I fortunately discovered a wonderful remedy and sure cure for Asthma and Catarrh. Warranted to relieve severest paroxysm instantly, so the patient can lie down to rest and sleep comfortably. Druggists are supplied with sample packages for free distribution. Sold by druggists. Package by mail $1.25.

Address D. LANGELL, Apple Creek, Ohio.

HALL'S PATENT STANDARD SAFES AT "HARD PAN" PRICES.
HALL'S SAFE & LOCK CO.
CHICAGO, ILL.

CINCINNATI WEEKLY GAZETTE.

1875 GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES FOR 1875

POSTAGE WILL BE PAID BY THE PUBLISHERS.

THE GAZETTE is the great newspaper of the country. Thousands of practical farmers contribute to its agricultural columns annually.

As a commercial paper it is standard authority. It gives all the news of the day, at home and abroad.

The GAZETTE is Republican in principle, but exposes wrong in all parties, without fear or favor.

Specimen Copies Free.

SEND FOR TERMS TO AGENTS.

CINCINNATI GAZETTE CO.

$14.60 SHOT-GUN. A DOUBLE-BARREL GUN, warranted Best English twist barrels, A GOOD SHOOTER, with Flask, Pouch and Wad-cutter. Sent C. O. D., with privilege to examine before paying bill, by paying Express charges both ways. Send stamp for particulars to RUDOLPH & CO., Gun Dealers, 1015 North Fifth Street, St. Louis, Mo.

VINEGAR BITTERS

PURELY VEGETABLE FREE FROM ALCOHOL

DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

R. H. McDONALD & CO.,
Druggists and Gen. Agts., San Francisco, California, and cor. of Washington and Charlton Sts., N. Y.
Sold by all Druggists and Dealers.

JUST THE BOOK MONEY IN IT SURE! Just out. Useful, Handsome, Cheap. Sells everywhere. Send for prospectus to E. C. BRIDGMAN, 5 Barclay St., N. Y., or 176 West 4th St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

WELL! WELL!! WHAT DOES THIS MEAN? So many children, and such a din! Grandma can scarcely "hear her own ears" for the noise they make. They have each obtained a copy of the YOUNG FOLKS' NEWS, and finding it full of Nice Stories, and Games, and Beautiful Pictures, they are begging Grandma to subscribe for every one of them, and so get a handsome Chromo for each. Grandma has promised to gratify them, for the paper is not only Lively and Entertaining, but Instructive too, and she loves to make glad the heart of a child. Father! Mother! do you wish your child to be bright and happy? Why not gladden his heart, then, by sending him a copy of the YOUNG FOLKS' NEWS for a year, when he will receive a handsome Chromo also, that will make him still more happy? It is published weekly at $1.25 per year, postage paid, and a Chromo, either "A Frolic in the Woods;" "The Boat Race;" "Getting Ready for Sea," or "The Shipwreck," is sent as a present. Or the paper, with either Chromo mounted, for $1.50; or with two Chromos mounted for $1.75; or with four Chromos mounted, $2.25. Mounted Chromos are best. Send a three-cent stamp for a Specimen Number.

ALFRED MARTIEN, Publisher,
21 South Seventh Street, Philadelphia.

FOR NEARLY THIRTY YEARS THE RICHMOND PRINTS have been held in high esteem by those who use a Calico. They are produced in all the novelties of changing fashions, and in conservative styles suited to the wants of many persons. Among the latter are the proper for the house or street—beautiful in designs and pleasing in coloring.

"Standard Gray Styles,"

"CHOCOLATE STANDARD STYLES,"

in great variety, and widely known as most serviceable prints. Nothing better for daily wear. These goods bear tickets as quoted above. Your retailer should have them, and your examination and approval will coincide.

BECKWITH $20.

Portable Family Sewing Machine,

ON

30 DAYS' TRIAL.

We will send to any address, C. O. D., one of our machines with privilege of examination before taking out of Express office; and if it does not give satisfaction we will refund the money, less Express charges, on return of machine within the time specified.

Beckwith Sewing Machine Co.
New York: 862 Broadway.
Chicago: 231 Wabash Ave.

"PSYCHOMANCY, or Soul Charming." How either sex may fascinate and gain the love and affection of any person they choose, instantly. This art all can possess, free, by mail, 25 cents; together with a Marriage Guide, Egyptian Oracle, Dreams, Hints to Ladies, &c. 1,000,000 sold. A queer book. Address T. WILLIAM & CO., Pub's, Philadelphia.

MARRIAGE GUIDE An interesting illustrated work of 260 pages, containing valuable information for those who are married or contemplate marriage. Price 50 cts. by mail. Address Dr. Butts' Dispensary, 12 North Eighth Street, St. Louis, Mo.

DR. A. G. OLIN HAPPY RELIEF. Don't despair! Read the cream of medical literature! Thirty years among the afflicted. Thousands saved from an early grave; lost vitality; nervous weakness, who may marry; why not; lost memory; impaired health. Thirty lectures delivered at Chicago Medical Institute, price 50 cts. Consultation free. Cures guaranteed. Address or call on Dr. A. G. OLIN, 187 Washington-st., Chicago, Ill. Pleasant home for patients. All correspondence confidential.

DR. WHITTIER,

No. 617 St. Charles Street, St. Louis, Mo., continues to treat all cases of obstacles to marriage, blood impurities, every ailment or sickness which results from indiscretion or imprudence, with unparalleled success. Dr. W.'s establishment is chartered by the State of Missouri, was founded and has been established to secure safe, certain and reliable relief. Being a graduate of several medical colleges, and having the experience of a long and successful life in his specialties he has perfected remedies that are effectual in all these cases. His patients are being treated by mail or express everywhere. No matter who failed, call or write. From the great number of applications he is enabled to keep his charges low. 36 pages, giving full symptoms, for two stamps.

MARRIAGE GUIDE,

260 pages, a popular book which should be read by everybody. No married pair, or persons contemplating marriage, can afford to do without it. It contains the cream of medical literature on this subject, the results of Dr. W.'s long experience; also the best thoughts from late works in Europe and America. Sent sealed, post-paid for 50 cts.

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

Auburn Courier.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1874.

The motion to review Boss Tweed's sentence on habeas corpus was yesterday decided adversely, and the Boss resumes his residence on Blackwell's Island.

The President is in favor of a resumption of Specie payments. There seems to be a diversity of opinion in this matter. We are not in favor of immediate resumption.

It seems to be a pretty general opinion that whoever wrote the message for Grant this time did it some better than has been done heretofore. There is some very queer logic, however, in this one.

Gov. Hendricks says that under no circumstances could he be induced to accept a Senator's commission so long as his removal from the Governor's chair would leave the Executive Department of Indiana in the hands of a Republican.

When the negroes down South turn out and hang one of their own color for some hideous offence the affair doesn't create a ripple. When white men do a job of that sort there is talk of martial law. From which we infer that negroes have an inalienable right to kill negroes ad libitum.

The Radicals can boast of two United States Senators, at least, from Nevada, who might appropriately be classes among the nobility, that is if wealth made the title. Jones and Sharon are each said to have an income, yearly, of over $2,000,000.—Quite recently the latter gave his daughter $1,000,000 as a wedding present.

The Supreme Court of this State has lately decided that negroes are not entitled to admission to public schools with whites, and that the state legislation on this subject is not in conflict with the state or National constitution Now, suppose the civil rights bill passes, declaring that no distinction shall be made in public schools between whites and blacks, won't there be a conflict detween this State and the government at Washington?

Hon. William D. Kelley, of Philadelphia, commonly known as Pig-iron Kelley, is now completing his fourteenth year of continual congressional service, and was recently elected for he eight time by a handsome majority He will be the oldest member in continuous service in the next House of Representatives, and will therefore be entitled to the distinction of administering the oath to the new Speaker, and to the honorable cognomen of "Father of the House."

It is said that Baltimore has the shortest railroad connections between Chicago and the sea by 86 miles, and while it is the shortest, it is best.—That the western extension just completed varies only about two miles from an air line, and that only eleven miles have a grade as high as 26 feet to the mile, and 44 miles have less than five feet grade per mile. Financially it is conceded that it is the best managed railway company in the United States The trade of this great road is going to divert a great portion of business from New York.

In some parts of the South they are begining to whisper the name of Wade *H*ampton in connection with the next Democratic Vice-Presidential nomination. He is the man who procures the insertion in the Democratic' platform of 1868 of the clause declaring the reconstruction acts "unconstitutional, revolutionary and void."—Pittsburg Commercial.

This is a favorite style of 'argument' with certain loyal journals. But the war is over, and the sound of the artillery has died out in the distance.—It won't work.

Gen. Jackson, when president, said to one of his fiercest newspaper opponents, "Send me your newspaper. I know that you are opposed to me, but then I should like to see your paper every day. I want to see how many lies you can tell of me." "General" said the editor. "I think I do right in opposing you, and I shall continue to do so with all the ability of which I am master." Here was a man after Jackson's own heart, and he replied with an oath, "Sir, send me your paper, it is a good one. Besides I never saw a newspaper in which I could not find something worth reading.

A Soldier Who Won' Work.

Lieut. Col. Fred Grant is still enjoying himself at the expense of the tax-payers. He has not been on duty an hour's time for months, but draws his pay as lieutenant-colonel with frightful regularity. Ain't it about time this petty stealing should be rebuked? In justice to other army officers this assumed lieutenant—col., should be compelled to do his duties if he is capable—if not, he should be stripped of his shoulder-straps. His case needs attention.

There are many candidates mentioned in connection with the Senatorship of this State, but so far McDonald and Voorhees are the most prominent. If it were not for his "Salary Record," we would like to see Vorhees chosen, but this Salary business has became odious to the people, and all those connected with it must be punished, at some time or other. Now is a good time to punish Brother Dan, by permitting him to remain at home. This being the case, McDonald ought to have the inside track for the position.

The Repblican press is full of direful forebodings for the future. The negro is to be reenlsaved, the debt repudiated, the confederate prison, &c All this is done to fright the timid souls of adversaries. No intelligent man, be Republican or Democrat, for a moment entertains any such opinion. There is no denying however, the Democratic party will pursue a different policy from what has been persued by its opponents. It will begin right and continue right if the counsels of its able men are heeded. It will recognize the entire working force in the civil departments of the country, returning such public servants as are efficient and honest and displacing those who are not. It will put an end to Credit Mobilier schemes, Sanborn jobs, District of Columbia robberies, San Domingo swindlers, and the like. It will punish criminals, be they of high or low degree, and inaugurate new and healthy reforms. Nothing will be more honestly and promptly discharged. It is through such a policy tha the party will be entitled to the confidence of the people—a confidence necessary to its retention of power.—Logansport Pharos.

Mr. A. B. Mullett, the mullet-head who has long been Supervising Architect of the Treasury, has been prevailed upon to resign. The Chicago Tribune in speaking of the matter says:

The office of Supervising Architect of the Treasury is emphatically one of those governmental creations that grows by what it feeds on. Originally a clerkship in the Treasury Department, it has slowly broadened, and widened, and lengthened itself, without law and in spite of law, to the dimensions of an European principality The appropriations for this clerkship have grown steadily and persistently the Mullett regime till they have reached the enormous sum of $10,278,280,-02, which was the amount appropriated for public buildings, exclusive of the Capitol extension, for the fiscal year ending June, 30th 1874,—a year which has been called, and was in part a year of retrenchment in the general expenditures of the Government. In this particular list we find appropriations for Custom-Houses at Rockford' Me., Fall River, Mass., Port Huron, Mich., and Nashville Tenn., and an appropriation of $800,00 for additional ground for the new post-office at Boston.

A correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer, writing about the opening of Congress says:

The first gun of war was fired to-day by Pig-iron Kelley, who says proudly that he will oppose certain measures of the Administration, no matter what political associations it may lead him to form. Undoubtedly a good deal of demoralization was expected among the Republicans, but the meeting of Congress shows this in peculiar forms. The leaders seem to have lost their discretion, with the prospects of a loss of power, and discerning people predict revelations as exsisting discussions progress. The message is regarded by all as a dull document, but, as an emanation of the Eastern influences which inspire it, is significant of the coming sectional battle between the East and the West.

It is generally conceded that Blain will be the leader of his party in the next House, and that the chance of the next Republican nomination seem to be between him and Mr. Washburne.

Senator Morton is hurrying back from California, where he proposed to spend the winter. It is stated that he will openly assail the Administration. In any event a locking of horns between him and turkey-cock Conkling may be expected ere the session shall close.

Richland Township Institute.

In compliance with the request of the township Trustee, the teachers of Richland township met at Richland Center District No. 8, Saturday, Dec. 5th 1874.

The institute was called to order by Mr. McDowell.

The institute then proceeded to elect the following officers:

Chairman, Mr. McDowell, Secretary, Callie Britton.

At roll-call the following teachers responded:

D. B. Chilcote......	Dist. No. 1
A. Conrad.........	" 5
J. C. Frets.........	" 3
H. C. Shull..........	" 6
F. P. Coder..........	" 7
R. H. Gilbert.......	" 8
R. H. Shoub.......	" 9
J. B. Scott..........	" 10
J. H. Miller.........	" 11
S. N. High.........	" 12
B. F. Fretz.........	" 13
J. A. Dull...........	" 14

The chairman then appointed a committee of two, to assign topics to the different Teachers. They reported as follows:

Grammar A. Conrad
Reading, H. Miller
Writing, H. C. Shull.
Arithmetic, A. R. Huffman.
Spelling, J. B. Scott.
Physiology, F. Coder.
U. S. History, R. F. Fretz.
Orthography, S. M. Haine.
Geography, C. Fretz.

A Spelling class was called out first, followed by a resitation in Orthography, and our worthy friend A. R. Huffman being present made a few very important remarks on the subject

A recitation in Reading was conducted in a spirited manner, and was followed by a lively discussion on the kind of Books that should be used, several of the teachers participating in the remarks.

The Institute then enjoyed a few moments recess.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Chairman decided to hold the next Institute at Dist. No. 13, on the 1st, Sat. of January, 1875. A. R. Huffman made a motion that just as many of the teachers be taken up as could be properly conducted, leaving the remainder for the next session.—The following Topics were assigned, for the next meeting.

Geography, C. B. Fretz.
Arithmetic, R. H Gilbert.
Penmanship, H. C. Shull.
Reading, D. B. Chilcote.

Mr A. R. Huffman delivered a brief but beneficial lecture on the subject of Arithmetic, which was followed by a discussion on the same subject the majority of the teachers being participants

A recitation in Geography was next conducted by C. Fretz. There was a motion put that Jas. A. Barnes Supt. writs an essay on the subject of school government.

Institute adjourned to meet at the time and place designed. All are invited to attend.

CALLIE BRITTON Secretary.

The teachers of Richland may well feel proud of their interest manifested at their first Institute. We can safely say we never saw a class of teachers who seemed more earnest and zealous than did those attending the institute last Saturday. It will be well for trustees to take this matter into consideration when hiring teachers.—A. R. H.

Henry W. Bond,

FORMERLY OF

DeWALD, BOND & COMPANY
FORT WAYNE, IND.

Has opened a new

FANCY, DRY
GOODS, AND LADIES' FURNISHING STORE
AT
21 West Main St.

A few doors west of the Court House.

His stock comprises FANCY GOODS, of all kinds
Flannel,
Yarns,
Cotton,
Cotton Flannels.
Linens, Laces,
Embroiders,
Hosiery, Gloves
Zephyrs, Canvass,
and everything needed for fancy work and embroidery. I extend a cordial invitation to the citizens of Auburn to call and see me when in Fort Wayne.

My goods are all new and was purchased strictly for cash are sold from 25 to 50 per cent lower than regular prices.

HENRY W. BOND

We Have Received,

And are now daily opening our general stock for the Fall and Winter Trade in every department of our business.

The unexplained depression in the Dry Goods market during the last two weeks, has offered an opportunity to cash buyers not before known in many years. DRY GOODS have now reached a lower bottom than ever seemed posible again in this country. The panic prices were "we prices" compared to what we have been buying the best class of desirable goods at for the past two weeks about the dulest period of trade in the history of New York.

One stock was never more complete in every department—seldom ever so good. We seldom ever offered in every way such inducements as now.—The stock is the completest and most attractive of any season in many years. Having bought at the present low prices we are prepared to give our costomers better value for their money, and more of it than at any time before.

Close Cash Buyers!

Should examin our elegant line of
Beaded Passementrie Trimmings
Beaded Buttons and Ornaments, Beaded Belts
Pocket and Cloak s Loops

EXAMINE
New cloaks, New Shawls and Furs.
EXAMINE
New Felt Skirts and Water Proofs
EXAMINE
Underwear, Hosiery, and Gloves.
EXAMINE
Housekeeping Linens, and Cottons.
EXAMINE
Black Cashmeres and De Este
EXAMINE
New Winter Dress Goods
EXAMINE
New Calicos and Domestics
EXAMINE
Cloak and Trimming Velvets
EXAMINE
Cloaking and Cassimeres.
EXAMINE
Flannels and Blankets
EXAMINE
New Goods which are arriving daily

Root & Company,

At their New Location

46 & 48 Columbia-st

AT THE

New York Store.

The Pioneer
HARDWARE
Emporium!

Now full to overflowing with an Immense stock of

HEAVY AND SHELF

Hardware, Cutlery, Tin Ware.

I would call special attention to my department of

HARDWARE,
FURNISHING & BUIDERS STOCK,

in which will be found everything at the very

LOWEST PRICES,

Such as:—

OILS, PAINTS,
GLASS,
NAILS,
SASH,
DOORS, ETC.

—A FIST-CLASS—

Tin-Shop,

in connection with the Hardware Store, with a skillful foreman. All kinds of Tin-ware manufactured and repaired on short notice.

JOHN L. DAVIS,

Special Inducements
FOR THE NEXT
30 DAYS!
TO CASH BUYERS, AT MILLER & CASEBEER'S,
CORNER MAIN & NIMTH STREETS.

SANTA-CLAUS IS COMING
HOLIDAY PRICES
—AT THE—
FRUIT HOUSE.

We never had such an immense stock for the coming holidays. If times are dull and money is scarce our trade is better than ever. We are selling more Teas, Coffees, Sugars and Groceries than all the other groceries combined. We have no two prices in our business; that is, a price for those who pay the cash, and a different price for those who have it "booked." We have one cash price and keep no books, hence you can easily see why we can undersell all others; no secret in it, simply purchasing at first hands and selling direct to the consumers.

Just take teas, for instance: We save our consumers on that article alone three profits, as we purchase direct from the importer.

We save the profit of the jobber, 10 per cent, of the speculator, which is 15 per cent, of the wholesale grocer, which 10 to 20 per cent, or as much more as he can get. All these profits our customers have the profit of.

We still keep up the reduction of 15 per cent.

TEAS! TEAS! TEAS!

Young Hyson, 30c. 50c 80 $1, 1 10 per pound.
Gunpowder 50c. 80c. $1, 1 10 per pound.
Imperial, 50c. 30c. $1. best 1 10 per pound,
Oolong 30c 60c, 80c, best 95c, per pound,
Uncolored Japan, 40c. 60c. best 80c. per pound,
All of these teas are the best in the market, and at least 20 to 40 cents are saved on every pound

SUGARS! SUGARS! SUGARS! SUGARS! SUGARS!

The same saving to purchasers as on teas. No middle man with us
Coffee B, 10½ per pound,
Coffee B, 10c, per pound.
Yellow Sugar 8c and 9c, per pound.
Crushed and Powdered, 11c, per pound.
Granulated 11c, per pound.

COFFEE! COFFEE! COFFEE!

At least 2 to 5 per cent saved
Rio, 23c. best Rio, 25c. per pound
Roasted Rio, 27c,
Old Java, 30c.

FOR CHRISTMAS CAKE.

Raisins 12½c, per pound,
Currants 20c.
Citron, 40c.
Orange and Lemon Peel 36c.
Shelled Almonds, 45c.
Filberts, 20 cents per quart.
Almonds 20c.
English Walnuts. 15c.
Pecans 12½c.
Brazil 12½c.
Roasted Peanuts, 8c.
Oranges and Lemons, 30 to 50c per dozen.

WINES AND LIQUORS FOR THE HOLIDAYS.

Sherry and Port Wine, $1.50 best $2 50 per gal
California, Muscatel and Angelica $1, best 2 00;
New England Rum, $1.50 best 2 50.
Holland Gin $1 50 old Tom Gin 2 50.
Rye and Bourbin Whiskey, new 90c $1 25.
One and two years old do, $1 40 to 1 75.
Old '76' for Medical purposes $2 50 and 3 00.
Brandies from $1 50 to French imported $6.
Scotch and Irish Whiskies, London and Dublin Porter, Edinburgh Ale, &c.

CANDIES AND TOYS

Candies—Stick, choice, assorted, French toy candy, imperials, balls and fruit candies at about one half price
Best stick 2½c per pound.
Barber poles 25c.
French choice, 25c.
Fruits and Almons, 30c.
Toys—Tops in immense variety your children can get from 1c to $1.
No end to the variety of mon. eys, birds cats, dogs wagons, jumping jacks, chine dolls, wax doll fancy play houses, moustache cups, hair oils, vases, soldiers drums, lions tigers horses bugles, whistles, rattles, fancy baskets, ladies work boxes, at all prices and at one-half the price you will pay elsewhere.

DRIED AND CANNED FRUITS CIGARS AND TOBACO.

Dried Fruits—new Dried Peaches, 8c.
Prunes 8 and 10c.
Dried apples 8 and 10c.
Pared Peaches 25c.
Green gages, 20c.
Canned peaches 2 c,
Tomatoes 15c, Blackberries 1 c
Mammoth cans 20 and 25c,
English Damsons 30c
Cigars and Tobacco—Best high flyers, $1 50 and 2, per box.
Havana pure, $2 50, 3 and 4,
Plug Tobaco, 30c; 40 and 50c.
Best Twin Brothers, 60c,
Fine cut 50, and 60c,
Best light yellow color 90c.
Shorts, 35c.

WOODEN WARE CHEAPER.

Best large 3 hoop tubs 85c No 2 75c No 1 65c.
This is a reduction of 15c, on each tub.
Pail, 2 hoop, 18c, 3 hoop 25c.
Wash boards 20 and 25c.
Churns, 65c 75c, 80c $1.
Clothes lines, ropes, coal oil lamps, globes, starch spices and dye stuffs.

SYRUPS,

Best sugar loaf, pure as honey, $1, per gallon.
White drip 35c.
Silver drip, 75.
Extra Golden 50c.

SYRUPS.

Cups, 45c.
New Orleans 70c, and $1.
You can save at least 25c on the dollar.

FRESH OYSTERS.

5c 30 and 40c, cans.
Sugar cured hams 15c.
Shoulders 10c,
Farmers living at a distance can club together select their goods, and send their orders. Each man's goods will be put up seperate, and the name marked on the packages. No danger of getting lost. We will guarantee the safety.

Oils! Oils! Oils!

Fish and Neat's Foot Oil $1, per gallon
Coal and Rose Oil, 20c. per gallon.
Headlight and Gasoline, 15c per gallon,
Machine Oil, 50c and 80c, per gallon.
Lard Oil, $1, per gallon,
Twenty-five cents on the dollar saved

J. B. WHITE, Prop.

A NEW STORE!

With an entire stock of

NEW GOODS!

BOOTS & SHOES

at the lowest PRICES.

J. E. WOODFORD,

has located at Auburn with a fine new stock of BOOTS & SHOES, which will be sold at the lowest figures for

CASH ONLY

Call and examine this bran new stock, as there are no old goods that have been on the shelf for years. Store on Main street opposite Fiske's residence, Auburn Ind.

Pittsburg, Baltimore & Ohio R.R
IS COMING.

Therefore buy your

Dry Goods,
Notions, etc., of
CHARLES KLOTZ
AT HIS
Old Stand
ON MAN STREET,
Opposite Court Square
AUBURN, INDIANA

Where he may be found at all times ready to accommodate customers, and sell them such good as they may need,

CLOTHING
Of all descriptions, and
HANDSOME SUITS
Made to Order!
GREATLY IMPROVED.

Auburn Courier.

Butter 28c.
Potatoes 50
Oats, 40 cts.
Apples 45 cts.
Eggs, 16 cents.
Corn 48 @ 50 cts.
Wheat, white, $1
Wood $1.75 @ $2.
Live hogs 5½c per pound.

Local and Miscellaneous.

Court week.

Dance tonight.

Weather Cold.

Fight last night.

Wheeling rough.

Where's that wood?

Holiday Goods at Beard's.

Pay for your paper this week.

Go see Houser's Holiday goods.

FUR wanted at Sprott & Son's

See change in Wright & Co's ad.

The railroads have changed time.

1000 pounds of candy at Hare Bros

Go to Billy Edgerton for a good shave

Remember the dramatic play Christmas night.

The Auburn House is in running order again.

Hare Bros., the Boss place to buy candy.

We have had several funerals since our last issue.

Dead loads of Books and Albums for Holidays, at Houser's.

Liquor licenses were granted to Lock, Till and Gengnagle yesterday.

One of our young lads has ordered his wedding boots—No. 2's.

Quite a large number of people are attending court.

WANTED—Any amount of Fur at S. W. Sprott & Son's

The largest assortment of candy ever brought to Auburn at Hare Brothers.

Mens' Gloves and Mitten lower than ever at Miller & Casebeer's

Mayor Havermeyer, who died in New York of appoplexy last week, was 70 yrs of age.

Our merchants have received their stock of toys, candies, &c, for the Holiday trade.

Al. Wells has his ice house enclosed, and is now waiting for the cold weather to supply his stock.

Our citizens are now engaged in the butchering of swine. Some choice hogs are on exhibition.

Mrs. Little & A. Fair has just received a splendid assortment of goods for the Holiday trade

Attend the Conservatory concert the 22d and 23rd of this month. A good time may be anticipated.

The whisky excitement is dying out.—we are better off than most places in this particular.

The Commissioners met in regular session last Monday, and will have considerable to do during the term.

Gengnagle, of Butler, Lock and Till, of Waterloo, are petioners for liquor licens e before the Commissioners.

Every young lady and gentleman, of respectability, are invited to join the dance club to-night, at Ensleys hall.

There has been a terrible fight among the miners in Pensylvania. If it was down south, it would be called another outrage by the white Leaguers.

In transferring list the Laporte Herald was left off our mail book. Beg pardon, Powell, keep your pop gun down and we will send regular.

This is good weather for kicking old hats off the sidewalk. The toes are so numb that the stone under the hat wont hurt 'em.

There is no article so appropriate or so much appreciated for a Holiday present as a Book or a Album. Go to Houser's and get them.

Coroner Latson had a pair of boots stolen from his shop a few days ago. It was done during the night, and smells a little like burglars.

Dont fail to call and examine Miller & Casebeer's immense stock of Goods before purchasing, where you will always find good bargains at the lowest prices.

We have received a handsome invitation from Columbia City to attend a social hop to be given by the Hook and Ladder Company of that place, on Dec. 24th, 1874

The best bed spring we have yet seen is that on exhibition at Miller & Casebeer's store. It is durable, cheap, noiseless, and easily changed from one bed to another.

To Taxpayers of Auburn.

The town tax for 1874, is now due, and the marshal is ready for its collection.—He will be found at Ralston's store, and all are requested to call and pay up.

A. J. RALSTON Marshal.

At the opening of the House last Monday, the Chaplain prayed for the purification of the press. If that body will set an example the press will purify itself

We know a young lady who spent an hour the other day in arranging her toilet to meet a visitor in the parlor. And it was only a book agent who called.

We are mighty grateful to a host of our editorial brethern for their flattering notices, and if we succeed we shall endeavor to merit their good opinions. For the present we can only say, thank you all

Our popular butchers, Houston & Benedict, have erected a building, in rear of their shop, and put in a steam meat chopper. The engine came last Tuesday and is now in running order.

Mrs. Little and Miss Fair are offering good bargains in the way of Millinery Goods, Hats, Bonnets, &c. They manufacture garments to order, and warrant goods fits. Up-stairs in Cool's building.

Remember that Marshal Ralston has to collect the town tax, and, as he comes down with an iron hand and takes the last cow according to the Butler News, why you had better look a leetle out

Circuit Court convened on Monday. His Honor Judge Best, presiding. The time so far has been devoted to taking defaults filing answers, hearing motions, etc. The regular trial business will commence to-day.

The sink-hole on the Eel River road went down yesterday morning, and the morning train was delayed several hours Judge Best was a passenger, and there could be no court until his arrival.

Our dear delinquent subscribers will please remember that we would like them to pay up before the year is out. We mean business, and we mean every one so delinquent. We must have the money due us.

The Press says we edited the Republican last week. That involves a versatility we did not know before that we possessed. However, its readers can say for once that they got the truth.

There are a few yet who are back on their subscription. We will certainly collect by law after the first of the year, if it is not paid up. We want our money and must have it if it is possible to get it

The Story of Sevenoaks, is the title of a new story by Dr. J. G. Holland, to appear in Scribner's monthly for 1875, commencing with the January number. It will no doubt prove interesting, and everybody should receive the first number.

Dr. Fanning and Old Doc. Moore, of Butler, gave us a call yesterday. There is to be a first-class social hop at the Sargent House on Christmas night, Dec. 25th and a cordial invitation is extended to those who tip the light fantastic.

Two of our prominent attorneys made a bet the other day on a point of law.—Their honor was pledged. The law says, there is no criminalty in betting when there is nothing at stake. The question that troubles us is, was there anything at stake.

A company has been organized of Spink Plow Coulter. This is quite a valuable improvement on the ordinary coulter and is so made as to completely prevent choking in weedy or stubble ground. It is a good thing.

The B. & O. R. R. Company have decided to put a lightning express train on the Chicago division this winter. This will probably be done this week. The train will run through from Chicago to Baltimore and Washington. This will be an excellent arrangement for the traveling public.

A friend of ours can't never think of George Washington's last name. After studying about three hours he said he knew it was George, and that he had something to do with the Mexican war, but, dash it, he could never think of the last name.

Dr. F. B. Thomas, has purchased the Winnemac Democrat. We are glad to hear that the Doctor is at the helm again, as he stands pretty well up among the good writers of the day, and we know that he can make a paper interesting. We wish him every success.

The Young Folks' Social will meet at the residence of Saml Lauferty, Esq, on next Tuesday evening. It is hoped that the young men will take a little more interest in these gatherings and make an effort to attend regular. There are lots of girls in this place, but the boys have grown up to be—"old women."

Charley T. Murray, a son of the old man has taken charge of the South Bend Union and, we believe, he is bound to win, because he speaks right out from the shoulder, and means business. Charley has a humorous style about him that will captivate, and when an editor can do that with impunity, he has our best wishes.

Beard has the largest lot of candies in the market.

"City Ice Company"

We are pleased to announce that our friends, Messrs Weaver, Imler & Walborn have associated themselves for the purpose of carrying on the "Ice business" under the above title; with whom the best quality of ice can always be found at reasonable rates. Look to your interests and give them your patronage.

CITY ICE CO.

Trains on the B. & O. road now stop at Garrett City for refreshments. Several cars have been placed along side of the track, and are now used for a dining hall until one is constructed. We are sorry for Altoona, as this new city will certainly injure its prospects. Could this cup have passed from from us, we might have been happy.

Mrs. C. S. Hare was awakened a few nights ago by a noise at the back door as if someone were trying to get into the house. This attempt was made several times during the night until she finally called a neighbor, when the party made off. Our citizens should keep a bright lookout for burglars and be prepared to give them a warm reception.

A wealthy Pittsburg merchant is reported to have said: "I always feel happy when I am advertising, for then I know that, waking or sleeping, I have a strong though silent orator working for me; one who never tires, never sleeps, never has any mistakes, and who is certain to enter the households from which, if at all, my trade must come.

Subscribers outside of the county will remember that after the first of January, postage must be prepaid. Those who have not paid their subscription in advance will not be suprised if their copy is stopped. We will send no paper outside of the county unless paid in advance or vouched for by some responsible resident therein.

L. L. Irons, of St. Johns, sold 24 hogs the other day to Simon Snyder, of this place, for $610, none of them over 15 months old. Mr. Irons has some very fine stock of the best blood in the country. He says he realizes about $300 clear on the above lot. It always pays to keep good stock. He has two Berkshire pigs that he paid $50 for, besides other good breeds Congressman-elect, Hon. John Henry Baker, of Goshen, Ind., representative in the next Congress from the Thirteenth Indiana District, is in town attending court. John is a pretty clever fellow, and it was not because he was odious to the people that his majority was reduced, but that there was a good man against him. Jno. has our sympathy.

Alas! the snow, the beautiful snow! How nice while here, but how soon to go. Now comes the sun with its melting heat, And makes a river out of the street. The tendency is now to float. So put up the sled and take a boat, but before going abroad don't fail to get Vandermark to rig you out as to boots and shoes in a manner to make one think this world is not all false.

S. U. Tarney killed a fine buffalo calf the other day and sold it out to eager customers. If you don't believe it, just ask Dr. Spooner or Bro Weamer. It was said to have been delicious eating, and they who did eat thereof, went around swelling out their stomachs, as though they had feasted on soft shelled crabs or squabs on toast. The next time Tarney kills a woolly calf, and puts it off on the public for buffalo, we'll keep it mum.

The Argola Republican gives an account of a horrible murder perpetrated in Michigan, about nine miles from Orland. A young man by the name of Martin Bunnell working for a man name Davis, in Bethel, fell in love with a daughter named Meda, who did not reciprocate. On Friday evening Bunnell went to bed, upstairs, Meda having gone to her room adjoining some time before. When her elder sister, who roomed with her, went to bed she found Meda, with her throat cut from ear to ear and quite dead. Bunnell fled to his fathers house, where the Sheriff arrested him.

The Democrat says, Gambrinus "meditatively drinking beer; with his nobles and burghers around him. Then Beelzebub sent Jocko one of his imps, with orders to bring back Gambrinus before midnight But Jocko was, like Swivellers's Marchioness, ignorent of the taste of beer, never having drunk of it even a sip, and the Flemish schoppen were too much for him. He fell into a drunken sleep and did not wake up until the next day, at which he was so mortified that he had not the face to go back to hell at all. So Gambrinus lived on tranquilly for a century or two, and drank so much beer that he turned out a beer barrel.

Notice to Farmers and Builders.

Parties wishing to purchase shingles for the coming season can get them for the next sixty days at reduced rates by taking them from the car. Those wishing to take the benefit of this, will please call at the office of F. N. Wright & Co, and make arrangements as to time of delivery. All star shingles are inspected and warranted to be first-class.

Office on Jackson street, near Berry's plaining mill.

Dated, Auburn, Dec. 8. 1874.

Highest cash prices paid for FUR at S. W. Sprott & Son's.

Drama, Olio and Farce.

The Young Atheneum, the company of home artists, styling themselves the above, propose giving our citizens a treat in the dramatic line; the entertainment to consist of the splendid dramma of, Cathleen Mavourneen, after which a musical Olio of character songs by the people's favorite Comedian, Mr. James Lowrie and others, to be followed by the laughable farce of the Mischevious Servant, Mr Lowrie in his great speciality of Cupid, the mischevious. Turn out and encourage home improvement.

Examination of Teachers.

No further regular examination will be held until March, as the the teachers for the winter schools are nearly, or quite, all engaged; and I wish to have all my time for institute work. But should any require examination, time and place can be settled by applying to me.

JAMES A. BARNS, Co., Supt.

Waterloo, Nov. 28, 1874.

The Press does not like Mr. Waterman, never did, and we believe it would like to see him ousted, right or wrong. It makes a profound calculation in the instance of the Sheriffs, that could only emenate from that office. We could only read and weep for sodom The testimony shows that Mr. Taylor had 69 votes, five of them were erased. The testimony shows that Mr. Waterman was entitled to more than he got. The testimony shows that the board added four votes to the Republican ticket These are the facts, and the Republican has agreed with us in this statement, and the evidence conforms to it. But give us that Sheriff business again, Mr. Press; its good.

There is great probability, at last, of the establishment of a bank at this place but as this announcement has been made several times within a year or two, we will not be positive until the event actually takes place. Mr. Hazzard, of New Castle, this State, proposes to open a bank here with a capital of $50,000, and asks the citizens to subscribe stock to the of $15,000. This amount has about all been subscribed, and an organization will take place in a few weeks, perhaps by the first of the year. The next question will be, shall it be a National or State bank? While the latter may net the most to stockholders, we believe a National bank will be regarded more favorably by the people than the other. Let it be National.

Musical Convention.

The Conservatory of music will close its present term with a grand musical convention, under the direction of Prof. Straub, already favorably known here, in this connection. It will continue for 3 days, commencing on Monday before Christmas, and a concert will be given on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. It is hoped that our citizens generally will take hold of this enterprise and especially all those who love to sing. One dollar will admit you to the convention and the concert. Mrs Straub will also assist, and all may expect a splendid time. There are enough in Auburn to make it a grand success, and we believe they will do it

TO THE PUBLIC—We propose publishing an Atlas of the State of Indiana, containing a map of every county in the State, showing sections, prairie, roads, railroads streams, school houses, churches, etc.—Fine Maps, 14x28 inches of the State of Indiana, United States and Territories, and of both Hempisheres. An extensive history of Indiana, Plains, with histories of the cites, towns, villages, and counties of the State. Biographies of a large number of early settlers and prominent men in the State. Also a condensed political history of the State, giving votes, etc.—Six maps of Indiana so colored as to show the Geological and Climatological condition of the State, with also the Congressional, Senatorial and Representative Districts. Sixteen Maps of the United States, colored in five fine grades, to show the amount of wheat, hay corn, cotton and tobacco raised in proportion to acres cultivated. Also to show deaths by consumption and other diseases, in proportion to the deaths by all diseases, and to show density of population, and proportion of colored, and various foreign nationalities in the United States.

An immense amount of very useful statistical information, covering about 50 square feet of closely printed matter in every Atlas. To the patron of the work is published his name, residence, business nativity, post-office address, and when he came to the State, besides locating name and residence on his land. The work will be illustrated by fine line engravings of hundreds of public buildings and private residences in both town and country, and portraits of prominent men.

A large force of experienced men will commence immediately an experimental canvass; and if sufficient encouragement is received, we hope to complete the work sometime during 1875. Yours truly,

ANDREAS, BASKIN & BURR,
Publishers, Chicago. Ill.

DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY.

Cures all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs. Never known to fail. Every bottle warranted to give satisfaction or money cheerfully refunded. For sale at Davenport's drug store. Sample bottles free. Try it.

FOR SALE OR RENT.—A neat and commodious dwelling in the lower part of town for sale cheap. Apply to C. F. MADER. 46tf.

PERSONAL.

Dr. Henry Trentman, of Fort Wayne, was in town yesterday.

Counselor Chapin, of Kendallville, is in attendance at court.

J. A. Barns, County Examiner was in town last Monday.

Mrs. Louis Vorlermmk has been seriously ill for some time.

Commissioner Wanemaker is suffering a good deal from neuralgia in the face.

C. M. Philips, attorney at law, of Waterloo, has been appointed deputy Prosecutor for this county by Prosecutor McConell.

G. C. Richards, city bill poster and distributer, at Fort Wayne, was in town last Saturday.

Mr. B. Koontz, is now canvassing for orders for a very fine Lithograph view of the Centenial Art Gallery, now in course of erection, and to cost $1,500,000. The price is only fifty cents and every family ought to have one.

THE GREAT REMEDY.

"Dr. King's New Discovery" for Consumption and all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs. For sale at Davenport's drug store. Sample trial bottle free of charge

$100.........PER MONTH.........$100.

Agents are making $100 per month selling the Howe Sewing Machines. Liberal commissions paid to live, energetic men, to canvass. Apply to R. S. Kester, Auburn. 46t4.

HERE'S SOMETHING NOVEL.

A Chance for Somebody to win a $500 City Lot in Rockhill's Addition. Tickets Given Away.

A novel idea in the way of advertising has been brought to our notice by Messrs Sam Pete and Max, managers of the noted Star Clothing house. They propose to to distribute a thousand tickets between this and January 1st 1875. No one is asked to buy these tickets, or pay for them, in any way. It is simply a new method of advertising their establishment

The lucky ticket will be determined by the Mayor of the city, before a number of prominent citizens. All the numbers from 1 to 1000 will be placed in a wheel which will be shaken up, and the committee can decide whether the first or any preceeding number shall win the $500 prize, lot No. 69 corner Mechanic and Walnut streets Rockhill's 2d addition.—Every purchaser of clothing to the amount of ten dollars (10) will receive a ticket the purchaser selecting any number he desires.

No person will, under any circumstances, be allowed more than one ticket.

The clear title deed, paid in full, can be seen at the Star Clothing House No. 5 East Main st. Ft. Wayne Ind.

For the Auburn Courier.

Mr. Ingman and Early Times.

MR. EDITOR—I saw in the last number of the COURIER, the announcement of the death of Lancelot Ingman As Mr Ingman was the oldest resident of Union-tp., at the time of his decease, having settled in Auburn in 1836, over 38 years ago, permit me to give a brief history of my early acquaintance with him. I came into this county in Sept 1836, and the first man that I formed an acquaintance with was Mr. Ingman. On the same day he assisted Jacob Weirick, Joshua Feagler and myself to cut the first wagon road from Auburn to Richland-tp., to what is now called Feagler's Corners, along the meandering of an Indian trail, which made the distance about 4 miles.

Soon after, Mr. Ingman and I assisted Wesley Park in extending the same road west into Noble County, on the line road about 2 miles southeast of Kendallville.—The greater part of the following winter Mr. Ingman and I worked for Wesley Park in the building of his cabin. A part of the timber we cut on the public square where the Court House now stands, from among the prickly ash and spice bushes and jointly fell the first tree that was cut on that ground and split it into puncheons for a floor to Park's cabin. The next thing in order was to build an addition to this cabin, which Mr. Ingman and I did, getting some boards from Allen Co., to do the joiner work. It was now about the 1st of Dec. and the fall rains were very heavy. The streams were up, mud hub deep, and nothing but a single wagon track from Auburn to Fort Wayne. Mr. Parks sent Ingman and myself with two yoke of cattle to a wagon, after provisions. Bad as the roads were we got to Ft Wayne in a day and a half, got loaded and started back. We got along fine for about 3 miles, but then came the rough road first one mud hole and then another and so on until we reached the thick woods of DeKalb, when we had another difficulty to contend with in the way of the undergrowth bent over the track full of snow, frequently getting fast on saplings, and thus forced to unhitch in order to cut them down. On one occasion we had to unload our wagon to get on terra firma again. After 4 days hard drive we reached Auburn weary and sore. During these 4 days of perplexity and difficulty Mr. Ingman exhibited a degree of patience not common to men in such trying circumstances. During the spring and summer of 1837 we worked together putting up for Mr. Park the first saw mill ever erected in the county.

Mr. Ingman was the first collector of the county, and the first Justice of the Peace of Union-tp.

But he has now gone, one of the first settlers has passed away. Thirty eight years since he and I felled the first tree, in an unbroken forest that now blossoms as the rose. Whatever may have been his faults, let them die with him. Let us cast the mantle of charity over his errors, but his virtues, let them live to be handed to future generations as examples worthy of imitation, is the sincere prayer of an old friend,

HENRY FEAGLER.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A Gentleman who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, Premature Decay and all the effects of youthful indiscription will for the sake of suffering humanity send free to all who need it, the receipt and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St. New York.

NOTICE TO HEIRS OF PETITION TO SELL REAL ESTATE.

State of Indiana DeKalb County: Notice is hereby given that John Martz Administrator bonus non of Estate of Charles Ahrens, deceased has filed his petition to sell the Real Estate of the decedent, his personal being insufficient to pay his debts; and that said petition will be heard at the next term of Circuit Court of said county.

J. R. LANNING Clerk.

To Consumptives.

The advertiser, having been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, (free of charge) with the directions for preparing and using the same which they will find a sure CURE for Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, &c.

Parties wishing the prescription will please address Rev. E. A. WILSON, 194 Penn St., Williamsburg New York.

Auction, Auction

WM. E. RUSH

Has opened out, in Ward's building, a fine stock of DRY GOODS, NOTIONS, GENTS' UNDERWEAR, &c., which you can have at your own price. Private sale between auction hours.

Dr. Boschee's German Syrup.

Cough no more! How much joy there is in every household to know that they can at least procure a remedy for any case of coughs severe colds settled in the breast Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs that is certain to cure. It is a satisfaction to know that a person is safe from the dangers of these diseases—all you need do is to go to F. E. DAVANPORT'S and get a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup, two or three doses will relieve you at once. If you doubt what we say in print get a sample bottle for 10 cents and try it or a regular size for 75 cents.

NOTICE TO STOCKHOLDERS.

NOTICE is hereby given to the Stockholders of the North-Eastern Indiana Agricultural Association, that the Annual Meeting of the Stockholders of said Association will be held at the Engine House at Waterloo DeKalb County Indiana, at 2 o'clock p. m. on Monday January 4, 1875. Business of importance will come before the meeting, including the election of officers.

ALSO

That the books of said Association will be closed on the 15th day of December 1874, for the issuing of Stores. All those having unclaimed accrued dividends are requested to call at the Secretary's Office, and procure certificates of stock in lieu of the same. By order of the Executive Committee.

JAMES L. CHAMBERLAIN, President.
JOHN BUTT Secretary.

Waterloo, Indiana, December 3, 1874.

Advertised Letters.

Advertised list of Letters at Auburn, Ind., December 1st, 1874:

Ash, John L.
Anstul Jack
Atwater G A
Bailey Benjamin
Briggs Mitchel
Bailey M L
Criswell L D
Clay Henry 2
Case Isaac
Cohn Levi
Coleman C P
Davis Mrs L A
Dodge Martin A
Goldsberry Wm D
Graves Joseph
Hoffman David
Hogg E J
Hurny Samuel
Hall John W
Harman Mrs M A
Kruce John 2
Kahler Frank
Little Aug 2 German
Lavalege W
Lopker Wm
Lopker Robert A
Miller J
Miller John C
Miller John
McKnale Geo
Marlatt Eh W
Miller Matilda
Mitchell John
O'Brian T
Peterson Mrs Martha
Quinn James M 2
Rick J.
Reyer Robt English
Smith Franklin
Tibey William B
Whalen Matt 3
Whalen John
Wood H C
Wagner Geo
Wood Hank C
Welty David
Williams J M
Wright Robert

When you want Advertised Letters call for them.

S. L. YANDES, Post Master.

PROCLAMATION.

—OF—

N. F. GENGNAGLE

To All Whom it May Concern

—0—

Know ye, That I have obtained a license from the Commissioners Court and am permitted to retail intoxicating liquors in my saloon in the town of Butler. To the wife who has a drunkard for a husband or a friend who is unfortunately dissipated I say emphatically give me notice in person of such cases in which you are interested, and all such shall be excluded from my bar. Let fathers mothers sisters and brothers do likewise and their request will be regarded and always consider it a great favor by so doing: this is simply the sum and substance of the whole matter. I am permitted to sell whiskey and other intoxicating liquors and I want it understood that I have no desire to sell to drunkards and minors or to the poor or destitute. I much prefer that they save the money and apply it where it legitimately belongs to their families. To those who wish to trade with me and can afford it, come and I will treat you gentlemenly courteously. Pay your cash, choose your drink and go about your business and it is your business and nobody elses business.

N. F. GENGNAGLE.

Dec. 10th 1874

[illegible] and were as vicious as ever.

THE habit of breathing through the mouth instead of through the nose tends to weaken the whole respiratory apparatus, diminish the capacity of the lungs, and when commenced in early infancy, to distort the jaws and deform the teeth. Many of the tribes of American Indians—as explained by the eminent artist, the late Mr. Colton—are particular never to allow a child to sleep for a moment with its mouth open, and unsymmetrical teeth are unknown among them. Whenever a child is inclined to open its mouth during sleep its watchful mother or nurse presses its lips together, holds them closed, and preserves the corrective process until the abnormal habit is overcome and breathing the natural way established.

[illegible] AND MENTAL DISEASE.—A

Colorado Excursion—Go West Thro St. Louis.

During the Summer Season, the Missouri Pacific and Kansas Pacific Through Line, via St. Louis and Kansas City, will sell Excursion Tickets from St. Louis to Denver and Return, good ninety days from date of sale, at extremely low rates thus affording every one an excellent opportunity to visit the famous resorts of Colorado, among the beautiful Parks of the Rocky Mountains.

To all who are seeking new homes and are about to take a trip to Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Nebraska, Oregon or California, we recommend a cheap, safe, quick and direct route by the way of St. Louis, over the Missouri Pacific Through Line. It is equipped with fine day Coaches, Buck's Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman's Palace Sleepers the famous Miller Safety Platform, and the celebrated Westinghouse Air Brake and runs its trains from St. Louis to principal points in the West without change. The Texas connection of this road is now completed and passengers are offered a first-class all-rail route from St. Louis to Texas, either over the Missouri, Kansas & Texas R. R., via Sedalia, or over the Atlantic & Pacific R. R., via Vinita.

For full information in regard to Colorado Excursions, or trips to any point in the Great West, address or call upon either of the following named Agents of the Line: J. F. Thompson, 187 Exchange St. Buffalo, N. Y.; S. H. Thompson, Union Depot, Columbus Ohio or E. A. Ford Gen'l Passenger Agent, 20 South Fourth Street St. Louis. Questions will be cheerfully and promptly answered.

AUBURN COURIER

THURSDAY, DEC. 10, 1874.

NEWS SUMMARY.

The East.

A SLIGHT shock of earthquake was felt at Newburyport, Mass., on the 25th ult.... The Nashua and Rochester road has been completed, and, with its connections, forms an air line between Portland, Me., and New York city. The old line between the two points is 444 miles long, and by the new line the distance is reduced to 338 miles, thus effecting a saving of 106 miles between New York, Portland, St. John, Halifax, and other points in that direction. A new line of steamers between Portland and English ports has just been put on.... Col. Forney has sold the Philadelphia Press to Col. A. K. McClure and other anti-Administrationists for $250,000.

A NUMBER of prominent citizens of New York, among them Edwin D. Morgan, John J. Cisco, Jonathan Sturges, Thurlow Weed and William E. Dodge, have petitioned the Police Commissioners to enforce the laws against Sunday amusements in that city.

PARTICULARS of a battle among the coal miners of Westmoreland county, Pa., have been received. On the morning of Nov. 29 a band of about twenty-five Italians entered the village of Showers, and conducted themselves in a riotous manner, but were finally driven off, and in the afternoon of the same day they were attacked by a party numbering seventy-five. During the fight, which lasted nearly an hour, four Italians were killed and a number severely wounded, while the Americans escaped entirely unhurt. The Italians finally surrendered, and promised to leave the place.... Mayor Havemeyer, of New York, died suddenly of apoplexy, in that city, on the morning of the 30th ult.—the day of the expiration of his term of office.

COL. FORNEY has reconsidered his determination to sell the Philadelphia Press, Mr. Childs, of the Public Ledger, having agreed to assist him out of his financial embarrassments.

JAY COOKE's estate is turning out worse than anybody expected. The creditors are thoroughly discouraged. It seems that preferred claims have been allowed sufficient to consume the bulk of the assets.... The champion silver cup, valued at $600, which was won by Albert Garnier at the billiard match a year ago, was stolen from his saloon in New York.

THE entire business portion of the village of Wilton, N. H., was destroyed by fire last week. Loss, nearly $100,000.... The attempt to release Boss Tweed on a writ of habeas corpus has failed, and the prisoner is left to his last resort, a writ of error.

The West.

MICHIGAN's official census, just completed, shows that the State now has a population of 1,335,808, being an increase of 152,526 since 1870.... The Indiana Supreme Court has decided that colored children are not entitled to the public school benefits of that State, because the State Constitution provides that only the children of "citizens" are entitled to those benefits, and that colored people, not having been "citizens" when the State Constitution was adopted, the Fourteenth Amendment of the National Constitution, subsequently adopted, does not supersede this provision of the State Constitution.... A convention of those interested in an expansion of the currency was held at Indianapolis last week. Alexander Campbell, of Illinois; Alexander Troup, of Connecticut; James Buchanan, of Indiana; Horace H. Day, of New York; L. A. Wood, of Kentucky, and several other prominent inflationists, were in attendance. A declaration of principles was adopted, in which the withdrawal of national and State bank-notes, and the issuance of greenbacks in unlimited quantities in their stead, is demanded. A national convention of expansionists, to nominate candidates for President and Vice-President, was arranged to be held at Cleveland on the 11th of March, 1875.

THE Chicago papers announce the death in that city, at the age of 45 years, of S. C. Campbell, the great baritone singer.

THE committee of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, who visited Chicago to inspect the improvements made there, with a view to safety against fires, report that they feel very hopeful for the future prosperity of that city.

[illegible] Bushed

from New York.

In some parts of the South they begining to whisper the name of W Hamption in connection with the Democratic Vice-Presidential nomi tion. He is the man who procur the insertion in the Democratic pla form of 1868 of the clause declari the reconstruction acts "unconsti tional, revolutionary and void." Pittsburg Commercial.

This is a favorite style of argument with certain loyal journals. But t war is over, and the sound of the a tillery has died out in the distance. It won't work.

Gen. Jackson —Insurance companies, which some time ago withdrew from Chicago, have decided to resume the writing of risks in that city.... Gen. Shaler, in his second report to the Chicago Board of Fire Commissioners, suggests that the Fire Brigade be increased to thirty-seven steamers and twenty-one hook and ladder trucks. The present force is twenty-three engines and four trucks.... Edward Ehler, Treasurer of Milwaukee county, Wis., has placed all his property in the hands of a receiver for the benefit of his bondsmen. It is known that he appropriated several thousand dollars of the public money for the purpose of enlarging his private business, but the investment proved a poor one, and as the late election approached he risked everything to secure a re-election, and drew still further on the county funds. The amount of his defalcation is about $15,000.

WILBUR F. STOREY, editor of the Chicago Times, was married on the 2d inst. to Mrs. Eureka C. Pearson, of Chicago.... The short-horn cattle breeders of the United States held their annual convention at Springfield, Ill., last week. About 100 breeders were in attendance.... Rev. George D. Gillespie, of Ann Arbor, has been elected Episcopal Bishop of the new Diocese of Western Michigan.

Washington.

THE Commissioners appointed to frame a bill for a permanent form of government for the District of Columbia have decided upon the character of government they will recommend. They will recommend the appointment of three Commissioners, to be nominated by the President and confirmed by the Senate, who shall have executive charge of the entire government. This Commission is to have authority to appoint subordinate Commissioners and officers to perform the administrative work. There is to be no Legislative Council. Congress will legislate exclusively for the District.... It is reported that the President favors the scheme for a grand system of internal improvement, with a view of reviving business.

THE Evening Mail, a Democratic organ, made its appearance on Thanksgiving day.... It is said that the representatives of the whisky interest, with a powerful lobby, intend this winter to attempt to raise the tax on distilled spirits 10 cents a gallon.... An effort will doubtless be made at the next session to bring the cost of customs collections within reasonable figures. Last year it cost $19,000,000 to collect $160,000,000 of customs duties, while the Internal Revenue Bureau collected $105,000,000 at a cost of only $5,000,000.... The safe-burglary conspiracy trial has been brought to a close. The jury were unable to agree upon the guilt or innocence of Whitely and Harrington, but found Williams not guilty.

THE special loan agent of the Treasury Department, who has just returned from Europe, says a Washington telegram, brings advices which show that the syndicate will at an early date take the remainder of the five per cent. bonds, that are now nearly reduced to $100,000,000. If these are subscribed for in one round sum, it will complete the refunding of $500,000,000 of the five-twenties authorized in 1862. The Secretary of the Treasury has the opinion of leading members of the syndicate, that another loan could be negotiated of 5 per cent. bonds, provided they were authorized.... A prominent Republican member of the House, in conversation the other day, expressed the opinion that no financial legislation could be expected this winter.... The President, it is reported, will insist that Congress shall, at its coming session, settle the Louisiana and Arkansas muddles.... It is announced from Washington that, in view of the decision of the Supreme Court of Indiana, denying to colored children any rights in the public schools of the State, the friends here of the Civil-Rights bill intend to urge its prompt passage, no matter whether the President vetoes it or not. It has passed the Senate, and is pending in the House Judiciary Committee.

A SUMMARY of the estimated of government appropriations for the coming year in the hands of the committee show a reduction over last year of $7,000,000.... It is pretty well settled that the Republicans will, as a body, resist the attempt to re-enact the law requiring Congress to organize on the 4th of March.... The Inspector-General of the army, in his annual report, says a regulation is much needed, inflicting some punishment on soldiers who marry without proper permission. Military posts are somewhat overrun with the wives of enlisted men, and it is well known it requires as much transportation to move four laundresses as it does to move a whole company of men.

THE national debt was reduced $123,427 during the month of November. Annexed is the official statement:

Six per cent. bonds	$1,167,274,700
Five per cent. bonds	552,524,300
Total coin bonds	$1,719,799,000
Lawful money debt	$ 14,678,000
Matured debt	18,446,030
Legal tender notes	382,075,267
Certificates of deposit	47,120,000
Fractional currency	47,385,698
Coin certificates	23,045,400
Total without interest	$ 499,626,365
Total debt	$2,252,550,290
Total interest	$ 33,251,111
Cash in Treasury, coin	$ 83,043,762
Cash in Treasury, currency	16,699,311
Special deposits held for redemption of certificates of deposit, as provided by law	47,120,000
Total in Treasury	$ 146,863,073
Debt less cash in Treasury	$2,138,938,334
Decrease during November	$ 123,427
Decrease since June 30, 1874	4,149,907
Bonds issued to the Pacific Railroad Companies, interest payable in lawful money, principal outstanding	64,623,512
Interest accrued and not yet paid	1,615,587
Interest paid by United States	24,325,306
Interest repaid by transportation of mails, etc	5,510,044
Balance of interest paid by United States	18,815,262

The South.

THE grand jury of Warren county, Miss., of which Vicksburg is the capital, have returned eight indictments against T. W. Cardoza, colored, State Superintendent of Education, for forgery and embezzlement, six indictments against A. W. Dorsey, clerk of the Circuit Court, for forgery and embezzlement, and five indictments against G. W. Davenport, colored, clerk of the Chancery Court, for forgery and altering the record. The grand jury was composed of ten blacks and seven whites.... At New Orleans, on Thanksgiving day, William Lucas, foreman of fire company No. 5, was shot and killed by S. J. Newhouse, second assistant of the same company.

F. BARRY, aged 96, supposed to be the oldest printer in the United States, died at St. Louis, last week. His first take as a journeyman was Washington's obituary. At ninety years of age, he worked at the case in Nashville, Tenn.... Independence, Mo., was visited by an extensive conflagration on the 25th ult., over $150,000 worth of property being destroyed.

Two outlaws, supposed to belong to the Gadshill gang, have been captured, taken to Little Rock, Ark., and lodged in jail. The occasion of the capture was the robbery of a country store near Little Rock, and the murder of its proprietor, by a party of five. Three of the members of the gang escaped.... Wm. O. Keys, cousin of Frank Keys, author of the "Star Spangled Banner," committed suicide at the Kennert House, Baltimore, last week. The deceased had been for some time past in the hotel business.... Two passengers were killed and a number wounded by an accident which occurred on the Northern Central railroad, near Baltimore last week. While two passenger trains were crossing Lake Roland the bridge broke and six cars were thrown into the water.

THE taxpayers of New Orleans held a meeting the other day, at which they invited the officers recently elected to resign. The reason was that they had not filed any bonds for the faithful performance of their duty. The Sheriff and one or two magistrates deemed it expedient to resign, and did so.

General.

A MOST daring case of abduction occurred at Freemansburg, Pa., last week. The child-stealer entered the house of one Allan Glase, and took from a crib beside the bed occupied by the father and mother their infant child.

THE Superintendent of the Postal Railway Service, in his annual report, recommends the establishment of a fast and exclusive mail train between New York and Chicago, as there appears to be a growing necessity for the same, to run the distance in about twenty-four hours.... The Supreme Court of the United States has just rendered an important decision, the result of which will probably hasten the solution of the tribal relations of the Indians. Another result will be to destroy some very valuable fine timber contracts in Wisconsin and Minnesota, and to render a considerable number of Indian tribes almost entirely destitute. The decision in question is to the effect that the Indian tribes do not own the fee to the lands within their respective reservations, being only tenants of the United States, to whom alone the fee belongs. The decision also holds that the timber and minerals are a portion of the realty, and that the Indian tribes cannot sell the one nor lease the other. The case came up from the reservation of the Oneida Indians, near Green Bay, in Wisconsin, where one or two Indians had disposed of a quantity of pine logs.... The iron manufacturers in Western Pennsylvania and Northern Ohio have decided to close their mills altogether until there is some improvement in the market. The Eastern manufacturers will still keep some furnaces in blast, but they also have agreed to reduce production very materially. Thousands of laborers in the shops and the mines will be thrown out of employment by this action.... The prospect is that the proposed new reciprocity treaty between the United States and Canada will fail of ratification. There is bitter opposition to it on both sides of the line, and even in Great Britain, where apprehensions exist that Canada would impose differential duties discriminating against England and in favor of the United States.

THE National Cheap Transportation Association met at Richmond, Va., on the 1st inst. It was a very dignified and respectable gathering. Hon. Josiah Quincy, of Massachusetts, presided. Nothing of much consequence was accomplished the first day. There was open hostility between those delegates who favor the building of a cheap freight railway and those who are committed to the James river and Kanawha canal project.... The provisions of the new postal convention between the United States and twenty European powers have been published. It fixes a uniform rate of postage on mail matter exchanged between all the parties to the convention.

THE Cheap Transportation Convention at Richmond, Va., made little progress on the second day of its session, the time being consumed principally in listening to essays and speeches in favor of the James River and Kanawha canal.

Foreign.

DISPATCHES from Minister Cushing leave no doubt of the truth of the report that the indemnity demanded by our government from Spain for outrages committed on American citizens, is to be referred to the arbitration provided by the Virginius protocol.... Buckland and McGahan, correspondents of the New York Times and Herald, have been arrested in Spain, and subjected to many indignities.... Von Arnim is no longer kept under police surveillance by Herr Von Bismarck. The former still keeps a stiff up lip, however, refusing to hand over the correspondence Bismarck so much desires to possess.... A bill has been introduced in the Italian Parliament, providing for a grant of $20,000 annually to Garibaldi.... A frightful mountain disaster is reported at the great Mount St. Bernard. Eleven persons were buried in snow, and it is supposed all have perished.... In response to a toast at the annual banquet of the cutlers of Sheffield, England, Minister Schenck expressed the belief that England and America could, united, withstand the whole world, if necessary.... The Paris Municipal Council has adopted the plan proposed by the Prefect of the Seine for a lottery loan of 44,000,000 francs.

A HAVANA letter of Nov. 21 gives a discouraging account of the financial condition of the island, which is daily becoming more hopelessly involved. The government is owing everybody, and unable to pay even the smallest debts. The Spanish soldiers are said to be deserting by the wholesale. At Guasimas, recently, 97 went over to the insurgents in a body.... The officers and crew of the Australian cutter Lapwing, on a late voyage to Nonmea, from New Caladonia, stopped at Santa Cruz Island for provisions, and the savages massacred all but one native sailor, and destroyed the cutter. No names are given.

A PRIVATE letter from St. Pierre Miquelon gives an account of a terrible tragedy which took place at Indian Tickle, Labrador, on the night of Nov. 15. The victims were two families named Morrison, numbering nine persons, only one of whom, a girl, escaped. It seems that of late gangs of Esquimaux Indians have been committing robberies at huts and stores, and that after the capture of several of the Indians they were publicly chastised by whipping. The Indians sought revenge, and on the night of the 15th visited the dwelling of the Morrisons, and shot and stabbed to death eight of the nine persons residing there. One Indian was also shot.... A new railroad is projected in the Dominion, to connect the province of Manitoba with some point in British Columbia, on the Pacific coast.

NEWS has been received in London of the serious illness of the Czar, and it is rumored that he is insane.... In a battle between the rebel and the government armies of the Argentine Republic, the government troops lost 400 in killed.... Twenty-one lives were lost on the Scottish coast during the gale of the 30th of November.... A heavy typhoon occurred at Yesoo, Japan, Oct. 1. Many sea-coast villages were greatly injured, and one was entirely destroyed. Thirty-three junks were wrecked and 200 lives lost.... The difficulty between China and Japan in regard to Formosa has been settled by the Chinese agreeing to the terms required by Japan.... Buffet has been re-elected President of the French National Assembly.

THE British steamer La Plata, engaged in repairing the submarine cables, foundered off the coast of Brittany Nov. 28, and sixty persons were drowned.

AN INDIAN MASSACRE.

Terrible Fate of the Germain Family, from Georgia—A Man, His Wife and Three Children Killed and Mutilated—Four Girls Carried Into Captivity—Rescue of Two of Them.

Some two or three months ago a statement was published in the papers that the bodies of four white persons, and the charred wreck of an emigrant wagon had been found on the Smoky Hill, 13 miles from Sheridan Station, on the Kansas Pacific railway. The bodies were horribly mutilated, and the only thing left to identify the family was a small Bible, upon the fly-leaf of which was written "Gormain, Blue Ridge, Ga." At first the story was not believed, but subsequently such corroborative evidence was furnished as to leave no doubt that a portion of the family had been foully butchered, and the female members carried into captivity. Two of the latter—young girls—have since been rescued. A sergeant of the Fifth infantry, who was with a detachment of troops which effected the rescue, has arrived at Leavenworth, and furnishes the particulars of the revolting massacre of the family, and the hardships borne by the captives. He obtained his version of the butchery from the elder girl of the two captured. He says the family—consisting of father and mother, one son grown, five daughters, and an infant—were surprised by a band of Indians while encamped on the Smoky Hill. The father, mother, son and the oldest daughter—an invalid—were horribly butchered and scalped before the eyes of the younger girls. The four other girls and the infant were placed on ponies, and forced to endure every hardship of travel known. The savages, finding the infant a burden, brained it with a tomahawk, and then continued their flight southward with the four girls. Ada and Lucy Gormain—the former aged 10, and the latter 19—were compelled, in the most brutal and shameful manner, to submit to the lustful embraces of the savage devils. These two girls are yet prisoners, held by Gray Eagle's band of Cheyennes, numbering 120 warriors, although there is hardly a doubt of their recapture, as the troops are closing in on the war-party, and, being mounted on fresh horses, will certainly overtake the savages, whose ponies are run down, and hardly fit for active warfare. The recaptured girls are aged respectively 7 and 9 years. The younger bore the hardships of captivity much better than her sister. The elder would not have lived more than a week longer under the savage treatment. Both were almost naked, emaciated; and at the time of their rescue, presented a spectacle of human wretchedness and despair almost without a parallel in the hirtory of savage barbarism.

The soldiers of the rescuing detachment made covering for the bodies of the half-naked children from their own clothing, and, in every other way possible, ministered to the comfort of the little sufferers. The younger girl does not seem to realize the terrible fate of the family. When retaken, she asked the soldiers, in the simplicity of child-like curiosity, what tribe they belonged to.

NEWSPAPER POSTAGE.

A Plan to Simplify Accounts Between Publishers and the Department.

A Washington telegram of the 2d inst. says: The report of the Commissioner to prepare instructions to Postmasters concerning the prepayment of newspapers and periodical postage after Jan. 1, 1875, sustains the recommendations of Third Assistant Postmaster-General Barber, as to a plan for carrying out the law in the most convenient and simple manner. Instead of placing stamps on separate periodicals or papers, or on the packages containing them, according to weight, the forms already printed show a current account with publishers, and after the printed matter is weighed the requisite amount of stamps is posted in the form of a receipt given to the publisher or his agent at the time of mailing, the credit and the receipt having a corresponding number.

INDIANA NEWS.

THE Supreme Court, sitting at Indianapolis has just delivered a very important opinion involving the rights of colored children in the public schools. Under the ruling of the Court, negro children are to be practically excluded from the public schools of Indiana. The case came up on an appeal from the County Court of Marion county, which held that, where there were not fifteen colored children in any school district, in which even separate schools are provided, they had the right to be admitted into the regular school with white children. The Supreme Court reverses the decision, holding that schools provided under section 28 of the first article of the Constitution are only for citizens, and at the time of the adoption of the Constitution only white people were citizens. The Fourteenth Amendment does not delegate to the general government the right to control the domestic affairs of a State, and it has been so decided by the United States Supreme Court. The court says that the Legislature having undertaken to provide separate schools for colored children, the law being that such shall be organized where there are fifteen children in the district, they are clearly of the opinion that colored children are not entitled to admission in schools provided for white children so long as that act remains in force. The decision of the lower court was made by Judge Perkins, a former Democratic member of the Supreme Court. Exception was noted, and a petition for rehearing.

The decision creates considerable interest in legal and school circles. The opinion was delivered by Chief-Justice Buskirk. Very few districts in the State have a sufficient number of colored people to organize separate schools, and the decision will practically cut colored children out of facilities for education.

A BLOCK of buildings was burned in Muncie, on the night of the 25th ult. Loss $9,000. Franklin had a $12,000 blaze on the same evening.

HENDERSON, PARKS & Co., of Martinville, killed a hog last week which weighed 1,180 pounds. This is believed to have been the largest hog in the State. He brought over $80 in market.

WHILE digging a well at Albion, Noble county, which had reached a depth of forty feet, a portion of the gravel near the surface gave way, and buried a young man named Frank Lindsay at the bottom of the well. Death ensued before he could be rescued.

THERE are 407 convicts in the State Prison South at the present time. This is the largest number of male convicts ever incarcerated there since the northern prison was established. The indications are good for further increase, as nearly all the jails in Southern Indiana are filled.

The State Grange closed its session on the 26th ult. The following members were elected to fill the vacancies on the State Executive Committee, occasioned by expiration of terms of office: Robert Mitchell, Gibson county; C. C. McWilliams, Parke, and A. B. Line, Franklin. J. W. Ziegler, of Laporte, was elected State Lecturer. An appropriation of $1,000 was voted in aid of grasshopper sufferers, and each lodge in the State was requested to give one dollar—in all $2,000. The Treasurer reported $13,274.30 received during the year, and $9,467.73 disbursed. The Secretary reported $10,683.74 receipts, of which $5,735.56 were expended in the transaction of his office business. The Committee on Purchasing Agencies reported in favor of continuing the agent, with a salary of $1,200, and $2,500 to be placed in his hands, to aid him in prosecuting business. The Committee on Salaries reported in favor of paying the Worthy Master and Secretary a a salary of $800 each, and expenses; Treasurer $500 and expenses; members of Executive Committee, $2.50 per day and expenses, and other officers of the State Grange the same compensation while attending the State Grange. Several amendments to the phraseology of the constitution and by-laws were ratified, and much other unimportant business transacted.

THERE are 650 school children in Indiana.

A SUIT for a $6 hog has just terminated at Terre Haute, the court costs having amounted to $200.

A MAN in Cass county has this season realized $1,100 from his crop of cabbages and watermelons.

A MR. SMITH, of New York, has bought the famous Shoemaker fruit-farm, near Rome, Perry county, for $40,000.

THE annual report of State Auditor Wildman for the fiscal year ending Oct. 31, 1874, is an exhaustive one, and when printed will make a volume of over 300 pages. Its tables of statistics cover every department, while its suggestions are timely and pertinent. The following is a brief summary of its contents:

State revenue received during the year		$ 803,001 97
Common school revenue		1,615,912 90
College fund		16,287 90
Public institutions as follows:
Hospital for Insane	$ 17,209 07
Deaf and Dumb Asylum	2,850 42
Blind Asylum	2,128 11
Female Prison	503 60
State Prison, South	53,307 05
State Prison, North	64,898 51
		140,897 36
Other sources		916,849 06
Total receipts for the year, including balance on hand Nov. 1, 1873		$3,072,195 06

The disbursements are as follows:

For judiciary salaries and other incidental expenses		$ 272,249 25
Benevolent Institutions—
Insane Hospital	$197,709 52
Deaf and Dumb Asylum	68,060 88
Blind Asylum	38,235 55
Soldiers' Home	36,308 38
		240,207 31
Reformatory Institutions—
State Prison, South	67,807 05
State Prison, North	62,586 06
Female Prison	22,727 41
House of Refuge	40,325 00
		193,445 52
Educational Institutions—
State Normal School	2,819 45
State University	450 30
Purdue University	92,062 33
State Board of Education	1,807 82
College fund	20,221 23
		101,940 83
Common School fund		1,489,173 69
Total revenue refunded for 1872-1873		36,381 99
Other expenditures		394,592 72
Total audited for the year		$2,827,991 28
Balance in Treasury Nov. 1, 1874		$ 244,203 78

Of the warrants issued during the year, the report says that a large proportion was on account of distribution of the common school fund and refunding of school moneys, and should not therefore be considered as State expenses. The State expenditures proper were $1,339,817.62; total of trust fund $650,726.35.

Under the head of estimated expenditures come first those of the fiscal year ending Oct. 31, 1875, as follows:

Judiciary salaries, etc		$ 338,100 00
Public Institutions—
Normal School	$ 2,000
State University	295
Purdue University	305
Insane Asylum	153,000
Deaf and Dumb Asylum	68,400
Blind Asylum	32,500
House of Refuge	405
Soldiers' Home	42,450
Female Prison	26,700
State Prison, South	12,000
State Prison, North, self-sustaining societies and premiums	10,500
Public indebtedness, interest and payment of principal		$ 544,426 99
Grand total		$1,374,076 99
Grand total for estimates of 1873		$1,589,126 99

The report says the taxable property of the State amounts in round numbers to $965,000,000, and there are 295,030 polls. The balance now in the treasury to meet probable expenses till the 1st of March, not including legislative expenses and extra appropriation, and the January settlement, is $500,000. The State will receive in 1875 the benefit of a tax of 15 cents on the $100, and 50 cents on each poll The receipts of 1875, deducting 20 per cent. for delinquencies, and allowing for tax on insurance companies, may be placed at $1,775,000. The receipts of 1876 and 1877 will depend on the rate of taxation determined by the Legislature. In regard to the new Assessment law, the report says that in 1872 the total taxable property of the State was $653,367,451; and by the assessment of 1873 the value of real estate was $783,321,523, and the value of personal property in 1874 is $261,958,707. Total $961,280,230. This shows an increase in 1874 over 1872 of $311,912,799, which is near the real value. The Auditor thinks, however, that assessment once in two years is too often and recommends that the interval be extended to five years. There are other defects in the law, to which he calls the attention of the Legislature.

The total foreign debt of the State is $1,172,755.12; total domestic debt, $3,940,783.22; total State debt, $5,113,538.34. Of this amount the war bonds, at 6 per cent., aggregate $139,000; temporary bonds, 8 per cent., $200,000, due March 12, 1875; temporary loan bonds, 7 per cent., due April 15, 1876, $510,000; necessary loan bonds, 8 per cent., due Dec. 12, 1876, $200,000; internal improvement bonds, $472,516.18. During the past two years, internal improvement bonds were paid to the amount of $485,400.38. The receipts from 1847 to 1874, inclusive, for Wabash and Erie canal, were $4,889,732.05; disbursements, $4,847,199.74; balance on hand Oct. 1, 1874, $42,534.31.

The property in the State exempt from taxation amounts to $20,986,146.

In the State are nine savings banks, distributed as follows: Two in Indianapolis, two in Lafayette, and one each in Laporte, Terre Haute, Evansville, Fort Wayne, and South Bend. The one at Fort Wayne is closing up business, and will shut up on the 1st of January, 1875.

The number of miles of railroad track in the State is 4,194.63; total value, $39,740,042; main track, 3,737.12 miles; value, $27,887,998; side track, value, $2,699,356; value of rolling stock, $9,099,842; right of way, without track, $54,846. The Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St. Louis is the largest railroad in the State, being 416 miles, and valued at $4,900,357. In 1845 there were 30 miles of railway in the State.

Political Points.

THE vote for Governor of Michigan, except four small counties, is: Bagley, Rep., 111,353; Chamberlain, Dem., 106,700.

EIGHTEEN of the members of the Forty-second Congress who voted and kept the back pay have been elected to the Forty-fourth. Of these, nine are from the Northern and nine from the Southern States.

THE Knoxville (Tenn.) Chronicle says: The full returns of the recent gubernatorial election in this State, except Johnson county, foot up for Porter, 104,455; Maynard, 54,969; leaving Porter's majority 49,486.

THE Topeka Record of Nov. 18 classifies the Legislature elect of Kansas as follows: Senate—21 Republicans, 13 Opposition; House—70 Republicans, 36 Opposition. The Senate holds for two years, the House for one.

NEVADA has got all the returns collected. The Legislature will stand: Senate, Republicans, 18; Democrats, 7. Assembly, Republicans, 31; Democrats, 17; Independents, 3. Republican majority on joint ballot, 22.

OFFICIAL vote of New York for Governor:

Tilden, Dem	416,341
Dix, Rep	361,406
Clark, Temperance	10,228
Tilden's clear majority	44,713

THE vote of North Carolina in August has been declared by the Legislature, as follows:

Superintendent, 1874.		Governor, 1872.
Pool, Dem	98,217	Merrimon, Dem	96,646
Purnell, Rep	84,181	Caldwell, Rep	98,618

THE vote of Pennsylvania, as officially reported, for Lieutenant-Governor, is as follows:

Latta, Dem	277,195
Olmstead, Rep	272,516
Latta's majority	4,679

THE majority for Dunnell, Republican member of Congress-elect from the First District of Minnesota, lacks only 5 votes of being 3,000. Strait's (Rep.) over Cox, in the Second District, is 221, and King's (Rep.) over Wilson, in the Third, is 2,348.

THE votes for members of Congress in Maryland are:

Dist. Repub.		Dem.		Maj.
1. Goldsboro	10,147	Thomas	12,465	2,318
2. Ensor	8,238	Roberts	10,682	2,444
3. Suter	4,834	O Brien	9,286	4,452
4. Cox	6,810	Swann	10,234	3,424
5. Hagner	10,547	Henkle	11,962	1,410
6. Lowndes	12,896	Walsh	12,974	78

THE official vote of Alabama, compared with that of 1872, is as follows:

Governor, 1874.		Governor, 1872.
Houston, Dem	107,118	Herndon, Dem	81,371
Lewis, Rep	93,928	Lewis, Rep	89,868
Total	201,046	Total	171,239
Dem. maj	13,190	Rep. maj	8,497

THE Arkansas V. V. Smith is a son of Delegan B. Smith, who went to Iowa from New York in 1846, and remained there till 1852, when he went to Oregon, where, after several years' prominence in politics, he in 1859 was elected Senator of the prospective State, but died in 1860.

THE statement that the last Democratic Governor of Massachusetts was elected in 1839 is an error. George S. Boutwell was first elected by the Democrats in 1851; then by the Coalition in 1853, which re-elected him, sent Charles Sumner to the Senate, made Henry Wilson President of the State Senate, and Banks Speaker of the State Legislature.

THE Columbia Union-Herald gives the vote of South Carolina for Governo as follows:

Governor, 1874.		Governor, 1872.
Chamberlain, Rep	80,531	Moses, Rep	69,831
Green, Opp	68,864	Tomlinson, Opp	33,886

The Union-Herald also classifies the Legislature elect:

	Senate.	House.	Total.
Republicans	19	71	90
Democrats	7	39	46
Independents	7	20	27

So far, five colored men have been elected to the next House of Representatives, and they are all new men. Two are from South Carolina, one from North Carolina, one from Alabama, and one from Louisiana. One of the South Carolinians (Lee) is a Democrat, and was elected by a Democratic and bolting Republican constituency. One colored man—B. K. Bruce—has been elected to the United States Senate from Mississippi.

A WASHINGTON telegram says: "A gentleman of prominence in Indiana politics arrived here a few days ago, and says that the canvass for the United States Senatorship is becoming rather warm. He believes that the choice will fall on either McDonald or Voorhees. Intelligence received direct from Senator Chandler says that he is confident of his re-election from Michigan. Congressman Hale, his son-in-law, now here, feels also assured of Chandler's re-election."

THE vote of New Jersey foots up as follows: For Governor, Joseph D. Bedle, Democrat, 97,254; George A. Halsey, Republican, 83,945. The whole vote is 22,454 greater than the vote for Governor in 1871. The returns from Congress give footings as follows:

Dist. Repub.		Dem.
1. Sinnickson	14,208	Albertson	13,019
2. Dobbins	13,977	Smith	13,099
3. Clark	10,643	Ross	15,084
4. Place	9,941	Hamilton	14,584
5. Phelps	11,672	Cutler	11,676
6. Ward	13,768	Teese	13,876
7. Scudder	8,272	Hardenburg	13,192

Wood Seasoned with Salt.

It has been found by long experience that immersion in salt water while wood is seasoning prevents or retards its decay. In Holland, where active ship-building has been carried on for centuries, this fact is universally admitted and utilized. Other maritime nations have also known and taken advantage of it. It is found, too, that piles sunk in salt water last for an unlimited time. External causes of decay may be neutralized by painting the wood; but, against the internal dry rot, this is ineffective. In order to prevent dry rot, wood must be subjected to treatment when seasoning, and salt seems to be the most available of the simple and cheap antidotes. Even after dry rot has commenced in timber, immersion in salt water checks the decay and preserves the remainder of the wood. It is said that, in the salt mines of Hungary and Poland, the galleries are supported by wooden pillars, which last unimpaired for ages, from being impregnated with salt.

HANDLED without gloves—Knives and forks, generally.

AUBURN COURIER

T. C. MAYS, Publisher.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS.

The Interior Department.

ANNUAL REPORT OF SECRETARY DELANO—A DISCUSSION OF THE INDIAN QUESTION—HE RECOMMENDS THAT THE HOMESTEAD LAWS BE EXTENDED TO INDIANS—CONDITION OF THE PACIFIC RAILROADS—THE PUBLIC DOMAIN—HOW THE WASTE OF TIMBER LANDS MAY BE LESSENED.

The annual report of the Secretary of the Interior to the President is a voluminous document, and we have room for only a brief synopsis of it. The most interesting portion is that relating to the Indian problem, to the discussion of which a large portion of the report is devoted. Mr. Delano says the operations of the Indian Bureau during the past year are highly gratifying, and furnish "conclusive evidence of the justice, wisdom and practicability of the policy inaugurated by the present administration." The Secretary recommends that the salaries of Indian Agents be increased immediately, with a view of securing men of proper capacity and right motives to undertake the work of civilizing and Christianizing the savages." He says:

"I am happy in being able to say that the earnest, active and cordial co-operation of several Christian organizations, to which the right of nominating agents has been assigned, and upon whose nominations alone such agents are appointed, is constantly improving this class of employes, and thus we are each year, to some extent, advancing the service by obtaining agents more experienced and intelligent, and of greater capacity for their secular, as well as their moral and religious work."

To aid in prosecuting the work of Indian civilization, the Secretary recommends the extension of the Homestead laws to Indians, with certain modifications and restrictions. He says:

"These laws at present apply to citizens of the United States only, and their provisions cannot be enjoyed, except by that small portion of the Indian race who are legally entitled to the privileges of citizenship.

"A common ownership of property is the nominal condition of the Indian race, and with it are found nomadic habits totally inconsistent with the idea of permanent habitations, individual ownership and domestic industry. The work of civilization can never be completed until these habits are abandoned. Every proper inducement ought, therefore, to be offered the Indian which will prompt him to individual ownership of property, and such habits of industry and economy as are incident to our civilization.

"Our Homestead laws require residence and cultivation for five years before the applicant becomes entitled to a patent for his land. These five years afford considerable guarantee that no one will apply to make homestead entries unless he possesses the qualities essential to citizenship.

"Should it be suggested that the extension of this privilege to Indians would furnish inducements to speculators to use them in acquiring titles to our public lands, I would reply that this danger can be prevented by providing that the patent to be issued shall contain a clause rendering the title inalienable, except by consent of the President. This would insure ample security against the abuse of this privilege, as well as necessary protection against improvident sales without adequate consideration.

"An extension to the Indians of the benefits of the Homestead laws, will greatly facilitate the work of their civilization. It will rapidly break up tribal organizations and Indian communities; it will bring Indians into subjection of our laws, civil and criminal; it will induce them to abandon roving habits, and teach them the benefits of industry and individual ownership, and thus prove highly advantageous in promoting their prosperity.

"The condition of the Indian population is anomalous, and their relations to the general government undefined. This is the result of necessity, but the time has arrived when, in the progress of events, it should be remedied. It may not be possible, at present, to devise a system of laws which shall perfectly define the relations between Indians and the government, or that will cure all the defects now existing for want of legislation, but it is possible to remedy many existing evils, and thus facilitate the work we have undertaken.

* * * * * * *

"The work of civilization will be greatly accelerated by enactments which shall define as far as possible the relations between this race and the government; which shall furnish authority for enforcing the orders and requisitions of agents; which shall be sufficient to punish Indians for crimes against each other, and against white people wherever committed, and which shall also inflict adequate punishment upon white people who trespass upon territory belonging to Indians, or commit crimes against them.

"The time has arrived when some general laws regulating Indian citizenship is, in my judgment, indispensable. Occasionally, treaty stipulations with Indian tribes are expiring, among whom is found a greater or less degree of civilization. This compels the department to determine the status of such Indians in regard to citizenship. There are also many who desire to separate from their tribes, adopt the habits and customs of civilized life, and become citizens."

The Secretary refers to the Black Hills reconnoissance, and the reports regarding the discovery of precious metals in that region. Upon this subject he says:

"The military reconnoissance of the Black Hills country was regarded by the Indians as a violation of their treaty, and produced a turbulent feeling among them. Its objects, however, were peacefully accomplished. Extravagant statements concerning the mineral wealth of the country created great excitement among the people, and exploring parties were organized for the purpose of prospecting the country. Subsequent information establishes the fact that no evidence of valuable mineral deposits was furnished, and that the lands in that region are undesirable for cultivation and settlement by white men. Notwithstanding this, organized parties have attempted to explore it, and have been attacked and repulsed by the Indians. It is apprehended that efforts will be made to induce legislation for the extinguishment of the Indian title to the Black Hills country, and to bring the land into market. It is hoped that such efforts will be without success, because of the general unfitness of the country for settlement, and because any attempt to dispossess the Indians at present of a region of country upon which they located for security against the encroachments of the white man would meet with violent and determined resistance."

The Secretary gives an extended exhibit of the financial condition of the various Pacific railroads. The subscriptions to the stock of the Union Pacific Railroad Company amount to $36,783,000, of which $36,762,300 has been paid up. The receipts for the year ending 30th June, 1874, from the transportation of passengers were $3,749,999.12; of freight, $5,672,724.61; and from miscellaneous sources, $824,038.03; total, $10,246,760.16. (These figures include "amounts earned for, and withheld by, the United States, for the transportation of its passengers, freight, and mails.") The expense of operating the road for the year has been $5,089,789.17, leaving net earnings $5,156,970.99. The entire cost of the road and fixtures to 30th June, 1874, was $112,427,277.46. The total bonded indebtedness of the company is shown to be $75,261,512, of which $27,236,512 is due to the United States. The "floating debt" (not including the company's note for $2,000,000, issued to the "Hoxie contract") is $2,234,-873.62, and "sterling loans," £20,000. The amount of stock of the Central Pacific Railroad Company subscribed is $62,606,800, of which $24,275,500 has been paid. The receipts for the year ending 30th June, 1874, from transportation of passengers were $4,-399,718.52, and of freight, $7,699,773.96; total, $12,099,492.48. The operating expenses of the road for the year were $4,816,082.40, leaving net earnings to the amount of $7,-212,410.08. At the close of said year the indebtedness of the company amounted to $65,673,181.75, of which $27,855,680 was to the United States.

Stock of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company (as shown by the last report) to the amount of $100,000,000 has been subscribed, and certificates for 202,826 shares, of $100 each, have been issued. The main line of the road has been built, and is now in daily operation from Duluth, on Lake Superior, westward to Bismarck, on the Missouri river, a distance of 450 miles; and from Kalama, on the north side of the Columbia river, in the Territory of Washington, northward to Tacoma, on Commencement Bay, Puget Sound, a distance of 105 miles. The cost of the surveys of the lines of the road, including necessary purchase of right of way, has been $1,108,-323.76; [illegible] 2,050 miles of river reconnoissance. When the final locations shall have been made, the number of miles surveyed will be about 12,000, and the cost of the surveys will aggregate about $1,500,-000—equal to about $125 per mile. The indebtedness of the company is as follows: First-mortgage bonds (dollar), $28,847,000; first-mortgage bonds (sterling), $1,250,000; bills payable, $702,293.86; accounts payable, $75,042.20; bonds and scrip issued to fund interest, $683,284; total, $31,558,630.56.

The amount of stock of the Texas and Pacific Railway Company authorized by law is $50,000,000; capital stock issued: scrip stock for partial payments on account of subscriptions, $600,000; full-paid stock, $1,000,000; total, $1,600,000. The indebtedness of the company is as follows: first-mortgage 6 per cent. gold construction bonds issued, $9,210,-600; first-mortgage land-grant 7 per cent. currency bonds issued, $9,251,000; floating debt, $2,207,444.45; debt of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to the State of Texas, assumed by the Texas and Pacific Company, $8,204,964.69; total, $22,473,409.14. The company's assets are as follows: 320 miles of constructed and equipped road; 107 miles of partially constructed and equipped road; 350 miles of telegraph line, $20,708,986.63; accounts collectable, $73,481.77; supplies on hand, $136,990.78; cash on hand, $97,183—total $21,018,642.18. The road will extend from Shreveport, La., on Red river, to San Diego, Cal., with a branch from Marshall, Texas, to Texarkana, there connecting with the Cairo and Fulton railroad, and from Texarkana through Paris and Sherman, connecting with the main line at Fort Worth.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1874, public lands were disposed of as follows:

Cash sales	1,041,345.46
Military warrant locations	133,160.00
Homestead entries	2,516,861.63
Timber culture entries	803,945.47
Agricultural college scrip locations	112,932.98
Approved to state as swamp	202,187.91
Certified to railroads	3,264,314.42
Certified for wagon-roads	57,921.11
Certified for agricultural colleges	114,289.18
Certified for common schools	69,899.84
Certified for universities	64,636.52
Approved to States for internal improvements	134,986.70
Sioux half-breed scrip locations	720.00
Chippewa half-breed scrip locations	11,671.71
Total	9,530,872.93

a quantity less by 3,499,733.94 acres than that disposed of the preceding year. The cash receipts were $2,469,938.50, a sum less by $938,577 than that received the preceding year. During the year 29,492,110.43 acres were surveyed, making, with the quantity previously surveyed, 649,393,052 acres, and leaving yet to be surveyed 1,185,605,348 acres. It is worthy of notice that the diminution in the aggregate quantity of lands disposed of the last fiscal year, as compared with the year before, is found chiefly in the amount certified to railroads: 3,264,314.42 acres in the year ending June 30, 1874, against 6,083,536.57 acres in that ending June 30, 1873. Nearly a million acres were entered under the Timber act, which augurs well for the now treeless prairies of the West. The entries under this and the Homestead act exceed by over half a million acres like entries during the preceding year. Such entries, being made for actual use, are the surest criterion of the progress of the country.

The rapid destruction of timber in this country, and especially that which is found on the public lands, is a source of great solicitude to all persons who have given the subject any consideration. If this destruction progresses in the future as rapidly as in the past, the timber lands of the government will soon be denuded of everything that is valuable. Effective legislation protecting these lands from such waste is absolutely necessary, and cannot longer be neglected without serious injury to the public interests.

The recommendations of the Commissioner are, that pine and fir lands shall not be subject to entry under the pre-emption and homestead laws; that a system of surveys be devised by which the quantity of pine and fir timber on each smallest subdivision of a section may be at least closely approximated; that an immediate exploration by experts of the unsurveyed portion of those States and Territories known to contain pine and fir timber be made, with a view of ascertaining the geographical situation of such districts; that the reports of such explorations be followed by immediate surveys, appraisements, proclamations, and sales, at not less than the appraised value, and for cash only. Under the laws now in force for the disposition of public lands, it is difficult, if not impossible, to obtain more than the minimum price ($1.25 per acre) for land, however valuable. When timbered lands are advertised for sale, private parties, desiring to purchase, make such arrangements and combinations as to prevent competition; hence, the lands, if disposed of at all, are sold at the minimum when offered at public sale, and, if not then sold, are immediately entered at the minimum government price by such parties. The most effectual means of preventing these practices is, in my judgment, to adopt the suggestions of the Commissioner regarding the survey and appraisal of these lands, and when they are offered at public or private sale to make the appraised value their minimum.

The Customs Bureau.

ANNUAL REPORT OF COMMISSIONER JOHNSON—AMOUNT OF COLLECTIONS DURING THE YEAR—HOW AMERICAN TOURISTS SMUGGLE GOODS AS PERSONAL EFFECTS.

Henry C. Johnson, Commissioner of Customs, has made his report to the Secretary of the Treasury, from which it appears there was paid into the treasury for the year ending with June last, $163,108,833 on account of customs; in fines, penalties, and forfeitures, $651,271; steamboat inspections, $274,490; labor, drayage, storage, etc., $463,684; Marine Hospital tax, $352,980; official fees earned by collectors, $634.842, making in round numbers a total of $165,480,503. There was paid out of the Treasury, on customs account, $22,365,278. This sum includes $7,319,407 expenses of collection; $4,295,701 refunding excess of deposits on duties; $1,301,977 on debentures; $1,783,054 on public buildings; $2,480,332 construction and maintenance of lights; $1,106,558 construction and maintenance of revenue cutters; $409,037 marine hospital service; $317,981 distribution shares of fines, penalties and forfeitures; $180,164 preserving life and property from shipwreck; and $107,933 miscellaneous accounts. The Commissioner says: "The evils of the moiety system in its practical administration were undoubtedly great, and by the enactment of repeal, June 22, 1874, Congress appears to have rendered its judgment that they were greater than the evils the system was designed to prevent. So far as a faithful and zealous execution of the new law by this Bureau can effect that object, the judgment of Congress against the moiety system shall be sustained; but it is yet too early to state what the result has been, or to predict intelligently what the ultimate result will be upon the revenue and mercantile classes."

It is estimated the American tourists returning from Europe during the year ending June 30, 1873, numbered 36,830, and each person brought on the average seven trunks filled with dutiable goods, claimed to be personal baggage, not dutiable. We have thus an average of 257,810 trunks filled with articles claimed as duty free, representing, on a valuation of $500 for each trunk, the enormous sum of $128,905,000. It is well known that much of this baggage is in reality intended to be put upon the market as merchandise, and still other portions of it are brought over for third parties, who have remained at home. Most of those engaged in this kind of importation are people of wealth, who should cheerfully bear their just proportion of the national indebtedness, and when they fail to do so, by this incipient form of smuggling, the burden falls more heavily on others, and discourages the honest merchant who is willing to carry on a legitimate trade, and observe the laws and customs regulations. The present practice of allowing free entry of the personal effects of passengers, the inspectors using their discretion and judgment as to whether the amount of baggage is or is not in excess of what is a suitable wardrobe, according to the passenger's station in life, furnishes an inducement to the rich and those in easy circumstances to take pleasure-trips abroad, which are made peculiarly profitable by this fashionable infraction of the revenue. As a large proportion of the baggage of passengers is passed and delivered by our officials without a proper examination, more stringent regulations should be adopted to secure the collection of lawful duties on goods thus imported.

The Commissioner suggests there are Custom Houses doing little or no business, but which are maintained at considerable expense of salaries of officials and construction and repairs of buildings, with the usual incidentals of such establishments. By the abolition of such districts and incorporating them with others large sums may be saved by the government, but in most instances legislation will be required for the purpose.

Agricultural Bureau.

AN INTERESTING REPORT FROM COMMISSIONER WATTS—OVER TWO AND A QUARTER MILLION PACKAGES OF SEED DISTRIBUTED DURING THE YEAR.

The Hon. Frederick Watts, Commissioner of Agriculture, in his annual report says: "There is no incident which so cripples the operations of this department as the want of the punctual publication of its annual report. For the last two years it has not been published. While Congress, at the last session, apparently made the effort to order the publication of the annual reports of 1872 and 1873, for the use of Congress, it failed, in the opinion of the Public Printer, to obtain its object. While the Commissioner does not concur in this opinion, it is due to him to say that to print them involved a doubtful construction of the law, a responsibility he was unwilling to take, and therefore the reports for the use of the members of Congress have not been printed. But by the separate provision of the act, there was an appropriation specially for the printing of the reports of 1872 and 1873. These have been printed and delivered to the department for distribution."

The Commissioner says he cannot be unmindful of the approaching Centennial of the Independence of the United States. No such opportunity has ever occurred for such an exhibition of the progress this country has made in its agriculture, horticulture, manufactures, commerce, arts and sciences, its adaptation for war and the benefits of peace, whereby the people of other countries may be impressed with the capabilities of this nation, and our own made to feel proud that we have achieved so much. He recommends that the government erect a building for itself, to be exclusively occupied by the several departments, a Board having been designated by the President to suggest what part each may take in the Exposition.

By action of Congress, about four acres of ground, formerly occupied by the canal, have been added to the department grounds, and are now undergoing preparation to form a part of the arboretum. The collections of exotic, utilizable, and economic plants is gradually increasing both in number and value. The orange family is particularly valuable, and the best commercial varieties are propagated and distributed to the greatest practicable extent. There has been no period in the history of this country when farmers' crops have been so extensively depredated upon as in the past year, and this has brought into active exercise the knowledge and industry of the entomological divisions of the department.

There is an increasing demand for information with regard to insects injurious to vegetation, and much pains have been taken to investigate the character of insects sent here, to point out their modes of infliction, and the means by which their depredations may be averted, and for those who seek to prosecute the study or acquire the knowledge of these insects specimens of their injuries and nest-architecture have been arranged and exhibited in a room provided for the purpose.

During the past year the work of the botanical division has been steadily prosecuted and many contributions added. It is believed that much valuable information of a practical character is both received and communicated. Many gratifying letters of acknowledgment show high appreciation of the work of distribution. There still remains a large quantity of duplicates, of which fifteen or more large packages will be ready for distribution by the 1st of January next.

The Commissioner shows the valuable services rendered by the several divisions of his department, and says: "In the purchase of seeds, the department has patronized only seed-growers and seed firms proven reliable by experience, whose guarantee of good quality and genuineness cannot be questioned, and by receiving them from first hands has been able to procure them at much lower rates, and, consequently, in greater quantities, and is thus enabled to give more liberally to the many applicants who daily apply for seeds from all parts of the country, and to extend the benefits of distribution. One million two hundred and eighty-six thousand packages of seeds were distributed during the last fiscal year."

The Currency.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE COMPTROLLER—STATISTICS OF THE NATIONAL BANKS FOR THE YEAR—EFFECT OF THE WITHDRAWAL OF LEGAL-TENDERS—LEGISLATION RECOMMENDED.

The annual report of the Comptroller of the Currency shows that during the past year seventy-one national banks have been organized, with an authorized capital of $6,-745,000. Three banks have failed, and twenty gone into voluntary liquidation. The actual increase of national bank circulation during the year is $3,576,297. The total circulation outstanding November 1, including $3,136,094 due to banks for mutilated notes destroyed, was $351,927,-246, leaving $2,072,754 yet to be issued of the $354,000,000 authorized. Since the passage of the act of June 20, 1874, forty-six, national banks have been organized, with a capital of $4,019,000, to which circulation has been issued. Applications have been made for the organization of sixty-four other national banks with a capital of $5,110,000, and circulation amounting to $4,500,000 has been assigned to these proposed organizations under section 4 of the act of June 20, 1874. Seven million seven hundred and fourteen thousand five hundred and fifty dollars legal-tender notes have been deposited for the purpose of withdrawing from circulation the same amount of national bank notes.

The amounts issued to banks since June 20, 1874, are as follows:

District of Columbia	$48,000
Virginia	51,000
West Virginia	18,000
North Carolina	58,500
Florida	27,000
Alabama	45,000
Texas	61,500
Kentucky	1,142,200
Tennessee	72,000
Ohio	223,210
Indiana	645,000
Illinois	406,000
Michigan	186,000
Wisconsin	49,000
Iowa	211,500
Minnesota	117,900
Colorado	17,000
Total	$3,350,180

The amount authorized to be issued to banks already organized is $3,707,000, and to be issued to proposed organizations $4,500,-000, of which Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, and Pennsylvania receive none, but Ohio receives $1,395,000, Indiana $864,000, Illinois $485,000, Iowa, $315,000, and others amounts smaller.

The amounts subject to withdrawal under Secs. 7 and 9 of the act of June 20, 1874, in States having more than their proportion of circulation are as follows:

Banks.	Where situated.	Amount.
4	New York city	$1,283,828
17	Providence, R. I.	2,618,100
15	Connecticut	3,054,079
38	Boston	13,832,780
20	Massachusetts	2,553,225
4	Maine	606,000
4	Vermont	598,600
12	Baltimore	2,112,878
1	Delaware	29,950
41	Pennsylvania	3,967,195
11	New Jersey	960,000

The amount of circulation remaining unissued and the amount to be withdrawn, as before stated, is $16,279,589. Total, $47,-350,743.

The Comptroller says: If Congress should provide for the withdrawal of legal-tender notes, and the issue of national bank notes as needed in place thereof, when the amount of legal-tender notes should be reduced to, say $300,000,000, the legal tender issues would then be in demand, and, in proportion as they should be reduced in amount, the demand for them would increase, until finally, when the amount of bank notes issued should be largely in excess of the amount of legal-tender notes outstanding, the national bank notes would themselves be withdrawn at certain seasons of the year on account of the difficulty or expense of obtaining lawful money with which to redeem them. The gold coin of the country would then make its appearance in answer to the demand for an additional amount of lawful money, and specie payment would follow. Redemption in its proper sense implies the exchange of a promise to pay for the thing promised, namely, coin or its representative, which is convertible into coin on demand. The effect of such redemption is to confine banks of issue to a legitimate business, which is the discounting of commercial paper. If banks of issue are obliged to pay their circulating notes once in sixty or ninety days, they must discount such promissory notes only as will certainly be paid within that time. If the payment of bank notes be frequently demanded, banks of issue cannot safely invest their capital in real-estate loans, in doubtful stocks or bonds, in accommodation-notes which require renewal, or in loans on doubtful security, but must have their capital at all times invested in loans which will be promptly paid at maturity. Such a condition indicates a healthful business, and promotes sound banking; and the reduction of the amount of legal-tender notes, accompanied with such increase of national bank-notes as may be required, will secure a proper system of redemption, render free banking practicable, and gradually restore specie payments without necessarily decreasing the amount of the circulating medium.

The following amendments to previous acts are recommended:

First—An amendment to section 1 of the act of March 3, 1873, providing that if any shareholder or shareholders of banks whose capital stock is impaired shall refuse, after three months' notice, to pay the assessment as provided in said section, a sufficient amount of the capital stock of such delinquent shareholder or shareholders may be sold to make good the deficiency.

Second—An amendment of section 39, of the National Bank act, extending the limit of the liabilities of any association, person, company, or firm, for money borrowed, from 10 per cent. of capital paid in to 15 per cent. of capital and surplus for banks located in redemption cities, and one-tenth of capital and surplus for other banks.

Third—Also prohibiting the deposit of more than 10 per cent. of the capital of a national bank with any private banker, or any person or association, other than a national banking association.

Fourth—That national banks shall be liable to make any deficiency which may hereafter arise in any special deposit with such bank, unless a receipt shall be produced by the owner of such deposit in which the liability of the bank shall be distinctly stated.

Fifth—The repeal of the 2-cent stamp-tax, or an act providing that all bills of exchange, checks or receipts, in place of checks drawn upon any bank or banker, shall be subject to a stamp-tax, with a penalty of $20 for each violation thereof.

The Comptroller renews the recommendations contained in his last two reports for the passage of an act to prevent the issue and circulation of unauthorized currency, and requiring the words "counterfeit," "altered," "illegal" to be stamped on all counterfeit or unauthorized issues; also his recommendation for the repeal of the fourth section of the act of June 1, 1870, so far as it applies to the organization of savings banks in the District of Columbia, and for the enactment in its stead of a general law in reference to such savings banks, with judicious conditions and restrictions.

Postal Affairs.

SYNOPSIS OF THE ANNUAL REPORT OF POSTMASTER-GENERAL JEWELL—THE RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES OF THE DEPARTMENT.

Postmaster-General Jewell's report of the operations of his department for the past year states that the revenues for the year ending June 30, 1874, were $24,596,568, and the expenditures $32,126,414. The estimated expenditures for the year ending June 30, 1876, are $36,964,031. The total estimated revenue is $29,148,156, leaving a deficiency to be provided for of $7,815,878. These estimates do not include the appropriations for steamship service and stamps, amounting to $2,098,500. The use of the registered letter system is steadily increasing. There has been a marked gain in time of transporting through mails—an average gain from New York to San Francisco of five hours and thirty-two minutes; a gain for mails to New Orleans of two hours and fifty-seven minutes, and going north of one hour and fifty minutes, and a perceptible gain on all through routes in regularity and certainty. The foreign mail system is in a better condition than ever before. The number of postoffices in operation June 30, 1874, was 34,294. The total number of appointments during the year was 9,424. The result of the extension of the letter-carrier system are of a most gratifying character. There has been a gain of over 30 per cent. in the amount of fees received from money orders. There has been but one erroneous payment in 59,677 payments, and only $74 in all.

The money-order business of the department appears to be rapidly growing in public favor, and is undoubtedly a very great accommodation to a large number of persons who are not within reach of banking facilities, or who are unaccustomed to the use of them; yet I know no reason why this branch of the service should not be made self-sustaining. I suggest, therefore, that the fees of money-orders be increased, in accordance with the views of the superintendent, or that the money-order system shall, like any other business, be made to defray its own expenses.

The number and length of mail routes in the United States require an expenditure for transportation which throws into insignificance the cost of similar service in other countries. For the year ending June 30, 1876, it is estimated that this item alone will exceed $8,000,000. The portion to be paid to railways will amount to more than $1,000,000. Opinions have differed widely as to the best method of determining the rightful rates of compensation to be paid railways for services rendered to this department. Heretofore their pay has been based on the weight of mails, with additional allowance on certain thoroughfares for providing postal cars. At present the matter is in a very unsatisfactory condition, and some equitable mode of adjustment should be at once devised and sanctioned by law. Some of the roads have represented to the department that the carrying of the mails was little or no object to them, because the express companies were willing to pay much more for the accommodation furnished than the department would allow. On the other hand, representatives of the leading express companies have contended that the act which took effect July 1, 1874, permitting the transportation by mail of packages of merchandise weighing not over four pounds, at the rate of one cent for each two ounces, is taking away the most profitable part of their business, and will soon render them unable to meet the heavy rentals demanded by the roads. Thus is presented a curious anomaly, the roads claiming that the government does not pay as much as the express companies are ready to pay, and the express companies claiming on the other hand that the law is affecting such a diminution of their revenue that they are unable to accede to the demands of the roads. I find no disposition on the part of any railroad or transportation company to deal otherwise with the department than in a spirit of fairness and justice. I trust that Congress will adopt some equitable plan of adjustment which will not be burdensome to the government, and which will be satisfactory to the companies. The act of March 3, 1873, readjusting the pay of railroads on a basis of the weight of mails carried, added much more largely than was anticipated to the expenses of the department. The appropriation for that purpose having become exhausted, I have declined to make further payments. I would suggest that the time has come when a resolute effort should be made to determine how far the Postoffice Department can properly go on in its efforts to accommodate the public without trespassing unwarrantably upon the sphere of private enterprise. There must be a limit to governmental interference, and, happily, it better suits the genius of the American people to help themselves than to depend on the State. * * * I deem it suitable to say here that I propose of guard with strict vigilance the expenditures of the department, sanctioning no outlay which can be avoided without detriment of the service, and so to conduct its affairs generally that the interests of the public shall be paramount to those of any industrial corporation or party.

THE POSTAL-CAR SYSTEM—SUPERINTENDENT BANGS' REPORT.

George S. Bangs, Superintendent of the Railway Postal Service, in his report, states that at the close of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1873, there were in operation 59 lines of railway postoffice cars, extending over 14,866 miles of railroad, on which was performed 34,925 miles of service daily, and 12,747,625 miles of service annually, by 752 railway postoffice clerks. These clerks are classified as follows: 283 head clerks, 379 clerks, and 90 assistant clerks. By the establishment of new lines of railroad, the postal facilities have been greatly increased. During the threatened refusal of the railroads to carry the mails, an offer of the Baltimore and Ohio was accepted by the department. This gave a daily service between Cincinnati, Ohio, and Chicago, Ill., 310 miles. This completes a through line between Washington and Chicago, and forms a connection between the roads centering at Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Chicago.

The propriety of establishing a fast and exclusive mail train between New York and Chicago has been discussed for some time, and there appears to be a growing necessity for the same, this train to be under the control of the department so far as it is necessary for the purposes designed, and to run the distance in about twenty-four hours. It is conceded by railroad officials that this can be done. The importance of a line like this cannot be overestimated. It would reduce the actual time of the mail between the East and West from twelve to twenty-four hours, as it would necessarily be established upon one or more of the trunk lines having an extended system of connections. Its benefits would be in no wise confined, but extended to all parts of the country alike.

With reference to the complaints of some railroads that the compensation is inadequate, Mr. Bangs recommends legislation placing the compensation to railroads on another basis, that of weight alone.

Mr. Bangs reviews the subject of the cost of the railway postal service, about which erroneous opinions obtain. He says: "The additional compensation given to the railroads for furnishing and transporting railway postoffice cars is, as nearly as can be estimated, $600,000 annually. The compensation of clerks performing this service is $1,058,200 annually; the cost of the superintendency for salary and per diem is $34,420; a total cost of $1,692,620.

Ordnance Department.

REPORT OF CHIEF BENET—THE ESTABLISHMENT OF A GRAND ARSENAL AT NEW YORK RECOMMENDED—THE SALE OF A NUMBER OF ARSENALS URGED.

Gen. Benet, Chief of the Ordnance Department, says in his annual report that not less than $500,000 should be annually expended at the national armory, not only as a measure of economy in producing the best arms for the least money, but in the interest of the country to make a gradual but sure accumulation of the best weapons as a reserve in case of war. Certainly not less than half a million of the best arms should be manufactured as rapidly as the monetary condition of the country will permit. Gen. Benet says a Board composed of Majs. Crispin, Treadwell, and Baylor, of the Ordnance Department, was authorized, and after several months of patient and careful investigation has made its report. The Board strongly recommends the retention of the Springfield Armory and Frankford Arsenal, and the establishment of a grand arsenal in the vicinity of New York for manufacturing purposes; retaining, also, the Indianapolis Arsenal, Indiana; Kennebec Arsenal, Maine; Ft. Monroe, Arsenal, Virginia; and Augusta Arsenal, Georgia, as places for storage and repair. They recommend the sale of the Allegheny, Columbus, Detroit, Pikesville, Watervliet, Watertown, and Washington Arsenals, the sales to be made as rapidly as circumstances may permit, the proceeds to be devoted to the purchase of a site and erection of a building for the grand arsenal. He says: "I heartily concur in these recommendations, and invoke favorable consideration on the part of the Secretary of War and of Congress."

OF the sixty-one railroad corporations in Massachusetts, according to the annual report of the Railway Commissioners just made, twenty-eight paid dividends ranging from 1 to 10 per cent.; eight of them divided 10 per cent., one, 9 per cent.; four, 8 per cent.; three, 7 per cent.; six, 6 per cent.; six, less than six per cent., and thirty-two made no dividends. There is a mile of railway in the State to every 878 inhabitants, and there are 1,790 miles of main track and branches within the Commonwealth. The average cost of an equipped railway is $64,676. The average cost of running a train is reported at $1.26 per mile. The average number of passengers to each train was 71, and the average number of tons of freight was 64.

NEWELL ROSSER committed suicide at Winnemucca, Nevada, a few days ago, leaving a note, in the course of which he said: "The reason of this act is that I am too verdant for this sphere of life. I seem different from what I did ten years ago. I have been ten years in the mountains, and I have lost that much of my life. When I come to think of a more happy and congenial home, my courage gives way. I have fought life even-handed, but it has reduced me to rags. Try, my friends, to do unto others as you would they should do unto you, and you will all be far more happy, and there will be far less suffering in the human family."

THE Chicago Times publishes a full expose, with diagrams, etc., of the swindling game called "Bunko," into which so many unsuspecting victims are trapped in that city. If there are degrees of infamy in gambling games, this one is probably the most nefarious one ever invented. The Times strongly intimates that some of the city authorities are in league with the gamblers, and that an organized conspiracy exists there for the purpose of plundering strangers. It hints at a vigilance committee as a possible remedy.

THE LAST SERENADE.

He sat upon an oaken stump,
His fiddle in his hand,
And gazed upon the window sill,
To see her small white head
That rested there so lovingly—
It made his great heart stand.

He murmured, "My Mary, love,
Art thinking, sweet, of me?
Would I had wings now, as a bird—
Like a little bird so free—
I'd fly up to thy window, love,
And sing a song for thee."

He placed his fiddle 'neath his chin,
And straightened up to play,
And "Mollie Darling" was the song—
But not upon that day
Was heard upon those bottom lands
That sweet, affecting lay.

He heard the window slowly raise;
His bow he gently prest,
And then looked up to catch her smile,
And watch her heaving breast,
When—splash!—went water on his face,
And on his Sunday best.

She gazed awhile, and heaved a sigh,
Then slowly went below,
And smote her breast, and faltered out,
"Alas! I didn't know!"
All that was left to serenade
Was a lonesome fiddle-bow.

He never came to sing again
To please 'Squire Ashton's daughter,
He staid at home and fiddled not Until he had forgot her;
And thus the romance of his life
Was ended by cold water.

—Leavenworth Times.

Humorous.

BAD debts—Owing grudges.

A MATTER of course—A horse-race.

MR. KARD, who sawed off three fingers the other day, doesn't hold a full hand.

WHAT risk do people run who sit in free pews in church? Of being good for nothing.

A PHILOSOPHER has discovered that men don't object to be overrated except by assessors.

"JEOPARDY? jeopardy?" exclaimed an old merchant when told that his schooner was in that condition, "where is that?"

LESLIE COMBS says he has "not a false or sound tooth." This is an unprecedented instance of the durability of fine-tooth Combs.

"How much for this print?" "Nine cents, mum." "Nineteen cents? I'll give you eighteen." "Nine cents, mum; you misunderstand me." "Oh, nine cents; I'll give you eight."

SATISFACTORY SOLUTION.

Facts in geology and Egyptology,
Very momentous as touching chronology,
Seem to run counter to facts of theology.
Very well, never mind. What if they do?
These facts, and those facts as well, may be true,
Truth and truth ne'er can at variance be;
All truths will some day be proved to agree.
Seemingly different truths, let us say,
Are equally true in a different way.

AS an illustration of the kind of reasoning often heard from the lips of men when the interests of women are under discussion, Mrs. Fawcett mentions the case of an Englishman who opposed the education of women because he had tried it on his own daughter, "and it was all wasted, for, after all, she was married at nineteen!"

AMONG the dozen women who crowded into the office of the Director of the Poor was a little female with sad eyes and an anxious look. "Well what do you want?" asked the Director as he came to her case. "I'd like some money," she whispered. "How much?" "Well, I can't say exactly," she replied; "how much do you generally give out to them when they want to buy a bead belt?"

AN old French countess of the most exquisite politeness, was about to breathe her last, when she received a call from an acquaintance ignorant of her mortal illness. The answer sent down from the chamber of the departing sufferer was memorably unique: "The Countess de Rouen sends her compliments to Madame de Calais, but begs to be excused, as she is engaged in dying."

Harmless Nettles.

It has been ascertained by accident that, immediately after a strong wind, nettles are comparatively harmless. Some French laborers, having occasion to work in a field infested with this noxious weed, on a day succeeding a wind-storm, found that they could handle the nettle with impunity. Their sting had lost its virulence. M. Naudin, in explaining the occurrence, states that a strong wind stimulates the exhalation of the poison in the stings of the nettle, and after a time the entire store secreted by the plant will be completely exhausted. Such was the case in the instance recorded. The truth of the statement is supported by the fact that, eight days after the gale, the nettles had refilled their sacks of poison, and were as vicious as ever.

THE habit of breathing through the mouth instead of through the nose tends to weaken the whole respiratory apparatus, diminish the capacity of the lungs, and when commenced in early infancy, to distort the jaws and deform the teeth. Many of the tribes of American Indians—as explained by the eminent artist, the late Mr. Colton—are particular never to allow a child to sleep for a moment with its mouth open, and unsymmetrical teeth are unknown among them. Whenever a child is inclined to open its mouth during sleep its watchful mother or nurse presses its lips together, holds them closed, and preserves the corrective process until the abnormal habit is overcome and breathing the natural way established.

PHYSICAL AND MENTAL DISEASE.—A writer in Chambers' Journal speaks of the fact as decidedly noteworthy that the common opinion that excessive mental occupation gravitates toward insanity is not only not verified by facts, but that, on the contrary, one of the foremost living physicians doubts whether alienation of mind is ever the result of overstrain; it is to physical, not mental, derangement, he thinks, that excessive work of the brain generally gives rise. Insanity, he points out, finds the most suitable material for its development among the cloddish, uneducated classes, while the worst forms of physical diseases are originated and intensified by the educated, overstrained brain-workers.

How to be generous—think of the time when a present of six cents made you feel like an Emperor.

Educational Department.

A. E. HUFFMAN, Conductor.

Ultimate Object of School Government.

[Ext. from a paper, read by W. W. Spangler, before the Normal class of the Auburn High school]

The point, toward which all government affairs should approximate, is self government on the part of the pupils; first, because it is the best, most honorable, natural and useful method that can be employed. It is the teacher's business to teach, and not to act as governor; if the latter was his duty, it would answer all purposes just as well, if he were to exert his influence over a flock of geese, or a herd of cattle.

If the teacher is compelled to govern his pupils by means of his commanding voice, or, perhaps, by standing within striking distance, with a club or whip in his grasp, then it is advisable for him to quit teaching the ordinary branches, and take up the science of school-government.

If the matter of government is vested in the pupils themselves, that is, if they are thoroughly impressed with the fact, that the preservation of good order depends upon them, and not upon the teacher, they will be impelled by a sense of honor to do right.

Thus the teacher is freed from much of the care of the school room and his whole energy can be devoted to classes without being obliged to stop work in the midst of recitation to reprimand a lot of boisterous girls or perhaps, administer a dose of "strap oil," to a disobedient boy.

The habit of self control in after life is not a small argument in school, for it is something without which no one can be entirely successful.

On the other hand, if the pupil continually depends upon the ruling power of the instructor for his incentive to obedience and decorum, then will this habit cling to him through life, even more tenaciously than the former, and he will always require the ruling influence of others to guide him in action.

Which habit, then, should be prefered?

Most assuredly the one which prepares one the most perfectly, to encounter all difficulties of real, earnest life-work, and implants a spirit of lofty independence within the breast.

◆

Make few mistakes but when one is made, let it be notin vain. Profit by it.

◆

J. H. Miller will teach in No. 11 Richland Tp. May eminent success attend him.

◆

H. A. Hoffman dwelleth in the realms of Fairfield. He maketh a name wherever he goeth.

◆

When you punish, remember you are dealing principally with mind, not matter. Alas; how many reverse this.

◆

How do you define black as your hat, said a schoolmate to one of his pupils, "Darkness that may be felt replied the youthful wit.

◆

George, asked the teacher of a class in school. Who above all others shall you first wish to see when you get to heaven? With a face bright with anticipation the little fellow shouted "Gerlish."

◆

Never permit yourself to engage in any work without well matured plans.

Strive to make each day exceed the previous day in interest, and you will be supprised at your own progress.

◆

Our schools, are full;—emphatically full; "pressed down, and running over."

Yet with all this, the work seems to progress as well as can be expected.

As teachers we earnestly solicit visits from all interested. Come. Give us a bit of encouragement.

Let your children know by your actions, you desire to their educational prosperity.

Visit the schools.

◆

Dr. Dio Lewis, in an article on physical culture gives the following rules for schools:

1. Pure air day and night.
2. Bright sunlingt in the school room, bed room, and two or three hours a day out side.
3. Bed at nine o'clock.
4. Plain food eaten at the right time and in the right manner.
5. Healthful dress, both as to fit and material.
6 Gymnastics.
7. One or two hours daily of social pleasant life.

S. C. EVANS, Pres't, C. M. DAWSON, Chash'r

MERCHANTS

National Bank!

FORT WAYNE, IND.

Capital and Surplus $112.000

Receives Deposits, Discounts Buisiness Paper, issues Letters of Credit, and Collects at all points at the lowest rates of exchange.

Directors:

S. CARY EVANS, R. C. ROBERTSON,
H. C. HANNA, N. P. STOCKBRIDGE
A. C. DAWSON.

Organized 1865. April 9, '74

The Auburn

WAGONS

Made from the Best Materials,

And constructed with all the late improvements—The new and extensive

WAGON SHOPS

—OF—

J. W. SHAFFER

South Main Street

are now in full running order and all orders for

WAGONS, BUGGIES, &c.

promptly attended to. Special care taken in getting the best Seasoned Timber. Our prices are very reasonable and we solicit the public to give us a call and ascertain our prices.

Sutermeister,

Becker & Bond,

ARCHITECTS

BUILDING

CONTRACTORS,

AND DEALERS IN

Building Stone

AMERICAN AND

ITALIAN MARBE,

GRANITE.
TOOMBSTONES,
MONUMENTS,
MANTELS,
GRATES, &C.,

Corner Main and Fulton Streets,
Fort Wayne, Ind.

FALL AND WINTER

CLOTHING!

S. Lauferty

FURNISHING STORE!

You will find the best selected stock and at prices that defy competition. You can get a nice suit of Sam. from

$6 UPWARDS!

I also keep on hand nice fine stock of Woolen and White

SHIRTS!

which will be sold at prices as low as any other place, Ft Wayne not excluded. You can find the largest assortmen which you can get at my sore or less than you are aware of as I can say what the most of my competers cannot, as I am now engaged in all the above lne of goods for the last 20 years. I have paid a good tuition which others will have to pay yet, and this will be the best assurance that S. Lauferty can sell you his line of goods for less than any other house around or about. I also keep in connection with the above, a fine and well selected stock of Plain and Fancy French English, German and Domestic

Hats & Caps!

Cassimeres

Broad Cloth and Vestings. have also engaged one of the best Tailors west of New York or east of Chicago. All I ask is to come and examine my stock and prices and I will assure you will buy of me and go home well pleased and satisfied. I sell now strictly for Cash. S. LAUFERTY.

Grand Opening for the HOLIDAYS!

STIEFEL & OCHS,

OF BUTER, INDIANA.

Have just opened a splendid stock of

DRY GOODS,

bought at a great reduction of prices.

FRESH ARRIVAL!

of the late styles of everything in the DRY GOODS, and

Millinery Line.

Their MLLINERY GOODS, are being offered very low. They keep a first class Milliner and are ready to manufacture anything in this line order. West side of Bradway, BUTLER, IND.

Boots & Shoes

FOR SERVICE!

Buy the Stylish, Good-Fitting Double-Sewed

FINE SHOES!

For LADIES' and MISSES' wear, with this Trade Mark in every shoe.

DOUBLE SEWED
P
NEVER RIP.

COPYRIGHT SECURED.

The Soles are attached to the Uppers with two rows of five-cord waxed thread, (instead of one row as in other shoes,) and are

WARRANTED

Never to rip from the uppers.

S. W. Sprott & Son,

SOLE AGENTS.

Where also may be found a full line of

BOOTS & SHOES,

Both Fine and Course, for Men, Women and Children.

Our Stock is full and Complete,

And we can please you both in quality and price.

Custom Work a Specialty.

CALL AND SEE US.

S. W. SPROTT & SON.

LUMBER! LUMBER!

DIRECT FROM THE MANUFACTURE

GREATLY REDUCED PRICES!

LUMBER BY THE CAR LOAD AT JOBBING RATES.

F. N. Wright & Co.

Manufacture their own lumber with their own mill, at Greenville Michigan, and can therefor sell for less than any other local Dealer in Lumber

A Lumberyard has been established at Auburn by this Company Where there can be found an extensive variety of Lumber

LATH AND SHINGLES

Which will be sold for less than ever has been offered before. We know that we can sell Low and furnish as good an article of lumber as has ever been seen in the County.

Yard on Jackson Street near Berry's Planing Mill.

A. LEWIS Supt.

DRY GOODS

GEO. DeWALD & CO.

WHEN LOOKING FOR BARGAINS

—IN—

Dry Goods or Notions,

CALL AT THE STORE OF

Geo. DeWald & Co

No 107 Columbia St., Ft. WYNE,

Where can be found a large assortment of

STAPLE AND FANCY GOODS

which will be sold LOW for cash.

ASK FOR THE "HATTIE" CORSET

The best thing in the market, is made glove-fitting, and of the best material, and in order to introduce, we are offering

ONE DOLLAR

THIS IS A BARGAIN!!

BOOTS AND SHOES

Marked Down!

To compare with hard times. Just look at our prices and see if you cant

save 25 to 50 cents on

every Dollar

Men's waxed kip boots	$3 00
Boys' " "	2 25
Youths' " "	1 75
Mens' stoga kip boots, warranted,	3 50
Boys " " "	2 50
Youths " " "	2 00
Mens' western kip boots, hand made,	4 00
Boys " " "	2 75
Yoths' " " "	2 25
Mens' fine kip boots, hand made	4 50
Mens' genuine French kip boots hand made,	5 00
Womens' calf shoes	1 75 to $2 50
Ladies lasting or serve polish	1 25 to 2 25
Ladies calf sewed shoes,	2 50
Childrens shoes in large variety from	20 to 1 25
Mens first class rubber boots tap sole	3 75

Rubber BOOTS and SHOES of every desscription always on hand at the lowest prices. Mens' wool and Buffalo lined boots and shoes cheaper than ever. All goods sold

FOR CASH.

Mens' Wool Line, good,

BOOTS AND SHOES,

in great variety which will be sold cheaper than ever. Our Motto is quick Sales, Small Profits, and Ready Pay. Don't fail to call and examine our stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere as we are satisfied it is money in your pockets.

E. Vordermark & Sons

North of Court House,

Odd Fellows' Building

AUBURN, INDIANA.

Dr. King's New Discovery!

FOR CONSUMPTION!

DR. KINGS NEW DISCOVERY FOR CONSUMPTION
DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY

The unparalled success invariably attending the introduction of

DR. KING'S

New Discovery for Consumption.

Far surpasses that of any other medicine ever placed before the American people. In fact it has exceeded the most sanguine expectations of its proprietors. Wherever it is sold a lively and increasing demand is at once created, and why is it? Our answer is this: It is a remedy that travels on Its Own Merits and always gives Perfect Satisfaction, hence the success. We know whereof we speak and in order to prove this statement we make the following offer: Do not Ever Ask to Buy until you know what you are getting. All we ask of those troubled with consumption, Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, &c., is to go to

F. E. DAVENPORT'S

Drug Store and get a bottle Free of Charge, and give it a trial, then you Know just what you are getting before you buy.

THE OLD RELIABLE.

F. E. DAVENPORT,

Corner Main and Eighth-Sts.,

—DEALER IN—

Pure Drugs and Medicines,

DYE STUFFS, PERFUMERY,

Toilet Soaps Cosmetics, Hair Oils, Brushes, Combs, Toilet Mirrors and Druggists' Sundries in General.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY!

Wall and Window Paper!

Oiled, Linen and Slat Window Shades, and Shade Fixtures.

All the lattest POEMS and MISSELANIOUS BOOKS constantly on hand or ordered. Blank Books, Pocket Memorandas, Portmonies and Bill Books, WRITING PAPERS. All Styles and prices ALBUMS! ALBUMS! ALBUMS just received for the Holliday trade

Over $300.00 worth of Juvenile and Toy Books, which will be sold at panic prices. Smith's Gold Pens, warranted the best. Also steel Pens, Penholders, Pencils, Ink and Ink Stands &c.

SCHOOL BOOKS!

Covered with best Cover ever invented Free Of Charge

Davenport has the exclusive right to use this book cover in Auburn, and will give his patrons the benefit of the same.

Auditor's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY AND TO THE COLLECTION OF LOCAL AND GENERAL NEWS

Vol. 4. Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, December 17, 1874. No. 51.

ROSE & HARTMAN
LAW, ABSTRACT AND COLLECTION OFFICE!

All legal business promptly attended to in DeKalb and adjoining counties. Have the only

ABSTRACT OF TITLE

to REAL ESTATE in the county. They contain Deeds and Mortgages made before the organization of the county and not on the county records, as well as all those made and recorded since. Written abstracts and opinions of title furnished. No one should invest in land without examining the Title.

OFFICE OPP. SWINEFORD HOUSE
S. W. Cor. Public Square, AUBURN, INDIANA.

The Auburn Weekly Courier

Published every Thursday, by

TOM. C. MAYS.

One Year......$1. | Six Months......$1.

Advertising Rates.

	1m.	3m.	6m.	1 y.
One Square	2 50	5 00	7 00	12 00
¼ Column	6 00	12 00	18 00	20 00
½ Column	10 00	18 00	30 00	50 00
1 Column	15 00	30 00	50 00	100 00

Local Notices 10 cents per line, first insertion; 5 cents each insertion thereafter. Business Cards 6 dollars.

Business Cards.

RICKEL & TEFFT,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Auburn, Ind. Office in the Court House.
J. W. RICKEL. E. DEXTER TEFFT.

COURIER OFFICE,

JOB PRINTING neatly executed. Fine work a specialty. Office in Odd Fellows' Building 2nd floor.

AMERICAN HOUSE,

AT FORT WAYNE, only $2 a day. Good accommodations for traveling men.
C. B. OAKLEY, Prop'r.

DR. J. A. COWAN,

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office on Main street, over Central Grocery.

Joseph H. Stophlet.

ARCHITECT. Office over No. 17 Court street 1st door north of Empire Line office, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Drawings and specifications furnished for all classes of buildings, at reasonable rates.

GUY PLUM,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office in the Court House. Special attention paid to the collection of claims. Also agent for Home Insurance Company.

Medical Society.

OF DeKALB COUNTY, meets at Auburn, Ind., the 2nd Tuesday in each month.
[illegible] FORD, Pres't.
J. A. COWAN, Sec'y.

A. P. PINCHIN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public, Butler, DeKalb Co., Ind. Insurance and real estate business promptly attended to.

H. C. PETERSON,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office over Davis' hardware store, Auburn, Ind.

SWINEFORD HOUSE.

CORNER MAIN AND NINTH STREETS, opposite the Court House. S. C. SWINEFORD, Pro.

J. J. LITTLEFIELD,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. Office over Miller and Casebeer's Store, Auburn, Indiana.

DRS. SHERRING & GRAHAM.

PARTNERS in the practice of Medicine. Office in Shaffer's brick building, second story, Main street, Auburn, Ind.

G. H. K. MOSS. P. V. HOFFMAN

MOSS and HOFFMAN,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW and Notaries Public Butler, Ind. Special attention given to collections. Also buy and sell Real Estate.

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office first door to right, Masonic Hall, over the Shoe Store of Sprott & Son.

PENFIELD and MOODY,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana.

R. M. and W. C. LOCKHART,

DEALERS IN LUMBER of every description, Waterloo City, Ind. We buy and ship Lumber at the going cash rates, at all times.

McBRIDE and MORLAN,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in any of the courts of the State. Office over O. T. Clark's Dry Goods store.

WOODHULL and CROXTON,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW Angola, Indiana. Practice in Steuben and DeKalb Counties.

CHAS. A. O. McCLELLAN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in the Courts of DeKalb and Steuben counties. Liberal Advances Made on all First-class Claims left in my hands for collection.

COURTS IN STEUBEN CO.	COURTS IN DEKALB CO.
1st Monday in February	2nd Monday in Feb.
4th Monday in April	2nd Monday in May
1st Monday in September	3rd Monday in Sep.
4th Monday in November	2nd Monday in Dec

H. Wartenslaben

PAINTER and paper hanger. House painting a specialty. Residence corner Williams and Cedar street.

Toledo Business Cards.

Chas. L. Luce. Fred. C. Chapin. James Blass

Luce, Chapin & Blass,

IMPORTERS AND JOBBERS of foreign and domestic dry goods, notions, white goods, &c 132 and 134 Summit street, Toledo, Ohio.

Chris. Gerber. M. O. Waggoner.

C. Gerber & Co.,

WHOLESALE DEALERS in general hardware. Sign of the big [illegible] knife [illegible] 128 Summit and [illegible] Water streets, Toledo, Ohio.

Geo. Emerson. Pliny Watson. E. C. Pratt.

Emerson & Co.,

WHOLESALE GROCERS, 142, 144 and 46 Summit street, Toledo, Ohio.

V. Hamilton. E. Goldsmith.

Hamilton & Goldsmith,

COMMISSION MERCHANTS, Water street Toledo, Ohio.

BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R.

(CHICAGO DIVISION.)

Takes effect Dec. 6th. '74, at 3 o'clock

Going East.

STATIONS.	Balt. Ex	Fast L,	Local Fr No. 15	Fast Fr No. 17
Chicago	8 00 am	7 00 pm		3 15am
Cromwell	2 20 pm	2 15 am	4 05 pm	4 10
Albion	2 44	2 30	4 45	5 05
Avilla	3 10	3 03	5 55	5 30
Garrett	3 25	3 20	6 20	6 18
Auburn Junc	3 50	3 36	4 20 am	3 25am
Defiance	5 25	5 10	9 40am
Chi. Junction	9 15 pm	8 50am

Going West.

STATIONS.	Chi. Ex.	Fast L.	Fast Fr. No. 18	Local Fr No. 14
Chicago	5 30pm	8 45am
Cromwell	3 11	9 15	5 55	7 40 am
Albion	2 44	1 00	4 45	6 00
Avilla	2 14	1 25	3 49	5 40
Garrett	1 50	1 10	2 25	5 00
Auburn Junc	1 18	12 56	1 05	3 55pm
Auburn	1 15	12 51pm	2 00	8 30
Defiance	11 35 am	11 20	10 40am	8 30
Chi. Junction	8 40am	7 40

Ft. Wayne, Jackson & Sag. R. R

Short Line Between

Michigan and the South.

Time card in effect Dec 13th—run by Chicago time

Going North.

Stations	Mail	Accom.	Jack. Acm
Cincinnati		6 45
Louisville	11 25pm	6 50	3 00
Indianapolis	3 40	11 45	7 50
Ft Wayne	10 40		4 25 p
Auburn	11 30		6 05
Waterloo	11 53		6 24
Summit	12 00		6 52
Pleasant Lake	12 21		7 10
Ar Angola	12 5	6 15	7 45
Reading	2 00	7 40	9 15
Bankers	1 15	8 00	9 36
Jonesville	2 30	8 32	10 05
Jackson	3 40	10 25	11 40
Detroit	6 30		5 00
Grand Rapids	9 15	5 40	4 40 p
Lansing	5 35		8 40
Saginaw	8 30		11 35
Bay City	9 10		12 23

Going South.

Stations	Mail	Accom.	Jack. Acm
Bay City		6 30	3 30
Saginaw		7 17	4 06
Lansing		10 40	7 40
Grand Rapids	10 30 pm	2 25	12 25
Detroit		7 00	5 40
Jackson ......Dep	5 00a.m	1 20	9 40
Jonesville
Bankers	7 20	3 40	11 00
Reading	7 40	4 05	11 12
Ar Angola	8 42	5 25	12 08
Pleasant Lake	8 55
Waterloo	9 25	6 25	12 43
Auburn	9 38	6 42	12 55
Auburn Junction			12 50
Fort Wayne, Arrive	10 40	8 15	1 50
Indianapolis	4 50 p m		6 45a
Louisville	11 25		1 10p
Cincinnati	8 40 a m		9 45

W. A. ERNST, Sup
R. K. HOOPER Gen. Ticket Ag't.

Ft. Wayne, Muncie & Cin R. R.

Time Table to take effect Sept 6, 1874.

Going South.

Fort Wayne	10 00am	5 00a.m	1 40pm
Ossian	10 43am		2 22
Bluffton	11 10	2 15	2 50
Keystone	11 39am	2 40	3 20
Montpelier	11 46		3 30
Hartford	12 10pm	4 05	3 56
Eaton	12 30		4 19
Muncie	1 00	4 41	4 53
McCowan's	1 15
New Castle	2 05	4 06
Cam. City	2 36
Bessons	2 54
Connersville	3 10
Indianapolis		7 05	6 50pm
Louisville		1 00pm	11 25am
Cincinnati	6 20

Going North.

Cincinnati	6 40am
Louisville		3 00	11 25
Indianapolis		7 50	3 40
Connersville	10 25
Bessons	10 40
Cam City	11 00
New Castle	11 45pm
McCowans	12 32pm
Muncie	1 00	10 27	5 45am
Eaton	1 21		6 25
Hartford	1 43	11 10	6 51
Montpelier	1 52		7 24
Keystone	2 15		7 35
Bluffton	5 15	12 05am	8 15
Ossian	2 47		8 50
Ft. Wayne	3 25	1 15	9 45

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Gen'l. Supt.
ROBT. RILLIE, Gen'l Ticket Agt.

DETOIT, EEL RIVER & ILLINOIS Rail Road.

Short Line between Auburn and the East and West.

Trains run on Cleveland time. Through trains will run on the following time, in effect Sunday Sept 27, 1874.

Going East,			Going West.
Way Fr.	Mail	Stations	Mail	Acc'
6 10	10 10 am	Logansport Peoria	7 45 p.m	2 55
8 10	11 15 am	Denver	6 56	1 30
10 09	12 10 pm	N. Manchester	5 59	12 11
12 47	12 57	Col. City	5 08	10 51
4 28 pm	2 04 pm	Auburn	3 52	8 48
5 15	2 30	ar. Butler lv	3 30	8 00
		Toledo
		Detroit

CONNECTIONS—At Logansport with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St Louis, Logansport, Crawfordsville & Southwestern and Toledo, Wabash & Western R. R's. At Denver with Indianapolis, Peru & Chicago Railway, for Rochester, Plymouth, LaPorte, Michigan City, Peru, Kokomo and Indianapolis At N. Manchester with Cincinnati, Wabash & Mich R'y. At Columbia City with Pittsburg, Ft. W. & Chicago, for Ft Wayne Lima, Crestline and Pittsburg. At Grand Rapids crossing with Grand Rapids R'y. At Auburn Junction with Ft. Wayne Jackson & Saginaw, for Angola, Jackson and Saginaw R'y. for Butler with Lake Shore & Mich. Southern Cow. Toledo, Detroit and all eastern cities.

J. A. HUGHSTON, Gen. Ticket Agt.
A. B. SOUTHARD, Gen. Supt.

When you want good job printing give us a c ll.

Lake Shore & Mich. Southern R.R
Air Line Division

ON and after Sunday, Nov. 29, 1874 Passenger Trains will leave Waterloo city and other Stations as follows, daily except Sundays:

GOING WEST

	Special Ex.	Pacific Ex.	Accom'd'n
Butler	2:40 p m.	2:25 a m.	3:00 p m
Waterloo	2:56 "	2:53 "	3:19 "
Sedan	3:16	3:00	3:30 "
Corunna	3:30	3:06	3:35 "

GOING EAST.

Corunna	2:15 pm	11:30 pm	6:50 p m
Sedan	2:20	11:35	7:02 "
Waterloo	2:28 "	11:44 "	7:11 "
Butler	2:40 "	12:01a m	7:53 "

CHAS. PAINE, Gen. Supt.
J. W. CARY, Gen Tic. Agt.
J. E. CURTIS, Division Supt

Pittsburgh, Ft Wayne & Chicago R.R

ON and after Nov 15 1874 Trains will leave stations daily, (Sundays excepted) as follow:

Going West.

STATIONS	FAST EX	MAIL.	PAC. EX.	NIGHT EX
Pittsburg	2,00 A.M	6,00 A.M	9,40 A.M	2,00 P.M.
Rochester	"	7,25 "	10,50 "	3,11 "
Alliance	5,22 "	11,00 "	1,30 P.M	5,57 "
Orrville	7,12 "	12,02 P.M	3,15 "	7,40 "
Mansfield	9,20 "	8,15 "	5,26 "	9,40 "
Crest- ar	9,50 "	3,50 "	6,00 "	10,10 "
line lv	10,10 "	5,00 A.M	6,25 "	10,20 "
Forest	11,33 "	6,32 "	8,15 "	11,52 "
Lima	12,20 P.M	8,00 "	9,30 "	12,29 A.M
Ft Wayne	2,50 "	10,40 "	12,15 A.M	3,15 "
Plymouth	5,00 "	1,15 P.M	3,00 "	5,40 "
Chicago	8,20 "	5,25 "	6,50 "	9,20 "

Going East.

STATIONS	MAIL.	FAST EX.	PAC. EX.	NIGHT EX
Chicago	5,15 A.M	9,20 A.M.	5,35 A.M.	10,20 P.M
Plymouth	9,25 "	12,15 P.M.	9,10 "	2,25 A.M
Ft Wayne	12,30 P.M	2,45 "	11,45 "	5,50 "
Lima	2,55 "	4,35 "	1,52 A.M.	8,00 "
Forest	4,10 "	5,34 "	3,01 "	9,17 "
Crest- ar	5,50 "	7,00 "	4,40 "	11,10 "
line lv	6,05 A.M	7,20 "	4,50 "	11,20 "
Mansfield	6,40 "	7,50 "	5,20 "	11,51 "
Orrville	9,05 "	9,42 "	7,12 "	1,46P.M
Alliance	11,20 "	11,20 "	9,00 "	3,40
Rochester	2,10 P.M		11,12 "	5,58
Pittsburg	3,30 "	2,20 a m	12,15 A.M.	7,05

F. R. MYERS,
General Passenger and Ticket Agent

Thomas Baldock
Building Contractor
AUBURN INDIANA.

will be ready at all times with an experienced Corps of workmen to erect Houses, Barns, and do Carpenter and joiner work of all kinds at reasonable rates.

BRICK FOR SALE

FRITZ GROESCOP.

Having just burned a fine kiln of brick, about one hundred thousand, is now ready to supply all who want good brick at reasonable figures. Residence two miles north of Auburn on the Kutzner road; three miles south west of Waterloo.

John M. Miller,
Manufacturer and Dealer in FINE FURNITURE,
CHAIRS,
Husk & Hair Matrasses
50 and 52 East Main Street,
FORT WAYNE, IND.

J. G. FLEDDERMAN,
No. 27, East Main-St.
FORT WAYNE, IND'A
Has the largest and finest stock of
CLOTHS, COATINGS, CHEVIOTS,
—AND—
CassimereS
in Ft. Wayne. The finest line of
Made up Clothing!
ever shown in Fort Wayne
Youths' and Children's Clothing!
Furnishing Goods, &c.
Merchant Tailoring.

All work done in all the latest styles, promptly attended to. Go and see his large stock of Gp

Auburn Bakery!
AND
EATING HOUSE
BAKER BROS.
PROPRIETORS OF

Fresh baked Pies, Cakes etc, always on hand. Good lunches served at all hours.

BAKER BROS.

The Great Cause of
HUMAN MISERY

Just Published in a Sealed Envelope. Price 6 cts

A LECTURE on the nature, treatment and radical cure of Seminal Weakness, or Spermatorrhoea, introduced by self abuse Involuntary Emissions, Impotency, Nervous Debility and fits; Mental and Physical Incapacity, &c—by Robt J. Culverwell, M. D. author of the 'Green Book,' &c.

The world renowned author, in this admirable lecture, clearly proves from his own experience that the awful consequences of self abuse may be cured without medicine, and without dangerous surgical operations; pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radical.

This lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands. Sent under seal in a plain envelope to any address, on receipt of 6 cents, or two postage stamps. Address

CHAS. J. C. KLINE & CO.,
127 Bowery, N. Y. Post Office Box 4586

A MYSTERIOUS WARNING.

I found myself alone upon the earth at an early age. My parents and my four sisters had been swept away, one after the other, the latter being pulmonary diseases, and the former by fever.

Having buried the last survivor—my sister Juliet—I determinined to go back to my native village (Greenmount), from which we removed when I was a child of eight years

In my lonely condition, I fancied that the scene of my childhood were better calculated to revive the home feling than those of the mulutitudinous city, where nobody knows whether anything is alive or dead.

Knowing something of medicine and the use of drugs, I believed that I could do well in Greenmount with a litele apothecary shop; and, accordingly, I went thither and Shelved my latinized jars and bottles, in a small one storied taberniclo, by the roadside, where all passers by might observe the sign of Æsculapius.

I had been established in my new quarters a couple of weeks, our old acquaintances of the village had begun to find me out, and my custom was rapidly increasing, when I received a note through the post-office, couched in the following terms.

SIR:—As a friend I warn you, that your life is in danger. If you consult your own safety you will leave this part of the country without a moment's delay. Time presses, you have not a moment to spare. I can say no more, but haste! haste! haste away!
YOUR FRIEND

It was warm weather; the window was open, and, with a loud laugh, I flung this missive out of the window. It alighted upon the long grass without, which some laborers were preparing to mow. I then very philosophically proceeded to read a medical treatise, determined to treat the folish note with the contempt which it merited. But when the day was far spent and the sun was obscured by the western clouds, and the night was approaching, I could not remember the words of the note, without a shudder. It is true, though I, that I have not an enemy in the world, but why, then should anybody be so mean as to try to make me unhappy—to alarm me with such threatenings? Surely it is not a friend who would do such a thing as that, unless he had cause. Nobody but an enemy would wantonly send me a note of that discription. It must be either an enemy or that thing worse than an enemy—a professional mischief maker of which nearly every village may claim one.

The night came on apace, and in her sober livery were all things clad. Silence accompanied for beast and bird when I heard a gentle tap at my shop-door.

"Entrez?" said I.

I hear departing footsteps, and going to the door I called to a retiring individual and asked him why he did not come in.

"Because you told me to go away," replied a man in a blouse, as he come back

"No' I said come in.

Accordingly the man came in and sat down in silence, as if about to hold a Quaker meeting.

"Well, neighbor," said I, at length "what can I do for you?

"Nothin' I know on," observed he pawing his hair with one hand, and thrusting his hand into his pocket.

After waiting another five minutes the strainger handed me a crumpled piece of paper, which he signified was my property. I spred out the scrip of paper and discovered that it was the note which I had thrown out in the morning.

"I've seen this before," said I, "it's a note which I received to-day, and I served it as I serve all anonymous letters, I threw it out of the window.

"Yis, sir. I was mowing out there and I found it on the grass. What are you going to do?"

"Do! what do you mean?" I demanded.

"This note means that somebody is seeking your life—"

"Pshaw! man! I'm not fool enough to belive that note."

"Then, sir, you'd better believe it, I think"

"Come, come, neighbor, don't go too far, or you'll get yourself in a pickle," replied I. "You seem to know too much about this matter Will you say that my life is in danger?"

"That's nyther here nor thar," answered the rustic. "I know who rit that note, and I think you'd better 'tend to it."

"Well, who wrote it?"

"It's a 'sponsible person, one who wouldn't write such a note for mere sport, I know that."

"How do you know it is written by such a person?"

"I know the handwriting," said he "That's only one person in the village who can write like that thar."

Again telling me that I had better heed the warning given me in the note the man got up and left.

As soon as he was gone I examined the chirography of the note. It was certainly neat—much like copperplate. It was therefore, a person of some pretensions to education who stooped so low as to write an anonymous letter. The more cause to suspect that the note contained some truth. The man who had just left seemed positive though the thesis was grounded entirely upon the respectibility of the anonymous writer. He did not pretend to speak from his knowledge.

Who then was this important personage, who subscribed himself "Your Friend?"

I am anxious to discover the writer and surely, if there was but one person in town who could write well, it ought to be no very difficult matter to discover him. I would ask the principal men in the village for their autograph. I had an album in which were already the distinguished names of John Quincey Adams, Levi Lincoln and George Bancroft, I would send it around the village, and in that trap would I catch as big a bug as "Your Friend."

On the next day I commenced. I sent my album to three of the select men and the town clerk, all of whom gave me their autographs readily, and though I did not thus achieve my object, yet so flattered were these gentlemen when there saw their names beside those of Lincoln, Adams and Bancroft that the instantly conferred all their custom to me, and I felt myself absolutely in danger of becomeing a rich man.

But in the midst of all this success there was not wanting memeotoes of the fatal note—reminders that the sword of Damocles was continually suspended over my head. The principal one of these happened at my boarding house. Owing to the hot weather I slept with the lower half of my window raised. A light from a house opposite shone in at the window and illuminated the opposit wall. My back was toward the window as I lay in bed, and I was on the point of dropping to sleep, when I perceived that something was darkening the light on the wall. I lay perfectly still though wide awake, and soon became convinced that a puriy human head was slowly raising above the sill of the window, and this it was that threw its shadow upon the light spot on the wall and partially obscured it.

I turned suddenly, crying at the same time, "Who's there?"

The head immediately dodged down and a muttered curse followed, and all was silent. I jumped out of bed and ran to the window. I saw a fellow just turning the corner of the house, and I regretted that my clothes were off, otherwise, I would have pursued the villan till I discover who he was.

After this it did seem to me as if I was rushing ruefulty on my fate by remaining in Greenmount. Yet I was pleased with the place and with the people of the village, my business was good and rapidly improving; but above all, I had fixed my eyes upon a lovely young lady who led the choir the village church. Thus far I had not discovered her name. I only knew that I was charmed with her appearance, with her voice and manner. She appeared to be the most amiable of human beings.

Could I leave the village under such circumstances?

I was anxious to find out the name of the beautiful singer, but I darst not make any inquiries. Had I done so the fact would have been known in every house in the township before night, and finally the story would have run that we were engaged to be married.

At length I met the young girl at a party. She was introduced to me by the name of Smith, and as there was more than one family of that name in town, I still remained as much in the dark as ever, except that she soon gave me to preceive that the fancy which I had conceived for her was by no means reciprocated.

It was evident that Miss Smith regarded me with aversion. She looked at me frequntly. Turning my head suddenly, I would detect her in the act of perusing my features with close attention. She seemed to regard me with a great deal of curiosity, but that was all. She avoided me on every occasion, and she did this in so ingenious and stealthy a manner that it was not calculated to attract attention. It was, therefore, noticed by no one but myself.

This conduct on the part of Miss Cornelia Smith discouraged me from making any advances. Although whenever I look at her, she appeared handsomer and more attractive than when I saw her last, yet such was my peculiar nature that the slightest suspicion of being unwelcome was a suficient bar to my intrusion—a fence too high to be overleaped. I could not endure the idea of forceing myself upon anybody.

It will be seen, therefore, that there was but a slender prospect—more slender than the most corseted waist even of a Maryland girl—that Cornelia and I should ever tread life's thorny path way together.

Yet I was curious to know why she hated me so bitterly, or what she saw in my apperance or in my manners that revolted her.

Cornelia was the first girl in whom I had felt a peculiar interest, it is not strange, therefore, that I wanted to know why she shuned me.

With me things were not in a happy condition. My life threatened, and I not knowing from what quarter the blow would come, deeply in love with one whom I felt myself forbidden to approach, my spirit began to sink, and this had a sinister efect on my business. Customers was not so well satisfied with my manners as they had been, and I had begun to think seriously of leaving town and seeking employment in the city, when an event occurred which changed my resolution. A Miss Sayers had sent me her album with a request that I would write some verses in it.

As I turned over the leaves, I was struck motionless by encountering the name of Cornelia Smith at the bottom of one of the pages. It appeared that Cornelia had written some lines in the album, and I judged them to be original. There was nothing remarkable about the composition, but I was forcibly struck by the hand writing. It seemed to me that I had seen that style of penmanship before.

I lost no time in hunting up the note which I had received from "Your Friend," and on comparing the note with the piece in the album, signed Cornelia Smith, not a shadow of doubt remained that both pieces were written by the same hand!

I had found out my anonymous correspondent at last, but (was it possible?) that correspondent was Cornelia Smith. She had warned me that my life was in danger, and had bidded me fly hence? I was a perfect stranger to her. Why should she seek to annoy and terrify me in that manner unless she had discrvered that my life was really threatened? But was it probable that the young girl could make any such discovery? Still less probable was it that Cornelia should have written the note through sheer wantenness. O, no; she could not be capable of so cruel, so miserable a hoax

At any rate the partition wall was broken down, there was no longer any reason that I should hesitate to address Cornelia Smith, for, if she had gone so far as to send me a note before she had been introduced to me, I might well claim acquaintanceship with her and seek for an explanation to that note.

Glad was I to open a correspondence with Cornelia.

On the same day I received the following answer.

SIR:—Your note is just received. I would give you a full and satisfactory answer if posible, I cannot speak the whole truth I am not at liberty to tell why I wrote that note, but of one thing rest assured, your life is not in danger. That was a false statement Nobody has threatened you. I am not at liberty to say any more at present.

Your obedient servent,
Cornelia Smith.

Now this I deemed a great conquest to receive a communication from Cornelia and to be set at ease in regard to that warning note.

But how strange that Cornelia should have written it, and who was the third party of whom Cornelia spoke and who was doubtless the prime mover in the disrepeputable affair?—But it seemed very strange to me that somebody should have taken the pains to tell me that my life was in danger when no danger threatened, and that a young lady should be mixed up in the affairs.

* * * *

After our marriage Cornelia let out the whole truth in regard to the note which had gave me so much trouble.

It seems that her father was very wroth when I came into the village and set up my shop. He declared that one apothecary shob was enough in Greenmount, and that I ought to be tarred and feathered and ridden upon a rail.

It will be seen therefore, that the note was sent to me by a rival apothecary in order to frighten me out of the village. As for the big head which appeared one night at my window, it stood on the round sholders of one Butterick, a man of all work who had been employed by Dr. Smith to back up his terrible warning by sticking his head into my window in the dead of night.

CADENABBIA.

BY HENRY W. LONGFELLOW.

No sound of wheels or hoof-beat breaks
The silence of the summer day,
As by the loveliest of all lakes
I while the idle hours away.

I pace the leafy colonnade,
Where level branches of the plane
Above me weave a roof of shade
Impervious to the sun and rain.

At times a sudden rush of air
Flutters the lazy leaves o'erhead,
And gleams of sunshine toss and flare
Like torches down the path I tread.

By Somariva's garden gate
I make the marble stairs my seat,
And hear the water, as I wait,
Lapping the steps beneath my feet.

The undulation sinks and swells
Along the stony parapets,
And far away the floating bells
Tinkle upon the fisher's nets.

Silent and slow, by tower and town
The freighted barges come and go,
Their pendant shadows gliding down
By town and tower submerged below.

The hills sweep upward from the shore,
With villas scattered one by one;
Upon their wooded spurs, and lower
Bellaggio blazing in the sun.

And dimly seen, a tangled mass
Of walls and woods, of light and shade,
Stands beckoning up the Stelvio Pass
Varenna with its white cascade.

I ask myself, Is this a dream?
Will it all vanish into air?
Is there a land of such supreme
And perfect beauty anywhere?

Sweet vision! Do not fade away;
Linger until my heart shall take
Into itself the summer day,
And all the beauty of the lake.

Linger until upon my brain
Is stamped an image of the scene;
Then fade into the air again,
And be as if thou hadst not been.

—Atlantic Monthly for December.

THE MURDERER'S ORDEAL.

I was fond of the science of physiognomy. From my youth up, I was noted for my proclivity for reading the character of a man from his face; and I finally became such an adept in the art that I could occasionally guess the very thoughts of the individual whose countenance I was studying.

Soon after the gold fever broke out I came to California; and here I must confess, among what else there was to interest me, I had a grand opportunity for exercising my skill upon all sorts of faces, and under all sorts of circumstances, from the highest success to the deepest despair of failure. I first tried my luck at digging, myself, but soon tired of that, and, believing I could get money faster and with less labor, I opened a kind of grocery and provision store, and went regularly into the business of trade, buying most of my articles at Sacramento, getting them hauled to my quarters, and disposing of them at a fair advance to the miners and others.

My store, as I dignified my place of trade, consisted of a rude skeleton of poles with a sufficiency of cheap muslin drawn over them and pinned down to the earth, and was stocked only with the most salable articles, of which flour, pork and whisky found the most ready market, especially whisky. In the dry season it was very dusty, and every body seemed to be dry with a thirst which mere water would not quench. If a man was successful, he wanted whisky to bring his body up to the altitude of his spirits; if unsuccessful, he wanted whisky to bring his spirits up to the altitude of his body; if it chanced to be a little cool, he wanted whisky to warm him; if it was very hot, he wanted whisky to cool him; he needed whisky in the morning to make him bright and active; he needed whisky at night to rest him and make him sleep well; he wanted it when he bought, and when he sold; when he won, and when he lost; when he stood up, and when he sat down; in short, whisky was the great regulator of all human feelings—the genuine elixir vitæ—and consequently I did an immense business in whisky.

Now this, though somewhat irrelevant, brings me to my story.

My store being the headquarters of that locality for whisky and provisions, I was brought into contact with nearly every specimen of the genus homo that ventured in that region; and such another conglomeration of white, black and red—such another mixture of gentlemen, laborers, mountaineers gamblers, thieves and assassins—it would be hard to find outside the limits of California. Of course I had a chance to study all sorts of faces to my heart's content, but having, as I have said, become an adept in the art, an ordinary countenance, or a man governed by ordinary passions, whether gentle or brutish, did not interest me. I wanted to get hold of what is termed a character, or one whose external would give no indication of his internal to any but a connoisseur; or one that would really puzzle you to tell what to think of him.

Among the many, such I at length found. At first I did not notice him—did not think of him. At a casual glance there was nothing to distinguish him from the herd. He came in quietly, unobtrusively, purchased a quantity of flour, pork and tea, paid for the same in gold dust, and went out about his business. He repeated his visits at different intervals, perhaps some half a dozen times, before he attracted my attention to anything peculiar in his appearance, and then I should have been at a loss to say what I saw more in him at last than at first.

He was apparently about twenty-five years of age, of medium hight and slender figure, of a dark complexion, regular features, with dark, straight hair, dark eyes, and a beard that covered the lower part of his face—in all of which there was nothing remarkable—nothing striking. He was quiet—not talkative; had nothing to say except about the business he came on, got what he wanted when I was disengaged, paid for what he got like a gentleman, and generally retired with an ordinary "Good-day," or some similar civility. And yet, as I have said, he began to attract my attention at last, and I began to wonder why. Was it because he was so quiet, reserved and gentlemanly, and did not purchase whisky like the rest, and occasionally get excited and boisterous? At all events, he had begun to interest me in some way; and the very fact, perhaps, that I could not tell how or why, led me into closer scrutiny, a deeper study of the man.

After this I prolonged his visits as much as I could without causing him to suspect I did so intentionally. The things he wanted I generally had some difficulty in getting, and filled up the interval by remarks about the weather, the country, the mines, the success of some and the failure of others—in a word, anything I could think about to induce conversation, watching him furtively all the while. He answered easily and readily, and yet with that peculiar kind of reserve that was not suggestive of tending toward familiarity. His replies, however, evinced a man of mind and education, and I began to give him credit for being a thinker—perhaps a practical and selfish dreamer, if I may use a paradoxical term that best expresses my idea.

One day, I scarcely know how, I touched upon the general superstitions of mankind, and, to my surprise, I saw that at last he was interested. His eye changed expression and brightened, and emitted a strange and peculiar gleam; and my attention being thus directed to his eye, I now bethought me that I had never seen one exactly like it—one capable of being so apparently open down to the soul while concealing so much. It was off its guard now; the door was really open to the soul of the man; and I looked in at the door of that opening, and saw that the soul of that man was a dark one. A nameless fear came over me; a strange thrill passed through me, like an electric shock; I felt an electric shudder of dread. No wonder I had not been able to read him before; the man had been wearing an impenetrable mask.

I now had the key of the mystery, and to him, and I used it. He was interested in superstitions—he was superstitious himself. Why? Good men may be superstitious; bad men always are, because they carry a hell of wild fancies within them. Thus it was with this man, as I could see by his eye, and I made his fancies work upon him. I told him stories of sorcery, witchcraft and magic, of ghosts, hobgoblins and devils, till he became pale with fear, breathed with compressed lips, and trembled, in spite of his great nerve and skill.

If good men, as I have said, are sometimes superstitious, why, you ask, did I think this man superstitious also? First, I answer, because I had accidentally thrown him off his guard and read his soul; and secondly, because he was not naturally nervous and credulous. Fear could only arise from the self-convicted knowledge of a past wicked deed. The man was even then a criminal.

But let me hasten along to the denouement.

It chanced that no other person was present when this conversation occurred about the superstitious fancies of men, and as soon as we were interrupted by the entrance of another customer my dark visitor left somewhat abruptly. After that he did not come as often as he did before, and never renewed the conversation that had so agitated him, and never, in fact, entered into any other that he could possibly avoid. I kept my thoughts to myself, but made some casual inquiries about him, and learned that he had been so fortunate as to secure a capital "lead," from which, with his partner, another young man, he was taking out gold in quantities that promised to enrich both, and that both had the good-will and esteem of all who knew them.

One dark night, about three or four weeks after this, I was startled from my sleep by wild, prolonged shrieks, and cries of "murder! murder! help! help!"

I jumped, seized my revolver, and darted out into the open air. The cries and screams still continued, coming from a bend of the river about a hundred rods below. In a minute I was joined by five others, all well armed, and together we ran as hard as we could to the place from which the alarm proceeded. When we arrived there at least thirty men were collected in and around the tent of the dark man I have been describing, and he himself it was who had given the alarm. His partner and companion had been murdered and robbed, and he himself had been slightly cut across the face and gashed on the left arm, and he was all excitement, lamenting his dearest friend, and vowing vengeance against the assassin. It was some time before we could get at the particulars, and then we learned that both had been sleeping side by side, when an unknown robber had crawled under the light canvas, stabbed one to the heart, and taken a large bag of gold from under his head. With this he was escaping, when the present narrator awoke and seized him and received the wounds which had compelled him to relinquish his hold. Lights were brought, and there, sure enough, was the bloody confirmation of all that had been related.

I shall make no attempt to portray the intense excitement, the wild rage and consternation which this daring murder occasioned. Every man felt that, if the assassin escaped without his just punishment, there would no longer be security for any one in our hitherto quiet and peaceful valley, and solemn oaths were taken to hang the wretch, if found, upon the nearest tree.

A large reward was offered for his detection, and every gambler that had ever been seen about there was more or less suspected, and I believe that, had any man been arrested on the following day, he would have been hung first and tried afterward. I said less than any, for I had my own suspicions, and I contrived my plot in secret, and made a confidant of no one.

The murdered young man was as decently buried as surrounding circumstances would permit, and his companion, my superstitious friend, grew more moody with grief, refused to work his "lead" any more, and proposed selling off his rock and tools, and quitting the country altogether. I think he would have gone at once, only that I told him it would not look well to leave without an effort to discover the murderer, as some people might be malicious enough to say he knew something of the matter, and so get him into trouble. He turned very pale, and declared he would stay a year if he thought by that means he could discover the assassin of his dear, dear friend.

On the second afternoon following the tragedy, almost every individual in the vicinity, the friend of the murdered man among the rest, assembled at my store at my particular request. I had told them I had something to communicate concerning the foul deed, and I thought it not unlikely I should give them some clew to the assassin.

When all had collected, and arranged themselves, as I had directed, in a semicircle before my door—eager, expectant, excited—I came forward holding in my hand an egg. Then I made them a short speech on the superstitions of mankind, which I contended had their origin in mysterious facts revealed from the other world by God's good providence for the protection of the innocent and the punishment of the guilty, and among other things I mentioned how the ghosts of their victims would often haunt the murderers, compelling them to reveal their crimes—how lead and sea had been known to give up their awful secrets—and how it had been asserted that if the guilty wretch place his hands upon the body of the man he had secretly slain, the wounds would bleed afresh.

"And now, gentlemen," I continued, "I hold in my hand as sure a test as any I have named. This simple egg, so far to view, contains the murderer's secret. Let him but take it in his hand, and the frail shell will crumble to pieces and show to all that it is filled with the blood of his victim. You will excuse me, gentlemen, for putting you all to the test. We do not know each other's secrets—the murderer of the young man we buried yesterday may be among us; but only the guilty need fear the trial, the innocent will surely pass the ordeal unharmed."

As I said this, I fixed my gaze upon the dark visitor, my suspected man; I never saw a more wretched and ghastly countenance, nor a greater struggle in any living being to keep a calm and unmoved exterior.

The egg began its round. Some took it gravely, some lightly, some turned slightly pale, and some laughed out right. But on it went, and came nearer to the man for whom it was intended. I could see that he was trembling—that his very lips were getting white.

"It is your turn now!" I said at length, in a cold, stern tone.

"Mine!" he answered, with a ghastly attempt at a smile. "Why—why—should I—I take it? Poor Wilson was my—my friend."

"Let him prove it now!" I said "All eyes are upon you. Take the ordeal sent by heaven, and prove your innocence—if you can."

He glanced hurriedly around. All eyes were indeed upon him, and with a look of awakened suspicion. He made one desperate effort to be calm—then seized the fatal egg with trembling hands.

The next moment it was crushed to atoms, and his hands were wet and stained as if with human gore.

A wild yell burst from the crowd.

A despairing shriek came from the lips of the guilty wretch and falling, rather than sinking, down upon his knees, he cried out:

"God of mercy, forgive me! I did kill him! I did kill him! for his gold! his gold! O, cursed gold! O, God of heaven, forgive me!"

"And how many before him?" demanded I.

"Three! three! O, God of mercy forgive me!"

There was another wild yell, or rather howl of fury—a rush like wolves on their prey—and the poor wretch was seized, almost torn limb from limb, and dragged furiously away.

In less than ten minutes from his confession he was dangling from a neighboring tree, swinging by his neck.

So died the murderer, whose name I have suppressed, because he had respectable friends who are still living.

I will only add that, believing him guilty, I had previously prepared the egg, putting red coloring matter in it, expecting to see him crush it through his superstitious fears of a supernatural discovery. They promised me the reward for the detection of the murderer—but this I declined. Justice was all I had sought, and this I had obtained.

Crime in Ireland.

A great mass of information as to the social condition of Ireland has just been published in some criminal and judicial statistics by Dr. Wilson Handcock. The graver descriptions of crime are still on the decrease, and the number of indictable offenses last year was one-third per cent. less than in the previous twelve months. Assaults and the minor crimes which are within the summary jurisdiction of the magistrates, however, are increasing at an alarming rate, and the number of cases of this character disposed of in 1873 was 223,843, no fewer than 12,373 more than in the previous year. Dr. Handcock attributes the rapid growth of these offenses to the greater indulgence of the people in intoxicating drink, and observes that an increase is observable in all those offenses that mark a lowering of moral tone in society. The statistics contain a vindication of the character of the Irish juries. The proportion of acquittals in Ireland in 1875 was 30 per cent. as compared with 22.7 per cent. in England and Wales, but Dr. Handcock observes that the difference is accounted for by the fact that a larger proportion of persons are discharged at the first instance in England and Wales than in this country, and that consequently the evidence here is of a less certain character. The Belgian statistics show a slightly higher proportion of acquittals than the Irish. Generally speaking, there is less crime in Ireland than in England, the proportion of criminals being 31 in each 10,000 of the population in this country and 37 in England.

PAPER IMITATION OF LEATHER.—A most deceptive imitation of leather is manufactured, according to a process discovered by Dawidowski, from parchment paper. It is as soft and pliable as leather, and resembles it perfectly in color and finish, and, like it, can be glued, pressed, stamped, gilded, etc. It, therefore, forms a substitute for fancy leather for very many purposes. As binding of books it resists abrasion extremely well, and is not affected by dirt or even water. It is also free from the objections to leather as a lining for hats, since it is unaffected by perspiration.

HYDROPHOBIA has made its appearance among the sheep in Texas.

An Ancient Pea.

In the excavations carried on in Egypt, a distinguished savant, Gen. Anderson, has discovered many sarcophagi containing ancient Egyptian mummies, which carry the mind back a period of several thousand years. At the side of one of these mummies he found some dried peas, which he had the curiosity to sow in Guernsey, on returning from his voyage of discovery. A year after, three of these mummy peas had produced two small plants, by means of which he was enabled during the following season to cover an entire field. Some of the stems, which attain the height of several meters, present a very extraordinary size. The flowers obtained were of a delightful fragrance and of a white and rose color. The stem of these Egyptian peas is worthy of the careful attention of botanists, since it exhibits a singular peculiarity. On emerging from the ground it is quite slender, but it becomes larger in proportion as it rises, making it necessary to support it with a prop.

The pods are grouped near each other on the upper extremity of the plant, instead of being uniformly distributed along the stem, as in case of the common pea.

Mr. Gardner, after an examination of these mummy peas, believes that they belong to the same family as the ordinary peas of our gardens, but constitute a variety different from all others. The peculiar form of the stem, the arrangement of the flowers on a circular zone at the top of the plant, are the most marked characteristics.

Experiments have been made on the qualities of this pea as an aliment; it resembles the ordinary gray pea, according to Mr. Barson, the chief gardener at Chiswick; according to other epicures it has an exquisite taste, and will displace even the most delicate peas of our markets.—Louisville Commercial.

The Housewife's Table.

The following is a very valuable housewife's table, by which persons not having scales and weights at hand may readily measure the article wanted to form any recipe without the trouble of weighing, allowance to be made for an extraordinary dryness or moisture of the article weighed or measured:

Wheat flour, 1 pound is 1 quart.
Indian meal, 1 pound 2 ounces are 1 quart.
Butter, when soft, 1 pound is 1 quart.
Loaf sugar, broken, 1 pound is 1 quart.
White sugar, powdered, 1 pound 1 ounce are 1 quart.
Best brown sugar, 1 pound 2 ounces are 1 quart.
Ten eggs are 1 pound.
Flour, 4 pecks are 1 bushel.
Sixteen large teaspoonfuls are 1 pint.
Eight large teaspoonfuls are 1 gill.
Four large teaspoonfuls are ½ gill.
Two gills are a ½ pint.
Two pints are 1 quart.
Four quarts are 1 gallon.
A common sized tumbler holds ½ a pint.
A common sized wine-glass is ½ a gill.
A teacup is one gill.
A large wine-glass is 1 gill.
A teaspoonful is ½ an ounce.
Forty drops are equal to 1 teaspoonful.
Four teaspoonfuls are equal to 1 tablespoonful.

A Duck Story That Is a Fish Story.

This story is told by Melville Curtis, and sworn to by John Frost and Jim Myron, so it must be true: The three gentlemen were over in Smoky valley duck-hunting on Sunday last, and on Blue Springs Curtis shot a mallard. Securing the bird he fastened it in the stream for a decoy, and in a few moments was alarmed and astonished to behold his dead duck plunging and floundering in the water and trying to dive beneath the surface. Hastening to the spot to ascertain the cause of such remarkable conduct on the part of the defunct duck, he found his game in the jaws of a monster trout, which was endeavoring to draw it beneath the water. One shot from the hunter's trusty gun and the monster of the deep lay belly up. He was brought into town and measured, and found to be just twenty-two feet—or inches, we forget which—in length. After being measured, he was cut into chunks and distributed among the poor, furnishing a substantial meal for eleven needy families. The fish is said to be one of a number placed in Blue Springs several years ago, but which, from some unknown cause, have never increased beyond the original number.—Austin (Nev.) Reveille.

The Human Relics of Pompeii.

A writer says: "In the Museum of Pompeii are preserved the most horrible and pathetic witnesses of the last days of the ill-fated city. When the workingmen were digging in 1863, they struck into a small cavity, the nature of which was of course a mystery to them. Without breaking further into it, they poured plaster of Paris down the crevices that were already opened, and, as soon as the plaster had hardened, the crust of lava was carefully removed, and lo! the form of a human being in his death-struggle, perfectly preserved. Buried in the lava that hardened about him, his body had crumbled to dust, and left this wonderful mold. Several bodies have thus been reproduced—one of them with the features perfectly preserved, so that there is still some expression in the face. In one, some parts of the skeleton are imbedded in the plaster, and two female bodies found lying near each other are called mother and daughter. There is nothing at Pompeii more touching than the despair depicted in the attitude of this group. It was pleasant to get out into the narrow streets where the sun was glaring, and there we sought to forget the horrors of the museum.

A TERRIBLE SACRIFICE.—In the Provincial Lunatic Asylum, in Toronto, a few days ago, a female patient named Mrs. Newell, an English emigrant, afflicted with the notion that her five children's souls could not be saved unless she herself died some terrible death, set fire to her clothing, and then knelt in devotion while enveloped in flames. The fire was extinguished, but the patient died the next morning, after great agony.

Air.

Lord Kinnaird, in the course of a long letter to a contemporary regarding the ventilation of dwelling houses, says: People imagine that as foul air is light it is only necessary to open a hole in ceiling or open a window at the top to allow it to escape, and are surprised when these openings are closed by the inmates to feel cold air beating down on their heads. The fact is that the foul air emitted from the lungs of the occupants of a room ascends while warm; but when cold it falls to the ground. Any one taking a ladder and going to the top of a room where a number of people are sitting would find the vitiated air unbearable. A bird could not live long in it. Where there is no fire-place in a room the foul air first ascends, [illegible] then when it gets cold descends, and is then drawn up the chimney, so that a person sitting near the [illegible] inhales the bad air. The remedy is to take off the vitiated air at the ceiling by a syphon acting on the reverse system of a water syphon. Where there is no fire-place in a room the case is serious, indeed. We found that a bird placed on the floor of such a room, where two people slept, was dead in the morning. Were not our ancestors wise in having high bedsteads, and they were higher than the iron bedsteads now commonly used. "Shakedowns" are therefore most injurious to health. The great difficulty in ventilation is to make the air move. One plan may be seen carried out on a large scale in the houses of Parliament. A huge furnace at the top of the house, kept constantly burning, draws its life from the houses, libraries, dining-room, tea-rooms, committee rooms, and kitchen of the Palace of Westminster, and such is its power that burnt pieces of paper have been drawn from the Victoria Station to the palace. The real difficulty is the supplying of fresh air to fill up the vacuum, which in our dwellings is drawn from the window-sashes, and doors, and keyholes.

"For Ladies Only."

Another alteration in our railroad management is the establishment on the Metropolitan railway of carriages for "ladies only." This is an adoption of the dames seules idea with which we are all familiar on continental railways, and is said to have been necessitated by the behavior of men who make it a practice of traveling by the underground line for the purpose of offering offensive familiarities to women. It is not probable that the plan will succeed here, for the underground trains scarcely stop more than a minute at each station, and there is enormous difficulty in selecting the carriages of the class for which you have a ticket, so great is the throng and confusion; the selection of a special compartment will, therefore, be almost impossible. One will be curious to see the style of ladies who avail themselves of the new regulation. In the carriages for dames seules in France I never recollect seeing any but the oldest, the plainest, and the most uninviting of the sex.—London Cor. New York Herald.

Corn in England.

English ideas of the value of Indian corn are advancing rapidly, as may be inferred from the following, from the Mark Lane Express: "Maize is getting into extensive consumption for feeding cattle. The price was for a long time below its actual value for feeding purposes, but the graziers have discovered its valuable properties, and maize is no longer neglected on the market at 28s. or 29s. per quarter. We have an idea, too, that the millers have found that they can use a portion of it, especially of the white corn, without any material injury to the flour. Be this as it may, the demand for maize increases, and the price has risen to 38s. per quarter for the white and 36s. for yellow. In America the darker is preferred for domestic purposes, in which, in various ways, it is largely consumed by families. The amount imported during the first nine months of the year 1873 was 15,030,534 cwts., against 15,454,792 cwts. in the same period of the present year, being an increase of 424,228 cwts.

The Desperation of Hunger.

Crimes against property and person have doubled since the cold snap set in. Homeless vagrants, crowded out of police lodgings, and having no soup houses to fall back upon, are nerved by the desperation of hunger to crimes of unusual violence. Preferring to go to prison rather than starve, they have no fear of arrest if the ordinary chance of impunity fails them. What are we going to do about it? On the eve of Thanksgiving day fourteen able-bodied men and women who were to be discharged from the Kings County Penitentiary prevailed upon the keeper to complain of them as vagrants, and lock them up again until May 1. It is idle to say these people could find work if they wanted it. The work is not to be had. But it ought to be created. It will be cheaper for the city and State to make work for the unemployed than to expend large sums of money for charity. Work is asked, and not alms.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Bearding the Shah.

A writer on Persian life and manners says: "Fat-h 'Aly himself was a poet, and his laureate was an old chief named Fat-h 'Aly Khan, whose ancestors had been for several generations the Governors of Kashan. It is related that one day the Shah gave him some of his verses to read, and asked him his opinion of them. 'May my soul be your sacrifice,' said the laureate, 'they are bosh.' The insulted sovereign exclaimed: 'He is an ass; take him to the stables;' and the order was literally obeyed. After a short time his Majesty sent for him again and read some more of his verses. The poet walked off without a word. 'Where are you going?' cried the Shah. 'Just back again to the stables,' answered his undaunted laureate. Fat-h 'Aly, delighted with his boldness, called him back and ordered his mouth to be stuffed with sugar-candy, a high mark of favor."

A LADY who has attended several public dinners wants to know why the presiding officer can never propose the toast of the evening without regretting that it had not been placed in abler hands.

[illegible]

By the letters that he wrote them,
Proud these pa[illegible] g[illegible]
Sent their money [illegible]
G[illegible] every whi[illegible]
Still [illegible] they urged [illegible] him,
A[illegible] it wa[illegible] his health [illegible] guard,
Saying in their letter, "[illegible]
W[illegible] afraid you work [illegible] hard."

"[illegible]," he answered sadly,
"But, dear parents, 'tis for fame!
Tell me who would not delve deeply
'Mong great books to earn a name?"
So they sent their boy more money
To expend for midnight oil,
And it deeply wrought their spirits
Thinking how that boy did toil.

On the day the money reached him
He was smoking a cigar,
Absently engaged in counting
Caroms at a billiard bar,
Now and then a bracing cocktail
For diversion's sake he'd kill;
Now and then he'd [illegible]
[illegible]

And he thought about his father,
[illegible]
Ciph[illegible] up two [illegible]
And the money [illegible] left
Found his debts fast and [illegible]
So to ease the load of all,
He lunged for ten long hours
Madly at a billiard ball.

Humorous.

SKELETON keys—"Picked" turkeys.

IT is not falling into the water, but lying in it that drowns.

WHERE Satan cannot go himself, he takes wine as his messenger.

EDITORS gain a living in a sanctum-money-us way.—Yonkers Gazette.

IN Paraguay, girls are not allowed to chew tobacco till they are thirteen.

THEY have kissing fairs in Iowa for the benefit of the churches—price ten cents a kiss.

IT is a German boast that no American, Irishman, or Englishman can sell lager and make it pay.

JOHN SMITH, of London, ran away with two Miss Mores, and they are after him and his pair-o'Mores.

A JERSEY CITY lady shot a hackman through the hand for overcharging her, and she receives one hundred congratulatory letters per day.

THE dignity of labor—Martha—"Oh, if ye please 'm, it's the washy-woman!" Party with bundle—"Beggin' yer parding, Miss, it ain't. It's the laundress!"—Punch.

A CINCINNATI young man sent a note to his girl asking at what time he should call, and received in return the following brief billetdoux: "Deer Jon—Comet afpastate. MARY."

A MAN having a bill against a distant merchant, sent a letter of inquiry to a banker in that locality. The reply was, "He is dead; but he pays now as well as he ever did."

"JULIUS, can you tell me how Adam got out of Eden?" "Well, I s'pose he clum de fence." "No; dat ain't it." "Wel, den he borrowed a wheelbarrow and walked out." "No." "I gub it up, den." "He got snaked out."

"DO YOU know why you are like the third term?" said Susan to her brother, who lingered to talk with her Adolphus after the old folks had retired. "No, I don't." "Well," replied his saccharine sister, "its because you're one too many."

WHEN a cultivated Louisvillian meets a stranger at a watering-place he forthwith feels called upon to air his French. He bows, smiles, and remarks, "Avvez woose?" and grows enthusiastic over the Parisian accent of the reply, "Wasinhellsmatteryou?"

"MAMMA, where do the cows get the milk?" asked Willie, looking up from the foaming pan of milk which he had been intently regarding. "Where do you get your tears?" was the answer. After a thoughtful silence he again broke out: "Mamma, do the cows have to be spanked?"

SOME poor fellow who had been jilted, we should judge, and brought to grief by some fair one, thus revenges his wrongs: "Eve did not know as much as her daughters of the present day. Had they been in her place, instead of being deceived, they would have deceived the devil."

PROF. TYNDALL ON TYPHOID FEVER.—Prof. Tyndall's latest public utterance is on the subject of typhoid fever, which, he claims in the London Times, is transmitted and solely propagated by matter that has been in contact with the body of a typhoid patient. He says that the most filthy districts will not suffer until the poison has been imported from elsewhere, although filth is a ready conductor of the poison. He, of course, insists upon the disinfection or destruction of all typhoid material, including the clothing and bedding.

AN affair of the heart—The circulation of the blood.

Wishart's

Pine Tree Tar

Cordial!

Nature's Great

Remedy

FOR ALL

Throat & Lung

Diseases.

For Sale by all Druggists and Storekeepers.

All Sorts.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, has a negro theater.

THE British army loses 8,000 men a year by desertion.

A. H. STEPHENS weighs eighty, without a [illegible] in his pocket.

SEVEN wagon-loads of Missourians have just emigrated to Georgia.

IF you will just take notice you will find that a bald-headed man never raises his hat to a lady.

FREDERICK DOUGLASS has reminded a lecture audience in Grafton, Mass., that thirty-two years ago he spoke there from his wagon, a hall or church being refused him.

PROF. [illegible] H. PETERS, the distinguished popular lecturer, in the course of a recent interview in St. Louis, expressed his belief that "America is bound to be supreme in scientific matters."

THE Belgian journals mention the death, at the age of ten years and eleven months, of Frederic Van de Kerkhove, a young painter of almost miraculous precocity. He was a native of Bruges, and had executed not less than three hundred and fifty pictures.

THE venerable Richard H. Dana, of Boston, was eighty-seven years old on Nov. 15. When Mr. Dana was editor of the North American Review he received from the author the poem of "Thanatopsis," which was written when Mr. Bryant was in his eighteenth year.

MORE heirs are wanted. The British government is said to have on its hands $500,000,000—more or less we presume—for parties by the name of Townley. In 1763, so runs the story, Miss Townley ran away to America with a Mr. Lawrence. Nothing has been heard from her since. Where are the Townleys?

WHILE the marriage ceremony is subject to so much legislation that its sanctity is fast becoming a matter of mere sentiment, it is not very pleasant to read that a bill has passed the Oregon Senate which provides that husbands and wives without children may be considered divorced by simply ceasing to live together.

THE municipal valuation of taxable property in Philadelphia is: Real estate, $520,594,000; personal property, $9,464,000; farms, $20,704,155; suburban, $39,985,000; total, $575,283,000—being an increase of $27,000,000 over last year. The tax is $2.50 per $100 on the city property; $1.66 on the suburban, and $1.25 on farms.

PRESIDENT CLARK's experiment at the Agricultural College of Massachusetts, by which a growing squash was made to lift an enormous weight, has attracted considerable attention. He has received an invitation from California to deliver a lecture on squashes, with an offer of $1,000 and expenses. He will probably accept.

FORTY thousand dollars per annum for ten years and the entire sum of four hundred thousand dollars forfeited, if from any cause he is removed before the expiration of the period, is the new contract between Mr. Watson, President of the Erie railroad and the Directors. Why is it that railroads in this country are not paying?

MEXICO is beginning to show signs of commercial vigor. Congress is appropriating money for new lines of telegraph, and a Mr. Plumb is about proposing to commence the construction of a line of railroad from Laredo, on the United States frontier, to the Pacific coast. It is to be presumed there will be no frauds or big jobs in the undertaking, as the enterprise is in the hands of a man who is Plumb in all he does.

TUSCUMBIA, Ala., recently destroyed by a tornado, is a pleasant little town of about 1,500 inhabitants, situated on the Memphis and Charleston railroad, 75 miles west of Huntsville, and two miles from the Tennessee river. It is one of the oldest towns in Alabama, and is chiefly famous for its spring, which is the largest fountain in the United States, and which formed the nucleus for a settlement by the whites. The town was the headquarters for the Cherokee tribe, and in its earlier days was the theater of many a bloody scene.

The Mail Money-Order System.

The Postmaster-General, in his annual report, says:

"The money-order business of this department appears to be rapidly growing in public favor, and is undoubtedly a very great accommodation to a large number of persons who are not within the reach of banking facilities or who are unaccustomed to the use of them. Yet I see no reason why this branch of service should not be made self-sustaining. The apparent profits of the money-order system during the last year are about $105,000, while certain expenses to the amount of $182,000 for clerk hire and stationery in the Postoffice Department, Auditor's office, and for money-order clerks in the postoffice, are not charged to the money-order business, but are paid out of appropriations; but, while the money-order system appears to yield a revenue of $105,000, there is, in fact, a deficit of $70,000. I suggest, therefore, that the fees of money orders be increased in accordance with the views of the Superintendent, so that the money-order system shall, like any other business, be made to defray all its own expenses."

"Whar Dat 'Possum ?"

Two colored gentlemen in Alabama, named Sam and Jack, went 'possum hunting, and caught a little 'possum. They put the varmint on to cook. Jack went to sleep, and Sam, smelling how good the little 'possum was, conceived the idea of trying him—a taste did not suffice; he by degrees ate the whole animal. Now he was troubled about Jack. A bright thought came. He greased Jack's mouth and hands and hid the bones by his side. When Jack awoke he smelt 'possum strong, but he saw none in the pot. "Look yer, Sam, what dat 'possum?" "Go off! you eat him up, Jack; look at your hands and mouth, and see dem bones." "Well, Sam, ef I eat 'possum he fills less space dan any 'possum eber I seed!"

WIT without sense is a razor without a handle.

A Conductor's Dog.

A conductor on one of the trains of the C., D. and M. road had, until a couple of days since, a Scotch terrier dog, which was his inseparable companion, and accompanied his master with unfailing regularity on all trips, the conductor going up to the north end of the line one day and back the next. The dog had his place in the baggage car, and kept it all the time the train was in motion, but when the train stopped at a station he would step out and take a look at things, and when the bell rang he would resume his place in the car. He understood all the signals as well as any of the men, and when the whistle sounded "cattle on the track," the dog would rush to the steps of the car and join his notes of warning with those of the whistle. Just this side of Guttenburg, a year ago, while barking at the cattle from the steps of the car, he fell overboard, and it was supposed that he had been killed. The next morning, however, when his master's train returned to Guttenburg, "Scipio" was there and jumped on board as if nothing had happened. He seemed to understand the time of the arrival and departure of his train; for many times when he had been absent at the house his master has found him waiting at the depot. A couple of days since, however, he met his death. The whistle had sounded a cattle alarm, and he rushed to the platform, as usual. Just then the brakes were suddenly applied, giving the car a jerk that threw poor "Scipio" from his feet and he rolled down between the cars and was killed. He had scarcely missed a train in three years and was a general favorite all along the line of road.—Dubuque Times.

How a Conductor Got His Thanksgiving Turkey.

On Friday evening as Conductor Carney's train, of the Illinois Central, was passing through the timbered region of Center Grove, a flock of wild turkeys were noticed running along on the track a considerable distance ahead of their engine. The conductor stationed himself on the pilot, and, as the train approached the birds, they took to the wings, rising directly in front of the engine. For a few seconds, which seemed like minutes, there was a most exciting race, but the train was too fast for the birds, and as it caught up with them the smoke-stack knocked three or four of them to grass, and Mr. Carney caught one, a monstrous gobbler, by the legs, and so strong was the bird and he made such a struggle that it was only by a desperate effort that Mr. C. could retain his place on the pilot with one hand and hold the bird with the other. He succeeded at last in getting him safely back to the baggage car, where it was found that his turkeyship weighed twenty-two pounds.

A LONG HORSEBACK RIDE.—Lieut. Zubowitz, an Austrian officer, who undertook for a wager to ride on his own horse from Vienna to Paris in fifteen days, accomplished his feat Nov. 9, arriving at the Place du Trone shortly before 10. But for a slight accident to his horse, which is of Hungarian breed and of average size, he would have arrived sooner. The horse did not appear exhausted by its long journey. About 300 persons, some of whom had bets depending on the event, had assembled to witness the Lieutenant's arrival.

EVERY wise business man shapes his business so as to make it conform to the circumstances by which he is surrounded. Believing this, the Sherman House, at Chicago, has reduced its rates—an act that should be appreciated by the traveling public.

GEORGE W. SMALLEY writes, in one of his London letters, that Henry Irving's Hamlet is a great success. He says: "I went to the Lyceum with a distinct prejudice against Mr. Irving. I came away feeling that his Hamlet was the most intellectual piece of acting I had seen on the English stage, without any exception whatever—that a ray of genius had at last penetrated the dull gloom in which English dramatic art lay hid."

THE LATEST TRIUMPH OF TEMPERANCE.—We congratulate the temperance world on the success everywhere attending the use of VINEGAR BITTERS. Certainly no preparation containing alcohol has accomplished such cures of malarious fever, biliousness, dyspepsia, rheumatism, lung complaints, constipation and general debility, as we hear of from all quarters as the results of this famous vegetable specific. No true philanthropist will regret to see spirituous liquors expelled from medical use, if they can be safely dispensed with; and that they are not necessary in any case of sickness, whatever its character, appears at last to have been demonstrated. If public opinion is capable of making any impression upon the minds of the faculty, they will ere long introduce the most popular of modern medicines into the hospitals, and prescribe it in their practice. The millions have given the article a fair trial; it has more than answered their expectations, and no theoretical opposition can shake their faith in it. 13

SAFE, PERMANENT AND COMPLETE!—Wilhoft's Tonic cures Chills and Fever, Dumb Chills and Bilious Fevers—those Titans that kill their thousands where this remedy is unknown. It cures Enlargement of the Spleen. It cures Hypertrophy of the Liver. It hurts no one. It cures all types of Malarial Fevers and is perfectly protective in all its effects. Try Wilhoft's Tonic, the great infallible Chill Cure. WHEELOCK, FINLAY & Co., Proprietors, New Orleans. For sale by all druggists.

MR. ARCHEY MCKISSICK, of Rockdale, Pa., in writing to Dr. Wishart, says: "My son was pronounced incurable with consumption, but hearing of your Pine Tree Tar Cordial, we purchased three bottles, and he commenced using it, and from that day to this he has been getting well."

NOW is the time to buy presents for Christmas. Combine beauty and utility, and give your gentleman friend a carton containing one hundred Elmwood Collars. They will last him some time, and he will think of you with pleasure every time he puts on one.

COLUMBUS discovered America, but it has been found that the only economical Shoes for children are the celebrated SILVER-TIPPED. Never wear out at the toe, and are worth two pairs without Tips. All dealers sell them.

THE NORTHWESTERN HORSE-NAIL Co.'s "Finished" Nail is the best in the world.

A Walking Advertisement.

LIMESTONE SPRINGS, S. C.

DR. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR: I am a walking advertisement for your Golden Medical Discovery, Purgative Pellets and Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, they having cured me of Catarrh of nine years' standing, which was so bad that it disfigured my nose, and, while curing it, your medicines also cured me of Asthma in its worst and most aggravated form. Before using your medicines I had become reduced in flesh from one hundred and fifty-five to one hundred and fifteen pounds, and I now weigh one hundred and sixty-two pounds, and am in better health than I have enjoyed for twenty years.

Yours truly, J. L. LUMSDEN.

The above is but a fair sample of hundreds of letters which are received by Dr. Pierce, and in the face of such evidence, who can longer doubt that the Doctor's medicines cure the worst cases of Chronic Catarrh?

THE GREAT FAVORITE WITH THE LADIES.

Wm. Forsyth Bynum & Son, druggists, of Live Oak, Fla., write, Sept. 16, 1874, as follows: "Dr. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.: Your Golden Medical Discovery and Purgative Pellets sell very largely and give complete satisfaction, as numbers of our customers and friends testify with pleasure. Your Favorite Prescription is, indeed, the great favorite with the ladies, and numbers can say with joy that it has saved them from eking out a miserable life or meeting with premature death, and restored them to health and happiness."

Thousands of women bless the day on which Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was first made known to them. A single bottle often gives delicate and suffering women more relief than months of treatment from their family physician. In all those derangements causing back-ache, dragging down sensations, nervous and general debility, it is a sovereign remedy. Its soothing and healing properties render it of the utmost value to ladies suffering from internal fever, congestion, inflammation or ulceration, and its strengthening effects tend to correct displacements of internal parts, the result of weakness of natural supports. It is sold by all druggists.

DR. PIERCE's pamphlet on Diseases peculiar to Women will be sent to any address on receipt of two stamps. Address as above.

Seed-House of David Landreth & Son.

It is pleasant to note the flourishing fall trade doing by this long-established firm, in the midst of dull times. In the prevalent stagnation, enterprise has the field almost without competitors. So determined are the Landreths to secure, as usual, a large share of the approaching year's business, that they have now nine of the fast steam presses of McCalla & Stavely diligently at work, printing their "Rural Register" for 1875. This has never before occurred in the history of their house. The "Rural Register" is furnished without charge to all who use Landreth's seeds—and who do not?—Philadelphia Commercial List.

WHITNEY'S MUSICAL GUEST.—The December number of this capital musical monthly, which will be issued from the press early the coming week, contains much that will be of unusual interest to musical people throughout the whole country and especially in the West. The Guest promises several new and attractive features for the coming year, and presents a revised premium list which contains extraordinary inducements to agents to extend its circulation. Send ten cents to W. W. WHITNEY, Toledo, O., for a specimen copy.

$72 Each Week. Agents wanted. Particulars free. WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

$5 to $20 per day at home. Terms free. Address GEO. STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

AGENTS WANTED—Men or Women. $34 a week or $100 forfeited. The secret free. Write at once to COWEN & CO., 8th St., New York.

17.50 per day made by our agents selling staple articles used in every family. Address H. H. Miller & Co., 164 Randolph-st., Chicago.

ADVERTISERS! Send 25 cents to GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., 41 Park Row, New York, for their Pamphlet of 100 pages, containing lists of 3000 newspapers and estimates showing cost of advertising.

CONSTANT EMPLOYMENT—At home, Male or Female. $30 a week insured. No capital required. Particulars and valuable sample free. Address, with 3c return stamp, C. Ross, Williamsburgh, N.Y.

[illegible]—It is stated by Dr. N. S. D[illegible], of 150 South Halsted St., Chicago, Illinois, that he has no partner or traveling agent. [illegible]

JUST THE BOOK | MONEY IN IT SURE! Just out. Useful, Handsome, Cheap. Sells everywhere. Send for prospectus to E. C. BRIDGMAN, 5 Barclay St., N. Y., or 119 West 4th St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

ONE agent sold in one month 501 copies of the LIFE OF LIVINGSTONE, which unfolds the thrilling experiences of a veritable Hero and the curiosities of a wonderful country. More agents wanted. Address LIVINGSTONE PUBLISHERS, either at Cincinnati, Detroit, Chicago, Davenport, or St. Louis.

THE BEST, THE CHEAPEST, the Largest Paper in the World is the

TOLEDO WEEKLY BLADE

(Nasby's Paper). Enlarged to 72 columns—same price as before. Specimen Copies Free to any address. Send for one.

LOCKE & JONES, Toledo, Ohio.

ADVERTISERS.

The American Newspaper Union numbers over 1,000 papers, separated into seven subdivisions. For separate lists and cost of advertising, address S. P. SANBORN, 114 Monroe St., Chicago.

This PATENT CABINET or LETTER FILE is useful to every business man, to keep BILLS, LETTERS or PAPERS always clean and in alphabetical order; holds 4,000 Letters, can be used on a desk or hung to the wall. We prepay Express charges. Send for circular and price list with 1,000 references.

Address C. A. COOK & CO., Chicago, Ill.

THE CINCINNATI WEEKLY STAR

Including postage and the finely-illustrated Star Almanac, $1 per year. Anti-Monopoly—the Granger's Paper—containing 8 large pages of excellent reading matter. The farmer, merchant and mechanic in any part of the country will find this the best of the weeklies, to say nothing of the low price. Agents are offered inducements superior to anything heretofore attempted. Specimen copies free. Address "THE STAR," Cincinnati, O.

FOR NEARLY THIRTY YEARS THE RICHMOND PRINTS have been held in high esteem by those who use Calico. They are produced in all the novelties of changing fashions, and in conservative styles suited to the wants of many persons. Among the latter are the proper for the house or street—beautiful in designs and pleasing in coloring.

"Standard Gray Styles,"

"CHOCOLATE STANDARD STYLES,"

in great variety, and widely known as most serviceable prints. Nothing better for daily wear. These goods bear tickets as quoted above. Your retailer should have them, and your examination and approval will coincide.

MUSICAL GIFT BOOKS

A very acceptable and permanently useful present to a musical friend will be one of the following valuable Works for sale at all Music Stores, or will be sent by mail, postpaid, for retail price.

JUST PUBLISHED:

PIANO AT HOME!

250 large pages, filled with the best Piano Duets (4-hand pieces), furnishing an unfailing fund of home entertainment.

ORGAN AT HOME. For Reed Organs. 200 very popular easy pieces.

Gems of German Song, Vocal; Gems of Scottish Song, Vocal; Gems of Sacred Song, Vocal; Gems of Strauss, Instrumental.

These books are truly caskets of "Gems" of the kind indicated. The "Gems of Strauss" constitute the most brilliant music ever published in one volume.

Wreath of Gems, Vocal; Silver Chord, Vocal; Operatic Pearls, Vocal; Shower of Pearls, Vocal Duets.

Admirable collection of Songs and Duets.

Musical Treasure. Vocal and Instrumental.
Pianist's Album. Instrumental.
Pianoforte Gems.

All the above splendid collections are uniform in style and binding, have 200 to 250 large pages each, are filled with the most popular music, and cost in Boards $2.50. In Cloth, $3.00. Full Gilt, $4.00.

Elegantly bound and most interesting books are also the Lives of Handel, Mozart, Weber, Beethoven, Mendelssohn, etc., etc. Price from $1.75 to $2.00 per volume.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston. CHAS. H. DITSON & CO., 711 Broadway, N. Y.

Chicago Business Directory.

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS.
CHICAGO SCRAPER & DITCHER CO., 80 LaSalle.

ARTIFICIAL LIMBS.
DR. HIATT & LE ROY, 126 South Clark.

AWNINGS, TENTS, TWINES AND CORDAGE.
GILBERT, HUBBARD & CO., 205 to 209 South Water.

BAKING POWDER AND EXTRACTS.
DR. PRICE'S, Steele & Price Mfrs., 201 & 203 S. Water, Chicago, 204 N. 2d, St. Louis, 244 Main, Cincinnati.

BOOKSELLERS AND STATIONERS.
W. B. KEEN, COOKE & CO., 113 to 115 State.

BOOTS AND SHOES—WHOLESALE.
DOGGETT, BASSETT & HILLS, 29 to 31 Lake.
GREENSFELDER, ROSENTHAL & CO., 84 & 86 Lake.
PHELPS, DODGE & PALMER, 48 and 50 Wabash-av.
C. S. RICHARDSON & CO., 126 to 130 Franklin.

CANNED FRUITS AND CRYSTAL LAKE PICKLES.
F. A. WAIDNER, 45 and 47 River.

CHILDREN'S CARRIAGES, ROCKING HORSES, SLEIGHS, Etc.
JAMES B. THOMAS, Manufacturer, 114 N. Peoria.

CHINA, GLASS AND QUEENSWARE.
BOWEN & KENT, 262 to 264 Wabash-av.

DRUGGISTS—WHOLESALE.
E. BURNHAM & SON, 52 and 54 Lake.

ENGRAVER, SEALS, PRESSES, BURNING-BRANDS, SOAP STAMPS, STEEL AND BRASS STAMPS.
L. BOCHE, 171 E. Randolph.

ENGRAVERS.
S. D. CHILDS, JR., & CO., 115 Franklin.

ENGRAVERS' STENCILS AND STOCK.
C. H. HANSON, 38 South Clark.

FLOWERS AND STRAW GOODS—SPECIALTY.
DALY, HENROTIN & CO., 144 and 146 Wabash-av.

FURNITURE.
A. L. HALE & BRO., 200, 202, 204 and 206 Randolph.

GLASS SHOW-CARD PAINTER.
J. J. G. BURGHOFFER, 199, 201 and 203 E. Randolph.

GUNS, CUTLERY, FISHING TACKLE.
Address W. E. SPENCER & CO., 58 State. Est. 1857.

HARDWARE AND CUTLERY—WHOLESALE.
EDWIN HUNT & SONS, 58 and 60 Lake.

HEAVY HARDWARE—WHOLESALE.
KIMBARK BROS. & CO., 80 to 84 Michigan-av.

HOTELS.
NEVADA HOTEL, Wabash-av., bet. Madison and Monroe. Central, convenient. $2.00 per day.

IMPERIAL AXLE GREASE.
GEO. B. SWIFT & CO., Mfrs., 142 to 146 Fulton.

LEAD PIPE AND SHEET LEAD MANUFACTURERS.
E. W. BLATCHFORD & CO., 70 North Clinton.

LINSEED OIL AND OIL CAKE MANUFACTURERS.
E. W. BLATCHFORD & CO., 70 North Clinton.

LOCKSMITHS' AND BELL-HANGERS' MATERIALS.
J. F. WOLLENSAK, 235 LaSalle.

LUMBER.
THE PESHTIGO CO.—Green Bay Lumber. North Pier. W. E. Strong, Pres. G. C. Hempstead, Sec.

MARBLE AND SLATE MANTELS.
THE BOWEN MARBLE CO., 11 North Clark.

MUSIC, SHEET AND BOOK, AND DEALERS IN MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.
THE ROOT & SONS MUSIC CO., 109 State.

PIANOS AND ORGANS.
W. W. KIMBALL, 205 to 209 State.

PUMPS, WOOD AND PORCELAIN CYLINDER PIPE, Etc.
J. F. TEMPLE & SONS, Mnfrs., cor. Polk and Canal.

REAL ESTATE.
JAS. B. GOODMAN & CO., 73 Dearborn.

SEWING MACHINE COMPANIES.
AMERICAN S. M. CO., 242 Wabash-av.
"DOMESTIC" S. M. CO., 74 State. Agents wanted.
GROVER & BAKER S. M. CO., 150 State.
HOME S. M. CO., Johnson, Clark & Co., 141 State.
VICTOR S. M. CO., 281 West Madison.

SHOT.
CHICAGO SHOT TOWER CO., 70 North Clinton.

SHOW-CASE MANUFACTURERS.
SAMUEL B. MARTIN, 57 State.

SOAP MANUFACTURERS.
JAS. S. KIRK & CO.'S STANDARD SOAPS, sold by Wholesale Trade everywhere, 358 to 362 N. Water.

STEAMSHIP LINES.
WHITE STAR MAIL LINE, 97 Clark, A. Lagergren.

WASHING MACHINES.
For Circulars, etc., address CALKINS CHAMPION Washer Co., 257 Clark. Agts wanted everywhere.

WHITE LEAD, ZINC AND COLORS MANUFACTURERS.
CHICAGO WHITE LEAD & OIL Co., Green & Fulton.

WIRE CLOTH AND WIRE GOODS.
CLINTON WIRE CLOTH CO., 175 Randolph.

"A ROUND THE TEA TABLE," new subscription book, by Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage author of "Crumbs Swept Up," &c. Agents wanted. JOHN E. MILLER & CO., Publishers, Chicago, Ill.

ALL PAPERS QUOTE FROM IT!

The Detroit FREE PRESS

The liveliest of family newspapers, full of interesting news, literature, humorous sketches, spicy paragraphs, etc. Sample Copies free. Subscription $2 a year, post-paid. Address DETROIT FREE PRESS, Detroit, Mich.

EVERY HOUSEHOLD CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH A BEAUTIFUL ILLUMINATING GAS BY THE KEYSTONE SAFETY GAS MACHINE. IT IS SIMPLE IN CONSTRUCTION, SAFE IN OPERATION, AND CERTAIN IN RESULTS. FOR VILLAGES, CHURCHES, RURAL HOMES, INSTITUTIONS, ETC., THE KEYSTONE APPARATUS AFFORDS THE MOST PERFECT MEANS OF ILLUMINATION YET DISCOVERED. PAMPHLETS AND FULL INFORMATION ON APPLICATION. KEYSTONE SAFETY GAS MACHINE CO.; J. B. WILSON, PRES.; C. H. BAKER, SEC.; 717 SANSOM ST., PHILADELPHIA; 110 LIBERTY ST., NEW YORK.

1875.

CHEAPER AND BETTER THAN EVER.

THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE, if ordered now, will be sent until Jan. 1, 1876 (nearly thirteen months), postage paid, for $2; or, in clubs, at the yearly club rates. Any one may order it between now and the 1st of February next, for one, two or three months, at the rate of TEN CENTS PER MONTH; and this, after the 1st of January, postage paid. NO EXTRA CHARGE is made for addressing papers to each member of a club—practically a reduction of thirty cents a year from the previous lowest rates.

After Jan. 1 POSTAGE on THE TRIBUNE will be paid by the office WITHOUT CHARGE TO THE SUBSCRIBER. THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE thus becomes to subscribers in clubs THE CHEAPEST, as it has long been the best, paper published.

Agents wanted in every town.

Address, for specimen copies, posters and rates of commission, THE TRIBUNE, New York.

TRYING ON THE BOOTS!

This fellow is in trouble. And no wonder! For the new boots he has bought, without first trying them on, will not fit. He might learn a lesson from the little fellow who sent the following letter to the Publisher of the YOUNG FOLKS' NEWS:

"Dear Sir—Having heard of the YOUNG FOLKS' NEWS, I send for a specimen copy. I always find it the best way to try on my boots before I buy them. FREDDIE R."

Soon afterward came another letter, as follows: "Dear Sir—My little boy has examined the specimen numbers which you sent him, has tried the boots on, and likes the fit. So please send him the YOUNG FOLKS' NEWS for one year. FREDDIE'S FATHER."

Send a three-cent stamp for a Specimen Copy. Try on the boots first. They are sure to fit. Price only $1.25, and warranted to last for one year, with a handsome Chromo given "to boot." The paper for one year, postage paid, and the choice of four Chromos, $1.25. Or the paper, with either Chromo mounted, $1.50; or with two Chromos mounted, $2.25; $1.75; or with four Chromos mounted, $2.25. Mounted Chromos are ready for framing. Send a three-cent stamp for a Specimen Copy.

ALFRED MARTIEN, Publisher, 21 South Seventh St., Philadelphia.

W. D. ALLEN, FLORIST, 141 STATE ST., CHICAGO. BOUQUETS, Wreaths, Crosses and Floral Designs furnished to order. Catalogue of Plants sent free.

OPIUM MORPHINE HABIT speedily cured by Dr. Beck's only known & sure Remedy. NO CHARGE for treatment until cured. Call on or address DR. J. C. BECK, Cincinnati, O.

HOG RINGER.

15,000,000 Rings, 70,000 Ringers, 3,500 Tongs Sold. Hardware Dealers Sell Them. Ringer $1, Rings per 100 50cts, Tongs $1.25, by mail, post paid. Circulars free. Address H. W. HILL & Co. Decatur, Ill.

THE WEEKLY SUN. A large, eight-page, independent, honest and fearless newspaper, of 56 broad columns, especially designed for the farmer, the mechanic, the merchant and the professional man, and their wives and children. We aim to make the Weekly Sun the best family newspaper in the world. It is full of entertaining and instructive reading of every sort, but prints nothing to offend the most scrupulous and delicate taste. Price $1.20 per year, postage prepaid. The cheapest paper published. Try it. Address THE SUN, New York City.

WANTED AGENTS $10 PER DAY.

To sell the HOME SHUTTLE SEWING MACHINE. PRICE $25. Reader if you can make money selling the "HOME SHUTTLE," whether you are EXPERIENCED in the business or not. If you wish to buy a SEWING MACHINE for family use, our circulars will show you how to save money. Address JOHNSON, CLARK & Co., CHICAGO, ILL.

Canned Fruits and Vegetables

Of the Choicest Kinds Within Reach of All.

Case of 24 cans assorted Table Fruits, $5.50. Case of 24 cans assorted Vegetables, $4.50. The country has been flooded with inferior goods. Purchasers will find our assortment the best and cheapest. Sent on receipt of price.

F. A. WAIDNER, 45 River St., Chicago.

S. H. HARRIS SAFE THE BEST

MANUFACTORY AND SALESROOM, 23 & 25 RANDOLPH ST., CHICAGO

STEINWAY

Grand, Square and Upright Pianos,

Superior to all others. Every Piano Warranted for Five Years. Illustrated Catalogues, with Price List, mailed free on application.

STEINWAY & SONS, Nos. 107, 109 & 111 East 14th Street, New York.

OPTIC'S MAGAZINE, 1875

Now is the time to Subscribe! The New Volume will contain New Stories by Oliver Optic, Elijah Kellogg and others, besides many new features, all of which are duly set forth in our Prospectus. Terms $3.00 per year, in advance. Specimen number mailed free on application.

LEE & SHEPARD, Publishers, Boston.

DUNHAM PIANOS.

Dunham & Sons, Manufacturers, Warerooms, 18 East 14th Street. [Established 1834.] NEW YORK.

Send for Illustrated Circular and Price List.

BECKWITH PORTABLE FAMILY SEWING $25. MACHINE DOUBLE THREAD BECKWITH S. M. Co. NEW YORK & CHICAGO.

DON'T YOU KNOW? THE GREAT AMERICAN MONTHLY.—The popular people's paper of America, THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER, enters upon its 13th year with 1875. This year it wishes YOU to subscribe. You have delayed quite long enough. It will save you money, and make your home and family better and happier. $1.00 only.

YOUR WIFE Wants to read the charming stories, poems, tales, sketches and invaluable recipes for cooking, &c., &c. Make her, make your home and all in it happy. TAKE THE BANNER.

YOUR CHILDREN Want to read our "Children's Department;" Enticing Rebuses, Riddles, Enigmas, Charades, Puzzles and Conundrums, with an immense quantity of delightful reading. Our Medical Department gives information on ALL medical matters. We answer all kinds of questions free in our "Answers to Correspondents."

OLD, Young, Rich, Poor, ALL want the BANNER. Remember IT IS THE PEOPLE'S PAPER, popular, and already read by 150,000 delighted people. We need agents, but we want your dollar and your name. Superb premiums to all. Send 6 cts. for specimen to BANNER PUBLISHING CO., Hinsdale, N. H.

A Beautiful Gift FOR YOUR CHILDREN.

THE LITTLE CORPORAL For 1875.

Emily Huntington Miller, Editor.

Each number of the magazine contains matter suitable to the Little Folks, the Young Folks and the Old Folks who have young hearts. All new subscribers for next year, whose names are received before January 1st, will receive the remaining numbers of this year free. Beautiful Premiums for clubs. We want agents everywhere to raise clubs. Now is the time to begin. Send stamp for Premium List. Terms for 1875 are: Single copies, $1.50 a year; five copies for $6, and a premium to the person sending the club. Specimen numbers, 10 cents.

Webster's Primary Dictionary, new Illustrated Edition; 352 pages, 200 engravings; cloth and leather binding. Price, postpaid, 75c; or Little Corporal one year and Dictionary, postage paid on both, for only $1.60.

Webster's Common School Dictionary, with Synonymes, useful Tables, List of Foreign Words and Phrases; 400 pages, 250 engravings; cloth and leather binding. Price, postpaid, $1; or the Corporal one year and Dictionary, both postpaid, for $1.90.

You are invited to subscribe. Address JOHN E. MILLER, Publisher, 164 Randolph street, Chicago, Ill.

DR. WHITTIER, No. 617 St. Charles Street, St. Louis, Mo.

continues to treat all cases of obstacles to marriage, blood impurities, every ailment or sickness which results from indiscretion or imprudence, with unparalleled success. Dr. W.'s establishment is chartered by the State of Missouri, was founded and has been established to secure safe, certain and reliable relief. Being a graduate of several medical colleges, and having the experience of a long and successful life in his specialties he has perfected remedies that are effectual in all these cases. His patients are being treated by mail or express everywhere. No matter who failed, call or write. From the great number of applications he is enabled to keep his charges low. 36 pages, giving full symptoms, for two stamps.

MARRIAGE GUIDE,

[illegible] pages, a popular book which should be read by everybody. No married pair, or persons contemplating marriage, can afford to do without it. It contains the cream of medical literature on this subject, the results of Dr. W.'s long experience; also the best thoughts from late works in Europe and America. Sent sealed, post-paid for 50 cts.

MARRIAGE GUIDE An interesting Illustrated work of 260 pages, containing valuable information for those who are married or contemplate marriage. Price 50 cts. by mail. Address Dr. Butts' Dispensary, 12 North Eighth Street, St. Louis, Mo.

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

R. H. McDONALD & CO., Druggists and Gen. Agts., San Francisco, California, and cor. of Washington and Charlton Sts., N. Y. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers.

$25 PER DAY Commission or $30 a week Salary and expenses. We offer it and will pay it. Apply now. G. Webber & Co., Marion, O.

Prof. D. Meeker's PAINLESS OPIUM CURE!

The Only Successful Remedy of the Present Day. Send for Paper on Opium Eating, its Consequences and Cure. P. O. Box 475, - - Laporte, Ind.

C. N. U. No. 50

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

Auburn Courier.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1874.

Dan Voorhees is recommended by the republican press as the democratic candidate for United States Senator. No doubt these gentlemen are very anxious that Dan should be the coming man, so that, being the anti-war democrat and a salary grabbers, they could howl loud and long for the next two years about our recreancy to pledges and principles.

* * *

Wilbur F. Story, proprietor of the Chicago Times, was married to Mrs. Eurake E. Pearson, a dashing and beautiful young widow of thirty four years, on Wednesday last. It is said among other presents that he deeded the new bride a half interest in the Times, which would be equal to a dowry of half a million dollars yearly. This is Mr. Story's third marriage.

* * *

There has been more misapprehension concerning the decision of the supreme court on the mixed school question than usually followed the decisions of the branch. This partly arises from ignorance of the scope and effect of the decision, and partly from a wilful purpose to misrepresent it.—The court does not deny to colored children all privileges in the public schools enjoyed by white children but that here there is any objection to white and colored children being educated in the same schools, that the trustees shall provide separate schools for each. That is all there is of it.

* * *

In 1869 a Republican legislature passed a law providing for the education of colored children in seperate schools, and a Republican Governor approved it. The Supreme Court his recently decided this law constitutional and the whole Republican rump unite in denouncing the decision as the first fruits of the recent Democratic victories. Either the Republican legislature and Governor were ignorant of the constitution or prejured themselves in passing or approving this law or the recent decision is right. How does Governor Baker and the Republican members of the legislature of '69 like the position in which these blatent political fools are placing them?—When the republicans made this law it was all right; when a Democratic Supreme Court decides it constitutional, it is all wrong. Such hypocrsiy ought to disgust every decent man in the party.—Wabash Free Trader.

* * *

President Grant's brother has been appointed military trader for the posts on the Upper Missouri, Orvilie L. Grant thus secures one of the richest places in whold Indian country. Besides the privilege to supply provisions for the troops stationed at those posts, the trader usually has control of the transportation of the goods sent thither for the large Indiana tribes of the northwest. To an Indian trader 500 per cent. is only a small profit, and he sometimes makes 1,000 per cent This can easily be accomplished by stealing about one-half of the goods forwarded by the government to the agencies, and selling to the Indians at advanced prices. Our correspondents tells how Grant' predecessors once stopped a steamboat in the midst of the river, and transferred half the cargo to an other boat, which followed up and arrived at the post later. The stolen cargo was then unshipped and the goods which actually belonged to the Indians, were sold to them at such prices as the Indian ring men chose to ask. And if anybody thinks that a member of the Grant family will fail to emulate and even surpass all his predecessors in this line of business, he will be greatly disappointed.—New York World.

* * *

The Right Kind of Doctrine.

The Terre Haute Gazette, a Republican paper, but which supported the Democratic ticket during the last campaign, after giving its reasons for doing so, at considerable length, preaches the following right kind of doctrine which every Democrat and Republican who supported the successful ticket in this State, can fully endorse: "The Gazette, in thus coming forward, out of the leadership of the Republican party is entitled to a hearing before the Democratic members of the Legislature of Indiana, who will at the next session, elect a man to the United States Senate. We adopt the remarks of the Gazette and present them to our readers, knowing that they will be adopted by all. That paper continues; "But to speak positively, it was the corruption of the Republican party that drove the Gazette away from its support. There was to much of Grant and his relatives, of Shepherd and his ring of Casey and Kellogg, of Murphy, Leet and Stocking, of Carpenter and Pomeroy, of Chorpening and Sanborn, of Simmons and Butler, of Credit Mobilier and Salary Grab. It has come to be a question not so much of how revenue should be collected, whether by tariff or direct taxation, as whether any revenue once collected should ever reach the national treasury or should it all stick to the fingers of the collectors. It became less a question of how what money was in the treasury should be expended, than of how the executive and his horde of retainers and a venal salary grabbing Congress could be prevented from pocketing it all themselves. Upon these points the issue came down to the bed rock, just as it did during the war when men cared less for the way in which the government should be conducted that they did for the question of its preservation. The Republican party was beaten because at its core it was a mass of reeking, festering corruption.

The Democracy was chosen in its stead, because it has seemed to offer a fairer promise of honesty. The courses of the two parties in their treatment of their rascals have been conspicuously unlike. The Republican party has not infrequently elevated its rascals. The Democratic party has invariably punished its. Upon a pledge of continuance of that policy Democracy went before the people at the last election and it won.

And this brings us to a question now before the Democracy of the State If we shall speak harshly it is because we feel deeply and will not see a party upon the very threshold of a glorious victory commit an act of political folly which will not only cause it to lose the State, but, possibly the nation, in the next contest. Daniel W. Voorhees' claims to be a candidate for the United States Senate and his friends are urging his claims with an immense amount of zeal, if not with much discretion. The Gazette has no words of personal unkindness to utter against Mr. Voorhees, against him as an aspirant for the United States Senate the Gazette has much to say. The most obnoxious piece of legislation during the last decade was the back-salary steal. Look at it what way you will, it is bad, wholly bad. It was the main argument against the Republican party and on that rock it split and went to pieces. It was nothing more nor less than men who had agreed to perform a certain service for a certain reward at the end of their term of service putting their hands into the National Treasurer and taking thence not the sum their masters, the people had agreed to give them, not the sum they had agreed to take, but an additional sum. The word which would be used to disignate such an act, if committed by an ordinary person, is a very harsh one, and is found in the criminal code In the passage of the back salary bill Benjamin F. Butler, of Massachusetts the champion of the bill, was ably assisted by Mr. Voorhees. The two the Republican Butler of Massachuetts and the Democrat Voorhees of Indiana, worked shoulder to shoulder.—They were the two Dromios of that tragedy of errors, the salary grab. The Republicans of his district nominated Butler for Congress, but the people defeated him at the polls, by a majority that emphasized their condemnation, and yet Benjaman F. Butler is very briliant man intellectually, and a glorious good fellow socially.—By their sticking to Butler and his ilk the Republcan lost the whole State.—Do the Democrats of Indian think their hold upon the State, is any stronger than the hold the Republican party had upon Massachusetts? Let them then have a care how they imperil their future prospects by supporting a man with such a record. Do Legislators remember the character of the speeches they made during the campaign? Do they remember what they said about Republican corruption? Do they reflect upon the figures they shall cut upon the stamp when they shall come, upon their return, to their homes, to give an account of their stewardship? Will they not sink abashed into their seats when some constituent shall ask them what they did to prove that Democracy meant purification and reform? Will they consider it an answer to say that they sent the United States Senate the one man in the Democratic delegation in Congress, from Indiana, who was most conspicious in his support of, and who has stuck the tightest to his back pay?

We await the action of the next Legislature upon this point with a view of determining to which party we belong." Evidently the Gazette works upon the theory that a dishonest Democratic official is to be shunned as much by an honest constituency as a Republican. Most people are similarly impressed in this section of the country.

SAINT NICHOLAS
At Home.

SANTA CLAUS IN HIS GLORY.

If you visit Fort wayne do not fail to visit at

Henry W. Bond's

FANCY, DRY
GOODS, AND LADIES' FURNISHING STORE
AT
21 West Main St.

A few doors west of the Court House.

where will be found the finest display

OF HOLIDAY GOODS

in the city. Fancy Dry Goods, Notions, Toys Books, Soaps, Combs, Brushes, Blankets, Embroideries of all kinds, Zephyrs and Germantown Yarns, Floss, &c. Table Linen, Towlings, Napkins, Flannels, Underwear, for ladies and gentlemen. Boys Misses and Childrens Hosiery, Gloves Corsets Buttons and many novelties too numerous to mention. Articles suitable for presents for Christmas, Newyears, weddings, Birthdays, Christening anniversaries, &c. in large stock. The goods have to be seen to be appreciated. An invitation is extended to all to come and see me.

HENRY W. BOND
Fort Wayne, Ind.

HOLIDAY GOODS.

Root & Company.

At their Popular Dry Goods House

New York Store.

Are now offering the largest and most extensive variety of Holiday Goods they have ever had the pleasure of showing. All at prices within reach of the most economical.

EXAMINE Before You Buy!

Black Dress Silks.
Colored Dress Silks,
Black Cashmeres
Colored Cashmeres.
French Merinos.
Empress Cloth.
Mourning Goods,
Medium Price } Dress Goods.
Low Price }
Paisley Long Shawls,
Paisley Square Shawls,
India Square Shawls,
Ottoman Stripe Shawls,
Gentlemen's Shawls
Boy's Shawls.
Elegant Beaver Cloaks.
Velvet Cloaks,
Children's Cloaks,
Seal Skin Saques,

FINE FURS,
—For—
Ladies, Misses and Children. At Greatly Reduced Prices.

FANCY WOOLENS

in Nubias, Hoods Scarfs, Leggins Knit Jackets, Mittens Wristlets Also an immence stock of Merino Underwear for Ladies Gentlemen's Misses and Boys wear.

FANCY GOODS

in new Ties Jet Belts new Embroidered French Setts Initial H'dk'fs Silk Muffs New Lace Article Hem Stitch H'dk'fs Lace H'dk'fs Silk H'dk'fs new Hosiery new Gloves and Gauntlets with many other goods too numerous to mention.

SPECIAL BARGAINS
—IN—
White Blankets Colored Blankets Lap Robes White and Colored Flannels Cloaking, Beavers, Waterproofs, Men's and Boys' Cassimeres, Jeans Housekeeping Linens and Cottons, Curtain Goods Calicos and other domestic Goods.

To Get Thoroughly Posted on Prices take a look at ROOT AND COMPANY'S
Ft. Wayne Ind.,

The Newest & Best
The Mammoth House
19 WEST MAIN-ST.,
FORT WAYNE, IND.

M. E. Woodward!
Has just received the finest and largest stock of Clothing,
PIECE GOODS, ETC.
at his new store, ever in the place.
NO OLD GOODS!
and Fashionable Furnishing Goods, Boys ng &c. Don't fail to visit the new store.

THE NEW
Drug Store!
FRESH DRUGS,
Medicines, Chemicals, Spices,
Dyes,
Combs,
Brushes,
Perfumery,
Proprietary Articles,
Fancy Goods, &c., &c
....
Wines and Liquors!
For Medical purposes only.

Stock New, prices to suit the times at the
NEW DRUG STORE,
Wood's old Stand!
Seventh St. Auburn, Ind.
Littlefield Bros.
Physicians prescriptions dispensed from pure medicines, day and night.

The Pioneer
HADWARE
Emporium!
Now full to overflowing with an Immense stock of
HEAVY AND SHELF
Hardware, Cutlery, Tin Ware.

I would call special attention to my department of
HARDWARE,
FURNISHING & BUIDERS STOCK,
in which will be found everything at the very LOWEST PRICES,
Such as:—
OILS, PAINTS,
GLASS,
NAILS,
SASH,
DOORS, ETC.

—A FIST-CLASS—
Tin-Shop,
in connection with the Hardware Store, with a skillful foreman. All kinds of Tin-ware manufactured and repaired on short notice.
JOHN L. DAVIS,

Special Inducenemts
FOR THE NEXT
30 DAYS!
TO CASH BUYERS, AT MILLER & CASEBEER'S,
CORNER MAIN & NINTH STREETS.

STORE ESTABLISHED IN 1839.
Dry Goods and Notions.
No. 1 Columbia Street,
Fort Wayne, Ind.
GEO. DeWALD & CO.
We have a large and attractive stock of Goods, bought for Cash, and which will be sold at a small advance
Please examine our stock and compare prices
The Best Goods at the Lowest Prices.
Geo. DeWald & Co
AGENTS, IN FORT WAYNE, FOR THE SALE OF
E. Butterick & Co's PATTERNS OF GARMENTS
AND THEIR CELEBRATED SHEARS AND SCISSORS

A NEW STORE!
With an entire stock of
NEW GOODS!
BOOTS & SHOE
at the lowest PRICES.
J. E. WOODFORD, has located at Auburn with a fine new stock of BOOTS & SHOES, which will be sold at the lowest figures for
CASH ONLY
all and examine this bran new stock, as there are no old goods that have been on the shelf for years. Store on Main street opposite Fluke's residence, Auburn, Ind.

ELLSWORTH, ANDREW & CO.,
SUCCESSORS TO
JOHN MAC DOUGAL, DEALERS IN CARPETS,
Oil Cloths,
Curtains & Fixtr's
26 East Berry street.
Fort Wayne, Ind.
The Best and Cheapest place to by Carpets in the city.

Pittsburg, Baltimore & Ohio R.R
IS COMING.
Therefore buy your
Dry Goods,
Notions, etc., of
CHARLES KLOTZ
AT THE
Old Stand
ON MAN STREET,
Opposite Court Square
AUBURN, INDIANA
Where he may be found at all times ready to accommodate customers, and sell them such goods as they may need.
CLOTHING
Of all descriptions, and
HANDSOME SUITS
Made to Order!
GREATLY IMPROVED.

T. B. TOTTEN
DEALER IN
Hats, Caps,
AND GENTS'
Furnshing Goods!
Ladies' and Gents' HAND VALISES
MODERWELL & FOWLER'S FINE SHIRTS
Made to Order.
Paper and Envelopes, Choice CIGARS & TOBACCO
Also a specialty in Jas. Harper & Co's.
SILK HATS,
and old styles made new as ever
BY CALLING ON T. B. TOTTEN,
In Hebel's Corner

J. J. VanAuken,
COUNTY SURVEYOR.
Will attend promptly to all surveying. Office with Rose & Hartman, Auburn Indiana. Persons requesting work by letter, should give township and section.

Auburn Courier.

Butter [illegible].
Potatoes 50
Oats, 48 cts.
Apples 45 cts.
Eggs, 18 cents,
Corn 48 @ 50 cts.
Wheat, white, $1
Wood $1.75 @ $2.
Live hogs 5½c per pound.

Local and Miscellaneous.

The Central Grocery.

Holidays fast approaching.

See Root & Co's new ad.

The roads are pretty good.

Furniture sets 30c at Abright's

Remember the Dramatic play.

Strangers are very plenty here.

Every kind of candies at the Central

Old pictures enlarged at the Auburn Gallery.

Wax Dolls at from 25c to 50c at Joe Abright's.

The Expressman and the Detective at Davenport's.

The crowd is all going to the Central for holiday presents

A large lot of those very cheap over Shoes at Woodford's.

TOYS, TOYS, TOYS! 'till you can't rest, at the Central.

Sheep, Cats, Dogs, Lions, Horses, Bears &c., 5cts at Abright's

Frozen Deep—Wilkes Collins latest, at Davenport's.

Be sure to call at the Auburn Gallery for christmas presents

Bric-a Brac. series at Davenport's.—They are splendid—see them.

A fine lot of engravings for sale already framed at the Auburn Gallery

The "big gals" are preparing to hang up their "yarn bags."

Abright means just what he says, as he is going to quit the toy business.

All the standard poets in guilt at Davenport's. Splendid holiday presents.

Remember the concert at Ensley's Hall next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings

The popular fancy store, at Fort Wayne of Henry W. Bond, has a new ad in today

Geo. DeWald & Co. have made a change in their advertisement this week. Look at it

Nothing is so appropriate for a holiday gift as a fine picture. You can get them at the Auburn Gallery.

Don't forget to go to the Central Grocery for christmas presents. Ed has a fine assortment, and sells cheap.

Get some of those beautiful pictures for christmas presents, at the Auburn Gallery Your children will appreciate them.

Piney—On Christmas everybody will be crowding around the Central Grocery so thick, that we expect to see a fight

The Market is over stocked with wood and consequently it is selling very reasonable—from $1 to $2 50 pr cord

The Central is the boss place to buy TOYS, CANDIES, &c., for christmas presents. Nice wax Dolls at cost.

The Lipscott AXES at the Excelsior Hardware store, are selling cheaper than than they ever sold before.

A splendid programme has been arranged for the Concerts next week, at Ensley's hall, by the Conservatory.

The drug store at Newville was burned to the ground on the 6th and most of the contents consumed. The loss is estimated at $2,000.

The Plymouth Democrat has just put in a new power press, and it is now justly regarded as one of the best papers in the State.

The only son of Theo. Swihart, about 5 years old, died very suddenly last Monday. The funeral services were held at the Baptist church.

Mr. E. S. Fitch, formerly of Waterloo, now in the Jewelry business at Albion, fell down stairs the other day and broke his crippled leg.

Mrs Little and A. Fair are selling velvet hats, trimmed up nobby, for one dollar.—Don't let this rare opportunity pass without getting one.

The trains on the Saginaw road changed time last Sunday. The mail goes south now at 9:38 Some little change in the other trains.

Lost—On last Tuesday, a tarrier pup about 4 months old, belonging to Wm. Little. A reward will be paid for its recovery by leaving it at this office.

Dr. Fox has erected a huge pen for his unruly patients. He wont receive anything for prescription but greenbacks—gold or silver refused.

NOTICE.

The undersigned wishes to announce to the public, that his son Alfred G. Haynes, has left his bed and board, and he will not be responsible for any debts he may contract. SAML. S. HAYNES

Baron Von Hebel, one of our most enterprising Irish (as the name would indicate) capitalists, is getting the material on the ground for his mammoth block to be erected the coming year.

$100..........PER MONTH..........$100.

Agents are making $100 per month selling the Howe Sewing Machines. Liberal commissions paid to live, energetic men, to canvass. Apply to R. S. Kester, Auburn. 46t4.

King Kalakaua, usually pronounced, "Calico," went through Fort Wayne last week. The local papers there interviewed the gentleman and are therefore taking much credit to themselves and their superabundance of cheek.

The American Express Company does the business on the Baltimore road, and the rates from Chicago and other points are quite reasonable. The American is one of the prominent companies of the country, and is rapidly increasing their business.

The Mistress of the Manse, Holland's last at Davenport's.

THE GREAT REMEDY.

"Dr. King's New Discovery" for Consumption and all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs. For sale at Davenport's drug store. Sample trial bottle free of charge

The Young Folk's Social met at the residence of Mr. Lauferty, last Tuesday evening. The attendance was quite large and a gay and festive time had. We are glad to note the success of this society.

Union-tp., holds an Institute in Waterloo on Saturday of this week, Dec. 19.—Not only the teachers of the country schools, but those in the graded schools of Auburn and Waterloo, are expected to attend. It is expected to be a meeting of unusual interest

The Auburn Social Dance Club will give one of their enjoyable hops on Christmas night, at Ensley's Hall. It will be a neat, select affair, which the best class of lovers of the dance can attend with perfect propriety. It will be conducted under the auspices of the club and will no doubt be recherche affair.

Crandal's Blocks and Games at cost at Abright's.

DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY.

Cures all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs. Never known to fail. Every bottle warranted to give satisfaction or money cheerfully refunded. For sale at Davenport's drug store. Sample bottles free. Try it.

The Fort Wayne Sentinel says that, Mr. Henry Trentman, of Fort Wayne, has been visiting "Auburn, loveliest village of the plain." No reference to the fair sex in speaking of the plain, however.

We are glad it ventured the above explanation. Its plainly to be seen that the author of the above has been here, and knows whereof he speaks. We stand aside for no town on this score.

To Taxpayers of Auburn.

The town tax for 1874, is now due, and the marshal is ready for its collection.—He will be found at Ralston's store, and all are requested to call and pay up.

A. J. RALSTON, MARSHAL

Perfumery, combs, brushes, toilet goods &c, for the holidays at Davenports.

We understand that Mr. Wm. Leighty, has established a hack line between St. Joe depot, on the Baltimore road, and Spencerville, so that parties wishing to visit that enterprising town may be assured that a good rig will be in waiting to and from all trains, except in the night

Proclamation.

I have concluded that from this date I will sell out my stock of Toys, Dolls, &c., at cost, to make room for other goods.—Call in and make your selections early before the rush begins. J. ABRIGHT.

Davenport has a very large assortment of Albums, cheap and elegant

Examination of Teachers.

No further regular examination will be held until March, as the the teachers for the winter schools are nearly, or quite, all engaged; and I wish to have, all my time for institute work. But should any require examination, time and place can be settled by applying to me.

JAMES A. BARNS, Co., Supt.
Waterloo, Nov. 28, 1874.

Grand opening at Abright's from Dec. 19th to 24th, 1874

M. B. GOODMAN,

the popular tinner, who has been connected so long with D. D. Snyder's hardware store, has gave up his situation and will go into business for himself. Mr. G. has the reputation of being a tip-top workman, as specimens of his skill about our city will testify. He is now located in Link's old stand, on Seventh-st., where our friends can secure his services in anything appertaining to his trade, and can rest assured of getting a first-class job of work.

Two Grand Concerts.

Next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings the Conservatory and Musical Convention under the direction of Prof. Straub, will give two concerts, and an excellent programme has been made out for each. It is hoped our citizens will turn out and show their appreciation of the art.

Coming Events.

A grand display of Holiday Goods for everybody and their friends at HOUSER'S consisting of the finest and latest books from our best authors, also a fine lot of English and German Bibles; Juvenile and toy books, Albums, Autographs, Writing Desks, Stereoscopes and Views, Harmonicas, and everything to please. Call and see for yourselves at the New Book Store north of court house Auburn, Ind.

Sedan Items.

A select company assembled last Saturday evening at the residence of Mr. C. Tryon, to witness the marriage of his eldest daughter Nancie, to Mr. Jas Booth, of Waterloo, Esquire Urie officiating in his usual pleasing style. The bride's father made a neat little speech full of loving assurance for the happy couple. A grand nuptial feast was then indulged in, embracing a choice bill of fare. Peace, prosperity and happiness attend the "Two hearts that beat as one."

The Lutheran and M. E. Denominations are holding a series of meetings here and have declared their intentions to take Sedan for the Lord. But few have yet surrendered. C

✓EDITOR COURIER—The following figures show the number of pounds of freight forwarded and received at the Detroit, Eel River & Ill. R. R. Depot in Auburn for the first year of doing business at this station, commencing Nov. 1st, 1873, and ending Nov. 1st, 1864.

No. of pounds of freight rec'd..40,385,097
" " forwarded. 7,371,580

Total 47,726,677

for which we thank shippers generally and hope by their assistance to be able to show up larger figures at the close of the present year. We have done better than we anticipated, for the first year, considering that we had to build up our trade in opposition to competing lines and panic times. Our passenger trade has been moderate, not as good in proportion as freight, but we hope to see an increase in this line of business. Through rates on freight given to all eastern points on application. Yours,

E. S. SHANER, Agt.

Circuit Prosecutor W. B. McConnell, has removed his office from Angola to Albion, where he will continue in the practice. The New Era says, Wm. B. McConnell, Esq., Prosecuting Attorney of this Judicial Circuit, was in town on Monday, and visited the court-room where the Board of Commissioners were in session. Billy is young, but in the discharge of arduous duties of his office, he has exhibited in a rare degree the combined qualifications of ability, industry and integrity, and has already won a most enviable distinction and popularity as a public official. No more unmistakable and flattering evidence of public confidence was ever vouchsafed than his election in a circuit usually republican to the tune of about 800 majority—by the overwhelming majority of 773 over a popular competitor—J. L. Morlan, Esq; and the result was the more gratifying to Mr. M. and his friends because of the fact that it was due to the manner in which he had acquitted himself during the preceding year. He was first elected, specially, and without opposition, after the formation of the circuit; and so well discharged the functions of the office as to win, at the next regular election, this splendid endorsement. A resolute continuance in well-doing will not fail to secure him higher honors here after.

Court Items.

The twelve applications for divorce at this term, may be an index to the condition of matrimonial life in this county.—Of this number three males and nine females asked for a decree, which would indicate that the men are better satisfied with their fate than the women.

The following cases are to be tried by jury to commence to day:

Armstrong Heater Co	vs.	H. Heist, Comp
Ft W. J. & S. R R	vs.	H. Husselman
A. H. Kester	vs	J. W. Jeffords
S. Miller	vs	B Bowman
J. H. Houser	vs	J. G. Somers
Catharine Hammond	vs	C. Brandaberry
P. P. Mast & Co	vs	John Wyatt
1st Nat. Bank Napoleon	vs	R. J. Lent
J. L. Davis	vs	S. Lauferty

The following cases by agreement of attorneys to be tried by the court:

Dennis Dove	vs	B S Baily et. al
John McClellan	vs	J L Berry
Jam Porter	vs	J Ferrier
State of Indiana	vs	John Hebel
Ellen A Freeburn	vs	C W Freeburn
E R Leas	vs	Geo Ensley
Henry Sailor	vs	Angus McClellan
W W Washburn	vs	Jacob Ferrier
Oliver Benward	vs	J D Ferguson
Mary Schwifger	vs	Jas Clark

FOR SALE OR RENT.—A neat and commodious dwelling in the lower part of town for sale cheap. Apply to C. F. MADER. 46tf.

NOTICE.

At the December Term of the DeKalb Circuit Court, the Estate of James M. Rex deceased was declared probably insolvent. Those interested are notified that it will be settled accordingly.

Dec, 10th, 1874. A. B. REX. Adm'r

Corunna Items.

F. F. Franks is just recovering from a series of sickness from typhoid fever.

One of our most prominent citizens took a muffler and pair of gloves of one of our farmer boys.

The U. B. Church is being finished up with great rapidity, and will soon be ready for a grand festival.

Theo. McCormas is noted as the best master of boot & shoe making that was ever in the village.

There is an effort being put forth to establish a billard hall, by two professional billiardists of Auburn. Come on.

W. B. Adams is improving the village nicely by rebuilding and building new store rooms. This is what more of our citizens should do.

Frank Kline punished his favorite dog for jumping through the window, by tying a tin can to his tail, which caused the loss of the dog by running himself to death.

The schools are now under headway.—Adam Conrad, with his able assistant Emory Metz, are striving to conduct the school in a proper manner. We hope at the close of the term there will be some advancement made. C.

Commissioners' Proceedings.

The Board of Commissioners met Monday of last week and transacted the following business:

PETITIONS.

By J. E. Case and others for vacation of a public highway in Fairfield-township Viewers appointed, J. R. Thompson, J W. Clark and Philip Cornell

By R. M. Lockhart and others for opening and improving road along the northern line of Union-tp. Continued to Mar. session.

By J. J. Imhoff for vacation of a road in Stafford-tp. Viewers appointed, Noah Showalter, Jerry Lewis and Martin Hook. Time, 30 days of Dec

By Wesley Jackman for appropriation to bride road in Smithfield-tp. Continued until March session.

The petition presented at September session for a bridge in Richland-tp was continued until March session

The petition presented at Sept term for vacation of an alley in Waterloo was dismissed.

By F. Groscop and others for a road in Union-tp Dismissed

By S. A Kamage and others for a change of road in Fairfield-tp Continued until Mar. session

REPORTS.

The Viewers appointed on petition for a road on line between DeKalb and Noble counties report favorably. Report accepted and road located

The Grand Jury made the usual report in regard to jail.

The viewers appointed on the petition for the location of a road in Smithfield-tp report favorably. Road located

Viewers appointed on the petition for the location of a road in Butler-tp. Report against location

Viewers appointed on a petition for the location of a road in Smithfield-tp. Report against location

Viewers appointed on a petition for location of road in Franklin-tp, disagree.—Other viewers appointed, J B Walker, A A Kingsley and C Bowman

L D Pattee submits quarterly report as Supt of County Asylum

No. of female inmates..............7
" " Male " 11

Total......................18

PALACE OF FASHION.

The Largest Clothing Establishment in Northern Indiana.

Great Inducements Offered During the Holidays.

Every one is familiar with the great "Palace of Fashion" No. 1 Keystone Block Fort Wayne, Indiana; therefore it is needless to mention to the citizens of Auburn and vicinity of the many advantages gained over others by dealing at this popular clothing emporium. This firm carries, without exception, the largest stock of clothing and gents' furnishing goods, and controls a larger trade than any one house in Northern Indiana, selling at from 15 to 20 per cent. lower than any one house in their line of business

Their stock is complete in every department, and are offering the next 30 days their large and complete stock at prices far below anything heretofore known for good clothing. They guarantee their prices to be the very lowest, having purchased their stock for cash and selling for cash, which thus enables them to sell goods at low prices.

For the coming holiday trade they have received a large shipment of clothing, hats and caps, underwear, &c., which they intend to dispose of at exceedingly lowfigures.

Their stock of Mens & Boys overcoats is immense.

If times are dull and money scarce, their trade seems to be on the increase, for the simple reason, they undersell all their competitors and guarantee their prices to be the very lowest. Great bargains offered during the holidays at the great "Palace of fashion" No. Keystone Block, Fort Wayne, Ind. J. NIRDLINGER, Pro

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed Administrator of the Estate of George Teutsch late of DeKalb County, deceased. Said Estate is supposed to be solvent.

PETER TEUTSCH. Adm'r
Dec., 10th, 1874.

PERSONAL.

The youngest son of J. G. Sommers is quite ill.

Col. Enoch Zollars, of Fort Wayne, paid our town his first visit the other day, the guest of E. Elson.

George Wagoner had his index finger amputated by the cutter, last week, while at work in the stave factory.

Mr. Scott's brother, of Ohio, has been visiting in our place for several days, and is well pleased with the town.

F. Kline and wife, and Miss Rosa Britton, of Corunna, were the guest of our townsman Mr. M. Kline, last Sabbath

Mrs. Cushing and three of her Brothers have located in our place, formerly of Ft. Wayne.

Samuel Puffenberger—laughing Sam—has been suffering from the effects of a sore throat for several days.

We issue the COURIER this week with twelve pages. The supplement contains the Presidents Message and other documents, which should have arrived in time for last week, but were delayed until too late.

The U. B. Church at Corunna, is to be graced with Andrews' stylish church pews, of Indianapolis. C. P. Houser is agent for this house and is ready to supply any other church that may need them

The Auburn Dramatic Company, composed of our best young men and ladies, will give two performances on the 31st of Dec. and 1st of January, at which time will be presented Cathleen Mavourneen, or Patricks Eve, with a good farce, Mischevous Servant. The receipts of the last evening will go to our band and we hope to see crowded houses on both occasions.

HERE'S SOMETHING NOVEL.

A Chance for Somebody to win a $500 City Lot in Rockhill's Addition.

Tickets Given Away.

A novel idea in the way of advertising has been brought to our notice by Messrs Sam Pete and Max, managers of the noted Star Clothing house. They propose to to distribute a thousand tickets between this and January 1st 1875. No one is asked to buy these tickets, or pay for them, in any way. It is simply a new method of advertising their establishment The lucky ticket will be determined by the Mayor of the city, before a number of prominent citizens. All the numbers from 1 to 1 00 will be placed in a wheel which will be shaken up, and the committee can decide whether the first or any preceeding number shall win the $500 prize, lot No. 69 corner Mechanic and Walnut streets Rockhill's 2d addition.—Every purchaser of clothing to the am't of ten dollars (10) will receive a ticket the purchaser selecting any number he desires.

No person will, under any circumstances, be allowed more than one ticket.

The clear title deed, paid in full, can be seen at the Star Clothing House No. 5 East Main st. Ft. Wayne Ind.

The following is from the Anti-Monopolist, St. Paul, Minn., Hon. Ignatius Donnelly, editor:

A Great Work.

This is with truth said to be an age of great works. New inventions and new achievements occupied the time, claim the attention, and are the rallying cries of this the nineteenth century. While this is true of the civilized world, it is emphatically true of the American people, so that the man whose mind can comprehend create, and produce something preeminently in advance of his time, has accomplished an achievement which will secure for him the sympathy, confidence and liberal of all classes of people who are benefitted by his originality of thought and boldness of execution.

As the latest and most striking illustration of this spirit of the age and the unquestioned prominence which we as a nation occupy in the field of invention and progress, we would call the attention of our readers to the stupendous work which has been nearly completed by A. T. Andreas, of Chicago, Illinois, the veteran map publisher of the West. We refer to his New Illustrated Historical Atlas Minnesota, which will be ready for distribution early in October, in less than ten months from the time his first solicitor entered the State. How a work of such magnitude can have been completed in such an incredibly short space of time none can perhaps answer save the experienced publisher himself. To the uninitiated, it seems more like one of the tales of the Arabian Nights Entertainments, than like the business achievement of an enterprising Western publisher.

This atlas is an encyclopedia of historical, biographical, geographical, educational, statistical, geological, climatical topographical, general and universal information; is complete and exhaustive, without being verbose; presenting facts in a style calculated to entertain and instruct alike the young and old, the farmer and mechanic, the artisan, the literary and professional men, in fact all who wish to gain information in regard to the past or present of Minnesota. It also contains the largest and best collections of portraits, of public and prominent men, and old settlers, ever published in this or any other State, together with beautiful executed views of the picturesque scenery from which Minnesota has long been noted also public and private buildings, residences etc., forming in this respect alone one of the most complete and elegant works of art ever published. These views and we have had the pleasure of examining very many of them in the office of the manager, Capt. Thos. H. Tompson, are true to nature and perfect gems of art.—Did the book contain nothing else but these portraits and engravings, it would be a work well worth the price which is asked for it.

The maps which are neatly and plainly printed in colors on a large scale, embraces every county, city, town, and section in the state; were drawn from actual surveys made at a large expense expressly for this work, and together with the most complete and convenient set of state map ever given to an appreciative public.

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed Administrator of the Estate of Ervin J. Crain, late of DeKalb County, deceased. Said Estate is supposed to be solvent.

ERVIN A. CRAIN, Adm'r
Dec. 15th 1874.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A Gentleman who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, Premature, Decay and all the effects of youthful indiscretion will for the sake of suffering humanity send free to all who need it, the receipt and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Suffers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN 42 Cedar St. New York.

NOTICE TO HEIRS OF PETITION TO SELL REAL ESTATE.

State of Indiana DeKalb County: Notice is hereby givin that John Martz Administrator [illegible] of Estate of Charles Ahrens, deceased [illegible] the decedent, his personal being insufficient to pay his debts; and that said petition will be heard at the next term of Circuit Court of said county.

J. R. LANNING Clerk,

To Consumptives.

The advertiser, having been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, (free of charge) with the directions for preparing and using the same which they will find a SURE CURE for Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, &c.

Parties wishing the prescription, will please address Rev. E. A. WILSON, 194 Penn St., Williamsburg, New York.

Auction, Auction

WM. E. RUSH

Has opened out, in Ward's building, a fine stock of

DRY GOODS, NOTIONS,

GENTS' UNDERWEAR, &c., which you can have at your own price. Private sale between auction hours.

Dr. Boschee's German Syrup.

Cough no more! How much joy there is in every household to know that they can at least procure a remedy for any case of coughs severe colds settled in the breast Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs that is certain to cure. It is a satisfaction to know that a person is safe from the dangers of these disease—all you need do is to go to F. E. DAVANPORT'S and get a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup, two or three doses will relieve you at once. If you dont what we say in p int get a sample bottle for 10 cents and try it or a regular size for 75 cents.

VICK'S FLORAL GUIDE, 1 OR 1875.

Published Quarterly.—Janaray Numbers just issued, and contains over 100 Pages, 500 Engravings, discriptions of more than 500 of our best Flowers and Vegetables, with Directions for Culture Colored Plate, etc.—The most useful and elegant work of the kind in the world.—Only 25 c for the year.—Published in English and German Address,

JAMES VICK, Rochester, N. Y.

NOTICE TO STOCKHOLDERS.

NOTICE is hereby given to the Stckholders of the North-Eastern Indiana Agricultural Association, that the Annual Meeting of the Stockholders of said Association will be held at the Engine House at Waterloo DeKalb County Indiana, at 2 o'clock p. m. on Monday January 4, 1875. Business of importance will come before the meeting, including the election of officers.

ALSO

That the books of said Association will be closed on the 14th day of December 1874, for the issuing of Shares. All those having unclaimed accrued dividends are requested to call at the Secretary's Office, and procure certificates of stock; in lieu of the same. By order of the Executive Committee.

JAMES L. CHAMBERLAIN, President.
JOHN BUTT Secretary.
Waterloo, Indiana, December 3, 1874.

PROCLAMATION.

—OF—

N. F. GENGNAGLE

To All Whom it May Concern

—0—

Know ye. That I have obtained a license from the Commissioners Court and am permitted to retail intoxicating liquors in my saloon in the town of Butler. To the wife who has a drunkard for a husband or a friend who is unfortunately dissipated I say emphaticlly give me notice in person of such cases in which you are interested, and all such shall be excluded from my bar Let fathers mothers sisters and brothers do likewise and their request will be regarded and always consider it a great favor by so doing: this is simply the sum and substance of the whole matter. I am permitted to sell whiskey and other intoxicating liquors and I want it understood that I have no desire to sell to drunkards and minors or to the poor or destitute. I much prefer that they save the money and apply it where it ligitimately belongs to their families. To those who wish to trade with me and can afford it, come and I will treat you gentlemenly courteously. Pay your cash, choose your drink and go about your business and it is your business and nobody elses business.

N. F. GENGNAGLE.
Dec, 10th 1874

To Contractors.

JAIL BUILDING.

AUDITOR'S OFFICE
AUBURN, INDIANA, December 3rd, 1874.

Sealed proposals will be received at the Auditor's office in Auburn, Indiana, until

JANUARY 15th, 1875,

at noon, for the furnishing of all material and labor required in the construction and completion of a jail in Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, according to plans and specifications furnished by T. J. Tolan & Son of Delphos, Ohio.

Plans and specifications can be seen at the Auditor's office in Auburn on and after this date.

The work is required to be completed by the 1st of November 1875.

All proposals must be accompanied by a certified bond in the sum of $1000 that the bidder or bidders will give the proper bond if awarded the contract. And no bid will be accepted unless such bond accompanies the bid.

The contractors will be paid in monthly estimates as the work progresses.

The Commissioners reserve the right to accept or reject any and all bids.

By order of the Commissioners.
ISAAC HAGUE, Auditor.

Colorado Excursions—Go West Thro St. Louis.

During the Summer Season, the Missouri Pacific and Kansas Pacific Through Line, via St. Louis and Kansas City, will sell Excursion Tickets from St. Louis to Denver and Return, good ninety days from date of sale, at extremely low rates thus affording every one an excellent opportunity to visit the famous resorts of Colorado, among the beautiful Parks of the Rocky Mountains.

To all who are seeking new homes and are about to take a trip to Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Nebraska, Oregon or California, we recommend a cheap safe, quick and direct route by the way of St. Louis, over the Missouri Pacific Through Line. It is equipped with fine day Coaches, Hoce's Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman's Palace Sleepers the famous Miller Safety Platform and the celebrated Westinghouse Air Brake and, runs its trains from St. Louis to principal points in the West without change. The Texas connection of this road is now completed and passengers are offered a first-class all-rail route from St. Louis to Texas, either over the Missouri, Kansas & Texas R. R., via Sedalia, or over the Atlantic & Pacific R. R., via Vinita.

For full information in regard to Colorado Excursions, or trips to any point in the Great West, address or call upon either of the following named Agents of the Line; J. F. Thompson, 187 Exchange St. Buffalo, N. Y.; S. H. Thompson, Union Depot, Columbus Ohio; or E. A. Ford Gen'l Passenger Agent, 23 South Fourth Street St. Louis, Questions will be cheerfully and promptly answered

Remember the Central Grocery Store on Christmas.

AUBURN COURIER

THURSDAY, DEC. 17, 1874.

NEWS SUMMARY.

The East.

EDWIN BOOTH'S theater, in New York, has been sold under the Sheriff's hammer. The property was bought by Oliver Ames, of Boston, for $365,000, subject to mortgages of $276,000....The "rapid transit" question continues to occupy the attention of New York.

WHILE a party of eight workmen were engaged in sinking a pneumatic cylinder, near [illegible] the cylinder exploded, killing four men and seriously wounding another.

THE suit of Miss Proctor against Moulton has been compromised. Benj. D. Silliman acted as referee, before whom Miss Proctor swore to the falsity of the charges made against her. It was also stipulated that Moulton should make an apology to Miss Proctor, as well as pay all costs incurred, amounting to over $5,000.

The West.

DAVID A. GAGE, the defaulting ex-City Treasurer of Chicago, has been tried at Waukegan, Ill., and acquitted.

A PARTY of five masked men stopped a passenger train on the Kansas Pacific road, near Kansas City, Mo., on the 8th inst., and robbed the safes of Wells, Fargo & Co. of about $30,000. The passengers were not molested.... Four children were drowned near Springfield, Ill., one day last week, while skating on the ice in the Sangamon river....Quite a sensation has been created in Chicago business circles by the shortcomings of Henry T. Thomas, a stockholder in and business manager of the Prairie Farmer newspaper, and junior member of the grange commission house of Reynolds, Corbett & Thomas. The amount of his defalcation, according to the Chicago papers, foots up about $30,000, and his forgeries of warehouse receipts to nearly $10,000. Thomas has fled to parts unknown.

THE Episcopal Convention at Davenport, for the election of a successor to the late Bishop Lee, of the diocese of Iowa, has chosen Rev. H. C. Potter, of Grace Church, New York.

The South.

THE Sheriff of Warren county, Miss., has resigned, in compliance with the demands of the Tax-payers' League of Vicksburg.

THERE is a dead-lock in the business of the New Orleans City Attorney's office, through a conflict of opinion between the City Council and Governor Kellogg as to whether Walshe or Jonas is entitled to the office. The city authorities will not allow Walshe to exercise the duties, and the courts will not recognize Jonas; so it makes a nice muddle.... A bold and daring robbery is reported from Corinth, Miss. Four mounted men rode up to the Tishomingo Savings Bank in broad daylight. Two of them entered the building, and compelled the President of the bank to surrender the keys of the safe, from which they took about $10,000 in currency and diamonds, mounted their horses and escaped in safety.

DISPATCHES received in Washington from Louisiana foreshadow trouble, and probably bloodshed, in that State. It is intimated that if the Returning Board counts in a Kellogg Legislature the most disastrous results may be anticipated.

Washington.

JUDGE DURELL, of Louisiana, has resigned to escape impeachment.

IT is stated that an offensive and defensive alliance has been formed between the Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific and cotton-tax lobbies .. Justice Bradley, of the United States Supreme Court, in a case involving the validity of the Enforcement act, pronounces that piece of legislation wholly unconstitutional....It has been decided by a majority of the Judges in Washington that the late grand jury which indicted the alleged safe burglars was illegally chosen, and therefore all the indictments by that grand jury are nullities.... The Postmaster-General has issued an order forbidding letter carriers issuing New Year's addresses calculated to induce the public to make them gifts....Walker Fearn succeeds Judge Durell, of Louisiana; and Mr. McArthur, of Philadelphia, steps into Supervising Architect Mullett's shoes.

THE Legislative, Navy, Army, Indian and Fortification bills, as reported to Congress by the respective committees on the first day of the session, provide for the following appropriations: Legislative, $19,653,484; Navy, $16,976,006; Army, $27,701,500; Indians, $4,861,507; Fortifications, 850,000....Commander Wm. B. Cushing, of the navy, has been confined in the Government Insane Asylum at Washington.

SECRETARY FISH has received an important dispatch from Minister Cushing, at Madrid, announcing that he had received an official communication from the Spanish Minister of Foreign Affairs, in which indemnification for the American citizens captured on the Virginius was virtually conceded....A nolle pros. has been entered in the safe-burglary case, and it has been given out that the Attorney-General will not prosecute it further.

Political.

JUDGE CATE gets the certificate of Congressman from the Eighth Wisconsin District, his majority over McDill being just two votes.

A BILL regulating the printing of election ballots in the South will be offered in Congress at an early day. It provides that the tickets of all parties shall be alike, except as to the names printed upon them, the object being to prevent espionage and intimidation at the polls.

General.

AFTER weeks of consultations and conferences, the Pittsburgh puddlers and iron manufacturers have come to a dead-lock, and the puddlers have thrown down the gauntlet and inaugurated a strike. Over 100,000 workmen are thus thrown out of employment.... The management of the Philadelphia Centennial Exhibition have given out that they do not intend to ask further for aid from Congress.

THE portion of the recent postoffice regulations for the prepayment of postage on newspapers and periodicals relative to county papers has been modified as follows: Newspapers, without regard to the frequency of issue, one copy to each subscriber actually for the time being residing in the county where the same are printed, are entitled to pass free of postage through the mails. But the rate of postage on the same, excepting weeklies, when deposited in a letter-carrier's office for delivery by the office or its carriers, shall be uniform at one cent each. Weeklies, when sent through the mails or deposited in a letter-carrier's office in the county where printed, shall be weighed in bulk, and be subject to a postage of two cents per pound, to be prepaid at the mailing-office by special adhesive stamps.

Foreign.

PRESIDENT MACMAHON, in his message to the French Assembly, which met a few days ago, urges the importance of legislation definitively establishing the republic....The trial of Count Von Arnim has been indefinitely postponed....The Argentine revolution is over, and the insurgents have received full amnesty....The Italian Parliament has unanimously voted an annuity to Garibaldi.

A [illegible] London Times, from Calcutta, says: "The government is satisfied that the Gwalior prisoner is not Nana Sahib." ....The English ship Pontiac, bound for India, has been burned at sea. Twenty-six of her crew perished....An English court has peremptorily ordered the production of the books and papers of the notorious Emma Mining Company.

THERE was a very exciting debate in the German Parliament, the other day, upon the estimates of the Foreign Office. Bismarck, in the course of his debate, said Germany recognized the Pope as the head of the Catholic Church, but required no legation at the Vatican. If negotiations with the Pope were necessary, they should be conducted through the Ambassador to Italy. Bismarck also asserted positively that Napoleon was driven into the Franco-Prussian war, against his will, by Jesuitical influences which he strove hard to resist.

SPANISH items: Marshal Serrano has at last hit upon a plan by which he hopes to crush out Carlism effectually and forever. It is, in brief, to occupy the entire line of the Pyrenees frontier, and, taking the Carlists in the rear, drive them towards the army of General Moriones....The bankers of Madrid have advanced 150,000,000 reals to the government, and the Rothschilds 30,000,000 more. ....A Madrid telegram says Spain has placed in the hands of Mr. Cushing a reply to Mr. Fish's note on the Virginius affair. Contents not revealed, but supposed to be amicable.

THE cable brings news of a violent gale on the southwest coast of England. A number of vessels were driven ashore, and many lives lost....The largest printing establishment in France—that of M. Danel, at Lille—has been destroyed by fire. Loss, $300,000.... News comes that the observation of the transit of Venus in India was a success, over 100 photographs being taken....At the hotel of the American Legation in Paris, Dec. 3, Minister Washburne presented to M. Oscar de la Fayette the watch which was originally given to the Marquis de la Fayette by Washington as a souvenir of the surrender of Lord Cornwallis. The watch was stolen from La Fayette while traveling in the United States in 1825, but afterward recovered.....Recent heavy gales on the English coast have caused much loss of life and damage to property afloat and ashore.

CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Dec. 7.—Senate.—The Senate was called to order precisely at 12 o'clock by Vice-President Wilson. After prayer by the Chaplain, Anthony (R. I.) offered a resolution instructing the Secretary of the Senate to inform the House of Representatives that a quorum of the Senate had assembled, and that the Senate was ready to proceed to business. Agreed to. ....Conkling and Thurman were appointed a committee to wait upon the President and inform him that they were organized and ready to receive any communication that he might desire to make....A recess until 1 o'clock was then voted, at which hour the Senate reassembled and listened to the reading of the President's message.

House.—Speaker Blaine called the House to order promptly at noon....Dawes, Beck and Hale were appointed a committee to wait upon the President....Phelps (N. J.) asked for unanimous consent to introduce and put on its passage a bill repealing the law relating to libels in the District of Columbia, commonly known as the "Press Gag law." Hale objected....At 1 o'clock the President's message was received and read.

TUESDAY, Dec. 8.—Senate.—Wright introduced a bill fixing the salary of the President. ....West introduced a bill for the construction of a United States government telegraph line between the cities of Washington and Boston....Chandler introduced a bill amendatory of section 10 of the National Currency act of 1864, and section 9 of the act of July 12, 1866.

House.—Poland, from the special committee on the Arkansas troubles, presented a report of the testimony taken during vacation, which was ordered printed....Bills introduced: Relating to the Omaha bridge; to extinguish the Indian title to the Black Hills reservation in Dakota; fixing the rates of duties on imported merchandise; to substitute United States notes for issues of national banks; to prohibit Congressmen from acting as counsel in suits against the United States (passed unanimously); to restore the duty of ten per cent. on certain manufactures of cotton, wood, iron, etc.; providing for an additional Congressman from Nebraska; proposing an amendment to the Constitution, providing that Congress shall not make anything but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of individual debts, and shall pass no law impairing the obligation of contracts; providing for free banking; directing inquiry into the subject of the importation of coolies under contract for servile labor, and of Chinese women for the purpose of prostitution; for the improvement of the Kanawha river; to abolish the tax on bank checks; authorizing the President to correspond with foreign nations concerning the establishment of a system of international arbitration; to regulate elections in certain Southern States; repealing the increase of the President's salary....The House, in committee of the whole, took up and discussed at length Kelley's scheme for the exchange of greenbacks into 3 65 convertible bonds. The bill was ordered printed.

WEDNESDAY, Dec. 9.—Senate.—Scott presented a remonstrance of the type founders of Chicago and other cities against the ratification of the Canadian reciprocity treaty, as far as it relates to type and type materials.... Ingalls presented a memorial from citizens of Kansas for an extension of time to homestead and pre-emption settlers on public lands, who have been compelled to abandon their claims by reason of the ravages of locusts.... Chandler presented a memorial of the National Association of Lumbermen against the proposed reciprocity treaty between the United States and Canada....Lewis introduced a bill amending the Pension laws.... Scott introduced a bill to aid in constructing the Southern Pacific railway.

House.—The Omaha bridge bill was postponed until the second Tuesday in February. ....The House referred various portions of the President's message to appropriate committees. The portion relating to Alabama was referred to the select committee on that subject, and the part referring to Louisiana and other Southern States to a select committee of seven....The remainder of the day's session was consumed in considering the bill continuing in existence the board created to audit the debt of the District of Columbia.

WAR OF RACES.

Fighting Near Vicksburg Between Whites and Blacks—A Number Killed and Wounded—Origin of the Trouble.

VICKSBURG, Dec. 7.—There has been for some time trouble brewing between the Taxpayers' Association and citizens and the county officials. The citizens claimed that the sheriff was acting without legal bond, and the Board of Supervisors refused to order a new one, though the time for paying taxes had arrived. Last Wednesday the citizens held a meeting, and, in a body, proceeded to the courthouse, to demand the resignation of the sheriff, chancery clerk, treasurer, an coroner. All fled except Sheriff Crosby, a negro, and he signed his resignation. On Saturday a card appeared on the streets, signed by Crosby, calling on all the citizens of Warren county, Republicans, white and black, to come to his aid and support him in his position. Crosby publicly and through the papers denied the authorship of the card; yet this morning an armed body of negroes appeared advancing on the city from six different roads.

The alarm was sounded about 9 o'clock, and the citizens gathered en masse, armed immediately, and advanced to meet the negroes. On Baldwin's ferry road, the negroes were met just outside the city, on Grove street, about 200 strong. The commander of the citizens warned the negroes to disperse, but they refused and immediately firing commenced on both sides. The negroes retreated about a mile, and again made a stand in old breast-works and a house, but were soon routed. The loss in this engagement was one citizen, Oliver Brown, killed, and about twelve or fifteen negroes killed, several wounded, and about twenty prisoners.

On Hall's ferry road about 250 negroes were found and routed, after a short engagement, with several killed and wounded.

Andrew Owens, the negro who commanded the negroes on Baldwin's ferry road, was captured and committed to jail.

In the interview with a Herald reporter, Owens said he was ordered by Sheriff Crosby to come to the city to-day with all the armed men he could get together.

Alex. Stockhouse, from Newton, one of the captured negroes, says the order for all the negroes to come to Vicksburg this morning was read in church on Sunday. Crosby, who is under guard at the Court-House, denies that he gave any such order.

It is reported this evening that the negroes are committing depredations in the country. The intense excitement that prevailed this morning has subsided to a great degree, yet many citizens are under arms, and all the roads picketed.

VICKSBURG, Miss., Dec. 8.—The excitement about the Court-House was intense this morning, but the commanders of the various companies restored quiet, and the lives of Peter Crosby and other persons are safe.

Lieut.-Col. O. S. Lee, Aid-de-Camp of Adjt.-Gen. Packer, and a committee of citizens met in the court-room to-day to decide what course to pursue. In a private interview between Packer, Lee and Crosby, Crosby expressed a desire to tender his resignation as Sheriff. Gen. Packer prepared his resignation, to take effect immediately, which he signed, and which was witnessed by Lee and Packer, and is now in possession of the latter.

At Snyder's Bluff, on the Yazoo river, at 5 p. m., while the whites were burying Oliver Byron, the young man killed in the charge yesterday, negroes fired on the burying party, wounding young Vaughn. The fire was returned by the escort, and three negroes were killed. A courier was sent for reinforcements. Great excitement prevailed. Reinforcements soon arrived from Carroll parish, Monroe and Delta.

Thirty-three negroes were killed and wounded in yesterday's fight.

VICKSBURG, Dec. 9.—The excitement is subsiding, and business generally resumed. Armed bodies of negroes are reported congregated at various places some miles from town. Some whites are still under arms, and strict watch is being kept on the approaches to the city.

The Board of Supervisors met to-day. Adjutant-General Packer presented the resignation of Sheriff Crosby, which was accepted. An election will be ordered for Sheriff soon.

Gov. Ames has issued a proclamation commanding the rioters to disperse on penalty. He has also convoked a special session of the Legislature to meet on the 17th inst., to take such action as may be necessary in the premises.

NEWSPAPER-POSTAGE.

Instructions Issued by the Postmaster-General.

The following instructions have been approved by Postmaster-General Jewell in relation to the payment of postage on papers and other printed matter on and after Jan. 1, 1875, under the act of June 23, 1874. Sec. 5 of said act divides the matter therein described into two classes, and fixes the rate of postage on each as follows: On all newspapers and periodicals issued weekly or oftener, 2 cents per pound or a fraction thereof; and on all those issued less frequently, 3 cents per pound or a fraction thereof. Under Sec. 6, upon the receipt of such matter at the mailing office, properly assorted into the two classes, it must be prepaid (after deducting the weight of the sack) by special adhesive stamps, furnished by the department for this purpose. Ordinary postage-stamps cannot be used for this purpose, nor can these stamps be used for any other purpose. Postmasters will make the following deductions for the weight of sacks, viz: No. 1 jute sack, 2½ pounds; No. 2 jute sack, 2 pounds; No. 1 cotton sack, 3 pounds; No. 2 cotton sack, 3½ pounds. On receipt of the postage the Postmaster will give a receipt from a book of blank forms furnished by the department. The stamps will then be affixed to the stub of the receipt and canceled by perforating them with a punch, and the blank spaces in the stub be filled to correspond with the receipt. The stub books are to be kept permanently in the office, to be ready to be produced whenever demanded by the department. The Postmaster will render promptly at the end of each quarter, in blank forms furnished for the purpose, a statement of the postage collected from each publisher or news agent during the quarter. These special stamps will be charged to Postmasters, and accounted for in the same manner as ordinary postage stamps. Newspapers, periodicals and circulars deposited in a letter carrier's office for delivery by the office or its carriers are subject to postage at the following rates: On newspapers, regular or transient, not exceeding 2 ounces in weight, 1 cent each; on periodicals, regular or transient not exceeding 2 ounces in weight, 1 cent each on periodicals, regular or transient, exceeding 2 ounces in weight, 2 cents each; circulars, unsealed, 1 cent; weekly newspapers to transient parties, 1 cent for each 2 ounces or fraction thereof. These rates must be prepaid by postage stamps affixed. Weekly newspapers to regular subscribers will be 5 cents per quarter. Under this section county papers pass by mail free to subscribers actually residing within the county, but when delivered at letter-carrier offices, or by a letter-carrier, they are subject to the rates of postage fixed in the laws and regulations, page 67, sec. 158, namely, on publications not exceeding 4 ounces in weight, issued less frequently than once a week, 1 cent for each copy, and when issued once a week, 5 cents additional per quarter, and 5 cents additional per quarter for each issue more frequent than once a week. An additional rate shall be charged for each additional 4 ounces or fraction thereof. These rates must be paid quarterly before delivery of such matter, either at the office of mailing or delivery. When not so paid, postage must be collected on delivery of each copy, at transient rates, viz., 1 cent for each 2 ounces or fraction thereof. The foregoing instructions are to take effect the first day of January, 1875, and to continue in force until modified or superseded by the Department.

A STUDENT at an Iowa college boarded himself on 65 cents per week, and studied twenty hours per day. He is now an Overseer of Highways.

AMERICAN METHODISM.

Growth of the Denomination in One Hundred Years—Increase in Resources and Membership in 1874.

Statistics just published show that there are in round numbers 3,200,000 Methodists in the United States and Canada. Some idea may be formed of the growth of American Methodism by comparing these figures with the beginning made 108 years ago in New York, with five members, by Philip Embury; 700,000 added to the above figures will give the number of Methodist communicants throughout the world—3,900,000. The result shows that the increase of Methodism in this country is beyond all comparison greater than that of the parent churches in England. The different branches of the denomination in the United States and Canada stand in the following order as to numbers:

	Lay Members.
Methodist Episcopal	1,563,521
Methodist Episcopal South	667,888
African Methodist Episcopal	200,000
African Methodist Episcopal Zion	164,000
United Brethren	120,445
Methodist Church of Canada	102,887
Evangelical Association	90,249
Colored Methodist Episcopal	67,888
Methodist	65,000
Methodist Protestant	65,000
Methodist Episcopal in Canada	23,641
American Wesleyan	20,000
Primitive Methodist (Canada)	6,669
Bible Christian (Canada)	6,194
Free Methodist	6,000
Primitive Methodist	2,000

There are a few other bodies, such as Congregational and Welsh Calvinistic Methodists, which in the aggregate have only a small number of members. The statistics of the Methodist Episcopal Church by decades show an increase in every instance but one—1846—when a decrease was noted of 5,874, caused by the separation of the Southern wing of the church. The following is the record:

Year.	Members.	Increase.
1776	4,921	4,921
1786	20,689	15,768
1796	56,664	35,975
1806	130,570	73,906
1816	214,235	83,665
1826	360,800	146,565
1836	650,103	289,303
1846	644,229	Dec. 5,874
1856	870,327	156,098
1866	1,032,184	231,857

The increase the last ten years, from 1864 to 1874, has been 515,710. The following table shows the present condition of the church:

	1873.	1874.	Increase.
Bishops	12	12	..
Annual Conferen'ces	76	80	4
Itinerant preachers	10,471	10,845	374
Local preachers	12,261	12,706	445
Lay members	1,464,027	1,563,521	99,494
Baptisms	109,450	129,936	20,486
Churches	14,499	14,959	460
Value of churches and parsonages	$74,875,124	$78,516,623	$3,641,559
Sunday schools	18,031	18,958	927
Sunday school scholars	1,316,608	1,383,227	[illegible]

The Methodist Episcopal Church, South, which began its existence in 1844, is a very active organization, especially in missionary work, in the circulation of religious literature, and in efforts to improve and enlarge its educational institutions. The statistics of the church for 1874 show that they have 35 annual conferences, 8 bishops, 8,715 preachers; increase, 349; 667,885 members; increase, 22,000; 7,019 Sunday-schools; increase, 119; 321,572 Sunday-school scholars; increase, 8,813.

The Danger of a Pocket-Knife.

A singular accident happened at Lawrence, Mass., last week to an 11-year-old son of Alonzo Winkley, which resulted in the loss of his right leg. The father had purchased a pocket-knife for the boy during the day, and while the lad was cutting a piece of thin wood, which was resting upon the thigh of his right leg, the wood split and the blade of the knife was driven into the flesh through the femoral artery. Physicians stopped the flow of blood with a tourniquet, and, after etherizing the patient, dissected down to the femoral artery, which was elevated and a ligature applied just above the incision. All compression was then removed and the leg moved in position when venous blood came pouring out, showing that the femoral vein was, like the artery, badly cut. More physicians were called, and it was decided that the amputation of the leg was the only means of saving the patient's life, and it was taken off about one-third of the distance from the knee to the body. The patient is doing well, and his recovery is anticipated. The injury was similar to that received by the notorious burglar Carroll Sanborn, who was shot through the thigh by an officer. The surgeon in charge of the House of Correction at the time called to his assistance eminent surgical talent from Boston, and an attempt was made to ligate the artery, which proved fatal to the prisoner.—Boston Transcript.

Greetings Between King Kulakaua and President Grant.

KALAKAUA TO THE PRESIDENT.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 4.

To the President of the United States:

Kalakaua, King of the Hawaiian Islands, sends greeting to his great and good friend, the President of the United States of America. He acknowledges a generous reception, characteristic of a warm-hearted people, and will hasten to express in person those sentiments of sincere respect and lasting friendship entertained toward the President of the great nation he so worthily represents.

THE REPLY.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.

The President of the United States extends the cordial welcome of the nation to his great and good friend, his Royal Highness Kalakaua, on his arrival in the United States, and tenders his personal congratulations on the safety of his voyage. The President anticipates with great pleasure the opportunity of a personal greeting, and assures his Highness of the sincere friendship which, in common with the people of the United States, he entertains for his Royal Highness, and hopes that his journey across the continent may be guarded by a kind Providence.

THE outlook for the winter among the Northwestern lumbermen is much better than the situation a few months ago indicated. Most of the firms find upon casting up their accounts that they have done a profitable business, notwithstanding the steady decline in prices, and are offering an advance of from $5 to $15 per month for labor, the coming winter, over the price paid last season. The cut, this summer, has been fully up to the average. The product of the Minneapolis mills, which ran an average of seven and a half months, was: Long lumber, 177,715,070 feet; shingles, 119,556,500; lath, 29,618,150; pickets, 510,980. At Oconto the cut was 70,000,000, and at Peshtigo 30,000,000. All the mills are arranging to put in an increased amount this winter.

THE FLOWERY KINGDOM.

An Interesting Budget of News from China—The Formosan Difficulty Settled—China Pays Japan a Pecuniary Indemnity, Whose Honor Being Satisfied, a Return of the Money is Proposed.

By the arrival of the steamer Vancouver at San Francisco, we have news from Hong Kong, China, bearing date Oct. 28. The following is a summary of the more important news: The Viceroy and Commander-in-Chief, Lihang Chang, is reported to have decided upon working the important coal and iron mines at Pung Ching, hitherto undeveloped, and an English agent has been commissioned to purchase the necessary machinery. This step, heretofore opposed by the government, is taken by the war party as an indication of a desire to increase the national resources for military purposes.

The Viceroy of Canton died last month, having held his office for thirteen years. He was much respected by foreigners, and regarded as among the most progressive officials. Jaoti, or Gov. Chin Kiang, died Oct. 8. He was chiefly distinguished for his anti-foreign feelings.

The Chinese have agreed to everything required by Japan. They recognize and admit the justice of the Japanese, and will pay an indemnity of 500 taels, 150 of which are already paid. The balance is to be delivered before the end of this month. They agree to to keep the Formosa savages under control for the future, and the Japanese will withdraw from the island. There is great satisfaction in Japan over the result, but so little have the government been influenced by pecuniary motives that they have already determined to return a part if not the whole of the indemnity. They required it only as an unmistakable acknowledgment of the propriety of their action. That having been vindicated, they are disinclined to keep the money.

Minister Avery left Shanghai for Peking, Oct. 14, arrived at Tientsin on the 18th, and resumed his journey on the 21st.

The pirate captain who seized the ship Spark was executed in Hong Kong Oct. 10.

The Chinese transport Tayak, engaged in carrying troops to Formosa, foundered at Tarwan-Fun, in the typhoon of Sept. 29. Sixteen lives were lost. Other transports were scattered by the same storm, and have not since been heard of.

There is serious and general complaint against the United States Consul at New Change, for having sentenced a pilot by the name of Haladay, who was convicted of a murderous assault upon Chinese women, to only fourteen days' imprisonment.

The subject of supplying prostitutes for San Francisco is attracting much attention in Hong Kong. Measures are under consideration for preventing further departures from that port. Several cases of girls seeking release were recently before the courts.

A Chinese contractor, convicted of swindling by false estimates in repairing the imperial palace, has been sentenced to decapitation.

Prof. Watson, at the head of the American party in Peking for the observation of the transit of Venus, discovered, Oct. 8, a new asteroid of the eleventh magnitude.

A Mohammedan Chinese General, from the distant province of Yannan, where he served in the imperial army during the rebellion, is now one of the lions of Peking. He fought on the side of the Buddhists and Confucianists against his co-religionists.

British residents of Chefoo have petitioned the Consul to secure the presence of a ship-of-war at that port during the winter. They fear a rising of the natives against the foreigners in case of war.

Healthful Beds.

Germany excels any country with which I am familiar in the cleanliness of its beds. It seems as much a part of yearly house-cleaning with them to have the hair removed from the mattresses, to have it well beaten and sunned, and the cover washed, as it is with us to have carpets whipped and freed from their disease-begetting dust.

I grant that it would be a difficult and expensive undertaking for an American housekeeper, for skilled laborers are rare, and when found must be well paid, as they should be.

Knowing the obstacles, then, in the way to a thorough renovation of our beds, we should take all the more care to protect and air them. Every bed should have especially made for it, the size of a tick, a white, tacked comforter, not too thick, so as to be unmanageable in washing; over this the sheet is spread. Every bed in daily use should be subjected to the purifying rays of the sun at least once a week, and should be left open for the reception of air and light some time before being made up. Beds not frequently used are often found very musty and disagreeable to guests. The parlor beds, that swallow their own contents by a magic touch, are fair without, but in time, for the lack of proper airing, they become foul within.—Science of Health.

A Crying Frog.

An observant Englishman writes: "The fact that the common frog is capable of crying but lustily when he feels himself in danger, does not seem to have been frequently remarked. In my small walled garden there is a common frog who is persecuted by three cats. His residence is a heap of slates at the foot of an ivied wall, and here he is safe. But if he ventures far abroad his tormentors soon espy him, and, though they seem nearly as much terrified as himself, they cannot resist the temptation to touch him with their paws. He immediately opens his mouth and utters a prolonged cry, which appears to be very surprising to the cats, who draw back for a few moments, and then pat him again, apparently out of mere curiosity, to be again scared by the same unusual sound. This sound is a shrill and rather sibilant wail, like the note of a small penny trumpet or the cry of a new-born infant. There can be no mistake about it, as I have repeatedly touched the frog with my own hand after driving the cats away, and the same cry has immediately followed, the lower jaw being dropped so that the mouth stands open about a quarter of an inch at the tip."

The Safe Burglary.

The frequent references of late, in the telegraphic dispatches, to the "safe burglary case" in Washington induce us to print a brief review of its origin for the information of those who may have forgotten the circumstances. At the late trial the jury acquitted Williams, and could not agree as to Harrington and Whitely. The following is a history of the case:

A memorial was presented to the last Congress by Messrs. W. W. Corcoran, W. W. Alexander and other respectable taxpayers, setting forth their belief that the officers of the Territorial government were guilty of corruption in the discharge of their trusts. An investigation was ordered, the report on which recommended the destruction of the system of governing the district, and the establishment of a new scheme. So bad was the state of affairs, in the judgment of the committee, that the destruction of the ring was imminent. In order, therefore, to secure themselves, the corrupt officials undertook to cast odium upon those persistent in the investigation. In the spring, the office of the Assistant District Attorney, who made himself so conspicuous in the defense of Governor Shepherd, was mysteriously robbed of a bundle of papers. The robber was arrested soon after the offense was committed, leaving the house of Mr. Alexander, and thus a link was formed in the chain of evidence against the investigators. The committee, after an examination, decided that no suspicion rested on Mr. Alexander, and came to the conclusion that Harrington, the attorney referred to, was himself, with the complicity of a lawyer named Williams, the Chief of the Secret Service and Nettleship, Colonel Whitely's first assistant, the guilty party. The Treasury Department dismissed Whitely and Nettleship, deeming them guilty of complicity in the case, and reorganized the Secret Service. The case now in the hands of the jury is the result of an indictment framed by the Grand Jury against Harrington, Williams, Whitely and Nettleship.—St. Paul Pioneer.

You May Do as You Like about This.

Let those who maintain that instinct is the sole governor of an animal's motion sit down and hear about a bull dog at Alexandria, Va. The bull dog had a combat with a fellow cur, and found in the course of the conflict that the fellow cur was too much for him. When this fact had made its way through his skull the worsted dog fell dead and motionless to the ground. The victorious dog gave his prostrate form a parting chew or two, and then strutted around with an air of importance befitting the occasion. In a short time he took up the line of march for home. As his footsteps were dying away in the distance the eye of the prostrate dog slightly unclosed. Seeing the victor in the distance and on the retreat he opened his eyes wide, and when the victor turned a corner and was out of sight the prostrate dog arose from the earth, shook the dirt from his garments, and jogged off home with a broad grin on his face. Are we to be told that such a dog had no "intellect into him?"

Lost His Reason.

Daniel Moseart, of Ann Arbor, Michigan, the well-known watch inventor, has been taken to the Insane Asylum at Kalamazoo. He has been for years at work on a watch, which, without being larger than usual, was to show quarter seconds, seconds, minutes, hours, days of the week, days of the month, and months of the year. Every fifth time the watch was opened it was to wind itself. He had completed it, and had received a large offer from parties in New York for the right to manufacture it. A short time ago he took the model apart to fix. He was unable to put it together again, some part having probably been lost, and the intense mental application upon the difficulty has deranged his mind.

MISS ALBANI, the new operatic bird, says she is not married, and would not even stand an engagement ring.

The Markets.

NEW YORK.

BEEVES	8	@	13
HOGS—Dressed	8½	@	9
COTTON—	14½	@
FLOUR—Superfine Western	4 25	@	4 75
WHEAT—No. 2 Chicago	1 10	@	1 12
No. 1 Spring	1 18	@	1 25
CORN	93	@	96
OATS	68	@	70
RYE	95	@	97
PORK—New Mess	20 00	@	..
LARD—Steam	13½	@

CHICAGO.

BEEVES—Choice Graded Steers	6 25	@	6 62½
Choice Natives	5 75	@	6 00
Good to Prime Steers	5 00	@	5 50
Cows and Heifers	2 00	@	2 50
Medium to Fair	3 75	@	4 50
Inferior to Common	2 00	@	2 75
HOGS—Live	6 00	@	7 00
FLOUR—Fancy White Winter	6 00	@	7 00
Red Winter	5 00	@	5 50
WHEAT—No. 1 Spring	94	@	95
No. 2 Spring	89	@	90
No. 3 Spring	83	@	84
CORN—No. 2	75	@	75½
OATS—No. 2	53	@	54
RYE—No. 2	94	@	94½
BARLEY—No. 2	1 25	@	1 27
BUTTER—Fancy	35	@	38
EGGS—Fresh	24	@	25
PORK—Mess	19 35	@	..
LARD	13	@	..

ST. LOUIS.

WHEAT—No. 2 Red Winter	1 08	@	1 09
CORN—No. 2 New	69	@	70
OATS—No. 2	57	@	58
RYE—No. 2	..	@	..
PORK—Mess	19 50	@	..
LARD	12½	@	13
HOGS	6 50	@	7 25
CATTLE	5 00	@	5 50

MILWAUKEE.

WHEAT—No 1	90	@	92
No. 2	88	@	88½
CORN—No. 2	71	@	73
OATS—No. 2	52	@	53
RYE	93	@	95
BARLEY—No. 2	1 25	@	1 28

CINCINNATI.

WHEAT—Red	1 12	@	1 14
CORN—New	73	@	75
OATS	58	@	62
RYE	1 08	@	1 10
PORK—Mess	19 50	@	..
LARD	12	@	12½

TOLEDO.

WHEAT—No. 1 Red	1 09	@	1 11
Amber Michigan	1 08	@	1 08½
CORN—New	70	@	70½
OATS	55	@	56

DETROIT.

WHEAT—Extra	1 15	@	1 15½
Amber	1 04	@	1 05
CORN	73	@	75
OATS	53	@	55

CLEVELAND.

WHEAT—No. 1 Red	1 10	@	1 12
No. 2 Red	1 06	@	1 07
CORN	71	@	72
OATS	58	@	59

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications [illegible] should be accompanied by [illegible] not necessarily for publication, but as evidence of good faith on the [illegible] on one side of the paper [illegible] names and dates, to have the letters and figures plain and distinct.

FARM AND HOUSEHOLD.

Farm Rakings.

THE Egyptian [illegible] considered a large [illegible] from this country for seed.

WHITE winter rye has been sent out by the Agricultural Department, and reports from various quarters all speak well of it.

THE manufacture of beet sugar in Sacramento is going on successfully. On September 29 the working up of this year's crop began. The crop will be about 10,000 tons. The field gangs consist of forty-five men, and the factory is worked by gangs of forty-five men each, alternating night and day. The quality of the sugar is said to be excellent.

THE English farmers are mixing wheat and barley and grinding together in equal parts for fattening pigs. The meal is mixed with boiled potatoes and parsnips, and thus fed is said to make very nice meat and make it very rapidly. This is done because wheat is cheaper than other grains. Many of our own farmers in the States nearer the Rocky Mountains, East, are also feeding some wheat.

THE Patrons of Husbandry are now the owners of several patents, namely, a harvester—the Werner—a hay-rake, and a seed drill. They also control a self-raker and mower, which sells for $140. The hay-rake is sold for $25 and the drill for $10. Other patents are being examined by the Executive Committee of the National Grange, and will be secured if found worthy, says the Farmer's Union.

THE Boston Journal of Chemistry shows its ignorance when it says that spreading manure in autumn is a waste. Any observing farmer knows better. If we could cover every rod of land under culture, grass land and all, with stable manure, fresh or old, in the fall, we should do so. If the soluble mineral matters leach down into the soil, very well, that is the object. If any ammonia escapes the first rain or heavy dew will restore it again.—Detroit Tribune.

ORCHARD grass has withstood the drought better than other grass, or even clover. W. F. Tallant, of Montgomery county, Va., writes to the Country Gentleman that he was fortunate in having most of his farm seeded to orchard grass, as his moist blue-grass bottoms failed. He has two barns filled and a long row of stacks from his orchard grass meadows. Timothy did not head out, and clover was hardly worth cutting. All the orchard grass he had seen did not seem much affected by the drought.

THE Farmers' Journal, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, in an article on our State agricultural societies uses the following language: "It must be admitted that our fairs, agricultural and horticultural shows and meetings are among the valuable educators of the land. Agriculture is an old pursuit, but a new study, and is daily becoming more and more appreciated by the people through the varied associations for its advancement. The State societies hold fairs that are very interesting and profitable, but do they in any measure afford answers to the numerous questions which they propound? Do they improve themselves, their methods and results, as they might by a greater interchange of thought and experience?

A CORRESPONDENT of the Iowa Fine Stock Gazette says that it is a fact that many varieties of seed lose their vitality by drying, and blue grass retains its vitality but a short time in a dry state. By cutting and sowing as soon as cut, it will generally prove successful and furnish a good sod the next year after sowing. It will be found more successful where it is sown on land that has been well tramped by cattle, and the vegetation mostly killed out. Sowing on old pastures where the cultivated grasses have been partially killed out, is a very good plan for starting blue grass. Sowing on the ground with no covering, is the most natural, as well as most successful plan with all kinds of grass seed.

Household Helps.

IF a cloth wrung out in hot water is immediately applied to the skin or a "black eye" it will prevent discoloration.

THIRTY or forty grains of quicklime dissolved in water is a thorough cure for the stings of insects, and far superior to ammonia or any other alkali.

A WRITER on the subject of sleep says: "If there is undue sleeplessness, the head should lie low on the pillow, and if undue sleepiness, it should be kept high."

TO EXTINGUISH a chimney on fire, shut the doors and windows, throw water on the fire in the grate, and then stop up the bottom of the chimney. Another method is to throw a handful of flowers of sulphur on the burning coal. The flames will be immediately extinguished.

ALUM and plaster of Paris, well mixed with water, and used in a liquid state, will form a very useful cement. It will be found quite handy for many purposes. It forms a very hard composition, and for fixing the brasses, etc., on lamps, nothing could be better.

TO MAKE good coffee, says a correspondent, use about one tablespoonful for each person, and one egg mixed with it. Place this in a coffee-pot, put in a little cold water, then the desired amount of boiling water; place upon the stove and let it come to a boil. If no egg is used, it should never boil over half a minute. If an egg is used, it may boil two minutes, when it will be ready for use. The coffee-pot should be as close as possible, so as to retain the flavor. The object of using a little cold water is to give a little time for hot water to extract its virtues before it boils.

THE following simple method for ventilating ordinary sleeping and [illegible] is recommended by Mr. Hinton, in his "Physiology for Practical Use": "A piece of wood, three inches high and exactly as long as the breadth of the window, is to be prepared. Let the sash be now raised, the slip of wood placed on the sill, and the sash [illegible] closely upon it. If the slip has been well fitted, there will be no draught in consequence of this displacement of the sash at its lower part; but the top of the lower sash will [illegible] the bottom of the upper one, and between the two bars, perpendicular currents of air, not felt as draught, will enter and leave the room.

THE white of an egg has proved of late the most efficacious remedy for burns. Seven or eight successive applications of this substance soothe the pain and effectually exclude the burn from the air. This simple remedy seems preferable to collodion or even cotton. Extraordinary stories are told of the healing properties of a new oil which is made from the yelks of hens' eggs. The eggs are first boiled hard, the yelks are then removed, crushed, and placed over a fire, where they are carefully stirred until the whole substance is just on the point of catching fire, when the oil separates and may be poured off. It is in general use among the colonists of Southern Russia as a means of curing cuts, bruises and scratches.

Enormous Slaughter of Buffaloes for Hides.

* * * The hide-hunters are even more numerous than the bone-pickers, and their trade is much more exciting and hazardous. They usually follow in the wake of buffalo-hunting expeditions and roving bands of Indian "meat-jerkers." The Indians who kill buffalo take only a small portion of the animal, and the white men who slay them for sport rarely touch them with a knife; so that the hide-hunter who goes after is usually sure of his spoil, as the hide remains in good order for removal nearly a week after the killing, if the wolves keep away. When hides are not to be had fast enough or with personal safety in this way, the hide-hunters project little raids of their own out into the buffalo ranges, killing the animals simply for the hides, and leaving the meat to decay, or selling it at a nominal rate to accompanying parties of dealers. The hides are tanned and dressed by a much more rapid, but less perfect and effective, process than that followed by the Indians, and only the hides of animals killed in cold weather make really valuable robes. In a little more than three months over 50,000 of these hides were shipped from the stations on the western division of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad; and it is estimated that the shipments for this year over that road and the Kansas Pacific will aggregate 125,000. As each hide represents a slain buffalo, these figures convey a fair, though not a full idea of the magnificent butchery which has been going on among these "monarchs of the plains." The hides, after being dressed, are rolled up in as small a compass as possible, and shipped to the large Eastern cities, where they are subjected to a process of recleansing and drying, and put into the market for sale. The original purveyors of the hides gets about as much for them as the New England or New York farmer receives for the hides of his cattle; but the profit to the Eastern dealer, as can be seen at a glance, is considerable. Attempts have been made from time to time to convert the buffalo hides into leather, but without much success, and it probably has no very great value except for use as a robe. A robe prepared by Indians is now so scarce a thing as to be a real curiosity, the frontier white men having monopolized the business.—Topeka (Kansas) Cor. New York Tribune.

Discovery of the Bones of a Monster.

A letter from Argos, Marshall county, Ind., says: On the farm of Mr. Alex. Bland, who lives about two miles east of Argos, has been found a portion of the bones of an animal which must have been, when living, at least twice the size of the elephant Romeo. A part of the head, that which undoubtedly formed the skull or crown, is over eighteen inches across, and about an inch thick. The underside is set off in compartments, and much resembles a Goodyear rubber door-mat. From the shape of one side, it appears that the eye must have been larger round than the crown of a man's hat. Thus far only three of the molar teeth have been found, which measure eight and a half inches in length each, thus making the entire length of the molar teeth alone forty-two and a half inches, to say nothing about the eye-teeth and the nippers, of which there are three. The teeth are in a state of almost perfect preservation, although one of them was broken by rough usage. Portions of the backbone show that the spine must have been six inches in diameter, while one of the ribs is four feet in length. A portion of what appears to be the shoulder-blade is two feet across and four feet long, and weighs about sixty pounds. Of fragments of bones there are about one hundred, among them some that have been recognized as those belonging to the mastodon. Two bones, one two feet and the other nine feet in length, which appear to belong to the same animal, were found close together. Various theories have been advanced as to what caused the bones of the two animals, the mastodon and the monster (be it whatever it might have been), to be intermixed, the most plausible of which being that, as that part of the premises was formerly a lake, the animals then roaming the forest came there to drink and fought to the death, their heavy carcasses sinking into the quicksands that abound throughout this entire region.

THE Democrats this year have had unusual luck in carrying very close Congressional districts. Albert G. Elbert (Dem.) is elected in the Twenty-seventh Pennsylvania District by eleven majority; Carter H. Harrison (Dem.) in the Second Illinois District by seven majority; and Augustus W. Cutler (Dem.) over William Walter Phelps in the Fourth New Jersey District by four majority. The closest shave, however is that of George W. Cate (Dem.), of the Eighth Wisconsin District, who received 9,446 votes to 9,444 for his Republican opponent, and is thus elected by two majority.

Indemnity Arising Out of the Virginius Affair.

The interest recently manifested regarding our reclamation relations with Spain, says a Washington dispatch, is constantly increasing. It is known that the Spanish government has sought to reverse the complaint of the United States, as set forth in the fourth paragraph of the Fish-Polo protocol, which reads as follows:

"Other reciprocal reclamations to be the subject of consideration and arrangement between the two governments, and in case of no agreement, to be the subject of arbitration, if the constitutional assent of the Senate of the United States be given thereto."

It is known that Secretary Fish is not averse to this movement, but if Spain advances claims against the United States, based upon damages alleged to have occurred as the result of aid given to the Cuban insurgents by our citizens, as she undoubtedly has, he will insist that such claims must be settled or adjudicated as questions entirely independent of the Virginius controversy.

The decision of Attorney-General Williams regarding the right of the Virginius to carry the American flag is quoted to sustain the distinction of the claims between the two governments. We have carried out conscientiously all the agreements on our part of the protocol that could be carried out, and now demand that Spain shall carry out her part, regardless of the reciprocal reclamations alluded to in the foregoing quotation from that document. Our position is simply that damages have occurred to American citizens by the illegal interference with a vessel on the high seas carrying our flag, that interference having been committed by the Spanish government, and resulting in the massacre at Santiago de Cuba. We demand that these damages shall be settled first, and then offer to consider the question of reciprocal reclamation by arbitration or otherwise. As before stated, we are somewhat embarrassed by the result of the British demand against Spain for reclamation, but will insist on a settlement upon a basis of our own making, regardless of the sums awarded to Great Britain.

A Mixed Report.

We told our local to "write up" Richards & Co.'s pork house and also the election returns, and this is the way he did it:

Richards & Co.'s pork house is in full operation; the majority is about 800 hogs a day, with a good deal of scratching on the sides and backs. It was supposed it would reach 1,000, but, owing to late returns and several counties to hear from, not more than five or six counties are received a day, principally by the T., W. and W. and L., B. and W. railroads.

They have every facility for unloading, and are weighed at the polls in droves of fifteen or twenty. They are driven to the pen and allowed to remain over night, when about 5 o'clock the returns come in. They are then driven up the shute, and behind the gate sits Wildback, as judge, to see if each one is registered.

The second gate is then closed, and two men prod them with long Democratic and Republican tickets to keep them from bolting the convention and running Independent. An iron band is put around one of their hind legs, a ballot folded and put in their hands and then hoisted to the second story, where they are stuck and roll down into a little tin box, whence they are taken and counted. After remaining in the boiling water for a few minutes, they are then hoisted out by a steam-fork and all the bogus votes thrown out. Then all the hair is scratched off, and they are passed over to men who remove the entrails, then washed and hung in the drying-room. The next evening a jollification meeting is held and speeches are made. After the heads are cut off, they are divided up into shoulders, sides, hams, lard, etc. They are removed to the first floor, where all conventions are packed and salted, giving our ticket a clear majority, and giving indications of a return to peace and prosperity to our land fifteen days out of salt.—Peki Times.

Swift Retribution.

A Memphis telegram says: Last Saturday night Isaac Ruffin (colored) met Melissa Adams (also colored) in the woods near Marion, Ark, and, after outraging her, attempted to kill her with a knife. In the scuffle which ensued she knocked the knife out of his hand, and he was unable to find it in the dark. After beating her until he thought she was dead, he went to the house of her father near by, and told him that Melissa was waiting at the gate for Maggie, her young sister, to help her carry her basket. He then left, and Maggie, going to the gate, found Ruffin there, when, seizing her, he violated her person, and fled. Monday he was arrested in Memphis, Tenn., and agreed to go back to Marion without a requisition, and was taken back. After a preliminary examination, he was committed to jail to answer. The proof against him being positive, on Monday night fifty or sixty armed negroes went to the jailer and forced him to bring out Ruffin. They then took the negro a short distance from town and shot him to death, his body being literally riddled with bullets.

THE recent wedding at San Francisco of the daughter of Sharon, who expects to be a United States Senator some day, as he is worth over $60,000,000, exceeded in magnificence any of the great weddings of the season. One of the gifts to the bride was a check from her father for one million dollars. The papers of the Slope are loaded down with accounts of the grand affair—one paper occupying ten columns with its reports. The house of the Sharons is a palace—costing $300,000, the furniture $150,000 more. The furniture of the bridal chamber is described in all the raptures of Jenkins,—said furniture being made of white holly, finished with mahogany and zebra wood. Among the articles of this chamber enumerated are "a $2,000 gas fixture, a $5,000 mirror, a $125 coal scuttle, and a $240 pair of pillow slips." This is simply a suggestion of the whole. The ceremonies of the marriage were celebrated like the nuptials of royalty.

A Fight Between a Man, a Dog, and a Deer.

We learn the following from Mr. John F. Wright, of Scotia. On the night of the [illegible] Mr. Robert Harrison, who lives on the Robert Elliott farm, near Harrison's Mills, heard some dogs chasing a deer. Harrison went to a point of the river where he supposed it would cross, but found he had arrived too late, as the deer had already crossed. He heard another coming, however, and stepped behind a tree to get a shot at it. It did not take the water close enough for him to see it, and he ran to where it had jumped in and fired at its head, all the part visible. He struck it, and a little dog that was with him swam to the game in the middle of the river. A fierce contest ensued, in which the dog was about to be drowned, and Mr. Harrison plunged in to save his canine auxiliary. He soon arrived on the scene of action. He immediately "gathered" it by the tail and tried to drown it, but found that the probabilities were all in favor of the deer. They all three—dog, deer and man—floated down stream into shallow water, where Mr. Harrison got foothold on the bottom, when he succeeded in cutting its throat with a pocket-knife. It was found that the animal had only been creased in the back of the neck, and of course Mr. Harrison had the honor of coming off victor in a sanguinary struggle with an unwounded deer.—Crawford County (Mo.) Express.

Important Decision.

The Supreme Court of the United States has just rendered a decision in which, for the fifth time, the question of the power of the so-called Confederate government to make a valid contract has been adjudicated. The plaintiff had, knowingly, purchased cotton of an agent of the Confederate States. The cotton was subsequently seized by the United States, and the proceeds converted into the Treasury. Plaintiff brought suit in the Court of Claims to recover. The court rejected the claim. The Supreme Court affirms the decision of the Court of Claims on two grounds: First, because the purchase of the cotton and the payment of the consideration necessarily tended to give aid to the rebellion, and all such contracts are void as contrary to public policy. This was concurred in by the whole court. Second, because the so-called government of the Confederate States had no existence except as a conspiracy to overthrow lawful authority.

Death of Trees in Cities.

At a recent meeting of the Scientific Committee of the Royal Horticultural Society, Dr. Voelker stated the results of his investigation of the soil of a London square in which Messrs. Veitch had twice planted trees, which in each case had died. On examining the clear watery solution from treating the soil with distilled water, he found that the soil contains one-tenth per cent. of common salt and two-tenths per cent. of nitrates. Whenever the amount of chlorine in soil reaches anything like an appreciable quantity it exercises an injurious influence. Land, for example, which has been inundated by the sea will not grow wheat for the next two years, though in the first year cabbage may be grown. The quantity of nitrates in the soil sent to him was remarkable. Usually in a soil it did not reach a proportion which could be expressed otherwise than by a third place of decimals. He could not doubt that the two saline ingredients mentioned did the mischief.—Builder.

Pure Water.

The Journal of Chemistry warns the drinkers of the water of wells that are near dwellings to beware of the typhoid poison sure to be found, sooner or later, in those reservoirs, if any of the house drainings can percolate them. The gelatinous matter often found upon the stones of a well is a poison to the human system, probably causing, by its spores, a fermentation of the blood, with abnormal heat or fever. Wholesome, untainted water is always free from all color and odor. To test it thoroughly, place half a pint in a clear bottle with a few grains of lump sugar, and expose it, stoppered, to sunlight in a window. If even after an exposure of eight or ten days the water becomes turbid, be sure that it has been contaminated by sewage of some kind. If it remains perfectly clear, it is pure and safe.

Receipts from Customs for the Past Twenty-six Years.

1849	$28,346,738 82	1863	$69,059,642 40
1850	39,668,686 42	1864	102,316,152 99
1851	49,017,567 92	1865	84,928,260 60
1852	47,339,326 62	1866	179,046,651 58
1853	58,931,865 52	1867	176,417,810 88
1854	64,224,190 27	1868	164,464,599 56
1855	53,025,794 21	1869	180,048,426 63
1856	64,022,863 50	1870	194,538,374 44
1857	63,875,905 05	1871	206,270,408 05
1858	41,789,620 96	1872	212,590,947 48
1859	49,565,824 38	1873	184,556,045 09
1860	53,187,511 87	1874	*159,808,374 49
1861	39,582,125 64
1862	49,056,397 62	Total	$1,972,102,091 71

*Estimated from telegraphic abstract of Treasurer Spinner's report.

MEIGGS, the railway king of Chili, once had a peculiar surprise party. A Bangor washerwoman, who went to California some years ago, had $2,000 or $3,000 deposited in Meiggs' 'Frisco California Bank before "he busted up." After he went to South America this woman heard of his success in speculation, shipped to Chili, and one day turned up in Mr. Meiggs' office. The result of the interview was that he not only paid her the principal and interest of her account, but also paid the entire expenses of her trip from Maine, to his presence and return.

THE head of the United States Signal Service has completed arrangements with European meteorological stations to send daily reports to the United States, to be used in connection with the reports from four hundred stations in this country. From this combination of observations we may expect some valuable discoveries.

HIS name is Samuel W. Allen. He has a ranch 80 miles long by 40 wide, lying between the Nevada and Colorado rivers, in Texas; he has 225,000 cattle, and he is the greatest herdsman in the world.

FRESH cows in New York, for best, are from $80 to $130. An inferior quality are $50 to $80.

Fatal Forest Fight—Found Dead.

The particulars of a terrible tragedy have just reached us from Rice lake, by which a woodsman quite well known in this city and Wausau, as well as to the settlers further north, lost his life. The woodsman alluded to is Fred Duffy. He accompanied Wm. Johnson last summer to Tomahawk lake, and from there to Lac de Flambeau, and after returning, went back to Rice lake, near the head waters of the Wolf, where he makes his home with an Indian trader. A short time ago Duffy had a slight altercation with one of the Indians, but the difficulty appeared to be of a trivial nature, and little was thought of it by the friends of either. A few days after the difficulty, however, Duffy and the Indian were missed. Several days passed by, but they did not return. That both of the parties to the difficulty should simultaneously disappear was considered a singular coincidence, but not until an entire week had elapsed did the friends of Duffy become sufficiently alarmed to institute a search. At this time vague suspicions of foul play began to flit across the imagination of his friends, and finally it was resolved to look for him in the woods. For this purpose a party started out, but their search was of short duration. The mysterious disappearance was soon solved. In the woods, a short distance from the settlement, they found the bodies of both Duffy and the Indian lying stiff and cold in death. Duffy had one deep stab in his back and two in his left breast, while all the mark of violence that could be found on the Indian was a deep indenture in the left breast, over the heart. How these two men happened to meet in fatal combat, surrounded only by the forest, is of course, a matter of conjecture only. All that is positively known is that they had a personal difficulty, that both men afterward disappeared, and that their bodies were found as above stated. The theory, however, is that the Indian stole stealthily up on Duffy, inflicted a severe wound in his back, and, as he turned around, dealt him two blows in the breast. Duffy was a powerful man, with the arm of a vulcan, and it is thought that when he found himself attacked, he turned upon his antagonist, and, striking out with the strength begot of desperation, he dealt him a fatal blow, as above indicated. Both men must have gone down together, as the body of Duffy was found lying partially across that of the Indian.—Stevens Point (Wis.) Journal.

Rats on Board of Ship.

Rats greatly infest ships, and are by them carried to every part of the world. So industriously do they make homes for themselves in the numerous crannies and corners in the hull of a ship that it is almost impossible to get rid of them. Ships take out rats as well as passengers and cargo every voyage; whether the former remain in the ship when in port is best known to themselves. When the East India Company had ships of their own they employed a rat-catcher, who sometimes captured five hundred rats in one ship just returned from Calcutta. The ship rat is often the black species. Sometimes black and brown inhabit the same vessel, and, unless they carry on perpetual hostilities, the one part will keep to the head of the vessel and the other to the stern. The ship-rat is very anxious that his supply of fresh water shall not fail; he will come on deck when it rains, and climb up the wet sails to suck them. Sometimes he mistakes a spirit cask for a water cask, and gets drunk. A captain of an American merchant ship is credited (or discredited) with an ingenious bit of sharp practice of a means of clearing his ship from rats. Having discharged cargo at a port in Holland, he found his ship in juxtaposition to another which had just taken in a cargo of Dutch cheeses. He laid a plank at night from one vessel to the other; the rats, tempted by the odor, trooped along the plank, and began their feast. He took care that the plank should not be there to serve them as a pathway back again; and so the cheese-laden ship had a cruel addition to its outward cargo.—All the Year Round.

A Cool Railway Porter.

An English paper says: "A remarkable example of presence of mind in a railway porter is afforded by an incident which occurred as the down train from Perth to Aberdeen was leaving Guthrie station. A newsboy who accompanied this train while in the act of stepping into a carriage missed his footing, and fell down between the platform and the wheels of the carriages. As the train was by this time in motion, any attempt on the part of the boy to get up would have infallibly resulted in his instant death. Nine persons out of ten witnessing this accident would have turned pale, and either shrieked out at the top of their voices advice of various kinds, or remained awe-struck and motionless, abiding the issue. Fortunately, however, one of the station porters was master of the moment and of the situation, and, running forward, lay down on the platform; then seizing the boy with his hands, held him flat on the ground till all the footboards of the train had passed over him and the danger had ceased. This combination of coolness and common-sense is an acquisition that may well be envied by many a person who, notwithstanding all the gifts of an elaborate education, is less fit to battle with the difficulties and emergencies of life than the humble station porter at Guthrie, who thus saved the newsboy from a horrible death."

THE CENTENNIAL BUILDING.—The Philadelphia papers publish the ground plan of the building for the centennial exhibition. It is 1,882 feet in length, and 464 feet in breadth, covering over 20 acres of ground. Nearly three-fourths of the space is allotted to foreign countries, every nation of the earth being put down for a slice. As it is probable that not one-twentieth part of this space will ever be needed, the building is wisely designed so that only so much as is actually required will be constructed.

YOUNG Virginia is going to school at all events. Dr. Ruffner, superintendent, reports 173 875 enrolled pupils in the public schools—121,789 white, 52,086 colored. The percentage of gain is much larger among the blacks than the whites.

The Mountain Meadow Slaughter.

The arrest of Bishop Dame, of the Mormon Church, in Southern Utah, for alleged complicity in the massacre at Mountain Meadow in 1857, will revive a general interest in that terrible tragedy. The thought of it carries the mind back to those days before the completion of the Pacific railroad, which already seems a generation distant, when travel across the continent was only by slow emigrant trains which crept along the prairies and through the sage brush with weary and sluggish march. In Utah, too, affairs were very different from their present situation. The Mormons had it all their own way. Brigham Young, the head of the Mormon Church, was the Territorial Governor. Just previous to the occasion of the massacre, however, he had been superseded, though still in possession of the office; and his legal successor, Governor Cummings, with other newly appointed Territorial officers, were on their way to Salt Lake City, under the escort of General Harney and his troops. The supersession of Brigham Young by a "Gentile" Governor, and the assertion of Federal authority over the Mormons even in the wilderness to which they had fled, filled the Mormon people with wrath. They were ripe for a deed of blood, and the opportunity was at hand, as it almost always is.

The emigrant train which met with such a tragic fate at Mountain Meadow was on its way through Utah to Southern California. It consisted originally of two parties, which had joined forces for the sake of mutual protection against the Indians. One party was made up of Missourians; the other consisted mainly of families, including many women and children, and was from Arkansas.

The train was encamped, about the middle of September, in the Mountain Meadow, when they were attacked, as the Mormons claim, by Indians alone. The Gentile story has been, however, that in the attacking party were many Mormons disguised as Indians. The emigrants made a circle of their wagons, and within this extempore fortification defended themselves as well as they could, for four days. On the fourth day a white flag, borne by white men, approached their camp. The leader was one John D. Lee, an Elder in the Mormon Church, a Major in the Mormon militia, and one of Brigham's Indian Agents. By his advice the emigrants yielded up their arms and agreed to go with him to the nearest settlement for safety. It is said that the women and children went in advance, the men behind, guarded by militia; and that, but a little ways from camp, the signal was given by Lee, the Mormons shot down the men, the Indians slaughtered the women and youth, and only seventeen children of tender years were saved.

Such is the story of the massacre, as it has come out in fragmentary details at different times. The remoteness of the spot, the completeness of the massacre, which spared no mature person, the absence of any officers competent and willing to investigate the case—the Mormon officials of course ignored it—the absence even of any public sentiment on the ground to demand investigation, enabled the participants in the massacre, and those who dictated it, to "hush it up." But there is no doubt of the substantial truth of the story.

> "Foul deeds will rise, > Though all the earth prevent them, to man's eyes."

and now, after the lapse of more than seventeen years, justice is bestirring herself, and there is a chance that some of the murderers of Mountain Meadow may at last meet their deserts. Lee, who fled to the New Mexico border after the tragedy, and who has since lived almost out of civilization, marrying, however, eighteen wives and begetting fifty-four children, has been arrested, and now says he is tired of being made a scapegoat, and will make some startling revelations. It may be upon some information given by him that Bishop Dame was arrested and brought to Salt Lake City. At all events Lee's story, when he tells it, will be of absorbing interest, and if it implicates Brigham Young, as it is more than intimated that it will, we shall have some very exciting times in Utah.—Detroit Tribune.

Marriage Statistics.

According to the last census of the population of England and Wales, out of nearly 23,000,000 about 13,500,000 are single, the number of unmarried males and females being almost equal; but of these, 8,000,000, or more than two-thirds, are under 15; or, if the period is extended to 20 years, another 2,000,000 are added, leaving the number unmarried above 20 years of age at only three millions and a half, or scarcely one-seventh of the whole population. The remainder of the population have been married, and are either husbands and wives or widowers and widows. At the taking of the census there were 3,883,363 husbands and 3,948,527 wives; the difference between the figures being caused by the absence from the country of 65,000 of the husbands. Of the husbands 5,951 were under 20 years of age (including also those under 15); 219,197 between 20 and 25; 502,846 between 25 and 30; 559,537 between 30 and 35; 524,427 between 35 and 40; 492,120 between 40 and 45; 426,872 between 45 and 50. The numbers then gradually decrease, until between 80 and 85, there are only 14,392. In the next five years the number is 3,318, but between 90 and 95 there are 509, in the next period 86, and above a hundred 5 are returned. The ages of the wives form a striking contrast. In the first period, between 15 and 20, there are 34,573, nearly six times the number of husbands at that period of age; in the next period, 20 to 25, there are about 140,000 more wives than husbands, after which the figures approach each other gradually, the last period at which the wives are in excess of the husbands being 25 to 40, where they are 12,000 above. In the next period the results are different and the husbands of 40 to 45 are 7,000 in excess of the wives. The proportion increases with age, and from 80 and upwards, the number of husbands is double that of the wives.

A WHITE bittern, said to be the only one ever seen, was recently shot near Virginia City, Nev.

Educational Department.

A. B. HUFFMAN, CONDUCTOR.

TIME.

From the Antiquary, 1816

"Why sit'st thou by that ruined hall,
Thou aged carl so stern and grey?
Dost thou its former pride recall,
Or ponder how it passed away?"

"Know'st thou not me," the voice cried;
"So long enjoyed, so oft misused—
Alternate, in thy fickle pride,
Desired, neglected and accused!"

"Before my breath like blazing flax,
Man and his marvels pass away!
And changing empires wane and wax,
Are founded, flourish, and decay.

"Redeem mine hours—the space is brief
While in my glass the sand-grains shiver,
And measureless the joy or grief,
When TIME and thou shalt part forever."

The schools throughout the county are all in a promising condition, and the friends can rest assured of a grand result from this winter's labor.

◆

Many of our teachers will give the scholars vacation during the holidays and in return for this kindness they should be good, steady boys and girls the remainder of the term.

◆

In school "out West," a child being called on to name three distinguished American writers, replied "Frank Leslie, Frank Munro, and Anonymous." On being questioned further it was his candid opinion that Frank Leslie made the best picture, and that Anonymous wrote the best poetry.

◆

Who wouldn't be a pedagogue,
With moral force and vim,
To trounce all pert, unruly boys—
That fail to wallop him?

Who wouldn't be a pedagogue,
Love's gauntlet grand to run,
To win all schoolma'ams' smiles—
Until he marries one?

◆

Man is free; he his the power to seek happiness in his own way. He enters upon existence, and sets forward in the path of life. But as he passes along a thousand tempters beset him. Pleasure comes to beckon him away, offering him present flowers, and unfolding beautiful prospects in the distance. Wealth seeks to make him her votary, by disclosing her magic power over men and things; Ambition woos him with dreams of glory.—Indolence assays to soften and seduce him to her influence. Love, envy malice, revenge, jealousy, and other spirits, assail him with their various arts. And man is free to yield to these temptations if he will; or he has the power to resist them if he will.—God has surrendered him to his own discretion, making him responsible, however, for the use and the abuse of the liberty bestowed upon him.

◆

The following alphabet of proverbs, ought to be in every school-room in the land, for "a good maxim is never out of order:"

Affected simplicity is refined imposture.

By reading we enrich the mind, by conversation we polish it.

Common sense is an inestimable companion.

Deserve success and you shall command it.

Each day is a new life; regard it, therefore, as an epitome of the whole.

First learn to obey before you pretend to govern.

Good sense and reason ought to be umpire of all rules. He is idle who might be better employed.

Idle people have the most labor.—Judgement is the throne of prudence, and silence is the sanctuary.

Knowledge of ourselves requires great penetration.

Learn to unlearn what you have larned amiss.

Mildness governs better than anger.

No fears should deter us from doing good.

One bad example spoils many good precepts.

Pedantry is a vice in all professions.

Quit not certainty for hope. Rather confess ignorance than falsely profess knowledge.

Some are very busy and yet do nothing.

To say little and perform much is noble.

Unskillful workmen quarrel with their tools.

Vows made in storms, are forgotten in calms.

Want of punctuality is a species of falsehood.

Xenelasia had its evils; so has any reform.

Youth is the season for improvement.

Zeal without meekness is like a ship at sea, in danger of every rising storm

---

S.C. EVANS, Pres't, C. M. DAWSON, Cash'r

MERCHANTS
National Bank!
FORT WAYNE, IND.

Capital and Surplus $112.000

Receives Deposits, Discounts Business Paper, issues Letters of Credit, and Collects at all points at the lowest rates of exchange.

Directors:
S. CARY EVANS, R. C. ROBERTSON,
H. C. HANNA, N. P. STOCKBRIDGE
A. C. DAWSON.

December 1 1865. April 9. '74

The Auburn

WAGONS

Made from the Best Materials,

And constructed with all the late improvements—The new and extensive

WAGON SHOPS
—OF—
J. W. SHAFFER
South Main Street

are now in full running order and all orders for

WAGONS, BUGGIES, &c.

promptly attended to. Special care taken in getting the best Seasoned Timber. Our prices are very reasonable and we solicit the public to give us a call and ascertain our prices.

Sutermeister,
Becker & Bond,
ARCHITECTS
BUILDING
CONTRACTORS,
AND DEALERS IN Building Stone
AMERICAN AND
ITALIAN MARBE,
GRANITE.
TOOMBSTONES,
MONUMENTS,
MANTELS,
GRATES, &C.,
Corner Main and Fulton Streets,
Fort Wayne, Ind.

FALL AND WINTER
CLOTHING!

S. Lauferty.

FURNISHING STORE!

You will find the best selected stock and at prices that defy competition. You can get a nice suit of Sam. from

$6 UPWARDS!

I also keep on hand nice fine stock of Woolen and White

SHIRTS!

which will be sold at prices as low as any otoer place, Ft Wayne not excluded. You can find the largest assortmen which you can get at my sor or less tha n you are aware of I can say what the most as my competers cannot, as I ao now engaged in all the above lne of goods for the last 20 years. I have paid a good tuition which others will have to pay yet, and this will be the best assurance that S. Lauferty can sell you his line of goods for less than any other house around or about. I also keep in connection with the above, a fine and well selected stock of Plain and Fancy French English, German and Domestic

Hats & Caps!

Cassimeres

Broad Cloth and Vestings. have also engaged one of the best Tailors west of New York or east of Chicago. All I ask is to come and examine my stock and prices and I will assure you will buy of me and go home well pleased and satisfied. I sell now strictly for Cash. S. LAUFERTY.

Grand Opening for the HOLIDAYS!

STIEFEL & OCHS,
OF BUTER, INDIANA.

Have just opened a splendid stock of,

DRY GOODS,

bought at a great reduction of prices.

FRESH ARRIVAL!

of the late styles of everything in the DRY GOODS and

Millinery Line.

Their MLLINERY GOODS, are being offered very low. They keep a first class Milliner and are ready to manufacture anything in this line order. West side of Bradway, BUTLER, IND.

Boots & Shoes
FOR SERVICE!

Buy the Stylish, Good-Fitting Double-Sewed
FINE SHOES!
For LADIES' and MISSES' wear, with this Trade Mark in every shoe.

DOUBLE SEWED
P
NEVER RIP.

The Soles are attached to the Uppers with two rows of five-cord waxed thread, (instead of one row as in other shoes,) and are

WARRANTED
Never to rip from the uppers.

S. W. Sprott & Son,
SOLE AGENTS.
Where also may be found a full line of
BOOTS & SHOES,
Both Fine and Coarse, for Men, Women and Children.
Our Stock is full and Complete,
And we can please you both in quality and price.

Custom Work a Specialty.

CALL AND SEE US.
S. W. SPROTT & SON.

LUMBER! LUMBER!

DIRECT FROM THE MANUFACTURE

GREATLY REDUCED PRICES!

LUMBER BY THE CAR LOAD AT JOBBING RATES-

F. N. Wright & Co.

Manufacture their own lumber with their own mill, at Greenville Michigan, and can therefor sell for less than any other local Dealor in Lumber

A Lumberyard has been established at Auburn by this Company Where there can be found an extensive variety of Lumber

LATH AND SHINGLES

Which will be sold for less than ever has been offered before. We know that we can sell Low and furnish as good an article of lumber as has ever been seen in the County.

Yard on Jackson Street near Berry's Planing Mill.

A. LEWIS Supt.

V. A. BEARD

Oldest Grocer in Auburn, North of Court House on Seventh Street,

DEALER IN

GROCERIES and PROVISIONS

TEAS, COFFEES, SUGARS, SALT FISH.

Flour and Feed, Tubs Pails, Buckets, Sugars Boxes, Etc. A large variety of

TOBACCOS AND CIGARS,

Confectioneries of all kinds, and Fancy Notions, Cove Oysters, &c. A speciality in Green and Dried Fruits, and Canned Fruits. Goods delivered inside the coporation.

AUBURN
Meat Market.

Main St. Next door to Klotz's.

Houston and Benedict,
PROPRIETORS.

Having fitted up our establishment in first class style, with increased facilities, were are now prepared to furnish Fresh Meats in the best of order at reasonable rates. Give us a call.

THE Eagle Mills!

Having been recently refitted and improved, is now in excellent running order. Having employed one of the best Millers in the country, I can now guarantee satisfaction. Prompt attention given to Custom Work.

FLOUR, BRAN, MILL FEED, ETC.,
on hand at low prices.

L. BOWERS.

SANTA-CLAUS IS COMING
HOLIDAY PRICES
—AT THE—
FRUIT HOUSE.

We never had such an immense stock for the coming holidays. If times are dull and money is scarce our trade is better than ever. We are selling more Teas, Coffees, Sugars and Groceries than all the other groceries combined. We have no two prices in our business; that is, a price for those who pay the cash, and a different price for those who have it "booked." We have one cash price and keep no books, hence you can easily see why we can undersell all others; no secret in it, simply purchasing at first hands and selling direct to the consumers.

Just take teas, for instance: we save our consumers on that article alone three profits, as we purchase direct from the importer.

We save the profit of the jobber, 10 per cent, of the speculator, which is 15 per cent, of the wholesale grocer, which 15 to 20 per cent, or as much more as he can get. All these profits our customers have the profit of.

We still keep up the reduction of 15 per cent.

TEAS! TEAS! TEAS!

Young Hyson, 50c. 80c 90 $1. 1 10 per pound.
Gunpowder 50c. 80c. $1. 1 10 per pound.
Imperial, 50c. 80c. $1. best 1 10 per pound.
Oolong 50c 60c, 80c, best 90c, per pound.
Uncolored Japan, 60c. 80c. best 90c. per pound,
All of these teas are the best in the market, and at least 20 to 40 cents are saved on every pound

SUGARS! SUGARS! SUGARS! SUGARS! SUGARS!

The same saving to purchasers as on teas. No middle man with us

Coffee B, 10½ per pound,
Coffee C, 10c, per pound.
Yellow Sugar 8c and 9c, per pound.
Crushed and Powdered, 11c, per pound.
Granulated 11c, per pound.

COFFEE! COFFEE! COFFEE!

At least 2 to 5 per cent saved

Rio, 22c. best Rio, 25c. per pound
Roasted Rio, 27c,
Old Java, 30c.

FOR CHRISTMAS CAKE.

Raisins 12½c, per pound,
Currants 20c.
Citron, 40c
Orange and Lemon Peel 50c.
Shelled Almonds, 40c.
Filberts, 20 cents per quart.
Almonds 20c.
English Walnuts. 15c.
Pecans 12½c.
Brazil 12½c.
Roasted Peanuts. 8c.
Oranges and Lemons, 30 to 50c per dozen.

WINES AND LIQUORS FOR THE HOLIDAYS.

Sherry and Port Wine, $1.50 best $2.50 per gal
California, Muscatel and Angelica $1, best 2.50.
New England Rum, $1 50 best 2 50.
Holland Gin $1 50 old Tom Gin 2 50.
Rye and Bourbon Whiskey, new 90c $1 25.
One and two years old do, $1 40 to 1 75.
Old '76' for Medical purposes $2 50 and 3 00.
Brandies from $1 50 to French Imported $5.
Scotch and Irish Whiskies, London and Dublin Porter, Edinburgh Ale, &c.

CANDIES AND TOYS

Candies—Stick, choice, assorted, French toy candy, imperials, balls and fruit candies at about one half price
Best stick 20c per pound.
Barber poles 20c.
French choice, 25c.
Fruits and Almons, 30c.
Toys—Tops in immense variety your children can get from 1c to $1.
No end to the variety of mon eys, birds cats, dogs wagons, jumping jacks, china dolls, wax doll sheep play houses, moustache cups, hair oils, vases, soldiers drums, lions tigers' horses bugles, whistles, rattles, fancy baskets, ladies work boxes, at all prices and at one-half the price you will pay elsewhere.

DRIED AND CANNED FRUITS CIGARS AND TOBACO.

Dried Fruits—new Dried Peaches. 8c.
Prunes, 5 and 15c.
Dried apples 8 and 10c.
Pared Peaches 25c.
Green gages, 30c.
Canned peaches 25c,
Tomatoes 15c, Blackberries 15c
Mammoth cans 20 and 25c,
English Damsons 30c.
Cigars and Tobacco—Best high Cigars, $2 50 and 3, per box.
Havana pure, $2 50, 3 and 4.
Plug Tobacco, 30c, 40, and 50c.
Best Twin Brothers, 60c,
Fine cut 50, and 60c.
Best light yellow color 90c.
Shorts, 35c.

WOODEN WARE CHEAPER.

Best large 3 hoop tubs 85c No. 2 the No 4 65c.
This is a reduction of 15c, on each tub.
Pail, 2 hoop, 18c, 3 hoop 25c.
Wash boards 20 and 25c.
Churns, 65c 75c. 85c $1.
Clothes lines, ropes, coal oil lamps, globes, starch spices and dye stuffs.

SYRUPS, SYRUPS.

Best sugar loaf, pure as honey. $1, per gallon.
White drip 35c.
Silver drip, 75.
Extra Golden 50c.
Cups, 45.
New Orleans 70c, and $1.
You can save at least 25c on the dollar.

FRESH OYSTERS.

25c 30 and 40c, cans.
Sugar cured hams 15c.
Shoulders 10c,
Farmers living at a distance can club together select their goods, and send their orders. Each man's goods will be put up seperate and the name marked on the packages. No danger of getting lost.
We will guarantee the safety.

Oils! Oils! Oils!

Fish and Neat's Foot Oil $1, per gallon
Coal and Rose Oil, 20c. per gallon.
Headlight and Gasoline, 15c per gallon.
Machine Oil, 50c and 80c, per gallon.
Lard Oil, $1, per gallon,
Twenty-five cents on the dollar saved

J. B. WHITE, Prop.

Dr. King's New Discovery!
FOR CONSUMPTION!

KING'S NEW DISCOVERY
DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY

The unparalled success invariably attending the introduction of

DR. KING'S
New Discovery for Consumption.

Far surpasses that of any other medicine ever placed before the American people. In fact it has exceeded the most sanguine expectations of its proprietors. Wherever it is sold a lively and increasing demand is at once created, and why is it? Our answer is this: It is a remedy that travels on Its Own Merits and always gives Perfect Satisfaction, hence the success. We know whereof we speak and in order to prove this statement we make the following offer: Do not Ever Ask to Buy until you know what you are getting. All we ask of those troubled with consumption, Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, &c, is to go to

F. E. DAVENPORT'S

Drug Store and get a bottle Free of Charge, and give it a trial, then you KNOW just what you are getting before you buy.

THE OLD RELIABLE.

F. E. DAVENPORT,
Corner Main and Eighth-Sts.,
—DEALER IN—

Pure Drugs and Medicines,

DYE STUFFS, PERFUMERY,

Toilet Soaps Cosmetics, Hair Oils, Brushes, Combs, Toilet Mirrors and Druggists' Sundries in General.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY!

Wall and Window Paper!

Oiled, Linen and Slat Window Shades, and Shade Fixtures.

All the lattest POEMS and MISSELANIOUS BOOKS constantly on hand or ordered. Blank Books, Pocket Memorandas, Portmonnies and Bill Books, WRITING PAPERS. All Styles and prices ALBUMS! ALBUMS! ALBUMS just received for the Holliday trade

Over $300.00 worth of Juvenile and Toy Books, which will be sold at panic prices. Smith's Gold Pens, warranted the best. Also steel Pens, Penholders, Pencils, Ink and Ink Stands &c.

SCHOOL BOOKS!

Covered with best Cover ever invented Free Of Charge

Davenport has the exclusive right to use this book cover in Auburn, and will give his patrons the benefit of the same.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY AND TO THE COLLECTION OF LOCAL AND GENERAL NEWS

Vol. 4. Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, December 24 1874. No. 52

ROSE & HARTMAN
LAW, ABSTRACT AND COLLECTION OFFICE!

All legal business promptly attended to in DeKalb and adjoining counties. Have the only

ABSTRACT OF TITLE

to REAL ESTATE in the county. They contain Deeds and Mortgages made before the organization of the county and not on the county records, as well as all those made and recorded since. Written abstracts and opinions of title furnished. No one should invest in land without examining the Title.

OFFICE OPP. SWINEFORD HOUSE
S. W. Cor. Public Square. AUBURN, INDIANA.

The Auburn Weekly Courier

Published every Thursday, by

TOM. C. MAYS.

OneYear, ... $2. | SixMonths, ... $1.

Advertising Rates.

	1m.	3m.	6 m.	1 y.
One Square	2 50	5 00	7 00	12 00
Column............	6 00	12 00	18 00	30 00
Column............	10 00	18 00	30 00	50 00
1 Column	18 00	30 00	50 00	100 00

Local Notices 10 cents per line, first insertion; 5cents each insertion thereafter. Business Cards 6 dollars.

Business Cards.

BICKEL & TEFFT,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Auburn, Ind. Office in the Court House.
J. W. BICKEL, R. DEXTE TEFFT.

COURIER OFFICE,

JOB PRINTING neatly executed. Fine work a specialty. Office in Odd Fellows' Building 2nd floor.

AMERICAN HOUSE,

AT FORT WAYNE, only $2 a day. Good accommodations for traveling men.
C. B. OAKLEY, Prop'r.

DR. J. A. COWAN,

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office on Main street, over Central Grocery.

Joseph H. Stophlet.

ARCHITECT. Office over No. 17 Court street 1st door north of Empire Line office, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Drawings and specifications furnished for all classes of buildings, at reasonable rates.

GUY PLUM,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office in the Court House. Special attention paid to the collection of claims. Also agent for Home Insurance Company.

Medical Society.

OF DeKALB COUNTY, meets at Auburn, Ind., the 2nd Tuesday in each month.
J. H. FORD, Pres't.
J. A. COWAN, Sec'y.

A. F. PINCHIN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public, Butler, DeKalb Co., Ind. Insurance and real estate business promptly attended to.

H. C. PETERSON,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office over Davis' hardware store, Auburn, Ind.

SWINEFORD HOUSE.

CORNER MAIN AND NINTH STREETS, opposite the Court House. S. C. SWINEFORD, Pro.

J. J. LITTLEFIELD,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. Office over Miller and Casebeer's Store, Auburn, Indiana.

DRS. SEBRING & GRAHAM.

PARTNERS in the practice of Medicine. Office in Shaffer's brick building, second story, Main street, Auburn, Ind.

G. H. K. MOSS. P. V. HOFFMAN

MOSS and HOFFMAN,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW and Notaries Public Butler, Ind. Special attention given to collections. Also buy and sell Real Estate.

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office first door to right, Masonic Hall, over the Shoe Store of Sprott & Son.

PENFIELD and MOODY,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana.

R. M. and W. C. LOCKHART,

DEALERS IN LUMBER of every description, Waterloo City, Ind. We buy and ship Lumber at the going cash rates, at all times.

McBRIDE and MORLAN,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in any of the courts of the State. Office over O. T. Clark's Dry Goods store.

WOODHULL and CROXTON,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW Angola, Indiana. Practice in Steuben and DeKalb Counties.

CHAS. A. O. McCLELLAN.

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in the Courts of DeKalb and Steuben counties. Liberal Advances Made on all First-class Claims left in my hands for collection.

COURTS IN STEUBEN CO.	COURTS IN DEKALB CO.
1st Monday in February	3rd Monday in Feb.
4th Monday in April	2nd Monday in May
1st Monday in September	3rd Monday in Sep.
4 th Monday in November	2nd Monday in Dec

H. Wartenslaben

PAINTER and paper hanger. House painting a specialty. Residence corner Williams and Cedar street.

Toledo Business Cards.

Chas. L. Luce. Fred. C. Chapin. James Blass

Luce, Chapin & Blass,

IMPORTERS AND JOBBERS of foreign and domestic dry goods, notions, white goods, &c 134 and 136 Summit street, Toledo, Ohio.

Chris. Gerber. M. O. Waggoner.

C. Gerber & Co.,

WHOLESALE DEALERS in general hardware. Sign of the big jack knife and star ax. 128 Summit and 58 Water streets, Toledo, Ohio.

Geo. Emerson. Pliny Watson. E. C. Phelps.

Emerson & Co.,

WHOLESALE GROCERS, 142, 144 and 46 Summit street, Toledo, Ohio.

V. Hamilton. E. Goldsmith.

Hamilton & Goldsmith,

COMMISSION MERCHANTS, Water street Toledo, Ohio.

BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R.

(CHICAGO DIVISION.)

Takes effect Dec. 6th, '74, at 3 o'clock

Going East.

STATIONS.	Balt. Ex	Fast L.	Local Fr No. 1	Fast Fr No. 17
Chicago	8 00 am	7 00 pm
Cromwell	2 20 pm	2 15 am	4 05 pm	3 15am
Albion	2 44	2 39	4 40	4 10
Avilla	3 09	3 05	5 55	5 06
Garrett	3 25	3 20	6 30	5 30
Auburn Junc	3 50	3 36	6 20 am	6 18
Defiance	5 25	5 10	9 40am	9 25 am
Chi. Junction	9 15 pm	8 50am

Going West.

STATIONS.	Chi. Ex.	Fast L.	Fast Fr. No. 18	Local Fr No. 16
Chicago	8 50pm	8 45a
Cromwell	3 11	2 15	5 55	7 40 am
Albion	2 44	1 50	4 45	6 40
Avilla	2 14	1 35	3 49	5 40
Garrett	1 50	1 10	2 25	9 00
Auburn June	1 18	12 56	2 05	8 55pm
Auburn	1 10	12 51pm	2 00	8 50
Defiance	11 35 am	11 20	10 45am	5 30
Chi. Junction.	8 00 am	7 40

Ft. Wayne, Jackson & Sag. R. R

Short Line Between

Michigan and the South.

Time card in effect Dec 13th —run by Chicago time

Going North.

Stations	Mail	Accom.	Jack. Acm
Cincinnati		6 30	2 45
Louisville	11 10pm		7 35
Indianapolis	4 25		2 00
Ft Wayne	10 40	4 25	8 00
Auburn	11 30	6 40	8 18
Waterloo	11 53	6 25
Summit
Pleasant Lake			4 20
Ar Angola	12 5	7 45	5 06
Reading	2 00	9?1	5 21
Bankers	3 15	9 36	5 40
Jonesville	2 35	10 03	6 00
Jackson	3 40	11 55	6 50
Detroit	6 30	3 30	10 00
Grand Rapids	9 30	7 00	5 50
Lansing	5 13		8 37
Saginaw	8 55		11 40
Bay City	9 50		12 35

Going South.

Stations	Mail	Accom.	Jack. Acm
Bay City		6 30	2 45
Saginaw		7 25	3 40
Lansing		10 40	7 10
Grand Rapids	9 30 pm	7 00	12 00
Detroit		10 20	5 40
Jackson Dep	5 50a m	1 20	9 40
Jonesville	7 05
Bankers	7 26	3 40	11 00
Reading	7 40	4 05	11 13
Ar Angola	8 42	5 25	12 06
Pleasant Lake
Waterloo	9 25	6 28	12 42
Auburn	9 41	6 20	12 55
Auburn Junction
Fort Wayne, Arrive	10 40	8 15	12 58
Indianapolis	7 45 p m		1 50
Louisville	8 45		7 20a
Cincinnati	8 25 a m		1 10p

W. A. ERNST, Sup
S. K. HOOPER Gen. Ticket Ag't.

Ft. Wayne, Muncie & Cin R. R.

Time Table to take effect Sept 6, 1874.

Going South.

Fort Wayne	10 00am	5 00a.m	1 40pm
Ossian	10 42am		2 22
Bluffton	11 10	3 15	2 50
Keystone	11 30am	9 40	3 20
Montpelier	11 40		3 30
Hartford	12 10pm	4 05	3 56
Eaton	12 30		4 19
Muncie	1 00	4 4	4 53
McCowan's	1 18
New Castle	2 05	4 06
Cam. City	2 28
Bessons	2 54
Connersville	3 10
Indianapolis		7 05	8 50pm
Louisville		1 00pm	11 25am
Cincinnati	6 20

Going North.

Cincinnati	6 45am	pm
Louisville		8 00	11 25
Indianapolis		7 50	3 40
Connersville	10 25
Bessons	10 40
Cam City	11 00
New Castle	11 45pm
McCowans	12 32pm
Muncie	1 00	10 27	5 45am
Eaton	1 2		6 25
Hartford	1 43	11 10	6 51
Montpelier	1 52		7 24
Keystone	2 15		7 35
Bluffton	5 15	12 05am	8 15
Ossian	2 47		8 50
Ft. Wayne	3 25	1 15	9 45

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Gen'l. Supt.
ROBT. BILLER, Gen'l Ticket Agt.

DETOIT, EEL RIVER & ILLINOIS Rail Road.

Short Line between Auburn and the East and West.

Trains run on Cleveland time. Through trains will run on the following time, in effect Sunday Dec 11, 1874.

Going East.			Going West.
Way Fr.	Mail	Stations	Mail	Acc'
6 40	10 10 am	Logansport Peoria	7 45 p.m	2 53
8 20	10 54 am	Denver	6 56	1 35
10 10	12 10 pm	N. Manches'r	5 59	12 10
10 15	12 57	Col. City	5 08	11 15
12 30 pm	2 04 pm	Auburn	3 52	9 55
11 50	3 30	ar. Butler lv	3 20	9 20
		Toledo
		Detroit

CONNECTIONS—At Logansport with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St Louis, Logansport, Crawfordsville & Southwestern and Toledo. Wabash & Western R. R's. At Denver with Indian'plis, Peru & Chicago Railway, for Rochester, Plymouth, LaPorte, Michigan City, Peru, Kokomo and Indianapolis At N. Manchester with Cincinnati, Wabash & Mich R'y. At Columbia City with Pittsburg, Ft. W, & Chicago, for Ft Wayne Lima, Crestline and Pittsburg. At Grand Rapids crossing with Grand Rapids R'y. At Auburn Junction with Ft. Wayne Jackson & Saginaw, for Angola, Jackson and Saginaw R'y, for Butler with Lake Shore & Mich. Southern Caw. Toledo, Detroit and all eastern cities.

J. A. HUGHSTON, Gen. Ticket Agt.
A. B. SCUTHARD, Gen. Supt.

When you want good job printing give us a call.

Lake Shore & Mich. Southern R.R
Air Line Division

ON and after Sunday, Nov. 15, 1874 Passenger Trains will leave Waterloo city and other Stations as follows, daily except Sundays:

GOING WEST

	Special Ex.	Pacific Ex.	Accom'd'n
Butler.......	2:50 p m.	2:35 a m.	8:00 p m
Waterloo ...	2:56 "	2:53 "	8:19 "
Sedan.........	3:06	3:00	8:30 "
Corunna......	3,10	3,06	8:35 "

GOING EAST.

	Special Ex.	Pacific Ex.	Accom'd'n
Corunna......	2.15 pm	11.20 pm	6:50 p m
Sedan.........	2.20	11.35	7:02 "
Waterloo......	2:28 "	11:44 "	7:11 "
Butler.........	2:40 "	x12:01 a m	7:55 "

CHAS. PAINE, Gen. Supt.
J. W. CARY, Gen Tic. Agt.
J. R. CURTIS, Division Supt

Pittsburgh, Ft Wayne & Chicago R. R

ON and after Nov 15 1874 Trains will leave stations daily, (Sundays excepted) as follow:

Going West.

STATIONS	FAST EX.	MAIL.	PAC. EX.	NIGHT EX
Pittsburg	2,00 A M	6,00 A. M.	9,40 A M	2,00 P. M.
Rochester	"	7,25 "	10,50 "	3,11 "
Alliance...	5,22 "	11,00 "	1,30 P M	5.57 "
Orrville ...	7,12 "	12,32 P. M	3,15 "	7,40 "
Mansfield.	9,20 "	3,15 "	5,20 "	9,40 "
Crest- ar	9.50 "	3,50 "	6,00 "	10,10 "
line ...lv	10,10 "	5,00 A M	6,25 "	10,20 "
Forest....	11,33 "	6,32 "	8,15 "	11,52 "
Lima......	12,30 P M	8,00 "	9.30 "	12,50 A. "
Ft Wayne	2,50 "	10,40 "	12,15 A M	3,15 "
Plymouth	5,00 "	1,25 P. M	3,00 "	5,40 "
Chicago ...	8,20 "	5,25 "	6,50 "	9,20 "

Going East.

STATIONS	MAIL	FAST EX.	PAC. EX.	NIGHT EX
Chicago ...	5,15 A M	9,20 A. M.	5.35 A. M.
Plymouth	9,25 "	12,15 P. M.	9,10 "	10,20 P. M
Ft Wayne	12,30 P M	2,45 "	11,45 "	2,25 A. M
Lima.......	2,55 "	4,35 "	1,52 A. M.	5,50 "
Forest	4,10 "	5,36 "	3,01 "	8,00 "
Crest- ar	5,50 "	7,00 "	4.40 "	9.17 "
line lv	6,05 A M	7,20 "	4.50 "	11,10 "
Mansfield	6,40 "	7,50 "	5,20 "	11 20 "
Orrville	9,05 "	9,42 "	7,12 "	11,51 "
Alliance...	11,20 "	11,20 "	9 00 "	1,40 P M
Rochester	2,10 P M		11,12 "	3,40
Pittsburg	3,30 "	2,20 a m	12 15 A. M.	5,58

F. R. MYERS,
General Passenger and Ticket Agent

Thomas Baldock
Building Contractor
AUBURN INDIANA.

will be ready at all times with an experienced Corps of workmen to erect Houses, Barns, and do Carpenter and joiner work of all kinds at reasonable rates.

BRICK FOR SALE

FRITZ GROESCOP.

Having just burned a fine kiln of brick, about one hundred thousand, is now ready to supply all who want good brick at reasonable figures. Residence two miles north of Auburn on the Kutzner road; three miles south west of Waterloo.

John M. Miller,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FINE FURNITURE,
CHAIRS.
Husk & Hair Matrasses
50 and 52 East Main Street,
FORT WAYNE, IND.

J. G. FLEDDERMAN,
No. 27, East Main-St.
FORT WAYNE, IND'A
Has the largest and finest stock of
CLOTHS, COATINGS, CHEVIOTS,
—AND—
CassimereS
in Ft. Wayne. The finest line of
Made up Clothing!
ever shown in Fort Wayne
Youths' and Children's Clothing!
Furnishing Goods, &c.
Merchant Tailoring.

All work done in all the latest styles, promptly attended to. Go and see his large stock of Goods.

Auburn Bakery!
AND
EATING HOUSE
BAKER BROS.

PROPRIETORS OF

Fresh baked Pies, Cakes etc., always on hand. Good lunches served at all hours.

BAKER BROS.

The Great Cause of
HUMAN MISERY

Just Published in a Sealed Envelope. Price 6 cts

A LECTURE on the nature, treatment and radical cure of Seminal Weakness, or Spermatorrhoea, introduced by self abuse, Involuntary Emissions, Impotency, Nervous Debility and fits; Mental and Physical Incapacity, &c—by Robt J. Culverwell, M. D. author of the 'Green Book,' &c.

The world renowned author, in this admirable Lecture, clearly proves from his own experience that the awful consequences of self abuse may be cured without medicine, and without dangerous surgical operations; pointing out a mode cure at once certain and effectual, by which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be may cure himself cheaply, privately and radical.

☞ This lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands. Sent, under seal, in a plain envelope to any address, on receipt of 6 cents, or two postage stamps. Address

CHAS. J. C. KLINE & CO.,
127 Bowery, N. Y. Post Office Box 45

Select Story.

A WOMAN'S COURAGE;

OR THE

BRIDGEPORT MOB.

BY CAPT. CHARLES HOWARD.

In the begining of an autumnal gleaming, a queenly-looking girl stood on a porch, half hidden by the branches of two stately elms. Much anxiety was depicted on her face, and she seemed to be listening to certain sounds that came from a busy city not far away—a city whose white steeples she could see over the tree-tops.

I wonder if he will bow to them, she muttered,—to them, the rabble. I have encouraged him, and he seemed to take strength from my words. Courtley says my name is mentioned in connection with his, and that the rioters have threatened Bridgely Park with the torch. Aha! let them attempt the carrying out of their sombre threats. I am here, and, weak girl though I be, I will defend the birthplace of my fathers to the last extremity!"

'What! Kate, will you bid defiance to a Bridgeport mob ?'

The words were spoken so close to her ear that Kate Bridgely turned abruptly, and faced a venerable man whose stern look was tinctured with surprise.

'I do defend them, Uncle Jarvis,' replied the girl in a firm voice. My father dealt with and conquered a Bridgeport mob in his day.'

'And lost his beautiful mills—the pride of his growing State.'

'And ultimately, for aught I know he lost his life by the underhand work of the defeated, she said.

'I have ever clung to such a belief Kate, replied Jarvis Bridgely, There were a thousand and one threats against your father's life. And Kate you must not imitate his rashness.'

'Then what must I do ?'

Her tone was sharp and cutting, and contempt lurked therin.'

'You must concede their point.'

'Never! I bow to no mob. They may burn my mills, and saw Bridgely Park in salt, but I will bow to them never!

'Kate, your rashness amazes me, said her uncle. Think the men are on the edge of water, a majority have families, and their demands for an increase of wages I must regard, in some measurer, just'

'But their demands are exorbitant. My men are willing to accede to my terms, but the baffled instigator of the disturbance listens to no proposals until his work is accomplished.

'To whom do you refer, Kate ? asked her uncle, appearing surprised.'

To David Beadle.

Kate, you judge Mr. Beadle wrongly.' said Jarves Bridgely quickly, but not without a start.

'Would to heaven that I did, for I have called him a fiend for years!' the girl replied, with some feeling.

'Why should he hate you Kate ?'

'Because,' and she fell upon her relative, and looked him squarely in the eyes, 'because I love Courtly Dayton.'

Jarvis Bridgely started, but uttered no exclamation of supprise.

'Did David Beadle seek your hand, he asked camly.

'Yes, and I told him that another held it, with my heart in his keeping.

'What did he say ?

'I saw a scowl gather on his face, and he blessed Courtley Dayton. But it was the blessing the tigers bestowe on the robber of her whelps. I have fathomed David Beadle's mind,'

'He is handsome.'

'True.'

'And rich.'

'What care I for additional wealth?

'He loves you Kate'

'Let him prove it by withdrawing his evils councils from among my men she said, firmly. Uncle——!'

'Fre! fire!'

The cry came from the court of Bridgely Park, and uncle and niece turned their faces toward the city, from the southern suburb of which a lurid flames shot heavenward,

'I told you of the ending,' said Jarvis Bridgely in a triumph and tone, turning to his niece. 'The mob is at work. The torch has been applied to Courtley Dayton's factories; yours will fall next, if you do not yield.'

'I tell you once for all, uncle that I will not yield to the mob. Beyond the concessions I have already offered I will not go.'

'Kate Bridgley you inherit the stubbornness of your father, said her uncle angered by her words. 'If you will look to the east yonder flames, you may see another.'

'Let them burn my house,' said she calmly, 'they cannot beggar me with their torch. All this is David Beadle's work.'

She spoke the last sentence as she turned, but her uncle was not to be seen.

'Uncle Jarvis knows that this is his work,' continued, gazing at the crimson fire that bathed Bridgeport in a ruddy light, and that he sympathized with the dastard, I more than suspects.—But—what! a pistol shot, and just beyond the gate too!"

The sharp report of the pistol startled the girl, and she was on the eve of darting forward, when the figure of a man, reeling wildly towards the porch caused her to retain her position.

That the person was wounded, Kate Bridgely at once saw, and with a bound she flew down the steps, as he—Courtley Dayton—sunk at her feet with a groan.

His face was as white as ashes, and as she raised from the stones, blood bubbled to his lips.

'Courtley, what means this ?

'They were watching for me, Kate,' he said with an effort. 'I fled thither to tell you that they were coming to make the last demand, and to defend Bridgley Park to the last extremity. They shot me down the road—shot me, perhaps to death.'

'No, no, certainly.' and turning quickly Kate threw open the door.

Jarvis Bridgley made his appearance, and the twain bore Dayton into the mansion

'This is the result of stubborness, said the uncle looking up into the face of his niece, who was making her wounded lover comfortable on the couch. They will visit us before dawn You will concede all now ?

'Concede all to the man whose heirling shot him? she cried, looking at her lover. Never!'

The uncle bit his lips and turned away.

A boy was dispatched to the city for a surgeon, with instructions to smuggle him into Bridgely Park, and Kate ascended to the observatory.

The grand factory building belonging to Dayton were still blazing with a vengeance, and she saw her own yet intact, but ready for the torch. The cause of the uproar was a demand for increased wages, to which the owners of the mills had refused to listen To the citizens of Bridgeport the fact that no other mills were attacked was amistry, and they wondered at this when Courtly Dayton and Kate Bridgely had been paying wages slightly in advance of the other factories

True, the people knew David Beadle but not as the cunning man he was.—He wore a cloak about his heart—a cloak which Kate Bridgely had drawn aside and looked down into the deceit that lay beneath it folds.

She remained in the observatory until certain sounds told her that a large body of men was approaching from the city. Then she decended to her boudoir, and took a beautiful silver mounted pistol form a drawer, in which it had lain, almost untouched, since her father's death. With a calmness truly remarkable, she examined the chambers of the weapon, and thrust it into the embroidered pocket of her snowy sacque as she glided from the room.

A physician stood beside Dayton's bed.

The rascals gave him a severe wound Miss Bridgely,' he said, looking up at our heroine as she entered the champer, 'but we will try to get him up again.

'Succeed in your attempt, sir,' she said, and draw on me.'

'You may soon have no bank account,' said Bridgely, savagely. Kate for the last time I entreat you to yield to your employees.'

'Not while he rules the poor fellows will I listen to your entreaties,' she answered him. 'Listen! they are swarming the court now. I will go and meet them.'

'And we will accompany you' said the doctor. 'My patient is sleeping now, and will not wake until morning.

With a firm step, and determination writen on her beautiful face, Kate Bridgely advanced to the front entrance, and stept upon the porch.

A loud cry greeted her appearance, for the great court that trended from the mansion to the high way swarmed with people, many of whom bore torches and lanterns, Courtley's Daytons employees headed the mob, and in the background Kate recognized here own factory men.

'Bread! bread for our little ones this winter! was the wild cry that rang out upon the bracing October air.

And pray who has refused your children bread? demanded our heroine in tones that touched their hearts, for she had endured herself to her employees by frendly visits to their families and now they thought of this.

Gentlemen, she continued, 'tell me what you want. If you have a spokesmen, let him come forward and lay before me for the last time your demands—for the last time, I say.'

'Aha, she's coming to it,' cried several voices. 'The flames of Dayton's Mills have scorched her heart.'

'Your spokesman, gentlemen; where is he?' she said impatiently.

The next moment a man emerged from the crowd, and politely doffed his hat to the mistrees of Bridgely Park.

The man was David Beadle.

She eyed him until he qualed beneath her look.

'Miss Bridgely,' he said, 'your men have entrusted to me a recital of their greivances. They feel themselves oppressed on the edge of winter, and with the dreary outlook before them demand and increase of six per cent. on their present wages'

'Suppose I should refuse the increase said she.'

David Beadle hesitated.

'Answer me, David Beadle.'

'I shudder at the consequences attendant upon a refusal,' he said glancing up at the magnificent house before which he stood. Already one has suffered for his stubbornness.'

'Citizens of Bridgeport, said Kate, turning to a group of well dressed men who had followed the mob from the burning mills, behold the instigator of this riot, and her hand rose from her side until in discried David Beadle standing in the broad glar of the lights Gentlemen, I do not accuse him without proof. But the motive that prompts him—let me tell it.'

'I will not listen! cried the plotter livid with rage, turning away. Men she is going to refuse you your rights. Will you—

'David Beatle, stand where you are! she interrupted, and the pistol that flew from her sacque covered his head. 'Stand there till I have told my factory men how they have been drawn into the bit of your scheming.'

Then a dead silence enshrouded the scene and in a clear tone Kate Bridgely told the story of David Beadle's rejection, and followed him through the mazes of his plottings with an accuracy that astonished the villain himself.

'Men, without his words you would have demanded no increase of wages,' she said at last. 'I willingly give you four per cent now. Hundreds of you this night have been thrown out of employment by the machinations of a disappointed lover; but you shall not suffer. My old mill is still full of looms it will accommodate every one of you and I will give you work until Dayton Mills resume again.'

The revulsion of feeling was astounding. Kate Bridgely had triumphed.

The rage of the deceived man knew no bounds, and David Beadle was compelled to see an asylum in Bridgely Park. Kate protected the man who had as grossly wronged her, and the next day the law took hold of his person.

Kind hearted girl, she would have saved him from his vengeance; but she could not, and the walls of the State prison soon encircled him.

Courtley Dayton, after a long illness recovered, and upon the day that witness the opening of his new mills he called Kate Bridgely wife.

Theirs was the grandest wedding in Bridgeport, for beneath the golden chandeliers of Bridgely park, labor stood on an equality with capital.

◆

HERE'S SOMETHING NOVEL.

A Chance for Somebody to win a $500 City Lot in Rockhill's Addition.

Tickets Given Away.

A novel idea in the way of advertising has been brought to our notice by Messrs Sam Pete and Max, managers of the noted Star Clothing house. They propose to to distribute a thousand tickets between this and January 1st 1875. No one is asked to buy these tickets, or pay for them, in any way. It is simply a new method of advertising their establishment

The lucky ticket will be determined by the Mayor of the city, before a number of prominent citizens. All the numbers 1 to 1 00 will be placed in a wheel which will be shaken up, and the committee can decide whether the first or any preceeding number shall win the $500 prize, lot No. 69 corner Mechanic and Walnut streets Rockhill's 2d addition.—Every purchaser of clothing to the amo't of ten dollars (10) will receive a ticket the purchaser selecting any number he desires.

No person will, under any circumstances, be allowed more than one ticket.

The clear title deed, paid in full, can be seen at the Star Clothing House No. 5 East Main st. Ft. Wayne Ind.

◆

Try the COURIER one year only $2 00.

AUBURN COURIER

THURSDAY, DEC. 24, 1874.

CALENDAR FOR 1875.

1875.	Sunday	Monday	Tuesday	Wed'y	Thurs'y	Friday	Saturd'y	1875.	Sunday	Monday	Tuesday	Wed'y	Thurs'y	Friday	Saturd'y
Jan.	..	..	..	..	..	1	2	July	..	..	..	..	1	2	3
	3	4	5	6	7	8	9		4	5	6	7	8	9	10
	10	11	12	13	14	15	16		11	12	13	14	15	16	17
	17	18	19	20	21	22	23		18	19	20	21	22	23	24
	24	25	26	27	28	29	30		25	26	27	28	29	30	31
	31
Feb.	..	1	2	3	4	5	6	Aug.	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
	7	8	9	10	11	12	13		8	9	10	11	12	13	14
	14	15	16	17	18	19	20		15	16	17	18	19	20	21
	21	22	23	24	25	26	27		22	23	24	25	26	27	28
	28								29	30	31
Mar.	..	1	2	3	4	5	6	Sept.	..	..	..	1	2	3	4
	7	8	9	10	11	12	13		5	6	7	8	9	10	11
	14	15	16	17	18	19	20		12	13	14	15	16	17	18
	21	22	23	24	25	26	27		19	20	21	22	23	24	25
	28	29	30	31					26	27	28	29	30
April	..	..	..	..	1	2	3	Oct.	..	..	..	..	..	1	2
	4	5	6	7	8	9	10		3	4	5	6	7	8	9
	11	12	13	14	15	16	17		10	11	12	13	14	15	16
	18	19	20	21	22	23	24		17	18	19	20	21	22	23
	25	26	27	28	29	30			24	25	26	27	28	29	30
									31
May	..	..	..	..	..	..	1	Nov.	..	1	2	3	4	5	6
	2	3	4	5	6	7	8		7	8	9	10	11	12	13
	9	10	11	12	13	14	15		14	15	16	17	18	19	20
	16	17	18	19	20	21	22		21	22	23	24	25	26	27
	23	24	25	26	27	28	29		28	29	30
	30	31
June	..	..	1	2	3	4	5	Dec.	..	..	..	1	2	3	4
	6	7	8	9	10	11	12		5	6	7	8	9	10	11
	13	14	15	16	17	18	19		12	13	14	15	16	17	18
	20	21	22	23	24	25	26		19	20	21	22	23	24	25
	27	28	29	30					26	27	28	29	30	31

ASTRONOMICAL—1875.

The following are the principal astronomical phenomena of the coming year, with the Chicago mean times of their occurrence:

SUNDAYS IN 1875.

Jan. 3, 10, 17, 24, 31.
Feb. 7, 14, 21, 28.
March 7, 14, 21, 28.
April 4, 11, 18, 25.
May 2, 9, 16, 23, 30.
June 6, 13, 20, 27.
July 4, 11, 18, 25.
Aug. 1, 8, 15, 22, 29.
Sept. 5, 12, 19, 26.
Oct. 3, 10, 17, 24, 31.
Nov. 7, 14, 21, 28.
Dec. 5, 12, 19, 26.

March 28 is Easter Sunday, being the first Sunday after the full moon following the conjunction of the sun with the vernal equinox.

THE MOON.

Month.	New Moons.	Full Moons.
January	7—11h. 17¼ a. m.	21—11h. 50¼ a. m.
February	6— 2h. 4½ a. m.	20— 2h. 11 a. m.
March	7— 2h. 39 p. m.	21— 6h. 1¼ p. m.
April	6— 0h. 45¼ a. m.	20—10h. 39¼ a. m.
May	5— 9h. 13¼ a. m.	20— 2h. 59¼ a. m.
June	3— 4h. 31 p. m.	18— 6h. 5¼ p. m.
July	2—11h. 34¼ p. m.	18— 7h. 36¼ a. m.
August	1— 7h. 37¼ a. m.	16— 7h. 43½ p. m.
August	30— 5h. 51 p. m.
September	29— 7h. 4¼ a. m.	15— 6h. 51¼ a. m.
October	28—11h. 23¼ p. m.	14— 5h. 24¼ p. m.
November	27— 5h. 53 p. m.	13— 3h. 30¼ a. m.
December	27— 1h. 14 p. m.	12— 1h. 55 p. m.

THE SEASONS.

Sun enters Aries; spring commences March 20, 6h. 31m. p. m.

Sun enters Cancer; summer commences June 21, 3h. 57m. p. m.

Earth in aphelion, July 2, 11h. 37m. p. m.

Sun enters Libra; autumn commences Sept. 23, 5h. 25m. a. m.

Sun enters Capricorn; winter commences Dec. 21, 11h. 26m. p. m.

ECLIPSES.

There will be two eclipses in 1875, both of the sun, as follows:

A total eclipse of the sun, April 6, at 0h. 40½ m. a. m. Invisible to every part of the United States.

An annular eclipse of the sun, Sept. 29, partially visible at Chicago just after sunrise.

NEWS SUMMARY.

The East.

The death is announced of Ezra Cornell, the founder of Cornell College, in the 68th year of his age....The "boy-fiend," Jesse Pomeroy, of Boston, has been found guilty of murder in the first degree, and it is recommended that he be imprisoned for life.

An earthquake shock was felt in New York city, along the Hudson river, and in Connecticut, on the night of the 10th inst....The trial of the suit of Tilton against Beecher has been again postponed—this time until the first Monday in January....The merchants and ship-owners of New Bedford, Mass., have decided to prosecute in the Court of Alabama Claims for constructive damage on account of prospective catches of whales destroyed or frightened out of the Arctic ocean by the Shenandoah in 1865.

The five children of John Datterich, ranging in age from 6 to 16 years, were drowned the other day, while amusing themselves with a sled on a pond near their parents' residence at Preakness, N. J....A heavy defalcation, amounting to about $43,000, has been discovered in the accounts of the Financial Agent of the freight department of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in Pittsburgh.

The question of the abduction of the boy Charley Ross from Philadelphia is in a fair way of being solved, but in a somewhat tragic manner. The secret of the kidnapping is about to be brought to light by the death of two notorious New York burglars, who were killed near that city, a few days ago, while attempting to rob the house of Judge Van Brunt. One of them made a dying confession, to the effect that he was the veritable abductor, but failed to reveal the hiding-place of the boy....Boston was visited by two disastrous conflagrations on the morning of the 15th inst., destroying property to the amount of over half a million dollars. On the same day a fire in Charlestown, Mass., consumed $125,000 worth of property, and another at Au Sable Forks, N. Y., destroyed a rolling-mill, involving a loss of $125,000....The Republic, the new Republican newspaper started in New York a few weeks ago in opposition to the Times, has suspended.

A hotel and nine stores in Bangor, Me., were burned on the 16th inst....A large portion of the town of Forest City, Ark., has been destroyed by fire....The losses of the Boston fire are set down at $590,000; insurance about $150,000.

The West.

Advices from the frontier report the Sioux and Ute Indians on the war-path, and the settlers arming for the purpose of giving them a warm reception....Chicago papers announce the death of Michael Morrissey, uncle of John Morrissey, ex-M. C. and sport, in the 100th year of his age....Since the robbery of the express car on the Kansas Pacific railroad at Muncie, recently, the police officers of that region have been unusually vigilant, and when a Kansas City "sport" named McDaniels came galloping into town after an absence of some days, with three revolvers and more money than he generally carries, he was promptly arrested....A bill has been introduced into the Ohio Legislature to provide for compulsory education....A half-breed scout, who recently had occasion to visit the Black Hills in search of stolen horses, has returned to Brule City, Dakota, and reports that he saw a large party of white men prospecting in the lower hills—with what success he does not state....Rev. H. C. Potter, of New York, has declined the election to the Episcopate of Iowa, and the office has been tendered to Rev. W. R. Huntington, of Worcester, Mass.

Dr. James V. Z. Blaney, Professor of Analytical Chemistry in Rush Medical College, Chicago, and one of the most eminent physicians in the West, is dead....A shocking story comes from St. Paul. A Sunday-school teacher of that city has been arrested for the seduction of a number of his pupils, mere children! The wretch has made a confession, in which he admits having debauched six little girls ranging from 9 to 15 years of age. ...A Mr. J. W. Benes, of Minnesota, has lately arrived at Sioux City from the Black Hills. He confirms the previous reports that mining parties were at work in the Hills, and says they are getting out gold in paying quantities.

The small-pox is almost epidemic in St. Louis, and the report of the Board of Health shows thirty-one deaths from this disease in one week....Three indictments against W. F. Storey, of the Chicago Times, for libel, have been returned by the Grand Jury of Cook county, Ill.

Des Moines, the capital city of Iowa, has been disgraced by a case of lynch-law. At 2 o'clock on the morning of the 15th inst., a disguised party of 150 men forced their way into the jail, and, taking out one Charles Howard, a rough character, who, a few hours previously, had been tried and convicted of murdering John Johnson, an equally rough character, in a brothel, hanged him to a lamp-post. Howard had been sentenced to imprisonment for life....The amount of grain in store in Chicago on the 15th inst. was 1,572,244 bushels of wheat, 956,822 bushels of corn, 302,130 bushels of oats, 22,777 bushels of rye, and 303,658 bushels of barley, making a grand total of 3,157,631 bushels, against 2,706,723 bushels at the same time the previous week.

The South.

Col. Samuel B. Thomas, one of the richest men in Kentucky, died in Louisville last week....The grand jury at Frankfort, Ky., has found an indictment against Thomas S. Jones, the present Clerk of the Court of Appeals, charging him with usurping an office established by the Constitution, by being ineligible, from the fact that he accepted a challenge to fight a duel.

In an interview with Representative Sheldon, recently, the President said, in talking of Louisiana affairs, that he did not deem it advisable to take any further precautionary steps to prevent an outbreak against Kellogg, but that if violence was again attempted he would resort to extreme measures and subject the ringleaders to severe punishment....A large number of citizens of Vicksburg have issued an address giving a statement of the troubles there. They charge a vast amount of official corruption, and accuse Gov. Ames of being chiefly instrumental in fomenting the strife....The congressional committee appointed to investigate affairs in Arkansas will, it is thought, report against the claims of both Baxter and Garland. This will involve the overthrow of the existing constitution and the restoration to power of Joseph Brooks.

The cotton crop of 1874, as estimated by the cotton-growers in their returns to the Department of Agriculture, somewhat exceeds 3,500,000 bales. The yield per acre is reported less than in 1873. In most of the States the weather for ripening and gathering the top crop has been very favorable. Reports are nearly unanimous in stating that the proportion of lint to seed is large....A little school rumpus has been created in New Orleans by the introduction of half a dozen colored girls as pupils into one of the female high schools. Over fifty of the graduating class withdrew upon the entrance of the negroes.

The Champion cotton press in Charleston, S. C., was recently destroyed by fire. Loss, $250,000.

Washington.

The report of the Commissioners of the Freedman's Bank shows that the indebtedness of the institution is about $3,000,000, and the assets at their full value amount to but 96 per cent. of this sum....Washington dispatches state that a proposition is now under consideration by the authorities of the United States looking to the cession to the United States of a strip of territory on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande running back from the river to the mountains. This cession is proposed to be made by way of indemnity for the past and security for the future, and if the negotiations are successful it will, it is believed, enable the United States government to put an effectual stop to the raiding and marauding of thieving bands of Mexicans that have committed such great depredations on the people of Texas....The Northern Pacific Railroad Company is at Washington in force, working up a bill for extending government aid to continue the building of the road. ....The House Ways and Means Committee has decided to continue the investigation into the Pacific Mail subsidy legislation of the Forty-second Congress. Some startling revelations are looked for.

Representative Farwell, of Illinois, has prepared a currency bill, the main features of which are free-banking, and the retirement of one million in government bank-notes each month, beginning with July, 1875, until the notes not redeemed are on a par with gold. The Secretary is authorized to use the surplus in the Treasury for the purposes of the bill, or if he has not available funds, to sell bonds. ...The majority of the Pacific Railroad Committee are understood to be determinedly opposed to the further subsidizing of railroads.... President Grant and Secretary of the Treasury Bristow are reported by a Washington telegram to be at variance over the appointment of a financial agent in London. The President wants ex-Senator Cattell reappointed, while Mr. Bristow opposes that selection, and, it is said, will resign if his wishes are not consulted in the matter....It is stated that "the course of Gov. Ames, of Mississippi, in endeavoring to suppress the disorders existing there without calling for the assistance of the Federal government is a source of much gratification to the administration"....The affairs of the Pacific Mail Company are being investigated by the Ways and Means Committee of the House, and a resolution has been offered by Mr. Dawes for the arrest of Richard B. Irwin, the San Francisco agent, who engineered the $5,000,000 subsidy through Congress, and he will be compelled to testify as to who aided him in procuring the five-million donation....The new Democratic organ, the Evening Mail, which made its appearance at Washington on Thanksgiving day, has suspended for want of patronage. ....At the meeting of the House Judiciary Committee, the other day, a sub-committee was appointed to draw up another Civil-Rights bill. It is understood that the committee are instructed to incorporate all the essential features of the Senate bill, now on the House calendar, omitting therefrom the cemetery and school sections.

King Kalakaua arrived in Washington on the 12th inst., and was handsomely received....The rumor that Chief Justice Swayne proposes to retire from the Supreme bench is pronounced without foundation.... The Southern Claims Commission has passed upon 1,000 claims, and awarded $750,000.... Mr. Arthur, of Philadelphia, has declined the position of Government Supervising Architect, tendered him by the Secretary of the Treasury....The representatives of the two opposing schools of finance are agreed in the opinion that there is no probability of the passage of any important Finance bill at this session.

The President has appointed Don A. Pardee United States District Judge for Louisiana, vice Durell, and J. R. Beckwith is re-appointed United States District Attorney....George Alfred Townsend ("Gath") has withdrawn from the Chicago Tribune staff, and will hereafter act as Washington correspondent of the New York Herald....Gen. James F. Fagan, an ex-Confederate Major-General, has been appointed United States Marshal for the Western District of Arkansas.... Several important bills have already been introduced in Congress. Mr. Parker, of Missouri, has offered a measure to provide for the government and to promote the civilization of the Indians. It provides that, except as to crimes committed on Indian country, punishment of which is expressly provided for by law, the general laws of the United States as to the punishment of crimes shall be enforced on all Indian reservations upon Indians and white men alike, and jurisdiction over such cases is vested in the United States Circuit and District Courts. Mr. Finch's bill in reference to the prepayment of newspaper postage provides for a repeal of the postal law of June 23, 1874, which, after the 1st of January next, requires the prepayment of this class of matter at the office receiving it. Mr. Farwell, of Illinois, has offered a bill to provide for free banking and the resumption of specie payments. It directs the Secretary of the Treasury to retire and cancel on the first of each month, beginning the 1st of next July, $1,000,000 United States notes, and thus continue until the notes outstanding shall be at par with gold. Bills have also been introduced (by Stanard, of Missouri) for the creation of a Department of Agriculture; (by Negley, of Pennsylvania) appropriating $200,000 for improving the Ohio river; and (by Morrison, of Illinois) appropriating $50,000 for continuing the improvement of the Mississippi river between Missouri and Illinois rivers.

The Postoffice Committee have agreed to recommend the passage of a bill fixing the salary of the Postmaster at New York at $8,000; Chicago, St. Louis and Philadelphia, $6,000 each; Cincinnati, Brooklyn, Baltimore and San Francisco, $5,000 each.

The report of the Commissioners appointed to liquidate the affairs of the Freedman's Bank exhibits some amazing revelations. Its assets were worthlessly loaned, on worthless securities, and the depositors have very little hope....The vacant Russian mission has been tendered to ex-Senator Morgan, of New York.

The Civil Rights bill, as amended and reported to the House by the Judiciary Committee, excludes negroes from equal rights in cemeteries or in public schools where as good provisions can be made for them separately. Gen. Butler will urge its passage at an early day. It can be reported at any time and pressed through by a majority vote, which it is thought it can receive.

Political.

The official majority for Governor Bagley, of Michigan, for re-election, is 5,969. The Constitutional amendments were voted down three to one.

A dispatch to a Western paper states that it is becoming more apparent that Vice-President Wilson is to be regarded as a candidate for the Presidency. He intends, it is stated, "hereafter to figure more prominently in society; has already commenced a series of public dinners, at which he intends to entertain leading men, and where public affairs will be generally discussed; hopes to put the Republican party again on the basis where it stood twelve years ago, and would invite the co-operation of Schurz, Adams, and the earlier Republicans, now alienated from its councils."

S. C. Cobb has been re-elected Mayor of Boston by 18,000 majority....Mr. Jewell has been confirmed Postmaster-General by the Senate with little opposition....The President has reappointed James W. Marshall First Assistant Postmaster-General. He has also nominated S. B. Axtell to be Governor of Utah.

General.

One of the Pittsburgh rolling mills that ceased work recently has resumed, the managers having acceded to the demands of the puddlers. It is thought probable that other mills will follow suit shortly.

Secretary Bristow denies the rumor that he has had a quarrel with the President relative to ex-Senator Cattell's appointment as financial agent of the government in Europe. ....The semi-centennial anniversary of the American Tract Society was held in New York on Sunday, the 13th inst. The annual report showed that the annual issues for fifty years have averaged more than 10,000,000 publications, more than 500,000 of these being volumes. The cost of the work during the past year has been $50,000. Grants had been made during the year to the number of 68,000,000 pages, and to the value of more than $45,000, which had been distributed through mission-schools, prisons and hospitals....A telegram from Washington states that the new Currency bill will be offered before the holiday recess, but probably not be disposed of till toward the close of the session. It will have for its foundation the gold interest and principal bond features of Sherman's bill offered last session. It proposes, after a certain date, to redeem and fund the legal-tender notes.

Foreign.

The insurrection in the Argentine republic is over, and the government has issued a proclamation granting amnesty to all political offenders....The Spaniards are actively engaged in strengthening their naval vessels in anticipation of the recognition of the republic of Cuba by this government.

The Journal de St. Petersburg complains o attacks in English journals on the proposed reopening of the International Code Conference, and says their unfavorable comments may lead to a settlement of questions involved without the assistance or participation of Great Britain....A revolutionary outbreak at Cajamarca, Peru, was quelled after twenty-three persons were killed and forty wounded. ....The steamship Mongol, from Shanghai for New York, has been wrecked, and sixteen persons perished.

A British collier has been lost in the Bay of Biscay, with eight of her crew....The religious order of the Sisters of Charity has been suppressed in Mexico by decree of Congress.

The Berlin Reichstag has adopted a resolution declaring that, in order to uphold its dignity, an amendment to the Constitution is necessary to prevent the arrest of a member during the session.

CONGRESS.

Thursday, Dec. 10.—Senate.—The Senate transacted no business, beyond receiving a few bills and resolutions. A brief executive session was held, and an effort made to act on the nomination of Postmaster-General Jewell, but objection was made, and it was laid over.

House.—The proceedings in the House were unimportant. Stowell (Va.) made a personal explanation regarding the charge that he had sold a naval cadetship for $1,000, and demanded an investigation... The bill appropriating $30,000 to purchase postoffice scales to weigh newspapers was passed....Kelley's 3.65 convertible bond scheme was debated by the House in committee of the whole.

Friday, Dec. 11.—Senate.—The Senate held no session to-day.

House.—A bill was passed allowing homestead and pre-emption settlers in Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska and Kansas, whose crops were destroyed by grasshoppers in 1874, to leave and be absent from their lands till May, 1876, without prejudice to their rights.

Monday, Dec. 14.—Senate.—Morton presented a petition of colored men of Indiana, protesting against the recent decision of the State Supreme Court, excluding colored children from the public schools....Anthony presented a memorial from F. & J. Rives, of the Congressional Globe, asking Congress to purchase their building and material....A bill for the relief of certain settlers in the grasshopper regions of the West was passed. It provides that settlers who left their lands on account of the ravages of grasshoppers shall not be deprived of their rights to such lands, and authorizes the Commissioner of the General Land Office to modify the Homestead laws in their favor. The provisions of the bill are also made applicable to settlers who may be compelled to leave their land for the same cause next year....Hitchcock introduced a bill for the appropriation of $50,000 to enable the Commissioner of Agriculture to make a special distribution of seeds to portions of the country which have suffered from grasshopper ravages during the past summer. Referred....Cameron and McCreery were appointed a committee on the part of the Senate to take measures for the reception of King Kalakaua of the Sandwich Islands.

House.—The following bills were introduced: By Dawes, making an appropriation for continuing the improvement of the Great Kanawha river of West Virginia; by Hurlbut, to aid in the construction of a narrow-gauge railroad from tide-water to St. Louis and Chicago; by Field, to increase taxation on foreign products and to facilitate the resumption of specie payments; by Harris, allowing the payment of one-half of all the import duties in legal-tender notes or national bank notes; by Farwell, to provide for free banking and the resumption of specie payments.... The House refused to suspend the rules and pass a resolution, offered by Beck, for the appointment of a select committee to inquire whether any official of the government, or of the District of Columbia, or other persons, have used any means to obstruct the administration of law in the District, especially with reference to the trial of the so-called safe-burglary conspiracy....Holman introduced a resolution declaring the sense of the House to be in opposition to any further subsidies. Butler objecting, it was laid over....A resolution was adopted for the appointment of a select committee of five to proceed to Vicksburg, Miss., and investigate and report all the facts relative to the recent troubles there.

Tuesday, Dec. 15.—Senate.—Scott presented a memorial setting forth the alleged unjust discrimination against periodicals in the new Postage law, and asking for a change....Bills were introduced: By Pratt, limiting the time in which applications for bounty land shall be received; by Conkling, to consolidate the debt of the District of Columbia, and to issue bonds of the United States in exchange for bonds of the District....Wright submitted a joint resolution proposing certain amendments to the Constitution, providing, among others, for the election of President and Vice-President by direct vote of the people, and each to hold office for six years....A resolution was adopted instructing the Judiciary Committee to inquire into the intent and meaning of the so-called Press-Gag law passed at the last session. ....The Military Committee reported favorably on the bill for the relief of the grasshopper sufferers. It appropriates $100,000.

House.—Bills were introduced: By McCrary, for a narrow-gauge road from Lake Erie to the Missouri river; by Poland, regulating the prosecution of libel in the District of Columbia....The Speaker announced the appointment of the following select committees: To visit Vicksburg—Conger, Hurlbut, Williams (Wis.), Speer and O'Brien. On Louisiana and other Southern States—G. F. Hoar, Wheeler (N. Y.), Frye, Foster (O.), Phelps (N. J.), Robinson (Ill.), and Potter.

Wednesday, Dec. 16.—Senate.—The Finance Committee was instructed to inquire into the expediency of providing for the redemption of mutilated currency by postmasters....That portion of the President's message relating to Chinese immigration was referred to the Foreign Relations Committee, with instructions to report a bill for remedying the evil....Johnston introduced a bill to aid the construction of a narrow-gauge railway from tide-water to Chicago and St. Louis.

House.—The Civil Rights bill, as amended by the Judiciary Committee (the principal changes being the striking out of the clauses relating to schools and cemeteries), was reported by Butler and ordered printed....An adverse report was made on the bill increasing the tax on the circulation of national banks. ....The House devoted the whole of the afternoon, in committee of the whole, to the consideration of the Legislative Appropriation bill.

Mystery of the Lakes.

Lake Erie is only 60 or 70 feet deep; Lake Ontario, which is 502 feet deep, is 230 feet below the tide level of the ocean, or as low as most parts of the Gulf of St. Lawrence; and the bottoms of Lakes Huron, Michigan, and Superior, although the surface is much higher, are all, from their vast depths, on a level with the bottom of Ontario. Now, as the discharge through the River Detroit, after allowing for the probable portion carried off by evaporation, does not appear by any means equal to the quantity of water which the three upper lakes receive, it has been conjectured that a subterranean river may run from Lake Superior, by the Huron, to Lake Ontario. This conjecture is not improbable, and accounts for the singular fact that salmon and herring are caught in all the lakes communicating with the St. Lawrence, but no others. As the Falls of Niagara must have always existed, it would puzzle the naturalist to say how these fish got into the upper lakes without some subterranean river; moreover, any periodical obstruction of the river would furnish a not improbable solution of the flux and reflux of the great chain of lakes.

The German Christ-Kindje.

A better way prevails in Germany. There is all the simple-hearted merrymaking which belongs to the celebration elsewhere, but all is referred to Christ-Kindje, the dear little Christ-child, who is thus commemorated. It is the grand jubilee of children, who are taught thus to recognize the existence and sympathy of the Christ-child. His childhood is just as present to him—with him—now, as his manhood. He never forgets. Nay, his existence is a conscious one. Hence he is to-day, as really as he was three thousand years ago, the Christ-child. And who can estimate the effect which this fact and its impression on the minds of children produced. "No one can measure the joy and blessing which from year to year flow forth upon all ages of life from the contemplation of the holy child Jesus, in his heavenly innocence and divine humility." This festival, thus celebrated, keeps constantly before us the truth so beautifully stated by Irenæus in the second century: "Christ came to save all who are born again in God through him—infants and children and youth and age. For this reason he passed through every age—made an infant for infants, sanctifying infants; a child among children, sanctifying children (and at the same time affording to them an example of piety and righteousness and subjection); a youth among the youth, being made an example to youth, and sanctifying them to the Lord; so, also, a senior among seniors, that he might be a perfect director in every class."

Which shall our children worship, Nicholas or Jesus?

French and German Losses in the Late War.

M. Chenu, Medical Inspector General of the French army, reports the losses sustained by the French in the war with Germany to have been as follows: Killed, disappeared, or died of wounds and diseases, 138,811; wounded by the enemy's fire, 143,000; men disabled by marching, 11,421; 11,914 missing are treated as dead. These figures include 2,281 officers killed or who died of wounds and disease and 96 missing, with 17,240 prisoners who died in Germany, 1,701 in Switzerland and 124 in Belgium. While 17,240 deaths, then, occurred in captivity, only 1,220 soldiers were killed at Gravelotte the bloodiest battle of the war. The German losses were: Killed or died of wounds and disease, 40,741; missing and treated as dead, 4,090; wounded, 127,867. To these have to be added 1,795 killed, 6,690 wounded and 1,539 missing in skirmishes, patrols and slight engagements. The Germans had 44,000 deaths, the French 138,871; the Germans 127,000 wounded, the French 143,000. The French had 11,421 men disabled by plaies de marche—that is, through defective socks, boots and gaiters, while the Germans suffered but little from this cause. M. Chenu shows that in the Crimea and Italy, as well as in the last war, disease was more fatal than the sword, this being partly attributable to commissariat, outfit and hospital shortcomings.—New York Times.

A New Way to Remove Snow.

Ex-Health Commissioner John Mullaly appeared recently before the Street Cleaning Committee of the Police Department, and presented a proposition for the removal of snow from the streets of this city by the application of superheated steam. It is proposed to accomplish this by means of a boiler and appurtenances placed on wheels and to be drawn by two horses. The boiler is to be fitted with a small steam-engine and a superheater to super-heat the steam to about 300 Fahrenheit, and the steam is to be ejected against the snow so as to melt it, and the water resulting from the melting of the snow and the condensation of the steam to be heated sufficiently to run off through the culverts without freezing on its way. It is contended that the snow can be removed more effectually and with less expense from the leading thoroughfares by this than by any other method yet devised.—New York Times.

Lard on a Railroad Track.

Some unknown parties squandered a bucket of lard on the railroad track a mile above town a few nights ago, and at the lower end of the greasing stuck up a placard, which, when the train arrived and the head light shone upon it, revealed these terrible words "Blow, d—n you, blow." The engineer did blow. He blowed his engine whistle and he blowed his own private whistle, and he blowed out such language that his chance for eternal salvation is not worth a tinker's denunciation. The train came to a dead halt, train hands and passengers were put to work sanding the track, and by the aid of a yoke of steers borrowed from Mrs. Woodruff the train was put in motion. It got to Macon an hour behind time. The engineer has resigned. If he will come up here we will run him for coroner. Griffin (Georgia) News.

Frank Buckland thinks it would be well to revive the hunt after wildcats as game, as they supply a delicate dish for the table and an excellent pelt as well. In former times the chase of this animal was almost a national sport in Spain. The season was in October and November, and the hunt began with a grand procession. At the end of each day the town was re-entered in procession, and the hunters, headed by the Mayor, sat down to eat the cats. The meat was said to be "exquisite, in the opinion of every one who has eaten it. It is white like the flesh of a rabbit, but more delicate, and of a much finer flavor."

Not only in England is labor advancing, but in France the want of farm laborers is becoming a serious complaint, and the price has advanced. The past harvest hands were paid as high as six shillings, or about $1.33 per day. The decimation of the past war, and the preparation for the next, are making large drafts upon female labor for the harvest fields.

George Francis Train has offered to give Omaha a 400-acre tract of land for a park, if the city will assume $90,000 worth of mortgages and taxes now due. As the land is now worth about $1,000 an acre, it is expected to be a trade.

All Sorts.

Hawaii is pronounced How-are-ye.

Pennsylvania has thirty-one colleges.

Tom Thumb has become a Knight Templar.

Mrs. Joaquin Miller has decided to turn actress.

"Lo" cost us a little over six millions last year.

The Southern negroes are beginning to talk about colonizing in the West.

Mr. Motley, the historian, has taken a house in London. His health is much better.

Mrs. Woodhull is in trouble; her paper and her health have failed together.

An Atlanta (Ga.) man has two daughters, 13 and 16 years old, who are widows.

Brigham is getting better, and there is some hope that he will outlive all his mothers-in-law.

Mr. Delos, of Wisconsin, has 149 warts on his hands, and that's warts the matter with Delos.

The oyster beds of France and England, in spite of artificial propagation, are practically exhausted.

The phenomenon of a well-defined cross was seen on the moon at Knoxville, Tenn., the other evening.

The total steamboat tonnage for the entire civilized world amounts to 5,244,888 tons, of which sum England owns 3,015,773.

The Hon. Rev. Prof. Seelye, M. C., is attracting considerable attention down East by reason of the multiplicity of his legitimate titles.

The proprietors of the London Times now cast their own type, and the same plan is about to be adopted by all the leading dailies of that city.

The making of dolls' shoes has grown within the past six or eight years into a business of sufficient importance to occupy several manufactories.

Admiral Dot, the "great" American dwarf, has had a period put to his existence; henceforth that rather self-important semicolon, Mr. Thumb, will remain the national atom as heretofore.

Ohio is going to send to the centennial show a cheese weighing 14 tons. The export of big cheese from this country to England, by the way, is very large. An Inman steamer from New York recently took a number weighing 300 to 600 pounds each, one weighing over 1,200 pounds and one 2,200 pounds.

The son of Dr. Livingstone, the African explorer, complains that the belongings of his father were appropriated by British officers upon the arrival of the doctor's body at Unyanyembe, the only genuine article belonging to the great traveler which reached London being a pair of air cushions. It now remains for the British officers to explain matters.

We once were acquainted with a man who had large hot legs of roasted mutton every morning for his breakfast; and what gigantic pieces de resistance he had for his dinner only his cook and butcher knew. When he bought turkeys he bought two—one for himself and one for his family. No Emperor in the days of the Roman decadence ever ate more than this honest New England citizen, and he lived to be eighty, in spite of hot sausages every night just before going to bed.—New York Tribune.

Most of the Southern States are now in default either as to the interest or principal of their bonded debt. The following table shows the amount thus due and without prospect of being paid:

States.	Bonds in Default.	States.	Bonds in Default.
Alabama	$21,350,000	Mississippi	$7,000,000
Arkansas	12,800,000	N. Carolina	31,000,000
Florida	3,774,000	S. Carolina	13,200,000
Georgia	11,000,000	Virginia	46,000,000
Louisiana	24,433,000
Minnesota	2,275,000	Total	$164,732,000

The Markets.

NEW YORK.
Beeves	9	@	13
Hogs—Dressed	8½	@	9
Cotton	14	@	14½
Flour—Superfine Western	4 00	@	4 50
Wheat—No. 2 Chicago	1 08	@	1 10
No. 1 Spring	1 17	@	1 23
Corn	88	@	92
Oats	69	@	71
Rye	92	@	95
Pork—New Mess	20 50	@	20 75
Lard—Steam	14	@	14½
CHICAGO.
Beeves—Choice Graded Steers	6 25	@	6 75
Choice Natives	5 75	@	6 00
Good to Prime Steers	5 00	@	5 50
Cows and Heifers	2 00	@	2 50
Medium to Fair	3 75	@	4 50
Inferior to Common	2 00	@	2 75
Hogs—Live	6 50	@	6 85
Flour—Fancy White Winter	6 00	@	7 00
Red Winter	5 00	@	5 50
Wheat—No. 1 Spring	90	@	91
No. 2 Spring	88½	@	89
No. 3 Spring	82½	@	83
Corn—No. 2	66½	@	67
Oats—No. 2	53	@	53½
Rye—No. 2	94	@	95
Barley—No. 2	1 22	@	1 25
Butter—Fancy	34	@	37
Eggs—Fresh	24	@	25
Pork—Mess	19 00	@	..
Lard	13	@	..
ST. LOUIS.
Wheat—No. 2 Red	1 07	@	1 08
Corn—No. 2 New	67	@	68
Oats—No. 2	58	@	59
Rye—No. 2	1 00	@	1 02
Pork—Mess	19 25	@	..
Lard	12½	@	12¾
Hogs	6 25	@	7 00
Cattle	6 00	@	7 50
MILWAUKEE.
Wheat—No. 1	92	@	93
No. 2	88	@	88½
Corn—No. 2	64	@	65
Oats—No. 2	50	@	51
Rye	96	@	97
Barley—No. 2	1 27	@	1 29
CINCINNATI.
Wheat—Red	1 12	@	1 14
Corn—New	70	@	72
Oats	58	@	62
Rye	1 10	@	1 12
Pork—Mess	18 50	@	..
Lard	13	@	14
TOLEDO.
Wheat—No. 1 Red	1 10	@	1 12
Amber Michigan	1 08	@	1 09
Corn—New	71	@	72
Oats	54	@	56
DETROIT.
Wheat—Extra	1 15	@	1 15½
Amber	1 09	@	1 10
Corn	74	@	75
Oats	57½	@	58½
CLEVELAND.
Wheat—No. 1 Red	1 10	@	1 12
No. 2 Red	1 06	@	1 07
Corn	72	@	73
Oats	57	@	59

AUBURN COURIER

T. C. MAYS, PUBLISHER.

FARM AND HOME.

A SOLDIER on furlough, and just convalescent,
Sought a job to supply him with cash for the present
And promised a farmer to dig up a patch
Of potatoes with faithfulness, care, and dispatch.
A bottle of whisky his spirit to stir,
Was given to Bob as a sort of a spur;
Which bottle, with many a copious pull,
He emptied, and left the potato hill full,
While he with some difficulty held by a stump,
Saluting it oft with a staggering thump.
Some hours had elapsed; his employer returned,
And said, while his bosom indignantly burned,
"You insolent rascal—you slave of the jug—
Not a single potato [illegible] you dug!"
"Po-ta-toes!" said Bob, with a stammering tongue,
"If you want your potatoes dug, fetch 'em along!"

THE MASSACHUSETTS DOG LAW.

In Massachusetts the tax on dogs is two dollars per year for male dogs and five dollars on females. When sheep are destroyed by dogs, the owner of the dogs, if known, and the fact of killing proven, is obliged to pay the damages in full; otherwise, judgment is made from the fund raised by the general dog tax, so that in any event the owner of the sheep is sure of his recompense. The law is proving satisfactory to the generality of sheep owners.

AN EASY ICE HOUSE.

It is suggested that, by filling suitably constructed sheet-iron vessels to the depth of about an inch with water, it will soon freeze, even when the temperature is but little below the freezing point, and that by repeating the addition of water as the first portions become frozen, blocks of the clearest ice, six inches thick, may be formed during a night; and when the temperature by day is suitable, a single laborer will be able to fill a large ice-house in a short time. By pouring water which has been cooled in the vessels nearly to the freezing point over the ice after it has been packed, at suitable intervals, when the temperature of the air is below the freezing point, a compact mass of ice may be formed of more value for use than a much larger quantity loosely packed. Even in winters favorable to the production of ice, the above method may be found the most convenient and the cheapest for filling the ice-houses.

CARE OF STOCK.

Animals should be studiously protected, but only in thoroughly ventilated stables. Their food should be given four or five times during the twenty-four hours, so that none of it need be refused because it is "mussed" or soiled. Many farmers whose experience has been varied prefer this plan, thinking it more economical, and more serviceable to the animals than feeding only two or three times a day. For horses and neat stock, place lumps of rock salt in the mangers. Food must be varied to suit the kind and condition of animals. He who would prosper as a stock breeder or dairyman, cannot learn too much of the animal economy. Comfortable stables save food, and very materially assist in maintaining animals in a good condition. Cleansing the hide and frequent rubbing will promote health. It has become quite a common practice with some farmers to curry and rub down their neat stock, and we trust it may become universal.

A WORD OF ADVICE.

Be industrious. The world is already burdened by loafers, idlers, and non-producers, all of whom have to be supported by those who work. Begin early to teach your children the value of labor and industry. Make your calculations to be busy and usefully employed as long as you live. The idea of living the first half of one's life under double pressure, and then, after getting a competence, retiring from all active life and living easy upon the interest of the capital acquired, is the height of folly. It is contrary to nature, and must work disastrously both to the body and the mind. Be industrious at some paying branch of your business, and earn money, that you may have money to use as well as to keep.

As we look around among the farmers of our acquaintance, we see many who spend most of their rainy days and evenings at the village stores or post-office, discussing the weather, the crop prospects, the general news of the village, and sometimes a little politics.

As a general rule, one had better be at home attending to the plans or details of his business, or reading books or papers that would teach more valuable lessons than can be learned at the corner grocery or village postoffice.—New England Farmer.

WINDOWS IN HORSE-STABLES.

A German paper states some curious facts relating to the position of windows in horse-stables, and their power to affect the eyes of horses. In one instance the horses of a farmer—fine animals, celebrated for their excellent condition—were kept in as table lighted only by a small window at one side. When light was needed for work, the door was temporarily left open; the result was that nearly all of these animals had eyes of unequal strength, and in time a number of them become blind on the side toward the window.

Strong light directed in the horses' faces has been found to weaken the sight. The worst position of all for a stable window is in front of the horses and much higher than their heads. An officer had bought a perfectly sound mare from a gentleman whose stable was lighted by windows at the rear of the stalls. The animal was sound and perfectly satisfactory. After three months she became suddenly "ground shy"; on examining her eyes they were found directed upward, and this was explained by the fact that the windows of the officer's stable were situated above the head of the stalls, the eyes being generally drawn in that direction. She was removed to another stall, where the light was admitted from all sides, and in three months' time the difficulty had disappeared.

Household Hints.

WATERPROOFING COMPOUND.

This compound is prepared by melting paraffine and adding gradually a suitable drying oil, stirring well to insure intimate mixture; it is then poured into molds the shape of brick or blocks and allowed to cool. The fabric to be rendered waterproof is rubbed over with a block of the compound, warming the rubbing face gently if the atmosphere is cold, and then iron the cloth with a warm iron or passing it between hot rollers. The application of this compound to leather and textile and felted fabrics is said to give excellent results, as, although it renders the cloth thoroughly waterproof, it is not impervious to air.

WHAT SHALL WE HAVE FOR BREAKFAST?

A lady writing to the Chicago Evening Journal says:

I esteem no one thing more essential to the success of farmers than that of having breakfast well and properly prepared. By proper forethought in making allowance for the next breakfast in cooking the dinner, the accompanying list can be prepared by an active housekeeper in half an hour. Of course, if potatoes and meat are to be cooked, they must be ready over night, coffee ground, etc., to spare the vexation of uncomfortable haste in arranging the breakfast. Coffee is supposed to be served at each meal, that being our usual breakfast beverage, although chocolate, tea or water may be substituted, if desired. The kinds of meat may be varied with the season, to include fowls, fresh fish, mutton or whatever is procurable or desirable; and similar variations may be made in the fruits. No breadstuffs appear in the lists, as it is assumed that bread, buckwheat, Graham or Indian meal cakes will be served each morning, according to season or preference.

Breakfast Lists—The articles in parentheses refer to the different seasons:

Sunday—Baked potatoes; roast beef from previous dinner, set in the oven until hot; stewed apple (pie-plant); rice pudding.

Monday—Potatoes from previous dinner, cut in slices and heated or warmed over by dropping in hot fat, like crullers; roast pork, cold; cucumber pickles (cut cabbage); raspberries, fresh or canned.

Tuesday—Boiled potatoes; salt mackerel; chopped tomato pickle (lettuce); pie, apple pie, pie-plant or cherry.

Wednesday—Baked potatoes; broiled beef; tomatoes, canned or fresh; stewed apples, strawberries, cherries, etc.

Thursday—Codfish; boiled potatoes; cucumber pickles (martynias, etc.); canned plums, baked pears.

Friday—Broiled ham and poached eggs; apples, stewed or baked; rice pudding.

Saturday—Potatoes, warmed over by slicing in just water enough to keep from burning, to which add butter and seasoning; broiled steak; chopped tomato pickle; cherries, canned or fresh, blackberries, grapes, etc.

Wisdom of J. Billings.

If a man tells a lie he iz always in a grate hurry to prove it.

There iz more real happiness in refusing our wants, than in gratifying them.

The price of being pittyed iz to be despized.

Even a mule has got a head on one end ov his body.

Az we git older, we gro less certain of things in general.

Friendships are like munny in one respect; it is easier to make them than to keep them.

One haff the trouble of life can be traced to not saying "No" at the right time.

Men never forgit the favors they bestow upon others, and seldom remember those they receive.

If a man iz natral now days he is charged at once with trying to be excentrick or silly.

The man whom prosperity makes haughty, adversity iz sure to make a grovelling coward ov.

I am violently opposed to betting, but if I do bet I am violently in favor of winning.

There iz no grate danger ov too menny getting famous; there iz too much jealousy among mankind for that.

Pashunce iz like kastor ile, it iz one thing to preskribe it, and it iz another thing to take it.

No man kan git me to keep a sekret for him, i had rather hold a mule for the same length ov time.

Every man haz a right to pik out hiz own phun, his own hash, and hiz own phisick.

We are all ov us brought up to think that munny iz the chief end ov man, and when at last we find out our mistake it iz too late to rektify it.

If our Savior and the god Hercules should appear on earth again together, which do you suppoze would have the most followers?

About the only difference between a philosopher and a phool iz this, the philosopher cooks all the evils ov life before he partakes ov them, the fool eats them raw.

There seems to me to be just about this difference between honor and honesty—honor iz the chivalry ov courage, honesty is the bravery ov principle.

A PRIVATE letter from a clergyman in Fort Scott, Kan., pictures the destitution there as it comes to the knowledge of a visiting minister in terms which bring the scenes home. Many of the poor people in his parish have absolutely nothing to live upon. Some of them have come in from their distant farms hoping to secure enough to keep life in their wives and little ones through the help of the benevolent; one family had lived upon salt pork and corn-meal for three months; another family had been so long without sustenance that their first meal threatened to be their last. Some have suffered two consecutive years from the persecutions of the locust, and their little farms are mortgaged to their full value.

LEATHERETTE.—A patent has been recently taken out in England for a substitute for leather, which is produced in perfect imitations of different kinds of leather. The sheets of fibrous pulp, from which the material is made, are pressed into real skins of leather, the grain of the skin to be imitated being accurately reproduced. The article is called leatherette, costs about one-eighth as much as real leather and is stronger and of more uniform quality.

HANDLED without gloves—Knifes and forks generally.

THE NATIVITY.

The Suppressed Story of the Nativity as Narrated in the Gospel of the Protevangelion.

The Protevangelion, or historical account of the birth of Christ and the perpetual Virgin Mary, his mother, is ascribed to James the Less, who has been sometimes styled "cousin and brother of the Lord Jesus, and chief apostle and first bishop of the Christians in Jerusalem." The allusions to this gospel in the ancient Fathers are frequent, and their expressions indicate that at one period it was widely credited. The controversies founded on it chiefly relate to the age of Joseph at the birth of Christ, and to his being a widower with children before his marriage with the virgin. The book is supposed to have been originally composed in Hebrew. Postellus brought the MS. of this gospel from the Levant, translated it into Latin, and sent it to Oporinus, a printer at Basle, where Bibliander, a Protestant divine, and the professor of divinity at Zurich, caused it to be printed in 1552. Postellus asserted that it was publicly read as canonical in the Eastern churches, they making no doubt that James was the author of it. It is, nevertheless, considered apocryphal by the most learned divines in the Protestant and Roman Catholic Churches. We reproduce from this ancient, though reputed spurious gospel, the account of the Nativity:

* * * * * * * * * *

And it came to pass that there went forth a decree from the Emperor Augustus that all the Jews should be taxed, who were of Bethlehem in Judea.

And Joseph said, I will take care that my children be taxed; but what shall I do with this young woman?

To have her taxed as my wife, I am ashamed; and if I tax her as my daughter, all Israel knows she is not my daughter.

When the time of the Lord's appointment shall come, let him do as seems good to him.

And he saddled the ass, and put her upon it, and Joseph and Simon followed after her, and arrived at Bethlehem within three miles.

Then Joseph, turning about, saw Mary sorrowful, and said within himself, perhaps she is in pain through that which is within her.

But when he had turned about again, he saw her laughing, and said to her, Mary, how happens it that I sometimes see sorrow, and sometimes laughter and joy in thy countenance?

And Mary replied to him, I see two people with mine eyes, the one weeping and moaning, the other laughing and rejoicing.

And he went again across the way, and Mary said to Joseph, Take me down from the ass, for that which is in me presses to come forth.

But Joseph replied, Whither shall I take thee, for the place is desert?

Then said Mary again to Joseph, Take me down, for that which is within me mightily presses me.

And Joseph took her down. And he found there a cave, and let her into it.

And leaving her and his son in the cave, Joseph went forth to seek a Hebrew midwife in the village of Bethlehem.

But as I was going (said Joseph) I looked up into the air, and I saw the clouds astonished, and the fowls of the air stopping in the midst of their flight.

And I looked down toward the earth, and saw a table spread, and working people sitting around it, but their hands were upon the table, and they did not move to eat.

They who lifted their hands up to their heads did not draw them back.

And they who lifted them up to their mouths did not put anything in.

But all their faces were fixed upward.

And I beheld the sheep dispersed, and yet the sheep stood still.

And the shepherd lifted up his hand to smite them, and his hand continued up.

And I looked unto a river, and saw the kid with their mouths close to the water, and touching it, but they did not drink.

Then I beheld a woman coming down from the mountains, and she said to me, Where art thou going, O man?

And I said to her, I go to inquire for a Hebrew midwife.

She replied to me, Where is the woman that is to be delivered?

And I answered, In the cave, and she is betrothed to me.

Then said the midwife, Is she not thy wife?

Joseph answered, It is Mary, who was educated in the Holy of Holies, in the house of the Lord, and she fell to me by lot, and is not my wife, but has conceived by the Holy Ghost.

The midwife said, Is this true?

He answered, Come and see.

And the midwife went along with him and stood in the cave.

Then a bright cloud overshadowed the cave, and the midwife said, This day my soul is magnified, for mine eyes have seen surprising things, and salvation is brought forth to Israel.

But on a sudden the cloud became a great light in the cave, so that their eyes could not bear it.

But the light gradually decreased, until the infant appeared, and sucked the breast of his mother Mary.

Then the midwife cried out and said, How glorious a day is this, wherein mine eyes have seen this extraordinary sight!

And the midwife went out from the cave, and Salome met her.

And the midwife said to her, Salome, Salome, I will tell you a most surprising thing which I saw.

A virgin hath brought forth, which is a thing contrary to nature.

To which Salome replied, As the Lord my God liveth, unless I receive particular proof of this matter, I will not believe that a virgin hath brought forth.

Then Salome went in, and the midwife said, Mary, show myself, for a great controversy is risen concerning thee.

And Salome received satisfaction.

But her hand was withered, and she groaned bitterly.

And said, Woe to me, because of mine iniquity; for I have tempted the living God, and my hand is ready to drop off.

Then Salome made her application to the Lord, and said, O God of my fathers, remember me, for I am of the seed of Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob.

Make me not a reproach among the children of Israel, but restore me sound to my parents.

For thou well knowest, O Lord, that I have performed many offices of charity in thy name, and have received my reward from thee.

Upon this an angel of the Lord stood by Salome, and said: The Lord God hath heard thy prayer; reach forth thy hand to the child and carry him, and by that means thou shalt be restored.

Salome, filled with exceeding joy, went to the child and said, I will touch him.

And she proposed to worship him, for she said, This is a great king, which is born in Israel.

And straightway Salome was cured.

Then the midwife went out of the cave, being approved by God.

And lo! a voice came to Salome, Declare not the strange things which thou has seen till the child shall come to Jerusalem.

So Salome also departed, approved of God.

Then Joseph was preparing to go away, because there arose a great disorder in Bethlehem by the coming of some wise men from the East.

Who said: Where is the King of the Jews born? For we have seen his star in the East, and are come to worship him.

When Herod heard this he was exceedingly troubled, and sent messengers to the wise men and to the priests, and inquired of them in the town hall.

And said unto them, Where have you it written concerning Christ, the king, or where should he be born?

Then they say unto him in Bethlehem of Judea; for thus it is written: And thou Bethlehem, in the land of Judah, are not the least among the princes of Judah, for out of thee shall come a ruler, who shall rule my people Israel.

And having set away the chief priests, he inquired of the wise men of the town hall, and said unto them, What sign was it ye saw concerning the king that is born?

They answered him, We saw an extraordinarily large star standing among the stars of heaven, and so outshined all the other stars, that they became not visible, and we knew thereby that a great king was born to Israel, and therefore we are come to worship him.

Then said Herod to them, Go and make diligent inquiry; and if you find the child bring me word again, that I may come and worship him also.

So the wise men went forth, and behold! the star which they saw in the East went before them, till it came and stood over the cave where the young child was with Mary his mother.

Then they brought forth out of their treasures and offered unto him gold, and frankincense, and myrrh.

And being warned in a dream by an angel, that they should not return to Herod through Judea, they departed into their own country by another way.

Poverty of Workingmen in Some of the Southern Cities.

A special telegram from Memphis to the Chicago Inter-Ocean says: A large number of laboring men recently arrived at Vicksburg from the North, and, being out of employment, they no doubt augmented the white army there to a small degree. During the past week or ten days a large number of laborers from the North have arrived here, as well as at nearly every other Southern city, more than for many years. The cause of this sudden immigration was not known until a day or two since, when the fact came to light that the railroads centering at Chicago, Cincinnati and other Northern cities were offering second-class tickets to any Southern point at half fare, holding out as inducements prompt employment and high wages, and by that means deceiving hundreds. The same may be said of the roads running to Texas, where, as well as here, the country is flooded with laborers seeking employment, which it is impossible to get, as the cotton picking season is over and scarcely any labor will be needed until spring. The result of this influx is that the station-houses in the different cities of the South are crammed with hundreds of men who, unable to find work, are compelled to beg their daily bread from door to door and seek shelter in the station-houses at night. The suffering among this class, allured from the North by the flattering advertisements of railway lines is terrible, and there are many who, rather than beg, resort to petit larceny that they may be sent to jail, where they will get enough to eat. This is not only the case here, but similar reports are received from Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas and Texas, and especially in the latter State, where there is a great surplus of labor, and hundreds would be glad of an opportunity to work for board during the winter. In this city the custom of looking to the station-house for lodging has become so general among this class of tramps, that the police have issued orders to furnish lodgings but three nights to any individual. After that, if application be made, the applicant is liable to arrest for vagrancy and placed on the chain gang. Some of these wanderers are loud in their denunciation of the railroads who brought them here, and declare they will annihilate the railroad runners if they ever get back. It is believed by some that the authorities of the cities North are combining with the railways to rid the cities of their poor.

French Politeness.

A Frenchman was about to be hanged for a criminal offense; as there was no professional executioner available for the occasion, the painful duty of carrying out the sentence devolved upon an amateur, who apologized for possible shortcomings to the person principally concerned.

"I hope you will pardon me," said he, "if I put you to any unnecessary inconvenience; but the fact is, I have never hanged any one before."

"Pray do not mention it," replied the other, with the greatest sangfroid; "for that matter, I have never been hanged before. We must each do our best."

INDIANA NEWS.

INDUSTRIAL PROGRESS.

THE Capital Rolling-Mill, of Indianapolis, has resumed operation on full time, and with a full set of hands.

THE Lowell Star says: "John Bryant and wife, and ourself and wife, drove a carriage recently along the railroad line for 5 miles across the marsh to the Kankakee river—50,000-acre marsh, that fifteen years ago could not be penetrated a rod hardly from the ashore, with a horse, unless frozen in mid winter. Such is the Kankakee marsh to-day, scarcely a rod of it but what can be traveled over with a loaded team."

THE new truss bridge over the Elkhart river at Ligonier is completed, at a total cost to the county of $1,270. The bridge is eighty-six feet long, with a roadway sixteen feet wide, and a sidewalk five feet in width.

THE new Indianapolis Board of Trade was dedicated on the 15th inst.

PATENTS have recently been granted to Indiana inventors as follows: Metallic ridge caps for roofs, Peter B. Laidlaw, Fort Wayne; device for charging beer with gas, John C. Kennedy, Goshen; process for filling fiber in paper pulp, Hermann Dremling, Fort Wayne; hay derrick, Christopher Lidren, Lafayette; velocipede, James F. McClure, Connersville; wagon brake, George Seeger, Clark's Hill; ironing board, Alva H. Swain, Winchester.

NEW ALBANY has opened a Merchants' Exchange, and is putting on city airs.

FLOYD county will build a $30,000 poor-house.

CASUALTIES.

ABRAHAM CLARKE, an employe of the Indianapolis, Peru and Chicago railroad, while engaged in switching a train at Indianapolis, a few days ago, caught his foot in a frog of the track and fell under the train, which cut off both legs above the knees, producing death within two hours.

GEORGE BAKER, of Indianapolis, an employe of the Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Lafayette road, who lost a leg while on duty for the road some time since, has brought suit against the company, laying damages at $11,000.

DEATHS.

ON Wednesday last, the dead body of Daniel W. Stote was found in the race, near Voisinett's mill, in Elkhart. Mr. Stote had resided in that vicinity for about twenty years, and was a respectable, industrious man. It is generally supposed that he committed suicide while under aberration of mind produced by fear that he had buried his wife while she was yet alive.

POLITICAL.

THE Secretary of State has prepared a list of officers and employes to be elected by the coming Legislature, which includes: For the Senate, one President, one principal and one Assistant Secretary, one door-keeper and assistant, one postmaster, one paper-folder, one sweeper, one spittoon-cleaner, three pages, and thirteen clerks; for the House, one Speaker, one principal and Assistant Clerk, one door-keeper and three assistants, one postmaster, one paper-folder, one sweeper, one spittoon-cleaner, one water-closet cleaner, two janitors, seven pages, and twenty-three clerks for the House proper and several for the committees.

THE following Indiana Postmasters have been confirmed by the United States Senate: Mrs. L. F. Ewing, Logansport; George Langsdale, Greencastle; A. W. Delong, Huntington.

PERSONAL.

THE City Assessor of Indianapolis finds the following "solid men," viz.: William H. English, $454,800; E. B. Martindale, $159,350; E. S. Alvord, $131,200; Harvey Bates, $144,225; Harvey Bates, Jr., $339,250; Ovid Butler, $295,589; Thomas A. Morris, $400,000; John C. New, $223,600; Henry Schnull, $304,650.

MRS. RILEY STETSON, of Winchester, was recently delivered of four children, all of whom died in a few days.

THERE are twenty-seven old families in Rochester, Fulton county, that have never had any children.

STATE AFFAIRS.

THE biennial report of the Board of Trustees of the State Normal School, located at Terre Haute, asks for an appropriation of $113,168 for the purpose of finishing and furnishing the building, and $20,000 more to pay the faculty. The receipts of the year have been $29,706.83, and the expenditures about $10,000 more. The school has 401 pupils—187 males and 214 females. It has turned out 41 graduates. Sixty-two per cent. of the students have been of farmer parentage Chauncey Rose pays the expenses of 20 pupils, and has set apart $100,000 of his estate, the interest of which is to be applied to the education of persons who are unable to pay their own expenses.

LEGAL.

THE Wayne county seat war is finally ended by a unanimous decision of the Supreme Court affirming the judgment of the lower court in favor of Richmond as the county seat. The struggle between Richmond and Centerville has been protracted nearly two years.

JUDGE DRUMMOND, of the United States Circuit Court, at Indianapolis, has just rendered a very important decision in the case of William C. Walker, of Chicago, against Teegarden, Munson, Place and others, of Laporte, Ind. Walker contracted, it seems, to build part of the line of the Cincinnati, Peru and Chicago Railroad Company, extending from Laporte to Plymouth. The company failed to pay him, and he brought suit and recovered judgment in a State court for the labor done by him in the construction of the road. Being unable to realize payment from the company's assets, he recently brought suit in the Federal Court at Indianapolis, against several of the directors and stockholders, to enforce an individual liability for the amount of the principal and interest of his judgment, now about $250,000. The defendants claimed there was never any individual liability under the statute; that the claim was barred by the statute of limitations, and that they were not bound by the judgment rendered against the company. Judge Drummond rules all these points adversely to the defendants, and holds that Walker's judgment is conclusive against the directors of the railroad company.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE State Grange, at their recent session, fixed the salary of their officers at $800 per per annum for Master and Secretary each, and $500 for Treasurer; and appropriated $1,000 to Western sufferers.

PARTIES from Iowa have presented Earlham College, Richmond, Ind., with a large invoice of bones of some unknown animal of huge proportions. Two tusks measure over four feet, and one, nearly twice as long, is in a good state of preservation. They will be examined by experts for scientific classification.

THE Terre Haute Bank, which made an assignment a short time ago, has been thrown into bankruptcy by the creditors. The liabilities are $46,000, including $20,00 to depositors. There are not assets sufficient to meet the liabilities.

THE State Horticultural Society, at its recent meeting in Indianapolis, adopted a resolution condemning the manufacture of wine out of grapes and of cider out of apples.

THE leading saloon-keepers of Indianapolis have prepared a temperance bill, to take the place of the Baxter law, which it is designed to present to the Legislature as soon as it convenes. The main features, it is said, embrace something like the following:

"1. Taking the power of granting license from the County Commissioners, and vesting it with the Judges of the Civil Circuit courts.

"2. Each application for license to be accompanied by the petition of fifty voters, the applicants to be men of good character, peaceable, and law-abiding, and to accompany each application with a $2,000 bond, conditioned to keep an orderly house.

"3. Sales not to be on public days nor to intoxicated persons, nor to persons liable to get drunk, after written notice to the contrary, or to any not sound mentally.

"4. No minors to be employed about saloons.

"Provisions will also be embraced in the bill, specifying a nominal sum for licenses where only ale, beer and wine are sold, and for special permits to sales of wine and beer at festivals, picnic, and other public occasions. Another idea is not only to fine the saloon-keeper for selling to minors, but to fine the minors for purchasing; and still another will make intoxication a finable offense."

THE Vevay Reveille: "During the past week Mr. C. G. Boerner, of Vevay, has examined pieces of meat from about twenty-five hogs. Of this number he has found four affected with trichinæ. Looking through his powerful microscope we saw a very fine specimen of the worm—a hideous-looking monster of a dark gray color, with rings of white, and a snake-shaped head."

THE township of St. Joe county, in which South Bend is located, had 187 applications from the poor for assistance, which the Trustee proved to be needy.

THE Antioch school-house, in Jackson county, was recently destroyed by fire, believed to have been the work of an incendiary.

Humorous.

MASKED bawl—a smothered cry.

FLATTERY—soft soap with "lye.

FACE cards—photographic portraits.

"OPEN order—"six on the half shell."

BEST thing out—a dangerous conflagration.

YOU can't "take a trick" with the "trump of fame."

THEY talk about the reckless extravagance of the American people, and yet a Bangor man worked all day to clean a three-cent stamp so that he could use it again.

A GENTLEMAN at a musical party asked a friend in a whisper how he should stir the fire without interrupting the music. "Between the bars," replied the friend.

AN inebriate man, walking along the street, regarded the moon with sovereign contempt: "You needn't feel so proud," he said, "you are full only once a month and I am every night."

IT doesn't pay to try to raise poultry in Georgia. The owner of the fowls has to purchase shot-guns and ammunition, set up nights, kill folks and attend inquests, and, after a time, he is worried out.

The London Advertiser says that the subject of christening ships with bottles of wine is about to be taken up by the temperance people, who assert that the rolling of vessels at sea is mainly caused thereby.

A YOUNG man has been arrested in New York for sleeping in a standing position. He would stand on the street for hours at a stretch, with his eyes closed, and not move a muscle. It is hereditary. His father was a policeman.

A BUNCH of shingles fell from a wagon on the Troy ferry-boat recently, and struck fairly upon the head of a colored woman, who said: "Y'oughter b'shamed to muss a woman's har dat way. I wish de shingles fell ovahboard."

TO THE correspondent who inquires "if there has been any sudden drop in dry goods this week," a commercial writer says: "We have noticed but one. She said when we picked her up, that 'people who eat grapes ought not to throw their skins on the sidewalk.' We presume it was grape skins that were referred to."

"Stranger, will you try a hand with us at poker?" "Thank you, gentlemen, but there are seventeen reasons why I cannot accommodate you now." "Seventeen reasons for not playing cards! Pray, what are they?" "Why, the first is I haven't got any money." "Stop! that's enough; never mind the other sixteen."

A LANCASTER, Pa., lawyer is said to be the originator of the following joke: Being called upon by both parties to a suit, he informed the last one of his inability to serve him, but gave him a note to another advocate who would, no doubt, take his case. Somewhat dubious, he hunted up a friend who could read the note, the purport of which was: "Zwa fette gens; du ropst und ich rop." ("Two fat geese; you pluck and I pluck.") On sharing the contents with his opponent, they settled the case between them.

DR. THOMAS HUME walked one day to the office of a morning paper, where he silently placed upon the counter an announcement of some friend, together with five shillings, the usual charge for an insertion of such announcements. The clerk glanced at the paper, tossed it on one side, and said gruffly, "Seven and six." "I have frequently," replied Hume, "had occasion to publish these simple notices, and I have never before been charged more than five shillings." "Simple!" repeated the clerk, without looking up, "He's universally beloved and deeply regretted! Seven and six." Hume produced the additional half crown, and laid it deliberately by the others, observing, as he did so, with the solemnity of tone that he used throughout, "Congratulate yourself, sir, that this is an expense your executors will never be put to."

Auburn Courier.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 24, 1874.

A San Jose paper thinks that Mr. Sharon is not fit for a Senator if he gave the Archbishop $5,000 for marrying his daughter.

* * *

Lucy Blackwell, nee Stone, says that the friends of woman suffage have no cause for being discouraged at the result in Michigan. If the aloe waits a hundred years for its flower woman suffrage can wait its full time for the slow blossoming of this crown, etc.

* * *

German papers are unhappy over the discovery that but two Teutonic representatives were elected to the 44th Congress, while five negroes will occupy seats in that body. They attribute this singular circumstance to the proverbial jealousy which has from time immemorial characterized the German people.—Ligonier Banner.

* * *

Governor Leslie of Kentucky, recognizes the force of the law it that State against dueling. The clerk of the Court appeals, who was elected last August, having been connected with a duel in the capacity of a second and the knowledge of the same having been laid before the official notice of the Governor, he has declared him ineligible to the office and ordered a new election.

* * *

For the COURIER.

Mr. Editor.—I think the character of the conductors of the Waterloo Press, for untruthfullness, sufficiently established for all practicable purposes. Yet I will be to the trouble to expose no more of their falshoods. Soon after the election they made substantially this statement, in speaking of me, "A man who would constitute an election board entirely of his own supportor etc." On the same day, I think that the paper was issued containing the statement, I asked Baxter for his authority for statement [he and stated to him that it was not true and in reply he said, he would do what was right about it, but I have understood he has stated that I did not tell the truth about the matter, and in the Press of the 3d of Dec, the above quoted statement is repeated, and I wish you would publish the statements herewith sent, that the public may know who tells the truth about the making up of election board, and I would just state here, that there are several other false statements in that paper, concerning the contest, and as easily proved as the above statement.

Miles Waterman

December 8th 1874.

To whom it may Concern.

On the morning of the Oct. election 1874. Mr. Waterman the trustee of Franklin Tp., stated publicly at about the time of opening the polls, and after several voters had expressed and anxiety to vote, that the Republicans present, Mr. E. H. Taylor, and C. Jackman being among the members might chose the members of the board of the election, to which that barty was entitled under the law, and after waiting some time, and the Republicans failing to obtain the said members. Mr. Waterman asked me whether I could not remain and serve as one of the judges, which I finally consented to do. This is all Mr. Waterman said to me about it, nor did he, or any of his friends urge me to vote for him nor did I intimate to him or them that I would vote for him, and I voted the straight Republican ticked including Mr. E. H. Taylor for Representative

I suppose that I served, on the board, in accordance with the wish of the Republicans present when the board was formed.

J. H. Lautzenheiser.

To whom it may Cocern.

I Benjamin F. Naragon, one of the clerks of the election held in Franklin Tp., DeKalb County Ind., in Oct., 1874, hereby certify that I was urged and selected by the Robublicans present to serve as the Republican clerk of said election, and if Mr. Waterman said a word to me about it, it was after Mr. Cyrus Jackman had spoken to me about serving, and these to urge me to take the position, so that the election might proceed, as several persons were anxious to vote so as to leave.

I voted the straight Republican State and county ticket including E. H. Tavlor for Representative.

Mr. Waterman never said a word to me about voting for him, nor had he or any of his friends any intimation from me that I would do so.

Benjaman F. Naragon.

TIED TO THE TRACK.

The Moberly (Mo.) Monitor gives the following facts concerning a recent atrocity in that state: Jule Lee runs engine 20, and engine 26 draws a passenger train on the east end of the St. Louis, Kansas City & Northern road. On Tuesday last, as Jule's engine was circling an abrupt qurve, near Wentzville, going at the rate of 30 miles an hour, he espied a boy tied to the track in front of hem. The discovery was made to late to reverse, and the entire train crushed over the poor, unfortunate, unrecognized semblance of humanity. As the engine approached the unfortunate boy, his pale face was pleadingly fixed on the engineer, and his hands were held up prayerfully, but in vain. The point at which the unfortunate affair transpired was near a district school house, and from the schoolboys, who were attracted by the stopping of the train, Mr. Lee learned something of the unfortunate lad. He had been in the neighborhood but a few days, having come up from the country and as the investigation proceeded and the boys were closely questioned, the horrible fact soon came out that some of the larger boys connected with the school had a great deal to do with the boys unfortunate "taking off" and worse still, the outrageous transaction was connived at, if not actually participated in by the teacher. They admitted having placed him on the track, but it was not clear that they tied the ropes that bound him to his distruction. Inasmuch as he could not have tied himself for the purpose of suiciding, and inasmuch as they admit their guilt as to a portion of the crime, it is fair to presume that they were guilty of the whole transaction, and it may have been an attempt to mulct the railroad company for five or ten hundred dollars. The engineer, conductor, brakeman, newsboy and a few of the passengers organized themselves into a coroner's jury and proceeded to hold an inquest. A doctor was on the train and a post-mortem examination was had. The result of the examination, however, failed to elicit any additional facts. The engineer was exonerated from all blame. The bay's name was Snow, and he had recently come from the North. The remains were not buried and a portion of the mangled and bruised form could be seen on and near the track for several days. The matter demands further investigation.—Moberly Monitor.

The above does very well for a blood and thunder story, but by a little reflection, the reader will soon discover the point. It was a boy made of snow, with outstretched hands and pale face. Of course pieces of it lay around for several days as snow generally does.

* * *

The House of Representatives refuse to repeal the Poland-Butler press-gag law, on the ground that it would be considered a public censure of an old man in brass buttons who had cut an important swallow-tailed figure in that body for a long period of years. The republican majority deny, however, being in favor of the law as it stands, while dodging a square vote on the repeal. They were pressed closely by the democratic members, for which those gentlemen are entitled to the commendation of the press and entire country It is an infamous provision of an odious law that can be twisted into bringing offenders away from their homes and courts and juries in different sections of the country to be tried by a police court at the national capital and before an official appointed for political subserviency. Whether intended so to operate or not, it should not be permitted to disgrace the statute books one hour. Judg Poland has already been damned by public censure, and can have nothing further to lose.

If Congress is disposed to be economical it can save about $10,000 annually by abolishing the ministerial position of Congressional Chaplains and imposing the duties now devolving upon them upon the members themselves in alphabetical order. The advantage of such a plan would be the saving of the Chaplains salaries, more practical prayers, because the members know best their needs, and the personal benfits that might result to the members themselves from a public profession of their shortcomings.

* * *

The New York Tribune thinks that Mr. Kerr's chance for the speakership are the best thus far, and it adds:—"Mr. Holman will of course, have a leading chairmanship, and the vigilance and consistency with which he has fought all unnecessary expenditures naturally causes people to couple his name with the appropriations committee, but he is thought to be too extreme and economist to be put in such a position." Such a fault is worth half a dozen of the virtues of ordinary statesman.

* * *

When you wan good job printing give us a call.

BUTLER.

R. R. BUSINESS AND FINANCES—BUTLER AS A R. R. TOWN—LIVE STOCK SHIPPED—ON THE MUSCLE—CO-PARTNERSHIP—STUDENT'S RETURN—REMOVAL—CHRISTMAS TOYS—TRAVELING PHYSICIAN—R. R. ACCIDENT—R. R. CAR SCALES—BILLIARD Q—DONATION—SENSATION AT THE THEATRE.

Editor Courier.—Reports show that the L. S. R. R. Co., forwarded from this station during the month of Nov. over eighty million lbs. of freight and received three and a half million. In return the transfer of cars at this station between the L. S. & E. R. Co., is about 400 daily During the month of Nov. 1874, the business between the two Co's. was of considerable magnitude; so much so that after all trafic going to and from each Co. the balance was settled by the L. S. Co. drawing a draft for nine thousand dollars in favor of Eel R. Co. to balance the month acct. Never in the history of our country have we had a railroad of the age and capacity for doing business that has done and is doing the amount of business that the Eel River road is doing. I must say that they can do more business with the amount of railway stock they control, and the number of men they employ, than any R. R. Co. on this continent.

Butler as a Railroad town has had its ups and downs, but at last she has emmerged from that disagreeable situation that bound her a few years ago, and now she stands second to none in Northern Ind. in point, R. R. facilities, sound business men, good schools, substantial buildings, wide streets good hotels, lumber and brick yards, and in fact everything necessary to meet the demands of the public. We have over 4 miles of side track at this station, and that is insufficient at all times to handle the amount of cars that has to be transferred.

Next is our R. R. buildings, where farmers can come with their grain and have it elevated with steam, where they will find railroad men always ready and willing to wait on them, and where they always can get the highest prices for their produce. If you want to get big prices go to Butler, as it is chuck full of competition. We have opposition in every branch of business, except the postoffice, and if things keep ratling along at this rate for another year, as they have for the year past, I would not go much on that If you want to live in a R. R. town why in sam hill don't you come to Butler, where you can enjoy good health and live at home, and save the money that some of you have to spend in seeking some other climate for your health. Settle where you can have R. R. facilities, and in a town that is keeping pace with the development of the country, and you will be wise.

Over three thousand live hogs have been shipped from this station this winter on the muscle.

Our proprietor of the R. R. Eating House, says he has developed his muscle to such an extent that it is realy troublesome to him about eating.

F. F. Conner has taken in a partner in his Harness Shop, and has a fine stock of all kinds of goods usually kept in such establishments, on hand.

RETURN OF STUDENTS.

We saw Geo. Hoopingarner in town today. He has just returned from Bloomington, Ind., where he has been attending college. We understand that Orrin Hubbell will be home to-morrow, from the same place, to spend vacation at home.

REMOVED.

Joseph Beck has established himself in his new brick store, with a choice stock of groceries, and is always ready to wait on his customers.

Christmas toys in Butler 'till you can't rest. Even blacksmith shops and livery stables are hourly looking for an invoice of tin whistles.

We saw in town, the other day a traveling physician that was looking for J. M. Otis, our undertaker.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

On Saturday last a switchman, on the yard here, named Show got his right arm fearfully mangled while coupling cars.

The L. S. Co. has put in a set of car scales, so car loads of merchandise can be weighed with little trouble.

A shoemaker in town went to play billiards with an iron Q, and being on the outside of too much "white eye" he made a miss Q, and punched both sides of the table. The punch was for $50, and the shoemaker got beat.

The good people of Butler gave a supper last Thursday eve., at Keefer's Hall for the benefit of Rev Snyder, and the proceeds were $70. The crowd then repaired to the Odd Fellows' Hall, and had a lively time. The young folks sang, the old kinder sat round dormant watching to see if there would be something turn up so they could give vent to their feelings by indulging in hearty laugh. At one time it was thought by a good many, that something of a funny nature would actually transpire, and about half past eight o'clock they had their mouths all fixed to laugh, but the laugh went back on them. Entirely disgusted with the course the laugh had taken they soon began to shake themselves together and repaired to their homes with the consolation that they had done their duty, and got a No. 1 supper, if the laugh did go back on them, and I must say not a wave of discord rolled across the whole affair.

A great sensation occured at Bryer's threatre last Friday eve. Uncle Tom's Cabin was played. Everything went off nice through the play, but when they came to the last scene, and every one solemn, when Little Eva was seen as an angel of light, and on the platform Uncle Tom's spirit was about to take its flight—all was calm and quiet as death, and tears were trinkling down the cheeks of the audience and the floor beneath wet with tears, and the plastering leaving the lath from the effects of the water, and the audience, as it were, convulsed when death and distruction was staring them in the face, had Providence so provided at this stage of the play. Had the orchestra struck up the tune of Sweet Home, undoubtedly the whole audience would have convulsed sure but as good fortune would have it, the music seemed to comprehend the situation and struck up the Arkansas Traveler and thus rescued the audience from the jaws of death. Friend Mays, it may be in the course of time that you may have a theatre in your town and if so we would like to furnish the music. They aint got much meat on, but I tell you they are good.

* * *

The unsettled condition of affairs along the Texas frontiers promises to give Congress some trouble during the present session. It is said that the President proposes as a settlement of the claims of indemnity from the Mexican Government for previous depredations and as security against future inroads, that Mexico shall cede to the United States a strip of territory along the bank of the Rio Grande and running back to the mountains.

THE NEW

Drug Store i

FRESH DRUGS,

Medicines, Chemicals, Spices,

Dyes,
Combs,
Brushes,
Perfumery,
Proprietary Articles,
Fancy Goods, &c., &c

. . . .

Wines and Liquors!

For Medical purposes only.

Stock New, prices to suit the times at the

NEW DRUG STORE,

Wood's old Stand!

Seventh St. Auburn, Ind.

Littlefield Bros.

Phys'cians prescriptions dispensed from pure medicines, day and night.

The Pioneer

HADWARE

Emporium!

Now full to overflowing with an Immense stock of

HEAVY AND SHELF

Hardware, Cutlery, Tin Ware.

I would call special attention to my depaptment of

HARDWARE,
FURNISHING & BUIDERS STOCK,

in which will be found everything at the very

LOWEST PRICES,

Such as :—

OILS, PAINTS,
GLASS,
NAILS,
SASH,
DOORS, ETC.

—A FIRST-CLASS—

Tin-Shop,

in connection with the Hardware Store, with a skillful foreman. All kinds of Tin-ware manufactured and repaired on short notice.

JOHN L. DAVIS,

THE
NEW YORK STORE

ROOT & COMPANY

AT THEIR POPULAR DRY GOODS HOUSE, THE

NEW YORK STORE

Are now offering the largest and most extensive variety of Dry Goods they have ever had the pleasure of showing. All at PRICES within reach of the most economical.

Examine Before You Buy,

Black and Colored Dress Silks, Black and Colored Cashmeres, French Merinos, Empress Cloths, Mourning goods, Medium priced and low priced Dress Goods, Paisley long and square Shawls, India stripe Shawls, Ottoman-striped shawls, Gentlemen's shawls, shoulder shawls, Boys' shawls, elegant beaver cloaks, velvet cloaks, children's cloaks, seal skin sacques, &c.

Fine FURS, for Ladies, Misses and Children, at greatly reduced Prices.

46 and 48 Calhoun Street, Fort Wayne, Ind.

A NEW STORE!

With an entire stock of

NEW GOODS!

BOOTS & SHOES

at the lowest PRICES.

J. E. WOODFORD,

has located at Auburn with a fine new stock of BOOTS & SHOES, which will be sold at the lowest figures for

CASH ONLY

Call and examine this bran new stock, as there are no old goods that have been on the shelf in ... Store on Main street opposite Fluke's store, Auburn, Ind.

VICK'S
FLORAL GUIDE,
FOR 1875.

Published Quarterly.—January Number just issued, and contains over 100 Pages, 500 Engravings, descriptions of more than 500 of our best Flowers and Vegetables, with Directions for Culture, Colored Plate, etc.—The most useful and elegant work of the kind in the world.—Only 25 cents for the year.—Published in English and German. Address,

JAMES VICK, Rochester, N. Y.

Pittsburg, Baltimore & Ohio R.R
IS COMING.

Therefore buy your

Dry Goods,
Notions, etc., of
CHARLES KLOTZ
AT HIS
Old Stand
ON MAN STREET,
Opposite Court Square
AUBURN, INDIANA

Where he may be found at all times ready to accommodate customers, and sell them such goods as they may need.

CLOTHING
Of all descriptions, and
HANDSOME SUITS
Made to Order!
GREATLY IMPROVED.

J. J. VanAuken,
COUNTY SURVEYOR.

Will attend promptly to all surveying. Office with Rose & Hartman, Auburn, Indiana. Persons requesting work by letter should give township and section.

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed Administrator of the estate of Ervin J. Crain, late of DeKalb County, deceased. Said Estate is supposed to be solvent.

ERVIN A. CRAIN, Adm'r.

Dec. 15th 1874.

Auburn Courier.

Butter 25c.
Potatoes 50
Oats, 45 cts.
Apples 50 cts.
Eggs, 20 cents.
Corn 50 @ 55 cts
Wheat, white $1 08
Wood $1.75 @ $2.
Live hogs 5½c per pound.

Local and Miscellaneous.

Merry Christmas.

Hang up your sock.

Vordermark & Sons.

No paper next week.

Market full of wood.

Dance to-morrow night.

The Central Grocery to-night.

Holidays commence to-morrow.

John Hebel is getting brick in fast.

Santa Claus goes back on some of 'em

Millinery Goods selling down below cost at Stamets'

Remember the splendid dramatic play Dec 31st

For a nice present see the fine stock at Stamets'

A nice snow commenced falling last Monday night.

The "steam meat smasher" throws out smoke at rapid rate.

Remember that this office does the best Job Work.

The railroad time cards are all corrected this week.

Frostings and all kinds of Candies at Hare Bros.

A new boarding house has been started on North Main-st.

New Muffs and Ties received yesterday at Stamets'.

Mens' first-class Rubber Boots $3 75 at Vordermark & Son's.

Candy, Fruits and Toys at Hare Bros.

Concerts are many this week. Given by the conservatory.

For a good word on soap stone griddles call on Davenport, also the seven seals.

Gents Fancy Slippers for the holidays in great variety at Vordermark's.

Remember Stamets is closing out his stock of Millinery Goods for the Holidays

Hare Bros have the finest stock of Candies in town.

S. W. Sprott & Son pay the highest market price for Hides, Pelts and Furs

The business signs around town were changed again last Saturday night. Joe Abright is ahead

Some of our merchants showed a lively spirit in the way of advertising last Saturday.

Holiday Goods cheaper than any other place in town—Hare Bros.

Mrs. Fair has sold her corner for three thousand dollars and Mr. Berry his for two thousand. New brick buildings will soon be erected.

The roads are in a fine condition for hauling, and the streets are crowded with loaded wagons.

Oranges, Lemons, Raisins, Citron, Prunes, Currants and canned Fruits at Hare Bros.

The Band talk of giving a dramatic performance about the first of February next Good.

The higest market price paid for Hides, Pelts and Furs, at the Pioneer Boot and Shoe store of S. W. Sprott & Son

The Baltimore hands got their pay yesterday, and many a happy auld boy was strutting about town to-day.

The editor of the Toledo Democrat must be of Irish extraction. His name is Alfred B. Jazes.

Ed Eldridge is bound to sell holiday goods cheaper than any other firm in the place. Dont forget this.

Ladies contemplating purchasing slippers for the holidays will do well by giving Vordermark & Son's a call.

Bro. Weamer says we will never make a success as a hog butcher. Well, we don't want to, we desire that our neighbor shall live a while longer.

The Central has some splendid articles to make Christmas presents with. Buy for your children at this place, and you can certainly please them.

Do not fail to call at the Pioneer Boot and Shoe store of Sprott & Son when you want anything cheap and good, for less money than they can be bought anywhere else in this market.

Special Notice.

All persons knowing themselves indebted to us either by cash or note are requested to call and settle immediately as we must have the money.

SPROTT & SON.

Several young ladies are having a "fight" about some gentlemen friends. Dr. Fox can cure the case "in three jerks of a lambs tail."

Go to Davenport's and get the new almanacs for 1875. You may not want to read them, but, like Mrs. Toodles, they are handy to have in the house.

NOTICE—S. W. Sprott & Son have concluded to sell for cash from January 1st and your attention is called to their goods and prices.

For a first class good shave go to Sam Pomert. He can dress your hair in artistic fashion or dye your hair to perfection.

There are one or two persons in this place who have brass enough to ask all the offices going. Less cheek and more brains wouldn't come amiss.

Those who enjoy a dramatic entertainment should not fail to be on hand the 31 of this month. The company are making extra efforts to give a first-class performance.

FOR SALE OR RENT.—A neat and commodious dwelling in the lower part of town for sale cheap. Apply to C. F. MADER. 46tf.

The best assortment of TOYS we ever saw are on exhibition at the Central Grocery. Everybody should go there and save from 25 to 50 per cent on their holiday presents.

The Young Folks' Social will meet at the residence of J. E. Woodford, Esq., on next Tuesday evening. Let the attendance be large as a good time is sure to be had.

Buy something useful as well as ornamental. A good substantial pair of boots or shoes for a holiday present is useful.—Vordermark & Son are selling at greatly reduced prices.

S. W. Sprott & Son have concluded to sell their immense stock of Boots and Shoes at prices that cannot be beaten, and it will pay you to call and see their stock before buying elsewhere.

Change of time of running trains took place last Sabbath on the Eel River road Two new trains have been put on, making ten trains a day. This little corporation means business.

The crowd was immense at the brick school house, west of town last Saturday evening, to witness the fine play of Rip Van Winkle, which the boys mastered without extra effort.

E. Vordermark & Sons are, as usual, ahead. Their large store is literally crammed with boots and shoes of the best quality, and at the lowest prices. Our readers should call in when they want something to cover their understandings.

Some boys hired a team of Ryan & Mader, last Saturday evening, to attend the theatre west of town two miles, and on their return let the team get away, smashing up a top buggy in good style. The boys escaped injury.

Mr. B. Koontz has not only a lithograph of the fine Art Building for the Centenial Celebration, but also a handsome picture of the main building 1880 feet long and over 400 feet wide covering twenty acres. Everybody should have a copy which can be obtained of Mr. Koontz.

Barnum has not exactly been at Kendallville, and yet our neighbors over there have had a baby show. Mr. Dixon's wife's baby won the prize. We like these kind of shows. One is not tired to death with such terms as "graded" and "thoroughbred," etc.

The two concerts given by the Conservatory of music last evening and the evening before was excellent, and everybody were delighted with the fine music, that is everybody that attended. The audence was small the first evening, Mrs. Straub singing captivated and pleased, Mr. Stroub also sang splendidly, We have only time to make brief mention.

At a temperance meeting, held in the Presbyterian church Monday eve, a prominent temperance man remarked that "owing to the political complexion of our last election, in this county, an extra effort will have to be put forth in order to make these meetings as successful as in the past." The poor fellow was discouraged because there wasn't a corporal's guard out—that's all.

The Press, having been railing out at Waterman, a most delightful employment for it, and charging him with constituting the board of election in Franklin-tp., with his own supporters is answered in the certificates to be found in another column. Lying and falsifying will not make a cause right, and Mr. Taylor has been losing ground ever since this has been resorted to by his friends. We propose to leave the matter with the Legislature, for which evidence has been taken If it says Taylor, we say Taylor. If it says Waterman, we throw up our hat and say Waterman.

10c heavy yard wide sheeting reduced down to 8½c at Miller & Casebeer.

No Paper Next Week.

Another year has rolled around, and we will soon be amidst the joys and pleasures of the holidays. Our boys have labored faithfully through the year, and they need a little relaxation in order to commence the new year in good shape, and therefore no paper will be issued from this office next week. We cordially wish every one a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Social Hop.

The season of innocent amusement and pleasure is upon us, and various are the attractions offered. The Auburn Dance Club gives a hop on Christmas night, and every arrangement has been made for the enjoyment of those attending. We believe any one can with propriety attend this hop, because it will be respectably conducted, it will posess a feature socially that is always attractive, and reasonable hours will be observed.

pen worked he was caught in his own trap.
shouted for help, but knowing that was miles from a human habitat and in a savage locality, where few sons ever ventured, he soon sat d in blank despair. He spent that n in agony, and got but little sleep, commenced to snow, but fortunately had a heavy blanket overcoat, w kept him comparatively comforta
The next morning he commenced sh ing again until his throat was sore, was only answered by the howlin
the tempest. He had set his

Notice to Farmers and Builders.

Parties wishing to purchase shingles for the coming season can get them for the next sixty days at reduced rates by taking them from the cars. Those wishing to take the benefit of this, will please call at the office of F. N. Wright & Co., and make arrangments as to time of delivery. All star shingles are inspected and warrented to be first-class.

Office on Jackson street near Berry's planing mill.

Volume four of the COURIER closes with this issue. It seems to be but a short time since we began its publication and yet four long years have passed, and a few have not paid us yet. Four more years may pass and find them that much more behind. Life may pass them in the mantling blush, and yet they'll have cheek to ask us to wait longer. We have a large number of good subscribers, men who are honest and fair-minded, who come up once a year and pay for their paper, many of them in advance. We are thankful for this and we esteem them very highly.—We want a few more of the same kind.

Furs, Scarffs, and neckties, at cost 'till after the holidays at Miller & Casbeer's

Examination of Teachers.

No further regular examination will be held until March, as the the teachers for the winter schools are nearly, or quite, all engaged; and I wish to have all my time for institute work. But should any require examination, time and place can be settled by applying to me.

JAMES A. BARNS, Co., Supt.
Waterloo, Nov. 28, 1874.

Butler Township Institute elected the following officers:

Chairman, C M Merica, Sec'y. Miss M. Simon. The following teachers responded at roll-call: J H Merica, Martha Simon, C M Merica, J J Walters, F K Blake J B Baxter. The chairman then assigned topics to the different teachers. In the afternoon the following programme was taken up: First was the class in Orthography and spelling by J H Merica, which was conducted good. Next was reading by Black which was conducted in a lively manner, and followed by a discussion in which several of the teachers participated after which C M Merica conducted a class in penmanship. The class in History by J B Baxter was interesting, also the class in Physiology by J J Walters. The recitation in Geography was conducted by F K Blake, after which J H Merica was appointed Sec'y for next session. The topics were then assigned the teachers for next session. The Institute adjourned to meet in six weeks at Butler Center.

MARTHA SIMON, Sec'y.

Miller and Casbeer are offering the best bargains in town.

Those of our readers who have generally suppose that Coal existed in this part of the State will be somewhat disappointed at what the State Geologist says below of Noble county, which will be applicable to our own.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 7, 1874.—Dear Sir:—Your favor of the 4th inst. is received. My Assistant, Dr. S. M. Levitt, made a general survey of Noble county and his report is given in the annual report for 1873. I expect, however, to visit your county in person some time next season. I have also just received a letter from Mr. L. B. Eagles containing a specimen of Bituminous Coal found in digging a ditch. There are no seams of bituminous coal in your county. The surface is covered many feet in depth with a foreign material called glacial drift, composed of large and small boulders, gravel sand and clay, with locally small quantities of gold, copper coal &c., but never in paying quantities. If the whole drift material of Noble county was sifted over you would hardly be able to procure a ton of coal, and the cost would be immense—After reaching the bottom of the drift, the first rocks found in place are many hundred feet lower in geological order than the coal-bearing rocks, so that it is no use for you to dig down after coal. The fragments found were transported along with the other drift material from districts north of the lakes. Yours truly,

E. T. COX.

Best Prints 8c per yard at Miller & Casbeer's.

Last Warning.

If a few of our subscribers do not receive any COURIER after this issue they can come to the conclusion that it has been stopped and the accounts placed in the hands of an attorney for collection.—We will not stop a paper where a subscriber has made some exertion to pay up, and show a willingness to pay an honest debt. We have waited over a year, for a few, and they certainly ought not to ask us for further indulgence. We have great patience, but when anyone stands by and sees us furnish them with a good, readable paper week after week, through a long year, without a cent from them, it becomes too onesided, and we are apt to fly off the handle. So come in pay us what is due, thank the Lord for his goodness, give your wife, if you have one, an extra hug, and go through the next year with a smiling countenance and a clear conscience, and you can not fail to meet with prosperity.

COURT ITEMS—Quite a number of cases have been disposed of during the last week.

Court was to adjourn last night for this term.

Catharine Hoesac obtained a decree of diforce from her husband.

Special terms of Court will be held on the second and fourth Mondays in January.

Elizabeth A. Freeborn obtained a decree of divorce, the court allowing her three of the children, and the husband one.

S. B. Chittenden & Co., of New York, obtained a judgment against Boozer & Blattner for $1716, McClellan for Plaintiff and Congressman Baker, McBride & Morlan and D. Y. & C. Husselman for Delts, Mac got ahead of Kelly, because he beat Baker in a warmly contested jury trial.

REMOVED.

The extensive Millinery Emporum of M. E. MARTIN & Co., recently located over Davenport's Drug Store has been removed to Ford's new building, north of Fluke's corner on Main-st. This will give this enterprising firm facilities to display their fine stock of everything desirable in this line. Their Millinery Department is very complete. and they are offering extra bargains for the holidays. Read the following.

Good Bleached Muslin at 6 cents per yard
United States " 5½ "
Four Quarters " 9 "
Good Unbleached " 6 "
Yard Wide " 8 "
Yard Wide " 9 "
Dress Delains, with pattern, 15 yds $1.00
Wool Dress Goods, " per yard 12
Good Black Alpacas per yard 30
Fancy Dress Goods per yard 15 to 40
Plain, Bard and Fancy Flannels for 20
Fancy Prints per yard 6
Best Standard Prints, with pattern, 8

A full and complete line of Dress and Cloak Trimmings embracing over 80 different varieties, from three cents upwards Ladies and Gents Underwear, Gloves &c. of all varieties and prices to satisfy every body.

Millinery Department complete.

Ladies Trimmed Hats $1 00
Ladies Trimmed Bonnets $1 to 3.00
Children's Hats 75
Ladies New Watered Silk Ties 25

In fact the most extensive and desirable stock of Fancy Goods, Toys, in the county.

PALACE OF FASHION.

The Largest Clothing Establishment in Northern Indiana.

Great Inducements Offered During the Holidays.

Every one is familiar with the great "Palace of Fashion" No. 1 Keystone Block Fort Wayne, Indiana; therefore it is needless to mention to the citisens of Auburn and vicinity of the many advantages gained over others by dealing at this popular clothing emporum. This firm carries, without exception, the largest stock of clothing and gents furnishing goods, and controls a larger trade than any one house in Northern Indiana, selling at from 15 to 20 per cent. lower than any one house in their line of business

Their stock is complete in every department, and are offering the next 30 days their large and complete stock at prices far below anything heretofore known for good clothing. They guarantee their prices to be the very lowest, having purchased their stock for cash and selling for cash, which thus enables them to sell goods at low prices.

For the coming holiday trade they have received a large shipment of clothing, hats and caps, underwear, &c., which they intend to dispose of at exceedingly low figures.

Their stock of Mens & Boys overcoats is immense.

If times are dull and money scarce, their trade seems to be on the increase, for the simple reason, they undersell all their competitors and guarantee their prices to be the very lowest. Great bargains offered during the holidays at the great "Palace of fashion" No. Keystone Block, Fort Wayne, Ind. J. NIEDLINGER, Pro

DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY.

Cures all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs. Never known to fail. Every bottle warranted to give satisfaction or money cheerfully refunded. For sale at Davenport's drug store. Sample bottles free. Try it.

Special Inducements

FOR THE NEXT

30 DAYS!

TO CASH BUYERS, AT

MILLER & CASEBEER'S,

CORNER MAIN & NINTH STREETS.

PERSONAL.

B. F. Casebeer, of Hicksville, Ohio, was with Colonel C., of this place, on Tuesday this week.

H. D. Taylor, Esq., agent for the American Express Co., was in town yesterday.

Mrs. J. S. Stough, and Miss Jackman, of Waterloo, were in attendance at the musical convention,

Harry Rush has returned home, after a long stay at Elkhart, to spend the holidays under his parental roof.

Adolphus Rogers, Esq., the genial editor of the Courier, New Castle, Ind., gave us a call last Saturday.

Wilson McDermott, Esq., of the Fort Wayne Daily Sentinel gave us a call last evening, looking as trim as a Congressman.

Our charming young friend Miss Sallie Shaw, with H. H. Stamets, will make a short visit to her former home, Bucyrus, Ohio, after the holidays.

Prof. Straub and lady, of Chicago, are attending the musical convention this week. Mr. Straub stands high in the west in the musical profession.

Mr. Woolsey, formerly of this place, had his right ankle severely injured by a peice of dirt falling from the steam scraper, on the Baltimore road.

Father Young, of the Catholic church, has located in this place, and now resides on Seventh-street, near Mr. Boughan's.—Doubtless there will be services in the church each Sabbath.

Prof. Jas. Lowrie, of Boston, is in the city, and will conduct the dramatic play of Kathleen Mavourneen, to be given the 31st inst. Do'nt fail to hear Mr. L. in his character songs.

Our excellent friend Capt. Fred J. Drake of Ft. Wayne, he who presides over the delivery department of the postoffice, is one of the most popular attentive and polite gentlemen in the city. We have always held him in high esteem, and late favors serve to increase it.

LOST.—On Saturday night last a black hat with the name of Harper & Fritz on the inside. The finder will confer a favor by leaving it at this office.

One of the finest musical publications, we have seen is the work called "Good Cheer," with Prof. Stroub as the author. It is designed for singing classes, conventions, choirs and schools in general, and is meeting with a large sale.

If there is anything good in this part of the State outside of Fort Wayne, that city must needs have it, too. The latest is the establishment of a new democratic paper called the COURIER, after us, of course. It is bound to be a success, and the name will insure that, but we wish it success with all our heart. Our excellent friend S. F. Smart, and Capt. Steel are the managers.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that at the regular communication of Auburn Lodge No. 116, I. O. O. F. on Wednesday evening, Jan. 6th, 1875, there will be elected three Trustees, to serve one year, or until their successors in office are elected and qualified.

By order of the Lodge.
S. T. GALLOWAY, Sec'y.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that at the stated communication of Cedar Encampment No. 65. I. O. O. F., on Friday evening, Jan. 8th, 1875, there will be elected three Trustees, to serve one year, or until their successors in office are elected and qualified.

By order of the Encampment
T. C. MAYS, Scribe.

Dr. Boschee's German Syrup.

Cough no more! How much joy there is in every household to know that they can at least procure a remedy for any case of coughs severe colds settled in the breast Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs that is certain to cure. It is a satisfaction to know that a person is safe from the dangers of these disease—all you need do is to go to F. E. DAVANPORT'S and get a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup, two or three doses will relieve you at once. If you dobt what we say in print get a sample bottle for 10 cents and try it or a regular size for 75 cents.

Administratons Sale.

Notice is hereby given that I well sell at public sale at the residence of George Teutsch deceased, in Troy Township in DeKalb County. on Friday the 15th day of January 1875, the personal property of said decedent, consisting of Horses, Cattle Hogs, corn, wheat, oats, hay and other articles

TERMS—All sums of three dollars and under, cash in hand; over three dollars a credit of nine months will be given by the purchaser giving his note with approved security waiving valuation and appraisement laws with interest at ten per cent from date if not paid punctually when due, if paid when due six per cent from date

PETER TEUTSCH,
Administrator.

Administrators Sale.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned Administrator of the estate of Ervin E. Crain deceased will offer for sale at Public Auction at the late residence of said decedent in Franklin Township DeKalb County Ind. on Saturday the 23rd of January 1875 the personal property of said estate consisting of Horses Cows young Cattle Wagons Harness Saddle and various other articles. Sale to begin at ten o'clock A. M.

TERMS. Sums of three dollars and under cash over three dollars a credit of nine months will be given to the purchaser giving his note with interest and approved security waiving valuation and appraisment laws.

ERVIN A. CRAIN
Administrator.

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION,

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed Administrator of the Estate of George Teutsch late of DeKalb County, deceased. Said Estate is supposed to be solvent.

PETER TEUTSCH. Adm'r
Dec., 16th, 1874.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA DeKalb County, Sct:
In the DeKalb Circuit Court, Feb. term, 1875.
Richard Gramling
vs.
Charles Brandt, Wenzel Ernst, —— Ernst, wife of said Wenzel, whose first name is unknown, Frederick Buchanan and Peter Gramling.

Now comes the Plaintiff by McBride & Morlan his Attorneys and files his complaint herein, together with an affidavit that said Defendants Charles Brandt, Wenzel Ernest —— Ernst, wife of said Wenzel whose first name is unknown, and Frederick Buchanan are not residents of the State of Indiana.

Notice is, therefore, hereby given said defendant that unless they be and appear on the first day of the next term of the DeKalb Circuit Court, to be holden on the 3d Monday of February, a. d, 1875 at the court house in Auburn, in said county and State, and answer or demur to said complaint, the same will be heard and determined in their absence.

Witness, My name and the seal of said court affixed at Auburn, this 23d day of December, 1874.

J. R. LANNING, Clerk

NOTICE TO STOCKHOLDERS.

NOTICE is hereby given to the Stockholders of the North-Eastern Indiana Agricultural Association, that the Annual Meeting of the Stockholders of said Association will be held at the Engine House at Waterloo DeKalb County Indiana, at 2 o'clock p. m. on Monday January 4, 1875, Business of importance will come before the meeting, including the election of officers.

ALSO

That the books of said Association will be closed on the 15th day of December 1874, for the issuing of Shares. All those having unclaimed accrued dividends are requested to call at the Secretary's Office, and procure certificates of stock in lieu of the same. By order of the Executive Committee.

JAMES L. CHAMBERLAIN, President.
JOHN BUTT Secretary.
Waterloo, Indiana, December 3, 1874.

for everyday reference and use.
"A whole library."—Boston Globe. "Not a luxu ry, but a necessity."—Inter-Ocean. "The mos recent, complete, trustworthy."—Nation.
The BEST-SELLING BOOK PUBLISHED. Send fo
Circulars to Ziegler & McCurdy, Chicago, Ill

FOR NEARLY THIRTY YEARS THE RICHMOND PRINTS
have been held in high esteem by those who use Calico. They are produced in all the novelties o changing fashions, and in conservative style suited to the wants of many persons. Among th latter are the
"Standard Gray Styles," proper for the house or street—beautiful in de signs and pleasing in coloring.
"CHOCOLATE STANDARD STYLES," in great variety, and widely known as most ser viceable prints. Nothing better for daily wea
These goods bear tickets as quoted above. Your re tailer should have them, and your examinatio and approval will solicited.

THE PIANO-HAR
Cabinet Organ.
Patented December, 1874.
A new and beautiful musical instrument—or im provement upon the Cabinet Organ—being a co

Auction, Auction

WM. E. RUSH
Has opened out, in Ward's building, a fine stock of
DRY GOODS, NOTIONS,
GENTS' UNDERWEAR, &c., which you can have at your own price. Private sale between auction hours.

SAINT NICHOLAS
At Home.

SANTA CLAUS IN HIS GLORY.

If you visit Fort wayne do not fail to call on

Henry W. Bond's

FANCY, DRY
GOODS, AND LADIES' FURNISHING STORE
AT

21 West Main St.

A few doors west of the Court House.

where will be found the finest display

OF HOLIDAY GOODS

in the city. Fancy Dry Goods, Notions, Toys Books, Soaps, Combs, Brushes, Blankets, Embroideries of all kinds, Zephyrs and Germantown Yarns, Floss, &c., Table Linen, Towlings, Napkins, Flannels, Underwear, for ladies and gentlemen, Boys Misses and Childrens Hosiery, Gloves Corsets Buttons and many novelties too numerous to mention. Articles suitable for presents for Christmas, Newyears, weddings, Birthdays, Christening aniversaries, &c. in large stock. The goods have to be seen to be appreciated. An invitation is extended to all to come and see me.

HENRY W. BOND
Fort Wayne, Ind.

Go to Miller & Casebeer's if you want to save money.

DAN'S WIFE.

BY [illegible]

Up in early morning light,
Sweeping, dusting, "setting right,"
Oiling all the household springs,
Sewing buttons, tying strings,
Telling Bridget what to do,
Mending rips in Johnny's shoe,
Running up and down the stair,
Tying baby in her chair,
Cutting meat and spreading bread,
Dishing out so much per head,
Eating as she can by chance,
Giving husband kindly glance,
Toiling, working, busy life,
"Smart woman,"
Dan's wife!"

Dan comes home at fall of night,
Home so cheerful, neat and bright,
Children meet him at the door,
Pull him in and look him o'er
Wife asks how the work has gone;
"Busy times with us at home!"
Supper done—Dan reads at ease,
Happy Dan, because to please,
Children must be put to bed—
All the little prayers are said;
Little shoes are placed in rows,
Bed-clothes tucked o'er little toes,
Busy, noisy, wearing life,
Tired woman,
Dan's wife.

Dan reads on and falls asleep,
See the woman softly creep;
Baby rests at last poor dear,
Not a word her heart to cheer;
Mending-basket full to top,
Stockings, shirt and little frock,
Tired eyes and weary brain,
Side with darting, ugly pain;
"Never mind, 'twill pass away,"
She must work but never play;
Closed piano, unused books,
Done the walks to easy nooks,
Brightness faded out of life,
Saddened woman,
Dan's wife.

Up-stairs, tossing to and fro,
Fever holds the woman low;
Children wander, free to play
When and where they will, to-day;
Bridget loiters—dinner's cold;
Dan looks anxious, cross and old;
Household screws are out of place,
Lacking one dear, patient face,
Steady hands, so weak and true,
Hands that knew just what to do,
Never knowing rest or play,
Folded now—and laid away,
Work of six in one short life,
Shattered woman,
Dan's wife.

TOLD AT NIGHTFALL.

It was a stormy September evening. Guy Urquhart and my respected self—Charles Effingstone, painter—were sitting in the studio window of his delightful little villa at Frascati, near Rome, high over the rounded tops of woods now lurid in the red setting sun. Beneath a leaden sky the gloomy Campagna stretched like a dead sea, and with its fair rim cut the disk, a portentous blood-red ball, slowly, slowly sinking.

Guy and I had been old friends and school-fellows in England. He was two or three years older than myself, but that had made his friendship for me all the tenderer, and mine for him reverential. Besides, I had looked on Guy as a kind of genial young saint. I had always felt rather wicked in his company, because he really seemed, quite naturally, never to do anything wrong, or to have so much [illegible] the matter, and

Press of the 3d of Dec , the quoted statement is repeated, an wish you would publish the stateme herewith sent, that the public know who tells the truth about making up of election board, and would just state here, that there several other false statements in paper, concerning the contest, and easily proved as the above statemen

MILES WATERMA

December 8th 1874.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

On the morning of the Oct. elec ion 1874. Mr. Waterman the trust of Franklin Tp., stated publicly [illegible] perched in Rome. "Got into a scrape about a woman, and didn't behave well to her, or something of the sort," drawled out one of these amiable gentlemen. And this was all I could discover about poor Urquhart.

But at last I heard from Guy himself once more. Lo! he had inherited a small fortune from a distant relation; he had thrown civil engineering overboard; he was coming to Rome forthwith to study art in earnest at last; and we must spend the ensuing summer in Villeggiatura together, eating figs at Tusculum. At the time my story begins, he had been about six weeks in Rome, and had already painted one or two capital little pictures

No village in the world drives such a roaring trade in scandal as grand old Rome. You have seen how Urquhart's character went before him, as Sir Peter Teazle's stayed behind, for the comfort of the community, and what mercy it met with. Now, when circumstances are served up in this mixed way, there are generally certain facts which one may trace like pebbles through disturbing waves. I felt convinced that I should do so in Urquhart's case, if ever it pleased him to give me his confidence.

But I could not try to thrust myself into any chamber of his past not freely opened to me. I could not help guessing that there was a shut and locked door, behind which lurked the solution of a mystery. This mystery was the great and grievous change in my friend, not to be accounted for by the mere lapse of two or three years. And this change was all the more remarkable that it was not always obvious. No two men could be more unlike than Urquhart to Urquhart in different moods. It seemed to me as if much evil had flowed into his heart by some rent where much good had run out, but that the poison had never mixed with the healthy juice of his life.

On this September evening as we sat together, Guy had been muttering some very bad sentiments, which would have grieved me more if I had not attributed them in part to some unripe peaches and the state of his stomach.

"Guy," said I, suddenly, "I've found a key to much that makes people gasp and stare at you."

"What do you mean?" returned he, rather roughly.

"Most persons," I went on, "are half-angel, half-devil, they say. But your angel and devil seem to share their lodging on the most curious terms of mutual forbearance. They seem to take you turn and turn about, in watches, as it were. Your angel never torments your devil, or interferes with his mode of enjoying himself, in his Walpurgis night with his man; and your devil, with equal politeness, never intrudes himself on the angelic prayer-meetings. They could not possibly come in contact without disturbing the harmony of the system; but they seem to agree to differ, like certain polite married couples."

Urquhart took his pipe from his mouth, and blew out a long smoke-wreath. Then he leaned head and shoulders out of the window, and stared far away at the sun, now like a clot of blood in the livid horizon, till even that crimson speck was absorbed. Then he brought himself back to his former position in a corner of the rickety old sofa, and from that dusky corner spake.

"You hooked a fine fat fish there, my young friend, with your moral-critical line. Your sagacity really deserves patting for having snapped up such a good head of game. Still you don't know how the devil got into me; how should you? He had hardly set claw on your friend when we were boys together, and I rather the better boy of the two."

"You may well say that, old fellow! At that time (and what a little time ago it is after all!) you really seemed incapable of evil, or even of comprehending it. You trusted everybody implicitly, because you yourself were——"

"An ass!" roared Urquhart. "And now listen."

So, as the night fell, and "the casement slowly grew a glimmering square" in the blackness, Urquhart's tale was told.

"Fourteen months ago, I was lodging for the summer in a farm-house in a village, no matter where. The only house there belonging to gentlefolks, except the wretched old parsonage, was Squire Ringwood's. It was a big, stupid-looking mansion, on a hill, staring down overbearingly at the poor little tenements huddled together below; and the burly Squire himself was for all the world like his house, as he sat on his tall horse, and looked down pompously over his vast waistcoat at a frightened crew of village children. The Squire had an ugly, sickly wife and daughter, and they had an humble companion that was an angel of beauty. I fell in love with her at church. Oh, the little church in the west countrie, hid in the bowery orchard hollow! Oh, the sudden delicious gust that littered the graves with blossoms!—your mother's grave, Charley; has the dear woman the violets I planted there? or did they die like the faith and hope she set in me? I fell in love with Fanny Vale before I knew her name; I learned that from the farm-house folk with whom I lodged. They told me, moreover, that she was a young widow, and still in weeds when she came to lodge very humbly in the village six months before; that the Squire's wife and daughter had taken a fancy to her, and adopted her into their family, kind of reader and companion of ork. I made her acquaintance by e which I threw at her feet over a the first time I spied her walking I need not swear to you that I had an evil wish or thought about To me a woman was a holy thing, rated by no lowness of condition, rving of any gentleman's love and rence, if endowed with certain ities. These qualities I now took ust, and, being enchanted by her ty, saw also the perfection of moral ness in her face. Such an angelic Charley! There she sat in the re's pew, beside her ugly patron- with such intelligence in her choly blue eye and fair half-moon row, such a breathing sensibility er silence; and when I came to her, what sympathy in her smile, silken manners, so soft, graceful, sing, yet modest and full of suave dignity! She did not answer my note; but when I went to the copse behind Ringwood house, where I had implored her to meet me, she was there. She came, she said, only to beg me to come, and write no more. She was a poor dependent, and the least suspicion falling on her would cast her homeless and friendless on the world. I will not dwell on this stale love story; it was perfectly commonplace of its kind, except that the dupe was not, for once, the humble beauty, but the gentleman from London. She consented to be my wife; and at the summer's end, without asking her a single question as to her past, without knowing more of it than the farm folk had volunteered to tell me the first day I saw her, I brought this girl to London and married her. That's what came of being too good for this world, incapable of evil, or the comprehension of it. I had written to tell my father of my intended marriage to (I frankly confessed) a perfectly obscure and penniless young woman, that had, of course, everything but position and wealth to recommend her. I wrote a respectful letter which I received back in a blank cover. Yet my heart yearned to the cross-grained old man, and from the glory and joy of my fool's paradise, I emerged voluntarily, before the honeymoon was over, to seek a reconciliation with my father.

"When I got to his door, he drove me away like a beggar, like a strange dog, with his lifted stick, with his mouth full of curses. This is the last I ever saw of him. He died six months after, implacable.

"I hurried back to town, to be comforted by the angel in my house. I returned sooner than I was looked for. I opened the door by a latch-key, and went softly up-stairs to surprise my wife. It was about 2 in the afternoon. Our little drawing-room had folding doors, which were now ajar. No one was in the front room, but I heard—I heard my wife's voice in the other. I heard her voice and a man's. I had but one step forward, and I saw——"

It was quite dark by this time, and here the voice that had come out of Urquhart's black corner suddenly broke into an awful sob.

"Don't go on," said I, much distressed.

"Let me alone," gasped Urquhart, savagely.

In less than a minute he resumed, steadily:

"I saw my wife with her arms round a man's neck. She was passionately entreating him not to leave her; he was trying to release himself. The next moment they saw me, and started apart. Then, instantly, my wife, that tender angel, flung herself at me like a wild-cat. She did not scream, but through her shut teeth she said, 'I'll kill you, I'll kill you, if you touch him!' Her blue eyes glared much like yonder blue lightning that keeps flashing out there, and something glittered close to my face. She had snatched up her scissors, and I verily believe would have dug them into my temple if the man, her lover, had not come and pulled down her hand. She was going to fall into his arms again, but he put her from him, not very gently, and told her to sit down. She obeyed him instantly. I cannot in the least describe my state of mind all this time, which was only a minute or two, I suppose. My impression is that I had ceased to feel; that, if my brain and heart had been scooped out, I could not have been emptier of emotion and thought; that I was not conscious of any vindictive rage, or any transport of despair. Some people may think I ought to have kicked that man down-stairs. I neither did so, nor felt any desire to hurt him. It was he who took the initiative, and made me a sign to go into the front room with him, which I did. Then, when I stood there face to face with him, I said suddenly, and, as it were, involuntarily:

"'Who are you?'

"'I am sorry for you,' said he, in a gentle drawl, looking at me quite compassionately; 'this woman has treated you very badly. Still, you know, you have only yourself to thank. Your conduct has been quite inconceivably rash, you know—'

"'Who are you?' I repeated, staring at him bluntly.

"'I am Capt. Edward Ringwood. This woman is an actress, whom I became acquainted with about a year or two before you first saw her. I assure you I knew nothing about your love affairs or proposed marriage. If I had known in time, I should certainly have considered it my duty to warn you of the awful blunder you were making. When I went abroad with my regiment, it seems she chose to go down and wriggle herself into my family. What her motive was, I can't imagine. She is a most artful, dangerous person, that is clear. She saw my return to England in the papers yesterday, and sent me a note inviting me to come and see her at this address, which I did. I give you my word of honor I had not been here ten minutes when you made your appearance. She had just told me she was married, and this was your house; upon which I got up and wished her good-day.'

"By this time I had found myself unable to stand, and was sitting on the sofa with my head between my hands. When Capt. Ringwood left off speaking, I looked up, meaning to say something, but forgot what it was, and only stared at him silently.

"He was a fair, slight young man, about 30, with handsome, thin features, and large, light-brown whiskers. He stood there looking at me with the same good-natured concern in his face that he had expressed in words, in his fashionable, affected way.

"At last I recollected what I had been going to say, and told him I wished to be left alone. He silently took out his card, laid it on the chimney-piece, and went out.

"I don't know how many hours I remained lying on the sofa, with my eyes shut, in that strange torpor; but it was night when I opened them, and found my wife standing by me. She had lighted the candles on the chimney-piece, and was stooping down over me. She started upright as my eyes opened, but she did not avoid them. She confronted me, arching back her nymph-like figure, and leaning one hand on a table behind her.' I felt no emotion at sight of her, but looked at her as if she had been a picture. Her beauty was splendid. All her fair golden hair was turned off her white face in a sort of glittering aureola. Her great turquoise-blue eyes flared under slightly contracted brows; the nostrils of her delicate, straight nose and her infantine mouth expressed rage and pain.

"'I am glad you are awake,' said she; 'I want you to hear me say I hate you!'

"'I don't care,' said I, wearily. 'Go away.'

"Her face flamed out with the fury that was burning her heart.

"'But you do care!' she cried; 'you shall care! I tell you I always laughed at you and despised you. I only married you from pique—because he left me. I got into his family and toadied them, and made myself their servant, only to hear of him, and to feel nearer him, and be where he had been—I love him so! I love no one else in the world—I never did. I would kill you, and a dozen like you, to save him from a fingerache. I would rather a thousand times have a blow from him than a kiss from you—a hundred million times! When I think of you, and that you are between us, I hate you—I abhor you! How dare you smile at me? I'll kill you!'

"I was quite unconscious of smiling; but she darted at me, and struck at my throat. I caught her hand; this time she had a penknife in it, and I felt that she had pricked me. That instinctive act of self-defense roused me, and probably saved my wits as well as my life. When I had mastered her and thrown the knife away, I held her hands in mine till she put down her face and bit them savagely. I tied her wrists with my pocket handkerchief, and she sank panting on a chair. All of a sudden the unhappy creature burst out crying as if her heart was broken—as it well might be. Probably Ringwood's cool treatment of her throughout the interview recently was at the bottom of that frenzy of vituperation, that desperate behavior toward me. She did not hate me, but was simply mad with pain, and raved and struck out in her delirium. I think she really liked me when she married me, notwithstanding her assertion to the contrary, and meant and wished to lead a new life; but the sight of Ringwood's name in the papers, and the knowledge of his nearness, in my absence, revived her passion for him, in which her good resolutions burnt like straw. I released her hands, and brought water and put it to her lips; and when she was quiet through exhaustion, I advised her to lie down, and hoped she would go to sleep. As I was leaving the room she called me back, in a low, broken voice, and when I stood beside the sofa on which she lay, she joined her hands, and asked me, with streaming eyes, to forgive her. I did so, freely. Of course, Ringwood was right. I had no one but myself to thank. My infatuation had been so monstrous that I could no more complain of the consequence than a man, sober, can complain of the consequences of some drunken folly.

"In the morning I took Fanny away to a farm-house in Kent, a place she knew of, and chose herself for a retreat. She was quiet and humble, and apparently broken-spirited. But she did not remain there a month; nor do I know whither she went, or where she has been ever since. Before she left she wrote me a long letter expressing her remorse at her behavior toward me; 'bad as I am,' ended she, 'I will never trouble you more. I do implore you to be sure of that, and to forget me, or think of me as dead.'

"I am afraid to think of her at all. I made every possible effort to trace her, quite in vain; and I hardly know where would be the good if I succeeded.

"That's all," added Urquhart, after a moment's pause; [illegible]

h ce the h of our o the age I t has h usiness p I must w as with l control, d b y, than it o had its mother had been alive! I wanted some kind woman, that was honest and pure, about me; we men all do in our dark hour. Basta!—let us go down to the drawing-room, and your friends, and the lamp. By Jove, what a flash! There's a mighty storm brewing, young fellow."

territor

the bank of the Rio Grande a ning back to the mountains.

THE NEW

Drug Stor

FRESH DRUGS,

End of the Proctor-Moulton Libel Suit.

The Proctor suit is at an end. Yesterday the defense made formal overtures to the prosecution for a compromise and a settlement, which, after consultation with their client, the attorneys for Miss Proctor concluded to entertain. The matter came to a climax last night. It was then agreed that, at the opening of the court this morning, a proposition should be made by ex-Judge Fullerton to have the case referred, which proposition should, after some argument, be agreed to; and that ex-District-Attorney Benjamin Silliman should be selected as referee. It was further stipulated that Miss Proctor should come forward and testify that Moulton's allegations as to her illicit connection with Beecher were in every respect false. It was further stipulated that Moulton himself should make affidavit that he knows of his own knowledge nothing whatever against Miss Proctor's character, and that the libel to which he gave utterance was based wholly upon hearsay. It was further stipulated that Moulton should make an apology to Miss Proctor and that he should pay all the costs incurred on both sides, thus far in the suit amounting to over $5,000; that in consideration of the foregoing Miss Proctor would claim no pecuniary damages against Moulton, but would rest satisfied with the vindication of her character, and that the referee should make a report in consonance with these conditions, and thus end the great suit.—Brooklyn Eagle, 9th.

A Pitiable Case.

An Irishman arrested for highway robbery, on being brought before a magistrate, asserted that he was more entitled to be pitied than to be punished.

"Pitied!" exclaimed the Justice, while his eyebrows arched with more than ordinary wonder and contempt; "and on what account, pray?"

"Sure, on account of my misfortune."

"Your misfortune, indeed! What! That we have caught you, I suppose?"

"Oh, the jintleman that's brought me here knows my misfortune well enough."

But the gentleman was as astonished as the magistrate himself, and was incapable of understanding the culprit's meaning.

"You will own, I suppose," said his worship, "that you stopped this gentleman on the highway?"

"O, yes; I did the same."

"And that you took from him £50 in bills?"

"And there your honor is right again."

"Well, then, you perplexing vagabond, what do you mean by your misfortunes?"

"Sure, and the money wasn't in my pocket above a week when the dirty bank stopped payment, and I was robbed of every shillin'."

The Raisin Crop.

Spain is the greatest producer of raisins. Those styled Valentia raisins find great favor with all classes of the English people. A few years ago a crop of 12,000 tons for the supply of the world was considered large; now London receives 12,000 tons out of a total of 20,000 tons that are grown. These raisins also find a large market in the United States and Canada. The improvement in the article most observable of late years is that of removing the stalk before shipment. As no useful purpose has been found as yet for the stalks, they are generally burned. Muscatel, or table raisins, from Malaga, vary widely in quality. They are known as layer, bunch, and loose raisins, the best being picked from the stalk. This sort is largely used in America. The finest growth of Muscatel comes to this country in decorated boxes with colored paper and lace edgings, increasing the expense of packing to the extent of $125 per ton.

PUNCH has the following on the abolition of second-class carriages: "Are there any second-class carriages on this line, Rogers?" "No, my lord." "Ah, then take two first-class tickets and two third." "Beg pardon, my lord, but is me and Mrs. Parker expected to go third-class?" "Gracious heavens! No, Rogers, not for the world! The third-class tickets are for my lady and me!"

A RACE FOR LIFE.

A Pair of Scalps Barely Saved—Lieut. Whetmore and His Servant Find Very Little Choice Between Redskins and a Snow-Storm in the Texas Pan Handle.

[From the Leavenworth Commercial.]

It appears that on the 16th ult., Lieut. Whetmore, accompanied by a servant, left Gen. Miles' headquarters on the Washita to carry dispatches to Camp Supply. Reaching the Canadian river, he concluded to leave the train and escort with which he had been traveling and strike for Supply, accompanied only by his servant. This was a very risky undertaking, as the balance of the story will show. Scarcely had Whetmore and Hamilton, his servant, left the train before they saw signs of the redskins. But they were both full of pluck and anxious to reach their destination; and so, unmindful of the danger they were in, defiantly galloped on toward the north. Toward night, on the 17th, the two reached a stream where they determined to camp, but on rounding a point came suddenly on a band of three redskins who, on seeing the blue coats, scattered through the brush like leaves before a winter wind. Here was a nice position for the two men, for they well knew that the Indians they had met were but stragglers of a still larger party in the immediate neighborhood. And so it proved. Retracing their steps they put spurs to their horses, only to ride into the midst of a party of nine mounted savages, who were so completely taken by surprise at the appearance of the soldier boys that they merely turned on their horses and gave one steady, prolonged stare at the blue-coated intruders. But Whetmore and his companion did not take the introduction so coolly. Quickly wheeling their horses they started down the slope and out on the sleety and frozen prairie with the speed of the wind. They were in for it now. One look behind them revealed the savages in full pursuit. But they had a good start. The wind was blowing a gale from the northwest and the piercing needles of sleet drove straight into their faces with blinding fury, but they could neither stop nor change their course. On went the fugitives, and on came the blood-thirsty pursuers. It was a veritable race for life. None of your dime-novel fictions, but a living, breathing, palpitating, exciting fact. Nine hell-hounds of the frontier after two blue-coats and their scalps. This was the exact situation, and Wetmore and his companion knew it. They also knew that their horses would not hold out long against the terrible storm, and began to devise ways and means to sell their lives as dearly as possible. They thought of making a stand in the buffalo wallows, when the remembrance of the terrible fate of Chapman and his companions made them dig in their spurs a little deeper and seek a more favorable location. At last it was evident that they could go no further, and something must be done.

The trail they were making on the sleety surface told them there was no escape by flight, so unslinging their carbines, they dropped behind a small thicket and prepared to "pass in their checks" as lively as possible. By this time darkness had set in, and the storm of sleet and snow was raging with unabated fury. Long and anxiously those two benumbed and benighted men knelt on the frozen crust and waited for the appearance of their savage foes, but they came not.

Either the red-skins had been pelted out of their purpose by the terrific storm, or else they had come to the conclusion that the market price of two scalps would not justify more than one or two twenty-mile heats on a stiff and slippery prairie. At all events they gave up the chase. Lieut. Whetmore and Hamilton stayed behind the thicket all night, narrowly escaping freezing to death, and expecting every moment that the whoops of the savages would be heard and the crash of a tomahawk put them out of their misery and end the terrible, terrible suspense.

When morning dawned the savages had disappeared, but the beleagured men were in another pickle. They were lost on the prairie. Lost as effectually and completely as though they were in mid-ocean. The storm howled as fierce as it did during the night. By nothing in the heavens above or the earth beneath could the points of the compass be determined. Weary, frozen, hungry and discouraged, the wanderers began to feel that their miraculous escape of the night before was only a putting off of the inevitable. Finally, seeing that they were completely bewildered, they struck for the nearest stream and followed it to the mouth. It emptied into larger one, and thus these men kept on until, after innumerable hardships, they succeeded in striking the old trail fifty miles south of Camp Supply. Forty miles from the post they met the cavalry out in search for them, and were escorted to quarters, having been nearly three days without food, and with their clothing frozen tight to their bodies.

Lieut. Whetmore says his hands and feet are badly frost-bitten, but otherwise he is in good health and spirits. Hamilton, his companion in the adventure, has not yet arrived from the frontier, owing to his exhausted condition.

A Good Patent Medicine Story.

"Lives there a man with soul so dead" as never to have heard of Prof. Benton's "Holloway pills" and ointment? These curative medicines have been constantly advertised for the last twenty years in every newspaper in the world, the result of its publicity being that the Professor has realized an enormous fortune. He and his wife are now well stricken in years, and they have no children. So he is spending his money in beneficence. Believing—possibly from the large sale of his quack medicines—that most people are mad, he has built an asylum for the insane at Virginia Water, near Windsor, at a cost of £100,000, and he is now about to erect at Egham a university for ladies, on an estate which he has just bought for £25,000. The best professors will be engaged to give the highest education possibly to women, and the scheme will cost £150,000. This Mr. Holloway once asked Dickens to write one page of matter, mentioning in some way or other Holloway's pills. In the envelope containing this request was a check for £1,000. Dickens, who was greatly annoyed, put envelope and contents into another, loose, and returned them by the messenger, saying there was no answer. I had this story from Dickens' own lips.—London Correspondence New York Herald.

THE TRANSIT OF VENUS.

Report of the Successful Observation of the Great Phenomenon at Nagasaki, Japan, and at Hobartstown, Tasmania.

The following dispatch has been received at London from Prof. Davidson, the chief astronomer of the American expedition to Nagasaki, Japan. It is dated Nagasaki, Dec. 9:

"During our observations of the transit of Venus, to-day, the weather was unusually cloudy and unpromising. The time at which it was calculated the transit would begin passed away without our being enabled to record the exact moment of the first contact with trustworthy results. After about a quarter of an hour, and before Venus reached the stage of her second contact, the observer at the equatorial caught a glimpse of the sun and the planet, and was quite successful in taking several measurements of the planet's cusps during the interval between the first and second contacts. The time at which the latter contact occurred was obtained with success and recorded. Shortly after the second contact, further measurements of the distance between Venus and the sun's western edge were made with the micrometer. In all there were taken 150 micrometic measurements of the line between the cusps. Besides these, thirty-one micrometic observations were made of the passage of both edges of the sun across the meridian of the station, and similar views of the right and left rims of Venus in crossing the same line. Eighteen micrometic surveys were made of the respective declinations of the sun and the planet, by observing both the upper and lower limbs while passing the meridian. About sixty excellent photographs of the transit, during various periods of its occurrence, were taken. Extreme good fortune attended the astronomers, for just as Venus departed from the sun the clouds began to gather and threatened rain. Toward the close of November we were enabled to telegraph the difference of longitude to Vladivostok, so that the location of the position here is definitely determined."

Prof. Harkness, of the United States Naval Observatory, sends the following telegram regarding the observations of the transit of Venus at Hobartstown, Tasmania:

"Although the weather was bad, our observations at the time of the transit were particularly successful. We succeeded in taking 113 photographs of Venus during her passage over the disk of the sun."

A Hint to Bores.

The local editor of a New Haven paper has had printed and posted in conspicuous type over his desk the following:

OH! HAVE IT PUBLISHED IN A PAMPHLET.

WRITE IT DOWN, AND WE'LL READ IT NEXT SUNDAY.

OH! GO HIRE A HALL, AND TELL US ALL ABOUT IT.

CUT IT SHORT, OR WE'LL HAVE TO GET OUT TWO EDITIONS.

THE ELEVENTH COMMANDMENT: THOU SHALT NOT BUZZ.

All newspaper men will see that he has hit the nail on the head, as far as cautionary notices to bores can go. They are certainly very pertinent, and ought to do some good.

A STORM BREWING.—A prophet who has cast the horoscope of the old world assures the public that a storm is brewing in Europe. Germany finds Alsace and Lorraine elements of weakness; France is steadily perfecting her preparations for retaliation on the victors of Sedan; Russia heaves and tosses upon the waves of popular discontent; Italy is in a strait between the two conflicting tendencies of progress and reaction; England is trying to steer her course so as to make money out of whatever turns up, without running any hazards on her own account; and so it is that unrest pervades the lands. Happily the prophets of these latter days seldom guess accurately.

PIMPLES, blotches and other unsightly eruptions of the skin should be gotten rid of as quickly as possible. Dr. Wishart's Pine Tree Tar Cordial will remove all such things by purifying the blood.

A PROTRUDING toe is not a sightly thing, to say nothing about health and comfort. SILVER-TIPPED Shoes never wear out at the toe. For sale by all dealers.

WISHART'S

PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL.

It is now fifteen years since the attention of the public was first called by Dr. L. Q. C. Wishart to this wonderful remedy, and so well has it stood the test of time that to-day it not only has the confidence of the entire community, but is more frequently prescribed by physicians in their practice than any other proprietary preparation in the country. It is the vital principle of the Pine Tree, obtained by a peculiar process in the distillation of the Tar, by which its highest medicinal properties are retained. For the following complaints, Inflammation of the Lungs, Coughs, Sore Throat and Breast, Bronchitis, Consumption, Liver Complaint, Weak Stomach, Disease of the Kidneys, Urinary Complaints, Nervous Debility, Dyspepsia, and diseases arising from an impure condition of the blood, there is no remedy in the world that has been used so successfully or can show such a number of marvelous cures. The following will serve to show the estimation in which this sovereign remedy is held by those who have used it.

Consumption for Ten Years Cured.

DR. L. Q. C. WISHART: Dear Sir—I am grateful to you from the fact that you have made a medicine that will cure the disease of the Lungs. My wife has had the Consumption for ten years. Physicians had told me that they could only patch her up for the time being. She was confined to her bed and had been for some time. I heard of your Pine Tree Tar Cordial and secured one bottle; it relieved her cough. She has now finished the fourth bottle, and is able to do the work for her family; and may God speed you on with your great discovery and cure you have made for Consumption.

REV. E. H. HOPKINS,
Jackson Centre, Shelby Co., Ohio.

From St. Louis, Mo.

DR. WISHART, PHILADELPHIA: Dear Sir—During a visit to Philadelphia, some three years ago, I was suffering from a severe cold, and was induced to take a bottle of your Pine Tree Tar Cordial, which had the effect of curing me in a few days. I have used it in my family ever since, and am of the opinion that it saved the life of my daughter, who was suffering from a severe and painful cough. If the publication of this will be of any service, you are at liberty to use it. Yours respectfully,

JOHN HODNETT, St. Louis, Mo.

For sale by all Druggists and Storekeepers and at

DR. L. Q. C. WISHART'S OFFICE,
No. 232 N. Second St., Philadelphia, Pa.

STEEL.

How It is Made—Its Manufacture Always Kept a Mystery, which is Transmitted Verbally from Father to Son—Interesting Facts.

Gen. F. A. Starring, in his report to the Treasury Department upon the steel question, gives an interesting chapter upon the manufacture of steel. He says:

The manufacture of steel has always been kept a sort of mystery. The process mostly followed is what is known as "Huntsman's process," discovered or most successfully worked and brought into operation in 1760 by Benjamin Huntsman. Steel bearing his name is universally known.

The process with its subsequent improvements is very complicated. The special method of manufacture adopted by each firm is a jealousy-guarded secret handed down by verbal formula, etc., from father to son, through successive generations. Each maker has his peculiar mode of manufacture, and does not know what particular proportions of irons, etc., are adopted by his colleagues in mixing their steel.

Cast steel is made from various materials. The most inferior quality is English cast steel, viz., that made from English iron or scraps. This is the kind from which English spring-steel is made, the price being about £25 per ton. English cast steel is adapted only for piston-rods, springs for wagons, etc., rope-wire, and for purposes where a cutting edge is not required. This class of steel does not come under the designation of best cast steel, although its appearance is very similar. For the best qualities of cast steel good Swedish iron must be used.

There is a proverb among steel-melters that if you would have good steel you must put good irons of uniform quality into the melting pot. This is the case, as it concerns the consumer or person who uses the steel, although the brands of the iron are melted and lost to view.

The Swedish iron is delivered to the manufacturer in the form of bars, which have been hammered to the necessary dimensions, viz.: about nine inches wide, one-half inch thick, and from six to twelve feet long.

The first process of manufacture is that of conversion. The converting furnaces are of different sizes, some capable of containing twenty-six tons of iron, some forty tons. They contain two stone-converting pots, each about four feet in width and depth, and twelve feet in length. These pots are placed side by side, and when in operation the heat from the fire below is conducted around each pot by means of flues. The heat is prevented from escaping by means of a brick dome inclosing the whole. The iron bars are placed in layers in the converting-pots, the spaces between the layers being filled up with charcoal broken into small pieces. When the converting furnace is filled, it is hermetically sealed with "wheel swarf," a substance accumulating at the trough of the grinding-wheel, and capable of resisting long exposure to heat. The fire is then lighted, and is allowed to burn from twelve to sixteen days, the time depending upon the amount of carbonization required. It is then left to die out, and the converting furnace and metal, having been raised to a great heat, take about the same length of time to cool as for the heating. When the metal is removed it is covered with blisters, from which it gets a name of "blister steel." It is as brittle as glass, and can be broken by a slight blow of the hammer.

After the metal has been weighed, it is taken to a melting furnace, and conveyed into small fire-clay pots about eight inches in diameter, and sixteen to twenty inches high, covered with closely-fitting lids, and previously raised to a white heat. They are allowed to remain in the furnace, surrounded by a strong fire, for several hours, during which the metal is frequently stirred, so that it may be thoroughly mixed. After it has been thoroughly melted and mixed, it is run into a metal mold of the required form. When the bars are cooled, a piece is broken off at each end—this inspection of the fractures being for the purpose of ascertaining whether the metals have been thoroughly mixed more than to determine whether the quality of the steel is equal to any particular standard. This completes the process; and the steel is sent to the mill to be rolled or hammered into its ultimate shape of square, triangular, octagon, round, or flat.

Without entering into an analysis of the many different ways in which cast steel or best cast steel is made, it is sufficient to state that there are several hundred varieties, varying in temper and quality. The best cast steel of one manufacturer may be totally different from that of another firm.

It is, of course, well known that nothing can be told by the outside surface of the bars, but it is nevertheless true that the value can be determined by the grain, as exhibited upon fracture. If the grain is fine, the steel is supposed to be good; if coarse, not so. This is altogether an error. The grain of the steel depends upon the temper—the harder the steel is, the finer it is in the grain. The commonest quality looks just as fine as the best; and many of the low-priced samples forwarded here with present a considerably finer grain than the steel worth $4 or 5 more per hundred weight.

Dickens' story of Fagin, the Jew, in "Oliver Twist," has, fortunately, but few counterparts in real life; but that some exist has been heretofore demonstrated, not only in London, but on this side of the Atlantic. A case bearing a striking resemblance to that history has been developed in Philadelphia. By a mere accident a boy was captured by the police, who told a most remarkable story, which led to the arrest of a score of youthful thieves who were under the tutelage of several Fagins. The boy captured seems to have been prompted to a life of lawlessness by reading such flash novels as "Claude Duval" and "Jack Sheppard," as he was of respectable parentage and could have no other motive for entering upon such a life.

The saying, "He is as good a man as ever lived, but he can't keep a hotel," was original with Mat. Peel, a negro minstrel, who died in Buffalo in 1859.

The Consumption of Wood.

Two years ago England was in a panic over the idea of exhausting her coal supply. The economists chanted jeremiads over the bad time coming, until the geologists showed that the coal seams known to exist would meet all demands for 1,027 years, 4 months, 31 days, or thereabout, provided the coal could be mined. The more mournful Britons have since wasted some time in commiserating the woes of their descendants in the year 3000, which is the date fixed for the failure of the coal-beds as aforesaid. Most of the present generation, however, are philosophical Micawbers, who believe that something will turn up before the world reaches that age, and that at any rate there is no use in grieving over inevitable sufferings as long as somebody else is to be the sufferer. Now that England has got over her scare, we are beginning to have ours. She was troubled about coal; we are bothered about wood. We burn an enormous quantity of it. It is said by statisticians that 10,000 acres of forest go into the furnaces and stoves of this city every year. Many other acres of forest are used here annually for fuel in another and an indirect way by the erection of squares of wooden buildings, which serve as the prey of the first chance spark that has a southwest wind to fan it into flame. The fencing of the country represents miles of forest. The sleepers, bridges, and rolling stock of our railroads keep axes at work forever. The supply of our furniture involves an enormous demand on our forests. It is calculated that 8,000,000 acres of forest land are cleared every year, and that only 10,000 acres are replanted. Within the last decade, 12,000,000 acres have been burned over simply to clear the land. In Wisconsin alone, the Kansas and Nebraska trade takes the growth of 50,000 virgin acres every year. In one notable year, Wisconsin cut a billion feet of timber. Some figures of the lumber trade in this city will give the reader an idea of the enormous consumption of wood that goes on without let or stay. The Lumberman's Directory for 1874-5 says that the trade here annually handle, 1,350,000,000 feet of lumber, shingles, and lath. This aggregate, enormous as it seems, is but a tenth of the annual consumption of the country. The Chicago capital used in the trade is nearly $33,000,000. The compiler of the directory thinks that there is no danger of a timber famine, but the figures we have already given show that, unless the present ratio of consumption to production is materially changed, the famine is a mere question of time.

The remedy for these threatened evils is in the creation, by law, of large forest reserves, and in the encouragement of tree-planting by the State and the individual. Nebraska has already done a good deal in the latter way. She offers rewards for forest culture, and appropriates, we believe, an annual sum for tree-planting by her own officials, appointed for that purpose. The Kansas Pacific Railroad Company has set out a number of trees along its line, where it was said no tree could grow, and has had the satisfaction of seeing a large proportion of them thrive. Other Western railroad companies and other Western States would do well to follow these examples.—Chicago Tribune.

A New Shell.

The English Army and Navy Gazette has enumerated on several occasions the various results of experiments undertaken by the committee on explosives, with a view of ascertaining the practical effects of Prof. Abel's proposed plan for the explosion of common shells filled with water, by means of a detonator, consisting of dry compressed gun-cotton enveloping a small cap of fulminate of mercury. Some months ago the practicability of exploding sixteen-pounder common shells in this manner was satisfactorily established, and the result of such an arrangement was the bursting of a shell into three hundred fragments, whereas only about thirty pieces were produced by the explosion of an ordinary bursting charge of gunpowder. The effect of such an explosion among troops in the field could not be otherwise than disastrous in the extreme. Lately, however, says The Gazette, experiments have been made with 9 inch common shells, which far exceed in effect that of any conducted with the field service common shell. On this occasion the bursting element employed was wet gun-cotton in lieu of water. It will be remembered that the danger hitherto experienced in the employment of this explosive has been obviated by wetting it, a discovery having been made to the effect that it detonated equally well wet or dry. Nine-inch shells were placed upright upon the sands at Shoeburyness, a boarding being erected around them at a convenient distance to confine the fragments. The projectiles being then filled with some eight or nine pounds of wet compressed gun-cotton, and a "detonator," as described above, having been fitted into the fuse-hole socket, they were fired by an ordinary electric fuse. The result was extraordinary, the shell bursting literally into thousands of pieces.

A Herd of Cattle Tree a Bear.

On Wednesday morning, between 8 and 9 o'clock, Edward Defoe noticed a commotion among the cattle on Joe Button's place, in the center of Santa Rosa Plain, three miles from town. On going to the spot he discovered to his amazement that the cattle had treed a large brown bear in an oak tree, within twenty rods of the railroad track. The bear left the tree and was followed for some distance by Defoe. Frank Roberts arrived with a double-barreled shot-gun. Bruin kept on for two miles from where first seen, to Ware's farm, showing no disposition to take to a tree, though a number were passed. In getting over a picket-fence he would draw himself cleverly to the top, man-fashion, and then jump down. About two hours after he was first seen, a good opportunity offering, Roberts fired, and the bear dropped dead, one buckshot, as was afterward found, having penetrated the heart. It is thought that the bear came down into the plain during the night from the hills separating Bennett and Santa Rosa valleys. Perhaps it lost its reckoning in the fog. It was in good condition, weighing, when dressed, nearly 300 pounds.—Santa Rosa (Cal.) Democrat.

UNPLEASANT SITUATION.

A Man Caught in a Bear Trap—His Terrible Agony and Sufferings.

Thomas Way, of Nevada, being bothered by grizzly bears, conceived the idea of building a pen, such as he had often seen grizzlies caught in in California. The trap is made by building a small square house of heavy, hewed logs, and covering it with a strong roof. The door, of heavy logs also, slides up and down in grooves. When it is up there is an open entrance about five feet high and four feet wide. A sheep is killed and hung inside the pen to a rope, which is connected with a trigger, so that when the bear enters and seizes the mutton the door falls and he is caged. Way completed his pen to his satisfaction, and intended to bait it the same night. Having a curiosity to see how it would work, he went in and pulled the rope slightly, and the door fell down. He attempted to raise it, but was horror-stricken when he found that he was unable to budge it an inch. He worked and struggled, but the heavy weight refused to move. The pen worked only too successfully, and he was caught in his own trap. He shouted for help, but knowing that he was miles from a human habitation, and in a savage locality, where few persons ever ventured, he soon sat down in blank despair. He spent that night in agony, and got but little sleep. It commenced to snow, but fortunately he had a heavy blanket overcoat, which kept him comparatively comfortable. The next morning he commenced shouting again, until his throat was sore, but was only answered by the howling of the tempest. He had set his gun against a stump outside, and longed to get at it that he might fire it off and attract somebody's attention. He soon began to get hungry. His thirst he quenched by thrusting his hand through the chinks between the logs and raking up snow and eating it. Thus day after day elapsed, during which his mental sufferings were terrible. "I tell you, men," said he, "I thought of everything I had done in all my life, from the time I was a boy six years old."

At last a brilliant idea struck him. He had matches, and would burn his way out. With the heel of his boot he would kick and grind a log until he had accumulated a quantity of dust and splinters which he would light with a match, and then blow the fire with his hat until he had burned a hole large enough for his exit. All the day previous to that on which he was found, he was thus employed, but upon trial the scheme would not work. The wood refused to burn, and he again lay down to die. The day passed, and the next he had abandoned all hope, and he was calculating how long it would take a strong, healthy man to die of starvation. He was in a state of abject stupor when a party of hunters happened along and released him from his uncomfortable prison.

A Christmas Plum-Pudding.

The true English plum-pudding is made up and mixed some time before it is to be used, and then must be put on early in the morning and boiled for many hours. The recipe we give below, and constantly use, is, we think, an American improvement, and has the advantage of being so digestible that dyspeptics even may partake of it, in most cases with impunity.

Two hours' hard boiling is enough to cook it to perfection, though it will not be hurt by being kept longer on the fire. Seed raisins enough to fill a quart measure heaping full—prepare one pint of foreign-dried currants, a half-pint of preserved citron cut up, a light quart of apples chopped after being peeled, a pint of finely-flavored dried cherries (these may be omitted), a light quart of very fresh and nicely shredded beef suet, and a heaping quart of stale light-bread crumbs. Beat up very light and separately the whites and yelks of eight eggs. Mix them, and add one teaspoonful of salt, without which addition the best-made plum-pudding will be insipid. Add a half pint of sugar and one nutmeg grated up very fine. Have ready a light quart of sifted flour. With some of it flour your fruit thoroughly. Proceed to mix as follows: Having your eggs well beaten in a large bowl or tray, add to them a pint of milk, then stir in the floured fruit and bread crumbs, lastly putting in just enough flour to make the mass stick together in lump. This will probably consume the quart provided. Next dip your pudding-cloth in boiling hot water, and dredge over the inside a thick coating of flour. Put in your pudding. Tie up tightly, but at the same time leave room for it to swell. Have plenty of boiling water in the pot, and renew it if needful. By inverting a plate in the bottom of your pot, you will be sure that the pudding cannot stick and burn; if you have a strong cloth tied with trustworthy twine-string, water cannot get in; the two most important cautions to be given the inexperienced cook. If you would serve up your pudding in true old feudal style, have ready a gill of pure alcohol, and the pudding being turned out on a large, handsome flat dish, just as the waiter enters the dining-room let another person outside be furnished with a lighted match. Having poured the alcohol over the pudding, ignite the match, and a beautiful blue flame will gladden the eyes of the beholders, and usher in a feast fit for King Arthur himself.

The above recipe furnishes pudding enough for twenty people, but if the family is small, it may be kept as long as the housekeeper chooses, and is always thought better the second than the first day.

During the late bathing season an individual walked up to the office of a seaside hotel, and with considerable flourish signed the book and exclaimed, "I'm Lieutenant Governor of ——." "That doesn't make any difference," says the landlord; "you'll be treated just as well as the others."

Silk culture in California seems to be considered a failure. The idea prevails that the climate is in fault. Mulberry trees thrive, but silk-worms perish before maturing the cocoons.

This notice is addressed to ladies only. If you want to make your husband, father or brother a handsome Christmas present, give him a carton of Elmwood collars. You can get them at any gents' furnishing store. Be sure to get the Elmwood, because it looks and fits better than any other.

Of course everybody knows that the Sherman House is the best hotel in Chicago. But we desire them also to know that its rates have been materially reduced. This will still further increase its already deserved popularity.

Pianos and Organs.

Fine new rosewood pianos for $300.
Fine walnut organs, six stops, $125.
Good second-hand pianos, $150 to $200.
Reed's Temple of Music, Chicago.

Letter-carriers are prohibited by the government from issuing New Year's addresses, for their annual "quarter."

It Runs Like a Prairie Fire!—Dr. Walker's Vinegar Bitters runs like a prairie fire. The fame of the Temperance Tonic is, however, but poorly exemplified by this figure of speech; for a prairie fire runs only in one direction, whereas the reputation of the bitters spreads toward all points of the compass. There is not a square mile of inhabited territory in the United States where this meritorious preparation is not appreciated. If any theoretical gentleman thinks he is prepared to show that there is "nothing in it," we advise him to go to the Prairie States, in the Mississippi Valley, to the deltas of the Southern rivers, to New England, in fact, anywhere within the limits of "Uncle Sam's real estate," and ventilate his views. By so doing he can raise a heartier and more general laugh than has ever yet shaken the sides of an intelligent people. Persons who have been cured can't help laughing at other people who tell them that the medicine which saved their lives is a failure. 14.

Newspapers, Silver and China Given Away for Christmas.

The Excelsior Magazine is giving away newspapers free for one year to its subscribers, and in some instances papers with chromos framed. Every subscriber who orders through said magazine a sewing machine will receive gifts of gold, or best triple-plate silver tea service, etc., or china dinner set of 161 pieces. Send 25 cents for sample copy of magazine, or inclose stamp for circular. Agents can make enough on this before Christmas to keep them for one year. Office 59, No. 157 LaSalle st., Chicago, Ill.

The huge, drastic, griping, sickening pills constructed of crude, coarse and bulky ingredients are fast being superseded by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, or Sugar-Coated, Concentrated Root and Herbal Juice, Anti-Bilious Granules—the "Little Giant" Cathartic, or Multum in Parvo Physic. Modern chemical science enables Dr. Pierce to extract from the juices of the most valuable roots and herbs their active medicinal principles, which, when worked into little Pellets or Granules, scarcely larger than mustard seed, renders each little Pellet as active and powerful as a large pill, while they are much more palatable and pleasant in effect.

Dr. Ira A. Thayer, of Baconsburg, Ohio, writes: "I regard your Pellets as the best remedy for the conditions for which you prescribe them of anything I have ever used, so mild and certain in effect, and leaving the bowels in an excellent condition. It seems to me they must take the place of all other cathartic pills and medicines."

Lyon & Macomber, druggists, Vermillion, D. T., say: "We think they are going to sell like hot cakes as soon as people get acquainted with them and will spoil the pill trade, as those that have used them like them much better than large pills."

Safe, Permanent and Complete!—Wilhoft's Tonic cures Chills and Fever, Dumb Chills and Bilious Fevers—those Titans that kill their thousands where this remedy is unknown. It cures Enlargement of the Spleen. It cures Hypertrophy of the Liver. It hurts no one. It cures all types of Malarial Fevers and is perfectly protective in all its effects. Try Wilhoft's Tonic, the great infallible Chill Cure. Wheelock, Finlay & Co., Proprietors, New Orleans. For sale by all druggists.

The Northwestern Horse-Nail Co.' "Finished" Nail is the best in the world.

VEGETABLE PULMONARY BALSAM! Most approved, reliable and well-known remedy for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. Get the genuine. Price $1; small 50c. CUTLER BROS. & CO., Boston.

$5 to $20 per day at home. Terms free. Address Geo. Stinson & Co., Portland, Maine.

$200 and expenses a month to agents. Address F. E. Goodard, Jonesville, Mich.

WANTED—Highest price paid for OLD ZINC. Address or inquire CHICAGO PLATE AND BAR MILL CO., 132 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

O! $210 a Month. Agents everywhere. First-class bus. Particulars free. B. Waller & Co., St. Louis, Mo.

$25 PER DAY Commission or $30 a week Salary, and expenses. We offer it and will pay it. Apply now. G. Webber & Co., Marion, O.

17.50 per day made by our agents selling staple articles used in every family. Address H. H. Miller & Co., 164 Randolph-st., Chicago.

AGENTS WANTED—Men or Women. $34 a week or $100 forfeited. The secret free. Write at once to COWEN & CO., 8th St., New York.

CATARRH CURED. For full information, price-list, etc., address (with stamp) Rev. T. P. CHILDS, Troy, Ohio.

$75 A WEEK. Outfit 25c. Agents wanted everywhere. For Fritch & Walker, Dayton, Ohio.

OPIUM EATERS THOROUGHLY CURED. Cheap, quick; no suffering. Gyra wonderful success. Describe case. Dr. Armstrong, Berrien, Mich.

$1,000 PER WEEK CAN BE MADE by any smart man who can keep his business to himself. Address D. F. HERMANN, Hoboken, New Jersey.

"AROUND THE TEA TABLE," a new subscription book, by Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, author of "Crumbs Swept Up," &c. Agents wanted. JOHN E. MILLER & CO., Publishers, Chicago, Ill.

EPILEPSY or FITS cured by the use of Ross Epileptic Remedies. Trial Package FREE. For circulars, evidence of success, etc., address ROSS BROS., Richmond, Ind.

CONSTANT EMPLOYMENT—At home, Male or Female. $30 a week insured. No capital required. Particulars and valuable sample free. Address, with 6c return stamp, C. Ross, Williamsburgh, N. Y.

STATEMENT.—The public have been imposed on by persons traveling, who have represented that their names were Dr. N. S. Dodge, of 136 South Halsted St., Chicago, Ill. This is the reason that the Dr. has been at great expense in his steel plate engraving of himself, which may be procured from his office only. Price, $1 each. Prescriptions in the Dr. will free. His Course of Medical Lectures to students opens on January 1st, 1875.

JUST THE BOOK. MONEY IN IT SURE! Just out. Useful, Handsome, Cheap. Sells everywhere. Send for prospectus to E. C. BRIDGMAN, 5 Barclay St., N. Y., or 170 West 4th St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

The Miller and Millwright.

A monthly journal of 16 pages. Every Miller and Millwright should take it. Add's SIMPSON & GAULT, Cincinnati, O. $1 per annum. Send for sample copy.

ADVERTISERS! Send 25 cents to GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., 41 Park Row, New York, for their Pamphlet of 100 pages, containing lists of 3000 newspapers and estimates showing cost of advertising.

OPIUM HABIT CURED at Home. No Publicity. Terms moderate. Time short. Four years of unparalleled success. Describe case. 400 testimonials. Address Dr. F. E. Marsh, Quincy, Mich.

2000 Agents Wanted for THE LADIES' MEDICAL GUIDE. By the eminent Dr. PANCOAST, ILLUSTRATED. It is high-toned and complete upon delicate subjects, and hence is immensely popular. For particulars and terms, address HUBBARD BROS., Publishers, either Philadelphia, Boston, or Cincinnati.

CARD. I, Nathaniel S. Dodge of Chicago, Ill., certify that I have no partner, and that all those making such claims are impostors. Whoever is traveling under my name is a fraud. I have retired from ordinary practice and do not leave my office. Those wishing to consult me must do so personally or by letter. Prescriptions by the post free. (Personal consulting $5.00.) I caution all persons against using my name professionally as they will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.
Your obedient servant,
NATHANIEL S. DODGE.

ADVERTISERS.

The American Newspaper Union numbers over 1,000 papers, separated into seven subdivisions. For separate lists and cost of advertising, address S. P. SANBORN, 114 Monroe St., Chicago.

$250 A MONTH—Agents wanted everywhere. Business honorable and first-class. Particulars sent free. Address Worth & Co., St. Louis, Mo.

BEST HOLIDAY GIFT.
FOR PARENT, CHILD, TEACHER, PASTOR, FRIEND.
Webster's Unabridged Dictionary.
3000 ENGRAVINGS; 1840 PAGES 4to.

HILL'S HOG RINGER.
18,000,000 Rings, 70,000 Ringers, 3,000 Tongs Sold.
Hardware Dealers Sell Them. Ringer $1; Rings per 100 50cts; Tongs $1.25; by mail, post paid. Circulars free. Address H. W. HILL & CO. Decatur, Ill.

Canned Fruits and Vegetables
of the Choicest Kinds Within Reach of All.

Case of 24 cans assorted Table Fruits, $6.50.
Case of 24 cans assorted Vegetables, $4.50.
The country has been flooded with inferior goods. Purchasers will find our assortment the best and cheapest. Sent on receipt of price.
F. A. WAIDNER, 45 River St., Chicago.

THE CINCINNATI WEEKLY STAR

Including postage and the finely-illustrated Star Almanac, $1 per year. Anti-Monopoly—the Granger's Paper—containing 8 large pages of excellent reading matter. The farmer, merchant and mechanic in any part of the country will find this the best of the weeklies, to say nothing of the low price. Agents are offered inducements superior to anything heretofore attempted. Specimen copies free. Address "THE STAR," Cincinnati, O.

ASTHMA AND CATARRH.
Having struggled twenty years between life and death with ASTHMA, I experimented by compounding roots and herbs and inhaling the medicine. I fortunately discovered a wonderful remedy and sure cure for Asthma and Catarrh. Warranted to relieve severest paroxysm instantly, so the patient can lie down to rest and sleep comfortably. Druggists are supplied with sample packages for FREE distribution. Sold by druggists. Package by mail $1.25.
Address D. LANGELL, Apple Creek, Ohio.

SEEDS.

My ILLUSTRATED SEED CATALOGUE for 1875 is now ready, and will be mailed, FREE OF CHARGE, to all applicants. English and German edition. Address

JOHN KERN,
211 Market Street, St. Louis.
State where you saw this advertisement.

STEINWAY
Grand, Square and Upright Pianos,

Superior to all others. Every Piano Warranted for Five Years. Illustrated Catalogues, with Price List, mailed free on application.
STEINWAY & SONS,
Nos. 107, 109 & 111 East 14th Street, New York.

OPTIC'S MAGAZINE, 1875

Now is the time to Subscribe! The New Volume will contain New Stories by Oliver Optic, Elijah Kellogg and others, besides many new features, all of which are duly set forth in our Prospectus. Terms $3.00 per year, in advance; specimen number mailed free on application.
LEE & SHEPARD, Publishers, Boston.

SAFE
S. H. HARRIS THE BEST
MANUFACTORY AND SALESROOM,
23 & 25 RANDOLPH ST., CHICAGO

For ONE DOLLAR we will send, postage paid,
THE WEEKLY WORLD, ONE YEAR.

All the news of the past seven days is given in the weekly edition of The World (Wednesdays), which contains, in addition to the news, many special features prepared expressly for it. The Grange department gives each week the latest news of the order and of the Patrons. The Agricultural department presents the latest experiments and experiences of practical culturists, full reports of the Farmers' Club of the American Institute, letters from practical farmers, and interesting discussions of profitable farming. The page for the family furnishes interest and amusement for the fireside during the long winter evenings. Full and trustworthy live stock, country produce and general produce market reports show the state of trade.

For TWO DOLLARS we will send, postage paid,
The SEMI-WEEKLY WORLD, One Year.
The Semi-Weekly contains (Tuesday and Friday) all the contents of the Weekly, one or two first-rate Novels during the year, and all the cream of the Daily World.

"The World, in point of ability, enterprise and influence, stands at the head of the Democratic press in this country."
Address "THE WORLD," 35 Park Row, New York.

AN XTRAORDINARILY HAPPY BOY.
Here is "Laughing Joe," as the neighbors call him. He lives in the country, near a postoffice, and every week, on mail day, he waits with joyous expectations for its arrival. If the weather is pleasant, you may see him astride of two cross-stakes, shaped like an X, watching the road. The neighbors always know, when they see on his face a broader grin than usual, that the stage is in sight. Then he runs to secure the first place at the postoffice window, but he is never kept waiting long, as the Postmaster, seeing his eager face, and knowing why he is there, ascends at once for the copy of the YOUNG FOLKS' NEWS with Joe's name upon it. Other boys are there, and girls too, as eager as Joe to obtain their copies of the Young Folks' News, and the neighbors say that all who take the paper seem better and happier than before. Subscribe, then, for the YOUNG FOLKS' NEWS by sending $1.35, and you will obtain also a beautiful Chromo for a present; or for $1.50 the Chromo will be sent mounted. Mounted Chromos are ready for framing. Or, if you prefer "to try on the boots first," you may send a three-cent stamp for a Specimen Copy.
ALFRED MARTIEN, Publisher,
21 South Seventh Street, Philadelphia.

CUSHING'S MANUAL
Of Parliamentary Practice.

Rules of proceeding and debate in deliberative assemblies. An indispensable hand-book for every member of a deliberative body, and the authority in all the States.
"The most authoritative expounder of American parliamentary law."—Chas. Sumner.
Price 50 cents. Sent by mail on receipt of price.
Address THOMPSON, BROWN & CO., Boston, Mass.

THE GRAND PACIFIC HOTEL,
CHICAGO.

The only EMINENT Hotel in the country, meeting the conservative views of the public, by REDUCING RATES to $3.50 Per Day.

GEO. W. GAGE & JOHN A. RICE,
Proprietors.

VINEGAR BITTERS
PURELY VEGETABLE FREE FROM ALCOHOL
DR WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
VINEGAR BITTERS

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of Vinegar Bitters?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of Vinegar Bitters in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of Dr. Walker's Vinegar Bitters are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.
R. H. McDONALD & CO.,
Druggists and Gen. Agts., San Francisco, California, and cor. of Washington and Charlton Sts., N. Y.
Sold by all Druggists and Dealers.

GODEY'S LADY'S BOOK
Offers to and will give to every Subscriber, whether single or in a club, who pays in Advance for 1875, and remits directly to this office,
A Copy of "THE RESCUE,"
The Handsomest Chromo ever offered. For circular containing terms, etc., address L. A. GODEY, N. E. Cor. Sixth & Chestnut sts., Philadelphia, Pa.

THE WEEKLY SUN. A large, eight-page, independent, honest and fearless newspaper, of 56 broad columns, especially designed for the farmer, the mechanic, the merchant and the professional man, and their wives and children. We aim to make the Weekly Sun the best family newspaper in the world. It is full of entertaining and instructive reading of every sort, but prints nothing to offend the most scrupulous and delicate taste. Price $1.20 per year, postage prepaid. The cheapest paper published. Try it. Address The Sun, New York City.

AGENTS WANTED for the CENTENNIAL
UNITED STATES GAZETTEER
Shows the grand results of our first 100 years. A book for every American. Sells everywhere at sight. Farmers, Teachers, Students, Lawyers, Merchants, School Directors, Manufacturers, Mechanics, Shippers, Salesmen, men of learning and men of business, old and young, all want it for everyday reference and use.
"A whole library."—Boston Globe. "Not a luxury, but a necessity."—Inter-Ocean. "The most complete, trustworthy."—[illegible]
The BEST-SELLING BOOK PUBLISHED. Send for Circulars to Ziegler & McCurdy, Chicago, Ill.

FOR NEARLY THIRTY YEARS THE RICHMOND PRINTS
have been held in high esteem by those who use a Calico. They are produced in all the novelties of changing fashions, and in conservative styles suited to the wants of many persons. Among the latter are the
"Standard Gray Styles," proper for the house or street—beautiful in designs and pleasing in coloring.
"CHOCOLATE STANDARD STYLES,"
in great variety, and widely known as most serviceable prints. Nothing better for daily wear. These goods bear tickets as quoted above. Your retailer should have them, and your examination and approval will conclude.

THE PIANO-HARP
Cabinet Organ.
Patented December, 1874.

A new and beautiful musical instrument—or improvement upon the Cabinet Organ—being a combination of the pianoforte and organ. To a complete Five-Octave Double-Reed Organ is added a Piano-Harp, the tones of which are between those of the pianoforte and harp. It has a pianoforte action, is played by the same keys with the organ, and may be used separately or with one or all the stops of the organ. It is not liable to get out of order, and does not require tuning. Having thoroughly tested this beautiful improvement, we offer it with great confidence to the public. Price of PIANO-HARP CABINET ORGAN, being a Five-Octave Double-Reed Organ, Six Stops, with Vox Humana, Automatic Swell, Knee Swell and Piano-Harp, three and a half octaves; in Elegant Upright Resonant Case, $200. Circulars free.
MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO.,
25 Union Square, New York; 154 Tremont Street, Boston; 80 and 82 Adams Street, Chicago.

BECKWITH
PORTABLE FAMILY
SEWING
$25.
MACHINE
DOUBLE THREAD
BECKWITH S. M. CO. NEW YORK & CHICAGO.

"PSYCHOMANCY, or Soul Charming."
How either sex may fascinate and gain the love and affection of any person they choose, instantly. This art all can possess, free, by mail, 25 cents; together with a Marriage Guide, Egyptian Oracle, Dreams, Hints to Ladies, &c. 1,000,000 sold. A queer book. Address T. WILLIAM & CO., Pub's, Philadelphia.

MARRIAGE GUIDE. An interesting Illustrated work of 260 pages, containing valuable information for those who are married or contemplate marriage. Price 50 cts. by mail. Address Dr. Butts' Dispensary, 12 North Eighth street, St. Louis, Mo.

DR. WHITTIER,
No. 617 St. Charles Street, St. Louis, Mo.,
continues to treat all cases of obstacles to marriage, blood impurities, every ailment or sickness which results from indiscretion or imprudence, with unparalleled success. Dr. W.'s establishment is chartered by the State of Missouri, was founded and has been established to insure safe, certain and reliable relief. Being a graduate of several medical colleges, and having the experience of a long and successful life in his specialties he has perfected remedies that are effectual in all these cases. His patients are being treated by mail or express everywhere. No matter who failed, call or write. From the great number of applications he is enabled to keep his charges low. 36 pages, giving full symptoms, for two stamps.

MARRIAGE GUIDE,
260 pages, a popular book which should be read by everybody. No married pair, or persons contemplating marriage, can afford to do without it. It contains the cream of medical literature on this subject, the results of Dr. W.'s long experience; also the best thoughts from late works in Europe and America. Sent sealed, postpaid, for 50 cents.

$14.60 SHOT-GUN. A DOUBLE-BARREL GUN, warranted Real English twist barrels, A GOOD SHOOTER, with Flask, Pouch and Wad cutter. Sent C. O. D., with privilege to examine before paying bill, by paying Express charges both ways. Send stamp for particulars to RUDOLPH & CO., Gun Dealers, 1020 North Fifth Street, St. Louis, Mo.

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS, please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

Educational Department.

A. E. HUFFMAN, Conductor.

Township Institutes.

A year ago township institutes were thought of only to be dreaded by the teachers, today they are regarded as institutions without which we would find ourselves far in the rear ground of teaching. A year ago many of our teachers attended them merely to avoid the forfeit of wages, today we are happy to find that teachers attend them, for the greater part, out of choice.

Yet we find some, still who would not attend if it were not compulsory. Now, there are two classes of teachers in this regard, first, those who do not attend from a disposition of carlessness and constitutional laziness, and second those who do not attend because of the uninteresting manner in which institutes are conducted. In regard to the former class, we have only to say, the sooner their citificates are revoked and they are tossed overboard, the better for the educational interests of the community.

In regard to the latter class, we have ample reason to believe that there is too much foundation to the asserted cause, for in many cases, the exercise of the institute consist of nothing more than the discision of "The eight branches," while nothing is said upon the equally vital subject of government methodical and uniform, etc, which makes far more profitable than the invariable rehersal of a few of the bare ruths of the several common branches.

Then let those who have the management of our township institutes, especially those who are so exactingly fauctilious respecting the attendance of their teachers, make some endeavor to create an interest, and inaugrate some plan of getting at the grand principles that underlie all this hum drum drudgery of books as though the summa summarium of teching consisted of knowledge of the branches.

◆

There is one great lesson of life that takes a life-time to learn. Is is begun at the fireside, continued on the play ground and forms one great object of life. This lesson, because of its vastness is too often neglected by teachers, and even parents, sometimes, but half teach it. Dr. Sears gives the following sensible advice which will be well for both parents and teachers to heed "If a child is passionate, teach him, by gentle means, to curb his temper. If he is greedy, cultivate liberalty in him. If he is selfish, promote generosity. If he is sulky, charm him out of it, by encouraging good humor.—If he is indolent, accustom him to exertion, and train him so as to perform even onerous duties with alacrity. If pride comes in to make his obedience reloctant, subdue him by either counsel or discipline. In short give the children the habit of overcoming their besetting sins. Let them feel that they can overcome temtation.—Let them acquire from experience, that confidence in themselves which gives security to the practised horseman even on the back of a high-strung steed, and they will triumph over the difficulties and dangers which beset them in the path of life.

◆

The following may be made very useful and interesting subjects about which to take during spare moments, or at some time when every thing seem edull and "going wrong," in school:

The American fall at Niagara, is three hundred and twenty yards wide in a right line, while the Canadian fall is six hundred yards wide, but carved and scooped out like a hors-shoe.—Through these two immense gaps in the rocky perpendicular wall, precipitates itself the whole mass of water from Lake Erie—a mass mathematically estimated at ninety millions of cubic yards per hour, or, if you prefer, twenty-two millions of yards per second. The word Niagara is derived from the Iriquois term—Ognakarra—signifying thundering water.

* * * * *

The inside of our world is in a constant state of fusion with but a thin crust of not more than sixty miles, while some places so thin, as in the vicinity of volcanoes, that combustible matters are ejected through the fissures in which that mountains abound. The earths crust bears about the same ratio to the melted portions inside, as the shell of an egg, does to the egg.

* * * * *

The surface of the earth is about 197,000,000 miles. Of this surface the ocean occupies 145,000,000 square miles, only 52,000,00 square miles therefore remain for terra firma.

◆

THE SUN.

[DAILY AND WEEKLY FOR 1875.]

The approach of the Presidental election gives unusual importance to the events and developments of 1875. We will endeavor to discribe then fully faithfully, and fearlessly.

TAE WEEKLY SUN has now attained a circulation of over seventy thousand coppies. Its readers are found in every State and Territory, and its quality is well known to the public. We shall not only endeavor to keep it fully up to the old standard, but to improve and add to its variety in power.

THE WEEKLY SUN will continue to be a thorough newspaper. All of the news of the day will be found in it, condensed unimportant, at full length when of moment, and always, we trust, treated in a clear, interesting and instructive manner.

It is our aim to make the WEEKLY SUN the best family newspaper in the world. It will be full of interesting and appropriate reading of every sort, but will print nothing to offend the most scropulous and delicate tast. It will always contain the most interesting stories and romances of the day carefully selected and legibly print,

The Agricultural Department is a prominent feature in the WEEKLY SUN, and its articles will always be found fresh and useful to the farmer.

The number of men independent in politics is increasing, and the WEEKLY SUN is their paper especially. It belongs to no party, and obeys no dictations, contending for principle, and for the election of the best man. It exposes the corruption that disgraces the country and threatens the overthrow of republican institutions. It has no fear of knaves, and seeks no favors from their supporters.

The markets of every kind and the fashions are regularly reported in its colums.

The price of the WEEKLY SUN is one dollar a year for a sheet of eight pages, and fifty-six colums. As this barely pays the expenses of paper and printing, we are not able to make any discount or allow any premium to friends who may make special effortes to extend its circulation. Under the new law, which requires payment of postage in advance, one dollar a year with subscription. It is not necessary to get up a club in order to have the WEEKLY SUN at this rate. Any-one who sends one dollar and twenty cents will get the paper, postpaid for a year.

We have no traveling agents.

THE WEEKLY SUN.—Eight pages, fifty six columns. Only $1 20 a year postage paid. No discount from this rate.

THE WEEKLY SUN.—A large four-page paper of twenty-eight columns. Daily circulation over 120,000 All the news for 2 cents. Subscription postage prepaid, 55 cents a month or $6,50 a year. To clubs of ten over a discount of twenty per cent.

Address, "THE SUN," N. Y.

S.C. EVANS, Pres't, C. M., DAWSON Cash'r

MERCHANTS

National Bank!

FORT WAYNE, IND.

Capital and Surplus $112.000

Receives Deposits, Discounts Business Paper, ssues Letters of Credit, and Collects at all points at the lowest rates of exchange.

Directors:

S. CARY EVANS, R. C. ROBERTSON,
H. C. HANNA, N. P. STOCKBRIDGE
A. C. DAWSON.

Organized 1865. April 9, '74

The Auburn

WAGONS

Made from the Best Materials,

And constructed with all the late improvements.—The new and extensive

WAGON SHOPS

—OF—

J. W. SHAFFER

South Main Street

are now in full running order and all orders for

WAGONS, BUGGIES, &c.

promptly attended to Special care taken in getting the best Seasoned Timber. Our prices are very reasonable and we solicit the public to give us a call and ascertain our prices.

Grand Opening for the HOLIDAYS!

STIEFEL & OCHS,

OF BUTER, INDIANA.

Have just opened a splendid stock of

DRY GOODS.

bought at a great reduction of prices.

FRESH ARRIVAL!

of the late styles of everything in the DRY GOODS and

Millinery Line.

Their MLLINERY GOODS, are being offered very low. They keep a first class Milliner and are ready to manufacture anything in this line order. West side of Bradway, BUTLER, IND.

Boots & Shoes

FOR SERVICE!

Buy the Stylish, Good-Fitting Double-Sewed

FINE SHOES!

For LADIES' and MISSES' wear, with this Trade Mark in every shoe.

DOUBLE SEWED P NEVER RIP.

The Soles are attached to the Uppers with two rows of five-cord waxed thread, (instead of one row as in other shoes,) and are

WARRANTED

Never to rip from the uppers.

S. W. Sprott & Son,

SOLE AGENTS.

Where also may be found a full line of

BOOTS & SHOES,

Both Fine and Coarse, for Men, Women and Children.

Our Stock is full and Complete,

And we can please you both in quality and price.

Custom Work a Specialty.

CALL AND SEE US.

S. W. SPROTT & SON.

LUMBER! LUMBER!

DIRECT FROM THE MANUFACTURE

GREATLY REDUCED PRICES!

LUMBER BY THE CAR LOAD AT JOBBING RATES.

F. N. Wright & Co.

Manufacture their own lumber with their own mill, at Greenville Michigan, and can therefor sell for less than any other local Dealor in Lumber

A Lumberyard has been established at Auburn by this Company Where there can be found an extensive variety of Lumber

LATH AND SHINGLES

Which will be sold for less than ever has been offered before. We know that we can sell Low and furnish as good an article of lumber as has ever been seen in the County.

Yard on Jackson Street near Berry's Planing Mill.

A. LEWIS Supt.

V. A. BEARD

Oldest Grocer in Auburn, North of Court House on Seventh Street,

DEALER IN

GROCERIES and PROVISIONS

TEAS, COFFEES, SUGARS, SALT FISH.

Flour and Feed, Tubs Pails, Buckets, Sugars Boxes, Etc. A large variety of

TOBACCOS AND CIGARS,

Confectioneries of all kinds, and Fancy Notions, Cove Oysters, &c.

A speciality in Green and Dried Fruits, and Canned Fruits. Goods delivered inside the coporation.

AUBURN

Meat Market.

Main St. Next door to Kletz's.

Houston and Benedict,

PROPRIETORS.

Having fitted up our establishment in first class stvie, with increased facilities, were a now prepared to furnish Fresh Meats n the best of order at reasonable tes. Give us call.uae

---

THE

Eagle Mills!

Having been recently refitted and improved, is now in excellent running order. Having employed one of the best Millers in the country, I can now guarantee satisfaction. Prompt attention given to Custom Work.

FLOUR, BRAN, MILL FEED, ETC.,

on hand at low prices.

L. BOWERS.

SANTA-CLAUS IS COMING

HOLIDAY PRICES

—AT THE—

FRUIT HOUSE.

We never had such an immense stock for the coming holidays. If times are dull and money is scarce our trade is better than ever. We are selling more Teas, Coffees, Sugars and Groceries than all the other groceries combines. We have no two prices in our business; that is, a price for those who pay the cash, and a different price for those who have it "booked." We have one cash price and keep no books, hence you can easily see why we can undersell all others; no secret in it, simply purchasing at first hands and selling direct to the consumers.

Just take teas, for instance: We save our consumers on that article alone three profits, as we purchase direct from the importer.

We save the profit of the jobber, 10 per cent, of the speculator, which is 15 per cent, of the wholesale grocer, which 19 to 20 per cent, or as much more as he can get. All these profits our customers have the profit of.

We still keep up the reduction of 15 per cent.

TEAS! TEAS! TEAS!

Young Hyson, 30c, 50c 80 $1, 1 10 per pound.
Gunpowder 50c, 80c, $1, 1 10, per pound.
Imperial, 50c, 80c, $1, best 1 10 per pound,

Oolong 30c 60c, 80c, best 95c, per pound.
Uncolored Japan, 40c, 80c, best 90c, per pound,

All of those teas are the best in the market, and at least 20 to 40 cents are saved on every pound

SUGARS! SUGARS! SUGARS! SUGARS! SUGARS!

The same saving to purchasers as on teas. No middle man with us

Coffee B, 10½ per pound.,
Coffee B, 10c, per pound.

Yellow Sugar 8c and 9c, per pound.
Crushed and Powdered, 11c, per pound.
Granulated 11c, per pound.

COFFEE! COFFEE! COFFEE!

At least 2 to 5 per cent saved

Rio, 23c; best Rio, 25c. per pound

Roasted Rio, 27c,
Old Java, 30c.

FOR CHRISTMAS CAKE.

Raisins 12½c, per pound,
Currants [illegible]
Citron, 40c.
Orange and Lemon Peel 30c.
Shelled Almonds, 40c.
Filberts, 20 cents per quart.

Almonds 20c.
English Walnuts, 15c.
Pecans 12½c.
Brazil 12½c.
Roasted Peanuts, 8c.
Oranges and Lemons, 30 to 50c per dozen.

WINES AND LIQUORS FOR THE HOLIDAYS.

Sherry and Port Wine, $1,50 best $2 50 per gal
California, Muscatel and Angelica $1, best 2 50.
New England Rum, $1 50 best 2 50.
Holland Gin $1 50 old Tom Gin 2 50.

Rye and Bourbin Whiskey, new 90c $1 25.
One and two years old do, $1 40 to 1 75.
Old '76' for Medical purposes $2 50 and 3 00.
Brandies from $1 50 to French imported $6.
Scotch and Irish Whiskies, London and Dublin Porter, Edinburgh Ale, &c.

CANDIES AND TOYS

Candies—Stick, choice, assorted, French toy candy, imperials, balls and fruit candies at about one half price
Best stick 20c per pound.
Barber poles 20c.
French choice, 25c.
Fruits and Almons, 30c.
Toys—Tops in immense variety your children can get from 1c to $1.
No end to the variety of moss eye, birds cats, dogs wagons, jumping jacks, china dolls, wax doll fancy play houses, moustache cups, hair oils, vases, soldiers drums, lions tigers' horses bugles, whistles, rattles, fancy baskets, ladies work boxes, at all prices and at one-half the price you will pay elsewhere.

DRIED AND CANNED FRUITS CIGARS AND TOBACO.

Dried Fruits—new Dried Peaches. 8c.
Prunes, 8 and 15c.
Dried apples 8 and 10c.
Pared Peaches 25c.
Green gages, 30c.
Canned peaches [illegible]
Tomatoes 15c, Blackberries 15c
Mammoth cans 20 and 25c,
English Damsons 30c.

Cigars and Tobaco—Best high flyers, $1 80 and 2, per box.
Havana pure, $2 50, 3 and 4.
Plug Tobacco, 50c, 40, and 50c.
Best Twin Brothers, 60c,
Fine cut 50, and 60c.
Best light yellow color 90c.
Shorts, 35c.

WOODEN WARE CHEAPER.

No 1 large 3 hoop tubs 85c No. 2 75c No 4 65c.
This is a reduction of 15c, on each tub.
Pail, 2 hoop, 18c, 3 hoop, 20.
Wash boards 20 and 25c.

Churns, 65c 75c. 85c $1.
Clothes lines, ropes, coal oil lamps, globes, starch spices and dye stuffs.

SYRUPS. SYRUPS.

Best sugar loaf, pure as honey, $1, per gallon.
White drip 35c.
Silver drip, 75.
Extra Golden 50c.

Cups, 45.
New Orleans 70c, and $1.
You can save at least 25c on the dollar.

FRESH OYSTERS,

25c 30 and 40c, can.
Sugar cured hams 15c.
Shoulders 10c,
Farmers living at a distance can club together select their goods, and send their orders. Each man's goods will be put up seperate and the name marked on the packages. No danger of getting lost. We will guarantee the safety.

Oils! Oils! Oils!

Fish and Neat's Foot Oil $1, per gallon
Coal and Rose Oil, 20c per gallon.
Headlight and Gasoline, 15c per gallon.

Machine Oil, 50c and 80c, per gallon,
Lard Oil, $1, per gallon,
Twenty-five cents on the dollar saved

J. B. WHITE, Prop.

Dr. King's New Discovery!

FOR CONSUMPTION!

DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY
DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY

The unparalled success invariably attending the introduction of

DR. KING'S

New Discovery for Consumption.

Far surpasses that of any other medicine ever placed before the American people. In fact it has exceeded the most sanguine expectations of its proprietors. Wherever it is sold a lively and increasing demand is at once created, and why is it? Our answer is this: It is a remedy that travels on Its Own Merits and always gives Perfect Satisfaction, hence the success. We know whereof we speak and in order to prove this statement we make the following offer: Do not Ever Ask to Buy until you know what you are getting. All we ask of those troubled with consumption, Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, &c, is to go to

F. E. DAVENPORT'S

Drug Store and get a bottle Free of Charge, and give it a trial, then you Know just what you are getting before you buy.

THE OLD RELIABLE.

F. E. DAVENPORT,

Corner Main and Eighth-Sts.,

—DEALER IN—

Pure Drugs and Medicines,

DYE STUFFS, PERFUMERY,

Toilet Soaps Cosmetics, Hair Oils, Brushes, Combs, Toilet Mirrors and Druggists' Sundries in General.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY!

Wall and Window Paper!

Oiled, Linen and Slat Window Shades, and Shade Fixtures.

All the lattest POEMS and MISSELANIOUS BOOKS constantly on hand or ordered. Blank Books, Pocket Memorandas, Portmonies and Bill Books, WRITING PAPERS. All Styles and prices ALBUMS! ALBUMS! ALBUMS just received for the Holliday trade

Over $300.00 worth of Juvenile and Toy Books, which will be sold at panic prices. Smith's Gold Pens, warranted the best. Also steel Pens, Penholders, Pencils, Ink and Ink Stands &c.

SCHOOL BOOKS!

Covered with best Cover ever invented Free Of Charge

Davenport has the exclusive right to use, this book cover in Auburn, and will give his patrons the benefit of the same.

Auditor's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY AND TO THE COLLECTION OF LOCAL AND GENERAL NEWS

Vol. 5. Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, January 14, 1875. No. 2.

ROSE & HARTMAN

LAW, ABSTRACT AND COLLECTION OFFICE!

All legal business promptly attended to in DeKalb and adjoining counties. Have the only

ABSTRACT OF TITLE

to REAL ESTATE in the county. They contain Deeds and Mortgages made before the organization of the county and not on the county records, as well as all those made and recorded since. Written abstracts and opinions of title furnished. No one should invest in land without examining the Title.

OFFICE OPP. SWINEFORD HOUSE

S. W. Cor. Public Square, AUBURN, INDIANA.

The Auburn Weekly Courier

Published every Thursday, by

TOM. C. MAYS.

One Year,......$2. | Six Months......$1.

Advertising Rates.

	1m.	3m.	6 m.	1 y.
One Square	2 50	5 00	7 00	12 00
¼ Column	6 00	12 00	18 00	30 00
½ Column	10 00	18 00	30 00	50 00
1 Column	15 00	20 00	50 00	100 00

Local Notices 10 cents per line, first insertion; 5 cents each insertion thereafter. Business Cards 5 dollars.

Business Cards.

RICKEL & TEFFT,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Auburn, Ind. Office in the Court House.
J. W. Rickel, R. Dexter Tefft.

COURIER OFFICE,

JOB PRINTING neatly executed. Fine work a specialty. Office in Odd Fellows' Building 2nd floor.

AMERICAN HOUSE,

AT FORT WAYNE, only $2 a day. Good accommodations for traveling men.
C. B. OAKLEY, Prop'r.

DR. J. A. COWAN,

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office on Main street, over Central Grocery.

Joseph H. Stophlet.

ARCHITECT. Office over No. 17 Court street 1st door north of Empire Line office, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Drawings and specifications furnished for all classes of buildings, at reasonable rates.

GUY PLUM,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office in the Court House. Special attention paid to the collection of claims. Also agent for Home Insurance Company.

Medical Society.

OF DeKALB COUNTY, meets at Auburn, Ind., the 2nd Tuesday in each month.
J. H. Ford, Pres't.
J. A. Cowan, Sec'y.

A. F. PINCHIN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public, Butler, DeKalb Co., Ind. Insurance and real estate business promptly attended to.

H. C. PETERSON,

ATTORNEY AT LAW and notary public. Office over Davis' hardware store, Auburn, Ind.

SWINEFORD HOUSE.

CORNER MAIN AND NINTH STREETS, opposite the Court House. S. C. Swineford, Pro.

J. J. LITTLEFIELD,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. Office over Miller and Casebeer's Store, Auburn, Indiana.

DRS. SEBRING & GRAHAM.

PARTNERS in the practice of Medicine. Office in Shaffer's brick building, second story, Main street, Auburn, Ind.

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, Auburn, Ind. Office first door to right, Masonic Hall, over the Shoe Store of Sprott & Son.

McBRIDE and MORLAN,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in any of the courts of the State. Office over O. T. Clark's Dry Goods store.

WOODHULL and CROXTON,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW Angola, Indiana. Practice in Steuben and DeKalb Counties.

CHAS. A. O. McCLELLAN.

ATTORNEY AT LAW, Waterloo, Indiana. Will practice in the Courts of DeKalb and Steuben counties. Liberal Advances Made on all First-class Claims left in my hands for collection.

COURTS IN STEUBEN CO.	COURTS IN DEKALB CO.
1st Monday in February	3rd Monday in Feb.
4th Monday in April	2nd Monday in May
1st Monday in September	3rd Monday in Sep.
4th Monday in November	2nd Monday in Dec

H. Wartenslaben

PAINTER and paper hanger. House painting a specialty. Residence corner Williams and Cedar street.

Toledo Business Cards.

Chas. L. Luce. Fred. C. Chapin. James Blass

Luce, Chapin & Blass,

IMPORTERS AND JOBBERS of foreign and domestic dry goods, notions, white goods, &c 132 and 134 Summit street, Toledo, Ohio.

Chris. Gerber. M. O. Waggoner.

C. Gerber & Co.,

WHOLESALE DEALERS in general hardware. Sign of the big jack knife and star ax. 125 Summit and 85 Water streets, Toledo, Ohio,

Geo. Emerson. Pliny Watson, Z. C. Phsatt

Emerson & Co.,

WHOLESALE GROCERS, 142, 144 and 46 Summit street, Toledo, Ohio.

Hamilton. E. Goldsmith.

Hamilton & Goldsmith,

COMMISSION MERCHANTS, Water street Toledo, Ohio.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed Administrator of the Estate of Louslot Ingman late of DeKalb County, deceased. Said Estate is supposed to be solvent. Jan. 2nd, 1875.

J. P. WIDNEY. Adm'r.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed Administrator of the Estate of Gilbert C. Evertts late of DeKalb County deceased Said Estate supposed to be solvent. Jan., 1st 1875.

O. P. LEARNED, Adm'r

Notice of Administrat on.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed Administrator "De bonis non." of the Estate of David Perkey, late of DeKalb County deceased. Said Estate is supposed to be insolvent Jan., 1st, 1875.

O. P. LEARNED. Adm'r.

BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R.

(CHICAGO DIVISION.)

Takes effect Dec. 6th, '74, at 3 o'clock

Going East.

STATIONS.	Balt. Ex	Fast L.	Local Fr No. 1	Fast Fr No. 17
Chicago	8 00 am	7 00 pm
Cromwell	2 20 pm	2 15 am	4 05 pm	3 15am
Albion	2 44	2 39	4 45	4 10
Avilla	3 10	3 03	5 55	5 05
Garrett	3 25	3 20	6 30	5 30
Auburn Junc	3 50	3 36	4 20 am	6 18
Defiance	5 25	5 10	9 40am	9 25 am
Chi. Junction	9 15 pm	6 50 am

Going West.

STATIONS.	Chi. Ex.	Fast L.	Fast Fr. No. 18	Local Fr No. 14
Chicago	8 50pm	8 45a
Cromwell	3 11	2 15	5 55	7 40 am
Albion	2 44	1 50	4 45	6 40
Avilla	2 14	1 25	3 49	5 40
Garrett	1 50	1 10	2 25	5 00
Auburn Junc	1 18	12 56	2 05	8 55pm
Auburn	1 13	12 51pm	2 00	8 50
Defiance	11 35 am	11 20	10 45am	5 30
Chi. Junction.	8 00 am	7 40

Ft. Wayne, Jackson & Sag. R. R

Short Line between

Michigan and the South.

Time card in effect Dec 13th—run by Chicago time

Going North.

Stations	Mail	Accom.	Jack. Acm
Cincinnati		6 30	2 45
Louisville	11 10pm		7 35
Indianapolis	4 25		2 00
Ft Wayne	10 40	5	3 00
Auburn	11 30	6	3 48
Waterloo	11 53	2
Summit			4 20
Pleasant Lake			5 00
Ar Angola	12 55	7 45	5 21
Reading	2 00	9 18	5 40
Bankers	1 15	30	6 00
Jonesville	2 25	10 05	6 50
Jackson	3 40	11 55	10 00
Detroit	6 24	3 30	5 50
Grand Rapids	9 30	7 00	8 37
Lansing	5 42		11 40
Saginaw	8 35		12 35
Bay City	9 50

Going South.

Stations	Mail	Accom.	Jack. Acm
Bay City		6 35	2 45
Saginaw		7 25	3 40
Lansing		10 40	7 10
Grand Rapids	[illegible] pm	5 00	12 00
Detroit		10 40	5 40
Jackson Dep	5 50a.m	1 20	9 40
Jonesville	7 06
Bankers	7 30	3 40	11 00
Reading	7 40	4 05	11 12
Ar Angola	8 42	5 25	12 06
Pleasant Lake			12 42
Waterloo	9 25	6 25	12 55
Auburn	9 41	6 28
Auburn Junction			12 88
Fort Wayne, Arrive	10 40	8 15	1 50
Indianapolis	7 45 p m		7 20a
Louisville	8 45		1 10p
Cincinnati	8 26 a m

W. A. ERNST. Sup
S. K. HOOPER Gen. Ticket Ag't.

Ft. Wayne, Muncie & Cin R. R.

Time Table to take effect Dec 13, 1874.

Going South.

Fort Wayne	10 10am	2 10am	2 00pm
Ossian	12 00am		2 47
Bluffton	12 33p	2 58	20
Keystone	1 05pm	3 28	4 02
Montpelier	1 14		4 15
Hartford	1 [illegible]pm	4 03	4 45
Eaton	2 01	4 41	5 19
Muncie.	2 40	5 10	5 45
McCowan's	2 59
New Castle	3 55
Cam. City	4 30
Bessons	4 50
Connersville	5 10
Indianapolis		7 35	8 00pm
Louisville		1 10pm
Cincinnati	7 40

Going North.

Cincinnati	6 20am	pm	11 10pm
Louisville		2 45	4 25am
Indianapolis		7 35
Connersville	10 00
Bessons	10 16
Cam City	10 40
New Castle	[illegible]
McCowans	12 1epm
Muncie	12 55	10 15	6 35am
Eaton	1 1[illegible]		7 12
Hartford	1 37	11 10	7 35
Montpelier	2 04		8 03
Keystone	2 3		8 11
Bluffton	2 45	12 20am	8 50
Ossian	3 17		9 26
Ft. Wayne	4 05	1 45	10 10

J. W. SHERWOOD, Supt.
Robt. Rillie, Gen'l Ticket Agt.

DETOIT, EEL RIVER & ILLINOIS Rail Road.

Short Line between Auburn and the East and West.

Trains run on Cleveland time. Through trains will run on the following time, in effect Sunday Dec 11, 1874.

Going East.			Going West.
Way Fr.	Mail	Stations	Mail	Acc'
6 40	10 10 am	Logansport	7 45 p.m	2 55
		Peoria
8 20	10 54 am	Denver	6 50	1 25
10 10	12 10 pm	N. Manches'r	5 59	12 10
10 13	12 57	Col. City	5 08	11 15
12 30 pm	2 04 pm	Auburn	3 54	9 55
11 59	2 30	ar. Butler lv	3 20	9 20
		Toledo
		Detroit

CONNECTIONS—At Logansport with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St Louis, Logansport, Crawfordsville & Southwestern and Toledo, Wabash & Western R. R's. At Denver with Indianapolis, Peru & Chicago Railway, for Rochester, Plymouth, LaPorte, Michigan City, Peru, Kokomo and Indianapolis At N. Manchester with Cincinnati, Wabash & Mich R'y. At Columbia City with Pittsburg, Ft. W. & Chicago, for Ft Wayne, Lima, Crestline and Pittsburg. At Grand Rapids crossing with Grand Rapids R'y. At Auburn Junction with Ft. Wayne Jackson & Saginaw, for Angola, Jackson and Saginaw R'y. for Butler with Lake Shore & Mich. Southern Cars. Toledo, Detroit and all eastern cities.

J. A. HUGHSTON, Gen. Ticket Agt.
A. B. SOUTHARD, Gen. Supt.

Try the COURIER one year only 2,00

Lake Shore & Mich. Southern R.R

Air Line Division

ON and after Sunday, Nov. 15, 1874 Passenger Trains will leave Waterloo city and other Stations as follows, daily except Sundays:

GOING WEST.

	Special Ex.	Pacific Ex.	Accom'd'n
Butler.	2:40 p m.	x 2:35 a m.	8:00 p m
Waterloo	2:56 "	2:50 "	8:19 "
Sedan	3,05	3,00	8:30 "
Corunna	3,10	3,06	8:35 "

GOING EAST.

Corunna	2 15 pm	11.20. pm	6:50 p m
Sedan	2.20	11.35	7:02 "
Waterloo	2:28 "	11:44	7:11 "
Butler	2:40 "	x12:01 a m	7:55 "

CHAS. PAINE. Gen. Supt.
J. W. CARY. Gen Tic. Agt.
J. R. CURTIS, Division Supt

Pittsburgh, Ft Wayne & Chicago R. R

ON and after Nov 15 1874 Trains will leave stations daily, (Sundays excepted) as follow:

Going West.

STATIONS	FAST EX	MAIL.	PAC. EX.	NIGHT EX
Pittsburg	2,00 A M	6,00 A. M	9,40 A M	2,00 P. M.
Rochester	"	7,25 "	10,50 "	3,[illegible]1 "
Alliance	5,22 "	11,00 "	1,30 P M	5,07 "
Orrville	7,14 "	12,52 P. M	3,15 "	7,40 "
Mansfield	9,20 "	3,15 "	5,25 "	9,30 "
Crestline ar	9,50 "	3,50 "	6,00 "	10,10 "
Crestline lv	10,10 "	5,00 A M	6,25 "	10,20 "
Forest	11,32 "	6,32 "	8,15 "	11,[illegible]2 "
Lima	12,30 P M	8,00 "	9,30 "	12,50 A."
Ft Wayne	2,50 "	10,40 "	12,15 A M	3,15 "
Plymouth	5,00 "	1,25 P. M	3,00 "	5,40 "
Chicago	8,20 "	5,25 "	6,50 "	9,20 "

Going East.

STATIONS	MAIL	FAST EX.	PAC. EX.	NIGHT EX
Chicago	5,15 A M	9,20 A. M.	5,35 A. M.
Plymouth	9,25 "	12,15 P. M.	9,10 "	10,20 P. M
Ft Wayne	12,30 P M	2,45 "	11,45 "	2,25 A. M
Lima	2,55 "	4,35 "	1,52 A. M.	5,50 "
Forest	4,10 "	5,34 "	3,01 "	8,00 "
Crestline ar	5,50 "	7,00 "	4,30 "	9,17 "
Crestline lv	6,05 A M	7,20 "	4,50 "	11,10 "
Mansfield	6,40 "	7,50 "	5,20 "	11,20 "
Orrville	9,05 "	9,42 "	7,12 "	11,51 "
Alliance	11,20 "	11,20 "	9,00 "	1,40 PM
Rochester	2,10 P M		11,12 "	5,58
Pittsburg	3,30 "	2,20 a m	12,15 A. M.

F. R. MYERS,
General Passenger and Ticket Agent

BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R

FROM 135 TO 67 MILES

The shortest route from the West to Washington, Baltimore,

AND THE EAST.

ONDENSED TIME TABLE, THRO' TRAINS.

VIA PARKERSBURG, Dec. 13, '74	Express	Fast Express,	St. Louis Ex.
Lve. Cincinnati	9 00‡ am	†4 30 p m	†11 10p m
Arr. Chillicoth	12 55d n'n	s7 46	3 00 am
" Portsmouth	5 35 p m		11 10
" Marietta	5 50	12 05 n't	7 22
" Parkersburg	5 25 s	11 30	B6 50
Arr. Grafton	9 45	3 40 a m	11 10
" Cumberland	2 00 a m	B7 40	D3 20
" Martinsburg	4 35	10 15	6 10
" Harper's F'y	5 19 a m	10 54	6 51
" Staunton		5 15 p m
" Washington	7 45	12 40 n'n	8 50
" Richmond		10 30p m	4 50 am
" Baltimore	‡9 05 a m	1 50 n m	10 20‡pm
" Philadelphia	1 20 p m	6 50 p m	2 35 am
" New York	‡5 10	10 22	‡9 15
" Boston,	5 50 a m		4 50 pm

VIA BELLAIRE—Dec 13, 1874	Express	Fast Express.	Fast Line
Lve. Cincinnati (via Dayton S. L.)	6 30 a m		‡3 50 p m
" Cincinnati (via P. C. & St. L.)	†7 00		†7 10 p m
" Columbus	11 55	4 00‡p m	12 20†
Arr. Newark	1 00 p m	5 25	1 45 a m
" Zanesville	2 10	6 55	2 57
" Bellaire	5 20	10 55	6 50
" Wheeling	6 45 p m	12 30 ngt	8 00
" Grafton	9 35	3 35 a m	11 05
" Cumberland	2 00 a m	7 40	D3 20 pm
" Martinsburg	4 35	10 15	6 10
" Harper's F'y	5 19 a m	10 54	9 51
" Washington	7 15	12 40 n'n	8 50
" Richmond		10 30 p m	4 50 a m
" Baltimore	9 05	1 50†	10 20†pm
" Philadelphia	1 20 p m	6 50	2 45 a m
" New York	5 10	10 22†	†6 15
" Boston	4 50 a m		4 50 p m

B—Breakfast. D—Dinner. S—Supper. †Daily †Daily ex. Sunday. ‡Daily ex. Monday.

PULMAN PALACE SLEEPING CARS from Louisville, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Columbus, to

WASHINGTON AND BALTIMORE!

—AND—

PHILADELPHIA

WITHOUT CHANGE.

Through Tickets, and further information can be obtained at all principal Ticket Offices throughout the West and South West.

THOS. P. BARRY, West. pass agt., Cin.
L. M. COLE, Gen'l ticket agt., Bal. Md.
THOS. R. SHARP, Mas. of Tran.

John M. Miller,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FINE FURNITURE,

CHAIRS.

Husk & Hair Matrasses

50 and 52 East Main Street,
FORT WAYNE, IND.

J. G. FLEDDERMAN,

No. 27, East Main-St.
FORT WAYNE, IND'A

Has the largest and finest stock of

CLOTHS, COATINGS, CHEVIOTS,

—AND—

CassimereS

in Ft. Wayne. The finest line of

Made up Clothing!

ever shown in Fort Wayne

Youths' and Children's Clothing!

Furnishing Goods, &c.

Merchant Tailoring.

All work done in all the latest styles, promptly attended to. Go and see his large stock of Gp

Auction, Auction

WM. E. RUSH

Has opened out, in Ward's building, a fine stock of

DRY GOODS. NOTIONS,

GENTS' UNDERWEAR, &c., which you can have at your own price. Private sale between auction hours.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A Gentleman who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, Premature Decay and all the effects of youthful indiscretion will for the sake of suffering humanity send free to all who need it, the receipt and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN 42 Cedar St. New York.

To Consumptives.

The advertiser, having been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, (free of charge) with the directions for preparing and using the same which they will find a SURE CURE for Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, &c.

Parties wishing the prescription will please address Rev. E. A. WILSON, 194 Penn St., Williamsburg New York.

S. U. Tarney

PROPRIETOR

AUBURN MEAT MARKET!

KEEPS ALWAYS ON HAND

Fresh Beef, Pork, Veal, Mutton and Bologna Sausage, clean and sweet. Prices reasonable. Main-st first door north of Miller & Casebeer's store

VICK'S

FLORAL GUIDE,

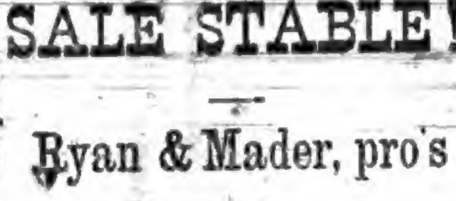
FOR 1875.

Published Quarterly.—January Number just issued, and contains over 100 Pages, 500 Engravings, descriptions of more than 500 of our best Flowers and Vegetables, with Directions for Culture Colored Plate, etc.—The most useful and elegant work of the kind in the world.—Only 25 c for the year.—Published in English and German Address

JAMES VICK, Rochester, N. Y.

AUBURN LIVERY

—AND—



SALE STABLE!

Ryan & Mader, pro's

Having on hand everything in the line of

Carriages, Buggies, Wagons, Etc

they are prepared to furnish rigs at all times at reasonable prices. Stable east of Court House.

The Newest & Best

The Mammoth House

19 WEST MAIN-ST.,
FORT WAYNE, IND.

M. E. Woodward!

Has just received the finest and largest stock of

Clothing,

PIECE GOODS, ETC.

at his new store, ever in the place.

NO OLD GOODS!

Pittsburg, Baltimore & Ohio R.R IS COMING.

Therefore buy your

Dry Goods,

Notions, etc., of

CHARLES KLOTZ

AT HIS

Old Stand

ON MAN STREET,

Opposite Court Square

AUBURN, INDIANA

Where he may be found at all times ready to accommodate customers, and sell them such goods as they may need.

CLOTHING

Of all descriptions, and

HANDSOME SUITS

Made to Order!

GREATLY IMPROVED.

GIMMY HAGEN'S SISTER.

By Jack O'Grady.

Jimmy Hagen "struck" the town about a month since, and being short financially, struck for "a bit of a job."

"What are you good for?" said the landlord of the Violett House.

"Sure, and I'm up to anylay" said Jimmy.

"Well, said Jack, I know a minister of the gospel who wants a handy boy to take care of his horse, do chores, etc., etc"

"I'm the laddybuck that will plase him, said Jimmy. I'll bet the drinks I'll make that old horse sphil his Riverence out of his c r in less than a week, if he gives me the handling of him."

So he went up and agreed to attend divine service twice on Sunday, "look after the children, cows and pigs, and be moral and virtuous." The first Sunday came, and all hands and the cook went down to the church over which his "Riverance" presided. The "Gospel sharp" during his discourse frequently referred to Solomon, his wisdom, his glory and, apologetically, to his concubines. After service, and enroute for home, he tackled Jimmy as to his appreciation of the discourse.

"What was the rich ould fellow's name you spoke of—the fellow that had has stake and lashens of wealth and was 'fly' to all the games of the day?" asked Jimmy.

"Solomon," said Mr.——

"Aye, aye, sur," said Jimmy, "and what was that you said he had?"

"And what are they?"

"Women." said Mr.——

"Oh, musha! musha!" replied Mr. Hagen, "of course they were nice girls yer Reverence. It was not a Mormon the ould gintleman?"

His Riverence said he would explain.

"Will, your Riverence," said Jimmy. "Sure an' I married a gilr on the ould sod by the name of Daily, and left her there for the want of funds to bring her here. She is one of twins and her sister Nora is as like her as two pase, and I was just a thinkin' if Mr. Solomon hav' only been so lucky as to have met my wife's sister before he went a hunting up concubines, he'd a had all the fun in this world one man could ask for, and saved his stamps to send to the haythens."

Daniel in the hands of a Friend.

Nantucket people enjoy a reputation for smartness, and even Daniel Webster found his match there. The story as told by Mr. Webster himself, is as follows:

The court held a term on the island periodically. There was not much litigation, but the suits were heavy, relating to ships, whale fishing and oil.—The judges and lawyers usually went over from the continent and spent a week or ten days, and finished the business of the session. One day one of the friends of the island called at my office in Boston, and said: Friend Daniel, what wilt thee ask to come down to Nantucket and plead a case for me before the judge?"

"I will go for a thousand dollars."

"That is too much, Friend Daniel."

"But I will have to go down Saturday, and perhaps remain the whole week following. I would as soon argue the whole docket."

"Well friend Danielda, if thee will argue such cases as I will present to thee before my case is called, I will give thee a thousand dollars," and so the bargain was stuck.

My client went to Nantucket, and found his case at the foot of the docket. He went from man to man and saw all who had any cases on the docket, and said, "What thee give if I get the great Daniel Webster to plead thy cause?" He took retainers from a dozen men. Some gave him a hundred dollars, and some five hundred. He hade grace enough to give me a thousand dollars as agreed and paid my expenses in the bargain. I argued the docket right through, for plaintiffs or defendant, until I reached my defendant's case. He struck the balance, and admitted, as the steamer left the warf, that he had got his case argued and pocketed fifteen hundred dollars besides.

In a country village of Iowa, the other day there was a law-suit. Mr. Snider had Mr. Mitten arrested for putting a crooked pin in his seat at church. The trial was held in public but the examination of Brother Snider was in a dark room by candle light, with no admittance to the sisters. The irate brother told the court that he would be d——d if he would be a pin-cushion for anybody, as he stood in court with a behind-hand expression. Verdict for Snider.

He Didn't Want Any.

The other day a well dressed stranger, carrying a hand valise, called into a life insurance office and inquired if the agent was in. The agent came forward, rubbing his hands, and the stranger asked.

"Do you take life insurance risks here?"

"Yes, sir, glad to see you sir—sit down, sir."

"What do you think of life insurance, anyway?" inquired the stranger as he sat down and took off his hat.

"It's a national blessing, sir—an institution which is looked upon with sovereign favor by every enlighten man and woman in America."

"That's what I'v always thought," answered the man. "Does your company pay its losses promptly?"

"Yes, sir—yes sir. If you were insured with me, and you should die tonight, I,d hand your wife a check within a week."

"Couldn't ask for anything better than that."

"No, sir—no, sir. The motto of our company is: Prompt pay and honorable dealings."

"How much will a $5,000 policy cost?" inquired the stranger after a long pause.

"You are—let's see—say thirty-five A policy on you would cost a $110 the first year."

"That's reasonable enough."

"Yes th[illegible]at we call low, but our's is a strong company, does a safe business, and invests in only first-class securities. If you are thinking of taking out a policy let me tell you that our's is the best and the safest, and even the agents of rival companies will admit the truth of what I say."

"And when I die my wife will get her money without any trouble?"

"I'll guarantee that, my dear sir."

"And I'll get a dividend every year."

"Yes, that is a mutual company, and part of the profits come back to the policy holder?"

"And it won't cost me but $110 for a policy of $5,000?"

"That's the figure; and it's as low as your can get safe insurance anywhere. Let me write you out a policy You'll never regret it."

"Them's the blanks, I s'pose?" said the stranger, pointing to the desk.

"Yes," replied the merchant as he hauled one up to him and took up his pen. "What do you say—shall I fill out an application?"

"No, I guess I won't take any to-day," replied the stranger as he unlocked his valise, but if you want something to take that wrath off your nose inside of a week I've got it right here! It's good for corns bunions, the toothache, earache, sprains—?"

He was placing his little bottles on the table, when the agent reached over and took him by the shoulder hoarsely whispered: "Mr man if you don't want to become a corps you won't be two minutes getting out of here!" And he wasn't.

Had Seen Kings Enough.

A gentleman at Washington was requested on Saturday last by a friend to join him on a visit to the depot to witness the arrival of the King of the Sandwitches.

"No, sir, not much," growled the gentleman.

"Have you ever seen a king in your travels?" inquired the friend, marveling somewhat at his short answer.

"Yes, sir," replied the gentleman I was once guilty of seeing three kings Then after a moment's pause, went on to say: "And they cost me $150, sir Those were war times however.

His friend suggested he must have been in bad company.

"Well, I don't know," says the gentleman "I thought I was in pretty good company at the time. I called to see those three kings in company with three queens, another king and an ace spot, and have never had any desire to see any of the royal family since."

His friend saw the "point" Said he passed, and shuffled on.

Dead Silence.—A man about two thirds drund was riding on a Fort street car yesterday, and he hadn't yet unbosomed himself when a nice-looking young man, high scented, entered the inebriate. The prefume floated over, and the man snuffed and and turned his head this way and that. He finally got his eyes on the young man, and pointed his finger at him inquired: "Y-young man, d-do your f-feet smell that way all the time?"—There was a dead silence in the car.—Detroit Free Press.

It is not generally understood that the papers in the county does not require postage. All those receiving them outside the county will have to pay postage to us.

AFTER THE HOLIDAYS.

The gay Christmas-time it is ended,
The Holiday course has been run,
And, while no offense is intended
To any particular one,
I wish to make one observation,
And then, like the season, I'm done.

To the ancient and hon'rable custom
Of giving gifts once in the year—
Provided, of course, it don't bust 'em—
All people should strive to adhere;
And if they can give but a trifle,
Give that with a slice of good-cheer!

Yet, while we would show our expression
Of love or esteem for a friend,
A proper amount of discretion
In choosing the token might tend
To add to the pleasure of getting
The little or much we expend.

It chanced this particular season
I needed some slippers right bad,
And hinted the same for that reason
On every occasion I had:
And now I am of the conviction
I must at the time have been mad!

First Nellie, my cousin, inquired
What number my boot was; and when I told her I thought I aspired
To altitudes close upon ten,
She looked sympathizingly at me
And said, "Is it possible, Ben?"

And the very next day Arabella
Propounded the query likewise—
And Flora and Dora and Ella
All wanted to find out my "size;"
And the evening I called on Alida
She measured my foot with her eyes!

Well, Christmas Day dawned, and the dawning
Was filled with bright visions, you know,
And I opened my eyes, after yawning,
And glanced at the carpet below—
And six pairs of slippers were lying
Solemnly there in a row!

Six pairs of slippers! Great heavens!
Wrought with a skill superfine—
Ranging from eights to elevens—
Rich and unique in design;
And a dozen they made all together,
And all of the dozen were mine!

I tried to look pleased and contented—
For that was the best I could do;
I took 'em all up and commented
On the beauties presented to view,
And I said they were "just what I wanted!"
—And "twelve is better than two!"

But I locked three pairs in my closet,
And one I have lent to St. Clair,
And one—I wonder whose was it?
I gave to the Charity Fair!
And the last— well, those are elevens,
And those are the ones I shall wear!

And while I'm extending my "flippers"
In gratitude deep and sincere,
I wish to remark that twelve slippers
Are rather too many to steer;
And I take this occasion for stating
That I shan't expect any next year.

THREE DAYS UNDERGROUND.

The sun on Friday, April 2, had risen brightly on the mining-village of Carbonoir, and the dull and dismal March days, with their raw, rainy, inclement weather, looked a long way back since the genial sunshine had brightened our dispositions and dried our roads.

The miners had "struck" the previous day for some fancied annoyance, and the inside workings and breakers were deserted, except by the engineers and firemen. We—that is, the superintendent, the "inside boss," and mine engineer or surveyor—had decided to take advantage of the cessation of work and make a trip inside, in order particularly to look at one of the "breasts," in which a "roll" had been met, and in general to view the appearance of the mine to see that none of the doors had been left open by which the inside air would be vitiated, for our mines were not free from fire-damp; to observe the timbers, for in parts of the mine there had been indications of a "squeeze;" and also to notice the workings of our two ten-inch steam-pumps, which were strained to their utmost—working as they were under the high pressure of ninety pounds of steam—to keep the mines clear of water.

On the day before, out of curiosity, I had measured the stream they were throwing, and found to my astonishment that their combined outputs amounted to 8,000 gallons per minute.

I had not mentioned this to the surveyor, the amount being so large as to make me feel uncertain in my calculations; yet there were those calculations in black and white according to the latest formula of American engineers, so that I came to the conclusion that they were right, but that I would not speak of it to any one.

As our tramp was to be an extended one, over the whole of the mine, which in one direction was driven for more than a mile, and had labyrinthine passages that would have sadly puzzled any one not acquainted with the workings, we took our dinners along in the little buckets that miners carry, and also a bottle of oil for the supply of our lamps.

The day previous had been somewhat an idle one, and, knowing the course our trip was to take, I amused myself by making a little sketch from the large map of the vicinity of the particular "breast" we intended visiting. I thought nothing of it at the time; but afterward, as will be seen, it became of the greatest importance.

We took a walk through the breaker and the outside workings before we went inside. There were the eight boilers working at a pressure of ninety pounds of steam, and trembling with the mighty force within them; but of their safety we felt no fear, as they had a few days before been examined by the inspector and pronounced safe to a pressure of 140 pounds to a square inch.

A loud hissing sound, like the rush of waters, caused us to turn suddenly, but it was only the steam blowing through the safety-valve. At last, our examination being completed, we lighted our lamps, climbed into the cage, and gave the engineer the signal to lower us down the shaft slowly.

The descent in a shaft is a very peculiar feeling to those who have never experienced it. We have all felt the odd sensation in the back and breast when using a forty-foot pole swing. The feeling there is difficult to describe, but may be said to be as though the breath in your body, instead of making its natural exit, was going from the back of the lungs to the front, and thence out through the breastbone.

So with the sensation in descending a shaft. Here it is not only the breath that appears to be leaving you, but the blood, bones, and brain all seem to be trying to escape through the roots of the hair; a capillary sensation which is anything but pleasant.

We made the descent of 357 feet in two and one-half minutes, and arrived safely at the bottom of the shaft.

The working of our mine had been begun on the most scientific principles, but several layers of hard rock had made the shaft extremely costly; and the circumstances of the company were somewhat straitened when we had reached the coal vein of which we were in search.

It is generally customary to have a "sump," or chamber for holding water, at the bottom of the shaft, so that in case anything should happen to the pumps there will be a reservoir for the mine water to flow into, and which will require some time to fill before the tracks are overflowed and work stopped; but just below the coal, when the sump was begun, a bed of iron pyrites was met, on which the best cast steel drills made no impression; and, after a week of utterly futile work, the design of making a sump was abandoned, and a slight roll occurring at some little distance from the bottom of the shaft, the coal was mined therefrom, and the cavity thus made was used as a sump, although it only held a few thousand gallons of water.

We started on our tramp, after examining the two steam-pumps and noting the number of strokes per minute they were making. The mines were very wet, and little drippers falling from the roof trickled down our backs, causing very unpleasant sensations.

We did not find much to complain about in the workings till we came to the point where the squeeze had manifested itself. Here stout timbers of one foot and a half in diameter had been bent into a bow-like form by the pressure of thousands of tons of superincumbent rock, and the crush was only beginning to make itself manifest. The practiced eye of the superintendent, aided by his unerring judgment, soon noted the points where extra strength was required, and he gave his orders to the "mine boss," who carefully marked them.

We now retraced our footsteps, and, turning into another gangway, reached the "breast" in which the roll had occurred. The pitch, or slope, of the coal-vein was here steep, nearly 45 degrees, which may be compared to the slant of the roof of an old-fashioned house, and we made our way with difficulty up the narrow man-way, on which steps had been cut in the rock. The lower part of the "breast" was filled with coal which had not been drawn out for several days, being left for the miners to obtain a foothold while "bearing in" on the solid coal above them.

The man-way was a tortuous passage, with barely room for one to crawl through; but, after a little trouble, we reached the face of the "breast," and began our observations on the roll. There was no mistaking the fact of its being a "roll;" the top rock had descended and the bottom raised till but three inches of coal were left, and that was so shelly that it could easily be crumbled between the fingers.

The superintendent took out his little pocket-compass from its velvet lined case, and, after poising it delicately between his fingers and noting the course of the roll, stated his opinion that it would be met with in the next "breast," about five feet higher up the pitch than it was in this. We now prepared to descend, when he suggested that we might as well eat our lunch here, where it was dry, instead of going into the gangway, where we would find a difficulty in getting a convenient seat. In this we acquiesced, making ourselves as comfortable as we could upon lumps of coal. We opened our cans and—but just then a sharp, cracking noise was heard, which brought us all to our feet; and, following it almost instantly, the roof was seen at a little distance to sway and then to fall, making a draft of air which instantly extinguished our lamps and left us standing, for the moment, bereft of speech in the darkness, while the dull, heavy echo reverberated till it was lost in the recess of the mine. We were, as I said, stupefied for the moment, but soon recovered our speech and senses and anxiously inquired of each other if any one had been hurt.

I answered that I was all right, and asked where the "inside boss" was, for I had not heard his voice. The superintendent said he was standing by him when the fall came; so we produced matches, lighted our lamps, and looked around us. A glance to the left showed us his form, lying insensible, with a cut in his forehead, the dark blotches of coal-dirt on his face contrasting terribly with the waxy color of the skin, rendered far more ghastly and deathlike by the yellow gleam of the lamps.

It was evident that we were fastened in by the fall of coal; but that did not concern us greatly, as it was well known that we were inside, and men would soon be sent in search of us. But what were we to do with the stunned man, for by this time we had ascertained that he breathed faintly. Though neither of us had the advantage of a medical education, we knew what to do in a case of this sort, and dampening our handkerchiefs from a little dripper, we laved his temples and soon had the satisfaction of observing the return of his faculties.

After we had explained the situation to him, which he slowly comprehended, we took counsel as to what were the best means of escaping from our underground prison.

Though we felt certain that it could not be long before parties would be in search of us, yet it was agreed that we should not remain idle, but endeavor to cut our way out into some other chamber of the mine. Picks and shovels were lying around, where the miners the preceding evening had left them, and each taking one of these in hand, we proceeded to tap lightly the coal in order to determine, if possible, by the sound where the thinnest pillar stood, and, therefore, where we would have the least cutting to do.

While we were engaged in thus sounding the walls of our prison, a distant rumble was heard which caused us to stop short in our labor and look at each other with blanched faces.

Our thoughts ran on but one thing—the timbers in another part of the mine must have given way and blocked us out completely.

We now waited motionless for the gust of air which always follows a fall, but as our lamps gave not the slightest flicker, we were entirely at a loss to account for it.

So puzzled by this collection of mishaps, and wondering how soon they would come in search of us, we continued our tapping on the sides of the "breast;" but it always gave back the same ringing sound, and that was no guide whatever.

Just then the wick of my lamp needing trimming, I searched in my pockets for a knife, and, feeling a piece of paper, took it out and found that it was the sketch of that portion of the mine.

We felt that this little drawing was our salvation, for without it we would have been working blindly. After a close examination of it we determined just where to start in order to cut into an air-hole, which was thirty feet away, through solid coal.

After having decided upon the spot, we began work immediately. Only one could work at a time, and as we were each to work fifteen minutes, in order to tell when the time would be up, the superintendent looked at his watch.

The hands pointed to a little after twelve. He said, "I thought it was latter, as it must have been almost that when we began our dinner."

The boss responded. "Is it noon, or night?"

"Noon, of course;" answered the superintendent.

We thought for a time by way of determining, when the boss said: "Have you a watch-key?" "Yes."

"Then wind up your watch and you can tell. The superintendent did so, and found that his watch was almost run down.

We looked at each other in silence. Could it be that we had been there twelve hours, and no help come to us? It must be.

It seemed strange that we had not yet felt the pangs of hunger; but now, our attention being called to the fact that we had eaten nothing all day, we turned toward our dinner-cans with a good appetite. We ate sparingly, however, for the reason that the period of our immurement seemed very uncertain. No thirst was felt because of the dampness of the air in the mine. Thus reinvigorated, we started again at our work, and ere long had the satisfaction of seeing that we had made about ten feet of progress.

While I was resting and awaiting my turn with the pick, I heard a confused squealing in the lower part of the "breast." We stopped work and looked in that direction, and saw, to our astonishment, rats in great numbers making their way through the interstices of the loose coal.

We thought at first that they had in some way ascertained our condition, and intended making a raid on us en masse, but a moment's observation dispelled this idea, for they appeared cowed and frightened, and, instead of showing fight, sought seclusion under lumps of coal.

Our lamps had been burning brighter for some time and were now flaming violently.

For a moment the superintendent looked thoughtful, then grave, then, in an utter agony, he muttered: "By——!" (and I believe the oath was left unregistered) "the water is rising—we're lost!"

We stared at each other in mute despair. What the thoughts of the rest were I cannot tell, but my own life and actions went like a panorama before my mental vision. Sins of omission and commission passed by in a torrent, and my offenses magnified themselves, and their blackness and size overshadowed the good acts I had done, blotting them out completely.

The superintendent, thinking audibly, murmured, "My wife, my child!" and we heard a deep sigh from the boss. We turned to look at the latter, and as we did so he fell on his face, the blood gushing from under the bandage in a stream. Hurriedly lifting him we tried to staunch the wound, but in vain; tie it no matter how tightly the blood oozed through the handkerchief. The condensed air of the chamber forced it from his body, and his face, which had been livid, became pallid and wax-like, and his pulse ceased to beat.

He was dead!

The superintendent looked at his watch. It had stopped. He shook it and found that it had run down. Had another twenty-four hours passed? It was insupportable, this death in life. Was there no hope for us?

We refilled our lamps, exhausting the oil in the bottle, and, with brains reeling and blood gushing from our finger ends, again attacked the coal.

Hark! Was not that a sound? We listened and heard it again, and I rapped back vigorously. It had chanced that, for some time previously, I had been trying to learn telegraphy on the Morse instrument, of the operator at our office, and I suppose that, unknowingly, I, in my tapping, had made use of their signal of "attention." The same familiar tap—tap—tap—tap—tap was returned, and I saw at once that my instructor must be among those outside.

I rapped: "Is there any hope for us?" He answered: "We'll try to save you; a raincloud burst over the shaft deluging it with water, and one of the boilers shortly afterwards exploded, blowing up the engine house." "How did you get in?" I asked. "We are in an air hole which communicates with the surface." "What time is it?" "Three o'clock, Sunday morning."

We had been inside over two days! Would we ever escape?

A short silence, and he rapped: "How far above the water are you working?" I turned to look. It was within five feet of us. The condensed air was exhausting our strength; our lamps gave a final flicker and burnt out; I reached down for water to bathe my throbbing temples and felt something soft resisting. It was the body of the boss. I drew back with a shudder. A rat crawled up my leg; it made my blood curdle.

I put my hand toward the water again and felt several rats floating; the air, with a pressure of at least three atmospheres, had killed them.

And now we heard the sound of picks and bars on the other side. They had sent outside for them. It reinspirited us and we worked for life.

The water was within three feet of us. They soon signaled from the other side that they were going to blast. We awaited the shock and could almost hear the fizzing of the fuse.

"Cra—sh!"—the thunders nearly deafened me.

I called the superintendent by name. No answer. I put out my hand to feel him; he was breathing faintly. I reached down a foot to the water and sprinkled it on his face. He heaved a sigh which, light though it was, sounded like a deep groan in the thick, heavy atmosphere.

I heard the tap—tap—tap—tap—tap of "attention," and tried to answer, but had not enough strength. My face felt suffused with blood and I could hear the pulsations of my heart. They seemed to become more rapid, faster—faster—faster, and I counted no more.

I can indistinctly remember, however, a more violent crash, and being violently forced through a narrow aperture.

* * * * * * * *

When I recovered my senses and recollection I was in bed, with my gray-haired mother bending over me and asking how I felt? I tried to move, but shooting pains went through my whole body. I looked at my hands; they were covered with strips of plaster.

I was about to interrogate my mother when the telegraph operator stepped in, and, seeing that I was convalescent, began, without questioning (he always was rather garrulous), to acquaint me with the particulars.

"You see," he said, "we did not miss you till after the hurry and confusion incident to the explosion—by which the fireman was killed and the engineer badly hurt—were over. Then, in the evening, when all three of you were missed, they started in search of you. I was away and did not return till the evening of Saturday, when I at once ordered a re-search as far as we were able, for the water was not over all the gangways. We supposed that you must have taken refuge in the farther end of the mine, and we went as far as the water would allow us, and were just giving up the search when I recollected the air-way, where we found you and afterward heard your picks. You remember the conversation by telegraph?"

I nodded, though I could but indistinctly recall it.

"Well, then," he continued, "we got as large a force as we could to work, made a blast, and afterward heard nothing from you whatever. Then we worked on vigorously, and when we thought we had gone far enough put in a slight blast, which broke a hole, through which a gust of air and water came, shooting you and the superintendent violently into the water in the air-way and extinguishing all our lamps. We brought you to the surface as soon as possible, carried you with trouble through the crowd—for there must have been nearly five thousand people on the ground, as the news had spread, and our conversation through the coal had been in every paper in the Union. Intense interest had been excited, and hourly telegrams were sent away from here."

I asked about the superintendent. "He is able to walk around, but has no remembrance of anything which occurred in those three days." "And the mining-boss?" "Poor fellow!"—here he pointed to the graveyard, which was in view of my window. "He weighed but 125 pounds when we found him—he must have lost 70 pounds of blood."

I am now ten years older than when this happened, but should I live fifty more the remembrance would be as distinct as it is now of my Three Days Underground.

Rewarding Brave Men.

The New York World says: A gallant deed has just been fitly honored by the War Department, which has presented medals to Sergt. Woodhull, privates Harrington and Roth, and scouts Chapman and Dixon, of Gen. Miles' command. The six men were surprised by one hundred and twenty Indians, who poured a volley upon them, stampeding their horses and wounding every one of their number, one fatally. Digging a shallow trench with their knives in the sandy soil, they held their savage assailants at bay till night time, when the latter withdrew, carrying off some fifteen of their number killed. Several times the soldiers had to use their revolvers to repel the charges of their foes, always reserving one cartridge for the purpose of suicide should they be overpowered. The dying man, though unable to handle a rifle, propped himself upright in the trench lest the knowledge of his being disabled should encourage the Indians. The long fight, too, was made under a chilling rain; that, however, furnished them with water, though they drank mingled with it their own blood. Food they had none. So gallant and chivalrous a resistance merited nothing less than the high praise of Gen. Miles in his dispatches, and the recognition of the War Department just chronicled.

A Snake in His Boots.

A few mornings ago, Joe Niles, of North Bennington, pulled on his boot, which he had set out in the woodshed the evening before. He says he "felt something kinder cold and squashy-like about his toes, and couldn't think what the plague had got intew his boots," but he went out and milked five or six cows. When he got back to the house his toes kept "tickling so he couldn't stand it," so he took off his boot, run in his hand, and pulled out a brown snake two feet long, that he had shoved into the toe of his boot. Joe don't put his boots in the woodshed any more, and sends a ferret down into them every morning to make sure that no unwelcome visitor has crawled in over night. —Troy Press.

The latest American tourist in Europe took a notion to buy a sealskin cloak for his wife. On nearing New York it occurred to him that it would be a fine piece of economy to avoid paying the duties on it. Accordingly he asked a female acquaintance on board to put it on and wear it ashore as her own. She was only too happy to accommodate. She wore it ashore accordingly, but she omitted to meet the gentleman afterward, and so the wife of a prominent manufacturer of Springfield will have to go without her sealskin this winter.

In the time of Pope Pelagius II. a plague raged at Rome of so fatal a nature that people seized with it died sneezing and gaping, whence came the custom of saying "God bless you!" when a person sneezes, and of Roman Catholics making the sign of the cross upon the mouth when any one gapes.

How Old Jim Drayton "Swore Off."

He came up town last night to drink the old year out and the new year in. There are men who can remember when he had a cottage of his own; when he was well-dressed and had a frank, honest face; when his children went to Sunday school and his wife was well clothed and carried a happy face. Old Jim found himself going down the hill, and almost in a year he had changed from a hard working, respectable man to a ragged, lazy sot, and no effort on the part of those who loved him could stop his descent. His home went, his furniture went, good clothes and happy faces disappeared, and wretchedness and poverty moved into the old tenement-house on Beaubienstreet with him.

Do you remember when his child was run over and killed? Old Jim was dead drunk while the body lay in the house. Were you ever at the Central Station Court when he was sent up for drunkenness or for beating his wife? Have you never seen him sleeping his drunken sleep in the alley? Haven't you heard the police speak of "Old Jim Drayton?" A red, wicked face, having not one soft line in it—red eyes looking stupidly and vacantly at you—a battered hat—ragged clothes—you surely must have met him at some time.

Old Jim meant to have a big drunk. That was a good way to wind the old year up. He had been drunk Thanksgiving—he had staggered home drunk Christmas night, and when the boys were heard wishing that Santa Claus had not passed them by the father became angered and beat them. The bar-keeper knew him as he entered the saloon and called for drinks. He had called there dozens of times before, and his face was as familiar as the sight of the big decanter from which he poured his drink.

"Wait a minute," said the bar-keeper, who was wiping off the bar; and old Jim sat down at one of the tables.

Two young men came in and sat down near him. Jim was in the shadow, and they did not know who it was. As they drank their beer they spoke of the dying year, and of their resolves to break off some of their bad habits, and finally one of them said:

"Some one was saying that old Jim Drayton had cut his throat!"

"It's good news, if true," replied the other. "No one will miss the old sot—not even his family. His wife and children are in rags, his home hasn't a comfort, and if he'd only die folks would feel like helping them. He's the lowest drunkard in Detroit!"

"Yes; I've often wondered why he didn't jump into the river," rejoined the other. "If I ever get as low and ragged and mean as old Jim Drayton I'll shoot myself!"

Old Jim heard every word. If he had had a glass of whisky down he'd have leaped up and cursed them, but he was sober—as sober as he had ever been for ten years, and he made no move. Was he low and mean? Did everybody feel that way toward him? Did everybody notice his poor old house, his ragged children, his red face and watery eyes? Did men speak to each other of his degradation, his neglect of his family—would his death be good news to the public?

"Do you want whisky or gin?" asked the bartender, but old Jim did not hear him. He had leaned back against the wall, pulled his hat over his eyes and was thinking. Drink had robbed him of his honest look; his frank tone and his strength and skill, but it had not robbed him of his memory. He could go back over the decade and remember his pleasant home, his happy family and his own honest, independent feeling. Shame came with memory. He had not got so low but words could strike him.

Two or three other men came in, and while they were drinking one of them asked:

"Isn't that old Jim Drayton in the corner?"

"Yes, that's the old sot," answered another.

"Wonder if he isn't going to swear off—ha! ha! ha!" laughed the third.

The words stung old Jim again. They called up something of his old spirit, and he sprang out of his chair and exclaimed:

"Yes, I am going to swear off!"

"You swear off—YOU—ha! ha! ha!" laughed the men.

"But I will! I know I'm a drunkard, and that I'm ragged and low, but I can reform."

"That's good!" they laughed, "biggest thing out! Old Jim Drayton swearing off—ha, ha!"

"I will—with God's help, I WILL!" he replied, striking the bar with his fist.

Their shouts of laughter followed him as he went out, but they strengthened his sudden resolution. He walked directly home. He stopped for a moment at the gate and wondered why he had never before noticed how gloomy and wretched and lonesome the old hovel looked. It was a fit home for a drunkard and a wife-beater. He opened the gate, paused, then turned and went to the grocery on the corner, and with the money he meant to get drunk on he purchased a few little toys for the children, and returned and entered his desolate house. He stood on the floor for an instant and looked around at the bare and battered walls, the bare floors, the wretchedness and poverty. His wife crept away, fearing his drunken wrath. He knew what moved her, and it cut him like a knife.

"Mary, come here!" he said, as he closed the door and held out his hand; "I'm not drunk to-night!"

She slowly approached him, wondering if drink had not crazed him.

"Mary!" he said as he clasped her hand, "I haven't drank a drop to-night!"

"Oh, James!" she sobbed, breaking right down in an instant.

"They call me old Jim Drayton; say I'm a sot; wonder why I don't die; say I can't reform," he went on, "but I'm going to stop drinking—I have stopped!"

She put her arms around his neck, but could not speak.

"From to-night, as long as I live, I'll be James Drayton again—sober—steady—a kind husband and a good father! Go and wake up the children, Mary, and let us all pray together!"

"Is father going to kill us?" they whispered as they were aroused from their wretched beds.

"No—no—he's sober—he's going to be good again!" she sobbed.

At midnight the voice of prayer, broken by sobs, was heard in the old hovel, and old Jim Drayton, kneeling at his chair said:

"Mary—children—may heaven help me to be a better man!"

So may it.—Detroit Free Press.

PECK OF TROUBLE.

A College Professor Robbed of Forty Thousand Dollars.

Prof. William G. Peck, of Columbia College, rushed into the Twenty-first precinct station house at noon yesterday, and said that he wanted to see Captain McElwaine immediately, as he had just been robbed of $40,000. Prof. Peck was very much agitated, and informed Capt. McElwaine that a chest containing family plate worth $1,000, and certificates of deposit and other securities valued at $40,000 had been carried out of his residence, No. 126 East Thirty-fifth street, by two young men. Capt. McElwaine proceeded to the Professor's residence to work the case up, and obtained the statement of a colored servant, who said that while sitting in the kitchen window she saw Master Henry Peck, son of the Professor, nineteen years old, come in by the hall door, accompanied by two youths of about the same age. She heard them walking overhead in the parlor, and then heard them apparently go up stairs to young Peck's room. She next heard the hall door open, and saw the two young men carry a chest down the stoop. She went out, saw that they turned down Madison avenue to Thirty-fourth street, and on looking up saw young Peck watching them from the window of his room. On re-entering the house she met young Peck in the hall-way going out, and asked him what chest it was that his friends carried out. He told her to mind her —— business and he would mind his. This excited the servant's suspicion, and she watched him leave the house and proceed in the same direction as the two young men who carried the chest. She informed another servant of the affair, and the latter on going to the extension-room of studio, behind the parlors, saw that the plate-chest had been stolen. The family were at church, but the servants called Prof. Peck and his father-in-law, Prof. Davis, out of the church and informed them of the affair. Capt. McElwaine ascertained that young Peck was keeping company with a dressmaker, and calling on the young lady, obtained from her a picture of Master Henry Peck. Seven officers were detailed to search the city for him, but shortly before 6 o'clock he returned to his father's house alone. Capt. McElwaine was notified, but on arriving at the house found that Prof. Davis and Prof. Peck were not disposed to take any action in the case or prosecute young Peck. The latter said he knew nothing about the chest and denied everything. While working on the case Capt. McElwaine obtained possession of a list of debts by young Peck. On this list, which amounted in all to $268, James Oxley figured for $86, "Seddons Mouse" was credited with $55, while "Owney" Geohegan, "Paddy the Smasher," and other sporting and notorious persons were similarly mentioned. At latest writing Prof. Peck had not recovered his property. The family refused to make any of the details of the case public.—New York Times.

A California Lion Carries Off a Child.

The Green Valley (Cal.) Union tells this story: Some time since a resident of Grass Valley had occasion to go to Siskiyou county, and, while traveling over Mount Shasta, he saw four large California lions. Not knowing much of their savage characteristics, he stopped his horse and gazed at them. They looked at him for some time, and then turned and slowly trotted away. He had no weapons, and had they been hungry he would not have returned to tell his expedition. When he came to a stopping place that night he told of his adventure, when one of the residents there told him that one of those lions had a short time before stolen a child under the following circumstances: The mother of the child had occasion to do some washing, and for this purpose she had to go into the inclosure that surrounded the back door. She placed the child—a girl about eighteen months old—on the ground, and gave it some playthings to amuse itself with, while she busied herself with her work, with her back to the child. A few minutes after this she heard a scream from the child, and turned just in time to see a full-grown California lion leaping over the fence with the unfortunate child in its mouth. The mother fainted, and no one else being near, she lay in this condition for some time. When she recovered, an alarm was raised, and pursuit made, but no trace could be found of the lost child. Our friend began to tremble in his boots at the recital, and rather regretted his daring "to beard the lion in his den." The lions are particularly bold, and the settlers are kept in constant fear all the time.

A SLEEPING DOG.—A curious case of prolonged somnolence in an animal is at present interesting the medical fraternity of Paris. The object is a spaniel dog which has lain in an unbroken slumber since the 11th of last November. He fell asleep after a day of unusual excitement and fatigue, having been out hunting with his master, and all attempts since to wake him have failed. He is nourished by means of enemas. This case has excited considerable attention from being the first on record of such somnolence in an animal, though instances of the kind among human beings are by no means unknown.

THE English Postoffice pays. The receipts for 1873 amounted to $26,740,000, the expenditure at the same time was $18,965,000, leaving a surplus of no less than $7,775,000. There are 42,000 persons employed in the department, of whom many are women, this number including 12,500 Postmasters, 9,000 clerks, and about 20,000 sorters, carriers and messengers.

CENTER of gravity—a Quaker meeting.

WARMOTH.

His Own Account of His Affray with Daniel C. Byerly, in New Orleans.

Several days ago I published a courteous letter in the daily papers in answer to a proposition made by the Bulletin to re-establish Star cars upon the city railroads. This letter showed that the Conservative party did not sanction that recommendation; that it was both injudicious and unwise. I took the letter to the Bulletin office myself, and saw both Mr. Byerly the manager, and Mr. Jewell, one of the editors. Mr. Jewell objected strongly to its sentiments, and Mr. Byerly told me, "Governor, if you publish that letter we will ruin you." Before leaving I said, "Gentlemen, disagree with me as much as you choose, dispute and controvert my sentiments and I won't complain, but don't attack me personally." The next day the Bulletin contained a violent and abusive personal attack upon me. The same evening an anonymous letter also appeared abusing me outrageously. The next morning's (Thursday) issue came out with a column and a half leader charging me with all kinds of political enormities, among others with being the father of the Printing bill. The next day I published a card showing that Mr. Jewell had offered to vote for the Printing bill, providing he received $50,000 worth of printing for the paper he then edited. Early next morning (Christmas) I was waited upon by two friends of Mr. Jewell, who demanded an abject apology. This I promptly refused, whereupon they asked me if I would meet Mr. Jewell. This proposition I assented to, provided the meeting be an amicable one. [illegible] did not press this very strongly, [illegible] ever, but afterward asked if I w[illegible] accept a challenge from Mr. Jewell. I replied that it would be time enough to answer that question when the challenge had been received. They then retired, and in about twenty minutes they returned, bringing me a peremptory challenge. I informed them that I would reply through my friends at 8 o'clock that night. I did so, accepting the cartel and naming dueling pistols at ten paces as my weapon, the time being fixed for Monday morning, and the place at a convenient point in an adjacent State, the seconds to meet and make all concluding arrangements for the affair to-day. At half-past 10 o'clock this morning I left my house and went to the office of my lawyer, Judge Howe, where I spent some time making arrangements in relation to my will, and afterward started to go to the mortgage office in the same connection. On my way up Canal street, near the corner of Royal, I met Byerly, who suddenly struck me over the head with a heavy cane. I raised my left arm, over which my overcoat was hanging, in defense, when the blow was twice repeated. Byerly then seized me and we both fell, he on top. While in this position I drew from my pocket a small pocket-knife, which I opened and used I don't know how many times. The bystanders then ran in, disarmed me, and pulled off my assailant, when I sprang to my feet and we separated.

Barrel Making by Machinery.

The New York Tribune says that the strike of the coopers in Brooklyn early this year led to the establishment of a steam cooper shop in that city, which gives employment to over 200 hands, and turns out over 2,500 sugar barrels daily. The demand for the barrels made by steam has been so great that the manufactory is being extended to occupy the whole of one block and half of another, and when completed it will be able to turn out 6,000 barrels a day. The staves are cut by machinery, of two widths and uniform length. When they are "stood up" in the frame they fit together so well that the last stave has to be driven into its place with a hammer, but does not need to be trimmed. The rough barrels, having had hoops fastened around each end, are put in furnaces and heated, and are then rolled by two disks, which press equally on each of the ends and force the staves homes. The barrels are then taken to the trimming machine, which cuts off the rough ends, gives them the proper level, and cuts the grooves for the heads. The wooden hoops having been nailed on and one head put in place, the barrels are finished. The heads are cut by machinery in Michigan, and are formed of three pieces. They are so uniform in size that there is no trouble about fitting them to the barrels at the manufactory. Flour barrels can be made by the same process.

Letters to Santa Claus.

Several letters deposited in the Richmond Postoffice, evidently written by children, plainly indicated that they, anticipating the annual visit of Santa Claus, wished to remind him of what they most desired. One of them was directed "Santa Claus, Greenland, North Pole." Another was directed as follows: "Santa Claus, sleigh drawn by eight reindeers." An open letter directed simply "Santa Claus," reads as follows: "Mr. Santa Claus, a big wagon—not so very big—four wheels, two packs pop-crackers, a Mother Hubbard book. Willmer." "Nellie wants a carriage and a baby and some candy. I wants a baby and candy, a little story-book. Isabella."

A VILE SLANDER ON THE SEX.—It is in this underhanded way that an Arizona paper seeks to disparage the taste of the average American woman: "Last Saturday a young Indian, one of the fanciest-dressed of his tribe, came to town with the wages of a week's work in his pocket and sought out the different stores to find some article that would add to his fine appearance. He examined many styles of colors and scarfs, handkerchiefs and blankets. By and by his fancy was arrested at the sight of a new style hat. It was just exactly what he wanted—a hat with a feather and bird in it. He bought it eagerly, and went of happy in the possession of—a lady's hat of the period."

DOWN in New Jersey they have discovered a new system of bribery of the State Legislature. Several of the members have received a polite intimation that rooms have been engaged at a leading hotel in Trenton, and that one of the leading candidates for the Senatorship will be pleased to have him occupy the apartments at his expense.

REMARKABLE RECOVERY.

Sudden Cure of a Man Who Had Been Deaf and Dumb for Nine Months.

About nine months ago a young man named George Hansen was seriously ill in this city with typhoid fever, and when he recovered it was with the total loss of his hearing and his power of speech. This terrible calamity rendered him almost wild, and for a time the contemplation of the termination of his life was not an unfrequent thing with him.

Through the exertions of friends Mr. Hansen was employed to assist in copying the records of the Sixth Ward of Hastings. Last Saturday night Mr. Hansen complained to his room-mate, Mr. W. Hoyt, that he felt a very unpleasant pressing in his throat and a painful buzzing in his head. He had the whiskers shaved from his chin, and tried various applications, but they were of no avail—the pressure continued and the buzzing did not diminish in the least. Hoyt continued with him till about 11 o'clock at night. During this time, when Mr. Hansen obtained some temporary relief from the pain and suffering, he wrote on his slate that he felt that his speech would that night be restored to him or he would die.

About 8 o'clock Sunday morning, after he had recovered from a terrible spasm occasioned by the pain, he asked Hoyt to take a tube that had been used to inject a kind of powder into his throat, put it to his ear, and speak in an ordinary tone. He did so, when Hansen replied in a natural voice, though without knowing that he had heard or spoken. He complained of the buzzing and cracking in his head, though the pain seemed to be decreasing.

A little while after this Mr. Hoyt left the room, and was absent several minutes, and during his absence Hansen had one of the severest attacks that he had been suffering, and during its continuance he discharged considerable offensive matter from his throat. From this discharge he received instant and complete relief to the pressure in his throat and to the buzzing in his head, and when his companion, Mr. Hoyt, entered the room he was astonished by being greeted by Hansen exclaiming, "Well, Hoyt, how are you?"

The restoration was so complete, so sudden, and so unexpected that both Hansen and his companion hardly knew what to make of it, and could hardly realize that it was a fact.—St. Paul Pioneer.

Leaving Out the Jokes.

Some people are bright enough to enjoy a good joke, but do not have retentive memories, so as [illegible] be able to repeat it to others. Failures of this kind are sometimes very ludicrous. We give some good specimens.

The most famous of this class was the college professor, who, on parting with a student that had called on him, noticed that he had a new coat, and remarked that it was too short. The student, with an air of resignation, replied: "It will be long enough before I get another." The professor enjoyed the joke heartily, and going to a meeting of the college faculty just afterward, he entered the room in great glee, and said: "Young Sharp got off such a joke just now. He called on me a little while ago, and as he was leaving I noticed his new coat, and told him it was too short, and he said, 'It will be a long time before I get another.'" No one laughed, and the professor sobering down, remarked: "It doesn't seem as funny as when he said it."

A red-haired lady who was ambitious of literary distinction found but poor sale for her book. A gentleman, in speaking of her disappointment, said: "Her hair is red (read), if her book is not." An auditor, in attempting to relate the joke elsewhere, said: "She has red hair if her book hasn't."

The most unfortunate attempt at reproducing another's wit was made by an Englishman who didn't understand the pun, but judged from the applause with which it was greeted that it must be excellent. During a dinner at which he was a guest, a waiter let a boiled tongue slip off the plate on which he was bearing it, and it fell on the table. The host at once apologized for the mishap as a "lapsus linguæ" (slip of the tongue(. The joke was the best thing at the dinner, and our friend concluded to bring it up at his own table. He accordingly invited his company and instructed a servant to let fall a roast of beef as he was bringing it to the table. When the "accident" occurred, he exclaimed: "That's a 'lapsus linguæ.'" Nobody laughed, and he said again, "I say that's a lapsus linguæ," and still no one laughed. A screw was loose somewhere; so he told about the tongue falling, and they did laugh.

"Why is this," said a waiter, holding up a common cooking utensal, "more remarkable than Napoleon Bonaparte? Because Napoleon was a great man, but this is a grater." When the funny man reproduced it in his circle, he asked the question right, but answered it, "Because Napoleon was a great man, but this is a nutmeg grater."

ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF AN ARMLESS WOMAN.—An English paper giver an account of the armless woman of Jevington, who was married recently. It says she is a very good reader, writes very nicely and rapidly, is a member of the parish church, and has learned to play upon a concertina, her feet, and especially the left foot, taking the place of hands. Among other things, she manages to do fine needle work and fancy embroidery, which she offers for sale. She is a skillful cook, and dresses herself completely with very little aid. Most of her work is performed sitting on the ground.

THE rabbit forms an important article of food in Great Britain and Ireland. In addition to the very large number imported from the Continent, it is estimated there are annually bred for foor 27,000,000 rabbits. The flesh is sold at an average rate of twelve cents (gold) per pound, which is fully a third less than the price of beef, and considerably under that of the choicer portions of the sheep. The value of the annual supply is estimated to be $7,875,000.

All Sorts.

OVER sixty nations now burn Pennsylvania coal oil.

JOHN BRIGHT will, it is reported, visit this country next year.

A CHINAMAN and an Irishman run a candy store in partnership in New York.

THE membership of Plymouth Church is made up of 1,504 females and 886 males.

COLORADO and Wyoming are doubtless the most wonderful fossil fields on the globe.

ACCORDING to Punch, Gladstone has abandoned the works of Homer for those of Pope.

IT cost a Denver sport $48 to cut off the pig-tail ornament of a Celestial resident in that city.

J. S. CLARKE is the only American comedian who has successfully played English comedy on English soil.

"AND now," complains the Omaha Bee, "the barbarians of the East refer to our female population as 'Omahens.'"

A TERRE HAUTE newspaper begs the policemen of Indianapolis, when they visit T. H. for "a big drunk," to leave their uniforms behind them.

IT is the opinion of the Galveston News that the trade between that city and the New West in tropical fruits is destined to be very important.

A LETTER in the New York Tribune says: "Papa has given us three cents a day for not sucking our thumbs. We send $1 for a child in Kansas."

CINCINNATI people spent $8,000,000 a year for intoxicating drinks, and still are greatly troubled to know how to keep the poor of the city from starving.

THE Rev. Florence McCarthy, of Chicago, counts 50,000 conflicting readings in the New Testament, and says that "we are at the mercy of the translators."

"LORD, what a cow!" was the approving remark of a teetotal Judge of Vermont, after swallowing a potent punch which had been offered him as a glass of milk.

DR. JOHN HALL says that in England people are divided into churchmen and dissenters, but that in America they might properly be divided into churchmen and absenters.

THE government of France is enormous, consisting of 1,500,000 soldiers, 150,000 clergymen, and 650,000 office-holders, making a total of 2,300,000 rulers of less than 40,000,000 people.

ENGLISH and German architects frequently visit the ancient Greek temples of Pasturn and return filled with praises of the Grecian beauties. For modern building purposes, however, they are pronounced useless.

M. HURQUERLOT left $120,000 to the city of Paris to found a railroad school; but as the same was insufficient for the purpose, and the city had no funds to put with it into railroad schools, the money was reluctantly sent back to the heirs.

A LETTER from Hardyville, Arizona, says the tide of emigration is steadily increasing. All agree that a great rush is near at hand. The great point of attraction now is the Sandy country. Towns and cities are talked of, and quartz mills, new roads, ferries, and stage lines, are among the improvements of the day.

THIS is rattlesnake season in Texas. A letter from there says: "Thirty-one rattlesnakes were caught and caged at Elgin during the last cold spell. Two sink-holes were attacked, and thirteen taken from one, and eight from the other. They measured from three to five feet, and some of them had as many as nine rattles."

THE total length of the railroads of the world, taken from statistics of recent date, are as follows:

	Kilos.	Eng. Miles.
Europe	130,588	81,093.28
Asia	9,741	6,049.16
Africa	1,802	1,119.04
America	126,343	78,459 00
Australia	2,287	1,420.22
Total	270,751	168,140.70

DR. LINCECUM, who died in Washington county, Texas, recently had played the Scottish air of "Killiecrankie" every Christmas morning at daybreak, standing barefooted in his night-clothes in the doorway, for fifty-eight years. He died in his 83d year.

WHAT THE MUD OF PARIS IS WORTH.—In one of my previous letters I gave an account of the value and the destination of the dead leaves of Paris. I have just learned what the mud of Paris is worth. In its crude state it is valued at $120,000 per annum, but when prepared for manure it sells at prices ranging from 60 cents to $1 for a cubic yard, and is worth $600,000 for the annual product. The bidders to whom it is adjudged must pay for sweeping the streets, and for removing all accumulated filth, under the surveillance of the authorities. Several thousand persons are employed in that service. In 1823 the Paris dirt was sold for 75,000 francs ($15,000); in 1831 the purchasers paid over $31,000; in 1845 the value had risen to $100,000.—Paris Cor. Philadelphia Press.

APPLY THE REMEDY.—It appears that we need no longer be tormented with Liver, Kidney, Bladder, and Glandular Diseases, Mental and Physical Debility, Partial Paralysis, Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Dyspepsia and Morbic Humors of the Blood. DR. WALKER'S VEGETABLE VINEGAR BITTERS conquers the causes of all of the above irregularities by securing perfect digestion, a proper flow of bile, and a free discharge of all waste matter. It is not a vile, doctored whisky, gotten up to deceive the public and tickle the palate. It is a medicine to the sick stomach, the relaxed nervous system, the weak circulating blood, and the overworked, prostrated brain. An infant may take it, and to children afflicted with worms, and even adults who suffer from this cause, ignorant of the fact—and their numbers are millions—it is the greatest remedy of the age. Take one bottle and you will be satisfied that this is no catch-penny nostrum. 17

A MATERIAL reduction of rates has recently been made by the Sherman House, Chicago. Its proprietors are determined that it shall continue to be the most popular hotel in Chicago with business men and the traveling public in general, and they are accomplishing their purpose.

THE manufacture of glove-leather from tripe is said to have been accomplished in France.

The Road to Health.

Cleanse the stomach, bowels and blood from all the acrid, corrupt and offensive accumulations which produce functional derangement, and you remove the cause of most diseases which afflict the human family, and thus save large doctors' bills. The most effectual and reliable remedy for this purpose is found in Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. No cheap wood or paper boxes, but kept fresh and reliable in vials.

High livers, those indulging in ease and pleasure, and those of sedentary habits, can prevent Boils, Carbuncles, Gout, Red Skin, Eruptions, Pimples, Constipation, Piles, Drowsiness, Biliousness, and other conditions induced by such habits, by taking from four to six of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets once a week, or, better still, one or two each night. They are sold by dealers in medicines.

WILHOFT'S ANTI-PERIODIC OR FEVER AND AGUE TONIC.—This invaluable and standard family medicine is now a household word, and maintains its reputation unimpaired. It is indorsed by the medical profession, and prescribed daily in the Charity Hospital and other hospitals in New Orleans. Wilhoft's Tonic is thus highly recommended by the leading medical men of the country, and is worthy of such indorsement. WHEELOCK, FINLAY & CO., Proprietors, New Orleans. FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

WORTHY OF NOTE.—An exchange says there is scarcely a day passes that we do not hear, either from persons coming into our office or in some other way, of the success of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment in the cure of coughs and colds, so prevalent about town just now.

MOST people like to hear of a good thing. We will tell them in confidence that, if they want to be dressed well, they should wear the Warwick Collar. An old adage says that with a nice collar and clean boots a man always looks well dressed. Remember the Warwick.

IF we can benefit the readers of this paper any by recommending Parsons' Purgative Pills to be the best anti-bilious medicine in the country, we are willing to do so. We have had about as good a chance to know as any one.

ECONOMY, comfort, looks, all combine to make SILVER-TIPPED Shoes indispensable for children. Try them. Never wear through at the toe.

THE NORTHWESTERN HORSE-NAIL CO.'s "Finished" Nail is the best in the world.

SOMETHING FOR YOU.—Send stamp and get it. Free to all. Address HURST & CO., 75 Nassau street, New York.

MONEY made rapidly with Stencil & Key-Check Outfits. Catalogues, samples & full particulars free. S. M. Spencer, 117 Hanover-st., Boston.

17.50 per day made by our agents selling staple articles used in every family. Address H. H. Miller & Co., 164 Randolph-st., Chicago.

ADVERTISERS! Send 25 cents to GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., 41 Park Row, New York, for their Pamphlet of 100 pages, containing lists of 3000 newspapers and estimates showing cost of advertising.

AGENTS WANTED—Men or women. $34 a week or $100 forfeited. The secret free. Write at once to COWEN & CO., 8th St., New York.

$25 PER DAY Commission or $30 a week Salary and expenses. We offer it and will pay it. Apply now. G. Webber & Co., Marion, O.

$1,000 PER WEEK CAN BE MADE by any smart man who can keep his business to himself. Address D. F. HERMANN, Hoboken, New Jersey.

"A ROUND THE TEA TABLE," a new subscription book, by Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, author of "Crumbs Swept Up," &c. Agents wanted. JOHN E. MILLER & CO., Publishers, Chicago, Ill.

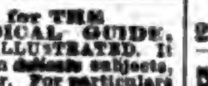
$250 A MONTH—Agents wanted everywhere. Business honorable and first-class. Particulars sent free. Address WORTH & Co., St. Louis, Mo.

The sales of Dr. S. B. Deane's German Liver Powders are said to more than equal that of any other family medicine. For sale by all Druggists. Price, per dozen, 50 cts.; per gross, $4.50. Orders may be sent to 186 South Halsted St., Chicago, Ill. This remedy cures Liver Complaint, Swelled Liver, Dyspepsia, Headache, Languor and Debility. All complaints arising from Deranged Liver are relieved at once by this German remedy.

The Miller and Millwright.

A monthly journal of 16 pages. Every Miller and Millwright should take it. Add's SIMPSON & GAULT, Cincinnati, O. $1 per annum. Send for sample copy.

RIFLES, SHOT-GUNS, PISTOLS, REVOLVERS,



Of any and every kind. Send stamp for Catalogue. Address Great Western Gun and Pistol Works, PITTSBURGH, PA.

2000 Agents Wanted for THE LADIES' MEDICAL GUIDE, By the eminent Dr. PANCOAST, ILLUSTRATED. It is high-toned and complete upon delicate subjects, and hence is immensely popular. For particulars and terms, address HUBBARD BROS., Publishers, either Philadelphia, Boston, or Cincinnati.

BOOK AGENTS get Best Book and Best Terms. Send for circulars. "Cyclopedia of Things Worth Knowing, or 25,000 Wants Supplied." The King of Receipt Books. 16-color Chromo free. CO-OPERATIVE PUBLISHING CO., Muscatine, Iowa.

ADVERTISERS

Who desire to reach country readers can do so in the best and cheapest manner by using one or more sections of THE GREAT NEWSPAPER AUXILIARY LISTS. Apply to E. E. PRATT, 79 Jackson-st., Chicago.

OPIUM MORPHINE HABIT speedily cured by Dr. Beck's only known & sure Remedy. NO CHARGE for treatment until cured. Call on or address DR. J. C. BECK, Cincinnati, O.

PROF. SWING, the eloquent speaker, is publishing an exceedingly interesting story in The Chicago Alliance in addition to his sermons and editorials. All who appreciate "good things" cannot afford to miss it. The Alliance is only $2.00 per year. Sample 3 cents. Address ALLIANCE, Chicago.

ADVERTISERS.

The American Newspaper Union numbers over 1,000 papers, separated into seven subdivisions. For separate lists and cost of advertising, address S. P. SANBORN, 114 Monroe St., Chicago.

ENGRAVING, DIE SINKING, SEAL AND STENCIL CUTTING. S. D. CHILDS, JR. & CO., 115 Franklin St., CHICAGO.

SENT FREE

A Book exposing the mysteries of WALL-ST. and how any one may operate successfully with a capital of $50 or $1000. Complete instructions and illustrations to any address. TUMBRIDGE & CO., BANKERS AND BROKERS, 2 Wall Street, New York.

HOG RINGER.

15,000,000 Rings, 70,000 Ringers, 8,500 Tongs Sold. Hardware Dealers Sell Them. Ringer $1, Rings per 100 50cts, Tongs $1.25, by mail, post paid. Circulars free. Address H. W. Hill & Co. Decatur, Ill.

THE BEST in the World. It Gives Universal satisfaction. WONDERFUL Economy. 40 lbs. more Bread to bbl. Flour. SAVES MILK, EGGS, &c. A year's savings will buy a cow. NO MORE SOUR BREAD. Whiter, lighter, sweeter, richer. EVERYBODY Praises it. The ladies are all in love with it. SELLS like HOT CAKES. Send at once for Circular to GEO. F. GANTZ & CO., 176 Duane St., New York.

FASHIONS! "Smith's Illustrated Pattern Bazaar." The only Magazine that IMPORTS STYLES and SELLS Patterns of them. Only $1.10 a year, with a splendid premium. BIG OFFER. TWO of SMITH'S INSTANT DRESS ELEVATORS, and the Pattern of this beautiful OVERSKIRT, with Cloth Model, will be given FREE, as a Premium, to the person who will CUT THIS OUT, and send it with their subscription to the "BAZAAR." No postage on the Magazine next year! "GRANGERS!" send for our terms. Single copy, 25 cts. "Smith's Instruction Book, or Secrets of Dress-making," 10 Cents. Catalogue mailed for one Stamp.

Address, very plain,

A. BURDETTE SMITH,
P. O. Box 5055. 914 Broadway, New York City.

A LARGE ENGRAVING GIVEN EVERY TWO MONTHS, OR SIX ENGRAVINGS A YEAR TO EVERY SUBSCRIBER OF

THE NEW YORK FIRESIDE COMPANION.

PROSPECTUS FOR 1875.

THE NEW YORK FIRESIDE COMPANION stands at the head of all the weekly papers published in the United States. Its circulation is equal to that of the most widely circulated journals in the world.

The great feature of The New York Fireside Companion is Good Continued Stories. It contains the sweetest and purest love stories. It has the largest list of popular story writers, and constantly offers better stories than any other paper. Our readers will bear witness to our unwearied efforts in securing the best writers. During 1875 we hope to furnish a greater number of good stories and a greater amount of good matter of all descriptions, than has ever been given before. As a Family Paper, The New York Fireside Companion is without a peer. At least Six Continued Stories will be published constantly, and a new story will be commenced about every second week, so that new readers will be able to get the beginning of a story of the newsdealers, or of us, no matter at what time they may subscribe. Back numbers can always be had, containing the commencement of every story.

The following is a partial list of our Contributors for 1875.

OLIVER OPTIC, DR. JOHN B. WILLIAMS, TONY PASTOR, PETROLEUM V. NASBY, CLARA PERCY, LUCY RANDALL COMFORT, MRS. SUMNER HAYDEN, J. W. MACKEY, P. HAMILTON MYERS, LESLIE THORNE, FRANK COREY, AGILE PENNE, PROF. JAMES DE MILLE, CAPT. CARLETON, MARY GRACE HALPINE, SHIRLEY BROWNE, BRICKTOP, MARY J. WINES, R. W. PEARCE, G. L. AIKEN, G. G. SMALL, ALBERT W. AIKEN, JOHN ELDERKIN, ALLAN DEANE.

No effort is spared to add to the interest and variety of the contents of the paper. Beautiful engravings are distributed to subscribers free as supplements. Early in 1875 we shall publish A New Story by Mrs. Sumner Hayden. A New Story by Agile Penne. A New Story by Oliver Optic, Author of "True to his Aim," etc., etc. A New Story by Tony Pastor, Author of "Old Sleuth, the Detective;" "The Shadow Detective;" "The Lightning Detective," etc. A New Story by Prof. James De Mille, Author of "The Babes in the Wood;" "The Dodge Club;" "Cryptogram;" "Cord and Creese," etc. A New Story by Dr. John B. Williams, Author of "Deadly Foes;" "Fighting for a Fortune;" "Maurice Flint;" "Under a Mask," etc. A New Story by Mrs. Lucy Randall Comfort, Author of "Little Gay, or Disinherited," etc. Humorous Articles by Petroleum V. Nasby. A New Story by Frank Corey, Author of "Sweetheart and Wife," etc.

The paper will have the best Short Stories, Sketches, Poetry, Biography, Fashion Articles, Humor, Gossip, and Notices to Correspondents.

No effort or pains are spared to make the CORRESPONDENTS' COLUMN most attractive and useful to our readers. This department is edited by a gentleman of wide experience and sound judgment, and a vast amount of information is given; answers to questions relating to love and etiquette; legal and medical questions; information for the kitchen and household; in fact, answers to all questions that turn up in life, can be found in this column.

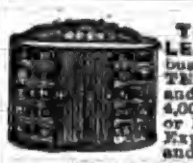
READING FOR LITTLE FOLKS.—This is and will continue to be one of the prominent features of the paper. The contributions to this department are by the very foremost writers for children in the country. This alone makes the FIRESIDE COMPANION invaluable to every household where there are children. We know of instances where the little ones insist upon having these articles read over and over again to them before the paper of the following week is issued.

MUNRO'S GIRLS AND BOYS OF AMERICA.

The largest and most select popular weekly for young folks. It is the only paper which contains the kind of stories which mothers want to read aloud to little ones, and which every father may unhesitatingly place in the hands of his children. It contains a larger amount and variety of good reading for girls and boys than can be had in any other weekly or monthly periodical.

TERMS FOR 1875—NOW IS THE TIME TO SUBSCRIBE. MUNRO'S GIRLS AND BOYS OF AMERICA and THE NEW YORK FIRESIDE COMPANION: One copy of Munro's Girls and Boys of America will be sent for one year to any subscriber in the United States on receipt of $2.50; two copies for $4; or, nine copies for $16. The New York Fireside Companion will be sent for one year on receipt of $3; two copies for $5; or, nine copies for $20. Getters up of Clubs can afterwards add single copies at $2.50 each. We will be responsible for remittances sent in Registered Letters, or by Post Office Money Orders. Both papers sent to one address for $4.50. Postage free. Specimen copies, with pictures, sent free.

GEORGE MUNRO, Publisher, 84 Beekman Street, New York.
P. O. BOX, 5657.



This PATENT CABINET or LETTER FILE is useful to every business man, to keep BILLS, LETTERS or PAPERS always clean and in alphabetical order; holds 4,000 Letters, can be used on a desk or hung to the wall. We prepay Express charges. Send for circular and price list with 1,000 references.

Address C. A. COOK & CO., Chicago, Ill.

FREE Our CATALOGUE For 1875, of FRESH—SEEDS—PURE WESTERN GROWN. Send your name to the largest SEED FARMERS IN THE WEST. GEO. S. HASKELL & CO., Rockford, Ill.

SEEDS.

My ILLUSTRATED SEED CATALOGUE for 1875 is now ready, and will be mailed, FREE OF CHARGE, to all applicants. English and German edition. Address

JOHN KERN,
211 Market Street, St. Louis

State where you saw this advertisement.

SAFE S. H. HARRIS THE BEST

MANUFACTORY AND SALESROOM, 23 & 25 RANDOLPH ST., CHICAGO

WANTED AGENTS $10 PER DAY.

To sell the HOME SHUTTLE SEWING MACHINE. PRICE $25. Reader if you can make money selling the "HOME SHUTTLE," whether you are EXPERIENCED in the business or not. If you wish to buy a SEWING MACHINE for family use, our circulars will show you how to save money. Address JOHNSON, CLARK & Co., CHICAGO, ILL.

AGENTS WANTED for the CENTENNIAL UNITED STATES GAZETTEER. Shows the grand results of our first 100 years. A book for every American. Sells everywhere at sight. Farmers, Teachers, Students, Lawyers, Merchants, School Directors, Manufacturers, mechanics, shippers, Salesmen, men of learning and men who can only read, old and young, all want it for everyday reference and use.

"A whole library."—Boston Globe. "Not a luxury, but a necessity."—Inter-Ocean. "The most recent, complete, trustworthy."—Nation.

The BEST-SELLING BOOK PUBLISHED. Send for Circulars to Ziegler & McCurdy, Chicago, Ill.

FOR NEARLY THIRTY YEARS THE RICHMOND PRINTS have been held in high esteem by those who use a Calico. They are produced in all the novelties of changing fashions, and in conservative styles suited to the wants of many persons. Among the latter are the proper for the house or street—beautiful in designs and pleasing in coloring.

"Standard Gray Styles,"

"CHOCOLATE STANDARD STYLES,"

in great variety, and widely known as most serviceable prints. Nothing better for daily wear. These goods bear tickets as quoted above. Your retailer should have them, and your examination and approval will coincide

L. D. SINE'S
ESTABLISHED 1854.

GIFT ENTERPRISE

The Only Reliable Gift Distribution in the Country!

$75,000.00!

IN VALUABLE PRIZES!

To be Drawn Monday, Feb. 22, 1875.

TWO GRAND CAPITALS OF $5,000 EACH IN CASH!

Agents wanted to sell Tickets, to whom Liberal Premiums will be paid. Single Tickets, $1; Six Tickets, $5; Twelve Tickets, $10; Twenty-five, $20. Circulars containing full information will be sent to any one ordering them. Letters must be addressed to Office, Excelsior Building, Cor. Race & Longworth. L. D. SINE, Box 432, CINCINNATI, O.

VINEGAR BITTERS
VEGETABLE
FREE FROM PURELY
DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
ALCOHOL
VINEGAR BITTERS

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

R. H. McDONALD & CO.,
Druggists and Gen. Agts., San Francisco, California, and cor. of Washington and Charlton Sts., N. Y.
Sold by all Druggists and Dealers.

BECKWITH
PORTABLE FAMILY
SEWING
$25.
MACHINE
DOUBLE THREAD
BECKWITH S. M. CO. NEW YORK & CHICAGO

DR. WHITTIER,
No. 617 St. Charles Street, St. Louis, Mo.

[illegible]

MARRIAGE GUIDE,

[illegible]

MARRIAGE GUIDE [illegible]

C. E. N. No. 6

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

Auburn Courier.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 14th, 1875.

LOUISIANA USURPATION.

We turn back the murky pages of the history of time, and in olden countries read of nations being trodden down by the iron heel of despotism, and their glory being buried in the night of ages: but who ever expected in this boasted land of liberty, on the eve of its centennial existence, to see the chief executive officer of this great country, deliberately put his foot upon the laws, and his heel upon the constitution. But such is the fact, a deed has been done by the President that no excuse can palliate. For the first time in our country's history, armed forces of the United States, acting under orders of the President, have taken possession of the capitol of a State, entered into the chamber of the House of Representatives of Louisiana, expelled some of the members from their seats, broke up the session, and compelled the dissolution of the organization of the House.

Such a high-handed outrage has already been condemned by the leading papers of the country, as well as legislative bodies now in session; and the people are calling meetings, in condemnation of this unwarranted assault upon civil liberty; not political meetings as such, but meetings of American Freemen, who are proud of their birth-place, and feel that such high-handed villiany should be rebuked; and Grant will hear such a thundering indignation from the people, that will make his throne to tremble.

Could Abraham Lincoln's spirit be called back from the tomb, and be made acquainted with all the proceedings against the Southern States since his death; how his great soul would sorrow over the departure from his policy.

When Lee surrendered, President Lincoln took his carpet sack and went down to Richmond, and on the balcony of the hotel, while the tears of joy and forgivness, rolled down his cheeks, said to the Senators and Representatives of the South, "Come Back my Countrymen! your seats are vacant, we are ready to receive you and welcome you with open arms, with all your institutions unimpaired, with the exception ot slavery." It was the general received and expresed opinion of our Statesmen, of both parties at the close of the war, that the Southern States were then in, and a part of the Federal Union.

That war was not made upon the organization of the States, nor upon the constitution or laws of any State, but for the purpose of holding those States, under their organization, in the Federal Union and the people of those States in obedience to the laws of the United States.

Every message of the President, every proclamation, every State paper and every act of Congress proceeded upon the hypothesis that no State could secede from the union. In '63 Mr. Lincoln presented his amnesty and reconstruction policy to Coogress, accompanied by a message. The next year, on several occasions, this policy of amnesty and reconstruction was presented to the people of the South.—The Republican party re-nominated him at the Baltimore Convention, and he was elected upon that policy.

In 1864 in his annual message to Congress, he again brought forward this same policy; and two days before his death he referred to the organization of Louisiana, under his plan of amnesty and reconstruction, and his great desire was that all necessary aid should be given the southern people, in amending their constitutions abolishing slavery; and as soon as the people acted, and amended their State constitution, the work was done and the State was once more in practical relation with the Federal Government.

After Lincoln's death Johnson endeavored to carry out that policy, but war was made against him by the very men that sustained Mr. Lincoln, and a Congressional policy sent armies into the Southern States, deposed ten Governors, and as many Legislatures made ten States subject to military authority, abolished Jurors, disposed of Governors, Judges, Legislators and filled their places with military commanders.

The southern people have been in a great measure forcibly controlled, to perpetuate the power of the tyrant at Washington. His last act of unauthorized usurpation, has sent a wave of indignation all over the country that will rise above partisanship, and sweep the despot from his throne.—Tramp! tramp! the boys are marching; but it is not the tramp of the soldiers, so musical to the President's ear—but the tread of the invincible Democracy, whose banner is love, and whose motto is, Death to Tyrants, and liberty and equal rights to all.

FROM THE CAPITOL.

Organization of the Legislature.

An Army of Office Seekers.

THE SENATORIAL FIGHT.

VOORHEES NOT OUR MAN

DEAR COURIER.—When I left Auburn last week, I was not so sure but that I would be back again in a day or two, as heretofore, all aspirants for positions in the gift of the Legislature who were unfortunate enough to have an abiding place north of the national road, generally returned empty handed. Being somewhat in that role myself, I did not feel over sanguine, but yet determined to create if possible a diversion in power of that part of the State. I found that a persistent effort by a united force would accomplish a good deal. The south part of the State has been successful because it has been united and the north having come to her senses on this point. When I reached the city I found an army of office seekers all ready on hand working up their interests, though I am glad to add, they were largely from the south. It almost made me feel ashamed of myself to be found of this number, and my usual modesty was shocked—how much, those best acquainted with me can judge. However, the die was cast and I was soon in the boiling cauldron. The hotels were full and a writhing struggling mass of humanity was ever present day and night. I found several candidates against me from all points of the compass, but I felt confident because I had numerous influential friends. A single individual in such a contest, no matter what his personal claims might be, would have but a poor show. One by one my competitors gave way in the north, leaving but two in the south. On the evening of the caucus my election was conceded, and from that time forward until sworn in, I was beset with scores of applicants for clerkships which come under the control of the Assistant Clerk.

Just as I felt sure of success, an incident happened which came very near defeating me. The Independent element in the House, some 12 or 15 in number, demanded one of the appointments as a compromise, agreeing, if this was conceded, to act with the Democrats throughout the session. As luck would have it they asked for Asst Clerk. This would have been acceded to in a moment, had it not been for a few of my firm friends of the north, chief among whom were Waterman and Mr. Willett, of Noble county They fought hard against the measure and stood out from the caucus, and would not participate until a motion was passed, agreeing to give the Independents Asst. Clerk of the House, if they would agree to act with the Democrats in organizing the Senate.—They asked until the next day to consider, and I was nominated with this proviso understood. Of course there was no probability of the Independents giving away all the officials of the Senate, for the office of Asst. Clerk of the House, and I felt safe, as it was. The north had but one candidate and the central and north part three.—They were perfectly disinterested when the north was to be sacrificed, but when the office of Doorkeeper was to be given to the Independents, as they at first asked, they were emphatically opposed to compromise.

The result showed that no compromise was necessary, I got 56 votes in the House, against 43, and so did all the others elected.

Hon. David Turpie, of Indianapolis was elected Speaker, S. W. Holmes, of Seymour, Municipal Clerk; T. C. Mays, Assistant Clerk, and T. C. Lewman, Doorkeeper. The Prin. Clerk has nine clerks and the Assistant eight each one appointing and controlling their own.

The Senatorial contest waxes hot, and the two principal candidates, McDonald and Voorhees, are making vigorous fight. McDonald is certainly the stronger man of the two. The Salary Grab is an obstacle in the way of the 'Tall Sycamore, of the Wabash' that he will never surmount. If he could be relieved of this curse no man could hold a candle to him in the race. McDonald is regarded as a safe man, without any particular hobby to interfere with a fair representation of the interests of the people. He will make a good practical Senator, and I belive he is the choice of the popular vote of Indiana. TOM

LATER.

Mr. Voorhees has withdrawn leaving McDonald virtually a clear field.

Govenor's Message.

We are unable to publish the Message, but would say, that it is just such a document as might be expected from one of our ablest statesmen—plain, forcible and easily understood. It gives a full statement of the financial condition of the State, makes suggestions regarding the school system, and the public institutions of the Commonwealth, recomends the building of a State House and an addition to the Insane Asylum; suggests the passage of a law regulating the sale of intoxicating liquors, by imposing a tax or license fee, that should be used as a revenue for the school fund; a reform in the civil service of the State, by establishing fixed salaries, and other compensation prohibited; makes suggestions in regard to railroad freights, apportionment, appraising real estate, local taxation, and finally asks the Legislature to protest and denounce the Louisiana usurpation, as a crime to be detested and not a precedent to be reported.

Grand Fox Hunt.

At a meeting of the citizens of Corunna and vicinity, held on Jan. 11th, 1875, for the purpose of organizing a company to participate in a Fox Hunt to take place at the time and place here designated. On motion of S. Harding the meeting was called to order and Mr. J. Kirkpatrick chosen Chairman and J. C. Loveland, Sec'y.

The President briefly stated the object of the meeting. That they convened for the purpose of making arrangements for a Circle Fox Hunt, and that he supposed they were now ready for business

Thereupon, on motion it was decided that the hunt take place on Saturday, January 23d, 1875—the officers to meet at headquarters at 9 am. and be in readiness to start at 10 am.

After deliberating the following territory was selected as embracing the hunting ground: Starting from Corunna west of the road that comes out at the Allen Chapel Church, and run south 4 miles from the tp. line, east to the residence of Saml Haynes, and thence north to Corunna. On motion to select 16 fieldmen as officers, the following gentlemen were chosen:

East—H. Quince, A. Moore, H. Calkin and M. Daily.

West—M. Franks, O. Zimmerman, D. Hellman, S. Z. Miller.

North—H. Kreeger, A. Johnson, S. Harding and Isaac Reed.

South—S. Depew, J. Kirkpatrick, Squire Sherman and L. Andrews.

On motion to appoint a committee of 5 to designate the center of the "circle," the following gentlemen were chosen:

S. Harding, J. Kirkpatrick, O. Zimmerman, N. Zimmerman and M, Franks.

This committee after retiring for consultation reported, that they have decided upon the swamp located between the farm of M. Hinman and J Kirkpatrick, on the Hanman farm.

A motion to prohibit the use of fire arms in the field was adopted, but it was agreed that dogs be permitted to accompany the hunters properly lead until the signal for closing the 'circle'

On motion a general invitation to all to join in the hunt was extended.

The game instructed to be sold on the ground at public auction, and after deducting expenses the remainder to be distributed among the poor of Richland and Allen Tps.

It was ordered that a copy of these proceedings be forwarded to the Auburn COURIER, Waterloo Press, DeKalb Republican and Kendallville Standard for publication.

The business of the meeting having been conducted a motion to adjourn sine die was carried.

J. KIRKPATRICK, Chn
J. C. LOVELAND, Secy.

We are glad that our friend T. C. Mays, editor of the Auburn COURIER, was elected Assistant Clerk of the Indiana House of Representatives. He is an excellent gentleman, and will make a first-rate officer—Logansport Journal.

T. C. Mays, editor of the Auburn COURIER, and Journal Clerk of the House, is an Ohio boy, and a few years since was a compositor in the Enquire office.—Cin. Enquire.

T. C. Mays, Esq., of the COURIER has been elected Assistant Clerk of the House of Representatives. Congratulations.—Republican.

THE NEW

Drug Store!

FRESH DRUGS,

Medicines, Chemicals, Spices,

Dyes,
Combs,
Brushes,
Perfumery,
Proprietary Articles,
Fancy Goods, &c., &c

....

Wines and Liquors!

For Medical purposes only.

Stock New, prices to suit the times at the

NEW DRUG STORE,

Wood's old Stand!

Seventh St. Auburn, Ind.

Littlefield Bros.

Physicians prescriptions dispensed from pure medicines, day and night.

The Pioneer

HARDWARE

Emporium!

Now full to overflowing with an Immense stock of

HEAVY AND SHELF

Hardware, Cutlery, Tin Ware.

I would call special attention to my depaptment of

HARDWARE,
FURNISHING & BUIDERS STOCK,

in which will be found everything at the very

LOWEST PRICES,

Such as:—

OILS, PAINTS,
GLASS,
NAILS,
SASH,
DOORS, ETC.

—A FIST-CLASS—

Tin-Shop,

in connection with the Hardware Store, with a skillful foreman. All kinds of Tin-ware manufactured and repaired on short notice.

JOHN L. DAVIS,

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a Decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court in a cause wherein Charles A. O. McClellan is Plaintiff and Magdaline Bender and Dennis Bender are Defendants, require me to make the sum of Five Hundred and Two dollars and fifty cents with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at public sale to the highest bidder, on SATURDAY, JANUARY 30th, 1875.

between the hours of 10 and 4 o'clock of said day at the door of the court house of DeKalb County, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate to-wit:

Lot No. Five (5) in Park's addition to the town Auburn. Also the following lands to-wit: Commencing at the northwest corner of said lot No. 5 (5) and running thence north four rods (4) thence east in a paralell line with said lot No. 5 to Cedar Creek, thence south four rods to said lot No. 5, thence west to the north line of said lot No. 5 to the place of beginning, all in section 29, township 34 north of range thirteen (13) east in DeKalb Co. Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said Decree, interest and costs I will at the same time and place, expose at public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and cost.

Sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation and appraisement laws.

W. L. MEESE, Sheriff.
C. A. O. McClellan, Att'y for Plff.

Auburn, Jan. 6, 1875.
$10 00

BOOTS AND SHOES

Marked Down!

To compare with hard times. Just look at our prices and see if you cant save 25 to 50 cents on every Dollar

Men's waxed kip boots	$3 00
Boys' " "	2 25
Youths' " "	1 75
Mens' stoga kip boots, warranted,	3 50
Boys " " "	2 50
Youths " " "	2 00
Mens' western kip boots, hand made,	4 00
Boys " " "	2 75
Yoths' " " "	2 25
Mens' fine kip boots, hand made	4 50
Mens' genuine French kip boots hand made	5 00
Womens' calf shoes	1 75 to $2 50
Ladies lasting or serve polish	1 25 to 2 25
Ladies calf sewed shoes	2 50
Childrens shoes in large variety from	20 to 1 25
Mens first class rubber boots tap sole	3 75

Rubber BOOTS and SHOES of every desscription always on hand at the lowest prices. Mens' wool and Buffalo lined boots and shoes cheaper than ever. All goods sold

FOR CASH.

Mens' Wool-Line, good,

BOOTS AND SHOES,

in great variety which will be sold cheaper than ever. Our Motto is quick Sales, Small Profits, and Ready Pay. Don't fail to call and examine our stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere as we are satisfied it is money in your pockets.

E. Vordermark & Sons

North of Court House,

Odd Fellows' Building

AUBURN, INDIANA.

GreaT CLEARING OUT SALE,
AT ROOT & COMPANY'S POPULAR DRY GOODS HOUSE,
The New York Store.

CONTINUATION.

Of the low prices inaugurated on Jan. 1st untill Feb., 1st to clear the stock of all winter goods

Bona Fide Bargains

—ON—

Balance of Fine Furs, Fine Cloaks Balance of Silk Velvets, Paisleys Shawls, India Stripe Shawls, Wool Long Shawls, Ottoman Shawls, Fine Dress Shawls Balance of Fine Dress Goods, Fine Fancy Goods.

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES IN OUR GREAT DRESS GOODS DEPART

REDUCED PRICES

—ON—

On Black and Colored Silks, Water proffs, Cloths and Cassimeres, Cloaking, Blankets and Flannels, Underware Hosiery and Gloves, Embroideries Fancy Goods and Notions.

—ALSO—

Would call attention to our large and complete stock of

HOUSE-KEEPING LINENS

Which is very complete, and which we are offering at lower prices than any year since the war

Root & Company

46 and 48 Calhoun Street.

FALL AND WINTER

CLOTHING!

S. Lauferty

FURNISHING STORE!

You will find the best selected stock and at prices that defy competition. You can get a nice suit of Sam. from

$6 UPWARDS!

I also keep on hand nice fine stock of Woolen and White

SHIRTS!

which will be sold at prices as low as any other place, Ft Wayne excluded. You can find the largest assortmen which you can get at my stor for less than you are aware of I can say what the most of my competers cannot, as I am now engaged in all the above lin of goods for the last 20 years. have paid a good tuition which others will have to pay yet, and this will be the best assurance that S. Lauferty can sell you his line of goods for less than any other house around or about. I also keep in connection with the above, a fine and well selected stock of Plain and Fancy French English, German and Domestic

Hats & Caps!

Cassimeres

Broad Cloth and Vestings. have also engaged one of the best Tailors west of New York or east of Chicago. All I ask is to come and examine my stock and prices and I will assure you will buy of me and go home well pleased and satisfied. I sell now strictly for Cash.

S. LAUFERTY.

Auburn Courier.

Butter 25c.
Potatoes 50
Oats, 40 cts.
Apples 50 cts.
Eggs, 20 cents.
Corn 50 @ 55 cts
Wheat, white $1 03
Wood $2.75 @ $2.
Live hogs 5½c per pound.

Local and Miscellaneous.

Where are the incendiaries.

New comers are numerous.

Take your washing in at night.

The real estate market is good.

Have you broke your promise?

Special term of court next week.

Lead has been discovered in Corunna.

Who ever heard of a good sound cold.

Its no trouble to catch a cold this winter

Health is very good in and about our city.

The Eagle Mills have again changed hands.

Are we going to have a fox chase this season?

Charles Shepherd has returned to our place.

The time for killing quail expired on Jan., 1st, 1875.

See change in Root & Company's advertisement.

Nearly all of the pumps about town are "frozen up."

Since the holidays business has been a little dull.

We pitty the poor, who have to steal their fire-wood.

Be careful of fire. We have been exceedingly fortunate so far.

The Union Township institute will meet next Saturday.

Cedar Creek, on the Eel River road, is to have another dance soon.

We notice one "fifteenth amendment" in town. Room for several more.

Some people are finding fault with the club dance. Pleas give us a rest.

A large part of our wheat crop of 1874 is in the hands of our farmers.

We send no paper outside of the county unless it is paid for in advance.

A baby was born in the Newark, Ohio, depot setting room last week.

Bad colds are prevailing among our townsmen, to an unusual extent.

The ice has been from 8 to 10 inches thick several days last week.

New England dinner at Ensley's Hall next Tuesday evening.

Grand artistic display at Ensley's Hall next Tuesday evening.

Oysters, Ice Cream and a good time at Ensley's Hall next Tuesday evening.

The new billiard hall has changed managers, Al Wells is now in charge.

We have been having genuine winter weather for the past several days.

A man in Blackford county, was indicted for stealing a saw mill.

Albion is to have a dramatic play on the 22d, entitled "Angel of Midnight."

Those wanting tinware, or reparing done call at the Excelsor Hardware.

Correspondents must not forget that we charge 10c a line for business local.

The club dance was patronized last Thursday, largely, and everybody enjoyed it.

We know one young man who has not called on his Dulcinea since News Years day.

The young man from Waterloo, staying with Sheriff Meese, was bailed out last week.

The juvenile population had a pleasant gathering, last Friday evening at the residence of Mr. Steele's.

The Laport Argus, turned out one of finest delinquent tax list we ever saw "put up."

The sleighing has not been of the best but we notice a great many sleds in town.

The Athenaeum's did not go to Corunna last Saturday on account of the severe cold weather.

Davanport has the boss almanac. We can't explain why it is the boss, either, unless its owing to the size of the thing

E. C Hancelmen, of Steuben Co., had his barn burned, last week, and a large amount of grain &c., distroyed.

Auburn has been favored with a great many strangers of late, many of whom contemplate locating here in the spring.

The business men who advertised before the holidays that they were going to sell out, have resumed business again.

Indianapolis papers call the Teachers Institute a "Shooting Gallery." That's a young idea.

"We take no note of time," is the present business poetical quotation. Nothing short of cash on delivery.

Sunday school teacher to a boy who reads: "Tonny, what will become of you when you die?" Dunno. Ask John.

The communication signed "enterprise" was cut down about two-thirds. We cannot spare the space this week for all of it.

Owing to the severe cold weather Dr Fox's report for deaths are so few that we refrain from publishing them.

Grant has rung the death knell of all aspirants for the Presidency in 1876.—That wear shoulder straps.

The Marriage of Dr. Burr and Miller, took place in Rochester the 18th. The groom is 60 and the bride 15.

Houston & Benedict have just put up one of the finest signs in the place. It is the handiwork of Pro. Steel.

A large number of buildings will be erected in this city next season. Much of the wind work is being done now.

FOR SALE OR RENT.—A neat and commodious dwelling in the lower part of town for sale cheap. Apply to C. F. MADER. 46tf.

We received several new subscribers from Spencerville and vicinity last week. We have now quite a large list from the above place.

The South Bend Union is changed to a quarto from the beginning of 1875, printed entirely at home, and contains an original story written by the editor's wife.

John Jackson an early settler of Franklin township died at his residence yesterday at an advanced age after a protracted illness.—Waterloo Press

A good many subscribers paid their dues to the COURIER last week. A great many more should do so. However, we are thankful for small favors.

Our ice men are anxiously looking forward to the time when they will be able to procure that luxury which cools but not inebriates.

Last Wednesday the Odd Fellows had an installation of officers, and quite a number of the fraternity from Angola, were in attendance.

Cy Baughan is keeping up with the times in the way of improvements. He has put in a fine circle bar, and a row of seats, for his patrons to enjoy.

We have seen several young men quietly and determinedly throw away stubs of cigars and solemnly vow never to touch, our hand another—of that brand.

The Auburn COURIER has got the 'blues' at least the paper has that appearance.—Ft Wayne Gazette.

We were not certain that the editor was elected Clerk of the House until after the paper was out. Its all right now.

A Auburn girl said she would go to a candy pull, so there! Her old dad said he'd see about it, and he locked her in her room. She let herself down to the ground by two sheets and danced all night till broad day light.

A young man named Walch, of Pierceton, Ind., has been soliciting our place for the sale of a patent garter. One of large young ladies says, "if he takes Auburn for a slouch town, he'd better cheese it."

The panel of Jurors admitted to the court room on the Beecher Tilton stink numbered 400. At last accounts they had eight persons who never formed an opinion, or had thought upon the subject in any shape.

A rumor is afloat that the B. & O. R. R Co. own one-half of the Chicago & Lake Huron Road, and expects soon to own the balance, and they will take up the track from Union Mills to Valparaiso and build a branch from Kingsbury to Laport for a feeder to the main line.

Kalakaua drank his first glass of lager beer in New York, and after profoundly thinking over the matter for five seconds, remarked that it—well, he said he'll take a nuther'n." It is astonishing how soon foreigners will imbibe the absorbing ways of Americans.

Perhaps the following sentiment from a California woman lecturer will suit this latitude: "Man's pleasures would never suit us, and his profits we have. We allow him enough to dress respectably, and to take him to lectures and other intellectual circuses, but the bulk of his income we appropriate."

Judging from the large number of dressed hogs in the market, during the season we concluded that next summer there will not be over ten thousand running on the streets. If the number should be reduced to a figure as low as that there would be a shedding abroad of a great deal of happiness.

Advertisers will find it to their advantage to use the COURIER, simply because it has the largest circulation, and mails packages to every post office in the county. Our Butler, Waterloo, Corunna, and Spencerville lists are very large, besides we send a goodly number to all other points where there are a post office.

FESTIVAL.

The ladies of the Presbyterian chruch will have a Festival at Ensley's Hall next Tuesday evening, for the benefit of said church. The attractions of the evening are a new England dinner, waiters at table in costume; and oyster supper, ice cream, cake, lemonade, etc.

The Corunna boys are preparing for a fox hunt, on the 23rd. They are making arrangments for a "huge old time," and every body is cordially invited to participate. Buckel the collar on your hounds, take the bell off of your best cow, and spend one day in genuine enjoyment.

The [illegible] have allowed Tom Mays down to the State Capitol.—Press.

Mistake neighbor. The members elect knowing the business character of the editor, of this paper, have importuned him from all quarters to accept of the position he now occupies. The present Legislature means business.

One of the handsomest barber shops to be found in Northern Ind., is that of Sammy Pommert, of this place. For the neatness of all its appointments it is scarcely surpassed anywhere, while Mr. Pommert thoroughly understands his business. Those wanting anything in the tonsorial line will do well to patronize him.

DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY.

Cures all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs. Never known to fail. Every bottle warranted to give satisfaction or money cheerfully refunded. For sale at Davenport's drug store. Sample bottles free. Try it.

We neglected to say last week that J. R. Cosper Esq., presented us on New Years day with a large fat chanticleer, and a sack of most delicious apples. How we forgot them is more than we can tell for even at this late date, the thoughts of them causes the saliva to flow like the water over horse-shoe falls in Niagara river. Many thanks.

Hank Brandon is the Boss Tinner of this town, he is now at the Excelsior Hardware.

Great trials and sufferings are necessary to bring out some of the best points in the human character. Without the suffering which is likely to prevail in Kansas and Nebraska, few would have believed that the people throughout the country could have been prevailed upon to have given their substance to strangers to the extent that provisions, clothing and other necessaries of life are now moving to the blighted regions of the west.

Examination of Teachers.

No further regular examination will be held until March, as the the teachers for the winter schools are nearly, or quite, all engaged; and I wish to have all my time for institute work. But should any require examination, time and place can be settled by applying to me.

JAMES A. BARNS, Co., Supt.
Waterloo, Nov. 28, 1874.

The man that laughs heartily is a doctor without a diploma. His face does more good in a sick room than a bushel of powders or a gallon of bitter draughts. People are always glad to see him. Their hands instinctively go half way out to meet his grasp, while they turn involuntarily from the clammy touch of the dyspeptic who speaks in a groaning key.—Such a one laughs you out of your faults while you never dream of being offended with him, and you never know what a pleasant world you live in until he points out the sunny streaks on its pathway.

Axes cheaper than ever at the Excelsor Hardware.

He was going up Seventh street, sachel in hand, when he saw an old hat on the walk. He deviated considerably from his course, stopped close to the hat, and drew back and kicked with all his might.—Some boys gathered around him as he sat on the sidewalk holding his foot and grating his teeth and weaving his body to and fro. and they explained to him that he never should kick old hats in a strange town.

We have the precedings of several teacher's institutes, sent to us each week for publication, and they all contain about the same reading. We have given one column of our paper for educational matter, and we cannot spare any more space for these proceedings. But, however, if "the institute," will have one sterotyped we will try and accommodate them, and by changing the date and secretaries name we think it will answer for all. If this is not satisfactory then address your matter to A. R. Huffman, conductor of educational colums.

774 DID IT.

Come and take the $500. Star Clothing House Prize Fort Wayne, Ind., Jan., 6th 1875. A magnificent Gift to the public given by Sam, Pete, & Max.

TICKET NO. 774 THE LUCKY NUMBER:—

The drawing for the city lot (given by Sam Pete & Max, of the Star Clothing House,) took place on Wednesday afternoon, at the jewelry store of Geo. J. E. Mayer & Co. A committee of gentleman took charge of the drawing, and it was done on the square. The holder of ticket No. 774 will please come forward and claim his prize.

New tinner's stock at the Excelsior Hardware.

We desire to assure our readers, and their friends, that goods can purchased in Auburn cheaper averaging all articles purchased than in any other city in Northern Indiana. Merchants in some of our neighboring towns are advertising a few articles to be sold at less than cost, but they take good care to make it all up in the prices of other articles. Our merchants aim to get only a fair profit dealing fairly with all alike, instead of resorting to "Cheap John," trick deception. Again we say, there is no better market in which to purchase goods, anywhere than Auburn.

WANTED—5,000 large White Oak Trees —1,000,000 Staves.—I will pay the highest price in cash for 5,000 oak trees, suitable for heading for oil barrel staves. Will pay the following cash price for staves:
Delivered at Moresville station. 13 per M
Delivered at St. Joe, station. 14 per M
Delivered at Auburn Junction. 14 per M

Staves to be 34 inches long 5 inches wide, 7-8 of an inch thick on heart edge made of green white or burr oak. For further particulars inquire of Jonathan Rummel, Agent, or Danl Culver Auburn Junction. J. H. SMITH. (4t.

On last new-years day about twentyfive of our acquaintances "swore off." But they failed to say "from what." They should say whether it is from drinking, swearing lying tattling, scandalizing, poking their nose into other people's business, stabbing their neighbor in the dark, or what. Perhaps it is all of them combined. No that would never do, for this world would be heaven, and that evidently is not what it is intended for, by any means. We have noticed that those who wait for a new year to swear off in, are very likely to be in a good condition for another "swear off," and then have about eleven months and a half to wait in order to come in on time.

The Plymouth Democrat says. The people living near Maxinkuckee, in this county, sent a train of teams to Plymouth, last Monday, laden with provisions for the sufferers in Kansas. The shipment consisted of 23 sacks of corn, nine barrels and two sacks of flour one barrel of meal, and one barrel of dried apples. These articles were generously carried free of charge by the Pittsburgh railroad and connecting lines. The people of Union Township have in this act shown a spirit of liberality that is commendable and worthy of imitation by others. The people of this county who are blessed with good crops, are not likely to do too much for the sufferers in the far west.

MR. EDITOR:—I was informed by Mr. Wm. Nichols, that there was a terrible accident happened in Milford township Lagrange Co., Ind., on New Years day, where in Hiram Wert was killed, and several others injured. They were on there way to Rome City to attend a ball, and Charles Blockman went to pass them, Wert slacked his lines and spoke to the horses.—They were in the habit of running away, and took advantage of this opportunity. After going some distance they came to a place where there was a jog in the road. A gentleman by the name of Mr. Wright took the lines and checked the team, but the buggy was thrown over, and all that was in it on a pile of stone and against the fence. Mr. Wert was a son of Jocob Wert and a brother of Cornelius Wert, of Fairfield Tp., this county.

W. TEEPHAS.

Real Estate Transfers.

Furnished by ROSE & HARTMAN, atty's at law, who have the only Abstract of Titles in the county. Deeds and Mortgages as against "bona fide" purchases, or mortagages must be rendered within 90 days from their execution. Mechanics Liens within 60 days from completion of building or furnishing of material.

J Barton to A Foote e ½ of s w ¼ sec 3 Richland-tp $4000.

E Rhom to A. J. Ralston lot 3 Ens 1st Ad to Auburn

W Cowen to Hilsesier & Myers und 2-3 of about 95 ac of land near Garret.

R Britton to A S Ingersoll s w of s e & n 1-2 of s e sec 30 Wilmington $500

J Harvey to J March 30 acres off w pt of e 1-2 of s w ¼ sec 8 Butler $1995.

Great Sale of Alpaccas

Having too many Black Alpaccas I propose to close them out in the following manner:

17 yds, 45c Alpacca for $7.65, Thrown in 1 yd Drill, 5 yds cambrick and a $1 bill

17 yds 50c Alpacca for $8.50, throwing in the same and $1.25 in money.

17 yds, 75c Alpacca, for $12.75, throwing in the same and $1.50 in money.

17 yards, $1.00 Alpacca, for $17.00, throwing in same and $2.00 note.

These goods are straight and of the famous crusader brand, and to be sold at regular prices. Goods will be open for inspection Thursday previous to sale.—The sale to take place Friday and Saturday, Jan. 22d and 23, 1875 at the upper store of

WILLIAM RICHMOND.

P. S.—Come early to avoid the rush on such an occasion. W. R.

Dr. Boschee's German Syrup.

Cough no more! How much joy there is in every household to know that they can at least procure a remedy for any case of coughs severe colds settled in the breast Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs that is certain to cure. It is a satisfaction to know that a person is safe from the dangers of these disease—all you need do is to go to F. S. DAVANPORT'S and get a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup, two or three doses will relieve you at once. If you doubt what we say in print get a sample bottle for 10 cents and try it or a regular size for 75 cents.

Special Inducements

FOR THE NEXT

30 DAYS!

TO CASH BUYERS, AT

MILLER & CASEBEER'S,

CORNER MAIN & NINTH STREETS.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Long, pro. of our new billiard hall was in the city several days last week.

W. W Hames and Wife have just returned from a visit to Buckeye State.

Daniel Culver, formerly of this place, has removed his family to the Junction.

Our lady friend Miss Bell Lanham has returned to Auburn again, and contemplates locating here.

Dr. Casebeer informed us, last Monday that he will leave soon for New York or Philadelphia to attend college the remainder of the winter.

J. B. Walsh, Esq., of Ft. Wayne, was in this city yesterday. He is representing the well known firm of McConville & Co., of N. Y.

MR. EDITOR:—I would like to advance a few ideas through your paper, in regard to the improvements in Auburn.—While I would not accuse any one of knowingly hindering or discouraging any enterprise, still I cannot but think that fair and manly treatment, has not been shown, some of our enterprising citizens, I suppose that it is generally known that Mr. Hebel contemplates building the coming season, one of the finest blocks yet erected in our town. It is true Mr. Hebel keeps a saloon, but it is in compliance with a law made by the temperance people of Indiana, and he has been vary careful to comply with all its provisions.—Neither bribes, nor the severe pounding of his clerk has ever induced him to sell to intoxicated persons, or depart in the least from the spirit of the law. It is also true that he has been annoyed and harrassed by prosecutions, but they have nearly originated in spite and jealously. I venture to say that his saloon is conducted as orderly as any in the state. Would it not be to the interest of our place to cease the unwarranded attacks upon an enterprising citizen? Should not our citizens encourage, rather than harrass him, in this praise worthy enterprise.

ENTERPRISE.

Advertised Letters.

List of advertised letters remaining in Auburn Post Office since January 1st, 1875.

April Frederick
Alspan Stephen 2
Astray Miss Alice 2
Chick Jacob W
Chastton Mrs E
Chicot Harriet
Costette Philip
Croy Rev H A
Clark John
Duker Francis
Dodge Mrs Elizabeth
Davidson Jesse S
Davis C M
Fletcher A Eng letter
Houser Sarah
Harin Samuel J
Honk Miss Nancy
Kellyn Michael
Kester Geo
Kahle Frank
Laroe Jack
Lewis Mrs F
Lewis & Hood
Lacuy Marcus

Moore Geo S
Merrian W S
Miller Miss Elizabeth
Monroe Daniel
Maxwell Walter
Miller Daniel
Moore Miss Rachel 2
Nelson Thomas
Polmer Chancy
Polmer Miss L
Perkins Ben
Powers Mr
Preper Abraham
Raisley A
Slocum B
Smith Sanford
Smith Perry
Smith S A
Sullivan T S
Weaver Miss Mollie
Wert Eugene
Wetro Daniel
Watts Austin

When you call for letters, please state advertised.

S. L. YANDES, P. M.

PALACE OF FASHION.

The Largest Clothing Establishment in Northern Indiana.

Great Inducements Offered During the Holidays.

Every one is familiar with the great "Palace of Fashion" No. 1 Keystone Block Fort Wayne, Indiana; therefore it is needless to mention to the citizens of Auburn and vicinity of the many advantages gained over others by dealing at this popular clothing emporum. This firm carries, without exception, the largest stock of clothing and gents furnishing goods, and controls a larger trade than any one house in Northern Indiana, selling at from 15 to 20 per cent. lower than any one house in their line of business

Their stock is complete in every department, and are offering the next 30 days their large and complete stock at prices far below anything heretofore known for good clothing. They guarantee their prices to be the very lowest, having, purchased their stock for cash and selling for cash, which thus enables them to sell goods at low prices.

For the coming holiday trade they have received a large shipment of clothing, hats and caps, underwear, &c., which they intend to dispose of at exceedingly low figures.

Their stock of Mens & Boys overcoats is immense.

If times are dull and money scarce, their trade seems to be on the increase, for the simple reason, they undersell all their competitors and guarantee their prices to be the very lowest. Great bargains offered during the holidays at the great "Palace of Fashion" No. Keystone Block, Fort Wayne Ind. J. NOLINGER, Pro

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed Executor of the estate of Malinda Satciml late of DeKalb County deceased. Said Estate is supposed to be solvent
Jan., 5, 1875. NELSON ULM, Ex'r

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that at the stated communication of Cedar Encampment No. 65, I. O. O. F. on Friday evening, Jan. 8th, 1875, there will be elected three Trustees, to serve one year, or until their successors in office are elected and qualified.
By order of the Encampment
T. C. MAYS, Scribe.

Legal Notice.

Notice is hereby given to litigants, witnesses and all others interested. Also to the Petit Jurors heretofore summoned for the December term, 1874, of the DeKalb Circuit Court, was adjourned by the Judge the 1st to a special term commencing on the 3d Monday of January 1875, (January 18th, 1875) for the trial and determination of causes pending and not disposed of at said December term 1874 of said court.

Witness My hand and the seal of said court this 11th day of January 1875.
J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

NOTICE.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, S s.
In the DeKalb Circuit Court, February term, 1875
George Henries, David Fay.
vs.
William W. Washburn, George P. VanEveran
Complaint No. 151.

Now comes the plaintiff by Moss & Hoffman their Attorneys and files their complaint herein together with an affidavit that said defendants Wm. W. Washburn and Geo. P. VanEveran are not residents of the State of Indiana.

Notice is therefore, hereby given said defendants that unless they be and appear on the first day of the next term of the DeKalb Circuit Court to be holden on the 3d Monday of February ad 1875, at the court house in Auburn, in said county and State, and answer or demur to said complaint the same will be heard and determined in their absence.

Witness. My name and the seal of said court affixed at Auburn this 12th day of January 1875
J. R. LANNING, Clerk.

To Contractors.

JAIL BUILDING.

AUDITOR'S OFFICE
AUBURN, INDIANA, December 3rd, 1874.

Sealed proposals will be received at the Auditor's Office in Auburn, Indiana, until

JANUARY 15th, 1875,

at noon, for the furnishing of all material and labor required in the construction and completion of a jail in Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, according to plans and specifications furnished by T. J. Tolan & Son of Delphos, Ohio.

Plans and specifications can be seen at the Auditor's office in Auburn on and after this date.

The work is required to be completed by the 1st of November 1875.

All proposals must be accompanied by a certified bond in the sum of $1000 that the bidder or bidders will give the proper bond if awarded the contract. And no bid will be accepted unless such bond accompanies the bid.

The contractors will be paid in monthly estimates as the work progresses.

The Commissioners reserve the right to accept or reject any and all bids.

By order of the Commissioners.
ISAAC HAGUE, Auditor.

NOTICE.

STATE OF INDIANA, DeKalb County, Sct:
In the DeKalb Circuit Court, Feb. term, 1875.
Richard Gramling
vs.
Charles Brandt, Wenzel Ernst, —— Ernst, wife of said Wenzel, whose first name is unknown, Frederick Buchanan and Peter Gramling.

Now comes the Plaintiff by McBride & Merlan his Attorneys and files his complaint herein, together with an affidavit that said Defendants Charles Brandt, Wenzel Ernest —— Ernest, wife of said Wenzel whose first name is unknown, and Frederick Buchanan are not residents of the State of Indiana.

Notice is, therefore, hereby given said defendant that unless they be and appear on the first day of the next term of the DeKalb Circuit Court, to be holden on the 3d Monday of February, a. d, 1875 at the Court house in Auburn, in said county and State, and answer or demur to said complaint, the same will be heard and determined in their absence.

Witness, My name and the seal of said court affixed at Auburn, this 23d day of December, 1874.
J. R. LANNING, Clerk

The Great Cause of

HUMAN MISERY

Just Published in a Sealed Envelope. Price 6 cts

A LECTURE on the nature, treatment and radical cure of Seminal Weakness, or Spermatorrhoea, introduced by self abuse, Involuntary Emissions, Impotency, Nervous Debility and fits; Mental and Physical Incapacity, &c.—by Robt J. Culverwell, M. D. author of the 'Green Book,' &c.

The world renowned author, in this admirable Lecture, clearly proves from his own experience that the awful consequences of self abuse may be cured without medicine, and without dangerous surgical operations; pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be may cure himself cheaply, privately and radical. This lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands. Sent, under seal, in a plain envelope to any address, on receipt of 6 cents, or two postage stamps, Address

CHAS. J. C. KLINE & CO.,
127 Bowery, N. Y. Post Office Box 45

S.C. EVANS, Pres't, C. M., DAWSON Chash'r

MERCHANTS

National Bank!

FORT WAYNE, IND.

Capital and Surplus $112.000

Receives Deposits, Discounts Business Paper, issues Letters of Credit, and Collects at all points at the lowest rates of exchange.

Directors:
S. CARY EVANS, R. C. ROBERTSON,
H. C. HANNA, N. P. STOCKBRIDGE
A. C. DAWSON.

Organized 1865. April 9, 74

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed Administrator of the Estate of George Teutsch late of DeKalb County, deceased. Said Estate is supposed to be solvent.
PETER TEUTSCH, Adm'r
Dec., 10th, 1874.

AUBURN COURIER

THURSDAY, JAN. 14, 1875.

NEWS SUMMARY

The East.

Mr. Fenner, Chairman of the Legislative Committee on Reservoirs, visited Haydenville, Mass., last week, to ascertain the cause of the late disaster there. His verdict was faulty engineering, faulty material, and faulty building, and that the dam was not wide enough, the stone not suitable, and the grouting not good enough.

After four years of estrangement and enmity and efforts to avoid encountering each other in a final conflict, Henry Ward Beecher and Theodore Tilton have at length met face to face, the great trial having commenced at Brooklyn, in the City Court, before Judge Neilson, Jan. 5. Three jurors were chosen.

The great mass of attendance at the Tilton-Beecher trial is composed of the 1,500 summoned jurors, from whom the twelve good men are to be chosen. On the 6th inst., a lady was observed pushing her way through the throng to the front, when Judge Neilson instructed the officer in charge of the door that no ladies were to be admitted, whereupon the lady was ignominiously excluded.

The West.

John Goodman, the murderer of the Haywood family, several months ago, was hanged at Ottawa, Ohio, on the 30th ult., after confessing his crime on the scaffold....John Murphy was executed at Carson, Nevada, on the same day, for the murder of J. R. McCollum....A party of Indians, belonging to Spotted Tail's band report a gang of twenty-one miners encamped in the Black Hills. They were not molested, but their intrusion reported to Indian Agent Howard....Two notorious horse thieves and murderers, named Fox and George Alexander, were killed last week near Ocmulgee, Indian Territory, by Detective York, of Springfield, and another notorious outlaw, named Kinch West, was mortally wounded....The Dakota Legislature has passed a law forbidding the levying or collection of taxes in aid of railroads or corporations.

Considerable excitement has been caused in San Francisco by the fact that the proprietors of the Cornell watch factory have determined to employ Chinese in all departments. Seventy operatives from Chicago have protested, and several have been discharged....An explosion in a coal mine, near Evanston, Wyoming, recently resulted in the death of eight persons....A dispatch from Tucson, Arizona, says that very rich gold mines have been discovered in Sonora, on the San Miguel river....The old feud between the Ross and Downing factions has broken out afresh, and serious disturbances are reported among our semi-civilized neighbors. A bloody fight has already taken place near Chouteau, Cherokee Nation, resulting in the killing and wounding of some dozen or so on both sides. A dispatch from Vinita, dated Jan. 1, states 100 armed men were threatening an attack on that town, and bloody times were expected.

Capt. E. B. Ward, of Detroit, one of the leading capitalists of the West, died of apoplexy on the 2d inst. He was largely interested in the iron manufacturing interests of the West, and has probably contributed more to their development than any other individual in the entire country. He was 64 years old. His estate is valued at $10,000,000....A letter from the Red Cloud Agency states that Col. Henry, with a company of the 3d cavalry, left that post on the 26th of December, for the eastern slopes of the Black Hills, to drive out invading miners.

Chicago wholesale grocers are somewhat agitated over the sudden disappearance of the firm of Roe Brothers, extensive dealers in groceries. The members of the firm, consisting of two brothers, have gone to Canada, carrying with them about $100,000. Their debts amount to double that sum....E. R. Roberts telegraphs from the Indian Territory that the Associated Press reports of the troubles in that region have been greatly exaggeration. The only affray, he says, was caused by an attempt to introduce whisky by Indians, near Price's Creek, and their attempted arrest by the Cherokee Sheriff and his posse. Two were killed and two wounded. No threats or moves were made to molest parties or trains at any station on the railroad.

Chicago elevators, as per official figures, contained on the 6th inst. 2,878,892 bushels of wheat, 1,201,401 bushels of corn, 486,171 bushels of oats, 22,179 bushels of rye, and 333,728 bushels of barley, making a grand total of 4,506,871 bushels, against 4,034,865 bushels the previous week, and 3,625,698 bushels at the same period last year.

The South.

Ex-Gov. Warmoth, has undergone an examination at New Orleans for the killing of Byerly, of the Bulletin, and been discharged on the ground that his act was justifiable homicide. Messrs. Foster, Potter and Phelps, the Congressional sub-committee appointed to investigate the affairs of Louisiana, are now in New Orleans taking testimony....The police of New Orleans refuse to do militia duty to the extent of carrying muskets to defend the State House against the White Leaguers. ....The Congressional committee to investigate the Vicksburg troubles are on the ground taking testimony.

The Warmoth-Jewell duel is off by agreement of friends of the parties.

A whole family, consisting of Richard Borum, his wife, two children, and a negro boy, were murdered a few days ago in Lee county, Miss., and their bodies consumed with the building.

A New Orleans dispatch, of the 6th inst., says: It now seems likely that the proposition for a compromise between the rival Legislatures will lead to some arrangement whereby the Democrats elected by the Returning Board will return to the State-House Legislature, and that both parties will join in a reorganization of the House. The intelligence of this fact, which is now the general topic, appears to afford material relief to the public mind, and it is thought that the measure will be effected before the close of the week—perhaps by to-morrow night. The following correspondence is published to-day:

New Orleans, Jan. 4.—Hon. W. W. Belknap, Secretary of War, Washington: The city is very quiet to-day. Some of the banditti made idle threats last night that they would assassinate me because I dared to tell the truth. I am not afraid, and will not be stopped from informing the government that there are localities in this department where the very air has been impregnated with assassination for some years.

P. H. Sheridan, Lieutenant General.

Washington, Jan. 5.—Gen. P. H. Sheridan, New Orleans: The President and all of us have full confidence in and thoroughly approve your course.

Wm. W. Belknap, Secretary of War.

Washington, Jan. 6.—To Gen. P. H. Sheridan, New Orleans: I telegraphed you hastily to-day, answering your dispatch. You seem to fear that we will be misled by biased or partial statements of your acts. Be assured that the President and Cabinet confide in your wisdom and rest in the belief that all acts of yours have been and will be judicious. This I intended to say in my brief telegram.

Wm. W. Belknap, Secretary of War.

....Two of the ejected members of the Louisiana Legislature have entered suits against Sheridan and [illegible] for $10,000 damages for being driven from the State-House....Gov. Kellogg, in testimony before the Congressional investigating committee at New Orleans, stated that he had information that a certain organization of the White League had laid their plans and determined upon an attempt to assassinate the President of the United States. The organization which he referred to was composed of ignorant and reckless men, who probably argued that the President was responsible for his (Kellogg's) government.

Washington.

Having completed its labors at New York, the Pacific Mail Congressional Investigating Committee has returned to Washington and resumed its inquiries in that city....Rumors of the resignation of Gen. Spinner and other officers of the Treasury Department, in circulation lately, are denied....A Washington dispatch of the 3d inst. says: "The subject of the recognition of the new government has not as yet been formally considered by the President or cabinet, but, from the talk in diplomatic circles, it is evident that the United States will not hasten to recognize the government of Isabella's son."

Secretary Fish is reported by a Washington dispatch as having no doubt that the indemnity from Spain for the Virginius outrage will be secured, with the amount fixed by arbitration, as was the case in the settlement with Great Britain....The friends of free Cuba in Congress have determined to introduce and press to a vote at as early a day as possible a resolution organizing the independence of the island....A female lobbyist is now said to have disbursed part of the $750,000 paid out by the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, and to have inveigled a number of Congressmen with it. ....The House Committee on Public Lands have adopted a definite policy with regard to all applications for land grants for railroads. They have decided, in the cases where bills are reported favorably, to recommend that only a right of way be granted, with twenty acres for station-house purposes at suitable distances....A Washington telegram of the 5th says that at a Cabinet meeting that day the Louisiana question was the subject of much discussion. "The administration," it is added, "is well satisfied that Gen. Sheridan is in every way competent to carry out the ideas of the general government respecting whatever participation it may be thought necessary to take regarding affairs in Louisiana. These, as now understood, constitute an indorsement of the report of the Returning Board, and the maintaining of the authority of the Legislature reported elected by that Board."

State Senator Graham, of Virginia, who made the original charges against Representative Stowell of having sold a naval cadetship, appeared before the House Naval Committee the other day, and testified that he had agreed to pay Stowell $1,000 for making the appointment. Graham gave to Stowell the name of the boy who was to be appointed and he was appointed....A Washington dispatch says there is no probability that the President will issue such a proclamation as Gen. Sheridan suggests in his telegram to the Secretary of War.

The evidence thus far taken in the Pacific Mail subsidy case shows that the enormous lobby sum of $775,000 is accounted for by payments by Irwin, as follows: Hon. John G. Shumaker, $275,000; Charles A. Bert, $125,000; R. B. Irwin, $100,000; R. B. Irwin, $60,000; B. A. Whiting, $100,000; W. S. King, $115,000. Total, $775,000. B. A. Whiting, whose name is in the list, is a brother-in-law of ex-Senator Cole, of California, and is generally regarded as the "counsel" who managed the subsidy in the Senate.

Political.

The Ohio Legislature will probably change the State elections from October to November....Gov. Beveridge, of Illinois, has called an election for Saturday, Jan. 23, to fill the vacancy in Congress caused by the death of Hon. John B. Rice.

The Republicans of Connecticut will hold a State Convention on the 20th of January.... The old quarrel as to whether the River and Harbor Appropriation bill properly belongs to the Committee on Commerce or the Committee on Appropriations has been revived, and is waging vigorously. It is of some consequence this year, as it is said the first-named committee would appropriate a much larger amount than the latter for those purposes.

The New Hampshire Democratic Convention assembled at Concord on the 5th inst. and nominated Hiram R. Roberts for Governor.

General.

The English shareholders of the famous Emma mine swindle do not seem to know how to enjoy the loss of $5,000,000 by the operations of speculators, as Americans do, they having sued Senator Stewart, of Nevada, and Trenor W. Park, of Vermont, for that amount....It is estimated that the Government is defrauded out of $1,000,000 annually by the washing and second use of canceled postage stamps.

The Bureau of Indian Affairs has issued a circular letter to the Superintendents and Agents of the Indian Department instructing them to notify the several bands or tribes of Indians under their supervision that they must confine themselves wholly within the limits of their respective reservations; that under no pretext must they leave them without a special permit in writing, from the Agent or Superintendent.

The grand combination of several leading railways between the East and the West has come to grief. The attempt was to prevent the cutting of rates by competing lines, and save the expense of an army of middlemen. A New York dispatch announces that the combination is dead.

Foreign.

Severe fighting is reported in Peru between the government troops and insurgents, in which the latter were badly worsted.... Desertions from the Republican army in Spain to the ranks of the Carlists are occurring by wholesale.

The news from Spain is the most important that has been transmitted across the waters for some time. It is to the effect that the Republicans and Carlists have both been set aside, and the kingdom given to the son of ex-Queen Isabella, Don Alphonso. He has been recognized by the army and navy of Spain. The command of the army has been quietly transferred from Marshal Serrano to Gen. Laserna. It is also announced that Gen. Dorregary and other Carlists leaders have given in their adhesion to Alphonso. The King's new ministry is composed as follows: Castro, Minister of Foreign Affairs; Cardenas, Justice; Jovellar, War; Salaverria, Finance; Molines, Marine; Bablado, Interior; Orovio, Commerce; Ayala, Colonies; It is reported that one of the first acts of the new Ministry will be to telegraph to the Captain-General of Cuba to exercise a conciliatory spirit, and to pacify the Cubans by re-establishing, as far as possible, a cordial understanding between the home and provincial governments and Creoles....Foreign mails bring news of the death of Mrs. J. Lothrop Motley, wife of the American historian, and former Minister to the Court of St. James; Ledru Rollin, the Communist leader, and the Duke of Montrose....Sixty thousand colliers in South Wales have struck work in consequence of reduction of wages.

The King of the Belgians has formally recognized the new King of Spain, and has telegraphed the congratulations customarily accorded to a new government. The blessing of the Pope has been conferred upon the new King. The European powers will, it is thought, hasten to recognize him....A great famine is decimating the population of Asia Minor....European governments have taken measures to prevent the importation of American potatoes infected with the Colorado beetle....The latest dispatches from Spain deny the report of the death of Espartero.... The loss of life in the burning of the ship Cospatrick sums up over 500 souls.

The Mexican government has entered into a contract with the International Railway Company of Texas, by which that government grants a subsidy of about $20,000 a mile to the International Company. This, it is believed, will insure the completion of the road, and place the City of Mexico in direct communication with St. Louis and the East. ....Another of those terrible disasters which are so frequent in the coal mines of England, occurred on the 5th inst. By a fire-damp explosion in Yorkshire ninety lives were lost.

The new Grand Opera House was opened at Paris on the evening of Jan. 5, with great ceremony and brilliant display. Among the distinguished persons present were President MacMahon, Gen. L'Admirault, the Lord Mayor of London, the Duke D'Aumale, King Alfonso, and ex-Queen Isabella of Spain, the ex-King of Hanover, and all the members of the French Ministry and entire Diplomatic Corps.

LOUISIANA.

The Organization of the Legislature—Gen. Sheridan in Command in New Orleans.

There were lively times in New Orleans on the occasion of the assembling of the Louisiana Legislature on the 4th inst., but, contrary to general expectation, the day passed off without bloodshed.

The members of the House assembled, the Chief Clerk called the roll, and announced 102 members present and a quorum. A motion was immediately made, amid much confusion, that L. A. Wiltz (Democrat) be declared temporary chairman. Amid much excitement and uproar, Wiltz took the chair, and appointed a Sergeant-at-Arms and temporary Clerk. Col. Lowell (Rep.) protested, on behalf of the Republicans, against the manner of the temporary organization. Speaker Wiltz replied that the manner of organization was identical with that of 1863, in which Mr. Lowell participated. Five members, not returned by the Board, were declared, by resolution, members of the House, and took their seats. A motion was then offered to go into permanent organization. This raised a commotion among the Republicans, but when a further motion was made to seat the members from the contested parishes referred to the Legislature, the excitement, accompanied with shouts and exclamations of all kinds, was fearful to hear. A motion was then put to admit the members from four contested parishes, reserving the matter of contest for the Legislature, and it was carried amid the wildest excitement. To such a point did the excitement reach, that the Sergeant-at-Arms was called upon to seat members and preserve order. The House then proceeded to choose Wiltz for permanent Speaker, whereupon the Republican members proceeded to leave the hall, but the Sergeant-at-Arms sought to prevent them, and several scuffles ensued. At this point the military interfered.

Gen. De Trobriand, with a file of soldiers, entered the hall and ejected those members who had not been returned as elected by the Returning Board. Speaker Wiltz protested against such interference on the part of the military, to which Gen. T. replied that he, as a soldier and only second in command, had to obey the orders of his superior, Gen. Emory, who had ordered him to obey the instructions of Gov. Kellogg. After the expulsion of the five members who had been seated in opposition to the decision of the Returning Board—the men being pointed out, one by one, by Hugh J. Campbell—the Republican members returned and took their seats. Gen. De Trobriand then ordered Chief Clerk Vigers to call the roll of members as returned elected by the Board. The Democratic members, headed by Mayor Wiltz, then marched out, after again offering a solemn protest against the interference of the military. The Republicans then proceeded to organize by the election of ex-Gov. Michael Hahn as Speaker.

Gen. Sheridan is now in command of the forces at New Orleans, having taken charge on the morning of the meeting of the Legislature.

Sheridan's Plan of Dealing with the South.

Gen. Sheridan, on the 5th inst., sent the following telegram to the Secretary of War:

Hon. W. W. Belknap, Secretary of War, Washington, D. C.:

I think the terrorism now existing in Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas could be entirely removed and confidence and fair-dealing established by the arrest and trial of the ringleaders of the armed White Leagues. If Congress would pass a bill declaring them banditti, they could be tried by a military commission. The leaders of this banditti, who murdered men here on the 14th of September, and more recently at Vicksburg, Miss., should, in justice to law and order and the peace and prosperity of this southern part of the country, be punished. It is possible that, if the President would issue a proclamation declaring them banditti, no further action need be taken, except that which would devolve upon me.

[Signed] P. H. Sheridan.
Lieutenant General United States Army.

The above dispatch raised a storm of indignation among the Conservatives in New Orleans, and was the source of much rejoicing among the Republicans. The former denounced Gen. Sheridan's statement that the city was in a state of lawlessness in round terms. The Cotton Exchange met and adopted condemnatory resolutions. The Merchants' Exchange passed resolutions of a similar purport. A meeting of Eastern, Western and Northern merchants was called at the St. Charles Hotel in the evening, at which astonishment was expressed at Gen. Sheridan's dispatch. The expressions against Sheridan on the streets, and in the hotels were extremely bitter, and it is even asserted that threats of assassination were indulged in by some indiscreet Democrats.

The National Debt.

The last public debt statement shows an increase of the national indebtedness during December of $3,659,967. Appended are the official figures:

Six per cent. bonds	$1,387,685,100
Five per cent. bonds	360,926,200
Total coin bonds	$1,718,610,300
Lawful money debt	$ 14,578,000
Matured debt	19,122,290
Legal tender notes	382,072,513
Certificates of deposit	41,200,000
Fractional currency	46,390,598
Coin certificates	22,540,600
Total without interest	$ 498,283,515
Total debt	$2,240,614,206
Total interest	$ 30,734,477
Cash in the Treasury, coin	$82,587,449
Cash in the Treasury, currency	$ 13,952,931
Special deposits held for the redemption of certificates of deposit, as provided by law	41,200,000
Total in the Treasury	$ 137,740,380
Debt less cash in Treasury	$2,142,598,302
Increase during December	$ 3,659,967
Decrease since June 30, 1874	480,938
Bonds issued to the Pacific Railroad Companies, interest payable in lawful money, principal outstanding	64,623,512
Interest accrued and not yet paid	1,938,705
Interest paid by United States	24,326,396
Interest repaid by transportation of mails, etc.	5,601,838
Balance of interest paid by United States	18,723,558

FORTY-THIRD CONGRESS.

Tuesday, Jan. 5.—Senate—Thurman offered a resolution requesting the President to inform the Senate whether the army had been used in any way in connection with the organization of the Louisiana Legislature. Conkling objected to the wording of the resolution, and moved the words "if not incompatible with the public interests," as an amendment, and a long debate ensued, participated in by Thurman, Conkling, Morton and others....A bill was passed for the relief of settlers on absentee Shawnee lands in Kansas.

House.—After an hour spent in considering bills from the Committee on Public Lands, the House went into committee of the whole on the Army Appropriation bill. It appropriates $39,701,500, and forbids recruiting beyond the number of 25,000 enlisted men.

Wednesday, Jan. 6.—Senate—The Senate resumed consideration of Thurman's resolution interpellating the President on the subject of interposing the military at New Orleans, the pending question being on the motion of Mr. Conkling to insert the words, "if not incompatible with the public interests." The debate was long and sharp, but no definite action was taken.

House.—There was quite a commotion in the House over a resolution offered by Hale, of Maine, directing the Judiciary Committee to bring in a bill ordering a new election immediately in Louisiana. Objection to the reception of the resolution was heard from all parts of the House, and the Speaker was forced to use his gavel vigorously to restore order. Hale gave notice that he should offer the resolution on Monday, under a suspension of the rules.... Cobb introduced a bill to provide a temporary government for the Territory of Oklahama. Referred....Lamar presented a remonstrance of the people of Arkansas against the invasion of their right of self-government. Referred....Irwin, the agent of the Pacific Mail Company, was arraigned before the bar of the House for contempt in refusing to answer the questions of the Ways and Means Committee as to the disposition of the corruption fund. He was asked to show cause, and read a long explanation of the reasons that impelled him to refuse to answer. He was then asked to give the names of the persons to whom he paid money to influence legislation. He refused to answer. He was next asked to state the largest amount paid to any one person. He answered, "Two hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars!" The prisoner was sent to jail for contempt of the House.

Paper in Japan.

The uses of paper in Japan are ludicrously various. It is used in everyday life, in the drawing-room, in the nursery and the kitchen, in ways that are dark to a foreigner. A Japanese is never at a loss for a string, a sheet for a letter, a wrapper, a handkerchief, a towel or a platter. In his bosom is a roll of paper, and what paper can accomplish is known only to a native of Japan. When a Yezaburo or Kintara cuts his finger, a bandage is applied and tears dried by the same article. The exquisitely dressed young lady takes a roll of paper from her girdle, and lo! it becomes a handkerchief. Pass into the street on a rainy day in Yeddo, and you see for miles a panorama of moving disks of paper. Both umbrellas and a suit of oiled and waterproof clothes, hat, coat, trowsers and shoes, may be bought almost anywhere in Japan. Boxes, pipe-cases, twine, dishes, tea-trays, carpets, chimneys, roasting-tins for firing tea, windows, doors, partitions and screens, are everywhere made of paper.

The paneled walls of houses are made of paper pulp. Old Japanese armor is largely made of compressed lacquered paper. Perhaps Europeans adopted the custom of papering the walls of their houses from these people. The dwellings of the better classes of the Japanese people are always papered, though the sheets used are not over a foot or eighteen inches square. They are polished, silvered, gilded, colored, or printed with birds, flowers, animals, and many tasteful designs. In looking over a paper-dealer's stock in Yeddo, one scarcely sees a "loud" or uncouth pattern, always excepting the dragon, in which the normal Japanese doth so delight.

The official vote of Florida, which has just been declared, shows that both Republican candidates for Congress have been elected; Purman, in the First, by a majority of 1,092, and Wells, in the Second, by a majority of 371. The latest reports concerning the complexion of the Legislature indicate a slight Democratic majority on joint ballot. The Senate is a tie, standing 12 to 12. In the House there are 28 Democrats to 24 Republicans. If these figures prove correct, the result will be the election of a Democratic successor to Senator Abijah Gilbert, whose term expires on the 4th of March next.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

Weekly Review of the Chicago Market.

FINANCE.

The money market was without any quotable change. The supply of loanable funds is in excess of the demand, and interest rates are in borrowers' favor. Rates 10 per cent., with 8 per cent. as the ruling rate for call loans. Government bonds were quiet, but as there was no special desire to sell, and the offerings were light, a firm feeling prevailed and prices were steady. We quote 5-20's of '62 at 115⅝ to 116; '65 at 117⅞ to 118; currency 6's at 117⅝ to 117⅞ and interest. Latest gold quotations: Chicago, 112⅜ to 112½; New York, 112⅜, the market ruling firmer at New York, under local influences.

BREADSTUFFS.

The visible supply of grain, including the stocks in granary at the principal points of accumulation, at lake and seaboard ports, and in transit by rail, Dec. 26, 1874, and the comparative stocks at the undermentioned periods, were as follows:

	1874. Dec. 26.	1874. Dec. 19.	1873. Dec. 27.	1872. Dec. 28.
Wheat	11,793,977	12,449,495	9,209,204	6,248,673
Corn	3,968,638	4,024,036	5,814,134	5,695,399
Oats	2,547,146	2,885,229	2,173,161	3,414,064
Barley	2,250,064	2,447,778	1,929,018	3,662,865
Rye	393,415	300,441	286,289	....
Total bu	20,906,540	21,707,977	19,412,396	22,129,030

The following are the receipts and shipments for the week, as compared with the same time last year:

	Received.		Shipped.
Articles.	1875.	1874.	1875.	1874.
Flour, brls	53,097	66,407	49,611	60,948
Wheat, bu	436,168	979,110	166,739	172,41
Corn, bu	322,063	199,460	155,997	28,968
Oats, bu	130,016	194,098	38,365	91,365
Rye, bu	11,007	16,909	3,690	7,201
Barley, bu	55,840	83,360	24,413	63,230
D. Hogs, No	12,219	11,566	14,469	10,993
L. Hogs, No	80,222	93,687	22,970	24,246
Cattle, No	11,112	9,579	6,560	6,905

The movement in the grain markets was rather light, and at the same time a steady feeling prevails, and as a general rule prices were more in sellers' favor. The inquiry was mainly on local speculative account, there being comparatively few outside orders, and but little shipping demand. The receipts for the week were larger all round than during the preceding week, and continue in excess of the shipments, the stock in store rapidly accumulating. During the past week the stock shows an increase of 270,000 bu wheat, 167,000 bu corn, and 100,000 bu oats. The shipments of wheat show a moderate increase, there being some orders for export. Holders were generally quite firm in their views, and were not disposed to force sales at the expense of lower prices. The "corner" in corn culminated on Thursday—the last day of the month—the combination forcing prices to 85c per bu, at which figure "shorts" were obliged to settle. The ring have now nearly 57,000 bu old corn on hand, and they will be obliged to carry it until the opening of navigation, for export, as they cannot afford to sell at its legitimate value—about 70c. The trading in the corn market is now wholly in new corn, and at better prices. Oats were weak and lower, although closing a shade firmer. Rye and barley were steady, but with comparatively little business. Operators generally look for a better trade during the current month.

The following table shows the current quotations at the opening and close of the week:

	Opening.	Closing.
No. 2 spring wheat	90	90¾
Seller February	91¾	92
New No. 2 corn	65¾	66¼
Seller February	69⅝	66⅜
Seller May	71 @ 71½	71½
New rejected	60½@ 61	61½
No. 2 oats	54¼	53
Seller February	53⅞	53¾
No. 2 rye	99 @ 99½	98
No. 2 barley	$1.22½@1.23	$1.23 @1.23½
No. 3 barley	1.06 @1.10	1.05 @1.10
Seller February	1.24	1.25¾

LIVE STOCK.

The demand for cattle was active and the market ruled steady and firm, with a higher range of prices. Receipts moderate and quality very good, showing a marked improvement all round. Eastern advices were favorable and shippers were more anxious to purchase, entering into lively competition; closing at $5.00 to $6.25 for fair to choice, and $6.50 to $7.00 for extra steers; $2.50 to $4.50 for butchers' cattle. Hogs were quiet but steady, although with the limited receipts the market could not have been very active; closing at $6.25 to 6.90 for poor to choice light weights, and $6.75 to $7.25 for the same description of heavy; bulk of sales at $6.75 to $7.10. Sheep were steady and firm, with a good demand and well-maintained prices; closing at $3.00 to $5.50 for poor to choice.

PROVISIONS.

Only a fair degree of activity was shown, trading being mainly on local speculative account and for future delivery. Stocks of mess pork large, and of lard moderate. Market closed at $18.95 to $19 for cash and $13.40 for February pork, $13.40 for cash and $13.60 for March lard.

DRESSED HOGS AND SEEDS.

Dressed hogs opened dull, but closed firm at 30c to 50c higher, the advance being relatively larger on light than on heavy weights, owing to competition between New York buyers, closing at $8 to $8 20 for light and $8.20 to $8 30 for heavy. Seeds were quiet all round, closing at $2 to $2 60 for poor to prime timothy; $5.60 to $5.70 for clover; $2 for flax; 75c to 80c for Hungarian; and 70c to 75c for millet.

PRODUCE.

Butter remains very quiet; stock large and tendency of values to a lower range; packed 22c to 35c for fair shipping to extra fancy dairy and factory; rolls 22c to 24c. Beans dull at $1.25 to $1.75 for Western and $2 to $2.25 for navy. Broom corn firm. Cheese steady and firm at 15½c for prime factory; 14c to 14½c for good, and 7c to 13c for poor to common. Cider firm at $6 to $6.50 per brl for choice sweet. Eggs were dull and sales slow. Fresh quotable at 21c to 24c. Feathers were quiet but firm at 6c to 7c for chicken and 45c to 50c for prime live geese. Apples slow at 75c to $2 for common to choice. Game slow. Honey was steady at 20c to 25c for comb. Hops were quiet at former quotations—33c to 37c per lb for good to prime new and 25c to 30c for fair. Hides were in moderate demand and steady at 7½c to 8c for green frozen, 8½c for heavy green salted, and 15c to 16c for calf. Hay was dull and weak, the supply being in excess of the demand. Prime timothy, $18.50 to $19; No. 1, $17.50 to $18; prime prairie, $12 to $12.50. Nuts were steady at $2.50 per bu for shellbark hickory, and $1 for large. Butternuts and walnuts slow at $1.50 per brl. Potatoes were quiet and dull at 85c to 90c for small lots peachblows; 75c to 85c for mixed. Turkeys were firmer, although chickens were dull, and other descriptions of poultry were offered quite freely; we quote turkeys at 6c to 10c per lb for poor to choice; chickens 5c to 8c per lb and $1.50 to $3 per doz; ducks $2 50 to $3.50. Tallow slow at 7½c to 8c. Veal firm at 6c to 9c. Vegetables dull at $2.50 to $2.75 for red onions; $3 to $3.50 for yellow; 30c to 45c for turnips; and 50c to 65c per doz for celery. Wool steady and very firm.

Telegraphic Market Reports.

NEW YORK.
Beeves	11 @ 14
Hogs—Dressed	9 @ 9¼
Cotton	15 @ 15⅛
Flour—Superfine Western	4 00 @ 4 50
Wheat—No. 2 Chicago	1 11½@ 1 14½
No. 1 Spring	1 23 @ 1 28
Corn	86 @ 88
Oats	69 @ 72
Rye	93 @ 96
Pork—New Mess	20 50 @20 75
Lard—Steam	13¾@ 14
ST. LOUIS.
Wheat—No. 2 Red	1 08 @ 1 09
Corn—No. 2 New	65 @ 67
Oats—No. 2	56 @ 58
Rye—No. 2	1 00 @ 1 01
Pork—Mess	19 25 @19 50
Lard	13½@ ..
Hogs	6 50 @ 7 00
Cattle	4 00 @ 6 50
MILWAUKEE.
Wheat—No. 1	94 @ 95
No. 2	89 @ 90
Corn—No. 2	64 @ 65
Oats—No. 2	53 @ 53½
Rye	94 @ 96
Barley—No. 2	1 26 @ 1 27
CINCINNATI.
Wheat—Red	1 05 @ 1 0
Corn—New	67 @ 70
Oats	50 @ 53
Rye	1 08 @ 1 10
Pork—Mess	19 25 @19 50
Lard	13½@ 14
TOLEDO.
Wheat—No. 1 Red	1 11 @ 1 12
Amber Michigan	1 09 @ 1 10
Corn—New	70 @ 71
Oats	57 @ 58
DETROIT.
Wheat—Extra	1 14 @ 1 15
Amber	1 09 @ 1 10
Corn	70 @ 71
Oats	57 @ 58
CLEVELAND.
Wheat—No. 1 Red	1 10 @ 1 11
No. 2 Red	1 06 @ 1 07
Corn	72 @ 73
Oats	57 @ 59

OBITUARY.

Gerrit Smith.

The telegraph announces the death of Gerrit Smith, which event occurred at the residence of Gen. John Cochrane, in the city of New York. His death was sudden, the disease being a combination of apoplexy and paralysis. Mr. Smith was a son of Peter Smith, in his day one of the largest land-holders in America, and was born in Utica, N. Y., in March, 1797. He graduated at Hamilton College in 1818. Inheriting from his father vast wealth, mainly in landed property, he was freed from the necessity of entering upon any business pursuit, and, in fact, the care of his large property required so much of his attention as to make it impossible for him to devote his time to other matters. Though he never studied law regularly he was admitted to practice in the State and Federal Courts in 1853, and subsequently participated in many important trials. At an early age he manifested great interest in benevolent and educational enterprises, and he was most widely known as a philanthropist. He was for years prominently identified with the anti-slavery movement, and his gifts in aid of that cause were numerous and liberal. From 1825 to 1835 he was connected with the American Colonization Society, and gave liberally of his means to further its objects. At the latter date, however, he withdrew from that society, and devoted his time more fully to the interest of the Anti-slavery Society. Mr. Smith never held but one public office. He was elected to Congress in 1852, but resigned his seat at the close of the long term, partly on account of his dislike for public affairs, partly on account of the pressing demands of his private business. Mr. Smith, though the possessor by inheritance of vast landed possessions, was opposed on principle to land monopoly, and to give force to his teachings on this subject he distributed partly to institutions of learning, but principally to poor people—white and black alike—about 200,000 acres of land.

Alvah Crocker.

Hon. Alvah Crocker, one of the oldest men in the Forty-third Congress, died at his residence in Fitchburg, Mass., a few days ago, at the advanced age of 73 years. Mr. Crocker was a self-made man. He began business as a rag-picker in a paper mill in Fitchburg, and in a few years became partner and sole owner of the mill, and by earnest, persistent industry soon became one of the most influential and wealthy men of the place. He also took great interest in railroad matters, was prime mover in the building of the Fitchburg and Boston road, and afterwards the Vermont and Massachusetts road, running from Fitchburg to the Hoosac Tunnel, and which, at that time, it was thought folly to undertake to build, so seemingly insurmountable were the obstacles. He identified himself largely in pushing ahead acts by the State to furnish funds for boring the tunnel. He took a great interest in educational matters, and, in latter years, in religious matters, he being one of the founders of the Episcopal Church in that city, and donating nearly one half the amount necessary to erect one of the finest churches in the State. He took great interest in everything calculated to benefit the city in which he dwelt and in the State at large, and by strict integrity in business matters won the confidence of all who knew him.

Industrial Women.

Notwithstanding that women are crowded out of many of the lucrative industrial occupations on account of legal and political disabilities, they have within the last few years made rapid strides toward efforts at pecuniary self-support and independence, manifesting that, when necessity requires, their sex is no barrier against their fitness for industrial pursuits. The following table, taken by a contemporary from the United States census, shows the number of women engaged in earning their subsistence in the various avocations named:

Agricultural laborers	373,332
Farmers	22,083
Boarding house keepers	7,060
Domestic servants	867,354
Laundresses	21,321
Nurses	10,170
School teachers	84,047
Store clerks	6,194
Music teachers	5,580
Saleswomen	2,775
Traders	2,880
Bookbinders	3,729
Boot and shoe makers	9,642
Box factory operatives	2,228
Carpet makers	5,377
Cotton mill operatives	64,398
Employes of manufacturing establishments	2,498
Hat and cap makers	3,350
Mechanics	2,559
Mill operatives	6,110
Milliners and dressmakers	93,480
Paper mill operatives	3,894
Sewing machine operators	2,860
Tailoresses	97,207
Woolen mill operatives	27,726

Many of the above mentioned employments are engaged in by women only, but the census further shows that several thousand have entered successfully upon avocations hitherto engaged in by men alone, manifesting the increase of the spirit of enlightenment, which makes capacity and skill the test of merit.

The New Two-Dollar Greenbacks.—The United States Treasury has begun paying out a new issue of two-dollar legal-tender notes. The face of the new issue is similar to the one now in circulation, with the exception of lathe-work printed in pink on the right-hand lower corner as an additional security against counterfeiting, and the transfer of the pink seal of the Treasury to the left hand center, near the bottom, to balance the note in color and improve its general appearance. The back is entirely different from the former issue.

AUBURN COURIER

T. C. MAIS, Publisher.

CURRENT GOSSIP.

Constitutional Amendment.

Representative Lawrence, of Ohio, has introduced in Congress the following proposed amendment to the Constitution:

ART. —. No claim against the United States shall be paid unless presented in pursuance of law by the claimant within ten years after having legal right and capacity to do so, or within such less period as may be prescribed by law. A claim rejected by an authorized officer, or reported adversely by a committee of either house of Congress, shall not be re-examined or paid unless within six years after such rejection or adverse report.

A Singular Will.

Col. Samuel J. Anderson, a noted Southern politician of the old school, recently committed suicide at Atlanta, Ga., by blowing out his brains with a pistol. He had previously made his will, and among other bequests was the following: "To Robert Toombs—my pistol, with my recommendation that he rid the world of his presence by imitating my example." We are not advised as to whether the ex-Senator contemplates accepting the bequest and imitating the example of the rash Anderson. Most likely he will not.

Suicide of a Clergyman.

A most remarkable and shocking case of suicide occurred in Washington on Sunday of last week. A Presbyterian clergyman, pastor of a church, holding a high social station, was detected in the act of stealing a book; was mercilessly exposed in a newspaper; set his house in order; and, while the bells were ringing the people to church, without even providing for his own congregation, cut his throat. The facts are more pathetic than any comment upon them could be. The clergyman was wealthy, and had been previously suspected of insanity.

No Instructions Needed.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean, having stated that "the loose way in which Americans get married in foreign countries induces a Washington correspondent to call public attention to the importance of the international law of matrimony," the Detroit Free Press tartly observes: "We should hardly think the Chicago people would need any instruction in regard to 'loose ways' in getting married. Judging from the divorce business transacted in that city nothing could well be looser than the 'loose way in which Americans get married' in Chicago, unless it be the loose way in which some of them don't get married."

Sewing Machine Patents.

The sewing machine companies are again petitioning Congress for an extension of what is known as the Wilson patent, which is simply a contrivance for feeding the machine. The original patent was granted twenty-five years ago, and about eight years ago extended by the Commissioner of Patents. The control of it is now in the hands of four companies, to whom it was sold by Wilson for the sum of $50,000. The original patentee, and the companies who now own the patent, have made enormous fortunes out of it, and an extension would be simply a charter authorizing them to charge six times as much for a sewing machine as its cost. The average price now is about $55.

The Ross Case.

The uncertainty in which the fate of little Charlie Ross is involved is more painful than ever. When the dying burglar on Long Island made his confession of participation in the abduction, it was confidently hoped that, though no particulars were given, the solution of the mystery was near at hand. It was assumed that, with the death of the abductors, the reasons for concealing the child would cease to have any force, and that his custodians, whoever they might be, would gladly give him up. But as the days pass without any further tidings, the hope which was excited diminishes, and the fear that the secret to be unraveled involves something worse than abduction again comes uppermost.

Beecher-Tilton.

Tilton and Beecher have a terrible time over their scandalous little affair. Their legal bouts put one very much in mind of the scrimmage between Sally and the bar, as related by Sally's husband, a disinterested observer, of the tourney. First Sally was on top, and then the bar was on top, until in a short time it became a difficult matter to distinguish the woman from the bruin. In the matter of that bill of particulars Tilton was first on top, then Beecher mounted the tempest-tossed Theodore, by a successful appeal to the General Term; and now Tilton seems to have climbed Henry Ward again, by the reversal of Judge McCue's order requiring Tilton to specify. Decision and appeal, reversal and appeal, are getting to be decidedly monotonous. We fear there was too much truth in the remark of a philosopher of the Josh Billings school: "One side is afeard, and the other dassent go to trial."

The Fisk Estate.

Jim Fisk's worldly estate turns out to be considerably worse than nothing. An inventory just made of the estate, which at the time of his killing was reckoned at millions, shows that when all claims and suits against it are settled, it will be $178,500 behind. Half a million has been paid out in the settlement of claims. The worthless stock found in his possession aggregates $160,000 at par value. His widow's legal expenses have been enormous, and only the lawyers in the case appear to have got anything out of the dead man's pocket. His jewelry was valued at $5,000. The legacies to his father and mother, and the Misses Morse, and to Mrs. Hooker, his sister, have been paid in part. Only $8,000 went in horseflesh, a single horse, too. Six hundred thousand dollars are tied up in lawsuits. His mistress, Josie Mansfield, sues for $55,000, and has just recovered $35,000, and hopes she may get it. Albert Speyers, the broker whom Fisk, on Black Friday, left, as Fisk put it, "to carry out his corpse," sues for $500,000, which he bought in for Fisk's account, and went crazy about it when the margin was not forthcoming. In short, the great estate has "Gone where the woodbine twineth."

POLITICAL NOTES.

THE Denver Democrat nominates Thomas A. Hendricks for the next President.

THE story is going the rounds that Ben. Butler's mother intended him for the ministry.

THE Binghamton (N. Y.) Democrat hoists the name of Samuel J. Tilden for President in 1876.

EX-CONGRESSMAN PETERS, of Maine, appears to contest the claims of Hamlin for the Senatorship.

PARSON BROWNLOW will give the whole of his attention to editing the Knoxville Whig after the 4th of March.

ANDY JOHNSON is working hard for the Tennessee Senatorship, and his chances are classed fair to middling.

THE Albany Express nominates Lyman Tremaine as the Republican candidate for Senator from New York.

THE State Temperance Alliance of California has determined upon the establishment of a cold water political party.

CHICAGO Tribune: "Kelley has been threatening to leave the Republican party, but has succeeded in scaring nobody. Nobody sobs, 'Sweet William, stay.'"

GEORGE ALFRED TOWNSEND is no longer connected with the Chicago Tribune, and will write no more under the signature "Gath."

GOV. BRADLEY, of Nevada, did keep his "ink" in a jug under the table until his clerk got to drinking it, and now his excellency carries a flat bottle in his coat.

POLAND used to be "the Hon. Judge Poland." Then they got him to "Judge Poland," then to "Poland," and now his neighbors speak of him as "Old Pole, who got so badly waxed."

Two men named Flood and O'Brien, by rises in mining stocks, are richer than Jones or Sharon. Unless Nevada can make room for two more Senators, Jones and Sharon had better step down and out without making any fuss over it.

GOV. HENDRICKS, of Indiana, thinks that Mr. Voorhees has developed a surprising strength in the Senatorial contest, but declines to prophecy as to the result. He is satisfied that the controversy will be settled in the caucus, thus avoiding all danger of producing inharmonious feeling in the party. "Our party," he observes, "has fought too hard for a victory to fritter it away in quarrels."

IN one of the wards of Worcester, Mass., a husband and wife were the opposing candidates for the School Committee. The lady was elected by a large majority. She went home that evening feeling far from happy, and when asked to explain her unexpected depression of spirits, frankly said: "It was a dreadful mortification to John, and I don't believe he'll ever call me his 'calla lilly' again."

THE Leavenworth Times thinks the strength of the various Democratic candidates for Senator from Missouri, is about as follows: Gen Frank M. Cockrell, 31; the Hon. John S. Phelps, 10; Gov. Silas Woodson, 6; Judge H. M. Vories, 2; Judge W. P. Hall, 3; Judge E. H. Norton, of Platte, 2; ex-Gov. B. Gratz Brown, 8; Mayor Joseph Brown, 2; Thomas C. Reynolds, 9; Stilson Hutchins, 7; Thomas Allen, 6; George G. Vest, 8.

COLORED men who are elected to Congress sometimes forget the bond of sympathy that theoretically should exist between men of their color. Samuel Lee, a colored member of the Capital police at Washington, ran against Joseph R. Rainey in the First South Carolina District for the Forty-fourth Congress. Rainey was elected, and a few days ago Lee was notified by Sergeant-at-Arms Ordway that Rainey had filed with him a protest against his remaining longer on the police force.

THE New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial writes: "It really looks as though Horatio Seymour would persist in refusing to take the seat in the Federal Senate, which will be at his disposal when the State Legislature meets. There are three prominent politicians now spoken of as Democratic candidates for the place—Charles O'Conor, of this city; Francis Kiernan, of Utica, and Henry C. Murphy, of Brooklyn. It is rather remarkable that all of these three Senatorial candidates are Roman Catholics."

INDIANA NEWS.

INDUSTRIAL PROGRESS.

A COAL and mining company of Clay county has introduced an English coal cutting machine in one of its mines near Knightsville. The machine is said to perform the work of thirty men and mines 100 tons of coal daily.

CONNERSVILLE, Fayette county, has a furniture manufacturing company, with a capital of $50,000.

CRAWFORDSVILLE is happy over the discovery of a rich vein of coal near town.

THE amount of building contracted for the next season, at Richmond, shows that it will be unusually active in that department of business.

STATE-GEOLOGIST COX, in his report to the Governor, shows that twenty-five counties have been surveyed and reported upon in detail, and twenty-two counties have had a preliminary survey and report. In mining for iron ore in Lawrence county, this year, a seam of white kaolin was found, which proves to be of considerable area and over five feet in thickness. It is underlaid by two feet of excellent brown oxide of iron. Tempest, Brockman & Co., of Cincinnati, manufactured ware of this kaolin, which, in color and quality, takes rank with the best stone china of Europe. Until the last few years, it was the general impression that Indiana was deficient in mineral and agricultural advantages, and the tide of emigration sped across its borders; but the State is now receiving that attention from agriculturists, manufacturers and miners that her temperate climate, rich soil and varied minerals so justly deserve. Stone for hydraulic cement covers vast areas in a number of counties, and in widely separated parts of the State. Handsome and durable building stone is also found in many parts of the State, and the business of quarrying stone now ranks next in importance to that of mining coal. Prof. Cox concludes his report with a recommendation that the geological survey of the State be continued, and that the office of State Geologist be placed upon the basis of a permanent bureau.

THE Terre Haute nail-works manufactured during the month of December 8,000 kegs of nails.

THE Howe sewing-machine factory at Peru is making 500 croquet sets in anticipation of the coming summer.

THE State Board of Agriculture met at Indianapolis on the 6th inst., an unusually large number of delegates being present. The President, reviewing the past financial trouble, prophesied better things for the future. At the 1873 exhibition there was an attendance of 161,372, and in 1874, 145,844, a difference of 15,528, which is attributed to hard times and State elections, and for the future he counts on an average attendance of 50,000; and on this calculation it can be so managed that the Board will reap a profit from the exhibition of 1875. The Treasurer is debited with a total amount of $182,893.75. The general expense account foots up $13,246.49; running expenses of exposition and fair, $13,448.52; premiums, $1,075; improvements, $10,069.76; total, $47,918.75. Expense of 1873 paid in 1874, $38,799.45, making the grand total expense $136,718.22.

A NEW bank—capital $50,000—has been established at Hagerstown, Wayne county.

PERSONAL.

IT is William D. and Thomas R. Graham who are the latest heirs to English estates. They reside at Newcastle. The windfall amounts to $50,000.

A QUARTET of one-armed employes who have lost their limbs in the service of the Pan-Handle will give a ball at Indianapolis on the 27th inst., for their own benefit.

INDIANAPOLIS is happy in the belief that Charley Ross is concealed in that city, because the burglars killed at Blue Ridge once lived there. The police are making a thorough search for the lost child.

THE Liberty Herald has been purchased by the Stivers Brothers.

A CRAWFORDSVILLE man recently sent a postal card with 1,200 words on it.

CASUALTIES.

A BRAKEMAN on the Bloomington road named William B. Miller fell from a freight train between Indianapolis and Brownsburg, a few days ago, and was instantly killed, his body being horribly mangled.

ON New Year's evening, a party of young folks on their way from Milford to Rome City to attend a dance, while racing with two teams, collided, upsetting both buggies. The horses ran away, dragging the wrecks after them. A young man named Harvey Wert was instantly killed, and a lady named Weston injured so badly that her recovery is doubtful. The other occupants were injured more or less, and two of the horses were killed outright.

DEATHS.

JEREMIAH SMITH, the oldest member of the bar in Randolph county, and founder of Union City, died at Winchester, Ind., last week.

JAMES REID (familiarly known as "Uncle Jimmy Reid"), an old pioneer, died at Sullivan, on Monday, at the age of 81. The Terre Haute Express says of him. "He had no religion, and died without giving expression to any religious views. In his last days he refused to take medicine or any nourishment. He said the machinery of his body had literally worn out. He was charitable and kind—no deceit or hypocrisy could enter into the elements that make up the character of Uncle Jimmy Reid. His character for honor and integrity was unsulied.'

LEGAL.

THE saloon-keepers of Charlestown, Clarke county, have brought suit against the town trustees to recover the amount of license paid by them to the town during the years 1868-'70. The amount they sue for is $100 each.

THE Indianapolis papers note a singular suit in the courts of that city, wherein John Rothart has instituted proceedings supplementary to execution against Mrs. Elizabeth Jolly to get possession of $500 alimony recently decreed her by the court from her divorced husband. The petitioner alleges that the defendant contracted a debt prior to her marriage, to liquidate which he asks to have this amount applied.

NATHANIEL C. SELBY has sued the New Albany Woolen Mills for $60,000 damages for injuries sustained by his son, James Augustus while working in that establishment.

AN important case was recently decided in the Circuit Court at Fort Wayne. The points in the case are: The plaintiff, Jas. K. Edgarton, is owner of a large amount of land in this county, on which he paid one-half of the taxes, in accordance with the law of March 8, 873. When the other half became due, on the 15th of last month, he was delinquent, and the lands were so adjudged and would have been offered for sale on the second Monday in February. Mr. Edgarton subsequently offered the Auditor and Treasurer the exact amount due for taxes, which was refused, and brought suit for an injunction against the county Auditor and Treasurer to prevent their advertising his lands as delinquent. Judge Lowery decided the case in favor of plaintiff, stating that he thought the opinion of the Attorney-General was not a legal one. As he construed the law of March 8, 1873, it makes no provision for the collection of the second installment of the tax, either by sale or otherwise.

IN the case of the editor of the Newcastle (Ind.) Courier vs. the editor of the Knightstown Banner, an action for slander before the Wayne Circuit Court, the jury returned a verdict for plaintiff for $1,300 damages.

CRIME.

THE jury in the Cihauski murder case, at South Bend, brought in a verdict against Jonathan Hickman of murder in the first degree, and fixed the penalty at imprisonment for life. When Judge Stainfield announced the verdict, the prisoner received it with a broad grin.

A MAN named Devaney has been arrested at Fort Wayne, charged with the murder of Anthony Mahan, who died from the effects of a blow from a bootjack administered by the prisoner in a drunken brawl Christmas night.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE pedagogues of Indiana have just held their annual meeting at Indianapolis. The session was one of unusual interest. The attendance was large, and the proceedings embraced papers and discussions of more than average merit.

THE Vincennes Sun says: "There is such an evident need of a new State-House that we presume very few people question the propriety of building one. The present building is old, dilapidated, and in style of architecture is about one hundred years behind the age. The State of Indiana is a great commonwealth, possessed of immense wealth, mighty resources, and a population of more than a million and a half of people, and she, therefore, ought to have a State-House commensurate with her wealth and standing. We shall favor the erection of a handsome and fine building, which will reflect honor upon the State."

THE Trustees of the Indiana State University, at Bloomington, report that the financial condition of the institution is as follows: Balance June 28, 1872, $22.75; receipts from June 28, 1872, to June 25, 1874, $109,577.81; total, $109,800.56. Disbursements same time, $108,613.71; balance in Treasury June 25, 1871, $1,186 95.

THE Indiana Horticultural Society, W. H. Reagan, Secretary, and Charles Lander, Treasurer, have filed a statement of receipts and expenditures with the Governor. Total receipts, $1,125.21; expenditures, $521.61; balance, $603 41.

THE SOUTHERN PENITENTIARY.

The annual report of officers of the Indiana State Prison South, located at Jeffersonville, compliments the several officers of the prison for their fidelity. Referring to the Warden, it says:

> "In our last report, we took occasion to express our hearty approval of the manner in which the Warden, Col. L. S. Shuler, managed the various important affairs of the prison; and the observations of another year only confirm the assertion then made, that in our opinion he has no superior in the management of convicts."

Col. Shuler submits his sixth annual report, giving the following figures:

Total receipts	$79,941.63
Total expenditures	79,853.25
Excess of receipts	88.38
Total earnings	69,226.34
Ordinary expenses	52,937.03
Excess of earnings	16,289.31
Cost of repairs	21,577.21
Convicts' labor account for year is	64,098 20
Daily average number of convicts at work	388

The report of Dr. Wm. H. Sheets, prison physician, states that the year has been an unusually anxious one. During the summer 200 cases of dysentery were treated, 12 of which were fatal; and during the year over 1,200 cases of different diseases were under treatment. The exact figures are:

Total number treated	1,225
Percentage of deaths	1 8-10
Treated in hospital	224
Treated out of hospital	1,001

The general health of the prison is good at present.

The Chaplain, Rev. John W. Sullivan, reports that no one act of kind consideration has had so fine a moral effect as the substitution of new clothing for the degrading striped garb heretofore worn. Religious exercises are regularly conducted, and much interest is taken in them by many prisoners.

The following table gives the counties represented, and number from each:

Vigo	57	Davis	1	Dubois	4
Vanderburg	56	Martin	4	Henry	4
Jefferson	18	Monroe	6	Sullivan	7
Knox	99	Switzerland	9	Fayette	3
Clark	13	Hancock	7	Spencer	7
Floyd	18	Crawford	1	Johnson	9
Hendricks	10	Rush	1	Jackson	11
Posey	11	Gibson	16	Dearborn	8
Ripley	4	Franklin	4	Greene	4
Bartholomew	9	Parker	9	Putnam	9
Decatur	13	Orange	4	Perry	2
Marion	4	Wayne	14	Jennings	4
Pike	5	Brown	1	Shelby	12
Clay	2	Laporte	1	U. S. District	2
Norwich	8	Washington	5
Morgan	2	Owens	8	Total	417

CRIMES, AND NUMBER OF EACH.

Murder	57
Manslaughter	14
Rape	14
Grand larceny	203
Burglary	20
Assault and battery with intent to kill	41
Intent to rape	10
Intent to rob	3
Robbery	7
Larceny and burglary	16
Petit larceny	24
Receiving stolen goods	1
Perjury	3
Obtaining money under false pretenses	3
Bigamy	1
Arson	5
Forgery	14
Obtaining goods under false pretenses	4
Aiding prisoners to escape	2
Seduction	1
Total	417

TERMS OF SENTENCE AND NUMBER OF EACH.

Term.	No.	Term.	No.	Term.	No.
Life	38	12 years	1	4 years	20
21 years	12	10 years	13	3 years	48
20 years	2	9 years	4	2½ years	3
19 years	1	8 years	2	2 years	188
18 years	1	7 years	8	1½ years	1
16 years	1	6 years	7	1 year	24
15 years	1	5 years	34
14 years	4	4½ years	2	Total	417

Number of convicts who can read and write	272
Read only	48
No education	97
Number intemperate	145
Moderate	128
Temperate	144
Total	417
Number married	29
Single	363
Widowers	25
In confinement Dec. 15, 1873	383
Since received	230
Recaptured	1
Total	614
Discharged	127
Pardoned	24
Died	20
Remanded	14
Escaped	8
Commuted	1
Transferred	3
	—197
Total in confinement	417

THE WOMAN'S REFORMATORY INSTITUTION.

The third annual report of the Indiana Reformatory Institution for Women and Girls, located in Indianapolis, for the year ending Dec. 31, 1874, has been submitted to Gov. Hendricks. The managers report appropriations, allowances and receipts from all sources to the credit of the institution, from May 13, 1869, to Dec. 31, 1874, as follows: Total receipts, $129,082.17; total disbursements, $128,555.85; balance on hand, $526.32. The Superintendent's report says that it is only by comparison that we judge of the true merits of any reform, and the contrast in our present inmates with what they were on their arrival from Jeffersonville, is most striking. Then they were degraded in every sense of the word; now, forming a well-organized family, they are orderly and quiet at their meals, treating each other with respect, conducting their own prayer-meetings, working willingly and cheerfully, and in no case making the dungeon necessary. The result fully proves that a prison can be made reformatory. The prisoners have been employed at washing, ironing, knitting and sewing. All the girls attend school half the day. The other half is devoted to household duties, in rotation with knitting, sewing, etc. The condition of the inmates of the Reformatory Department is as follows: Orphans, 34; half-orphans, 48; parents living, 6; parents separated, 4; number who could read on entering, 28; who could read imperfectly, 26; who could read and write, 38; number in First Reader, 7; Second Reader, 15; Third Reader, 29; Fourth Reader, 29; Fifth Reader, 10; writing, 80; oral arithmetic, 30; written arithmetic, 38; geography. 40; grammar, 20; physiology, 3; drawing, 5. The following are the counties from which received:

REFORMATORY DEPARTMENT.

Counties.		Counties.
Allen	4	Miami	1
Bartholomew	2	Putnam	1
Decatur	1	Parke	2
Floyd	1	Perry	1
Grant	2	Tippecanoe	1
Johnson	1	Vanderburg	10
Joy	1	Vigo	8
Kosciusko	2	Wabash	1
Marion	39	Wayne	22

PENAL DEPARTMENT.

Counties.		Counties.
Bartholomew	1	Marion	14
Clark	1	Vanderburg	3
Dubois	1	Vigo	1
Floyd	1	Washington	1
Grant	1	Warrick	1
Jennings	1	Tippecanoe	1

Terms of sentence—For life, 6; for fourteen years, 1; for six years, 1; for three years, 4; for two years, 17; for a year and a half, 2; for one year, 1.

REPORT OF ADJUTANT-GENERAL CONNER.

The Adjutant-General of the State has submitted his annual report. He reports a total of 1,539 Springfield, Enfield, and Spencer rifles on hand, Jan. 1 of last year, and 180 returned during the year, making the present total 1,619, 60 having been given to the State Guards of Indianapolis, and 40 to the Noblesville Guards. He calls for a more improved fire-arm for the Indiana military, and recommends that the sum now due from Congress—$29,406.78—be used in putting the citizen soldiery on a good footing. The militia of the State is entirely organized, yet there is not a single company in the State upon whom the Governor could authoritatively call for assistance in an emergency. He recommends the passage of a proper military law. The cost during the year, to the State, of the Clay county troubles was $36; Clarke county, $167.30; Cass county, $1,637.15; Wayne county, $3; Porter county, $1,255; total, $2,668.45. The expense incurred in Clay county was from the miners' strike, and the Porter county trouble was the Baltimore and Ohio railroad war.

SWAMP LANDS.

THE following statistics regarding the swamp lands of Indiana, which we take from the report of Owen M. Eddy, Swamp Land Commissioner, will be found interesting: Under the act of Congress of 1850, enabling the State of Arkansas and other States to reclaim swamp lands within their limits, and acts supplemental thereto, there inured to the State 1,256,288.80 acres, as follows: 34,807 82 acres in the Jeffersonville district; 191,180.54 in the Vincennes district; 25,447.68 in the Indianapolis district; 23,938.36 in the Crawfordsville district; 60,808.87 in the Fort Wayne district; 874,787.64 in the Winnemac district 40,508.85 of second and third sections at large, and 4,859.20 of indemnity patents—making a grand total as above. Of this amount 1,124 entries were made at the several land offices, as provided in the General Assembly enactment of Feb. 14, 1851, and patents therefor were issued by the State. Of the patents issued under the enactment of May 29, 1852, 2,362 are recorded in range south, 744 in range east, and 24.656 in range west, besides 277 in the Bright & Jones lands, making a total of 45,879. In addition, some 4,500 were reissued, on account of loss of originals, discrepancies in description, or in the name of the patentee. Since Jan. 18, 1873, there have been issued 136 patents, with an area of 4,218 64 acres.

PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.

